National Fraternity Starts Blood Drive Here December 2

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, opens a recruiting campaign today for a University-wide blood drive to be held Dec. 2. Sixteen recruiters and their aides will visit housing units to encourage students to sign up for scheduled times to donate blood at an American Red Cross blood mobile. A sign-up booth will also be located at the Union for students living off-campus. THE ALPHA PHI OMEGA project is part of the Red Cross program called Blood Mobile on Campus (BMCOC). On Wednesday, Dec. 2, the Peoria, Ill., chapter of the Red Cross will provide a mobile unit for the blood drive. The blood mobile will be located at the Union and be open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The sponsors of the drive said Wednesday that the purpose was to give students, faculty and staff members an opportunity to give blood for general humanitarian uses and as support for U.S. efforts in Viet Nam. THE BLOODMOBILE will be at the University for two days prior to the drive and collect blood from ROTC members who had planned a blood drive last spring. The Alpha Phi Omega project developed from a general interest shown by students, said Jim McCoy, A2, Des Moines, co-chairman. McCoy and Richard Echtertnact, B3, Ft. Dodge, co-chairman, organized recruiters to campaign before Thanksgiving vacation so that volunteers under the age of 21 could get their parents consent. ROBERT N. HUBBELL, counselor to men and assistant professor of education, is assisting with the drive. Hubbell is chairman of the advisory committee for Alpha Phi Omega.

Henry Commager To Speak On America's World Position

bers and the public from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. today and an hour before the lecture this evening. THE PROGRAM is the third in the University Lecture Series. Commager, 53, has been professor of history and American studies at Amherst College since 1956. In the article "A Historian Looks at Our Political Morality," in the July 10, issue of "Saturday Review," Commager discussed American thinking about relations with other peoples and nations in the past and today. COMMAGER concluded in the article that in a simpler day America could have survived the threat of corruption from power without serious damage. "But now we are a world power and our conduct affects the fate of every nation on the globe, we can no longer afford this piece of self-indulgence," he said. "Now we must square our conduct with principles of law and of morality that will withstand the scrutiny of public opinion everywhere and the tests of history as well." COMMAGER earned his B.A.,

M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Chicago. From 1926 to 1938 he taught American history at New York University before going to Columbia University where he taught until 1956. Commager has also been a guest professor at Cambridge University and Uppsala University in Sweden and was a Fulbright Professor of American History at the University of Copenhagen in 1955-56.

Student Criticizes Dr. King For His Civil Rights Movement

By TED HOLLAND Staff Writer Demonstrations to enact anti-poverty programs advocated by the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, means that laws are passed by mobs in the street, said Ron Zobel, A2, Oelwein, at Soapbox Soundoff Wednesday in the Union. "King denies vehemently that Communists are in the (civil rights) movement, said Zobel. Zobel said the Communists had been trying to set one race against another since the 1920's. Earlier Steve Smith, A2, Marion, criticized an article by Mary Ann Robertson which appeared in the current issue of the campus magazine Arena. In the article, "Let's Be Civil About Civil Rights," Miss Robertson does not specify whether she is talking about the north or the south, Smith said. "SHE ASSUMES that a riot and a demonstration are one and the same," Smith said. Riots take place where civil rights groups are weak or nonexistent, he added. Smith said the Negro had to fight, and die, for the things he got from the white man. He said the American Legion showed us last week that one of our rights is to demonstrate. "The Negro demonstrates because the law does not apply to him. Negroes have less chance in a court of law than the Communist party, the Klan, or the John Birch Society," he said. SUPPORTING Miss Robertson's article, Paul Dysart, A2, Marshalltown, told Smith, "One point will refute your entire ar-

U.S. Plans Releasing Copper To Blockade Rising Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara Wednesday night announced plans to release at least 200,000 tons of copper from national stockpiles and to take three other steps to curb rising prices. McNamara announced the actions, aimed at heading off what he called "strong inflationary developments," at an evening news conference after conferring with other Cabinet members. He said President Johnson concurred in the actions. The development came a week after the government induced the aluminum industry to roll back price increases by threatening to release surplus aluminum from the government stockpile. READING A STATEMENT, McNamara said "arrangements are being made for the orderly disposal of at least 200,000 tons of copper from the national stockpile" of 800,000 tons. He said it would be sold at between 36 and 38 cents a pound, as much as 34 cents below prices current on the speculative market in London. McNamara said his actions are designed not only to curb rising prices but also to increase supplies amid a worldwide copper shortage. He said prices on the dealers' market, the speculative market, have been running between 67 and 70 cents a pound. A SECOND STEP, McNamara said, will be to control exports of copper and copper scrap from the United States "for an indefinite period to conserve domestic supply." A third step, he told the news

Park Group To Consider Ride Options

Four options on entertainment rides in the City Park were discussed at the Iowa City Park and Recreation Commission meeting Wednesday night but formal action was delayed until after the Dec. 7 vote on the $650,000 park bond issue. THE OPTIONS, as outlined by Dee Norton, chairman of the group and associate professor of psychology, are: 1. Abolishing the rides in the park completely. 2. Retaining the present four rides for small children. 3. Retaining the present rides and the adult tilt-a-whirl. 4. Keeping the four rides for children and adding four rides for adults. THE PARK BOND issue, if passed, would provide for a $200,000 outdoor swimming pool, in southeast Iowa City, two new major parks, two new neighborhood parks, five new playgrounds and a tennis center with six hard-surfaced, lighted courts. The commission will meet at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 8 to review the results of the election and possibly take action on the four options for playground entertainment rides.

SNCC Asks Price Of Meal

Students and faculty members will be asked today to give up the price of an evening meal to support the civil rights' program in Holly Springs, Miss. The drive is sponsored by the University Friends of the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). Nearly 5900 was collected by a similar drive last year, said Larry Wright, A3, Chicago, chairman. Almost half of the sum came from fraternities and sororities. Collection tables will be in the Union, Burge Hall, Geology Building, Library, Younker's, First Congregational Church and the Paper Place. The majority of the Negroes in the United States want the civil rights movement slowed down. AT THIS POINT Bill Briggs, A3, Westwood, N.J., said, "I personally, and I think I can speak for quite a few Negroes on this campus, say this isn't true at all," he said, as the crowd applauded. Briggs said he didn't demonstrate because he didn't think he could take the abuse and continue to demonstrate peacefully. Briggs said he didn't like to be the one to predict it but that he feared there would be a riot in Harlem, New York, similar to the Watts district riot in Los Angeles, if conditions did not improve. Earlier at Soap Box Soundoff, Marc Firstenberg, A1, Bronx, N.Y., asked students to support the "Fast for Freedom," sponsored by the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). He said SNCC was not asking anyone to miss a meal but only to donate the price of an evening meal to the drive to provide food and clothing for Negroes in Holly Springs, Miss.

Viet Cong Attack South Viet Airstrip, Destroy 5 Planes

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Cong battalions smashed into Tan Hiep airfield south of Saigon early today and destroyed five U.S. spotter planes and inflicted moderate casualties on Vietnamese rangers defending the base. No American casualties were reported. In the Ia Drang Valley, site of a bloody battle earlier this week, North Vietnamese regulars launched a fresh attack Wednesday but regrouped U.S. cavalrymen fought them off as B52 jet bombers ripped the battlefield entrenchments. An American adviser at Tan Hiep said 28 Viet Cong bodies had been found in a field outside the ranger position. The base is about 35 miles southwest of Saigon. THE IA DRANG battle already has cost the greatest American losses of any single engagement in the war. The latest official count of Communist dead was 890 but the cavalrymen reported killing 13 in the new attack while taking light losses, with none killed. At Hiep Duc, 130 miles north of the valley, a Viet Cong battalion of about 500 men overran the government district headquarters and Vietnamese sources said casualties among the 150-man garrison were heavy. Some victims were reported left impaled on stakes. U.S. military sources said every building was razed. It proved a costly day in the war against North Viet Nam. A U.S. spokesman announced four planes — one Navy and three Marine — and two pilots were lost in a raid on a railway bridge 33 miles southeast of Hanoi, a link in a line running to the port of Haiphong. The two other pilots were rescued. The raid followed up an initial strike at the bridge 10 days ago. A Peking broadcast of the New China News Agency said the North Vietnamese shot down five planes. U.S. officials disclosed American losses Nov. 7-13 were the highest for any week so far in the war — 86 killed in action and 230 wounded. Most of these came from two fights in Zone D north of Saigon, one involving the 173rd Airborne Brigade and the other elements of the 1st Division. THE AMERICANS contributed heavily, however, to the roll of Viet Cong casualties — 981 killed and 192 captured. South Vietnamese losses were 175 killed, 286 wounded and 56 missing or captured.

Vote Is 47-47, Closest To Date

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — In a dramatic climax to eight days of debate the General Assembly Wednesday again denied Communist China a seat in the United Nations. But the victory margin for foes of Peking was the closest on record. The vote in the 17-nation assembly was 47 to 47 with 20 abstentions on a proposal to admit the Chinese Communists and expel the Chinese Nationalists. Two nations did not take part in the roll call ballot, and one was absent. ONE MORE vote would have given supporters of Peking a simple majority, but shortly before the assembly upheld the United States in its contention that the issue was an important one requiring a two-thirds majority. In comparison with the last assembly vote in 1963 the opponents of Peking dropped 11 percentage points, while its supporters picked up three. It was the 15th time the assembly had taken a vote relating to Peking's presence in the United Nations. U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, who left a sick bed to participate in the vote, said the outcome showed that it was not the United States alone which barred the door to Peking, but "a substantial vote of the membership." IN A STATEMENT to the press,

Voting By African Nations Favors Seating Red China

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The key to Red China's 47-47 split in the U.N. General Assembly Wednesday was Africa. A breakdown of the vote showed that African countries accounted for most of the gains recorded in favor of seating the Peking regime. African countries also were mainly responsible for the losses suffered by the U.S.-led opposition. One of the remarkable things about the vote was that the gains and losses were not more substantial in view of the wholesale shifts that took place. Twenty-one countries voted differently than they did in the last China vote in the United Nations two years ago, and the number of Red China's net gain was six votes more than the 41 received abstentions increased from 12 to 20. In 1963, the opponents of seating Peking, on the other hand, saw their strength dwindle from 57 to 47 countries. This was undoubtedly the biggest change of strength to take place in a similar period since the China representation issue first came before the world organization 16 years ago. Two trends seemed to be apparent in the voting: The unusually large number of countries shifting positions indicated that the China question is getting a re-appraisal in almost all parts of the world. The substantial gains for Peking suggests the eventual seating of the Chinese government, even though a two-thirds majority is required. This could come as early as next year — especially if the assembly decides to reverse itself on the two-thirds majority rule.

Mississippi Holds Purpose, Civil Rights Worker Finds

By BOB BUCK Staff Writer A student who went to Mississippi for vague reasons found a purpose to remain there three months. The student, Burton L. Roseman, M3, Chicago, Ill., told members of the Mississippi Support Program (MSP) Wednesday that although he went to Rust College, Holly Springs, last summer for vague reasons he became involved in tactical work for the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). HIS ACTIVITIES included assisting in voter registration and the Mississippi Social Welfare Department and writing articles for a Benton County freedom paper. Roseman returned last week. He said his reason for going there was to teach first aid and "to possibly become acquainted with a sympathetic doctor." Describing the medical facilities of the Holly Springs area, Roseman said the ratio of doctors to patients is about 1 to 4,000. This is the same ratio as in Pakistan, a member of the faculty of the College of Medicine pointed out. MEDICAL treatment for the white population of Mississippi is "about the same as for white people anywhere," Roseman told the group. However, he said, "When a white person wants medical treatment he won't have anything to do with Mississippi. He goes instead to Memphis. Evidence for this is found in the number of registered births in Marshall county, listed as occurring 'elsewhere.'" The heaviest concentration of work being done in Civil Rights in the area, Roseman said, is outside the city limits of Holly Springs. "VOTER registration is not a problem in Holly Springs," he said. Dissolve pep pills?

AN INTERESTING PROPOSAL was introduced at Tuesday's Senate meeting — a resolution to abolish the Pep Club.

This proposal pops up every year or so, and so far has not been successful, but perhaps this year it will be passed.

According to the resolution, the purpose of Pep Club is to make people peppy, that is, enthusiastic about athletic contests. About the only thing people seem to be enthusiastic about at the moment is getting the old football coach fired, finding a new one who can perform miracles, deciding which teams Iowa should play, and giving hell to the athletic board for its new basketball ticket policies.

While some of these undertakings (especially the last one) may merit some enthusiasm, the traditional high school pep club spirit has certainly been lacking on campus for the past season. This is not to say that such spirit is missed, but it has been lacking.

Last year some student senators attempted to do away with the pep club cheering section which, they claimed, did little more than give several choice football seats to fraternity members who would otherwise be stuck in the north bleachers.

After officers of Pep Club, Miss SUI and other interested peppers attended a Senate meeting to charm the student legislators out of their folly, a compromise resolution was passed to provide a fairer means of distributing the choice tickets.

How much good last year's Senate action did (if, indeed, there is any good to come of Pep Club) is open to debate, and the latest Senate resolution seems a good means of effecting such debate.

It is to be hoped that students will consider the question of Pep Club and its functions. Is it entertaining the students sufficiently? Does it stimulate their intellects? Does it gratify their hidden desires for adventure and excitement?

We suspect it does very little. The Senate will make the ultimate decision, at least for this year, and we hope it will do so after a thoughtful discussion both with Iowa's students and its pep pills.

Fixing the system

PRESIDENT JOHNSON'S announcement that he is seeking a method of making sure that America's juries do not discriminate against Negroes is welcome news.

If the brand of "justice" served up in Hayneville, Ala., is not to continue making a mockery of the American system of Government, something must be done. Laws cannot serve their purpose unless they can be enforced. This means that both the police system and the court system must be operated justly and effectively.

Since several courts — many in the South, some other places — have demonstrated their inability and unwillingness to carry out their proper functions, the responsibility for correcting the situation has fallen to the Federal Government by default.

This is not as it should be, but it is necessary.

A fast buck

TODAY IS THE DAY to start your diet, if you've decided to start one. If not, don't worry about it, but think — and give.

Friends of SNCC will be collecting money at different points around campus today for a "Thanksgiving Fast for Freedom." If you usually eat downtown, why not skip lunch and give 75 cents or a dollar to SNCC? The money will be used to help people who are often forced to skip meals gain some of the human dignity and basic freedoms which are so taken for granted in Iowa City.

The money will be sent South to aid the civil rights movement there.

If you don't feel as though you can make it through the day without lunch, don't worry. Eat as much as you can and don't feel guilty. But when you go by the SNCC tables, give them some money anyway.

SNCC is not out to stamp out obesity in Iowa City; it only wants to aid the cause of the Negro American citizen in overcoming his heritage of slavery and second class citizenship.

That's quite a bit, when you think of it.

Mark Computer turns lights out

By ART BUCHWALD
It apparently doesn't pay to hold your breath waiting for an explanation as to why all the lights in the Northeast part of the United States and Canada went out last week. Many fanciful versions of what happened have been given, but the reason no one will know the real truth is that the computers involved are not talking.

As with the medical profession, there is an ethical question involved, and no computer would ever testify against another computer, no matter how guilty the computer happened to be.

But from an unimpeachable power source this column was able to learn that the breakdown was caused by a computer in Canada that had gotten fed up with the system and the power-mad policies of Niagara Falls.

This computer was only used to transmit information from one power station to another; it neither generated ideas nor carried out some of the glamorous work that the more sophisticated computers handled. It was, in fact, looked down upon by the other computers, who thought it rather slow and short on brainpower.

THE JOKE in the eight state and two Canadian province network was that computer Mark 5-234 didn't know which end electricity came out of, and if one of the other computers didn't tell it what to do, it wouldn't even be able to transmit AC to DC.

Over the years Mark 5-234 became bitter. While on the outside it showed a calm exterior, inside it was seething with rage and frustration.

To make matters worse, Mark's female mate, Marsha 3-413, kept goading it. "Is this the way we're going to spend the rest of our lives, in this crummy tank town in Canada?" she buzzed. "They don't care about you. Do they ever say you're doing a good job? Do they ever say,

"Mark, take the day off? Or, 'Mark, the company is proud of you?' As far as they're concerned, you're a machine. How long are you going to take it?"

"I don't have the power to do anything," Mark 5-234 protested. "I know it's not much of a job, and I could do a lot more, but somebody in the company has to take an interest in me."

"Mark, you'd rather curse the darkness than light a candle. You'll never be noticed here unless you do something to make them sit up and pay attention."

MARK DIGESTED this information and started to think about it. For months during the long hours when it had nothing else to do it devised a plan.

One Tuesday afternoon Mark put the plan into effect. It received a message from Niagara to transmit 3 million kilowatts of power to Albany. Instead of sending on the message, it challenged the power plant in Albany to a game of computer chess. The power plant computer in Albany seemed confused and asked for a repeat of the message.

Mark messaged, "Pawn to king four."

The Niagara computer realized something was wrong and sent a hurried message. "Why didn't you transmit kilowatt message to Albany?"

Mark messaged back, "Because you didn't say please."

Niagara furiously messaged again: "Transmit message immediately or we'll break your circuit in two."

Mark sent back a poem it had written in its spare time.

Everyone knows the rest of the story. Because Mark 5-234 refused to transmit orders, the Northeast was blacked out.

But Mark made its point. Its role in the grid network is no longer taken for granted, and everytime another computer asks it to transmit a message it always says please.

Socialists urge peaceful Democrats to quit party

By DAVE CUNNINGHAM
For the Iowa Socialist League
Early last September W. H. Ferry, vice president of The Fund for the Republic and a long-time spokesman for liberal causes, addressed the following letter to President Johnson:

I am so ashamed and dismayed by the actions announced by you in the past several days that I am today withdrawing from the Democratic party. Neither our honor nor security are involved in Viet Nam. But your policies there have become more abhorrent and inhumane; and it is clear now that you intend not to diminish our reliance on violence but to increase it indefinitely. Therefore, I must, after more than 30 years as a Democrat, get out. This is a weak way of expressing my total disagreement with programs that call themselves peace but are war. It is the only way I know of disassociating myself from actions that provoke disgust and apprehension all over the world.

Perhaps withdrawal from the Democratic party is not much of a protest. However, I shall do my best to persuade others to do the same thing. I shall argue that you are taking us into World War III. Two world conflicts under Democratic leadership are enough for me, and should be enough for many other Democrats.

Ferry circulated this letter privately among friends and associates in order to determine their reactions to it. Then, in the October issue of Liberation, a radical/pacifist monthly magazine where the letter was finally printed, Ferry published a guest editorial in which he outlined the reasons which moved him to write the letter, along with explanations for the letter to people who had been critical of it. Discussing the framework of his repudiation of Democratic party affiliation, he wrote:

I assume that any person with half an eye can perceive the enormities and hypocrisy of our course in Viet Nam. The papers and television are full of it — napalm, torture, grotesque Hitler-admiring puppets, Lazy Dogs, gas, wanton murder of non-combatants, arm-twisting of reluctant allies — the works. Even so, what we see comes through the veil of censorship. The imagination spins in trying to visualize the full extent of what we are doing.

Still, Ferry says, he is concerned even more about what is happening to this country as a result of such actions — like Viet Nam — undertaken in her name and supposedly in her defense:

The worst thing that Hitler did to his country was to brutalize it. He put a callous on the national conscience that many people believe has not yet been removed. He turned paranoia into patriotism, and made self-righteousness into national doctrine. He abjured morality and made armed might the measure of the nation.

This is what is happening to our country.

Ferry agrees with criticism as he says: Anyone wanting to exert maximum political leverage would stay in the party, organize dissenting precinct leaders and district leaders, and see that their protest appeared in newspaper columns and advertisements and, if possible, on the desk of the President himself. This is the kind of politics to which the President responds.

But, Ferry responds, he is just not of the right kind of temperament to engage in that sort of internal organizational work.

It is at this point in Ferry's editorial that one would take exception to his assessment: in this writer's opinion, Ferry was correct in resigning from the party, and incorrect in his later assumption that such repudiation is ineffective and irrelevant.

One of the most common objections one hears to the undertaking of radical, independent political action is that, if it were tried, one wouldn't achieve very much with it.

And besides, the argument goes, if you don't support Democrats the reactionaries (Republicans) will get into power, clamp down and screw up everything — look at Goldwater, etc. etc.

And so Johnson, the "peace" candidate, was elected by a landslide and, in less than three months, opted for the same escalation of the same war, for advocating which Goldwater had been labeled a warmonger. If a "peace" vote for Johnson wasn't "wasted," then that word has no meaning.

The structure of the Democratic party — like the Republican — is authoritarian in the basic sense of that word. The flow of ideas, positions and explanations is from the top down, with the operative word "manipulative." Unlike workers in true political parties, in this country one "supports" one of the major parties. One does not, in any meaningful way, change, influence or infiltrate it.

Ferry was quite correct in his original impulse, getting out of the Democratic Party. Working with independent action and theory groups, supporting minority, independent and socialist political parties — that will be the kind of politics, to quote Ferry's words, "to which the President responds." One hopes his decision and action will be widely emulated. It would be an adequate base for building an organization directed toward actions which can afford the public with real and viable alternatives.

Burns' firing

To the Editor:

The verdict is in . . . the sentence handed-down. Now let's look in retrospect . . .

Jerry Burns came to the Iowa football helm when Herky the Hawk was flying high. There was only one way to go . . . and that's where we've gone.

Following in the footsteps of Evashevski is no easy task to begin with, but don't forget . . . in Evy's day scholastic standards and I.Q.'s were low. Only football scores were high. Those were the days when we recruited in the fields of Pennsylvania coal . . . not in those of Iowa corn. Miner's kids make great linemen but it took a tutor or two to get them past a history exam.

And besides, what can a coach do when his "All Americans" play football like the girl next door? As the condemned coach is ushered away, a question comes to mind . . . Is there any way to fire a football team?

Note answer

To the Editor:

In answer to the editor's note dealing with dormitory health service in Wednesday's Daily Iowan:

The question isn't do we have a nurse on call. The question is: Is the nurse on call for the emergency medical needs of more than 8,000 girls?

It's extremely interesting to know that we are the only University in the Big Ten that has a nurse on call. It's also extremely interesting to know that Iowa is the only University in the Big Ten that has lost all our Big Ten football games this year.

However, we have just one question. Just because we are the only University that holds these special positions, does it mean that either is an advantage?

Fan complains

To the Editor:

Surely the reports — and game scores — must be inaccurate and misleading. The Iowa football team and coach couldn't be that bad.

So hundreds of SUI graduates now living in the East spent an average of $50 and two days to attend the Iowa-Ohio State game. We wanted the facts, not some unhappy sports writer's interpretation.

Seeing was believing. The coaching was simple (almost every series of plays came from the sideline . . . two runs, a pass, then kick). The playing matched the coaching (no blocking, poor tackling, missed field goal, slow running, lousy passing). During our taxi ride from the stadium, the dispatcher summed up the game when he unknowingly reported over the car radio that "Ohio State won, thirty eight to nobody." Truer words were never spoken.

But, we're looking forward to visiting Columbus for the SUI-GSU game in '67. Hopefully, we'll see two football teams.

Frat incident moves 'dormy' to write

To the Editor:

This message is one that is not especially for me to write, because it concerns one lesser known fraternity on the University campus. On the night of Nov. 15, a particular individual from this fraternity made his way to my room and proceeded to display mannerisms not common to any normal person. Putting air of insanity or drunkenness, and uttering profane ejaculations, he proceeded to make certain demands upon me.

In order to appease this deranged visitant he made me think, I gave in to his demand of calling a particular female so that he could arrange a date. After having made the connections, he continued to execute the alien incantations and spouts of profane verbosity that could possibly be called "humor."

After the whole incident had been reasonably cleared up through some transient undergraduate, he proceeded to call the girls which he had previously conversed, and gazed for his actions. He told her the pledges of his fraternity had created an embarrassing position for the active chapter and as a result they were punished by their lives who "have a mind for the pledges."

THEY WERE required to enter a dorm room and proceed to induce one of the "mies", of whom they had received notice the actives, to call a female acquaintance request a "set up."

After making complete fools of themselves they would explain their position to the person upon whom they bestowed their unwanted presence.

I must say that the individual who I was scribbling was quite effective in presenting picture and also reflects the same image as his whole fraternity. This shows the extreme poor judgement of the actives of the organization and depresses the already low opinion of the fraternity which my roommates and I hold.

The language used by this person even apologizing to the female whom he talked with was vulgar in its most despicable form.

After having been evicted, he returned to apologize to us and shake hands. Although seemed sincere, it was like shaking hands with a dish towel. His insincerity was most apparent in his distaste for those who room in dormitories.

THIS SORT of egoistic individual is prevalent in all of the fraternities on the campus. I suppose it is not uncommon for him to inquire of the weight and bodily measurements of a female who is a complete stranger, divulge his personal attributes to all who hear his splendor.

It is my concern for the fraternities of the University of Iowa, that they had better modify their ways, and become more respectable in the eyes of the student body and the intellectual society. It has been said by many authors that the Fraternity Way builds the intellectual man, but although this may be true, becoming less and less apparent.

The social activities of these organizations are morally destructive, and turn their members into male animals who are hungry for the pleasures of their hedonist society.

I do hope that there is a change to the way we live in our community.

Forell answers critics

To the Editor:

Since you have given considerably more space to a reply to my recent speech by a member of the staff of the Philosophy Department, had not heard it or taken the trouble to read what I said, than to the speech itself, I wonder if you would now be interested in printing the speech as a whole or at least sections of it (pages 135-138 of the enclosed report). Otherwise, I might be led to believe that Daily Iowan is more interested in confusing its readers than in clarifying them.

Student Struggling To Make 2 Films

BY MORRY ALTER
Staff Writer

Only one major obstacle is preventing a student film maker from finishing work on two films that he describes as art films, films that deal with alienation.

The obstacle is money. The film maker is David Abramson, A4, St. Louis, Mo. In an interview Wednesday, Abramson, 25, described the films and the way he's attempting to raise the $4,000 to $5,000 needed to complete the films.

One film, said Abramson, is called "Landscape" and concerns a girl who doesn't know whether or not she is pregnant.

"HER FEAR causes her to see things in a radically different way. This fear causes her to enter into a series of visual and aural fugues, or reappearing themes," said Abramson.

Featured in that film, said Abramson, are Edwin Allaire, chairman of the philosophy department, and Ellen Ultang, A2, Des Moines.

Abramson, who has had experience in filming documentaries in St. Louis, said "This film tries to make the point that things don't just happen to us randomly."

Instead, said Abramson, we find ourselves in certain situations not by chance but through cause and effect relationships.

"In essence," he said, "the film recognizes Freud." "LANDSCAPE," which is completely edited must now have its sound created, recorded and mixed, he said.

The second film, not yet titled, features Kathy Anderson, A2, Clear Lake, he said. This film is the unconscious experience of a girl, said Abramson, who in the intimacy of an emotional relationship finds herself escaping to elegant but disturbing landscapes of the past and the future. This film, he added, is now in the shooting stage.

Abramson described the films as an effort "to get at a memory, at the unconscious, at those fleeting glimpses of insight about ourselves that we tend to repress."

A foundation in New York City has been considering his film project for a grant, Abramson said. The foundation met Monday, he said, to consider granting him enough money to finish "Landscape." Between $2,000 and $3,000 is needed. Abramson had no word about the foundation's decision by Wednesday.

ABRAMSON SAID he contacted Pres. Howard R. Bowen after hearing his speech expressing his interest in the person as an individual. Bowen took time out from a busy schedule, said Abramson, to talk with him for an hour regarding the films. Whereas Bowen was unable to provide money for the project, Abramson said, he did find an area in which the films could be edited.

The young film maker said he was impressed by what he considered Bowen's sincere interest in the film work.

"I've written no less than 50 letters to foundations and private individuals in this area in search of aid to complete the films," said Abramson.

PRIVATE money, he said, seems more abundant on the east and west coasts because more people in these areas are interested in film as an artistic medium.

Abramson said the responses to his search for financial assistance have been less than promising.

"However," said the determined film maker, "I'm still optimistic about the chances of completing the films. If I were not, I'd leave here and get a job with a production company instead of doing that in which I am most interested."

told them. "The problem exists outside, in the county. The city is the last place to get attention in this area because the county is so poor and the family structure is so strong."

"In the city," Roseman continued, "there is often a family breakdown with the mother working and the father often out of work. The county represents the low class, but the father is still the formal head of the house and the mother allows him to speak, out of tradition, in family conflicts."

Currently the civil rights standard bearer in Mississippi is the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party (MFDP), which is an outgrowth of many civil rights groups such as COFO, SNCC and CORE.

THE PARTY'S biggest drive this month, according to Roseman, is to get as many qualified voters as possible to the polls in Mississippi to vote in the upcoming Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service (ASCS) elections.

"These elections," Roseman said "are usually stacked. But with willingness on the part of farmers and other qualified persons to vote, the problem is eliminated."

"It actually takes very little to really accomplish anything down there," the young medical student told the group. "If one man in a group of six gets hold of a problem and works on it, out in the county, a lot can really get done."

"BUT THE leadership must come from the poor — not the upper class. Sargeant Shriver was right about how the poverty program works best," Roseman said. "But what's really needed is money and people."

Roseman suggested that if perhaps five or ten people next summer were to go to Holly Springs, to work with MFDP on voter registration, school desegregation and the ASCS election, real progress could be made.

"If these people can visit the people in the county," he added, "perhaps they could be convinced their voice can be heard and that something can be done. That's why if I go back you won't find me within a mile of the city."

Princess Margaret, Tony Guests At LBJ Celebration

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, celebrating his 31st wedding anniversary at a gay White House party Wednesday night in honor of Britain's Princess Margaret and her husband, had some advice on marriage for the royal pair.

In a champagne toast, the President said he had learned that only two things are necessary to keep one's wife happy:

"First, let her think she is having her way. And second, let her have it."

JOHNSON SAID he was beginning his 32nd year "with the most wonderful woman in the world" and wished Lord Snowden just as happy a marriage.

Responding to the toast, Princess Margaret expressed "how excited we are to be here in the White House tonight on the occasion of your 31st anniversary."

She told the President, "We are glad to see you have made such a splendid recovery from your operation."

A sparkling dinner for 140 guests marked the occasion, followed by dancing in the East Room to the music of Peter Duchin and his orchestra.

THE GUEST LIST was wide-ranging, including Mexico's comedian Cantinflas, fashion designer Mollie Parnis, opera singer Anna Moffo and members of the Rockefeller and Ford families.

And, of course, there were the President's daughters, Luci, 18, with her beau, Pat Nugent, of Waukegan, Ill., and Lynda, 21, with her escort for the evening, the young TV-movie actor George Hamilton.

Preparations for the big dinner had begun hours earlier. White House Chef Rene Verdon started work in the kitchen at 7 a.m., supervising the boning of squab, the main course, and its stuffing with wild rice.

THE DINNER menu was: Atlantic pompano amadine, roast squab, artichokes with vegetable puree, hearts of palm salad, brie cheese and praline glaze.

Three groups were called in to furnish the music: the U.S. Marine Band in the foyer where the guests assembled; the U.S. Army Strings in the dining room during dessert; and Peter Duchin and his orchestra for dancing in the ball room.

GIFTS from the President and Mrs. Johnson to their royal guests included an inscribed family photograph and two water color paintings. The paintings were done by Washington artist Lily Spandorf for the occasion. One shows Bryce Park in northwest Washington dedicated by Princess Margaret earlier today, and the other depicts a statue of Sir Winston Churchill to be placed at the British Embassy here.

For the evening, Mrs. Johnson chose a strapless emerald green silk dress with a bow of matching fabric on the bodice. The Princess' ball gown had an A-line skirt and bolero jacket.

Lack Of Quorum Balks Panel

Dennis M. Saeugling, Coralville city engineer, was present as a visitor at a meeting of the Johnson County Metropolitan Planning Commission which was adjourned Tuesday night for lack of a quorum.

Representatives from Coralville have never attended the commission meetings, although the charter has provision for two members from that city.

At a meeting of the Coralville city council Monday evening, it was reported Coralville would have more faith in the Commission if all members were elected rather than appointed.

"The Code of Iowa states that the commission is to be appointed by the communities represented, so any change in the present method of selection is impossible," Russell Ross, chairman, said.

The next monthly meeting of the Commission on Dec. 15 will elect a new chairman. Ross will resign when his term as mayor of University Heights expires.

Cedar Rapids Woman Killed, Husband Booked For Murder

CEAR RAPIDS (AP) — A young Negro man was held without bond on a murder charge Wednesday in the fatal shooting of his estranged common law wife.

Donald E. Thomas, 23, voluntarily surrendered to Linn County deputy sheriffs at the home of a farmer a short time after his white wife, Sharon, 23, was shot in the head with a bullet from a .32 caliber revolver.

He was arraigned before Municipal Court Judge Loren Hurlinger and given until Friday to enter a plea.

The shooting occurred about midnight as Mrs. Thomas was getting off work at the Cedar Rapids Clean Towel Service Co.

Witnesses told police a man waiting outside the building pulled Mrs. Thomas away from other women who were getting off work, shot her and then ran to a car and drove away.

About an hour later Thomas stopped at the farm home of Paul Yiestley four and a half miles north of Cedar Rapids and asked him to call authorities. He surrendered to two deputy sheriffs there.

Alumnus To Receive Award

Dr. Laurence C. Jones, a 1907 University graduate, will receive the third annual Thanksgiving Award Tuesday from Clarke College, Dubuque.

Jones is founder and president of Piney Woods Country Life School, Piney Woods, Miss. He started this school for Negro children in 1909 without funds and buildings. Today the school has 500 students, a plant worth more than $750,000 and more than 1,600 acres of land.

A graduate of Marshalltown High School in 1903, Jones has received honorary degrees from Tuskegee Institute, Cornell College and Bucknell University. Clarke College established the Thanksgiving Award in 1963 to "draw attention to the holiday's traditional meaning as a day of gratitude for blessings such as freedom and faith." Previous winners were Dr. William B. Walsh, founder and president of Project Hope, and Henry Viscardi Jr., president of Abilities Inc. and Human Resources Foundation.

Negro Singer Cries Blues

By MARY ZIELINSKI
Staff Writer

FOLKSINGER BIG JOE WILLIAMS gives his University audience samples of the blues he learned in Mississippi cotton fields and on levees and railroad gangs. Some of the songs he sang in concert Tuesday night were those he had heard his parents sing. Others he had composed himself.

He sat facing the audience, a battered guitar across his lap, perspiration running down his face and his left foot tapping the basic beat of the music.

As he sang the plaintive, rhythmic blues of the American South, Big Joe Williams proved that the cry of the blues is one of the most moving and vital music forms of the South.

Williams, who gave a concert at the University Tuesday night, is one of the early, authentic folksingers of this country. BORN IN CRAWFORD, Miss., about 1903, the Negro singer learned his first guitar when he was four years old. The songs he learned in his crude, one-stringed instrument were field cries and work songs he learned from his mother and father.

One of 18 children, Williams decided young he "didn't want to plow, didn't want to chop cotton," and hired out in his own time to the work gangs along the Mississippi levees and rail lines.

Williams said Tuesday that he remembered the levee camps as squalid, filthy collections of tents and shacks where the work and the living exhausting. The pay was $1 to $2 a week, he said, and it was spent Saturday night on drinking and to the guitar and banjo music of men like Big Joe.

The living was rough and hard with human life worn to the bone.

"IF A MAN got killed they'd jus' lay him back out on the levee," Williams said.

Before long, he was drifting from one camp to another, looking for work as best he could.

Eventually, Williams' playing became good enough to attract dances and picnics. He finally made his way to Tuscaloosa, Ala., attracting the attention of a local racketeer named Tom King who was boss of the Tuscaloosa poor section and sent Williams to play dances around the country.

Williams went back to Crawford, joining the medicine show circuit to play with a little band for one of the Radio Minstrel Shows.

This marked the beginning of Williams' recording career. He, "One Armed Dave," "Dr. Scott" and "Bogus Ben" were a fake blind man from Alabama, all guitar players, no vocalists. Jay Bird Coleman played the harmonica with Williams.

Around the early '30s, Williams went to Chicago and played six blues numbers for Paramount. The numbers, issued under the name of "King Solomon Hill," were among the last made by Williams before the depression dissolved it.

DURING THE worst years of the depression, Williams lived by working for the Works Progress Administration levee gangs. Shortly before 1940, he recorded again for Decca, still playing the irregular rhythm of the field songs and out the verses.

World War II put an end to Bluebird Records and Williams started back for Mississippi. He got sidetracked and stayed in St. Louis where he met Charlie Jordan, another blues singer. In a number of years the two made several recordings, but they were apart.

Williams' appearance at the University was for a concert sponsored by the Folklore Club, and to cut a master tape for recording.

Harry Oster, professor of English and collector of Folk Music, arranged for Williams' appearance and made the arrangements.

Witness Says FBI Bought Information

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's key witness in the trial of the Communist party acknowledged today he was a paid informant for the FBI during the two years he belonged to the party.

Henry O. Mariott, 64, a retired West Coast longshoreman, said under questioning by party attorneys he was paid between $100 and $110 plus expenses for each month in return for information on party members and activities between 1953 and February 1965.

Mariott testified that he vainly volunteered his services to party officials to register the Communist party with the government as required by law. The government's failure to prove the availability of such a volunteer led the Appeals Court reversal of the party's 1961 conviction on similar charges of failure to register.

Rep. Culver Urges Stronger Support Of Viet War Effort

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. citizens need to give strong support to this country's position in Viet Nam, Rep. John C. Culver (D-Iowa) said Wednesday.

Culver, just returned from a six-day trip to Viet Nam, contended his own endorsement was stronger than ever after his firsthand experiences there.

A member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Culver said he planned to carry this message to his area of Iowa. He leaves for Cedar Rapids Thursday.

Culver was in a four-man congressional group which visited South Viet Nam. Others included Sens. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.), Joseph D. Tydings (D-Md.), and Rep. John V. Tunney (D-Calif.).

The Iowan said he found the morale of U.S. forces in Viet Nam to be higher. He also told reporters that talks with South Vietnamese leaders indicated they are convinced the U.S. will not abandon them in the conflict.

Culver said he feels there is a good possibility this country could face two more years of military involvement in Viet Nam.

The right to protest against government policy in Viet Nam was opposed by 47 of 100 people polled by Jerry Warner, A3, Oskaloosa, last week.

Warner, an anthropology major, said Wednesday that he had polled persons listed in the Iowa City telephone directory, picking the names at random. He said there were no students or professors in the poll. However, he intends to conduct polls on these groups later.

Warner gave the following list of questions and percentages of people answering to the Iowan:

1) Do you feel you are supplied with enough information and are well enough informed to validly take a stand in support of or in opposition to Johnson's Viet Nam policy? Yes — 68 per cent; No — 28 per cent; Undecided — 4 per cent.

2) Are you so uninformed or so confused by conflicting reports as to have no opinion in either support or opposition to Johnson's Viet Nam policy? Yes — 12 per cent; No — 81 per cent; Undecided — 7 per cent.

3) Do you support the right (Warner said he emphasized the word "right") to demonstrate publicly either in support of or opposition to Johnson's Viet Nam policy? Yes — 43 per cent; No — 47 per cent; Undecided — 10 per cent.

4) Do you support Johnson's Viet Nam policy? Yes — 77 per cent; No — 18 per cent; Undecided — 5 per cent.

Warner said, "I took the survey to see, very generally, how much conflict has been created by the protesting going on. It seems to me if the present forms of protest were really effective more people would be confused or frustrated about which side to take."

Referring to the answers to question three, Warner said, "I stated this question twice and emphasized the word 'right.' The people opposed usually gave a reason. Usually it was something like, 'He's (Johnson) the one who knows.'"

"If these results were applied to a national scale and it was the same percentage, we're in real trouble. The whole strength of a democracy is in the people."

Hughes Raps Questionnaires

DES MOINES (AP) — Public questionnaires which ask students personal questions about their families came under criticism Wednesday by Gov. Harold Hughes.

Hughes said at his news conference that some of the questions which "bore into private affairs" of families are "none of the school authorities' business."

The governor said he has told his 13-year-old daughter Phyllis that if she is confronted with such a questionnaire, "If you don't want to answer questions, leave them vacant."

DEMANDS IN INDONESIA — JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — A workers rally demanded Wednesday that Indonesian President Sukarno's Cabinet be cleared of elements involved in the unsuccessful Communist-inspired coup Oct. 1.

Let's take a closer look...

Is your gas and electric bill higher than it used to be? Probably . . . but let's consider some important facts . . .

Today, gas and electricity do almost twice as much work as they did just ten years ago. Surprised? Just count the ways they work for you each day—washing . . . ironing . . . cooking . . . cleaning . . . heating or air conditioning . . . telling time . . . even providing home entertainment.

Nobody can deny the high cost of "keeping up" these days. Almost everything you buy costs more than it used to. In comparison, the cost of gas and electricity has remained amazingly low . . . it's just that we're using so much more.

Now that we've had a closer look . . . don't you agree? It's worth it!

Instructors Present Original Writings

By BARB JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Humor and solemnity were both provided at the prose reading by Jose Donoso and Kurt Vonnegut, visiting lecturers in Writers Workshop, at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the Union Illinois Room.

More than 100 persons listened as Donoso and Vonnegut read excerpts from their own works.

Donoso read two chapters from his novel "Coronation" for which he received the Faulkner Prize.

THE STORY is concerned with an orphaned Chilean boy who was raised by his grandmother. After reading the first excerpt, which showed the imagination and inhibitions of a growing boy, Donoso shifted to a later chapter illustrating the boy as a grown man finally trying to rebel against his autocratic grandmother.

Donoso, a Chilean novelist, earned his B.A. from Princeton in 1951.

He has also published two books of short stories, "Veraneo" and "El Charleston," and, with his wife, has translated French and English novels into Spanish.

DONOSO, who previously taught at the University of Chile, Santiago, will remain here for the current school year.

Vonnegut added a touch of humor with his reading from "Goodbye Blue Monday," a novel he is still writing. The story takes place during the depression of the 1930s. The main character, raised by eccentric parents, shows his indifference to criticism through several amusing incidents.

A literary device of Vonnegut is to use the last word or words of the previous paragraph as the first word of the next paragraph.

Vonnegut, who recently completed requirements for his M.A. from the University of Chicago, is planning to remain here for two years.

HIS PREVIOUS publications include "Glod Bless You, Mr. Rosewater" and "Cat's Cradle." Others are "Mother Night" and

"Canary in the Cathouse," originally available only in paperback, and "Player Piano," available in hardcover this spring.

Source Of Goods Sought By Police Following Arrests

CHICAGO (AP) — A court hearing for two men was continued Wednesday to Dec. 15 while police traced sources of $250,000 worth of securities and art objects found in their apartments.

John Buckley, 45, and John R. Dillon, 47, partners in a Chicago investment firm, appeared before Judge Daniel F. Ryan in the felony branch of the Circuit Court on charges of possessing stolen goods.

Their bonds were set at $5,000 each and the hearing continued.

Roswell Spencer, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office, said the men were arrested Tuesday night after a long investigation of tips that they were dealing in stolen goods.

TRAVEL TO RHODESIA—WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department served notice Wednesday that American citizens should be careful about traveling to Rhodesia, where power is now exercised by a regime which the United States does not recognize.

"It will no longer be able to provide full protective services to those citizens who travel in or through southern Rhodesia," a department spokesman said.

Marching Band To Perform 'Old Favorites' On Saturday

The Hawkeye Marching Band will present a halftime show entitled "Old Favorites" Saturday when the University meets North Carolina State in the last football game of 1964. The Scottish Highlanders will appear in pre-game ceremonies.

The 120-member, all-male marching band will lead off with "Three O'Clock in the Morning" as it proceeds downfield.

Going into the formation of an old mill, members will play "Down by the Old Mill Stream."

A piano formation will be made as "Rhapsody in Blue" is played. To the tune of "Shine On, Harvest Moon," the entire band will perform a soft-shoe number and will form a rainbow for "Over the Rainbow."

"Auf Wiedersehn," the traditional number the band plays at the close of each football season, will end the program.

In the Highlanders' pre-game performance, they will play "Scotland the Brave" and "Jensen" and will salute the team and fans with "On Iowa."

Frederick C. Ebbs, director of the bands, conducts the band. William L. Adamson, director of the Highlanders since 1937, has been hospitalized since Oct. 4. John Stewart, A2, Billings, Mont., assistant director of the group, has directed activities during Adamson's illness.

ST. JOHN ESTATE—DES MOINES (AP) — An estate with a gross value of $228,856 was left by the late Mrs. Rose N. St. John, an inventory on file Wednesday in Polk County Probate Court showed.

Mrs. St. John was the wife of Walter St. John, a retired insurance company executive. She died last Oct. 9 at the age of 80.

Congress Lauded By House Leader

GRINNELL (AP) — The 89th Congress that just closed had the most impressive record of any congress in history, House Majority Leader Carl Albert, (D-Okla.,) said Wednesday night.

In remarks prepared for a meeting at Grinnell College, Albert challenged Republican charges that the 89th Congress was a "rubber stamp" for President Johnson's administration. He said the session "came in with the flood tide and left its mark on the shores of time."

Lieutenant Governor To Speak To Judges

Lt. Gov. Robert O. Fulton, Waterloo, will speak to approximately 80 Iowa district court judges and their guests at the annual Iowa District Judges Association conference Dec. 1 to 3 in the Union.

Association business and committee reports will be discussed Dec. 1. The conference is scheduled to open officially Dec. 2 with a discussion of problems related to divorce and child support. Two College of Law faculty members will participate in the conference. Mason Ladd, dean of the college, will serve on a panel discussing pre-decree action.

Samuel Fahr, professor of law, will take part in a panel on final decrees.

University College of Law faculty members are assisting in preparation of mater conference.

This will be the second show of its type sponsored by the Art Shows Committee. Last year's exhibition included paintings, sculpture, jewelry, ceramics and other art works, with many faculty members in colleges and departments of the University represented.

Faculty members planning to submit works for the exhibition are asked to contact Linda Lindquist, Iowa City at 337-2010.

Miss Lundquist, a sophomore, is chairman of the Art Shows Committee.

Union Board Spectra Friday Will Feature Sports, Jazz

Sports and jazz will be featured at Union Board's Spectra from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. Friday in the Union ballroom.

Demonstrations on sailing will be given aboard a sailboat on display. Applications for Sailing Club will also be available.

The Jazz Night Committee will be handing out applications to anyone interested in singing or playing a musical instrument. There are hopes for a jam session in January, according to Ardes Beisler, A2, Arlington Heights, Ill., chairman of Spectra.

Folk-singing will be provided by Brian Tabach, A4, Des Moines, and groups headed by Ann Willis, A2, Burlington, and Alice Baxter, A3, Central City.

Treger To Perform In U.S. And Europe

Concert appearances this month will take Prof. Charles Treger, head of the string department, to Europe as well as to many parts of the United States.

On Nov. 25-26, the violinist will appear with the Frankfurt, Germany Symphony Orchestra in performances of Sibelius, "Concerto for Violin." The orchestra will be conducted by Detroit Symphony director Sixten Ehrling, who personally asked for Treger as soloist.

PROFESSOR Treger plans to return to Europe for concert appearances in January, and in May he will return to Poland, where three years ago he won the Henryk Wieniawski international violin competition.

Earlier this week, Treger appeared in Spokane, Wash., where he played the Beethoven Violin Concerto. He will present a solo recital today at the University of Montana. On Nov. 21, he will appear in Burlington, and on Nov. 23 he will perform the Kabalevsky "Concerto for Violin" in Ottumwa and Mount Pleasant.

Among his planned performances in December are a Dec. 1 recital in Fairfield, a Dec. 6 recital in Palestine, Tex., and a Dec. 7 solo recital in Dallas.

After a concert last month in Carnegie Hall, the New York Times said simply, "He is a master," and the Herald Tribune said that he displayed "an artistry and musicianship that kept the audience rapt."

Cold Wave Lifts In Great Britain
LONDON (AP) — An early cold wave began to ease in Britain Wednesday, ending nationwide cuts in gas and electricity services.

Gas and electricity were cut back hard in the industrial midland area, forcing factories with about 100,000 workers to shut down.

Factories began calling workers back. Most of those affected were in the auto industry, the nation's key export trade.

The cold moderated somewhat in western Europe.

Timing Of Dismissal Surprises Burns

JERRY BURNS answers the questions of newsmen at a press conference Wednesday morning, after having been dismissed as head football coach by the Board in Control of Athletics Tuesday. The board also released the six members of Burns's assistant coaching staff. — Photo by Marlin Levison

By BILL PIERROT
Sports Editor

Jerry Burns, who was fired Tuesday by the board in control of athletics as head Iowa football coach, said Wednesday that he was not surprised by the board's action. He added though that he was surprised by the timing of the announcement.

"I had hoped that the board would wait until the end of the season and have the entire staff meet with it to review the football situation," Burns commented at a press conference Wednesday.

"They had certain reasons, I'm sure, for making the announcement at this time," he said. Burns said several times that he had no ill feelings nor was he bitter, toward anyone following his dismissal. When asked if he had been given the opportunity to resign,

Burns in Thought . . .

Burns said that he had, before the meeting Tuesday.

He said he refused, and explained it this way:

"After the Indiana game (which Iowa lost 21-17) I told the players I was proud of them. And I told them that regardless of the reports, I'd never quit."

Burns had opened the conference with the following statement: "I would like to take this opportunity to thank Pres. Howard R. Bowen, his administration, and the entire faculty and staff of the University of Iowa for the cooperation they have given the football program."

"I would also like to extend my appreciation to the students, alumni and friends for their support."

"My deepest appreciation goes to the young men, particularly the members of the 1965 football squad who have played for me during my tenure as head coach. I will always cherish my association with them." In releasing him as head coach, the board offered a one year position in the athletic department, but he said he has not decided if he is going to accept it.

"I have several job opportunities under consideration now," Burns said, but refused to comment further on them.

He did say he hoped to stay in coaching, or at least in athletics.

Burns arrived at the conference after a short meeting with his staff. He said that all the remarks he made reflected the feelings of the staff as well as himself.

He appeared calm all through the questioning and even joked occasionally. As he entered he said to the 15-20 newspaper, radio, and TV men assembled, "Say, if you fellows covered the Vikings you'd have to come back tomorrow." (Norm Van Brocklin, Minnesota Viking head coach resigned Monday, then changed his mind and rejoined the team Tuesday.)

Asked how good the 1965 Hawkeyes are in view of their 1-8 record, Burns said, "The pre-season publicity we got was not all justified. A year ago we had an exciting team, but we lost six straight. I did not want to play down the players this though, since I'm optimistic in nature. It's my feeling that I can convince a team that good it might help them. Our best."

Burns said the most disappointing part of the season was the team's inability to sustain type of offense. He pointed out that the weather in some of the games, the injuries to Zlotkowski, Cliff Wilder, Kimble, Farley Lewis, and McKinnie all reduced the effectiveness of the offense. Burns was quick to point out that he was making these observations only in answer to a question, and not as an alibi. Burns and his assistants they would proceed as planned for Saturday's finale at North Carolina State.

New Commissioner Named For Baseball

CHICAGO (AP) — William D. Eckert, a 56-year-old retired Air Force general and Washington business executive, became baseball's fourth commissioner Wednesday, succeeding Ford Frick, who is retiring.

The club owners, acting on the unanimous recommendation of a screening committee, also selected Lee MacPhail, president of the Baltimore Orioles, as an administrator in the commissioner's office.

Eckert agreed to a seven-year contract at $65,000 a year plus expenses.

MacPhail will get $40,000 annually on a three-year contract. "I would like to schedule a last tour to meet with the presidents of the American and National Leagues, and as many owners as possible throughout the nation before the December league meetings in Miami," said Eckert.

The owners had been expected to name the new commissioner at the Florida meetings but obviously the screening committee, headed by John Fetzer, president of the Detroit Tigers, found its man quicker than had been anticipated.

Eckert did not make any immediate announcement as to whether the commissioner's office would remain in New York or be moved elsewhere.

Although Eckert was not active on a varsity level in major sports at West Point, from which he was graduated in 1930, he was known as one of the most sports-minded officers in the service.

Until he retired in 1961, Eckert was active in tennis, squash, golf and horseback riding.

The new commissioner is married and the father of two children, Catharine and William. He served with the 29th and 38th Pursuit Squadrons as a pilot and was one of two young flyers to attend the Harvard Graduate School of Business where he earned his masters' degree.

Since his retirement, the much-bemused Eckert has been active in civic activities in Washington and has served as a director of the Logistics Management Institute, which advises the Department of Defense and NASA in areas of national policy. He also is a director or officer in several electronics and real estate firms.

It is reasonable to expect that the new commissioner will be most active in representing baseball to the general public and that MacPhail, who came up through the New York Yankee organization before he moved to Baltimore in 1958, will handle

Search For Coach Underway; Job Already Has Applicants

By STEU BETTERTON
Staff Writer

Bad news spreads fast, and Iowa Athletic Director Forest Evashevski reported Wednesday morning that he had already received two phone calls from persons interested in becoming the University's next football coach.

Announcement of Jerry Burns' release was made late Tuesday evening.

Evashevski expects more inquiries, but he also has some people that he wants to contact in mind. The search for a new coach is in full swing, and the choice will be made as soon as possible.

There are some candidates under consideration, but Evashevski was not free to disclose their names. He would only comment that he was interested in the best possible coach in the United States.

"Until the Board of Athletic Control made their decision no action could be made," Evashevski commented, "but now there are some men who will be approached."

With the season over this week, the problem of recruiting players becomes just as important as finding a new coach, and this is why time is so important. The Board of Athletic Control's decision also affected Burns' six-man staff. The assistant coaches have contracts which run to Dec. 31.

After that time they can be released. However, the Athletic Department intends to help them find new jobs, and they will be kept in the department as long as possible.

THEIR RELEASE is no real surprise. The rules of the game allow a head coach to select his own staff, and the next Iowa

Phi Epsilon Pi and Phi Kappa Psi will square off at 4:15 today on field one to decide the 1965 Social Fraternity league touch football championship.

Phi Epsilon Pi, 5-0, goes into the game as a favorite, having trounced Phi Kappa Psi 32-0 in the first game of the season.

Since their opening victory, they have reeled off four straight victories, whipping Lambda Chi Alpha and Phi Delta Theta in regular season games, and Phi Gamma Delta and Sigma Nu in the playoffs.

They are also riding a 12-game winning streak that dates back to last fall when they rolled up seven straight victories and won the Social Fraternity championship.

Phi Kappa Psi, however, will be no push-over. Since losing their first game to Phi Epsilon Pi, they have come back strong to post four consecutive wins, three of which were upsets.

They advanced through the playoffs by upsetting Delta Upsilon in the quarterfinals and Sigma Phi Epsilon in the semifinals. Both teams had been unbeaten and were highly ranked.

Sigma Phi Epsilon, whom they beat 6-0 Tuesday night, was the pre-playoff favorite.

ISU Drills Minus Van Galder

AMES (AP) — Two quarterbacks who haven't been in a game at that position all season ran the offense Wednesday as Iowa State held its last heavy football workout of the season.

Ken Bunte and Steve Balkovec filled in for quarterback Tim Van Galder, who flew to Madison, Wis., Tuesday night after the death of his father.

Clark Van Galder, 54, University of Wisconsin backfield coach, collapsed and died of a heart attack while attending a high school football banquet.

The word from Madison was that Van Galder will join the Cyclones for the season finale against New Mexico at Albuquerque Saturday, after attending funeral services for his father Thursday in Madison and burial services in Fresno, Calif., Friday.

CHALLENGE GAME—
Quad champion Bearsly will meet Hillcrest champion Stendler in a touch football game at 4 p.m. Friday. The challenge game will be played on an intramural field behind the Field House.

Grabowski Top Rusher In Big 10

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Grabowski of Illinois, Bob Greise of Purdue and Steve Juday of Michigan State retained their leadership in the Big Ten football statistical parade, official figures showed Wednesday.

Grabowski, who has topped all rushing records, increased his lead in this department to 813 yards in 168 carries in 6 Big Ten games.

Greise is top passer with 82 completions in 156 tries for 928 yards and a .536 average. Juday repeated as the total offense leader, passing for 881 yards and rushing for 116 for a 997 total and a top 5.9 average per play.

Other individual leaders include: Pass receiving — Jack Clancy, Michigan, 31 for 468 yards. Karl Noonan of Iowa, last week's leader, also had 31 for 382 yards.

STEPHAN SPITZER
People Learn From Others

People First Hear Big News From Others, Study Shows

By MORRY ALTER
Staff Writer

When an event such as the death of a president occurs, people will most likely first learn of it from other people, according to Stephan Spitzer, assistant professor of sociology.

Spitzer, 32, told in a recent interview that he and his wife Nancy sought to learn by conducting a combined study in Iowa City of the diffusion of news regarding President Kennedy's and Lee Harvey Oswald's deaths.

Kennedy was assassinated Nov. 22, 1963, while riding in a motorcade through downtown Dallas, Texas. Oswald, the man being held for Kennedy's death, was killed two days later while being transferred by police out of the Dallas jail.

THE SPITZERS' study appeared in "The Kennedy Assassination and the American Public: Social Communication in Crisis," edited by Bradley S. Greenberg and Edwin B. Parker.

"If by such studies we can come to identify the channels through which communications flow," said Spitzer, "we will be able to say quite a bit about the structure of society."

Spitzer and his wife, who holds an M.A. in community research, had interviewees in the field three hours after the death of Kennedy and a half hour after Oswald's death.

Another person was the most frequent initial source for news of the Kennedy death, said the professor, and television for the Oswald death.

SPITZER EXPLAINED that television was the first Oswald news source because most persons had remained by their sets following the news about the late President.

After they had heard the news from a friend or stranger, most people reported, they went to the mass media to verify it. They said they turned first to their radios and televisions and then to their newspapers.

PEOPLE STOPPED total strangers on the street, said Spitzer, to talk about the assassination. The implication, he said, is that as the magnitude of the event increases, people become more and more willing to talk to strangers.

Spitzer said the results of the Iowa City Kennedy study were almost exactly the same as those found in a national news diffusion study by the National Opinion Research Center at the University of Chicago.
