Most Coeds Federal Reserve Chief Said Content Won't Predict Future With Hours

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman William McChesney Martin Jr. declined Monday to tell a congressional committee whether the Federal Reserve Board, which recently approved a hike in interest rates, has any further actions in mind.

He told the Senate-House Economic Committee he avoids predictions because he can't make them without setting off repercussions in the money market.

"The Federal Reserve is not anxious for high interest rates. We don't move only in one direction," Martin said.

Martin was the principal witness as the committee opened hearings on the controversial move the board made Dec. 3, when it added one-half of one percent to the interest-setting discount rate, increasing it to 4.5 percent. The other action raised the ceiling on the interest banks pay on time deposits from 4.5 to 5.5 percent.

President Johnson deplored the interest increase, but Martin insisted the Federal Reserve has made "no attack at all" of Johnson's policies.

Martin said he has been in close personal touch with the administration, including the President himself, before and after the board acted. He said he would have welcomed a chance to discuss his view with Johnson, but the President's gall bladder operation and his recuperation in Texas limited opportunities to see him.

One of the board members who disagreed with the majority action, Sherman P. Maisel, said he thinks the Federal Reserve should have sought agreement on a coordinated monetary, fiscal, and wage-price policy with the executive branch.

"Unilateral action could only

Failure Of Gemini 6 Launch May Be Laid To Dust Cover

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston Tex. (AP) — A plastic dust cover left in a fuel line would have blocked the launch Sunday of the Gemini 6 spacecraft even if an electrical plug had not fallen out of the tail of the Titan 2 booster rocket.

And, if astronaut Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr. had not been allowed to strip off their space suits at the same time, they might have been some doubt they could endure the discomforts of 14 days in space in the Gemini 7.

These disclosures came Monday as Borman and Lovell rode the Gemini 7 on toward more endurance records, and got the morale-lifting news that their rendezvous with Gemini 6 probably would be made, at last, on Wednesday.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said a review of Sunday's launch failure disclosed that one of the Titan's engines was malfunctioning when a false signal went out for both of them to shut down after ignition.

The erroneous signal was given when an electrical plug, which tells the computer when the rocket leaves the pad, fell out of the booster. Because the computer knew the rocket was still on the pad, it sensed trouble and ordered a shutdown.

But NASA said that even if this command had not been given, another would have gone out 1.03 seconds later because of a malfunction in one engine caused by the dust cover.

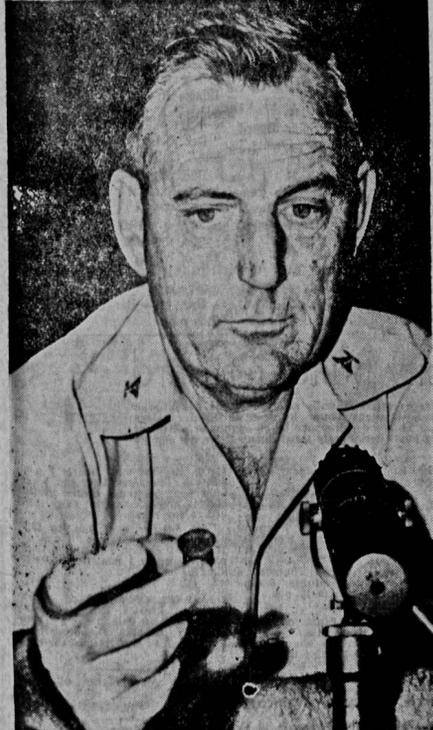

THE TITAN normally is held bolted to the pad for 3.6 seconds, until its engines build up sufficient thrust for the climb into space and while launch crews make certain all systems are functioning correctly.

The dust cover was found in the oxidizer inlet port to a gas generator. The system was being cleaned and will be installed again. Pad crews pushed on toward a new launch attempt at 8:37 a.m. EST Wednesday.

Borman and Lovell, still mentally and physically strong in the 10th day in the cramped confinement of the spacecraft, sent word to flight Director Christopher C. Kraft Jr. that they could stay up 15 days if necessary to complete the historic rendezvous mission.

Forecast

Mostly cloudy through Wednesday with occasional snow spreading into the state today, continuing tonight and Wednesday. Not much temperature change; high today near 40.

A SMALL PLASTIC DUST COVER like the one here displayed by Col. Richard C. Dineen, Cape Kennedy, Fla., lodged in an oxygen line of a Gemini 6 engine Sunday causing a malfunction. The Titan rocket settled back on its launch pad and its rendezvous with the orbiting Gemini 7 was delayed until Wednesday.

weaken the President's leadership in a critical war," he said. The six Republican members of the committee said: "We believe that the administration itself does not disagree with the basic decision, although it may have some reservations about the timing of it."

Space Officer Still Missing

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Dr. W. Randolph Lovelace II, the space agency's director of space medicine, and his wife and a pilot were reported missing Monday on a private plane flight from Aspen, Colo., to Albuquerque.

The Lovelace Foundation, of which Lovelace is president said in Albuquerque a plane in which the three were riding left Aspen Sunday shortly after noon but failed to arrive in Albuquerque, the destination.

The weather between Aspen and Albuquerque Sunday was reported good.

The plane was piloted by Milton Brown, a pilot for an Albuquerque flying service.

Bad weather between Aspen and Albuquerque was expected to slow search operations.

1,000 Viet Cong Killed By Ground, Air Attacks

Youth's Leaders Are Stifled, U.S. Welfare Chairman Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high proportion of the most gifted young Americans is being immunized against any tendencies toward leadership, says Secretary of Welfare John W. Gardner.

Unless there is a change, Gardner writes in an essay published Monday, government will be making more and more of the decisions that should be made by private individuals.

GARDNER'S ESSAY, "The Anti-leadership Vaccine," appears in the annual report of the Carnegie Corp. of New York. It was written before he left the educational foundation last August to become secretary of the Health, Education and Welfare Department in President Johnson's cabinet.

The immunization against leadership tendencies starts with society itself, Gardner feels, and is augmented in colleges and universities.

"THE CONDITIONS of life in a modern, complex society are not conducive to the emergence of leaders," he writes. "The young person today is acutely aware of the fact that he is an anonymous member of a mass society, an individual lost among millions of others."

"This unfocused discouragement is of little consequence compared with the expert disuasion the young person will encounter if he is sufficiently bright to attend college or university. In those institutions today, the best students are carefully schooled to avoid leadership responsibilities.

"VERY FEW of our most prominent people take a really large view of the leadership assignment. Most of them are simply tending the machinery of that part of society to which they belong.

"Any question that cannot be dealt with by one of the special leadership groups tends to end up being dealt with by government. Most Americans value the role played by nongovernmental leadership in this country and would wish it to continue.

"IN MY JUDGMENT it will not continue under the present conditions."

Gardner says most of this country's gifted young people go from college directly into graduate or professional school and acquire a conception of what a good scholar, scientist or professional man is like.

"As things stand now, however," he reports, "that conception leaves little room for leadership in the normal sense; the only kind of leadership encouraged is that which follows from the performance of purely professional tasks in a superior manner.

"AS A RESULT the academic world appears to be approaching a point at which everyone will want to educate the technical expert who advises the leader, or the intellectual who stands off and criticizes the leader, but no one will want to educate the leader himself."

Marines, Vietnamese Continue Mopping Up

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Marines and Vietnamese troops eased into the mopping up stage Monday of Operation Harvest Moon with an estimate that ground and air strikes have killed about 1,000 of their quarry, a hard core Viet Cong regiment.

Red opposition faded in the 20-mile-long Que Son battle sector south of Da Nang, which the Marines call Death Valley. Leatherneck patrols, roving hills above the lowland thickets and rice paddies, found an abandoned guerrilla training ground and warehouses full of gray and black cloth of a type used for Viet Cong uniforms.

U.S. OFFICERS said the area, where up to 3,700 Viet Cong had sought to hold their ground against an allied task force of several thousand men, is now secure. Proposing to help keep it that way, B52 jet bombers from Guam dumped explosives on suspected guerrilla positions for the second day.

American fighter-bombers resumed raids on North Viet Nam in force after a two-day lull attributed to bad weather. Among targets hit on 18 missions of U.S. Air Force Thunderchief and Phantom jets was a military objective 50 miles northeast of Dien Bien Phu. Pilots said five buildings were left burning.

PSYCHOLOGICAL Warfare experts exulted in the voluntary surrender of a 22-man Viet Cong platoon to the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade at Vo Dai, 60 miles northeast of Saigon. A U.S. spokesman said this was the biggest single defection of armed insurgents in months.

Among clashes of the day was a Viet Cong attempt to ambush a Vietnamese patrol 15 miles southwest of Saigon. The patrol reported it beat off the attempt without casualties, killing one Viet Cong and capturing three.

THE WEEK — a brief lull broken suddenly by hard fighting. The lulls appeared to be growing shorter.

The Que Son sector action was in its sixth day when it faded. Marines said they had killed 124 Viet Cong and that air strikes in their sector accounted for 300. Vietnamese officers said ground elements killed 390 and planes 180 in their combat zone.

IN ADDITION, the Marines said they captured 28 and were detaining 190 Vietnamese they suspected of affiliation with the guerrillas.

The Marines said that, though one Leatherneck company was hit sharply in a helicopter landing last week, their over-all toll was light.

Court Bans Voluntary Prayer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court let stand Monday a principal's decision that the school's ban on prayers in public schools applies to voluntary recital of such traditional cookie-cutter nursery rhymes as:

"God is great, God is good and we thank Him for our food."

The court's unanimous order gave no reason for not hearing the question argued. So it may or may not be a clue to how the justices would view the discretion used by school authorities elsewhere to ban or permit voluntary prayers, meditations or sayings of grace by students.

CHIEF JUSTICE Earl Warren recently, in another case, defined the denial of a hearing by the court in these words:

"Our denial should not be taken in any way as sanctioning the proceedings or of approving of the judgments below. It means only that for one reason or another these cases did not commend themselves to at least four members of the court as falling

Congress May Pass New GI Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are strong indications that Congress will pass a GI bill of rights for veterans of the current cold and hot war early in the session starting Jan. 10.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, (D-Wash.), visiting Plei Me in Viet Nam, scene of a major battle, promised American soldiers such a bill would be passed. Such bills, including college expenses for veterans, were in effect after World War II and the Korean War.

A cold war GI bill already has passed the Senate, and currently is in the hands of the House Veterans Affairs Committee.

Rep. Olin Teague, (D-Tex.), chairman of that committee, recently predicted action on the bill early next session. His committee has completed hearings on the legislation. There are some differences between House and Senate versions.

Sheltered Workshop Drive Begins

A "response with compassion" to the need for a sheltered workshop for mentally impaired and physically handicapped persons in southeast Iowa was urged at a Monday breakfast starting the workshop's $75,000 fund drive.

Donald E. Johnson, West Branch, general campaign chairman for the drive, told about 75 campaign workers, that pledges in the drive already totaled about $2,500.

INCLUDED in this amount was a $1,000 pledge from the Iowa City Junior Chamber of Commerce, which was presented at the breakfast in the Gloria Dei Lutheran Church.

The workshop could possibly be in operation by July 1 and accommodate up to 50 people, according to Col. Brooks Booker Jr., president of Goodwill Industries of Southeast Iowa. Goodwill Industries will operate the workshop.

Booker estimated that 1,800 mentally impaired and 750 handicapped persons live within a 25-mile radius of Iowa City. Most of these could work within a workshop environment, he said.

THE WORKSHOP would enable the persons to work at a reduced pace and to obtain training, Booker said. He listed salvage and repair work, subcontract work for industry and possibly the University, and simple manufacturing as jobs that would be done.

"The ultimate purpose, of course, is to provide extra opportunities for people with less than ordinary faculties," said Booker.

About 20 per cent of the persons trained in the workshop, the colonel said, will eventually be able to find outside jobs.

THE WORKSHOP fund drive is divided into two parts. The business, industrial and organization part of the drive will run through Jan. 8. Individual solicitation will be from Jan. 9 to 16.

If $75,000 is obtained in the fund drive, Booker said, about $200,000 would be available in matching state and federal funds, mostly under anti-poverty programs.

The workshop has been adopted as a preference component of the Hawkeye Community Action Program and is applying for federal assistance under the program.

ESTIMATED cost for the workshop is $85,000 for the building; $45,000 for equipment; and $35,000 for the first year's budget.

A picture of the proposed building, designed by Robert E. Earnheart, of Powers and Associates, Iowa City, was unveiled at the breakfast.

One site being considered for the workshop is a pie-shaped piece of land on Highway 6 near the Procter and Gamble plant in southeast Iowa City.

Time To Apply For Hawkeye

Thursday is the last day to sign up for the 1966 Hawkeye, Paul Dagle, business manager, reminded students Monday.

Seniors may apply for free copies. All other students pay $6, which is added to the Jan. 1 University bill.

Tables at which to apply for the books are located at several places on campus, including the Library, the Union, the Pentacrest buildings, Phillips Hall, all the dormitories, the Communications Center and East Hall.

THIS BUILDING, designed by Powers and Associates, will someday house the Goodwill Industries sheltered workshop for southeast Iowa. The building will have a steel frame and masonry and brick walls. Inside will be training and work areas, office space and a store. The fund drive for the workshop began Monday and will continue through Jan. 16.

Voting choice?

COULD IT BE THAT THE GOP intends to offer American voters a real alternative in the next elections?

Sen. Everett Dirksen gave some hope that this may be the case in a speech he delivered by telephone at a dinner honoring Iowa Sen. Jack Miller in Des Moines Friday night.

Dirksen said that peace is a real issue and that the young men of America are at stake in this issue. America has for a long time had something called "nonpartisan foreign policy" which in effect has meant that no serious discussion or questioning of U. S. policies abroad is allowed in political campaigning. It has been all right for the politicians to take a meaningless jab here and toss a bit of innuendo there, but a serious discussion of foreign policy has been taboo.

We hope that Dirksen's remarks were an indication that the Republican party, or at least some of its candidates, will seriously question the Johnson Administration's policy in Viet Nam. It is entirely possible that some Republicans would be able to fulfill a function as "loyal opposition" and present voters with an alternative to the Government now in power. Such action by the Republicans would certainly be beneficial to American politics.

It seems unlikely that the Senate minority leader would have raised the issue of peace simply to embarrass the Johnson Administration. If he had only wished to stir up some political dust, he could have adopted a Nixonian approach by calling for stepping up the war and using more bombing.

Instead Dirksen boasted that "under President Eisenhower, not a single young man lost his life on a foreign battlefield." Indeed, as the senator said, that is a "noble boast." We hope that more Republicans — and dissatisfied Democrats — will view that war as Sen. Dirksen appears to be viewing it.

Silly, silly taxers

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT is after Iowa's sister institution in Ames again — about taxes. It seems unusual that Iowa State should be in hot water over taxes; state schools don't pay taxes.

Unfortunately this is not altogether true. Under some circumstances the Internal Revenue Service thinks it is fully entitled to collect taxes from a state institution. The bone of contention is WOI-TV, Iowa State's television station. The IRS claims WOI-TV is more commercial than educational and should pay income taxes.

The ruling on WOI-TV first came in 1953. After nine years of meetings, negotiations, hassling and discussion, Iowa State paid Uncle Sam $87,030 to settle the whole thing. Since 1956 ISU had been filing tax returns which showed no taxes due. Some years WOI-TV lost money and other years Iowa State charged the television station for administrative costs, rent, etc., so that the station broke even.

The IRS didn't question any Iowa State tax returns until last summer when the books were audited. As a result of that audit, IRS books now show that Iowa State owes $500,000 for WOI-TV and $75,000 for its bookstore. Why the bookstore? Well, IRS can't open the Iowa State books beyond three years back unless there is something at issue on which no tax forms have been filed. Thus by bringing the bookstore into the picture, the IRS is able to hit the television station for seven years in back taxes instead of only three years' worth. All this, in spite of the fact that university-owned bookstores are almost universally tax exempt.

All this confusion adds up to one thing: Iowa State is going to have to hire a tax lawyer to fight things out with Uncle Sam's people again.

And who pays Iowa State's lawyer? And who pays Uncle Sam's people? And who pays Iowa State's taxes, if they must be paid? That's right, all the money comes from the same place — the taxpayer. So win, lose or draw, the taxpayer will finance the cost of the fight, and the entertainment value of the thing would make Clay and Liston look good.

It's a heck of a way to run the country's tax program.

'Frisco to be bomb victim; truce to follow

By ART BUCHWALD

The latest news from California is that they're thinking of breaking it up into two states. The idea, which was a joke a few years ago, is now being talked about seriously. The people I have spoken to have strong feelings about it. One man said:

"I've always believed there should be a South California and a North California. Of course I think the United States will support South California, because, after all, the Communist menace is located in the north at Berkeley, and if we don't stop them now, we could lose Oregon, Washington, and Idaho."

"How do you know the menace comes from the North?"

"We have proof CAL students have been infiltrating down from the north especially during football games, and they're being supported by students from Stanford, and the College of the Pacific."

He showed me a draft card that he said had been burned in Hollywood. "This is a North California draft card found in the pocket of a Berkeley student who was picketing Grauman's Chinese Theater. I think it speaks for itself."

"What do you hope to gain by splitting the state?" I asked.

"We'll get rid of Sacramento for one thing. The North government has always treated South California as a stepchild. Now we'll have our own government probably located in Los Angeles. Mayor Yorty has just been in Viet Nam to study how their government works there. We'll probably use the South Vietnamese government as a model for our own."

"Aren't there many very difficult problems that have to be resolved before the division of the state is made?"

"Of course there are, and we're willing to negotiate all of them."

"How would you go about it?"

"Well, first we'd bomb San Francisco. Then we'd tell the North Californians we'd be willing to stop the bombing if they were willing to go to the table and talk."

"But why would you bomb San Francisco first?"

"If we didn't, we wouldn't have anything to stop doing if they agreed to our terms."

"I see."

"Look, we don't want anything for ourselves. We just want to be left alone to prosper. It's the North Californians who are going to be the aggressors."

"But how do you know they will be the aggressors if you haven't even divided the state yet?"

"Well, you've had North Korea and North Viet Nam. Do you think North California is going to be any different?"

"Let's say, after the split, that you and North California have your differences and finally you agree to go to the negotiating table. What would be the primary objective of the negotiations?"

"I should think it would be to bring about a united California. If it was open to a vote, the North Californians would never want to live under a Communist system."

"Do you mean to say that after you take all the trouble to divide the state you will want to work at uniting it again?"

"But with one difference. This time South California would be the capital, and North California would have to dance to our tune."

"And if they didn't?"

"Then there's always San Francisco!"

Help newspapers help your cause

By TOM FENSCH Staff Writer

Because newspapermen are a harried and confused lot, and because news is such a perishable thing, we suggest that groups with causes to sell take a better part in presenting those causes to the American public.

We suggest that groups be cognizant of the tools of the public-relations trade, and submit their statements in acceptable form, so they might have a better chance of reaching the front page of American newspapers.

To further this idea, we present a handy outline form for all organizations. This has only to be filled in or deleted as required, using the correct phrases, applicable to that group:

"We, _____, believing in _____ for America, hereby (protest, encourage), the United States foreign policy in _____. We (encourage, condemn) President _____'s stand on that matter, and (deplore, applaud) the (increasing, decreasing) casualty lists in _____."

"We are further (encouraged, discouraged) by Secretary _____'s stand on that problem. We believe his statement "_____"' to be (excellent, inaccurate, ridiculous) in the light of recent (gains, losses) there."

"WE BELIEVE the cause of (peace, war) has been strengthened in _____."

"We are (encouraged, discouraged) by the (rising, falling) cost of the battle in _____; and we believe that this (helps, hinders) the national economy as a whole."

"Recently we drew (support, opposition) from Senator _____ and Senator _____, Statesman, and folk singers _____ and _____."

In short, we believe that the United States is (falling rapidly into the abyss of war; rising rapidly in the eyes of other nations; standing still) with this policy.

Group should change direction

To the Editor:

A representative of the D.O.B. (Defenders of Booker T), an organization of Negroes, spoke recently at the University to explain the purpose of his organization to the public.

The organization seeks to enlighten the public about Negroes' problems, and work toward the integration of Negroes into society. Laws slanted against Negroes are being fought.

Simply stated, the D.O.B. wants society to accept Negroes. This is all fine — to an extent. It's time the public learned that Negroes can be useful, and the persecution of Negroes is not in the best interests of society.

The organization, however, has taken a stance that makes solution of the problem more involved than it needs to be. Instead of asking society to adjust to Negroes, the problem would be simplified if the organization sought to adjust Negroes to society.

Dermatological treatment has often been successful in transforming racial deviates into people of socially acceptable color. Perhaps a genetic problem which encourages the spread of racial deviation could be found through research and then alleviated. Negro organizations could better spend their efforts in this direction.

Public education about Negroes must by all means be furthered, but it should be directed toward explaining the nature of the deviation instead of teaching society to accept integration as a social institution.

Reader questions story on HUAC lecture

To the Editor:

Re: Morry Alter's front-page review of Frank Wilkinson's lecture of Thursday night in favor of abolishing HUAC.

Having read Mr. Alter's review, I would have imagined in my mind's eye Ron Zobel charging to the podium with the Shining Sword of Truth held high, amidst the clamor of call of Justice, and with hardy verbal blows smiting the ogre of Communism, Frank Wilkinson, thus upholding the American Way and the honor of Dear Old UI . . . except that I was at the lecture, too.

Setting aside my personal opinions on the good and/or evil of HUAC, may I say that I in no way feel that Ron Zobel succeeded in vanquishing Mr. Wilkinson. Mr. Wilkinson took Mr. Zobel's accusations, point by point, pared and cut them apart, and stuffed them down Mr. Zobel's throat. Very likely neither Mr. Zobel nor Mr. Alter would admit to this, but we know it in our hearts, don't we, men?

I saw Mr. Zobel return to his seat with egg on his face, and I did not again hear him rise in protest.

In other words, Mr. Alter, in his zeal to glorify Ron Zobel as a fortress of knowledge, did a lousy job of reporting. Come on, Morry, how about some Good, Old-fashioned, Idealistic Ethics?

Panel's view needs elaboration

To the Editor:

After reading the article, "Sex Talk Socially Accepted, Panel Participants Decide," in Friday's Daily Iowan, some questions and comments came to my mind.

If Student Health ever does distribute contraceptives to mature students as the discussion panel agreed, it would have a big job determining eligibility. While it might be nice to know who on campus is mature and who is not, just to substantiate opinion, I was not aware that it was possible to "prove" that one person was mature or that another was not. I had the impression that emotional maturity was an elusive concept even to define, much less to prove by a test.

Mr. Spaziani said pre-marital relations could be enjoyed as long as the physical and psychic makeup of the individuals involved was not injured. Who is to be the judge of this injury, the individuals themselves? If so, doesn't it seem likely that their desires may place a bias on their opinions?

Mr. Spaziani also said these relations are all right between adults that are not only sexually mature, but also are aware of the physical and psychic consequences of what they are doing. From what he said earlier in the report, I thought there were to be no harmful consequences. I assume he is speaking of harmful consequences, because beneficial consequences would become self-evident, with no need to learn of them beforehand.

In short the panel failed to convince me of their viewpoint. It seems they are rationalizing the situation by saying it is all right for a mature person who is fully aware that what he is doing will have harmful consequences to go ahead anyway. Does this same reasoning apply to stealing, killing, etc., as well as to sexual relations?

Political spectrum —

HUAC upheld by Supreme Court

By JULIAN GARRETT For Young Americans For Freedom

When Congress reconvenes in January the radical left will make its annual attempt to abolish the House Committee on Un-American Activities (HUAC). It is, therefore, appropriate to set forth a few reasons for retaining this important committee.

The House Committee on Un-American Activities was established as a permanent committee of Congress in 1946 with authority to make, from time to time, investigations of:

"(1) the extent, character, and objects of un-American propaganda activities in the United States, (2) the diffusion within the United States of subversive and un-American propaganda that is instigated from foreign countries or of a domestic origin and attacks the principle of the form of government as guaranteed by our Constitution, and (3) all other questions in relation thereto that would aid Congress in any necessary remedial legislation."

For the purpose of carrying on these investigations the Committee has the power to require, by issuing subpoenas, "the attendance of such witnesses and the production of such books, papers, and documents, and to take such testimony, as it deems necessary."

The United States Supreme Court has consistently upheld the right of Congress to legislate in the area of Communist activity in this country, and the legality of HUAC and its right to investigate Communist activity. The Court has said through Mr. Justice Harlan:

"That Congress has wide power to legislate in the field of Communist activity in this country, and to conduct appropriate investigations in aid thereof, is hardly debatable. The existence of such power has never been questioned by this Court, and it is sufficient to say without particularization, that Congress has enacted or considered in this field a wide range of legislative measures, not a few of which have stemmed from recommendations in question here . . . Justification for its exercise in turn rests on the long and widely accepted view that the tenets of the Communist party include the ultimate overthrow of the government of the United States."

Believing that a newspaper should be a service to all the community we, as part of the hunting population of Iowa City, feel The Daily Iowan could better fulfill its obligation of service by giving more extensive coverage to world champion con hound Old Shep.

In the past The Daily Iowan has given the hound of renown only third and fourth page coverage which leads us to believe he is not receiving due credit for his magnificent performances on the professional hunting circuit.

President Johnson's somewhat less talented K9 companion, Him, has repeatedly received front page coverage for merely walking the President.

This appears to be priority by association rather than a more newsworthy priority by achievement. At no time has Him ever proven himself outstanding by winning a tournament such as the Boondocks Christmas Invitational.

United States by force and violence, a view which has been given formal expression by Congress . . .

"(1) It can hardly be seriously argued that the investigation of Communist activities generally, and the attendant use of compulsory process, was beyond the purview of the Committee's intended authority under rule XI."

Barenblatt v. United States, 360 U.S. 109 (1959) at pp. 120-121 and 127-128

HUAC is sometimes criticized on the ground that its hearings fulfill no legislative purpose and that little or no legislation has resulted from HUAC's hearings. In fact, however, HUAC has, between the years 1941 and 1960 made 129 legislative recommendations to Congress of which 35 were made into law. Some examples of such legislation are the Smith Act of 1940, the Internal Security Act of 1950, the Communist Control Act of 1954 and the Espionage and Sabotage Act of 1954.

A more responsible criticism is put forth by those who, while admitting the right of Congress to legislate and the right of HUAC to hold investigations in the area of subversive activity, express concern for the rights of witnesses called before the Committee. Partially in response to these critics HUAC, in 1953, formalized its procedure by a written code.

HUAC WAS THE FIRST full Committee to adopt formal rules of procedure. Among other things these rules provide that anyone who is, in any testimony made public, named as a "subversive, Fascist, Communist, or affiliated with one or more subversive-front organizations" be so informed and given an opportunity to appear before the Committee to deny or affirm the charge.

Of course there is always the chance that some innocent party will have his reputation damaged by someone testifying before HUAC. As long as such cases are rare (and they have not been shown to be otherwise) this would seem to be no reason for abolishing HUAC.

To argue that it is would be to argue that because under our criminal law an innocent party might have his reputation damaged by being accused of a crime, therefore our system of criminal law should be abolished. The fallacy in this argument seems obvious.

... for glory of Old Shep recently won by Old Shep — why Him hasn't even treed a bird, let alone a coon.

If The Daily Iowan would mend its ways and give the deserved recognition to Old Shep, we feel Old Shep would have a good chance of being named Most Valuable Coon Hound of 1966. I.e., the traveling trophy Floyd of Ringtail would reside atop Irving Fenster's car-radio antenna.

A good opportunity for the Daily Iowan to instill sports fans and fill the vacuum of sports enthusiasm in our community will be the upcoming What Cheer First of the Year (B.Y.O.B.) Invitational Conhound and Sockhop, Feb. 23.

We hope The Daily Iowan will capitalize on the great opportunity to help reinstate the sport of conhounding to its traditional high esteem.

Accelerating Rehearsals—

Band To Perform In Europe

Members of the University Symphony Band are receiving their final immunization shots in preparation for the band's European tour in the spring, according to Frederick C. Ebbs, director of bands.

Ebbs will conduct the band in concert appearances throughout Europe, including Iron Curtain countries. The band will fly to Europe in mid-February to begin its three-month tour.

The 83 band members have also applied for their passports which should be ready in about a month, Ebbs said Monday.

THE BAND is now rehearsing three afternoons weekly and sectional rehearsals are being held on two afternoons and on several evenings each week.

Daily rehearsals will begin after Christmas vacation, and after examination week at the end of January the band will rehearse from six to eight hours daily until they leave for Europe.

The band will prepare at least three and possibly four different concert programs for the tour. Thus they can play different concerts when they appear up to three times in one city. They will also be able to adapt programs to special musical interests of the countries.

Programs to be presented abroad must be approved by the Academic Music Panel, which advises the U.S. Department of State on music phases of all cultural presentations in other countries.

BRIEFING sessions will be conducted on campus by State Department officials to prepare students for their mission of increasing understanding and friendship abroad.

Special traveling uniforms for band members are expected about the end of January, Ebbs said. The State Department is furnishing the blue blazers, which have red, white and blue emblems on the breast pockets, and the Cambridge-gray trousers and skirts.

For concert appearances, men in the band will wear the group's regular dark blue formal concert uniforms. Two piece black dresses are being made for the coeds.

Making sure that the approximately 50 trunks of instruments and equipment reach concert halls in time for programs has been one of the biggest problems of other touring groups, according to Ebbs.

THE TRUNKS will travel on the trains with the band during the trip throughout Europe.

Bill Parisi, A2, Chicago Heights, Ill., who has been drum major for the Hawkeye Marching Band for four years, will be equipment manager. Parisi is also president of Student Senate.

Assistant conductor of the tour band will be Warren G. Hatfield. Max S. Hawkins, director of field activities for the Alumni Association, will be business manager, assisting in setting up the group's daily itinerary.

HEALTH needs will be under the care of Dr. Robert D. Gauchat, an associate professor in the College of Medicine.

Mrs. Ebbs, wife of the band's conductor, will be the tour secretary and wardrobe supervisor. Mrs. Donald McGlothlin, a registered nurse who is the wife of one of the band members, will chaperone the coeds in the band.

Recognition Of Association For Blind Students Advised

Recognition of a University association for blind students was recommended Monday afternoon by the Student Senate Standing Committee.

The committee was meeting in accordance with a new Senate resolution calling for open discussion of bills pending before the Senate.

A resolution asking that the University Association of the Blind be recognized as an official student organization is to be presented to the Senate meeting at 7:30 tonight by Sue Micich, A2, Des Moines.

Miss Micich explained to the committee that the association would be a social group for blind students.

The committee also discussed student complaints against the Iowa City police. Tom Hanson, A3, Jefferson, said there was a need to develop better relations between the University and the city police.

The campus parking problem was discussed next. Hanson mentioned the recent report by the Campus Security and Parking Committee which suggested that undergraduates be prohibited from parking cars on campus next year. Hanson said the Senate should recommend that the students be represented on the committee.

Only four senators attended the meeting. Standing Committee chairman, George Soukup, B3, Sioux City, said the committee members had been notified by mail about the meeting.

The committee tentatively set the time for future open meetings at 4 p.m. on the Tuesdays between Senate meetings.

Members attending the meeting were: Soukup, Miss Micich, Hanson, and Joan Gulbrantson, A3, Rockford, Ill., a substitute for Dave Mason, A4, Lime Springs.

Xmas Theme Of Exhibition At Library

Interpretations of Christmas and its traditions by a theologian, psychologist, historian, author and poet are among the 14 "Christmas Essays" composing the University Library's annual Christmas exhibition.

The exhibition opened Monday and will run through Dec. 30.

"Christmas and Other Old National Merry-Makings Considered," by Leigh Hunt, English author and poet, is among the essays "Christmas Presents" by Frank Swinnerton and "Christmas" by Washington Irving, which appears in Irving's "The Sketch Book," are also included.

"A Christmas Service in Retrospect" by Reinhold Niebuhr offers a theologian's viewpoint. "The Psychology of the Festival of Christmas" is by Ludwig Jekels, M.D.

Also included is "Elizabethan Christmas," by A. L. Rowse, English historian noted for his study of Marlowe and Shakespeare.

Rights Groups Net Gifts For Mississippi Workers

Half a truck-load of canned and dried food, used clothing, and toys have been left in deposit boxes in Iowa City as Christmas gifts for civil rights workers in Holly Springs, Miss.

"Again this year a collection is being made at the specific request of Negro leaders in Holly Springs," John Huntley, associate professor of English and Mississippi Support Program (MSP) coordinator, said Monday. MSP and the University Friends of Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) are sponsoring the drive.

"The money and material collected will go to residents who have been active in voter registration, citizenship schools, community organization, and county agricultural elections," said Huntley.

Deposit boxes for the drive are at city elementary schools, supermarkets, churches, the Civic Center and the Recreation Center. Late contributions may be taken to the basement, of the Christian Church, 217 Iowa Ave., Wednesday through Friday.

People with any special transportation problems have been asked to call Larry Wright, 351-1101 for help.

A door-to-door campaign for additional small gifts has been scheduled for the weekend. Students from the three city high schools will join other volunteers in that part of the drive. People wishing to help solicit contributions for the weekend phase have been asked to call Mrs. June Braverman, 338-4139.

Colt's Cuozzo To Undergo Surgery For Bad Shoulder

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gary Cuozzo, injured No. 2 quarterback of the Baltimore Colts, will undergo surgery Tuesday morning, the National Football League club announced Monday.

Cuozzo, filling in for the injured John Unitas, suffered a slight separation of his left shoulder Sunday as the Colts dropped a 42-27 decision to the Green Bay Packers and lost their Western Conference lead.

Colt officials said they have not yet decided whether to place Cuozzo on the injured reserve list. If he is, Cuozzo would not be eligible for the NFL title game Jan. 2 should the Colts overcome Green Bay's one-half game lead in this final week of the regular season.

Halfback Tom Matte, a former quarterback at Ohio State, will replace Cuozzo as the Baltimore signal caller.

New Coach Ray Nagel Holds Meeting With FB Players

By JOHN CLOYED
Sports Editor

Iowa's new football coach, Ray Nagel, held a squad meeting Monday night at the Field House.

"We just talked about some academic problems some of the boys have, and some general administrative problems," Nagel said after the meeting.

"It was also an opportunity for the squad to meet me and for me to meet the squad."

Nagel said the names of his assistant coaches would be announced very shortly. He said that none of the Iowa coaching staff would be rehired.

He said that Ted Lawrence, state champion Cedar Rapids Jefferson coach, had been offered a job on the coaching staff, but that it depended on Lawrence's commitments.

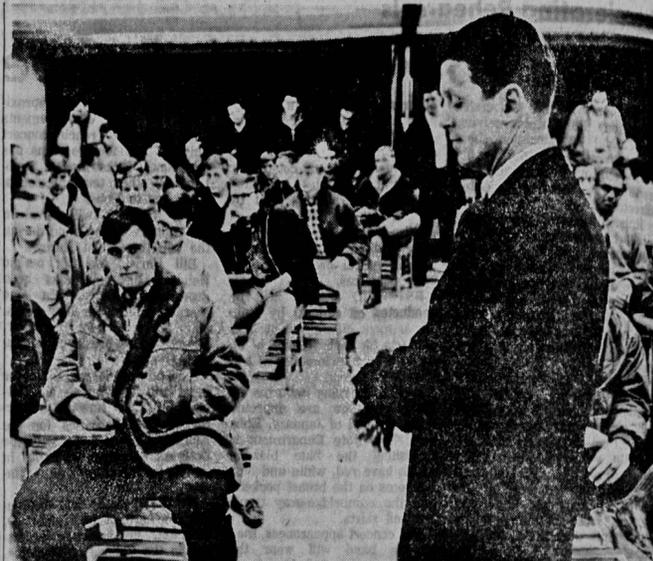

Nagel also said he has already been doing some recruiting. "We've gotten a pretty good start," he said.

Nagel was to have flown home to Salt Lake City after the meeting. He will be an assistant coach for the West in the East-West Shrine game in San Francisco and return to Iowa after the first of the year.

There may be another squad meeting scheduled when he gets back to further discuss academic matters with the team.

Nagel was named head coach at a press conference Saturday, but his contract terms and salary will not be announced until his appointment is approved by the Board of Regents at their next meeting.

Nagel was born in Los Angeles and played varsity football for four years for UCLA.

Bear's Sayers Sure Bet For NFL Rookie Honors

CHICAGO (AP) — Gale Sayers, the Chicago Bears' sensational halfback, isn't one to lay low when presented with a challenge, especially if it involves Rookie of the Year honors.

That Sayers will be the National Football League's rookie of 1965 was put beyond reasonable doubt after the Kansas Comet streaked for six touchdowns in a record-smashing performance Sunday which gave the Bears a 61-20 victory over San Francisco.

Sayers' six touchdowns tied the NFL single-game mark, gave him a record of 21 touchdowns for the season — bettering the mark of 20 shared by Lennie Moore of Baltimore and Jimmy

Brown of Cleveland — and his 336 yards gained on rushing, pass receiving and punt returns set another record.

Two weeks ago Sayers had not convinced everyone he should be the Rookie of the Year.

When the Bears invaded New York to meet the Giants, the game was billed as a battle to decide the rookie honors between Sayers and New York's Tucker Fredrickson.

Sayers scored two touchdowns in leading the Bears to a 35-14 triumph. He gained 113 yards in 13 rushes and picked up 24 more in passes caught. Fredrickson was held to 37 yards in 12 rushes.

Hawk Tankers Whip K-State Team, 71-34

Iowa's swimmers won eight of eleven events in the Field House pool Saturday to post a 71-34 win over Kansas State in the opening meet of the season. A pool record was broken by Kansas State's Tom Hanlon in the 100-yard freestyle, as his 50.5 seconds clipped the old record set by Olympic champion Wally Ris of Iowa in 1948.

Individual winners for the Hawks were Ray Kearney in the 200-yard freestyle, John Scheda in the 50-yard freestyle, Allen Schneck in the diving, Paul Monohon in the 200-yard butterfly, Skip Jensen in the 200-yard backstroke, Mike Peterson in the 500-yard freestyle and Ron Berry in the 200-yard breaststroke.

The relay team of Tom Throckmorton, Bob Synhorst, Paul Monohon and Ralph Bextine took first in the 440-yard relay.

Late Rally Lets Hawkeyes Overcome Bulldogs, 66-60

By PAUL DYSART
Staff Writer

Iowa's Hawkeyes, behind for the first time this year, staged a terrific comeback in the last nine minutes in Des Moines Saturday night and toppled Drake University, 66-60.

Down 50-38 with a little more than nine minutes remaining in the game, the Hawks exhibited an explosive flurry and outscored the home team 19-2 to give themselves a 57-52 lead and virtually assure themselves of the victory.

George Peeples and Gerry Jones led the onslaught and finished high for the night. Peeples scored 27 points on nine field goals and nine free throws, while Jones scored 17 points on five field goals and seven free throws.

Fouls hurt Drake throughout the game and eventually sent three Bulldogs to the bench before the game was complete.

Drake's 6-8 center Bob Netolicky and his replacement, 6-5 Walt Gaskins both fouled out of the game trying to stop Peeples.

Both teams appeared overly tense at the outset, and the game was almost five minutes old before Peeples hit the Hawk's initial field goal. Errors were in abundance, with both teams guilty, but the Hawks managed to stay out in front by about three points throughout most of the first half. Iowa held a 27-26 edge at intermission on reserve Tom Chapman's two charity tosses with a second remaining.

Then Drake got hot. With Netolicky sitting on the bench, junior college transfers Gaskins and Harold Jeter began ripping the nets with regularity before the Hawkeye fans realized they'd been hit.

By the time the Hawks had realized what had happened they found themselves down by 12 points. They then pulled themselves back together, however, and came back strong for the win.

Chris Pervall, Iowa's leading scorer so far this year, couldn't find the range against the Bulldogs, and, although he finished with 12 points, played what Coach Miller considered his "poorest game of the season." Tempers flared, especially during Iowa's comeback surge in the second half, and a fistic endeavor nearly resulted following a collision between the Hawk's Gary Olsen and Drake's Harold Jeter.

Miller Proud Of Late Hawk Comeback

By PAUL DYSART
Staff Writer

Iowa coach Ralph Miller was pleased with his team's comeback effort Saturday night after watching his Hawks battle back from a 12 point deficit to overcome Drake 66-60.

"Our defense gave us the ball when we were in trouble," Miller said, "and this is what won it for us."

The Hawks took the ball on turnovers 5 or 6 times straight during their drive, and this, Miller contended, was due to the Hawk's pressure brand of ball.

"We didn't get the ball into Peeples enough," Miller complained although the big center collected 27 points. Since no one seemed to be able to stop the 6-7 senior, the coach felt that he could have been fed even more effectively.

"We just couldn't handle the ball during the first half," Miller continued. "And we weren't getting the shots. I believe Drake got off 34 shots to our 23."

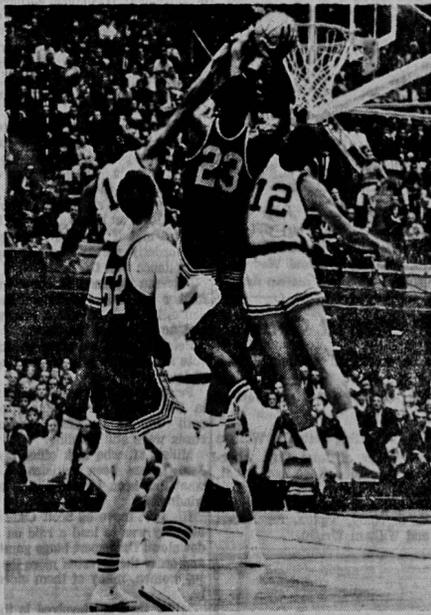

"We were fortunate that both of their post men fouled out," he emphasized, as he lauded Drake's Harold Aldridge for his strong rebounding.

The Hawkeyes had high praise for Drake.

"They've got a fine team," said Gerry Jones. "They were tremendously inspired, and I realize that we were lucky to win."

Jones stated that Iowa's early showing was a "combination of violations and our own errors."

"We weren't really jittery at first," Chris Pervall explained. "We just couldn't get our game going."

FLANKED ON EITHER SIDE by Drake players, Gerry Jones (23) tosses in two of his 17 total points in Saturday's game against Drake University. The Hawkeyes extended their winning streak to five games by defeating the Bulldogs, 66-60.

Hawks To Be 16-1 or 15-2 By February?

By STEU BETTERTON
Staff Writer

Sports Illustrated gave Iowa basketball a boost recently, with a spot in its top 20 teams for the country.

The magazine's confidence might be considered the kiss of death but after four games it would appear that someone other than Anson Mount, Playboy's football specialist, made the prediction.

However, you can figure that Miller will not forget that in December the foundation was laid for any future success that might be waiting around the corner.

He will remember that a favorable schedule meant finding good, tough opponents who approached the game with a variety of philosophies.

If Iowa continues with its present success, and makes the good showing in the Big 10 now being openly claimed by win-hungry fans, the thought of a favorable schedule will be forgotten by most. Victories will be attributed to greatness.

In tabbing the Hawkeyes as number 14 among all major colleges, Sports Illustrated mentioned the possibility of a schedule favoring Iowa, and aiding a possible 15-2, or 16-1, record through the middle of February.

The significance of this date is that Iowa plays Minnesota and Michigan after that time. These two teams figure to play the leading role with the Hawks in this year's Big Ten race.

It will be Feb. 15 before coach Miller's team meets the Gophers, and six days later Iowa will renew the battle with Cazzie Russell and Michigan.

What is the implication of the favorable schedule change? For Iowa it means that in the conference race the Hawkeyes will play seven games before they meet what figures to be the first major challenge.

Of course Miller will make sure his Hawks play the first six games one at a time. If the favorable schedule theory is correct, Iowa will be able to gain considerable momentum and confidence before meeting a major task, in this case the game with Minnesota.

Favorable scheduling includes more than conference games. What is considered a favorable schedule to really season, pre-conference games?

The league games are arranged by a power beyond the reach of the coach, but early season games are arranged as the coach sees fit.

In Miller's case, early season contests are arranged with his usual amount of clear logic.

His idea is to schedule the best and most varied types of teams he can find. Some are played at home, and some on the road, but first and foremost, he says, you make sure you encounter teams with varied styles of play.

After the Pepperdine game some would have claimed a favorable schedule means loading up with "pigeons."

This is not the case, and the Pepperdine game was just one of those things.

In meeting Evansville, Southern Illinois, and Creighton, the Hawkeyes reached the desired blend of talented teams and varied styles.

Evansville provided a go-go team, Southern Illinois provided an excellent example of ball control and tight defense, and Creighton provided experience against a team with good size. All three were excellent opponents.

Everyone is happy the Hawks won these games, including Ralph Miller. But Miller is even happier his team was able to adjust to different styles of play with success.

Even in victory the Iowa coach found many faults, and this is fine, because there is no room for complacency. But no one, including a coach, can really knock a winner.

Miller's team will make sure his Hawks play the first six games one at a time. If the favorable schedule theory is correct, Iowa will be able to gain considerable momentum and confidence before meeting a major task, in this case the game with Minnesota.

Back in the year 1444 only men wore Diamonds

But Agnes Sorel changed all that, happily. To catch the King's eye, she dared to wear a diamond necklace at the Court of Charles VII of France. The diamonds did it. And ever since, women have cherished them as the emblem of enduring love.

THE BLUEBIRD OF HAPPINESS HAS FLOWN THE COOP

Can education bring happiness? This is a question that in recent years has caused much lively debate and several hundred stabbings among American college professors. Some contend that if a student's intellect is sufficiently aroused, happiness will automatically follow. Others say that to concentrate on the intellect and ignore the rest of the personality can only lead to misery.

I myself favor the second view, and I offer in evidence the well-known case of Knut Fusco.

Knut, a forestry major, never got anything less than a straight "A." He was awarded his B.T. (Bachelor of Trees) in only two years, his M.S.B. (Master of Sap and Bark) in only three, and his D.B.C. (Doctor of Blight and Cutworms) in only four.

Academic glory was his. His intellect was the envy of every intellect fan on campus. But was he happy? The answer, alas, was no. Knut—he knew not why—was miserable; so miserable, in fact, that one day while walking across campus, he was suddenly so overcome with melancholy that he flung himself, weeping, upon the statue of the Founder.

By and by, a liberal arts coed named Nikki Stafos came by with her Barby doll. She noted Knut's condition. "How come you're so unhappy, hey?" said Nikki.

"Suppose you tell me, you dumb old liberal arts major," replied Knut peevishly.

"All right, I will," said Nikki. "You are unhappy for two reasons. First, because you have been so busy stuffing your intellect that you have gone and starved your psyche. I've got nothing against learning, mind you, but a person oughtn't to neglect the pleasant, gentle amenities of life—the fun things. Have you, for instance, ever been to a dance?"

Knut shook his head.

"Have you ever watched a sunset? Written a poem? Shaved with a Personna Stainless Steel Blade?"

Knut shook his head.

"Well, we'll fix that right now," said Nikki, and gave him a razor, a Personna Stainless Steel Blade, and a can of Burma Shave.

Knut lathered with the Burma Shave and shaved with the Personna and for the first time in many long years he smiled. He smiled, and then he laughed—peal after peal of reverberating joy. "Wow-dow!" he cried. "What a shave! Does Personna come in injector style, too?"

"It does," said Nikki.

"Glorious!" cried Knut. "And does Burma Shave come in menthol, too?"

"It does," said Nikki.

"Huzzah!" cried Knut. "Now that I have found Personna and Burma Shave I will never have another unhappy day."

"Hold!" said Nikki. "Personna and Burma Shave alone will not solve your problem—only half of it. Remember I said there were two things making you unhappy?"

"Oh, yeah," said Knut. "What's the other one?"

"How long have you had that bear trap on your foot?" said Nikki.

"I stepped on it during a field trip in my freshman year," said Knut. "I keep meaning to have it taken off."

"Allow me," said Nikki and removed it.

"Land's sakes, what a relief!" said Knut, now totally happy, and took Nikki's hand and led her to a Personna vendor and then to a justice of the peace.

Today Knut is a perfectly fulfilled man, both intellectually and personalitywise. He lives in a charming split-level house with Nikki and their 17 children and he rises steadily in the forestry game. Only last month, in fact, he became Consultant on Sawdust to the American Butchers Guild, he was named an Honorary Sequoia by the park commissioner of Las Vegas, and he published a best-selling book called I Was a Slippery Elm for the FBI.

Annual Christmas Concert To Feature Faculty Voices

The 1965 Christmas Concert by the University Choir, the Oratio Chorus, and the University Symphony Orchestra will be presented at 8 p.m. today and Wednesday in the Union Main Lounge.

Daniel Moe, associate professor of music, will conduct the choir and the chorus. The orchestra, led by James A. Dixon, associate professor of music, will provide accompaniment.

SCHUBERT'S "Mass in A-Flat," called the most demanding of his masses, will feature soloists Dorothea Brown, instructor in music, soprano; Marilyn Mahle, Mt. Pleasant, alto; Robert Eckert, assistant professor of music, tenor; and Albert Gammon, assistant professor of music, baritone.

Schubert began composing the work in November, 1819, and after two versions, completed it in 1822. He called the mass his "Missa Solemnis."

The opening number on the program is Handel's "Zadok the Priest." The selection is one of four anthems that Handel was commissioned to write for the Coronation of King George II of England in 1727.

THE ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY, upon hearing of the decision to commission Handel, suggested that he would select the texts to be set. Handel is said to have replied: "I have read my Bible very well, and shall choose for myself."

Handel had at his disposal the finest musicians of the realm. For the Coronation he selected 50 singers.

The anthem has been used during the anointing with consecrated oil at every Coronation Service from George II (1727) to Elizabeth II (1953), nine times in succession.

MISS BROWN will be the soprano soloist in Paul Hindemith's "Canticle of Hope." Hindemith composed the work for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) in 1953.

There is no charge for the concert. Tickets are available at the School of Music and at the Union new information desk. The concert will be broadcast live by radio stations WSUI and KSUI.

TONIGHT'S CHRISTMAS CONCERT will feature four University faculty members. Soloists (from left standing) will be Albert Gammon, Dorothea Brown and Robert Eckert. Daniel Moe (seated) will conduct. Tickets for tonight's and Wednesday's performance are available at the Union information desk.

Scott County Regents Okay Official Quits Over 'Policy'

DAVENPORT (AP)—Norman R. Peterson resigned Monday as assistant Scott County attorney over a policy difference with David P. Miller, the controversial county attorney. The resignation is effective Jan. 1.

Miller startled city officials by quarterbacking an investigation of Davenport trash and garbage collections that last week led to misdemeanor indictments against 10 persons, including the mayor, and alderman and the city public works director.

In announcing his resignation, Peterson said: "Certain policies of this office and the method employed to enforce these policies are such that I can not in good conscience participate in them."

"This lies in an honest difference of opinion between Mr. Miller and myself as to the proper and orderly means of obtaining compliance with the law."

Peterson declined to comment further on his resignation because, he said, he was a lawyer and an officer of the court.

Peterson said he plans to devote full time to private practice of law.

Peterson said he would remain in the county attorney's office until Jan. 1 because several cases were still pending.

Miller, 31, who took office last Jan. 1, has been criticized for what has been termed tilting at windmills.

His first move as Scott County attorney was to lead a raid on a downtown Davenport bingo game, and order the arrest of more than 100 women, many of them elderly.

Miller then got involved in the so-called tissue issue, ordering city police to seize all stocks of a certain facial tissue because he contended the box contained a company offer which amounted to a lottery. Police refused.

CUBAN REFUGEES DOUBLE—MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Cuban refugee arrivals doubled Monday as twice daily sky-lift flights were inaugurated after single trips since Dec. 1.

U. S. officials said the program now calls for two flights daily on week days at least until Christmas.

To date, 867 refugees arrived by air ferry.

Fourteen faculty officers will be gained out of space formerly occupied by the machine shop in the Physics Building under a $50,000 project approved Friday by the State Board of Regents.

The shop area was vacated recently when the machinery was moved to the new Physics Research Center.

A second new project approved by the Regents involves laying a 12-inch water line from the Hawkeye Apartments heating plant to the University-system water main, north of Iowa stadium. The project, for which a $150,000 preliminary budget was approved, will provide an adequate supply for existing apartments and for proposed additions.

Water is now supplied by two wells, which University officials said are not adequate to meet greater demands for water in the married student housing area. Funds for the project will come from the self-supporting student housing system.

Grant Given To Student

Charlotte Hansen, Storm Lake coed at the University, received a National Institute of Health (NIH) fellowship Dec. 1 covering a twelve-month period. She began graduate work in microbiology this fall.

The fellowship program, sponsored by the U.S. Public Health Service, annually awards approximately 2,000 predoctoral fellowships to students throughout the country for research training in health and related areas.

Miss Hansen was selected for the stipend by a panel of consultants from the academic community on the basis of her academic record, letters of reference from professors and her interest in research. Final approval for the grant was given by the Public Health Service.

She has received $2,600 plus an allowance covering tuition and fees at the University through Nov. 30, 1966. At that time, she may renew her fellowship if her sponsoring professor, Robert L. Richardson, recommends its continuation.

The purpose of the NIH program is to raise the level of competence and to increase the number of qualified research investigators, teachers, and administrators in the biological, physical and behavioral sciences.

In addition to microbiology, the 22 NIH fellows at the University this year are studying in the fields of sociology, psychology, civil engineering, zoology, child behavior, biochemistry, chemistry and botany.

Regents Okay Proposals

Regents of the University of Iowa have approved a $150,000 project approved Friday by the State Board of Regents. The project is a new physics building in the Regentia shop area was vacated when the machinery was moved to the new Physics Center. The new project approved involves laying a water line from the Hawk-Hawkins building to a new building to be constructed on the north of Iowa stadium. The project budget was approved for existing apartments and proposed additions. The project is now supplied by two University officials. The project is not adequate to meet the demands for water in the student housing area. The project will come from the self-supporting student system.

Grant Given Student

Charlotte Hansen, Storm Lake, received a $1,000 grant from the National Institute of Health. She is a graduate student in microbiology at the University of Iowa. She has been working in microbiology for the past two years.

'Rhodesian Break Forced'

By RON FROELICH
Staff Writer

The British government forced Prime Minister Ian Smith and his supporters to declare Rhodesia independent of Great Britain, John E. Rogers, research engineer of physics said Friday.

Rogers, an English citizen, came to the University in early July. From 1950 until June, 1965, he was involved in scientific research and was in charge of a satellite tracking station in Rhodesia. He had also been stationed in Rhodesia during World War II as an officer in the British Royal Air Force.

ROGERS

Rogers said Friday that the British government had forced Smith's action because it failed its commitments to Rhodesia.

SMITH'S TAKE-over in Rhodesia was not a defiant act against the Queen, Rogers said. He called it an act of rebellion against Prime Minister Harold Wilson's administration for failing to fulfill its responsibilities.

One of the first indications of British lack of understanding of Rhodesia, Rogers said, was when Britain extended independence to Nyasaland and Zambia, former parts of the Rhodesian federation, but did not offer independence to Southern Rhodesia.

"ACTUALLY the government did not offer or refuse Rhodesian demands for independence; it just gave no answer," Rogers said. In Rogers' opinion, Britain's action occurred because several African nations recently granted independence, had become single party dictatorships.

Rogers said that although he did not wholly support Smith's action, he did think the action was justified.

He said that the political and social question in Rhodesia is not just a line between 217,000 whites and some four million blacks, he said that much of the problem was directly related to a small minority of black national extremists agitating for control.

THE WHITES in Rhodesia cannot be expected to accept a Rhodesian government controlled by a people who are mostly illiterate and lacking in most forms of administrative competence, Rogers said.

"This is unfortunate," he said, "but history has never been changed in a day."

The four million Negroes in Rhodesia are a part of an "emergent race," Rogers said. He called it political realism that the democratic form of government is not suited to all countries.

Recent experience in democratic forms of government in Kenya and the Belgian Congo exemplify the African's inability to govern himself, Rogers said.

Africans must first be educated and made aware of the responsibilities of self-government, he said, and Rhodesia is attempting to do this. BECAUSE OF LONG primitive cultural practices, a language that is limited to 600 words and tremendous lack of techniques for communication, Rogers said, the education of these persons is a slow and tedious task.

Rogers objected to criticism of Rhodesia's internal structure by persons lacking first-hand knowledge of Rhodesian problems. He said the complex make-up of Rhodesia required extensive knowledge before any judgement could be expressed.

GOP Leaders Urge Refusal Of Extremist Memberships

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican leaders formally called on party members Monday to reject membership "in any radical or extremist organization."

Without debate and without naming the John Birch Society, the Republican Coordinating Committee unanimously adopted a compromise resolution condemning any organization which tries to "use the Republican party for its own end or seeks to undermine the basic principles of American freedom and constitutional government."

SEN. EVERETT M. DIRKSON of Illinois and Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the Senate and House GOP minority leaders, offered the resolution.

It had been accepted at a secret Sunday night meeting of four Republican governors, with party Chairman Ray C. Bliss at the Washington residence of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Rockefeller was not present.

Gov. Robert E. Smylie of Idaho, chairman of the GOP Governors' Association, seconded the resolution.

But Smylie made it plain that if he had had his way, the Birch Society, the Ku Klux Klan and the Communist party would have been mentioned specifically.

"I would have preferred the resolution to be stronger," Smylie said, "but I am encouraged that we've got this far and achieved unanimity."

DIRKSON AND FORD told a news conference that the committee-approved resolution endorses by implication a statement in which Bliss said Robert Welch, founder of the Birch Society, is an "irresponsible radical" who accused former President Dwight

D. Eisenhower of being "a dedicated, conscious agent of the Communist conspiracy."

Former Sen. Barry Goldwater, the 1964 GOP presidential nominee who has urged Republicans to leave the Birch Society, was not consulted about the committee statement. He is in Phoenix, Ariz., where his wife is ill.

ALTHOUGH DIRKSON and Ford insisted that the resolution was deliberately designed to cover all organizations, a Republican fundraiser, who is not a member of the coordinating group, was obviously pleased that the Birch Society was not singled out. He said any such action might have cut off campaign contributions Republicans still get from society members.

Females Dominate Census

Cheer up, fellas. Things aren't as bad as they may seem. The latest census in Iowa City shows that there are 340 more females than males among Iowa City's 41,206 persons.

The census was taken by the Bureau of Census in September. Final figures received Monday showed that Iowa City's average age is 22.5 years. The national median age is about 29.

The University is the big factor in Iowa City's low median age, since 14,019 students, the largest population group 14,019 are between 18 and 24 years old.

The age groups were: 0-5, 3,886; 5-9, 3,130; 10-14, 2,507; 15-19, 7,058; 20-24, 8,584; 25-29, 3,383; 30-34, 2,185; 35-39, 1,669; 40-44, 1,586; 45-49, 1,341; 50-54, 1,234; 55-59, 1,241;

60-64, 1,123; 65-69, 865; 70-74, 706; 75-79, 530; 80-84, 315; 85 and over, 247.

The census listed 40,945 whites, 272 Negroes and 385 persons of other races living in Iowa City.

The census was taken at the request of Iowa City and cost $2,770. Higher population figures mean the city will receive a larger share of state liquor profits and road use tax funds.

Iowa City's population in 1960 was 33,443.

Indian Troops Fight Chinese In Border Area

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Communist Chinese and Indian troops in the snowy Himalayan mountains have made contact three times in two days and engaged in one brief but heavy fight.

This was revealed in separate announcements made in New Delhi and Peking Monday over increased activity along the border or northern India and Communist-controlled Tibet.

The Indian government said 250 to 300 Chinese troops intruded Sunday into Sikkim and clashed with an Indian patrol. Sikkim is a former British protectorate of 2,700 square miles that came under Indian protection in 1950.

The Indian announcement said, "Sizable casualties were suffered by the Chinese. There were also casualties on our side."

The Chinese version broadcast by the New China News Agency is that five Indians were killed and three captured when an Indian patrol intruded into Tibet. One Chinese soldier was killed, the Peking broadcast said.

The Indians said the Chinese provoked trouble twice in Sikkim two days before.

Regents Approve Changes

At its meeting in Des Moines Friday, the State Board of Regents approved course changes to appear in the 1966 catalogue.

Four new subject areas will be included for the College of Liberal Arts. Two new departments, Computer Science and Statistics, will be listed with the 39 new courses to be offered in those departments.

Five new courses in urban and regional planning will be listed in a field new to the University's curriculum. Also new are four courses in Portuguese.

DEAN DEWEY B. STUIT of the College of Liberal Arts, said five major factors influence the trend of instruction in the university.

First among these, Dean Stuit said, is the "state of knowledge." The new knowledge that man gains must be reflected in what is taught. Another important factor, the dean said, is the trend toward better preparation of students in high school with the result that some basic courses can be eliminated at the college level. At the same time a greater variety and depth of courses can be offered at the advanced level, he said.

New faculty members, especially at advanced levels of instruction, also gives rise to modification. Dean Stuit pointed out that at the advanced levels the special knowledge of individual faculty members is usually directly reflected in the course offerings.

The scope of the University's teaching and research program is yet another factor, Dean Stuit said.

Lastly, changes in instructional methods also bring about course modifications.

Dean Stuit said a continuous review of courses is carried on by the faculties of each department. Over the years the system has given the College of Liberal Arts a record of discouraging course "splintering" and duplication of work.

MOST OF THE SAME FACTORS that influence change in courses within the College of Liberal Arts also operate in the other nine colleges of the University.

Examples of new catalogue listings include Egyptian and Mesopotamian art, British Literature since 1945, general linguistics, critical writing, theory of automation, community politics, broadcasting research, third-year Japanese, urban design, Russian phonetics, elementary theory of numbers, modern dance, and administration of natural resources.

12 Coeds Get Traineeships Of $1,600

Twelve senior coeds majoring in education have each received $1,600 traineeships in special education for the current school year from the U.S. Office of Education.

The traineeships were awarded on the basis of scholastic merit and interest in teaching mentally and physically handicapped children. The stipend also covers tuition fees for the year.

This semester the special education majors are receiving elementary teaching experience in normal classroom situations. Next semester the students will teach either severely crippled or mentally retarded children at the University's Hospital School.

The students will be qualified to teach both elementary and special education when they graduate in June.

About 50 students are now enrolled in the special education program, said Lloyd L. Smith, professor of education and adviser for students in the program. The program began three years ago here.

Traineeship recipients, all A4, are: Marigall Wagoner, Cedar Falls; Elaine Asarch, Anne Peacock and Diana Olson, Des Moines; Judith Van Vlack, Manchester; Susan Seymour, Mason City; Nancy Matthias, Newton; Judith Levin, Sioux City; Linda Gerard, Waterloo; Kathleen Stockmar, Lincolnwood, Ill.; Patricia Miller, East Rockaway, N.Y.; and Sue Montgomery Walcken, Vermillion, S.D.

CORA SHARES A quiet moment with her son during the Studio Theatre presentation of "Dark at the Top of the Stairs" this week. Cora is played by Joan Helg, G. West Burlington, and Sonny is played by Phil Houghes. The production ends Thursday.

6 Drivers Charged By Police After Weekend Crashes

Charges have been filed against six drivers who were involved in accidents during the weekend. Ronald L. McCall, A1, Iowa City, was charged by police Sunday with improper changing of lanes after his car collided with a car driven by Stamatios W. Krimigis, a physics research associate.

The two cars collided about noon Sunday at the intersection of South Clinton and Wright Streets.

PHYLLIS J. DOANE, manager of the Union State Room was charged by police with failure to have her vehicle under control after her car struck a car driven by Donald D. Schmeiser, A3, Wapello, about 2 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of Melrose Court and Melrose Avenue.

She suffered head cuts. Her daughter, Karen, 5, suffered cuts on her upper lip. Both were treated and released from University Hospitals.

A CHARGE OF making an improper left turn was filed by police against 18-year-old Steven W. Trot, A1, Winthrop, on Sunday after his car was struck by a vehicle driven by Millard H. Smith, 49, of Veterans Administration Hospital.

Police said the accident occurred about 7 p.m. Sunday when Trot attempted to turn left from Riverside Drive to Grand Avenue and was struck by Smith's car, which was traveling south on Riverside Drive.

TWO DRIVERS were charged with operating motor vehicles while intoxicated (OMVI) after accidents Saturday.

Junior R. Murphy, 420 Fifth St., Coralville, was charged by police with OMVI and failure to have his car under control about 1 a.m. Saturday after his car veered off the Highway 6 West-lawn curve and struck a telephone pole.

Murphy, 37, was treated for head cuts at University Hospitals and released. He posted $500 bond and was released.

ARTHUR L. CURRY, 43, of West Branch was freed on $1,000 bond Saturday after police charged him with OMVI in connection with an accident about 8:45 p.m. Saturday at the Kirkwood Mobil Service Station, 315 Kirkwood Ave.

Police said Curry struck a parked car belonging to Donald Tesdall, M4, Huxley.

Charges of failure to yield at a stop intersection were filed by police against Joyce E. Yates 37, of Wilton Junction, Saturday when her car collided at about 12:30 p.m. with one driven by Gary K. Winter, A2, Des Moines at the intersection of Clinton Street and Market Street.

Miss Yates and a passenger were treated at Mercy Hospital for minor cuts and bruises and released.

STATE SENATOR FINED— STORM LAKE (R)—State Sen. Donald Beneke (R-Laurens) was fined $300 Monday for operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

District Court Judge Richard W. Cooper also directed Beneke to pay court costs amounting to $204.63.

Beneke's driver's license, suspended for 120 days when he refused to submit to a sobriety test, was revoked for 60 days to run concurrently with the first suspension.

Regents Ask School Report On Combining

DES MOINES (AP)— The State Board of Regents asked its five institutions Friday for recommendations on whether the Iowa Braille and Sight Savings School, Vinton, and the Iowa School for the Deaf, Council Bluffs, should be combined with the three larger schools.

The institutions are to report to the board next month.

The board of Regents supervises three major institutions—the University of Iowa, Iowa State University and State College of Iowa (SCI), and two smaller ones—the Iowa Braille and Sight Saving School, Vinton, and the Iowa School for the Deaf, Council Bluffs.

Another institution, the Oakdale State Sanatorium, was made a part of the University of Iowa earlier this year.

Regent Melvin Wolf of Waterloo suggested a study of possible further combinations. He said the Regents should be ready with a proposal to go with a state governmental reorganization study now under way.

Regent William Quarton of Cedar Rapids said both the smaller institutions are doing a good job, but this should not rule out a study to see whether they can do better.

At the board's November meeting, SCI Pres. J. W. Mauker suggested that the Braille and Sight Saving School might some day be combined with SCI. He said they deal with similar problems and already work closely together.

Student To Play Oboe Thursday

Wilma Zonn, Nanticoke, Pa., graduate student in The University of Iowa School of Music, will present an oboe recital Thursday at 8 p.m. in North Music Hall.

Accompanying her on the piano will be Norma Cross, associate professor of music. Robert Eckert, assistant professor of music and a tenor, will assist.

Ronald Tyree, assistant professor of music, will assist on the bassoon.

The first part of the program will consist of "Sarabande et Allegro" by Gabriel Grovlez, "Six Metamorphoses After Ovid, Op. 49" by Benjamin Britten and "Gott is mein Freund" by J. S. Bach.

"Contrasts for Oboe and Piano" by Eldon Obrecht, an associate professor of music at the U of I, and "Trio" by Francis Poulenc will make up the rest of the program.

Mrs. Zonn is presenting the program in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the master of arts degree in music.

Muscatine Thanks Students Who Aided in Flood Disaster

The University of Iowa has received an award of appreciation from the city of Muscatine for the assistance given by 600 students during the disastrous Mississippi River flood last April.

Signed by Mayor Robert Bosch of Muscatine, the certificate states that the award has been presented "for your outstanding contribution to the emergency efforts during the high water of 1965. Though your efforts Muscatine was the driest city along the Mississippi River."

The students helped fill sandbags and build dikes during the week of the flood threat from the Mississippi. The University administration received a letter of appreciation the week following the emergency from Glen Bloom, chairman of the Muscatine Flood Manpower Committee. Bloom enclosed a list of the names of students who had signed the flood workers' register.

Traineeship recipients, all A4, are: Marigall Wagoner, Cedar Falls; Elaine Asarch, Anne Peacock and Diana Olson, Des Moines; Judith Van Vlack, Manchester; Susan Seymour, Mason City; Nancy Matthias, Newton; Judith Levin, Sioux City; Linda Gerard, Waterloo; Kathleen Stockmar, Lincolnwood, Ill.; Patricia Miller, East Rockaway, N.Y.; and Sue Montgomery Walcken, Vermillion, S.D.

FOOTLOOSE AND FANCY-FREE?

Or just at loose ends? There's a big difference, you know.

Like the difference between the guy with a pie-in-the-sky scheme to get rich quick, and the man with a plan for financial security.

Or the difference between a savings plan that's hale and hearty as long as you are, and a life insurance program that keeps going strong even when you can't.

Life insurance is one investment you can make today that's guaranteed to take the strife out of life years from now. That might be worth more, from the very beginning, than you put into it. That could be worth as much, at any time, as you planned to put into it in a lifetime. And the sooner you start, the less it costs.

Got some loose ends that need pulling together? We're specialists at it... especially for young people.
