Military Programs Except War Effort Face Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon ordered a halt in spending not essential to the Viet Nam war effort Monday and there were reports of a Budget Bureau brake on the domestic anti-poverty program.

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara announced an indefinite postponement of $620-million worth of barracks, service family housing and other military construction.

MCNAMARA TOLD a news conference the Defense Department is "eliminating everything that can possibly be eliminated or deferred without eating into the muscle" of U.S. military power.

$620 MILLION in military construction considered "non-essential to the Viet Nam war effort" was ordered postponed indefinitely by Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara at a news conference Monday.

The $620 million in military construction being deferred represents nearly half the $1,306,000,000 program authorized in this year's budget for the purpose.

THE FUNDS involved were appropriated by Congress for this year's budget but McNamara said his action on military construction is "symptomatic to our approach" to next year's defense budget.

What he was saying in effect was that everything possible would be eliminated from the budget in view of the rapidly spiraling costs of the war.

THERE HAS BEEN speculation that the new defense budget may rise as much as $10 billion over this year's $49 billion defense money request.

The Washington Evening Star reported the Budget Bureau has turned down an Office of Economic Opportunity request that the budget for the anti-poverty program be doubled to $3 billion next year.

Instead, the Star said, the Budget Bureau will recommend to President Johnson that he ask Congress for an appropriation close to this year's $1.6 billion.

British, Pope Paul Renew Truce Pleas

LONDON (AP) — Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart called Monday night for a Christmas truce in Viet Nam that might open the way to a settlement of the war.

Stewart put forward the idea as one of two possible methods of halting the conflict in Viet Nam.

The British diplomat's other suggestion: "Let both sides stop hostilities simultaneously. Let there be a conference. Let's get from that conference North and South Viet Nam, neutral and undisturbed, able to carry out the Geneva peace accords and determine their own future."

OPENING a two-day foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons, Stewart said: "If it is possible to arrange a Christmas truce, that might be extended and so a de facto effective door would be open to a settlement."

Pope Paul VI made a similar appeal Sunday.

This idea was based on a recent proposal put forward by the Viet Cong. They had suggested a 12-hour truce beginning at dusk, Christmas Eve, but they also insisted that Allied troops set weapons aside during the period.

PRESIDENT Johnson welcomed Monday the new plea for peace by Pope Paul but left in the hands of military commanders in Viet Nam any response to the Christmas cease-fire proposal endorsed by the pontiff.

The President's view of the Pope's appeal was given to newsmen by press secretary Bill D. Moyers, who said: "The President welcomes this new expression by the Pope of the need for peace in the world and specifically in Southeast Asia."

As for the Viet Cong offer of a 12-hour cease-fire in Viet Nam for Christians to observe Christmas, Moyers said the administration's position on that subject was made clear by Secretary of State Dean Rusk about two weeks ago.

"THIS IS A matter for the local Vietnamese and U.S. commanders out there to consider," Moyers said "that is where matters stand."

The Pope, speaking from a window overlooking St. Peter's Square Sunday, said the war is growing graver and declared "we would wish that — at least — the cease-fire proposal perhaps be heeded and brought about so that Christmas may be for everyone a day sacred with peace."

University Student Is Rhodes Scholar

A University student, Michael Martin, 22, of Route 1, Iowa City, has been selected as a Rhodes scholar for study at Oxford University, England.

Martin, a senior in the College of Law, was one of two Iowa candidates chosen from 19 applicants.

The scholarships, worth about $2,600 each, were established by Cecil Rhodes, British-born South African statesman and financier.

Martin plans to be at Oxford for a two-year program leading to a bachelor of civil laws degree, an advanced law degree. He will go to England in the fall.

Martin, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, is editor of the Iowa Law Review.

The last University student to win a Rhodes scholarship was Mark Schantz, Iowa City, Schantz, who received a B.A. from Iowa in 1963, studied at Brasenose College, Oxford University, from 1963 to 1965. While at Oxford, he studied political science, philosophy, and economics.

Schantz is now studying international law at Yale University Law School.

New Survey For Renewal Said Possible

By PHIL REISSETTER
Staff Writer

A second, more detailed, Iowa City Urban Renewal building adequacy survey is a distinct possibility, Barry Lundberg, director of Planning and Urban Renewal, said Monday.

A survey taken last May declared sub-standard 106 of 285 downtown buildings.

Permission to retake the survey was obtained at a Friday meeting with regional urban renewal officers in Chicago.

Building inspection standards would not be lowered, Lundberg said, but the survey would be prepared in greater detail to determine sub-standard buildings that were basically unrepairable, and those that were declared under par because of minor repairable faults.

MEN AND A MASCOT of the South Vietnamese Army move ashore from landing craft to a beach 30 miles south of Saigon in a recent operation. The sheepdog mascot was the first one to land during this assault on the Viet Cong held beach.

THE IOWA CITY council, which is also the local urban renewal planning board, would decide on the size and cost of the survey, he said. The money would come out of federal urban renewal loan funds.

Lundberg said he expected no major change in the results of a second survey, but the city wanted to be sure.

Three alternatives will be open to sub-standard building owners after the urban renewal plans go into effect, he said.

A conservation plan would give the owner the option of either repairing the building or selling it at market value to the local urban renewal administration.

BARRY LUNDBERG
Urban Renewal Director

THE CLEARANCE plan would condemn certain areas of the city for public use, such as malls, plazas or parking ramps. For this, all buildings in a designated area, sub-standard or not, would be purchased by the local urban renewal administration.

This plan, Lundberg said, is an attempt at totally redesigning the urban renewal area. All designated land would be purchased by the urban renewal administration. The city would be re-planned, re-built and sold back to private citizens.

"The idea of this plan would be to re-sculpt the entire city," Lundberg said.

The third plan, the one the urban renewal office favors, would be a compromise. Only a few tracts would be designated for condemnation and clearance. The rest would be rejuvenated on an ownership option basis.

Under plans one and three, he said, the original owners would have first chance for either bringing their buildings up to standard, or buying them back after urban renewal renovation.

Saigon Is Relatively Quiet On Viet Cong Anniversaries

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Artillery boomed and small arms cracked within earshot of Saigon Monday night in a clash between government troops and a Viet Cong unit five miles from the biggest fuel and ammunition dump in South Viet Nam.

The government forces scattered the Viet Cong unit but the echoes of the fighting threw a brief fright into Saigon, braced throughout the day for a threatened onslaught of terror by the Viet Cong on the fifth anniversary of their founding.

A LONE TERRORIST provided the only incident in the city. He threw a badly aimed grenade at a truckload of U.S. soldiers. It hit the tailgate of the truck and bounced away. Two Americans and five or six Vietnamese were slightly injured by the blast in the street.

Afield, Communist forces slipped away from pursuing Americans in three widely scattered sectors.

U.S. warplanes resumed bombing runs on North Viet Nam after bad weather caused a day's curtailment. One plane was downed but the pilot was rescued.

U.S. OFFICIALS said the Viet Cong probe on the outskirts of Saigon apparently was not aimed at the massive supply complex on the Saigon River near Nha Be. But the government forces in the area had been alerted for a possible enemy sabotage attempt.

American military advisers previously had expressed fear that a single hit on the supply depot could turn the place into an inferno, with flaming fuel spilling into the Saigon River.

With an upstream tide, a river of fire could pour into Saigon, they said.

The supply area was fully lighted as a precaution against a Communist attack. But the lights went out in Saigon during the fighting, heightening tension in the capital. The power failure had no connection with the fighting.

ALTHOUGH Saigon went through the day without experiencing any major Communist terror, officials said they would keep up their guard in expectation that the Viet Cong likely would hold their threat open until after the new year.

No enemy contacts were reported by U.S. Marines closing out Operation Harvest Moon in a valley south of Da Nang, by U.S. 1st Division and 173rd Airborne Brigade forces 30 miles east of Saigon, or by 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division troops operating near Qui Nhon, 265 miles northeast of Saigon.

hit two government outposts of the Tuyen Nhon special forces camp in the Plain of Reeds 40 miles west of the capital. They were thrown back under air attack. Government troops claimed they killed 29 Viet Cong.

A DOZEN miles farther west, South Vietnamese regional troops attacked a Viet Cong hideout and reported killing 26 enemy troops and destroying 30 sampans and 53 buildings.

The labor leaders said the military chiefs were responsible for the Santiago shooting in which there was still a variance in the official casualty figures. A spokesman for the provisional government said there were nine

Businesses Close In 2 Major Cities

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — Shooting broke out Monday in Santo Domingo and business activity came almost to a standstill in the wake of a bloody battle Sunday between army regulars and former rebel soldiers in Santiago, the nation's second city.

Brazilian troops of the Inter-American Peace Force entrenched in a park in the heart of the city drew fire from armed civilians hiding in a building a few blocks away.

MOBS OF YOUTHS went about the capital upsetting trash cans, setting fire to automobiles and putting up crude street barricades. They moved unmolested. Dominican police were nowhere to be seen in the central area.

Inter-American peace troops sent to the area Sunday were withdrawn Monday morning. Only two peace force companies remained in the entire downtown area.

BUSINESSES closed, in what appeared to be the start of a general strike in the capital aimed at forcing out army chiefs.

Authorities said they were investigating several explosions and outbreaks of shooting that erupted during the night.

U.S. and Dominican troops guarded the approaches to Duarte Bridge, the vital link between the main part of the city and the military and civilian airports to the east.

Labor leaders showed up again at the presidential palace to assure President Hector Garcia Godoy they were abiding by his counsel not to launch a general strike until an investigation of the Santiago battle is completed. The spreading strike in the capital, they said, was outside their control.

THE SAME labor leaders told the president Sunday they would stage a nationwide work stoppage unless he fired the four top military leaders — the armed forces secretary, Commodore Francisco P. Rivera Caminero and the three chiefs of staff.

The labor leaders said the military chiefs were responsible for the Santiago shooting in which there was still a variance in the official casualty figures. A spokesman for the provisional government said there were nine deaths, three of them on the rebel side. But the defense minister said that the latest check showed 10 army regulars killed, making a total of 13.

9 Children, 3 Adults Die In N.J. Blaze

YONKERS, N.J. (AP) — Fire swept a Jewish community center Monday night, and smoke and flames trapped a children's music class on the top floor. Nine youngsters — 8 to 11 years old — and three adults perished.

There were at least nine injuries as firemen rescued frightened children from a ledge of the building in below-freezing temperatures.

Yonkers is a suburb just north of New York. The fire broke out about 5 p.m.

The tragedy struck the Jewish community on the third night of Chanukah, the joyous religious festival of lights. The center had been decorated with the traditional Menorah in observance of the holidays, which feature gift-giving to children.

"To my knowledge this was the worst fire we have had in our history," Police Chief William F. Polson told a news conference.

The community center was housed in a 37-year-old, four-story brick building near the business hub of Yonkers. The building afforded social and cultural areas, but not religious facilities.

A reporter at the scene said the fire may have started in an auditorium which was being worked on as the last phase of a $270,000 renovation project.

Charlie's back

THE STATE DEPARTMENT might not like him, but it can rest easily now that French President Charles de Gaulle has won another seven year term.

Before the election everyone seemed certain that de Gaulle would win, but there was a question about what margin of victory he would get. As it turned out his margin was slim — at least by the haughty French President's standards.

A few months ago the prospect of a real election race in France would have made the State Department very happy. There was talk of the French being unhappy with de Gaulle and talk of a "Kennedy-type" politician to rival the old horse. All this was music to the ears of American policy makers whose goals of strengthening NATO, giving Germany nuclear weapons and generally pursuing a "hard line" cold war offensive have been opposed by the French general.

But when the election results were in, things didn't smell so sweet for those policy makers. True, de Gaulle was declining, but who was picking up the votes? The second most popular man in France is left of the general; he even has the support of the Communists.

So, while de Gaulle is in office the State Department can count on "trouble" in getting France to toe the line and mouth U.S. policies. France will pursue an independent, if somewhat conservative, course. But after de Gaulle and his supporters are out of office, whenever that day should come, what can the State Department expect then? It would appear that something "worse" — at least by their narrow standards — may be around the corner for U.S. - French relations.

So far President Johnson has "handled" de Gaulle by ignoring him for the most part, and U. S. policy has made at least tacitly the assumption that de Gaulle and his bizarre ideas are merely part of a passing fancy in France. Since the French voters have indicated they may well go left rather than right when de Gaulle is gone, this assumption doesn't seem to be valid.

But all this is in the future, and it's doubtful that the Government will do much more than worry about it — until it has no choice but to react.

Dr. Spock, America's leading authority on children, has come up with some revolutionary ideas for Christmas. He says that the holiday season is so overdone that children go to pieces under the tension and he warns that Christmas exploits and fosters children's naturally greedy tendencies.

To solve the problem the good doctor thinks we should do away with mass family gatherings and visits, that we should leave children home when shopping, that they should be shielded from live Santas, and that a child should be limited to only one or at the most two Christmas presents.

The scene is Christmas morning. A 10-year-old child comes running down the stairs in his pajamas while his parents sit nervously by the Christmas tree.

There are two packages under the tree. The boy rips them both open. "Oh, boy," he cries, "an Erector set and a pair of galoshes." He starts looking behind the tree. "Where's the other stuff?" he asks.

The mother says, "That's all there is, son." "All there is?" the boy says. "But it's Christmas."

"We know that, son," the father says. "But Dr. Spock says you should only get one or at the most two Christmas presents this year."

"Who's Dr. Spock?" "He is a very famous pediatrician and he writes books on how to raise children. He says the more presents we buy you, the more chance you have of going to pieces on Christmas Day."

THE BOY says, "He must be some kind of a nut." "He is not a nut. He is a very distinguished man who knows what goes on in the minds of children."

"Well, if he's not a nut, he's a fink," the boy cries. "What kind of a Christmas is this, anyway?"

BUCHWALD

Tres embarrassing

"Dr. Spock is just trying to keep your greedy tendencies in check. He says the less we give you, the happier you will be."

The boy screams, "I'm not greedy. I only want what's coming to me."

"But if we gave you everything you wanted, you would just go to pieces. We don't want you to have a nervous breakdown."

"What's a nervous breakdown?"

"It's when you get sick and depressed."

"But I'm sick and depressed now."

"Yes, but you would be much worse if you got a lot of presents."

"I'm going to tell grandma this afternoon," the boy says.

"She's not coming over this afternoon," the mother tells the son.

"Why not?"

"Because Dr. Spock doesn't believe in mass family gatherings at Christmas time. He says it will only unnerve you. The three of us are going to spend a quiet day together."

"Without any toys?"

"We'll sing Christmas carols," the father says.

"What am I going to tell all my friends when they ask me what I got for Christmas?" the boy asks.

"TELL THEM you may not have material things, but mentally you're much better off than they are."

"They'll never believe it," the boy says. "I think I'm having a nervous breakdown." He begins to cry and won't stop.

The father says, "Now, calm down while your mother opens her two presents."

"Two presents?" the mother starts weeping.

"I thought Dr. Spock was only talking about children."

The father says, "I never saw so many people go to pieces in my life."

Reviewer's work not accurate

Dear Sir,

The comments of the "editorial assistant" about the Christmas Concert display a tremendous amount of ignorance about the works performed. Obviously he made no attempt to check the accuracy of his assumptions, particularly about the French poet, Paul Claudel.

Poor Claudel, a Roman Catholic integralist, criticized by many for his medieval sympathies, and an arch opponent of atheistic existentialism, would simply turn over in his grave if he knew what labels were being carelessly hurled at him.

Moreover the poem is so rich in Christian and Christmas symbolism that to have missed all this meaning reveals a remarkable obtuseness on the part of the reviewer.

Even a quick glance at the program notes would have been sufficient to preserve Mr. Pollen from a few errors — notably that as is the custom at all such concerts, the conductor was not James Dixon, but Daniel Moe, who conducted both orchestra and choir!

'Banana' a treat

By NICK MEYER
For the Iowan

What a treat to see two favorite performers playing impeccably together in the same film. Afterwards everyone wants to know why "they" didn't think of it long ago. So it is with "Banana Peel" which stars Jean-Paul Belmondo and Jeanne Moreau.

The plot of the film is only the thinnest excuse for the capers of the delightful team who cavort happily through it from beginning to end. They are a con-couple, and the film follows them through endless situations, devious maneuvers, and the fantastically complicated plots they engage in to make a living in their profession. The whole thing is faintly dignified when we learn that the particular episodes we are witnessing are the cummence of the two dirty (genuinely dirty) scoundrels who ruined Mile. Moreau's father.

Hence we are not supposed to feel especially sorry for them as their greed traps them in the machinations of our picaresque fortune hunters.

The French, who delight in imitating and parodying American gangster films, can almost be said to have made that genre their own — they do it so well. They love "la complication" and "le switch," and "Banana Peel" is filled not only with these but with the many Americanisms that have been transferred verbatim into French. Expressions such as "cash on the table" run riot through the film, and while the French Academy may throw up its hands at such perversion, American audiences who are fortunate enough to see the film undubbed will find it very funny, indeed.

Aiding the proceedings is Gert Forbe (Goldfinger), and the camera of Marcel Ophuis is appropriately functional and uninteresting as it serves to record the antics of the two lovely clowns.

Belmondo has never been sillier, nor has that big mug he calls a face ever been more fetching. As for Mile. Moreau — she seems to be quite beautiful and, more, proves herself a deft comedienne, much in the Garbo ("Nimotchka") manner.

There may not be much to "Banana Peel" as a film, but as entertainment — it's just grand.

Bonn Leader Asks Share In A-Arms

WASHINGTON (AP)—West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard told President Johnson Monday that his country wanted to share in NATO's nuclear weaponry but did not ask to make decisions on use of such weapons.

Erhard indicated that the Germans would be satisfied with co-ownership of a U.S.-British submarine fleet with-out German control over firing of the fleet's missiles.

Johnson and the chancellor met for one hour with only interpreters present. They were to meet twice again before noon Tuesday. The President and his guest discussed European issues only: The delicate question of sharing of nuclear responsibilities; the future of the Common Market; and the Kennedy round of trade negotiations in the light of the re-election of French President Charles de Gaulle.

The emphasis, however, was on the nuclear issue, authoritative informants said.

ERHARD'S suggestion to set up a submarine fleet came as no surprise. American officials com-firmed, prior to his arrival, that Bonn had informed Washington through diplomatic channels that the West German government would base its request on the British proposal for the creation of an Atlantic Nuclear Force (ANF).

The force constitutes the British Labor government's answer to the U.S.-sponsored Multilateral Force (MLF) concept. The MLF plan calls for a force of surface ships armed with Polaris missiles and manned by crews of mixed nationalities. The ANF concept is for no such mixed manning. ERHARD, American officials believe, must have reached this decision after considerable soul-searching in view of the increasing opposition in his own country to any form of German participation in nuclear matters.

Intervention Decree OK'd By U.N. Body

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The General Assembly's main political committee approved without a dissenting vote Monday a compromise declaration opposing intervention by one country into the affairs of another.

But many delegates who voted for the declaration expressed reservations about its wording and the fact that it was adopted in haste as the assembly worked toward a Tuesday adjournment of its 20th session.

The declaration was approved 100 to 0 with 5 abstentions—Britain, Belgium, the Netherlands, New Zealand and Australia. It will be forwarded to the assembly for final approval.

At the insistence of the United States the declaration contained a provision including acts of subversion as a form of intervention. The declaration opposed also the fomenting by one state of subversive, terrorist or armed activities aimed at the violent overthrow of another.

This is the kind of direct intervention activity which the United States has accused North Viet Nam of organizing in South Viet Nam.

On the other hand, the declaration opposed also use of economic and political measures to coerce another nation—the kind of indirect activity that Moscow and Havana alleges the United States is carrying out against Premier Fidel Castro's communist regime in Cuba.

Care Urged In Handling Of Yule Fare

WASHINGTON (AP)—Be sure that proper health precautions are taken in preparing and handling holiday foods, Surgeon Gen. William H. Stewart of the Public Health Service cautioned Monday night.

"The Christmas-New Year's season is a festive occasion for us all," said Stewart. "Most of us will be enjoying special meals and parties with our families and friends, and some of us will be made ill by that same food unless precautions are taken in the preparation and handling of meals," he said.

AN ESTIMATED one million cases of food poisoning occur annually in this country, he said. The number of reported outbreaks has doubled since 1952.

The service's Division of Environmental Engineering and Food Protection offered the following advice to cooks, food handlers and food servers:

Proper handling of poultry, eggs, and egg products is especially important, since salmonella bacteria, which cause diarrhea and stomach upsets, are frequently found in these foods before cooking.

Frozen turkeys and other poultry, or any frozen food product for that matter, should never be thawed at room temperature. Thawing should be done in a refrigerator, under cool running water, or as a part of the cooking process.

POULTRY and dressing should be thoroughly cooked to kill any food poisoning organisms that might be present. A meat thermometer placed in the center of the thickest part of the bird should read 165 degrees Fahrenheit before cooking is considered complete. Cooking of the dressing separately is preferred.

The emphasis, however, was on the nuclear issue, authoritative informants said.

ERHARD'S suggestion to set up a submarine fleet came as no surprise. American officials com-firmed, prior to his arrival, that Bonn had informed Washington through diplomatic channels that the West German government would base its request on the British proposal for the creation of an Atlantic Nuclear Force (ANF).

The force constitutes the British Labor government's answer to the U.S.-sponsored Multilateral Force (MLF) concept. The MLF plan calls for a force of surface ships armed with Polaris missiles and manned by crews of mixed nationalities. The ANF concept is for no such mixed manning. ERHARD, American officials believe, must have reached this decision after considerable soul-searching in view of the increasing opposition in his own country to any form of German participation in nuclear matters.

The submarine fleet solution would be a compromise. The West Germans, together with other interested countries, would become co-owners of a ten-ship fleet consisting of four British and six American submarines, manned by all-British and all-American crews—and with only Washington and London holding authority to fire their Polaris missiles.

OFFICIALLY, German request for "hardware" remains, informants suggested. But Erhard, they said, is aware that nobody—with the possible exception of the United States—is sympathetic to the German desire.

Johnson and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson agreed last week to listen carefully to Erhard's proposals.

The British never have denied parenthood of ANF although signs are that they are not too enthusiastic about it.

The United States does not really care whether the NATO force is MLF or ANF or a combination of the two, but wants something which would satisfy its non-nuclear allies, meaning first of all Germany.

Drake Players Praise Hawk Play After 69-51 Iowa Win

By PAUL DYSART
Staff Writer

"We just got beat. That's all you can say about it," said a saddened Bob Netolicky following Drake's 69-51 loss to the Hawks at the Iowa Fieldhouse Saturday night.

After the second meeting of the two schools, the Drake players had a little more praise for the Hawkeyes.

"They've got a real good team, Netolicky stated as he slowly picked up his crumpled uniform. The atmosphere in the Bulldog locker room had changed from one of resentment to one of respect in one short week.

"The press didn't give us any more trouble than before," Harold Jeter claimed. "Iowa should go places this year. They've got talent."

Erwin Cox, the fiery little guard who put on such a display of outshooting in the second half, contended that missed free throws hurt Drake the most.

"If we could have just hit our free throws, we'd have been in it till the last," he said. "I think the press hurt us. I know I had quite a bit of difficulty handling it."

"We left our game plan in the last six or eight minutes and that did it," said Drake Coach Maury John. "We'd beat the press, but then we didn't want to take the corner shots that were available to us. We just didn't take advantage of the situation."

"And that press didn't hurt us that much. We'd fight the press only to make a mistake once we got through. This was, quite frankly, our most miserable game of the year."

However, John felt that Drake's defense in the first half was exceptional.

"Both teams played great defensively the whole game for that matter," the coach lauded. "But we didn't get on the boards at all. Netolicky was just standing around out there all night."

The coach was asked to explain why he yanked Erwin Cox from the lineup the minute Cox got hot and started pumping them in from outside.

"I wanted to put Herman Watson back in," he answered. "Watson's our best defensive player, and Cox wasn't handling the press as well as Herman can."

Grabowski Signs Packer Contract

CHICAGO (AP) — All-America fullback Jim Grabowski took an important finance exam at the University of Illinois Monday and three hours later signed a three-year contract, valued at $250,000, with the Green Bay Packers.

It was a grab of great prestige for the Packers and the National Football League from the rival American league, whose heavy spending Sonny Werblin failed in a last-minute bid to land Grabowski for his New York Jets.

Grabowski, who broke just about every Big Ten rushing record and even surpassed immortal Red Grange as an Illini ground-gainer, was the No. 1 draft pick of the Packers and the new Miami Dolphins of the AFL.

Hawks Crack Top Ten; Move Snook Out Of Shrine Game

The Iowa Hawkeyes moved into the top ten of the Associated Press's weekly national college basketball poll Monday.

The Hawks were ranked as the 9th best team in the nation by the poll and drew 98 points from a panel of 40 sports writers and broadcasters.

Duke's Blue Devils remained in the No. 1 position in the poll and unbeaten St. Joseph's of Philadelphia and once beaten Michigan held the second and third place spots respectively.

Vanderbilt jumped a notch to fourth after winning three games last week to boost their record to 6-0.

The unbeaten Bradley Braves made the biggest jump of the week, however, as they moved from the 9th place spot in the poll to fifth. Their record of 8-0 is the best among major college teams.

Minnesota retained its position as the sixth-ranked team with a win over Creighton University which hiked its record to 4-0.

Providence, 5-0, followed Minnesota by only four points in the poll and held on to their seventh place rank.

Wichita, 4-0, climbed two notches to eighth, Iowa, 7-0 moved to ninth after being previously unranked and Kentucky claimed the 10th place spot in the poll after romping over Indiana last weekend to bring their record to 6-0. They had also been unranked.

Two teams that were ranked in the poll last week, UCLA and Kansas, dropped out of the top ten. UCLA which had been rated eighth suffered its third defeat, falling to Cincinnati, and Kansas who had been rated fifth, slip out of the poll.

The Top Ten, determined on the basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, nine for second, etc., with first-place votes in parentheses, won't last records and total points:

Iowa quarterback Gary Snook has been dropped from the East squad for the 41st annual East-West Shrine game.

Snook, recently drafted and signed by the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football league told the East-West committee Saturday he would not be able to play because doctors have told him to avoid contact for at least two months.

Snook suffered a slight shoulder separation during last season's West Shrine game.

When the Cardinals doctors examined Snook they advised him not to play in the charity game at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium, Dec. 31.

Miller Praises Defense In Win

By PAUL DYSART
Staff Writer

"It was just a good job of defense all the way," Iowa coach Ralph Miller stated after the Hawk's 69-51 win over newly-found rival Drake in the Iowa Fieldhouse Saturday night.

"We overcommitted ourselves late in the game, but we recovered well. It's hard to beat a team like Drake badly. You get a lead, then they slow the game down. But I feel that the outcome was pretty well determined late in the game when we held 10 to 12 point leads," Miller contended.

"Drake's no weak sister by any means," the coach emphasized. "They've got real strong boys on the backboards, and they're speedy."

Miller pointed out that the Bulldogs' speed comes primarily in their defense.

"They don't try to be quick offensively," he said.

"In general, Drake played about the same game as in the first meeting, except that they had more turnovers here."

Miller turned to excessive fouling as Iowa's largest problem. "We did exactly the same thing as we did in the first game," he pointed out. "We go along real well until about the end of the first half, then about three of our starters get in foul trouble and I have to take them out. With three reserves in there, we're hampered considerably. You see we're still actually a five-man ball club."

Miller felt that the reserves would come along as the season progressed, but so far haven't really adapted to his game format.

The coach turned to Huston Breedlove as a bright spot in the lineup.

"Huston came in for George Peoples and did well for himself. He's had very few charted errors in the past few games, and he's the only reserve I can say that about."

A Lot Of Grief?

Grief is graduating with a B.A. degree and no idea of what to do with it. A lot of grief is graduating with a B.A. degree and the wrong idea of what to do with it. And wasting the most important years of your life discovering (the hard way) that you chose the wrong career.

Enrolling in our Campus Internship Program now could save you a lot of grief at graduation. How? By giving you the opportunity to become involved in—not just exposed to—life insurance sales as a career. You learn life insurance as a profession, from a professional. You put what you've learned into practice, and find that a life insurance sales career pays off in dollars as well as a sense of satisfaction. By graduation, you know what you're going to do with that B.A. degree.

We're old pros at saving graduates a lot of grief while they're undergraduates. And we can prove it.

Chou Criticizes Viet Peace Efforts

TOKYO — Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai blasted "some" intermediaries he accused of running errands for the United States and trying to settle the Viet Nam war. He said there was no alternative to a complete U.S. military withdrawal as a condition for peace.

Chou's broadsides, delivered Monday at a Viet Cong fifth anniversary ceremony in Peking, seemed an indication of Red Chinese determination to forestall peace negotiations on any terms acceptable to the United States.

CHOU also attacked the Soviet regime, calling it a betrayer of the Red cause in Viet Nam. He said the Soviets gave the Vietnamese Communists only superficial aid, and that only with ulterior motives, including "a dirty deal with the United States."

The Chinese premier, whose remarks were carried in a broadcast dispatch by the New China News Agency and heard here, declared the 650 million Chinese people "firmly support" the Vietnamese people's war and "will resolutely take up the challenge and fight to the end" if the United States spreads the Vietnamese war to China.

EXPRESSIONS of opposition to President Johnson's peace offers, Chou said: "Following the clamors of the Johnson administration, some people who are keen on helping U.S. imperialism have become more active in running errands for it, trying to make people believe that the Johnson administration has changed its nature and that on the question of Viet Nam it is really willing to lay down its butcher's knife and give up aggression.

"But people have had experience of this trick of the Johnson administration several times."

Chou said the American aim was to bring about the subject of peace talks while building up U.S. troops in Viet Nam to escalate the war.

Chou did not name the Soviet Union in his attack against Soviet leaders, but the criticism obviously was directed against them.

U Of I Grad Named To County Post

A University graduate, Robert W. Jansen, 707 Melrose Ave., was appointed Johnson County county attorney Monday by the Johnson County Board of Supervisors.

Jansen, who is now assistant county attorney, will finish the remaining one-year term of Daniel W. Boyle. Boyle's resignation is effective Jan. 1. Boyle said he no longer had time to handle the increasing county attorney workload and his private law practice.

Jansen was the only applicant for the position. He received his B.A. from Iowa in 1954, and his law degree in 1961.

The Iowa City city council appointed Jansen as police judge on Jan. 22, 1964, to fill the unexpired term of Boyle, who had resigned to become county attorney.

Jansen became assistant county attorney on Jan. 1, 1965. He is associated with Emil Trott in law practice.

Local Tongue Not Required At All Universities Abroad

By JUDY Surratt
 Staff Writer

Ed. Note — This is the third in a series of study abroad.

Proficiency in the language of the country is not a prerequisite in every foreign university, Kay Blosten, 44, Highland Park, Ill., knows from experience.

In Institute of European Studies program, under which Miss Blosten studied, did not require her to have prior training in German to attend classes at the University of Vienna in Austria. Her classes were taught in English, she said Thursday, and she took courses in German while studying English.

MISS BLOSTEN said that because she was studying history and political science she did not need to be as proficient as a German major would have to be.

During the second semester, when her understanding of German was more advanced, she attended lectures given in German. The program in Vienna was the only one where knowledge of the native tongue was not required before attending the school.

Miss Blosten left the United States in August 1964 and returned the following June. During her stay, she visited Iron Curtain countries.

Several weeks of travel were included in the original cost of the tuition — $2,300. The group spent three and a half weeks touring Western Europe before starting classes. At Christmas, she spent two weeks in the Austrian Alps and Easter vacation brought a three and a half week tour of Italy.

EXPENSES at the European school were considerably less than in an American university, Miss Blosten said. Tuition for an entire semester was only $10, she said. The original cost included all but books, occasional meals and travel expenses.

"You'd be surprised how much traveling you want to do when everything is so near," she said. "I made several week-end trips to near-by countries and these expenses added up in a hurry."

"We were placed in a family with two or three of the other students in our program," she said, "and we lived with them during our entire stay. The cost of our board and room was included in the original fee."

Miss Blosten was the only student from the University of Iowa in the program. Others came from California, Florida, and several Eastern schools.

MISS BLOSTEN said she still corresponded with friends she made during her year in Vienna. She said there were students from all over the world studying there.

"I got my information through my adviser," Miss Blosten said. "It is pretty dangerous for anyone to go to a European school except on a program. It is too hard to transfer grades back to the home university if you go over there on your own."

Other information is available from the Institute of European Studies, 35 E. Wacker Dr., Chicago.

Several full and partial scholarships are available to students interested in the programs, she said. In her group of 30, five or six of the students had either full or half scholarships.

"I SPENT my junior year in Vienna," Miss Blosten said. "This is usually the way it works because that way students have college preparation before they go to Europe and have the chance to complete graduation requirements at their home university."

KAY BLOSTEN
 Enjoyed studies at University of Vienna.

Miss Blosten said she enjoyed her year in Europe because "it broadens one's horizons beyond the confines of the home state and one educational institution."
