

LBJ Dispatches Wirtz To Settle Transit Strike

War Hawks Getting Ruffled As Peace Efforts Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's "peace doves" will be flying high for at least another 10 days but the "war hawks" too are becoming active in Washington.

Clearly, the time remaining for North Viet Nam to make a responsive move to join in efforts to settle the Vietnamese war is slowly running out.

So far, Johnson is pleased with the results of his personally orchestrated peace offensive — because he is confident many of the countries, friendly and otherwise, contacted by his roving diplomats are getting his message to Hanoi.

THE RESPONSE from the other side has been discouraging, however, and has prompted some official pessimism about the final outcome. Of four Hanoi statements since the peace drive began, the fourth — issued two days ago — caused the greatest disappointment because it seemed to reflect no softening in the North Vietnamese position.

No matter how Johnson's efforts turn out, there will be those in Washington who will say, "I told you so."

Within the administration itself, there have been significant differences of opinion about the presidential peace initiative.

SOME TOP military men clearly are getting restive about the Johnson-ordered pause in bombings of North Viet Nam. They believe the lull gives the Communists positive military advantages — easier transport and opportunity to make repairs, if not to increase troop infiltration into South Viet Nam.

The administration, however, believes all proper precautions are being taken — aerial surveillance, in other words — to detect any moves in North Viet Nam that would call for quick retaliation.

There are those, too, who are convinced the only way to bring Hanoi to the peace table is to step up, rather than lessen, military pressure. They believe the military pressure exerted to date has not been sufficient.

IN THE STATE Department as well as the Pentagon, some officials favor a harder line than Johnson has been taking.

Johnson's traveling envoys still were on the road Tuesday — Ambassador W. Averell Harriman in Tokyo and Asst. Secretary of State G. Mennen Williams in Africa.

These and possibly other U.S. officials are expected to be on the circuit until week after next.

Rain Adds To Woes; Losses In Millions

NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson dispatched Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz from Washington Thursday night to lend a hand in New York's transit crisis, growing out of a six-day citywide bus and subway strike.

The request for aid from the Democratic national administration came from Republican Mayor John W. Lindsay.

Trip To Hanoi By Russians Being Studied

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet delegation is enroute to Hanoi on a mission that could affect the Viet Nam war.

The delegation is led by Alexander N. Shelepin, a top Kremlin leader and trouble shooter. It includes an expert on military production and a rocket forces general.

The rocket expert, Col. Gen. Vladimir F. Tolubko, went following Chinese charges that the Soviet Union has sent obsolete and ineffective anti-aircraft rockets to the defense of North Viet Nam.

The rockets have shot down 10 U.S. planes out of 160 missiles fired, according to American figures.

PART OF the Shelepin mission purpose seemed obvious to most non-Communist observers here: to make a strong bid for North Vietnamese support in the bitter dispute between Moscow and Peking.

The big question, however, was whether Shelepin would counsel Hanoi to try to bring a negotiated peace in Viet Nam or whether he would report back to Moscow that more weapons should be sent in hopes of a Communist military victory.

The composition of the delegation suggested more weapons.

IN VIEW of savage Chinese accusations that the Russians have failed to provide much military equipment support for Hanoi, the delegation might have been made up this way to avoid Chinese charges, some quarters suggested.

The basic Soviet position is believed to favor peace in Viet Nam in order to allow the Soviet Union to concentrate on domestic economic development without a danger of expanding war.

The Kremlin has publicly voiced strong support for Hanoi and severely assailed U.S. policy in Viet Nam. It has been sending anti-aircraft weapons and other defensive arms since early last year.

Two weeks ago, a new agreement was reached here for Soviet aid to Hanoi on credit. Five Soviet ships now are en route to North Viet Nam, says Moscow radio.

Terror Bombs Of Viet Cong Blast Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Cong terrorists jolted Saigon with two bomb blasts Thursday night, killing one Vietnamese and injuring 18 persons including four Americans. Police picked up five Vietnamese for questioning today and said they feared the city was in for another onslaught of terrorism.

Thursday's bombings were the heaviest here since the Viet Cong ripped the U.S. enlisted men's Metropole Hotel billet Dec. 4. Police said more attacks could be expected during this holiday season which culminates in the Viet Namese New Year — Tet — Jan. 21.

Blasts an hour apart at the gate of Tan Son Nhut military airport and at a police substation across town broke a lull in the terrorism roughly comparable to American suspension of the bombing of Communist North Viet Nam, which rounds out two weeks today.

Wirtz flew into La Guardia Field at 7:51 p.m. and left immediately for City Hall. He would not comment on the strike, except to say: "Anything that hurts one big city hurts the country."

The development occurred near the end of a day of drenching rain during which sodden millions were buffeted about in the longest, roughest rush hour in New York's history. Traffic was badly snarled in Manhattan almost all day.

LINDSAY had been in touch with Wirtz earlier. About 6:15 p.m. the mayor called Johnson and the two had their first personal talk about the transit strike.

White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers told newsmen of Wirtz' intervention: "The simple purpose is to explore the transit situation with the mayor."

Earlier, Lindsay from City Hall had exhorted New Yorkers, weary from the strike: "We must sweat it out. I ask you that you keep calm, keep your nerve."

PEACE TALKS between the striking AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union and the Transit Authority moved almost as sluggishly as traffic in the streets during the worst day of the monumental tieup.

Motorists in vast numbers took to the highway as early as 5 a.m. in a vain effort to beat a traffic crush that continued until noon — only to resume again in the opposite direction later in the afternoon.

The rain stalled many cars, and vehicles backed up for miles at Manhattan's bridges and tunnels.

Traffic Commissioner Henry A. Barnes blamed the combination of the city's weather and its transit strike for "the longest rush hour it ever had."

THE STRIKE of 34,400 employees of city-owned bus and subway lines began at 5 a.m. New Year's Day, cutting off transit facilities normally used by five million passengers a day. The first citywide transit tieup ever to hit New York was estimated by business sources to be causing an economic loss of $100 million per day.

The union president, Michael J. Quill, and eight other union leaders were sent to civil jail for contempt Tuesday after they refused to call off the strike. The contempt action was based on the union's defiance of a no-strike injunction at the beginning of the walkout.

Shortly after he entered jail, Quill, 60, suffered a seizure. Because he had a history of heart trouble, he was rushed to Bellevue Hospital where he was being treated for a possible heart attack.

QUILL seemingly had been on the mend from his as yet undiagnosed ailment until midafternoon Thursday when he reportedly suffered "new complications."

Later, Dr. Alonzo Yerby, city hospitals commissioner, said the report that Quill had taken a turn for the worse was "exaggerated and unfounded."

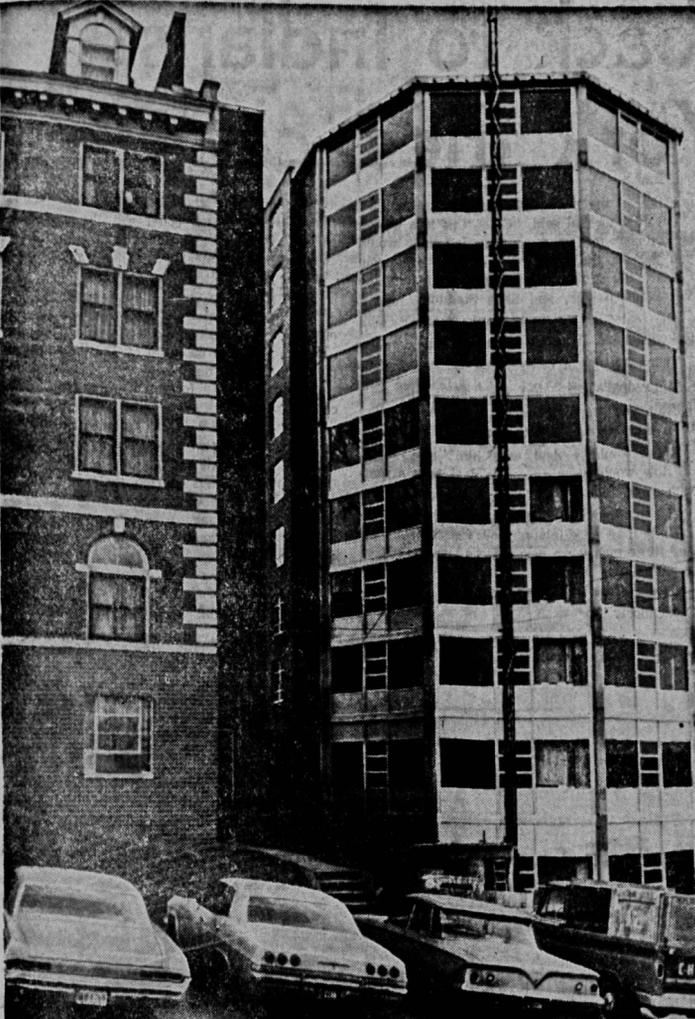

"He is serious but no worse," the physician told newsmen.

Leaky Tank Car Repaired; Taken To Cedar Rapids

A railroad tank car that caused concern Wednesday night when it began leaking highly inflammable naphtha was towed south of Iowa City Thursday morning and a faulty valve was repaired.

The car then was taken to Cedar Rapids, where it was en route from the Union Texas Petroleum Company in Winnie, Tex.

The leaking valve was discovered by a switchman while the car stood on a siding near Lafayette Street and Maiden Lane.

Stuit Says Seniors Must Take Finals

By SHARON ROSEBERRY Staff Writer

The College of Liberal Arts probably will not change its policy requiring graduating seniors to take final examinations, Dewey B. Stuit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, said Wednesday.

A resolution passed by Student Senate this week asked that seniors with a "B" average in a last semester course be exempted from taking finals in that course. Seniors would be allowed to take finals if they wished.

ALTHOUGH THE Senate resolution has not yet come before the college, Stuit said, the Liberal Arts Executive Committee has already rejected a similar plan. This plan was proposed at an October meeting of the college's Educational Committee and senior class officers. Dick Pundt, A4, Homestead, a representative of Student Senate, also attended. Stuit explained that the Liberal Arts Executive Committee rejected the plan because it thought that determining which seniors would qualify would be difficult and that seniors would lose an important part of their education if they did not have to prepare for finals.

The second reason was considered more important by the committee, Stuit said. Preparing for a final exam provides a student the chance to review and integrate what he has learned in a course, the dean continued.

"The final exam is an essential part of the course," he said. "We don't look upon it as a punishment in any sense, but as a learning experience."

BILL PARISI, A4, Chicago Heights, Ill., president of Student Senate, said the Senate's next move would probably be to discuss the merits of the resolution more fully with Stuit. Parisi co-sponsored the resolution with Pundt.

Seniors at the end of their last semester are busy making arrangements for their futures, Parisi said, and need time ordinarily spent studying for and taking finals. Seniors are exempted from finals at several other colleges and universities, such as Grinnell, he added.

The Senate resolution is to be sent to all the colleges in the University, and, according to Phillip G. Hubbard, dean for academic affairs, any college could approve the plan regardless of the decisions of the other colleges.

Hubbard said that although the colleges had a general policy of giving finals, the professor in charge of each particular course ultimately decided whether a final would be given.

"I WOULD SUSPECT some professors already do exempt students from finals," he said. With the exception of Liberal Arts, the colleges whose deans could be reached for comment, have not studied the Senate's suggestion and have made no decision on it.

Laura C. Dustan, dean of the College of Nursing, said that she saw no reason why senior nurses with a "B" average could not be excused from finals. She said that this plan was followed at the University of California at Berkeley, where she did graduate work.

The plan would diminish the "unfortunate emphasis on the great god the GPA," she said.

The plan would not be possible for the College of Medicine, according to that college's dean, Robert C. Hardin, because only the grades of "pass" and "fail" are given.

But, Hardin reassured graduating seniors, "We're not very tough at that time of year anyway."

Most of the deans interviewed emphasized that the decision on exempting seniors from finals would be made by the entire faculty of the college. They also said that professors already have much freedom in determining whether to give finals.

Correction

The "block" program to be introduced by the College of Education as a plan to help alleviate a lack of positions to place practice teaching students during their senior year was incorrectly stated in Wednesday's Daily Iowan as beginning in February, 1966. The program will go into effect in September, 1966.

Explanatory material dated for the 1965-66 calendar year was released. The material should have been dated 1966-67 calendar year.

Army Revolt Flares Again In Dominican

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican armed forces Thursday night defied an order by President Hector Garcia-Godoy that would send their top leaders into virtual exile abroad. Violence erupted immediately.

Military uprisings were reported from the interior while government tanks and troops appeared to have cut off this city from the unruly areas.

Although occupied by government troops, the government radio stopped broadcasting. The once-shattered armed forces station went on the air.

Military sources said the uprisings in the interior were being staged by regiments which refused to accept the presidential order sending abroad leaders of rival factions in last April's revolt.

Ku Klux Klan Chief, Cohorts Facing Contempt Citations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Contempt of Congress action was started Thursday against Imperial Wizard Robert M. Shelton and six other Ku Klux Klan leaders who refused to supply records to the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

A subcommittee voted to cite the seven, who have appeared in its hearings into Klan activities. All declined to produce records for which subpoenas had been issued. They also refused to answer virtually all questions, citing amendments to the Constitution.

The subcommittee action was announced by Chairman Edwin E. Willis (D-La.), at the end of a luncheon recess which followed testimony from a committee investigator that Klansmen were receiving and distributing rifles in case lots in Louisiana during recent years.

WILLIS ALSO heads the full committee, which must pass on the subcommittee contempt action. Then approval by the House itself is required to refer the citations to the Justice Department for possible prosecution.

Contempt of Congress is punishable by a maximum of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Shelton, imperial wizard of the United Klans of America, has headquarters at Tuscaloosa, Ala.

OTHERS AGAINST whom contempt citations were voted by the subcommittee:

James R. Jones, grand dragon of North Carolina.

Robert E. Scoggin, grand dragon of South Carolina.

Calvin F. Craig, grand dragon of Georgia.

Marshall R. Kornegay, grand dragon of Virginia.

George F. Dorsett, imperial kludd, or chaplain, of the Klan Real of North Carolina.

Robert Hudgins, imperial kludd of North Carolina.

AIDES INDICATED the subcommittee action was based on failure to produce records and not upon the witnesses' refusal to answer questions on constitutional grounds.

At Thursday's hearing, the committee ran into a wall of silence, buttressed with Fifth Amendment pleas, when it questioned men from the area of Bogalusa, La., about reported movement of rifles and other weapons.

But Donald T. Appell, chief investigator for the committee, told of finding records of extensive purchases from Howard M. Lee, whom he described as a holder of a firearms dealer's license who went to jail for violating the federal firearms control law requiring keeping of accurate records.

Organization For Geniuses Starting Here

A chapter of Mensa, an international organization, is being established in Iowa City.

Mensa is the Latin word for "table" and the club functions as a roundtable for its members. The only requirement for membership is that the person's intelligence be measured in the top two per cent of the general population.

The local group is led by Mary Mege, a research associate in the Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

"We are interested not only in students, but in faculty members, business people and government workers," she said.

It is generally believed that Mensa gives highly intelligent people a forum for communication that is usually lacking in the outside world.

Mensa has large chapters in metropolitan cities and now has 7,642 members in north America, according to Interim magazine. The organization was established in England.

Youth Groups Show Support Of War Effort

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives of two nationwide groups of youths came to the capital Thursday to signify their support for the U.S. fight in Viet Nam.

Members of the National Student Committee for the Defense of Viet Nam presented a scroll representing the signatures of 477,000 students on 322 campuses to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

MEMBERS of the International Youth Crusade for Freedom in Viet Nam announced rallies in nine cities today and Saturday.

Humphrey accepted the scroll in his office and told the young men, "I'll see that this gets across the street, fellows," meaning the office of President Johnson.

Tom Pauken, Dallas, Tex., a student at Georgetown University in Washington, said that after anti Viet Nam demonstrations, "we were determined to show the American people that the student radicals did not speak for our generation."

HUMPHREY commented that on his recent trip to the Far East, he saw some 200 U.S. troops who had been wounded and sent to the Philippines and "not one single one made a complaint."

Kosygin Is Messenger Boy At India-Pakistan Meeting

TASHKENT, USSR (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin was the sole communications link Thursday between the leaders of India and Pakistan on the third day of their deadlocked summit conference.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India and President Ayub Khan of Pakistan stayed in their separate country villas outside Tashkent. Their large delegations of ministers also stayed home.

Kosygin obviously was having difficulty with the explosive India-Pakistan quarrel, which has bedeviled Washington for years.

The Soviet leader spent hours in secret talks with Shastri and Ayub but when the day ended the only thing certain was that the three men would attend the theater together Friday night.

It was not even certain when Shastri and Ayub would resume their private sessions together — their first since India and Pakistan went to war in September.

The stumbling block was the India-Pakistan quarrel over Kashmir, the issue that for 18 years defeated the many expensive efforts the United States made to bring peace to South Asia.

Who yelled fire?

IN A CROWDED BUILDING there is no such thing as a modest fire; any blaze borders on disaster.

Consider the consequences of a fire in a University classroom building during morning classes. What would you do, for example, if you were attending a history seminar on the third floor of Schaeffer Hall and smoke began to drift in from the outer hall? You probably wouldn't know there was a fire until the smoke drifted up the stairs because University classroom and office buildings do not have fire alarm systems.

You probably do not have any idea what you would do, because the University has outlined no fire evacuation procedures.

University Fire Inspector Vernal J. Shimon has explained to The Iowan that fire evacuation plans and periodic fire drills are not practical because many people enter and leave the building each day. So there are no plans for clearing the building, no fire escape ladders and no alarms.

On an average morning, it takes a person about seven minutes to get from the third floor of Schaeffer through the crowds and out one of the three entrances.

According to Frederick Moore, assistant director of the Physical Plant, state law does not require alarm systems in most University buildings. Dormitories must have alarms, however, because "students sleep there." Students never, of course, sleep in classrooms.

It is interesting to note that the University does have a civil defense plan. Every student has been assigned a building to which he must go in case bombs start to drop. If a student is married, his wife and family have also been assigned to specified shelters.

It seems strange that the University has seen fit to prepare for the horrors of war but has greatly neglected the probability of a common, domestic fire.

This looks like a case of poor planning.

It's a secret

IOWA'S FOREMOST SECRET SOCIETY, the Committee on Student Life, reaffirmed a policy at its meeting Thursday denying students the right to know the reasoning behind the rules which it hands down for them to obey.

According to CSL's publicity shy members, the organization is an advisory body which needs a dark corner in which to think. CSL members claim to be advisers to the president.

This is true — in theory. In practice this Committee is the only means open to students who wish to have any influence in the sundry campus regulations which control their lives.

The Inter Fraternity Council can ban racial discrimination; the Associated Women Students can change women's hours; the Student Senate can rewrite the rules on off-campus housing — but nothing, absolutely nothing of a campus-wide nature will be put into effect or even seriously considered until CSL brings it up.

Once a proposal is passed by CSL, the president of the University historically has always implemented it.

According to the CSL members, the students are duly informed of that Committee's operation. Sure they are — after everything has been decided. After all, how effective would CSL be if the rules it decides to impose upon University students were not made fully clear to those students. Of course the discussion and deliberation which led to the passage of CSL's rules must be kept secret. We are not sure why, but this is the word from CSL, and its reasoning is not for public attention.

Bulldozers to raze prof's home

To the Editor:

It seems it won't be just a herd of students who will be bulldozed from their dwellings by Iowa City Urban Renewal Operations. Word has it that U of I's Lillian B. Lawler, professor and internationally known joint climber, will most likely before long join this herd. At present, Prof. Lawler occupies a house close to campus that is slated to be razed. Since she must frequently use the University's research facilities, and doesn't drive, it is essential that she acquire a house not far from the one she now has. But, after inquiring of realtors, and pleading her case before concerned University officials, she still anticipates soon being homeless; for there is not a suitable house to be had at present.

Prof. Lawler had planned to spend the rest of her years here; but, as matters now stand, not only has her plan gone astray, but come next fall the University will be minus one more brilliant and dedicated scholar and teacher.

The City of Iowa City has not, however, shown indifference to such problems. It has promised to "help" unwilling evacuees re-locate once the big refurbishing job begins. But just how large, I wonder, will its great heart swell?

Peace only hinted at

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

There has been just the merest whisper of a hint that President Johnson's diplomatic peace offensive has had some impact in North Viet Nam.

This does not necessarily mean that peace is about to break out. Indeed, things might get a good deal rougher in Viet Nam before long. But in the long run, the peace drive may prove to have had a salutary effect.

Hanoi propaganda has furiously denounced the U.S. moves as a hoax to permit Americans to negotiate from strength. Yet the propaganda now suggests a distinction, however slight, between North Vietnamese demands and those of the Viet Cong's political organization, the National Liberation Front.

THERE IS NO distinction yet that this distinction is sharp enough to permit agreement on negotiations. But with renewed Soviet interest in taking a hand in the situation, it represents something which might eventually be developed.

On Dec. 29, when Ho Chi Minh responded to the appeal of Pope Paul VI for peace efforts, he repeated the four-point demands of North Viet Nam's government. But he left out one phrase which always had been attached before. He said the Americans must "let the Vietnamese people settle their internal affairs themselves," but failed to add the customary line: "In accordance with the program of the National Front for Liberation of South Viet Nam."

By itself, this might have meant little. But with the U.S. diplomatic drive in full swing, the Hanoi paper Nhan Dan a few days ago said that if there were to be a political solution, the United States must acknowledge Hanoi's four points and "stop indefinitely and unconditionally all acts of war against North Viet Nam."

The sentence ended there. It did not add, as it customarily did in other statements, a demand for an end to "aggression in South Viet Nam." ORDINARILY THIS might not mean much. But the Hanoi article was signed "Observer," a tag used for official party statements. It could represent just the slightest backdown from the all-or-nothing demands of the past.

The United States would not object to having the Viet Cong at talks as observers, or even within a North Vietnamese delegation, but will not recognize the Viet Cong or its front as a political entity or negotiator. That would mean recognizing Viet Cong jurisdiction over a big portion of South Viet Nam which the Communist now hold.

Give it back to Indians? New York tries, can't

By ART BUCHWALD

It was an ingenious idea and everyone was amazed that no one had thought of it before. The problem was to find the descendants of the Indians who had sold Manhattan to Peter Minuit in 1626.

The search was on and finally the present chief of the tribe, who was working as a riveter on a new skyscraper in midtown Manhattan was located. Three city officials climbed up the girders and began to speak while the Indian ate his lunch.

"New York, we're here on behalf of the City of New York and we understand that your ancestors sold the island of Manhattan for $24."

The chief said, "That's true. The Dutch drove a hard bargain in those days. We were robbed."

"Well," said the second official, "we New Yorkers have always felt very bad about it and we want to make it up to you. How would you like to buy the place back?"

"For how much," the chief asked suspiciously.

"Twenty-four dollars."

"THAT'S A LOT of money," the chief said.

"We're willing to throw Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens, and Staten Island in the package."

The chief stared at the traffic jam below him.

"I don't think my people would be interested," he said.

"If it's a question of financing," the third official said, "you could give us four dollars down and four dollars a month."

Smoke and smog kept drifting up and the chief wiped his eyes with a red handanna. "It isn't a question of the money. We just don't want it."

The first official said, "Chief, this is a golden opportunity for your people. Not only would you get all the land, but you'd have Lincoln Center, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Verrazano Bridge, and Shea Stadium."

The chief said, "White man speaks with forked tongue. Who gets the subway?"

"Why you do, of course."

"The deal's off," the chief said.

"But you wouldn't have to deal with Mike Quill the way we do," the second official said.

"How would I deal with him?"

"How would your ancestors deal with a man who gave them so much trouble?"

"I don't know. They never had a subway."

While they were talking, police sirens sounded and three men down below came running out of a bank, guns blazing.

THE CHIEF SAID, "Have you tried William Zeckendorf?"

"Legally," the third official said, "you're the only person we could sell the city back to."

"What about water?" the chief said.

"What about water?"

"My tribe needs water. You have no water."

"You could steal it from Pennsylvania," the official said. "Don't you see, Chief, if you took over the city, you could do all the things we're not permitted to do?"

"Who has to pay for the World's Fair?" the chief demanded.

The first official said, "It's obvious you don't know a good thing when you see it. We're sorry we even brought it up."

The three officials started their long climb down. Waiting nervously at the bottom was Mayor John Lindsay.

"What did he say?" the Mayor wanted to know.

"No dice."

"I was afraid of that," Lindsay said. "Well, I'll have to think of something else."

Individuals should pick laws to obey

To the Editor:

Naive comments such as the following have recently been given much publicity: "Individuals do not have a right to decide which laws and regulations they will obey and which they will ignore and violate." With respect to such observations I am reminded of the portentous comment made by a great thinker in 1926:

"In my opinion a superabundance of regulations and prohibitions injures the authority of the law. It can be observed that where only a few prohibitions exist they are carefully observed, but where one is accompanied by prohibitions at every step, one feels definitely tempted to disregard them. Moreover, it does not mean one is quite an anarchist if one is prepared to realize that laws and regulations cannot from their origin claim to possess the attribute of being sacred and untransgressable, that they are often inadequately framed and offend our sense of justice, or will do so after a time, and that, in view of the sluggishness of the authorities, there is often no other means of correcting such inexpedient laws than by boldly violating them."

Latin Press Handicapped, Speaker Says

The Latin American press is building ties of common understanding among peoples and nations and is developing societies from traditional agrarian stages to modern industrial nations, according to James W. Markham, professor of journalism.

Markham, head of the international mass communications sequence, spoke Thursday at a meeting of the Pan American League. He stated that sensationalism and emotional shifts were typical of a large segment of the Latin American press, but that the performance of another segment was represented by a dozen or more distinguished, responsible, and even world famous journals.

Two of the more responsible newspapers he referred to were Brazil's "O Estado de Sao Paulo" and "La Prensa," both printed in Buenos Aires.

Markham said several factors influenced the way the Latin American press performed, including the political climate of the countries, the wide existence of poverty and illiteracy, and the rapid growth in population.

"Although Argentina's constitution guarantees freedom of the press, as do the constitutions of most Latin American countries, government control has limited press freedom since the early 1950's," Markham said.

"The Mexican government's control of the nation's newsprint supply through a combination private-government corporation and the government's 'Code of Ethics' for the press make Mexico's alleged freedom of the press somewhat illusory," he stated.

Markham gave the press of Latin America much credit for its continuous battle for freedom and for producing some of the world's finest newspapers.

"The potential is great for developing an outstanding press system in Latin America if literacy can be spread and standards of living increased," Markham said.

CSL Action Sets Policy Barring Press

The Committee on Student Life (CSL) voted unanimously Thursday to uphold its policy of barring the press from its meetings.

According to Allan D. Vestal, professor of law and chairman of CSL, press coverage of CSL meetings was last discussed formally about three years ago. CSL is a faculty-student committee that recommends policies and procedures on all phases of student life and activity except those covered by the Board in Control of Athletics and the Board of Trustees of Student Publications, Inc.

CSL recommendations are sent to the president of the University for approval.

Vestal said the 1962 decision to close CSL meetings to the press was made because the nature of the committee was advisory and deliberative.

Thursday's vote to continue this policy affirmed the reasons given for the earlier decision.

M. L. Huit, dean of students and ex officio member of CSL, said he would question the policy if he did not think students and faculty were kept informed of CSL decisions. Other members said they thought the press was kept well informed.

Student Senate President Bill Parisi, A4, Chicago Heights, Ill., said he thought the pressure of knowing a press representative was in the room might hamper discussion.

Faculty members of CSL are: Vestal, Daniel Moe, associate professor of music; Margaret Fox, professor of physical education; William M. Furnish, professor of geology; Robert P. Boynton, associate professor of political science; M. L. Huit (ex officio); Loren Kottner, Union director (ex officio); and Helen Reich, assistant director of student affairs (ex officio).

Student members are: Joan Countryman, A4, Nevada; Bill Parisi, A4, Chicago Heights, Ill.; and Rick Davis, A4, Ft. Dodge.

Rockefeller Foundation To Finance Music Center

A $100,000 grant from the Rockefeller Foundation will make possible the establishment of a major center for New Music at The University of Iowa within the next three years, with the first phase of the program scheduled to begin next September, according to Prof. Himie Voxman, director of the U of I School of Music.

The grant will enable the School to greatly expand its current program to provide opportunities for audiences to hear contemporary music and to bring promising young composers to the campus to develop their talent, said Prof. Richard B. Hervig, who will direct the Center for New Music. Prof. James Dixon, conductor of the U of I Symphony Orchestra, has been named adviser for the project.

HERVIG

With additional financial support from the University, the Center will bring a nucleus of composers and performers to the campus to write music and to perform a wide variety of contemporary works in programs to be given in major art centers, colleges, and universities throughout the Midwest, as well as at The University of Iowa.

U of I President Howard R. Bowen said of the Center for New Music, "I am very pleased that this kind of program in the arts will become part of the University, and am delighted at this further example of how the vision and professional stature of members of our faculty have earned the confidence of an institution such as the Rockefeller Foundation."

APPLICATIONS are being accepted now from composers, performers, and composer-performers, Dr. Hervig said. The project will support seven such musicians on the campus next year, with larger numbers to participate in the following two years. After the expiration of the three-year Rockefeller grant, the University expects to continue the enterprise with its own and private funds, Professor Voxman said.

Musicians wishing to apply for posts in the project next year are asked to write immediately to Prof. Hervig at the School of Music. Composers should submit manuscripts of works they have written, and performers should send tape recordings of programs they have presented, preferably including 20th century works. The Center is being set up primarily to tap and develop talent in the Midwest, but musicians from other parts of the country and from abroad will also be considered.

The seven musicians selected to participate next year will include a pianist and a percussionist, with other instrumentalists to be determined later, according to Hervig. The program will eventually include vocalists, Hervig said.

The U of I Center for New Music will be the first project of its type west of the Mississippi. It will be the fourth such program in the country supported by a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation. Others are at the University of Chicago, Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N.J., and the University of Buffalo, N.Y.

PERFORMERS chosen for the Center will present chamber music, including standard contemporary works, compositions by local and regional composers, and new music from other areas gaining attention in the music world. (Chamber music calls for only one performer on a part, as opposed to music for an orchestra, for example, which involves use of entire sections of instruments.)

A traveling jury supported through the Rockefeller grant will hold a series of auditions in the Midwest to recruit musicians for the U of I Center and to advise young performers and composers on career possibilities.

Full instructional and performance facilities of the School of Music will be available to the Center for New Music. University music groups such as the Choir and the Symphony Orchestra will continue to present new music and will on occasion perform works by composers in the Center.

Records Of Race And Origin To Be Made At Registration

At least one addition is expected to be made at this spring's registration to obtain information no longer available in University records — a record of each student's national origin and race.

Mechanics of such a census of the student body was discussed Thursday by the University Human Rights Committee.

FIGURES on the racial makeup of the student body are required by agencies of the Federal Government, according to Chairman James C. Spalding, associate professor of religion. Such statistics are necessary for any federal agency that provides aid, he said, "in order to indicate compliance with the Civil Rights Act of 1964."

At present, the University gets no racial information on students at admission or registration.

Such information can be valuable to a student, according to Phillip G. Hubbard, dean of academic affairs, who said the Student Placement Office often gets requests for Negroes.

"Law firms and other companies often would like to employ a Negro," he said, "and are unable to find one because the placement office is unable to supply them with such a student's name."

RACIAL ORIGIN information was formerly listed at registration, but the faculty and administration voted to remove the question.

Spalding expressed concern that such information might be misused by some individuals and said that such data should be kept confidential to protect the students.

Spalding said unless somewhat "accurate statistics" are available to the government, the government compiles its own "Dean Rhodes feels the figures the government now has are not very realistic," he said.

MAN CHARGED — Lorin T. Eichler, 107 Second Ave, Coralville, was charged by police Thursday with failure to yield at a stop intersection.

Police said that a car driven by Eichler, 19, collided with a car driven by Jimmy D. Kennard, 30, Rural Route 5 Thursday at the intersection of Washington and Dodge Streets.

Peace Vigil To Continue, Group Vows

The Viet Nam Peace Vigil will conclude its first week today.

The Rev. William M. Weir said Thursday that so far 48 persons had joined in the vigil "as an expression of their concern for continued efforts to achieve peace in Viet Nam. Participants have been meeting from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. this week in the Unitarian Universalist Library. Beginning Sunday they will meet at Wesley House.

The vigil was initiated New Year's Day when 20 Iowa City residents sent a telegram to President Johnson encouraging his continued effort to achieve peace in Viet Nam.

4 Reformatory Writers Attend Campus Class

Four members of the Writer's Studio of the Men's Reformatory at Anamosa attended a class in Fiction Writing Wednesday at the Writer's Workshop.

The Writer's Studio was formed a year ago by men at the state reformatory to teach members to write for publication. The class, taught by Eugene Garber, assistant professor of English, discussed a short story by Gary Chartier, a member of the Writer's Studio who was not present.

Buffalo Names New Coach

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Joel Collier, a master of defense, was appointed head coach Thursday of the Buffalo Bills, champions of the American Football League. He succeeds Lou Saban, his boss for the last nine years.

Saban, who directed the Bills to AFL titles in 1964 and 1965 during his four-year reign, quit his $30,000-a-year job Sunday night to become head football coach at the University of Maryland.

Bills, owner Ralph C. Wilson Jr., told a news conference he has given Collier a two-year contract. The terms were not announced.

Wilson said he had consulted with his associates before offering Collier the job Thursday morning.

Now It's Arkansas' Turn; Lost Pig Upsets Louisiana

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Louisiana State's Tigers upset the Arkansas Razorbacks in the Cotton Bowl football game, but Arkansas Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett appears to have upset Louisiana in another Cotton Bowl battle — over a pig.

It's a razorback, to be exact, named Royal Red Boy No. 1, a 180-pound, four-tusked, hairy dyed red, genuine razorback from the wildwoods of South Arkansas.

Bennett bet Red Boy against a tiger cub in a wager with Louisiana Atty. Gen. Jack Gremlion over the outcome of the bowl game, won by LSU, 14-7.

And then the fun began.

"We waited for several hours after the bowl game to see if LSU fans would claim him," Bennett said. "But no one did. Besides, I didn't see any tiger cub at the game."

While being brought back to his native state, Red Boy escaped, according to Bennett, and has been footloose and fancy free since then.

"I don't really believe that hog escaped," Gremlion said.

"I believe this is a deliberate plot on the part of Bennett to keep from fulfilling his obligation," Bennett countered.

"My friend Gremlion is making a lot of wild charges here, and no doubt it goes back to the fact that for years and years they've been eating crawfish, oysters and sea foods down there and they're hungry for real, red meat."

In lieu of Red Boy, Bennett has offered to ship butchered pork to Baton Rouge so the Bayou Bengals can feast — as Gremlion wants — on hog meat.

"Bennett wanted to send me a butchered hog, but he's liable to poison our football team," Gremlion said.

Iowa Teams On The Road To Michigan

It's off to Ann Arbor this weekend for the Iowa wrestling and gymnastics teams as both face rugged tests from strong Michigan teams.

In wrestling, Michigan, winner of three straight conference championships, will be a huge threat to Iowa's sophomore dominated wrestling team. The Hawks are currently 1-0 in Big 10 competition this season after a 17-9 victory over Illinois Dec. 17. The team will also face the University of Toledo in a duel meet at Ann Arbor.

The gymnastics team takes on similar odds as they go up against a strong Michigan team that has won the conference title for the last five seasons. The Hawks will also face Ohio State in the meet.

In overall sports competition for the month of December, Iowa teams posted a 10-1 record — the best ever for Hawkeye teams in that month.

Big Ten Cage Race To Begin Saturday

The mystery of the Big 10 basketball race will begin to unfold Saturday as the conference swings into its first full weekend of activity.

Five conference games are scheduled for the day, with the highlight being defending champion Michigan's test with rugged Ohio State.

Coach Dave Strack and his Michigan team will find out quickly what lies ahead of them in their quest for a third straight basketball crown as they return to the site of their only 1965 defeat — Ohio State's St. John's Arena — to face a Buckeye team that appears to be headed once more for a successful season.

MICHIGAN, with All-American Cazzie Russell, had been tabbed by numerous seers in pre-season speculations to retain conference honors. However, Ralph Miller's Iowa ball club has served notice that its predicted role as challenger is definitely serious.

While the defending champion Wolverines have slumped to a mediocre 6-4 non-conference record, the Hawkeyes have roared off to an 8-1 non-conference mark — the best among Big 10 teams thus far. The Hawks had reeled off eight straight victories before 68-68 in the Sun Bowl Classic last week. They are currently ranked seventh in the Associated Press basketball poll.

IOWA WILL get its first conference test in Madison, Wis., Saturday afternoon where they will play the Wisconsin Badgers.

Another game of top interest is the battle between Minnesota and Michigan State which will take place in East Lansing, Mich.

MINNESOTA HAD been a serious contender until Dec. 18 when All-American candidate Lou Hudson broke his wrist and began a minimum of six weeks on the sidelines. The Gophers at that time were 4-0. Since then, however they have broken even in six games and are currently 7-3.

Their opponent for the game, Michigan State, has been the biggest surprise in the Big 10 thus far this season. The Spartans, under new coach John Benington, appear to be in process of turning an almost complete reversal from their disastrous 5-18 record of a season ago. Employing the defensive tactics that Benington brought with him from St. Louis University, the Spartans have limited opponents to an average of 66.2 points per game and have in the process molded a 7-3 non-conference record.

The remaining games in Saturday's schedule pit Illinois against Indiana, and Purdue against Northwestern.

ILLINOIS 3-6, will be playing its second conference game of the season when it takes on the Indiana Hoosiers, 4-5, in Bloomington, Ind. They scored a 90-70 victory over Wisconsin Dec. 14 in the first regularly scheduled conference game of the season.

The Purdue-Northwestern game will be regionally televised from Evanston, Ill. The game will start at 3 p.m. locally and will be telecast in color over WMTV in Cedar Rapids.

Three conference games are scheduled for Monday. They are: Indiana at Michigan, Michigan State at Purdue, and Northwestern at Iowa.

Top College Stars To Vie In Bowl Games Saturday

HONOLULU — A South senior collegiate squad that includes some of the highest-priced professional football draftees of 1966 is favored to beat the North All-Stars in the 20th Hula Bowl game Friday night.

The North squad are a sprinkling of men who became wealthy by signing contracts with the National or American Football League.

The South's talent is headed by three All-Americans, all of whom received fat pro contracts. They are Mike Garrett, Southern California halfback who led the nation in rushing and won the Heisman Award as the outstanding player of the year, Tommy Nobis, University of Texas guard, and halfback Donny Anderson, who shattered most of Texas Tech's offensive records.

Up front the South has other All-Americans in Carl McAdams, Oklahoma middle guard; Glen Ray Hines, Arkansas tackle, and Walter Barnes, Nebraska tackle.

There are three All-Americans with the North, including fullback Jim Grabowski of Illinois; quarterback Steve Juday of Michigan State and Aaron Brown, Minnesota end.

MOBILE, Ala. — North and South squads held their last major workouts for the Senior Bowl football game Thursday and selected their captains.

Oklahoma State fullback Walt Garrison will captain the North on offense with Missouri halfback Johnny Roland making the decisions on defense in Saturday's game.

Tennessee linebacker Frank Emanuel will captain the South on defense and Texas A & I quarterback Randy Johnson on offense.

South Coach Weeb Ewbank of the New York Jets said Alabama halfback David Roy and Mississippi halfback Billy Clay will share punting duty for the South. Roy also will handle kick-offs and placements.

Boston Patriot Coach Mike Holovak, North team leader, said that Oklahoma's Mike Ringer, Xavier's George Wilson and Missouri's Gary Lane will punt for the North. Massachusetts end Milt Morin will kick off for the Yanks and share placement assignments with Tulsa end Howard Twilley.

REMEMBER? REMEMBER? REMEMBER?

The way history is taught in school today, it's almost as fresh as yesterday's front page. If you had kept a file of the paper for last year and the year before that, your youngster would have a head start towards honors in current events.

You can do still better than that. By obtaining a copy of THE WORLD IN 1965 — and, if you didn't get one already, of THE WORLD IN 1964 — you can provide him with an educational tool that will set him apart.

No dry-as-dust yearbook, THE WORLD IN 1965 contains all the facts but recounts in dramatic, telling detail the big events, the interesting events, the significant events, of the year. The quality of the hundreds of news photos, in color and black and white, rivals that of the text.

This big, 288-page, handsome book, costing only $3, has been prepared by the world's foremost news gathering agency, The Associated Press, which cooperates with this newspaper in supplying you with the news of the nation and the world.

To obtain your copy of THE WORLD IN 1965, fill out and mail the coupon at once. The book will be ready in February.

Presents . . . Miss Sue Soult
Delta Chi Fraternity's
Girl Of The Month

For January, Delta Chi Fraternity is pleased to honor Miss Susan Soult as the Delta Chi Girl of the Month. Sue is shown wearing a spring outfit of yellow and coral from the Sportswear Department of Alden's. Both the rayon and cotton Capri slacks and the print, ruffled sleeve blouse of 100% acetate are made by Rosecrest. Miss Soult is a senior from Ames, Iowa, majoring in Elementary Education, and is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority.

Oster Makes Folk Record

By TOM LONGDEN
Staff Writer
A unique collection of Iowa folk songs has been made into a long-playing record by a University faculty member who specializes in folk literature.

The "Folk Voices of Iowa," produced by Harry Oster, associate professor of English, has been published as part of a new monograph by the University. The 12-inch record, accompanied by a 24-page explanatory booklet, contains 24 tracks of music of the major ethnic and religious groups of Iowa. Included are songs of the Czechoslovakians, Norwegians, Germans, Amish, Mennonites, Dutch, and American Indian.

The songs are in a variety of forms: child's ballad, fable, ragtime, hillbilly, and Bluegrass music, and an old Negro spiritual now used in civil rights demonstrations. Instruments used include a fiddle, guitar, zither, banjo, harmonica and accordion.

The more than 32 performers (excluding an entire Mennonite church congregation) include a Cedar Rapids housewife, a Mesquaki Indian couple from near Tama, a Czech band and a farm laborer originally from the Tennessee mountains.

According to Oster, the record is an attempt to preserve the music of Iowa's main ethnic and religious groups before it becomes lost or forgotten. As a relatively young area, Oster said, Iowa has not yet lost its distinct ethnic groups.

Prowler Enters A D Pi House

Detectives are investigating the report that a prowler entered the Alpha Delta Pi sorority house, 11 E. Bloomington St., about 6 a.m. Thursday.

Housemother Mrs. Naomi Adams said the man entered a third floor bedroom. He was described as about 5 feet, 11 inches tall; medium build; and wearing a black ski cap and dark trench coat.

She said he had checked two dressers when he realized one of the girls was awake. He then ran from the house.

The girl was unable to see the prowler's face because he had his back to her the entire time, she said. Nothing was taken from the dressers, police were told.

TIME INC.

Campus Representative for 1965

A position is now open on your campus. A Time Inc. college representative on a small or medium-sized campus can expect to earn $200 to $750 in commissions annually selling subscriptions to TIME, LIFE, SPORTS ILLUSTRATED and FORTUNE at reduced students' and educator rates. On larger campuses, many of our representatives earn over $750 a year. They work hard, of course, but their hours are their own, and they gain valuable business experience in this year-round marketing program. Send name and address, college, class and any other information you consider important to Time Inc., College Bureau, TIME & LIFE Building, Rockefeller Center, New York City 10020. All applications must be submitted by January 20, 1966. You will be contacted promptly.
