Senate Takes Up 14B Repeal Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate took up the issue Monday of ending the authority of states to ban the union shop and began its first floor fight of 1966.

At the outset, the fight was in the jabs and parries of parliamentary maneuvering to get the legislation before the Senate for debate.

IT COULD lead Tuesday to a demand that a Senate clerk read — for about two hours — the President's budget message.

Both House and Senate received the message Monday and the House adjourned soon after.

But the Senate turned to a major piece of administration legislation, the repeal of section 14B of the Taft-Hartley law. This section permits states to forbid union shop contracts under which employees are required to join a union or, at least, pay union dues.

Nineteen states have such laws.

SENATE Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana moved to take up the bill. Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois rose immediately to protest.

Dirksen defended filibustering against the motion to take up the bill, saying, "I have no choice but to adopt whatever weapons are available under Senate rules to prevent what I believe to be offensive legislation."

Plane Crash In Alps Kills All 117 Aboard

CHAMONIX, France (AP) — A New York-bound Air India plane crashed Monday near the peak of mist-shrouded Mont Blanc, killing all 117 persons aboard.

Wreckage and bodies were scattered for miles over the snow-covered Alps in this third worst single plane disaster in aviation history. Scorched mail from the plane was found as far as five miles away on the Italian side of the peak.

The Boeing 707, named "Kanchanjunga," crashed apparently seconds after receiving permission to land at Geneva's Cointrin Airport at 8 a.m. local time. Air India said it carried 106 passengers and a crew of 11.

THE PILOT reported the plane off course at 19,000 feet, a safe margin over the 15,781-foot Mont Blanc, tallest in Western Europe. But the plane struck 1,400 feet below the summit on the French side.

The weather was generally clear over the Alps when the plane crashed near the mountain refuge of Vallo, but there was a possibility the plane was caught in a local blizzard.

Air India's area operations manager, Capt. K. R. Gazdar, discounted this after circling the crash area. He reported: "The weather was perfect. We have absolutely no explanation how this could happen. Everything seemed perfect, the weather, and the plane's instruments — and a few split seconds later all contact was lost."

THE VICTIMS included India's noted nuclear scientist, Dr. Homi Bhabha, chairman of the Indian Atomic Energy Commission, en route to a meeting in Vienna, Austria.

Air India in New York listed one American, James W. Gray, about 30, New York City, a space control supervisor for Air India, aboard the plane.

The $6-million to $7-million plane hit the mountain at a huge rock shoulder called La Tourrette, not far from Vallo — the last Alpine hut before the summit. If the plane had been flying a few yards higher, it would have cleared.

Viet Cong's Mortar Bombing Of Da Nang Said Ineffective

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong rained 42 mortar shells on the big U.S. Marine base at Da Nang early Tuesday, killing three Americans.

Two Vietnamese soldiers also were killed, a U.S. military spokesman said, and 25 persons were wounded — 11 Americans, 11 Vietnamese soldiers and 3 Vietnamese civilians.

No planes were hit and there were no fires although eight to ten rounds of mortar fire fell in a zone that included an oil and gasoline storage area. Several trucks, other vehicles and a mobile crane were damaged, he said.

THE AMERICANS killed were two Marines and one air policeman. The air policeman died from a direct mortar round near the flight line. One of the two Marines killed was a mortarmen on duty at the Seabee mobile construction battalion encampment across the Han River from the main airbase.

A forward air controller estimated 190 Communists were killed. An U.S. spokesman said the planes destroyed 30 buildings, damaged 35 and touched off an explosion that could have been a fuel or ammunition dump.

THE VIET CONG raised a new threat to U.S. prisoners. A broadcast said the United States and South Vietnam would "have to bear full responsibility" if they imprisoned or executed three terrorists arrested Jan. 7 with 265 pounds of explosives near Saigon. The three were plotting to bomb a U.S. Army billet in Saigon, Vietnamese police said.

The Communists issued similar warnings last year, then announced they had shot three U.S. prisoners in reprisal for executions by South Vietnam.

They are known to hold at least 22 Americans.

The U.S. Marines apparently took the brunt of the Viet Cong mortar attack at Da Nang. Twenty-one rounds of mortar fire fell in the area of the 1st Battalion of the 9th Marine Regiment, deployed south of Marble Mountain. Casualties there were not determined.

Johnson's Budget For 'Great Society' Shatters Records

Fulbright Queried U.S. Viet Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.) said Monday the Johnson administration's refusal to recognize the Viet Cong as a major party to any peace negotiations may be a stumbling block to its Viet Nam peace offensive.

He called for an indefinite continuation of the halt in bombing North Viet Nam, saying the Christmas-New Year lull now in its 32nd day has been a very short time for all parties to consider negotiations.

"Personally I feel we ought to allow a longer time," Fulbright told reporters.

HE ADDED that while the peace offensive has not been productive, a number of non-aligned countries have taken an interest in it, and if bombings were resumed the feeling would be that we had given up any hope of negotiations for the foreseeable future.

Fulbright, who is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has come out previously for a suspension of bombing of North Viet Nam to encourage the Communists there to negotiate.

The chairman expressed belief that the Communist Viet Cong should be invited to a seat at the negotiating table after hearing Secretary of State Dean Rusk outline the administration's position at a three-hour closed committee session.

SEN. JOSEPH S. CLARK (D-Pa.) also advocates a continuation of the bombing lull, told newsmen that Rusk underwent a grueling crossfire of questions from members who oppose and those who advocate an early resumption of bombings.

Rusk told a nationwide radio-television audience Sunday night that the real problem is not representation for the National Front for Liberation, which is the Viet Cong's political arm, but Communists' attempt to impose Red rule on South Viet Nam by force.

A poor 'best'

IOWA CITY IS NO CITY when it comes to snow removal. Burg or ville would be a more appropriately descriptive term.

Although Des Moines, Dubuque, Cedar Rapids and Davenport (to name only a few) were able to clean their streets after the snow of Jan. 12, Iowa City's street cleaners have not done anything like an adequate job.

The main streets in this town had only patches of ice on them by a week after the storm. The street cleaners aided in bringing this situation about, we are sure, but the heavy traffic also played a part. The side streets are little better today than they were the day after the storm.

It is true that the Jan. 12 storm was a combination of freezing ice with snow. This is hard to clear off the streets, but other cities in Iowa have been able to do it. Iowa City hasn't.

One official, commenting on criticism from irate winter motorists, told a WSUI reporter recently, "We're doing the best we can."

If this is indeed the case, it is obvious that their best is far from good enough.

Y'all come!

STUDENTS INTERESTED in their role in campus affairs should attend a meeting on government reorganization scheduled for 3:45 p.m. today in the Union Lucas Dodge room.

Today's meeting will provide an excellent opportunity for learning more about the student government reorganization report which was printed in last Wednesday's Iowan. Bill Parisi, student body president and chairman of the committee which wrote the report, will explain the report. Presidents of the major organizations involved in the reorganization will also be on hand to discuss the issues and answer questions.

It is especially important that Iowa's younger students attend the meeting. The freshmen and sophomores are the ones who will be most directly affected if the recommendations of the report are implemented. Underclassmen who entertain aspirations of someday doing big things in student government should consider the meeting a "must."

Protect our young

IT IS AMAZING how much publicity a fellow can get when he hits an Iowan right in the Blue Laws.

Ever since a Harvard psychiatrist suggested it would be a good idea to teach students how to drink in school, Iowans have been up in arms. Although this state won't even allow beer in the Union (for adults only), one would think there was impending danger of the suds solution being brought to the Iowa school systems.

Many citizens seem to be preoccupied with the dangers of beer and the evil it can work on youth. Letters are written to newspapers, petitions are circulated, politicians denounce the Harvard psychiatrist and many clergymen are indignant.

It is truly unfortunate that there doesn't seem to be any way to get people as enthusiastic about something significant as they are about their petty feelings of imposed and enforced morality. It is a real waste of natural resources.

Symphony band concert is musical triumph

By DAVE REID
Staff Writer

Probably the most frequently heard complaints about bands is that they are loud and that they sound muddy compared to their more sophisticated counterpart, the symphony orchestra.

The University Symphony Band, under the direction of Frederick C. Ebbs, however, made it quite clear at the outset of their Friday evening concert in the Union that it is the musical equal of any ensemble.

A safe test of any musical organization is the quality of sound it can produce while it is playing softly. The band showed that this was no problem as it began Creston's "Celebration Overture, Op. 61" with a powerful entrance and which soon subsided into a soft, clean passage of lyrical brass.

THE SECOND SELECTION, an arrangement of Vivaldi's "Concerto for Two Trumpets" for some reason featured the talents of half a dozen of the band's upper brass men. The audience blundered into the performance with applause, but either out of appreciation for the performance or as a token of apology for misconduct, brought the sextet back for a second bow.

The conclusion of the pre-intermission performance presented "La Fiesta Mexicana" — Mexican Folk Song Symphony" by H. O. Reed. The work was a refreshing presentation of contemporary sound. The hemiola of chimes preceded a blast of the full band in the Prelude to a boisterous Aztec Dance. The chimes returned at the start of the second movement to introduce a pensive Mass. The Symphony concluded with a joyful third movement entitled "Carnival."

Following a 15 minute interlude, the band returned to present Latham's very pleasant sounding "Escapade Suite" in three movements. A dynamic Overture preceded a touching lyrical Serenade. A rollicksome Carnival with blaring brass concluded the Suite.

Penelope Peterson was featured in the "Serenade — Solo for Flute" by Hanson. Miss Peterson, a petite blonde, charmed the audience with her mastery of the instrument and her presentation of the rapidly flowing and lyrical solo.

THE BAND RETURNED to the realm of contemporary musical literature with a presentation of Gunther Schuller's "Meditation for Band." A very good selection, the piece again enabled the band to show its ability to play softly through most of the piece.

James Neilson, guest conductor, came to the podium to direct the band in Robert Russell Bennett's arrangement of selections from Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess." The audience responded with warm applause to such tunes as "Summertime," "I Got Plenty of Nothin'," and "It Ain't Necessarily So."

The scheduled concert was concluded with Alford's familiar "Colonel Bogey." After hearing this march butchered by so many bands, it was certainly refreshing to hear it done well.

A rousing applause brought Ebbs back to announce that the band, which will embark on a European tour next semester, would play Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever" as an encore. Ebbs used his showmanship by having the brass stand up through the last strain.

The audience responded with a standing ovation which brought the conductor back for three bows.

Cyclist complains

To the Editor:

It is time our University officials take a good look at their policy because it is casting a very hypocritical shadow. They claim they would prefer students to drive motorcycles or bicycles to alleviate the parking problem caused by such a great number of automobile-driving students.

So what do they do but turn around and penalize the motorcyclist.

First they closed the cycle lot between Quad and Hillcrest, making an automobile lot out of it, and opened a new area for parking at the south end of South Quad's parking lot.

Second, they closed the motorcycle lot one-half block south of the Pentacrest and opened a new one two blocks walking distance from the Pentacrest. Not that extra one and a half blocks are going to kill us, but it does prove to be detrimental to the plea for fewer cars and more motorcycles. The reason the University gave for closing this lot was that motorcycles supposedly were making too much noise. The fact remains, though, that this noise (the amount is debatable) is generally confined to the 10 minute period between classes when motorcyclists are arriving for class and leaving.

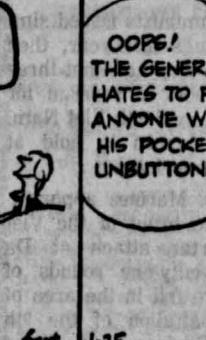

It would be possible to band together all the motorcyclists to get up some morning about 7 and take all the street parking places in the area around the Pentacrest (which would be handier than using the new lot and is just as legal). In this way we could prove that we have a general gripe about this situation, and we would have the support of the car drivers who would understandably want us out of the street parking places.

So I am asking the University to look at the situation it has caused and to lift this restriction. Such a move would truly be better for all concerned.

Murder analyzed in nonfiction novel

By TOM FENSCH
Staff Writer

The craft of crime reporting has come a long way. From the analysis of a Dostoevsky, through the impression of a Dreiser, the spectrum of murder has come to an ultimate halt in the cold, harsh light of a book by Truman Capote.

Capote, formerly known as an antebellum Southern dilettante, a writer of rococo portraits, of occasional horrors in the Faulknerian tradition, has changed.

And his change may mark a significant change in the craft of fiction.

Capote has written about a senseless murder in the style of a journalist.

Capote calls his new style "a new literary form," a "nonfiction novel." He is half right.

"In Cold Blood" (Random House, $5.95) is a "nonfiction novel." But it is not a "new literary form." Lillian Ross did essentially the same thing in The New Yorker with her portrait of Ernest Hemingway. John Hersey did it in the same magazine with his long article "Hiroshima."

IT IS, HOWEVER, a "nonfiction novel" and for that Capote deserves all the monetary rewards he will reap. As he says, in the preface:

"All the material in this book not derived from my own observation is the result of interviews with the persons directly concerned, more often than not numerous interviews conducted over a considerable period of time."

Capote spent six years in the wilds of western Kansas: "The village of Holcomb stands on the high wheat plains of western Kansas, a lonesome area that other Kansans call 'out there'." Capote catches the spirit, the sound, the atmosphere, of endless wheatlands and long, straight roads.

AT FIRST HE DIDN'T care about the outcome of the crime. He was preoccupied with his story. As he became more and more involved, he began to surprise detectives with his knowledge. And when the criminals were caught — two psychopaths named Perry Smith and Dick Hickock — Capote's perception grew.

After their trial (an unemotional, low-key part of the book) and after all appeals were lost and Smith and Hickock were hanged — Capote paid for their gravestones and cried for three days.

"I had to live it all to get it all," he said.

The difference between "In Cold Blood" and other crime stories is the amount of insight Capote achieves. He not only describes the two misfits (readers may suspect them of homosexual tendencies — Capote is careful to shy away from any such allusion) but captures their minds as well. Hickock's face "seemed composed of mismatching parts. It was as though his head had been halved like an apple, then put together a fraction off center." Smith had "the thick, crouching torso of a weight lifter. . . . But some sections of him were not in proportion to others . . . when he stood up, he was no taller than a 12-year-old child."

THE BIT PLAYERS in Capote's drama come off, well too: the citizens of Holcomb, suspicious of each other, leave porch lights burning all night; they are involved because the Clutter family — Herbert, Bonnie and their children Nancy, 16, and Kenyon, 15, were highly respected.

Capote's first idea was to show the effects of a purposeless crime. (He moved to Kansas and began the search after reading an insignificant story in The New York Times.) He interviewed the Kansas citizens without taking notes, a practice considered outrageous by other straight newsmen covering the crime. But, as Capote said, "taking notes produces the wrong kind of atmosphere and makes the whole thing false. I trained myself to remember years ago by getting a friend to read me the Sears, Roebuck catalog. I would transcribe back . . . at first I could remember only 40 per cent, then after three months 60 per cent. Now I can remember 90 per cent and who cares about the other 10 per cent?"

So "In Cold Blood" is a financial success. Capote is assured several millions of dollars from book sales, paperback rights, and movie sales.

It will change Capote's significance in the world of letters, but more important, it will change the style of countless writers. And with just cause. "In Cold Blood" is a classic in criminal psychology. Readers want to bolt their doors and read it with their backs to a wall. It is a penetrating study of human animals who kill for no reason at all.

Nurses Speak On Retarded At Workshop

More than 25 nurses from Iowa and four surrounding states are in the first part of a program considering phases of mental retardation. It will be held today through Thursday at a workshop in the Union.

Previous workshops have been held in Sioux City and Des Moines.

The second part of the program, financed by a grant from the U.S. Children's Bureau, will be June 22-24, when participants in these three workshops meet together.

The program focuses on prevention of mental retardation and the care and welfare of the mentally retarded child. Nurses in Region VI of the U.S. Children's Bureau, which includes North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri, may attend the conference.

Pearl Zemlicka, assistant professor of nursing, is coordinating the workshops. Faculty members for the sessions are Elizabeth Hutchins, Mary Rock and June Triplett, all assistant professors of nursing.

Subjects to be considered in the initial session include "The Social-Cultural Impact of Mental Retardation: Directions for the Future," "Changing Attitudes Toward Mental Retardation," "Normal Growth and Development as a Basis for Teaching Care of Mentally Retarded Children" and "Mental Retardation in the Basic Nursing Curriculum."

Interim projects will be carried out by workshop participants before the second workshop session in June.

City Skating Rink Will Close

The Melrose ice skating rink in west Iowa City will close permanently at the end of this season, after serving the city for 35 years.

L. J. Consamus, 57, of 831 Melrose Ave., operator of the rink, said Monday the rink's equipment was worn out. The rink, located at 831 Melrose Ave., is prohibited from expansion or improvement by zoning regulations, he said.

ANOTHER PROBLEM Consamus mentioned was the difficulty of obtaining help to run the rink.

"It's not a question of money," said Consamus, who is retired. "I got satisfaction from the job, but I can't subsidize it any longer."

The rink was started in 1931 by Consamus' father, Lawrence L. Consamus, and was operated by the family. Since the death of his father in 1957 Consamus has run the rink himself.

ORIGINALLY the park was 19 acres, including a three and one half acre lake. Five acres of the park were sold to a development company in 1957 to settle the estate of Lawrence Consamus.

Consamus said the entire property had been offered to the city of Iowa City in 1957, but they had turned down the proposal.

He said the equipment, a snow blower, benches and hand tools, would be sold after the season. The property will not be sold, he said.

County Sheriff's Office To Get New Quarters

BY GARY OLSON
Staff Writer

The Johnson County Sheriff's department is expected to make its "big move" — down two flights of stairs, across a driveway and into a basement — about March 1.

The department will move from its present office on the second floor of the county courthouse to the newly-remodeled basement of the county jail.

WORK to remodel the jail began Dec. 1. The job is now about half done, Sheriff Maynard E. Schneider said this week.

Wayne Walters, county civil defense director, will also move his office from the second floor of the courthouse building to the basement.

Prompting the decision to move were the plans to purchase a county police and fire radio network.

"WE JUST NEEDED more space if we were going to have the radios," Schneider said.

The network will provide direct communication between the sheriff's department and all cities in the county except Swisher, which voted to stay out of the network.

Nine rooms are being built in the basement. Among these will be the main office and the radio operator's room, where an operator will be on duty 24 hours a day. A private room for attorneys and their clients has also been added, plus a receptionist's office, the sheriff's private office, private offices for two deputies, and a workshop.

THE OTHER room is an area for processing prisoners. Here the new prisoner will be showered, shaved, fingerprinted and issued his uniform. After processing, the prisoner will be taken upstairs to the main cellblock.

Schneider said having everything in one building would be more efficient. Also, he said, privacy in handling prisoners will increase. A private drive is being built around the west side of the jail.

Last year, the original estimate for the remodeling, not including the driveway, was about

Political Interns To Be Selected

One-week political internships in Washington, D.C., are now open to 16 students through the Iowa Center for Education in Politics (ICEP).

The political interns will work in the offices of three members of the Iowa congressional delegation, attend sessions of Congress and committee hearings, visit national political party headquarters, and meet Congressional, party and governmental leaders and officials.

The hosts for this year's program are Sen. Jack Miller (Rep.-Sioux City), Reps. Neal Smith (Dem.-Altoona), and John Schmidhauser (Dem.-Iowa City).

Internships are awarded on the basis of scholarship, interest and experience in politics and leadership and campus activities. Application forms may be obtained through the political science departments of all Iowa four-year colleges and universities.

Applications should be sent not later than Feb. 11 to the Iowa Center for Education in Politics, Division of Extension and University Services.

what is your potential?

When you think deeply about it from a religious standpoint, you begin to wonder — can anyone really measure man's potential, or put any limits on it? Can you measure God's love for His creation? No. But we can learn to let it mold and fill our lives. Hear this public lecture, "What Is Your Potential?" by JANE O. ROBBINS, C.S., member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship in Boston, Mass.

Raise In Tuition Rate Below Median Here

The University lags behind the average state university or land grant college in one area that most students approve, tuition increase.

According to a survey by the Office of Institutional Research, the University remained below the median of such institutions in the per cent it increased tuition for the 1965-66 academic year over academic year 1964-65. The median is that value equally dividing the list of schools.

The survey, which covered 97 schools in 50 states, showed the median in-state tuition rose 5.4 per cent this year, but the University's in-state fee remained the same.

Although the university raised out-of-state fees this year, the increase was below the median tuition raise of 19.9 per cent. The University non-resident raise from $770 a year to $850 was an increase of 9.4 per cent.

In terms of dollars and cents, according to the report, University tuition costs for both residents and non-residents are substantially higher than the association.

tion median. This year's association median for in-state students is $311; the University's in-state fee for one year is $340. The association median figure for non-residents for this year is $734; the University fee is $850.

The University will raise fees another $80 for academic 1966-67 but keep in-state fees constant.

Prof. Ohmes Violin Soloist In Third University Concert

The University Symphony Orchestra's third concert of the season, at 8 tonight in the Union Main Lounge, will feature violin soloist Allen F. Ohmes, associate professor of music.

Ohmes will play "Concerto For Violin and Orchestra in D Major, Op. 77," by Brahms. Written at the height of his career, the concerto is one of Brahms' major works. It was dedicated to the famous violinist Joseph Joachim, who was the soloist for the first performance.

Also on the program, conducted by James A. Dixon, associate professor of music, will be Schubert's "Symphony No. 2 in B-Flat Major" and Donald Martino's "Composition for Orchestra."

Tickets for the concert are still available at the Union Information Desk. The concert will be broadcast on WSUI and KSUI-FM.

Break Away In Second Half, In Big 10 Race With 3-2 Mark

By RON BLISS

Assistant Sports Editor

The Iowa Hawkeyes firmly re-established themselves as Big 10 title contenders Monday night as they put on a dazzling second half display of basketball to whip a fine Ohio State team 98-89 in a game played in the Field House.

Iowa is now 3-2 in the Big 10 and ranks fourth behind Michigan, 4-0, Michigan State, 4-1, and Illinois, 3-1.

The Hawks broke open a tight, but fast moving ball game in the final 13 minutes of the game as they made coach Ralph Miller's pressure brand of basketball work to its fullest potential.

With the score knotted at 61-61 with 13:22 remaining, the Hawks came alive and broke a tight game wide open by outscoring the sharp-shooting Buckeyes 22-6 in the next six minutes of play.

Led by the fine shooting of Gary Olson, George Peebles, and Dennis Pauling, Iowa moved its lead out to 88-71 before Ohio State was able to recover. But for the Buckeyes it was too late.

Iowa jumped out to a 10-3 lead early in the game, but their lead soon wilted and Ohio State took command at 15-13 with 15:08 left in the first half. The lead changed hands several times after that, with Ohio State taking a 43-41 halftime advantage.

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Two American pairs advanced to the men's doubles quarter-finals of the Australian Tennis Championships Monday, but the pick-up team of Arthur Ashe and George MacCall was knocked out in the highlight match of a dull day.

Ashe, the Negro star from Los Angeles who has been a sensation on the Australian circuit this season, and MacCall, 47-year-old captain of the U.S. team, were beaten by Swedish veteran Lennart Bergelin and Richard Crealy of Australia 6-3, 6-3, 5-6, 6-1.

MacCall got into the competition when Ashe's original partner, Cliff Richey of Dallas, Tex., was called home to resume his high school studies.

Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., and Clark Graebner of Beachwood, Ohio, moved up with a 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 victory over Warren Jacobs and John Pearce of Australia. Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif., and Herb FitzGibbon of Garden City, N.Y., defeated Allan Stone and John Cooper of Australia 6-4, 6-4, 6-2.

Australia's top teams, Roy Emerson-Fred Stolle and John Newcombe-Tony Roche, also gained the quarter-finals. Emerson and Stolle beat Eugene Russo and Barry Phillips-Moore of Australia 6-3, 6-3, 6-2. Newcombe and Roche defeated Australians Bill Bowrey and Allan Lane 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

The Buckeyes stayed close in the early moments of the second half, but then the Iowa rally put the game out of Ohio State's reach.

The Hawks' fine play offset an outstanding display of outside shooting put on by Ohio State's Ron Sepic and Bill Hosket. Hosket and Sepic continually hit field goals of from 20 to 30 feet to keep the Buckeyes in the game most of the way.

For the game, Hosket hit 13 of 19 field goal attempts, while Sepic managed 10 of 15.

Iowa did some fine shooting of its own, however, as Gary Olson, who hasn't scored more than seven points in each of his last five outings, hit nine of 12 field goals and added five free throws to tie George Peebles for team scoring honor with 23 points.

Peebles made nine out of ten field goals in the game and added five free throws for his total.

Three other Hawkeyes were in double figures as Chris Pervall and Gerry Jones each scored 15 points and captain Dennis Pauling added 14.

Both teams shot well from the field with Ohio State shooting 55.4 per cent and Iowa 54.9. Ohio State held a 38-28 edge in rebounds.

In Saturday's game, the Hawks put on what coach Ralph Miller described as the team's best round effort of the season to knock Michigan State from the unbeaten ranks in the Big 10, 90-76.

Coach Ralph Miller seemed relieved after the game and said, "We did everything well today, we quit worrying about missing easy shots and relaxed more."

"The boys disciplined themselves very well in the game," Miller said, "and they concentrated on following the game pattern. The team came out to play basketball and did a good job of it."

Miller was especially pleased with the performance of captain Dennis Pauling's 21-point performance in the game, Pauling concentrated on nine of 12 field goal attempts in the game and made six consecutive attempts in the first five minutes of the second half to break the game wide open for the Hawkeyes.

In the first nine minutes of Saturday's game, the lead sawed back and forth, but Iowa grabbed a lead at 20-19 with ten minutes remaining in the half and never trailed after that.

The Hawks mounted a 14 point lead early in the second half at 61-47, but then had to beat off a Michigan State rally that saw the gap close to 63-56 with 8:58 remaining in the game.

With danger near, however, the Hawks staged a rally that saw them score 10 straight points in a period of two minutes to increase their lead to 73-58 with a little more than six minutes remaining in the game.

Iowa shot 51.6 per cent from the field for the game, while Michigan State shot 47.4 per cent.

Iowa had a total of five players in double figures for the game. In addition to Pauling's fine 21 point performance, Chris Pervall added 17, George Peebles 16, Gerry Jones 14 and sophomore Ben Gilmer 12.

Increase In Draft Produces Anxiety In Men's Dorms

By JOYCE OLSON
Staff Writer

The draft has caused a tremendous change in the atmosphere of the men's residence halls these days.

"There is a tremendous anxiety. The atmosphere is more intense, quieter, and the students are more sincere about grades," Jerome Beckman, director of Men's Residence Halls, said Friday.

"There has also been a profound reversal in plans for many of the men," he continued. "Men who were looking into industry, business or law school, are inquiring about officer training programs and ROTC."

BECKMAN, who was commissioned in the U.S. Navy in 1960 and served three and a half years in the Pacific area, said that he and dormitory advisers were approached every day about draft problems.

Beckman's primary responsibility as a director is to select, train and support the 45 advisers in Hillcrest, Quadrangle and South Quadrangle dormitories.

Beckman, who is beginning to interview adviser applicants for next year, said that he had received enough applications to fill those positions two and three times over.

"The main thing is to find a mature, well-integrated individual with whom the younger students can identify," he said. "Although upper classmen and graduate students are preferred, age does not always matter."

(Ed. Note — This is the second in a series on the University's plans for expansion.)

The care and feeding of students is going to become an even more major University project in the future.

Based on a "some-day" enrollment of 30,000, the University proposes to house 17,000 single students, 75 per cent of the single student enrollment, and 3,700 married students, 50 per cent of the married student enrollment.

The number of off-campus single students is expected to remain at its present level of slightly more than 4,000. Off-campus married housing will increase from 2,000 units in 1963 to almost 4,000 units.

THESE PREDICTIONS of the housing boom come in a preliminary long range campus plan prepared by Sasaki, Dawson, DeMay Associates, Inc., of Watertown, Mass. The plan is to be a guide for campus development during the next few years. It is now being considered by the Building Advisory and Campus Planning Committee.

An enrollment of 30,000 — 17,000 undergraduates and 13,000 graduate and advanced students — has been provided for in the plan. Enrollment now is 16,335.

In planning single student housing, the firm tried to locate it within a 10 to 15 minute walk of most of the classrooms. Thus

Pres. Bowen Will Speak

HOW COLLEGE STUDENTS VIEW THE DRAFT

Even administrators of the draft admit its inequalities and imperfections. Many question its fairness. A special section in the February ATLANTIC considers all sides: two college men view the draft in Taking a McNamara Fellowship and How to Be Patriotic and Live With Yourself. A third article, Who Should Serve?, probes the dilemma and explores improvements and alternatives.

students could easily return to the dormitory dining halls for a noon meal. Any greater distance, it was thought, would encourage the use of cars.

MARRIED STUDENT housing was divided into two categories, higher density for couples without children or perhaps with just one child, and lower density for family housing. Most of the family housing would be in low buildings near open space.

The area around the women's dormitories north of the University teaching core is also marked for more student housing, which would accommodate about 1,250 additional undergraduate and graduate students. Existing capacity of Currier, Kate Daum and Burge women's dormitories is about 3,100.

ONE HUNDRED FIFTY units of minimum cost graduate housing are planned for north of Currier Hall by 1969. Three hundred units of similar housing are planned in the same year for the blocks bounded by Linn, Market, Gilbert and Davenport Streets.

Between 1975-85, a standard cost dormitory of 800 beds is planned for the area bounded by Dubuque, Church, Gilbert and Fairchild Streets.

Both undergraduate and graduate housing are also planned for the land south of Court Street near Capitol Street. About 4,300 students would be housed there, mostly in low-cost housing.

The proposed locations for the housing, the plan says, "remain tentative until all facets of campus expansion are evaluated and meshed with the city's downtown planning."

The largest new dormitory area for single students would be the west campus south of Hillcrest and Quadrangle dormitories. Here 5,800 coed dormitory units would be added, bringing the capacity in the area to about 8,000 students.

PLANS FOR THE AREA comprise the Melrose Dormitory of 1,700 beds, scheduled to be built in 1967; a standard cost dormitory of 1,300 beds, to be built in 1969; 150 units of apartments for single students, to be built in 1970; a standard cost dorm of 1,700 beds to be built between 1971-75; and a standard cost dorm of 800 beds to be built between 1975-85.

To be built in this area are: minimum cost graduate housing of 300 beds by 1969; minimum cost dormitory of 2,200 beds, 1968-73; minimum cost dormitory of 1,000 beds, 1975-85; and standard cost dormitory of 800 beds, 1975-85.

Two small areas of apartments for single students are also included in the plans. One would be north of the College of Law. A fourth potential area would be at the north end of the Fine Arts Center. The film says studies are under way "to determine if single student housing could be designed in a manner compatible with the Fine Arts development."

MOST OF THE PROPOSED married student housing will be in the Hawkeye Village area, where there are now 200 units and where 500 Hawkeye II units are in the plans. An additional 2,300 units of low-density housing are proposed for the area.

Apartments for married couples without children or possibly with a single child will be closer to the University's center. Two hundred are proposed for west of the Medical Center by 1971 and 300 for west of Parklawn by 1969.

In total, the University's is proposing to provide housing for 16,880 single students and 3,720 units of housing for married students. In 1963, when work on the plan began, there were 3,864 beds for single students and 885 units for married students. The current married student housing includes 665 temporary units that are to be removed.
