20,000 Man Increase Declared For Viet War

Senate Plans Are Debated By Candidates

By NADYA FOMENKO
Staff Writer

Candidates for president of the Student Senate showed they differ in their basic methods of implementing the reorganization plan and of promoting communication between the Student Senate and the student body at a Wednesday session of Issues and Answers at the Union.

DICK JENNINGS, A3, Iowa City, said he would direct the Senate to write the new constitution. Heads of university committees would write sections of it.

Jennings said he and his runing mate, Frank Renner, A3, Cherokee, felt an election for senators from the colleges would not be called, for it would be difficult to generate election interest.

Continuing, he said the president of the Union Board, the Student Senate president and an advisory committee would appoint members of the Activities Board.

TOM HANSON, A3, Jefferson, another candidate, said if he were elected, he would appeal to an expert body, perhaps the College of Law, to help him write the new constitution.

He said he and his running mate, John Rupp, A3, Cherokee, would call a special election with a strong publicity campaign, to elect the senators from the colleges.

He added that this spring would be a transition period, and that the full program would be put into effect after the beginning of next year.

CONCERNING their methods of promoting communication between the Senate and the student body, the candidates also differ.

Jennings said he planned to publish a student government booklet, explaining the functions and policies of the various student organizations on campus, which would be distributed during Freshman Orientation.

Hanson said he planned to set up senator offices, in dorm rooms or in the Activities Center where sudents could make suggesions or file complaints.

He added that he would publish reports from the universiy committees so students would know what was happening and could then make suggestions.

AFTER JENNINGS'S opening speech, Hanson rebutted, saying the student government fee would not increase the student's tuition as Jennings had stated. Hanson said that after conferring with Philip G. Hubbard, dean of academic affairs, he understood that the fee would be set off on the bills and not be added into the total.

Jennings answered he had misunderstood the plan and the issue of student government fees could be dropped from his platform.

Jennings added that "Since reorganization will not take place before elections, the elections should not be based on who is most in favor of it. We both favor reorganization."

Hubbard Calls Senate Plan Step Forward

Philip G. Hubbard, dean of academic affairs, recently called the proposed student government reorganization a significant step forward for students in regulating their own activities and participating more fully in overall University life.

The newly-elected Student Senate will be asked to draw up a constitution and take other steps to implement the principles of the reorganization report in cooperation with other groups directly concerned with the operation of student government, according to Hubbard.

Hubbard said many suggestions had been received and would be passed on to the Senate for consideration.

Some of the suggestions have sufficient merit that they should be included in the reorganization procedure, Hubbard said. Among these are provisions for subdistricting where a group has more than one senator, the continuance of activities under sponsorship of organizations which have traditionally performed the function, and a degree of autonomy for women students over matters that concern them, he said.

Hubbard added that the reorganization could be carried out without increasing the student activity fee at this time.

Hubbard's comments came in response to a report by the ad hoc committee on the reorganization of student government.

Louise Jerrel Wins Best Dressed Title

Louise Jerrel, A4, Des Moines, was judged the University's best dressed coed Wednesday in a contest co-sponsored by Glamour magazine and Gamma Alpha Chi, professional advertising fraternity for women.

THE RUNNER-UP, chosen from 10 semi-finalists, was Susan Friberg, A1, Des Moines.

A bouquet of red roses was presented to each by last year's winner, Carolyn Lozier, A4, Des Moines.

Miss Jerrel also received a $10 gift certificate from The Stable Clothing Store.

Each candidate modeled three outfits from her wardrobe for the final competition.

Miss Jerrel will represent Iowa in the national contest in which Glamour magazine chooses 10 coeds to appear in their August edition.

ENTERTAINMENT AT intermission was provided by Jeffrey Nordeen, a senior at Davenport Central High School, who sang and played the guitar, and an eleven girl combo.

Those in the combo were: Virginia Baker, N2, Oak Park, Ill.; Patricia Gregory, A1, Webster City; Stephanie Guiney, N2, Des Moines; Carol Holt, A2, Deerfield, Ill.; Mary Kruzan, A2, Naperville, Ill.; Phyllis Noecker, A3, Evanston, Ill.; Dixie Poindexter, A2, Downers Grove, Ill.; Marcia Rodwell, N2, Flossmoor, Ill.; Jane Simon, A2, Marion; Joan Standefer, A1, Des Moines; and Karen Wagner, A1, Freeport, Ill.

Viet Nam Vigil Changes Name To 'Town Meeting For Peace'

The Viet Nam Vigil group, which has been meeting daily since Jan. 1, decided at a meeting Wednesday afternoon to adopt a new name. The new name will be Town Meeting For Peace.

The suggestion was made that since the resumption of bombing the word "vigil" had lost its meaning. The new name was already being used by similar organizations throughout the state, it was argued, and would be more pertinent to the problems on hand.

IN AN interview before the meeting, Irving Marshall, Route 1, Iowa City, said that the central point in previous meetings had been the importance of easing the fighting force in Viet Nam and even stopping the bombing of North Viet Nam entirely.

Marshall said the now defunct Vigil group had reacted to the situation by sending telegrams to congressmen and President Johnson asking them to do something to ease the war.

"Our aim," said Marshall, is not to put forward a one-sided viewpoint but to reason with people who support or stand against our action. Today, for example, we invited members of the legion to attend our meeting."

The legion members did not come.

ANOTHER major decision taken at Wednesday's meeting was to change meeting time from daily to weekly. It was decided that beginning March 13, the group would meet only on Sunday from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Rev. William M. Weir of the Unitarian Church, who presided over Wednesday's meeting, said he hoped speakers would be arranged before future meetings to lead the discussions for about five minutes.

"With the name changed, we will not have to base our discussions solely on Viet Nam," said Rev. Weir.

"The way things are going, I fear, we may soon have to discuss such places as Thailand and Cambodia nad other nations of Southest Asia," he said.

THE PUBLIC library has agreed to make a shelf available for material dealing with Viet Nam. Members of the new Town Meeting For Peace group will have access to this material at all times and will contribute more material themselves when they can.

A final decision at Wednesday's meeting called for the establishment of posts for persons to look after meetings and arrange for speakers, as well as another to take care of publicity for the group.

Speaker Criticizes Liberals

Liberals are not really liberal, but conservatives are, Robert Caldwell, professor of criminology, said at the Young Americans for Freedom (YAF) meeting Wednesday night.

"We conservatives should be called liberals, not those who are parading as liberals; they are collectivists and hypocrites," he said.

Caldwell listed the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) as an example of a "dangerous" liberal group that was undermining traditional conservative concepts.

"It has as one of its goals the penetration and domination of both major political parties in the United States," Caldwell said. "It believes in the total welfare state, and it supports every program, law, and policy, that increases government control."

Caldwell blamed ADA members close to President Kennedy for the failure of the Bay of Pigs invasion in Cuba in 1961. He said they decided not to provide air cover for the operation.

As a counteroffensive to increasing liberalism, Caldwell suggested that conservatives keep themselves informed, alert, active and organized.

"We must organize our campus, because here our front is most sensitive," Caldwell said. Campus conservatives should organize a third party, he continued, and model it after liberal campus organizations.

Total Boosted To 235,000 Combat Troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced Wednesday a new buildup — to 235,000 men — in American combat strength in South Viet Nam.

McNamara said the United States is sending 20,000 new troops to the Southeast Asian combat zone — and revealed that there are already 215,000 men there.

McNAMARA

He told a news conference that the manpower figures could be boosted to 350,000 without ordering military reserves to active duty.

McNamara said he had lifted secrecy wraps from a mass of information about American forces lest the Communists miscalculate U.S. strength and determination.

Until Wednesday, the administration had indicated U.S. forces actually in Viet Nam totaled about 205,000 men. McNamara said there are about 300,000 American fighting men in Southeast Asia, the seas nearby and Air Force bases that launch raids on Communist positions there.

McNAMARA revealed the troop buildup after pronouncing U.S. fighting forces "fully capable of meeting our commitments" in Southeast Asia and around the world.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey argued the administration case on South Viet Nam before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which has been a cockpit of dissent about U.S. policy there.

While he faced the committee, the administration's sharpest critic took the Senate floor to criticize the vice president and call the executive session briefing absurd.

THOSE WORDS came from Sen. Wayne Morse, (D-Ore.), who declared: "Any man who is advocating the kind of an escalating war which the vice president is advocating has lost the right to claim to be a liberal."

McNamara said there are no more pending manpower requests from Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in South Viet Nam.

He did not say when the additional 20,000 men will go there.

THE PENTAGON chief announced the buildup five days after President Johnson told a news conference: "We do not have on my desk at the moment any unfilled requests from Gen. Westmoreland."

Johnson said Westmoreland would be making new troop requests, but the President would not predict how many men would be sought.

Flanked by two advisers, Humphrey faced the committee and other senators behind closed doors at the Capitol.

"I DON'T think there is any fighting," Humphrey said as he entered. "My name isn't Cassius Clay."

House Republican leaders — denying they seek to make the war in Viet Nam a political issue — called on President Johnson to disavow Democrats who stage "divisive debate" about the U.S. commitment.

McNamara denied that the U.S. stand in South Viet Nam has overextended the U.S. military establishment.

"FAR FROM overextending ourselves, we have actually strengthened our military position," he said in a seven-page rebuttal to charges made by military analysts.

McNamara said newspaper accounts have given the impression that because of the war in Viet Nam, the U.S. "is now militarily overextended and would not be able to meet other contingencies."

"It is not true," he said.

He said the U.S. has only about 10 per cent of its active forces in Southeast Asia. Furthermore, he said, the nation has "great untapped resources" in the military Reserve.

Band Arrives In Germany

THE 89-PIECE UNIVERSITY Symphony Band arrived in Wuppertal, Germany, Wednesday for a two-day stand.

The contingent's 16-piece stage band is to give a concert today at a girls' high school and the full band will perform in the civic auditorium Friday night.

The band and its accompanying staff of seven arrived from Luxembourg.

Frederick C. Ebbs, conductor, said he was pleased with the reception the band had received in Portugal, Belgium and Luxembourg.

Winter Navigation Supported

THE ARMY ENGINEERS endorsed Wednesday in Washington the need for a study of possible ways to keep open a year-round navigation channel on the Mississippi River.

Brig. Gen. H. G. Woodbury Jr., deputy director of civil works, told a House Public Works subcommittee that he thought such a study was warranted.

"The two best ways to prevent ice jams," he said, "are to attempt to provide an unobstructed channel and to keep it — the channel — open in the winter time."

The subcommittee wound up two days of a hearing into the situation surrounding a mammoth ice jam on the river near Davenport.

U.S. Reports Explosion In Spain

THE UNITED STATES DISCLOSED Wednesday that two unarmed nuclear weapons were blown apart by their conventional explosives and scattered some radioactive material when accidentally dropped at Palomares, Spain, 44 days ago.

"There was no nuclear explosion," and "no evidence of a health hazard," State and Defense Department announcements stressed.

One of the nuclear weapons carried by the U.S. B52 which collided with a tanker plane Jan. 17 is still being searched for off the coast of Palomares, a Spanish Mediterranean village.

Transportation Department Proposed

PRESIDENT JOHNSON ASKED Congress Wednesday to create a Cabinet-level department of transportation and give it command over a $700-million, six-year traffic safety program.

He proposed the merging of a dozen agencies having nearly 100,000 workers — including the Coast Guard — into what would be the fifth largest Cabinet department.

Modern Thinking Necessary Today Schoenbrun Says

By DON YAGER
Staff Writer

People must use 20th Century thinking to deal with 20th century technology, David F. Schoenbrun, news commentator and world analyst, told 500 people in the Union Main Lounge Wednesday night.

Schoenbrun spoke on the topic "The Birth of the 20th Century" in the fourth of the University Lecture Series.

Technology, especially that of atomic weapons, needs modern thinking to deal with it, he said.

"The atomic tool is the greatest tool man has been given if he learns to use it properly," he said. "In the past, war was horrible and evil but was sometimes necessary. It offered a reward of some kind. This is not true today. All we could do is destroy the enemy and there would be nothing but destruction."

SCHOENBRUN emphasized the importance of new political thinking by saying, "De Gaulle is an example of the 14th century stopping the 20th century. He is an example of a 19th century nation-state ruler, making decisions by himself.

"The real world today has reached the time when no nation is an island unto itself. De Gaulle knows this but doesn't like it."

Schoenbrun said the 20th century was born politically in 1960 since all the candidates for President and Vice President were men born in the 20th century.

'Each succeeding generation is a little more in tune with the times and there has been a changing of the guard," said Schoenbrun.

He said, however, the present generation was not yet free of sovereignty and national determination but the 20th century political thinking is beginning to catch up with technology.

SCHOENBRUN applauded the Truman Doctrine in Europe but saw no parallels between it and U.S. actions in Viet Nam.

"We are essentially a European people by background and origin. There is an identity of interests and purpose with the people of Europe and the West and I see no identity and interest between Viet Nam and the West," said Schoenbrun.

"We have no material, trade or industrial interest in Viet Nam. If there is one place in the world where we should not get involved you'd have to come up with Viet Nam," he added.

HE SAID THE United States was applying power on the frontier of China and this was a 19th century power move. Freedom, as President Johnson means it, is not known in Viet Nam, according to Schoenbrun.

Schoenbrun said the situation in Viet Nam was nothing more than a civil war where 75 per cent of the people and 70 per cent of the territory were controlled by the Viet Cong.

When asked how we got into the Viet Nam conflict Schoenbrun said, "It was a whole series of events all washed into the other. We had no plan. We slid into it."

Power Move By Nkrumah Said Possible

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — Deposed Pres. Kwane Nkrumah's foreign minister predicted Wednesday that Nkrumah will ask Chinese and Soviet Communists to put him back in power.

The ex-foreign minister, Alex Quaison-Sackey, who was president of the United Nations General Assembly in 1964, told newsmen he did not think the Chinese would comply but didn't know about the Russians.

Nkrumah arrived in Guinea on Wednesday from Moscow. He was treated as a chief of state by Guinea's President Sekou Toure, who assured Nkrumah of support if he tries to regain power in Accra.

The Ivory Coast, headed by President Felix Houphouet-Boigny, an old enemy of Nkrumahism, stands geographically between Guinea and Ghana.

The return of Quaison-Sackey to Accra and the arrival of Nkrumah in Conakry, the capital of Guinea came as the new military regime in Ghana was expelling Soviet and Chinese advisers from the country. Two planes carrying 130 Russians left during the morning.

OBSERVATIONS AND COMMENT

Hello, cutie pie

LAST WEEK we pointed out the numerous activities on campus which were scheduled including Greek Week, Careers Conference, Political Affairs Conference, Model United Nations, etc., etc.

We said that if the student government organization on campus included an Activities Board, this sort of bad scheduling could be avoided. We said all that last week, but we didn't say enough.

Not only was the campus calendar overrun with conferences and conventions, but we also had an abundance of cutie petuties. Miss IFC, Miss JIFC, Miss Beautiful Legs, Miss Hillcrest, Miss Quadrangle, Miss ROTC Colonel and Miss Glamour Best Dressed Coed were all lurking about the campus to push their pulchritude on various queenly constituencies.

The girls were busy all week, parading about in all manners of dress, smiling, winking, and charming. This is not an easy task, especially since so many of the queen candidates are the same girls.

Because of the confusion which so many queen contests at one time can cause, we suggest the Student Senate set up a Queens' Council to limit the number of royal races held in any given week to two. This Council would bring order to the campus and help to spread some of the beauty through the entire year (instead of concentrating everything in the fall and spring).

Setting up a Queens' Council could easily prove to be the most worthwhile thing the Senate has done all year.

Polling problems

THE CITY COUNCIL is currently in the process of adding five precincts to the city's present structure. There are now 15 precincts.

The idea behind adding the extra precincts is obvious — as the city grows, there is a need for more polling places. After study by a committee, a recommendation has been presented to the City Council which representatives of both the Democratic and Republican parties have approved.

It is not surprising, then, that Mayor William Hubbard was a bit upset when City Attorney Jay Honohan started campaigning against the proposed precinct reorganization.

The mayor told Honohan at Tuesday's council meeting that policy decisions should be left to the mayor and council — not the city's administrative officials. Hubbard is quite right, and we hope the precinct reorganization will go forward without delay. Some Iowa City polling places are now quite over-crowded and there is a real need for more precincts before the elections in the fall.

Project X designed to bore enemy

By ART BUCHWALD

A few months ago Gen. Lewis Hershey was strongly criticized for punishing students by drafting them into the Army. Now since it was announced that he is drafting heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, everyone wants to know why Gen. Hershey is punishing the army.

"I think no matter how strongly Gen. Hershey feels against the Army there is no justification for him to draft Cassius Clay," an American Civil Liberties Union official said. 'The U.S. Army has rights too."

BUCHWALD

An entire section of the Pentagon has been set aside to handle the training of Cassius Clay. Known as Project X Malcolm (in deference to Mr. Clay's Black Muslim affiliations) a team of officers and enlisted men are working day and night to see that the heavyweight champion enjoys his stay in the service.

The C.O. in charge of Project X, a three-star General, told me that things were moving along well.

"Mr. Clay has indicated that he has reservations about going into the Army and its our job to dispel his doubts and to make his Army career the happiest days of his life." The General said.

"How do you plan to do this?"

"By making him a Special Force."

"A Special Force?"

"That's correct. We're going to make Cassius Clay a unit unto himself.

"Clay will be his own C.O. He will not have to train with the other men, he will not have to obey orders, he will not have to wear a uniform if he doesn't want to. He doesn't even have to bear arms."

"That sounds strange." I said.

"It will seem so to the public, but we've got our reasons. Once Clay will have completed his training in this country he will be flown on a special plane to Viet Nam and dropped over enemy territory."

"To do what?"

'To bore the Viet Cong to death."

-"You mean, once he starts talking, he'll drive the Viet Cong nuts?"

"Exactly. Those he doesn't bore to death will probably shoot themselves."

"But," I said, "Wouldn't you be violating the Geneva Convention by dropping Clay in enemy territory?"

The General bristled. "This is war and we've got to use everything we've got. Boring the Viet Cong to death is still more humane than dropping napalm on them."

"It's a fantastic idea," I admitted. "But the Viet Cong are in many parts of Viet Nam."

"What we plan to do is drop Clay in Viet Cong territory and leave him there for a week. By this time he will have bored everyone in the area to death, and we'll send in our regular troops to occupy the countryside. We'll then pick up Clay and drop him in another area. In a short time South Viet Nam will be secured."

"It seems foolproof," I said "And no one could be better suited for the job."

"The beauty of it," the General said, "is that the other side has no answer to Clay. The U.S. has the biggest bore in the whole wide world, and though we may be criticized, he's our bore and we must use him as we see fit."

'Parade of Comedy' opens Cinema 16 laugh festival

By DON PASQUELLA
For The Iowan

This week's Cinema 16 presentation of MGM's "Big Parade of Comedy" kicks off a four week festival of comedy films which will include films of Laurel and Hardy, W. C. Fields, the Marx Brothers, and a number of early Chaplin shorts.

"Big Parade of Comedy" is a compilation of film clips of comedy stars in action. This is the third in a series put together by Robert Youngson whose success with "The Golden Age of Comedy" and "When Comedy was King" undoubtedly prompted him to dip once again into that rich vein of early film humor. "Big Parade of Comedy," funny as it is, seems to be not as funny as the first two. Perhaps the reason for this is that here we are involved with only one studio, MGM, which wasn't organized until 1924.

THEREFORE, most of the film clips are from early sound comedies which include sequences that are funny when seen in context but are less so in isolation. The majority of the material for this film came from MGM comedies of the 30s and 40s with a large segment devoted to Jean Harlow who, in comedy, seems to be the precursor of Doris Day.

However, there are some extremely delightful segments in "Big Parade ofComedy" which make the film very enjoyable. One of the most successful bits is a Laurel and Hardy routine with Lupe Velez from "Hollywood Party;" another very funny bit is a segment of Buster Keaton in "The Cameraman" richly full of sight gags. It's things like this which really make you appreciate how inherently comic the irrational is, especially when exaggerated.

Also featured in "Big Parade of Comedy" are Marion Davies, Marie Dressler, Wallace Beery, Jimmy Durante, W.C. Fields, Clark Gable, Carole Lombard and many, many others.

Showing with "Big Parade of Comedy" is a vintage Chaplin short — "Laughing Gas," written and directed by Chaplin in 1914 when he was working at the Keystone studios. Chaplin, as a dentist's assistant, causes havoc in the office, flirts with the patients, assumes the doctor's duties, and causes a free-for-all. Ardent Chaplin fans will also recognize this film as "Turning His Ivories," "The Dentist," and "Down and Out."

Letters to the editor —

3 flaws attributed to Viet hearings

To the Editor:

The recent Foreign Relations' Committee hearings have to date been the only illuminating, public examination of our government's Viet Nam policy. Yet, in following these hearings, it appears to me that because of three flaws, the entire hearing has fallen short of a really deep analysis, and has ended in conveying only a segment of the total spectrum of evidence available.

The first flaw is the very witnesses called. Each has been, either in the past or at present, dependant on the government for livelihood, information, and training which in the end has only naturally been a basis from which each individual's personal-professional prejudices have been formed.

The second flaw could be called the classic error of cross-cultural analysis. I would ask, Does the word "freedom," as defined by the Constitution and in the American sense, have the same meaning when applied to another culture as that of the majority of Vietnamese peasants? If we are indeed fighting for their freedom and this is the sole basis for our Viet Nam intervention, then I think we should at least be sure that freedom, in the American sense, is the same thing as freedom in the Vietnamese sense.

THE ONLY MEMBER of the Committee to touch upon this issue to date has been Sen. Fulbright with his reference to "cultural and historical traditions in Viet Nam." And until this question of applicabilty of our freedom in the cultural context of Viet Nam is settled, our goal of giving South Viet Nam freedom is a goal which is so undefined as to be meaningless. Possibly we can never hope to give them our brand of freedom!

The third flaw, as I see it, is an abject failure on the part of senators and witnesses alike, to consider that socio-political systems are subject to change over time. Correspondingly, any specific aspect of any system such as personal liberty or freedom, is subject to evaluation or simple change.

BUT THE HEARINGS have left me with the impression that once a country is taken over by Communism, be it by force or election, freedom is stiffled, and for all practical purposes the people under Communism are lacking, for all time, the opportunity for personal advancement.

To assume one has to institute change, in the case of Viet Nam, by war is in my opinion the most foolish and dangerous assumption that any person or Administration could make. Until this matter of socio-political change is discussed by the Foreign Relations Committee, any prior discussions will have been worthless.

Should anyone really quarrel with Viet Congs?

To the Editor:

The outrage over Cassius Clay's remarks on the war in Viet Nam seems somewhat excessive. Whatever defects Clay may possess, he is at least honest about his feelings on this issue. The instant and vehement denunciations by certain authority figures (Mayor Daley, et. al.) strike me as fishy.

"Unpatriotic" is certainly a loaded term. It can, at this time in this country, be thrown about with the same cheap, emotional effect as perhaps "ungodly" was in another time. It belongs in the same class with "communist" and "atheist." To use them properly one need not think, but simply shake one's fist or point one's finger and utter the word in the quivering voice of pious, righteous indignation.

Basically the issue is that of hypocrisy. These men protest too much. Plenty of Americans besides Clay "Got no quarrel with no Viet Congs," including some high in the Federal Government. Whether they should have a quarrel or not is another question: The question that has not been satisfactorily answered. But rather than attack the real issue, it is easier and more expedient personally for politicians to banish thought with a word.

The rhetorical manipulation of the masses is still a practiced art. The pharisaism of the technique becomes obvious when those with vested interests come forth so loudly to bury the ungrammatical but honest remarks of an already disreputable figure of so little influence.

Student disputes Israeli position

To the Editor:

Mr. Ehud Yairi's letter (Feb. 24) commenting on WSUI's discussion of "Israel and the Arab World" is very interesting. If anything, it proves the point I raised in the broadcast: that Americans in general have been exposed mostly to one side of the issue.

May I correct some of the "facts" mentioned in Mr. Yairi's letter. First, it was May 15, and not Nov. 30, that Arab forces, handicapped by a lack of ammunition and arms, attempted to defend the more than one million Palestinian Arabs being massacred by Zionist terrorist organizations.

Second, Mr. Yairi is concerned about implementing U.N. decisions. Did he forget, or is he aware that:

- Israelis assassinated Count Folke Bernadote, the U.N. mediator to that area? (A U.N. resolution of Oct. 19, 1948, reads: "The Security Council notes with concern that the Provisional Government of Israel has to date submitted no report to the Security Council or to the acting mediator regarding the progress of the investigation into the assassination" . . . and "reminds the government that all its obligations and responsibilities must be discharged fully and in good faith."
- Israel did not abide by one of 67 substantive resolutions on Palestine (not to mention the total 139 resolutions adopted by this world body on the issue). Thirteen of these resolutions were condemnations of Israel for direct aggression on its Arab neighbors, only one resolution condemned both Syria and Israel at the same time.

Complaints unjustified, experimenter says

To the Editor:

As a graduate student in psychology, I have had the opportunity to run a number of experiments in which undergraduate students have participated. Most of these students have participated with interest and motivation and I, as others in the department, am grateful for their cooperation. Without this cooperation a great deal of important psychological research would not be possible.

I feel that much of the opposition to the system for obtaining experimental subjects voiced in the letter of Feb. 24 is unjustified. In order to continue research it is necessary to have subjects. The requirement of five hours over an entire semester does not seem to me to be an extreme one.

No one in the department would want a student to miss a class in order to participate in an experiment. For this reason sign-up sheets for experiments usually list several dates and times from which the student may choose.

Participation in an experiment may be a profitable learning experience for the student. Once an experiment has been completed the experimenter is happy to explain the purpose of the experiment to any interested student.

ISL questioned

To the Editor:

Recent handouts by the Iowa Socialist League (ISL) make it clear that this group has begun to confuse hysteria with theory and to substitute angry instincts for analysis. More and more it is sounding like a Bakuninite revival meeting.

Legitimate causes like its opposition to use of the draft as a club against student demonstrators do not offset the notable shrillness and shallowness of its policies on other matters.

Perhaps the base of its ideological position has never been too secure, but now it goes so far as to imply that the future utopia must be reached by the adventurist road — a path that promotes progress through violence. Is this so-called idealism and utopianism — exemplified in LeRoi Jones — really a disguise for an emerging realpolitik or, perhaps more accurately, a reaktionpolitik? Is the ISL really practicing the historical thinking that it preaches?

It seems to violate logic, as well as cosmopolitan ideals, to believe that massive racial self-assertion (like reincarnated Teutonism) offers the kind of means that can effectively produce the ends supposedly held by the ISL.

Hot line needed

To the Editor:

Here we go again on that merry-go-round, the Iowa City Police Department riding the student populaton. How many letters will it take or what is really necessary to promote law enforcement? Will it take a "hot line" to the dynamic duo to aid these masters of rationalization?

Holy embarrassment, Mr. Officer — we're sorry you are understaffed, underpaid, and overworked. Golly deception! — we don't know where our violation money is going either. But do you have to use the students as psychological toilets? Just as Pavlov's dogs salivate upon conditioned learning so meter maids drool at parking meters.

We may be somewhat idealistic — but like Tareyton smokers — we would rather fight than switch. Oh Zeus-like officer — we do have something in common. We're human. We hope no one steps on you.

Try to remember

To the Editor:

And all this time I thought Old Capitol was just a building.

Do you think maybe, just maybe, it remembers the time I used the men's room in its basement?

I've never been so embarrassed in my life.

2 TMTW Presidential Slates List Platforms And Proposals

Four candidates on two opposing tickets seek the offices of president and vice president of Town Men-Town Women in the all-campus elections March 9. They are Mike Worley, A2, Washington, and his running mate, Phil Hubbard Jr., A1, Iowa City, candidates for president and vice president on one ticket; and Dave Raymond, A3, Boxholm, and Sheryl Houghton, A2, Woodruff, Wis., president and vice president on the other. The texts of their platforms are as follows:

WORLEY HUBBARD

MIKE WORLEY AND PHIL HUBBARD JR.:

1. REORGANIZATION OF STUDENT SENATE — I support the general contention that the Student Senate should be reorganized to provide more representation for off-campus students. I also agree with the current plan to reorganize the Senate and place representatives of the separate colleges in its ranks.

2. THE TWENTY-ONE RULE — I feel there is a need for the University to reconsider its policy toward students who are 20, but will turn 21 during the current semester, and wish to live in unapproved housing .

It stands to reason that people who will turn 21 during the semester have as much respectability and responsibility as a person who reaches 21 before that semester begins. I feel that the proposed 21 Rule should be removed from the Committee on Student Life where it has been imprisoned for so long, viewed, and adopted by the University. I shall do all I am capable to see that this ruling be examined thoroughly by the University and adopted as University policy.

3. PARKING — I agree that we currently have a problem with student parking and that this problem will continue to grow along with the growth of the University.

I agree, in principle, that in order to solve this problem, in the near future the University will have to limit the number of student and faculty autos allowed to park in the lots as well as erect parking ramps (without meters) at strategic locations around campus.

4. WOMEN'S HOURS — This is a minor problem, but must be considered. I will agree with many of the women and men that the currently established hours system should be altered.

Therefore, I propose this plan: freshman women would be restricted to the present hours unless given permission by their parents. With permission they will have 12:30 a.m. hours on week nights and 1:30 a.m. hours on weekends. All other women would be allowed 1 a.m. hours on week nights and 1:30 a..m. hours on weekends with two (2) weekend nights a month unrestricted.

5. REORGANIZATION OF TMTW — I feel that further reorganization of TMTW is unnecessary unless we can be guaranteed more interest by our constituents. By reorganization to a district representative system, we would have much less knowledge of what our members want. I feel that people would come to open meetings and voice their opinions more freely than they would convey their ideas through a representative to the council body. In our present system people can attend our meetings and hear what is discussed and voice their opinions on any of the topics. In closed sessions we would have to publish what was discussed and then return to those topics at the next meeting for further comments from our members.

Therefore, I feel that reorganization of TMTW is currently unnecessary until the opinions of a majority of our constituents have been expressed on this subject.

I shall, if elected, make several changes in the organization, however. I shall require more publicity of our meeting dates. I shall also devise a system to obtain more funds for our treasury from outside sources; perhaps a larger sum from the University from each person's tuition. If it could be arranged so that we would receive 5 cents from each person, that would mean a rebate of our organization of $580.

DAVID RAYMOND AND SHERYL HOUGHTON:

STUDENTS' RIGHTS IN HOUSING — Students who choose to live off-campus don't have bargaining leverage in Iowa City,

RAYMOND HOUGHTON

but our position can be improved by taking these steps:

1. Setting up a legal clinic to protect students in leases and contracts.

2. Working with the Iowa City Urban Renewal Board to insure that sufficient low-cost student housing will be provided in Urban Renewal.

3. Urging the University to provide satisfactory low-cost apartment-like housing, even if it must be subsidized.

SOCIAL AND SERVICE OPPORTUNITIES — 1. Formal and informal dances, hootenannies, informative and recreational programs such as swim nights and fashion shows can help off-campus students get to know one another.

2. The Intramural sports program as it is now set up makes it very difficult for off-campus students to participate in sports. TMTW can enable more students to participate by sponsoring teams, and co-ordinating and publicizing games.

3. Service projects such as the program and aid Rust and Le-Moyne Colleges, and the present service corps organized through the Student Senate should be supported by TMTW so that more off-campus students can participate and serve.

STRONGER TMTW FOR STRONGER OFF-CAMPUS STUDENT VOICE — 1. The students living off-campus should be divided into groups with one student senator for each group so that each student can know who his own senator is and thereby be in more effective contact with the Student Senate.

2. Meetings should be significant and interesting, with university and city officials participating.

3. TMTW should work to secure the voting rights of all students over 21, including those who do not own cars and are sometimes not allowed to vote in Iowa City now.

We pledge to work effectively in these and other areas, since during this next year the Town Men-Town Women organization will only be as strong as the students make it.

India, Pakistan Get OK For Non-Lethal Buying

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has told India and Pakistan that they may resume buying limited quantities of non-lethal military equipment from this country.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey, in announcing this decision Wednesday said it applies to such items as communications equipment, spare parts for aircraft and motor transports.

The freeze on grant military aids still is in effect, McCloskey said. This means that such items as arms and ammunition, tanks and rockets are not available.

Schoenbrun Gives Views

By BILL SIMBRO
Staff Writer

David F. Schoenbrun, news commentator and world affairs analyst, Wednesday discussed topics ranging from Viet Nam to France's President Charles de Gaulle to television news coverage at a news conference in the Union Board Room.

Schoenbrun, calling for negotiations in Viet Nam, said, "we are making the mistake of thinking a remote, white, Christian power can implant itself on the soil of Asia."

SCHOENBRUN CHARGED that peace feelers from North Viet Nam had been ignored by the Johnson Administration at the time the President was "offering to negotiate with anyone anywhere." A stir was created last fall when CBS analyst Eric Sevareid said the late Adlai Stevenson had reported such feelers to Schoenbrun.

Schoenbrun was chief of the CBS Paris bureau for 14 years.

He said the narrowness of De Gaulle's recent victory would not necessarily weaken his power, because he still retained all the power of the office itself.

"But his prestige was weakened," said Schoenbrun. "He wasn't running for president; he was running for savior. If you're running for god you've got get all the votes, not just win by a narrow margin."

Schoenbrun gave some strong opinions about television news coverage. He indicated that his 1964 departure from CBS was on less than friendly terms.

"The best reporters in the country are no longer on the air," he said.

TELEVISION CAN do great work with documentaries, depth coverage of public issues and panel discussions, Schoenbrun said. He charged that both NBC and CBS had trimmed such broadcasting in order to increase the 5:30 p.m. newscasts from 15 to 30 minutes. He criticized this emphasis on spot news coverage because, "daily newspapers do a better job on this than television can possibly do."

"AT CBS THEY made us into news jockeys for the Walter Cronkite Show. I didn't go to college to be a news jockey for Walter Cronkite," he said.

Court Allows Student Appeal

A district court judge in Cedar Rapids has handed down a decision allowing Roger Bear, A4, Cedar Rapids, permission to reapply for his suspended driver's license.

Bear had lost his license for three speeding violations and appealed the suspension in district court. He told the court he commutes 350 days a year from Cedar Rapids to Iowa City, adding that the third time he was picked up, it was for driving 72 miles an hour in a 70 mile-an-hour zone.

The judge, Charles Penningroth, ruled that three violations do not make a habitual speeder.

"Suppose," said Judge Penningroth, "a husband makes a practice of kissing his wife every morning before going to work, and, as a result, he kisses his wife 300 times a year, and occasionally neglects to kiss her. Should he then be considered a non-kisser? Hardly."

Elimination Of Government Is Feasible, Student Says

Marc Firstenberg, A1, the Bronx, N.Y., came to the Union Soapbox Soundoff Wednesday with a pile of literature and a defense of anarchy. He soon discovered that he needed all the defense he could muster.

"Anarchy is feasible as the aim of all human society," said Firstenberg. "It is the goal to which all society should strive."

He said the precepts of anarchy were the elimination of government, private property and money.

A COMPLETE system of anarchy might take 10,000 years to accomplish, he said, because of "outside pressure and world problems."

The steps in establishing a world-wide anarchy, he said, are to eliminate all national boundaries, eliminate the social conflicts among men by changing their environment and eliminate the need for government protection.

Paul Dysart, A2, Muscatine, then asked Firstenberg, "How can you eliminate the need for protection? Man is basically bad, therefore, anarchy cannot work. There is always a need for law."

FIRSTENBERG replied, "You do away with a person's need to disturb society. Then why would anyone want to create a disturbance?"

Barry Stone, G, Rochester, N.Y., said the feasibility of anarchy depended on whether man would always pursue his self-interests.

"Man has gone from a socialistic being to an individual being," he said. "The question is whether man can consciously become a socialistic being again."

THE ONLY woman to talk at soundoff was Jean Taylor, Ridgefield, N.J., former University student, who opposed the idea of non-government.

"It has been learned by man that there has to be some form of government," she said. "Anarchy has existed a few minutes until the next demagogue got up. It would just decay into a worse system of government."

Student Union Talk Slated

F. Martin Erickson, assistant dean of students and lecturer in the Department of Educational Psychology at the University of Utah, Salt Lake City, will be guest speaker Saturday and Sunday at the Big 10 Student Union Conference.

The conference will start Friday night.

FORTY DELEGATES from nine of the Big 10 schools are expected to hear Erickson at an after-dinner speech Saturday night in the Union Oriental Room. His topic will be "Making Union Activities Viable."

Erickson will also conduct five leadership workshops Saturday and two seminars Sunday on various leadership problems.

Throughout the conference he will discuss increasing effectiveness in delegating authority and responsibility, communicating student needs and aspirations to the administration and faculty, and cooperating with other student organizations.

UNION BOARD Pres. Rick Davis said Erickson is "nationally known as a group trainer, and is an associate of the National Training Laboratory. He has served on the staffs of leadership training workshops and human relations laboratories for a large number of organizations and institutions and does a tremendous job of clarifying group and individual goals," he added.

Some of the institutions for which he has worked include the National Education Association, the U.S. Department of Employment Security and the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs.

In addition, Erickson is currently a member of the Core Committee for Higher Education and is past director of the student union and coordinator of student activities at the University of Utah.

Judicial Policy Reconsidered By Hillcrest

The members of Hillcrest Judicial Committee have been recalled and a new committee is being formed, according to Brooke L. Harris, president of the Hillcrest Association.

"We felt that our current policy needed to be changed, and decided to change the personnel as well," Harris said Wednesday.

The change was made necessary by the many complaints lodged against the committee concerning disciplinary action it has taken, he said.

"The main change," explained Harris, "is that we are attempting to let the residents themselves make more decisions than they have been able to make in the past."

Applications will be accepted beginning Monday for the Judicial Committee positions. Applications can be submitted to either the Association Office, Harris, or Mark L. Monahan, Hillcrest, vice president.

"We sincerely hope that these changes will increase the effectiveness of the committee and provide for a better understanding of the committee by the residents," Harris said.

Sears, Roebuck Plans New Store

Sears, Roebuck and Co. plans to relocate its Iowa City store outside the central business district, Councilman Richard W. Burger said Wednesday.

Burger met with Sears officials in Chicago as an official representative of the city and the council. Sears officials informed him that arrangements to move from the downtown location are "about completed," and that they are not interested in remaining in the central area.

Burger reported that he told Sears of Iowa City's proposed urban renewal project and inquired if the company was interested in working with the city in downtown planning.

Sears replied that it was not interested, Burger said.

Sears did not indicate when it would move from its present location or where.

SPI Candidates Offer Views On Campus Press Problems

Four candidates for positions on the Board of Trustees of Student Publications, Inc., (SPI) are among the students running for office in the all-campus elections March 9.

SPI, which has five students and four faculty members, is in control of The Daily Iowan, the Hawkeye and football programs.

One of two candidates will be elected to fill a one-year term. Candidates are David Hickman, A3, Coralville, and Bloyce Johnson, A3, Odebolt.

DAVID HICKMAN: I feel that the experience I have gained on the Board of Trustees this past year will enable me to make better decisions concerning the problems facing the board in the coming year. The board, in its unique position of being student dominated, requires experienced and responsible student trustees.

As a member of the Board I have voted for:

1. Increasing the number of pages in the The Daily Iowan in order to increase coverage of campus events.

2. Maintaining students in key editorial positions. One of the functions of a campus newspaper is to provide a means of communication between branches of the University community. This function is hampered when professional or semi-professional people who do not know the campus as well as the students are placed in key positions.

HICKMAN

3. Continuing delivery of The Daily Iowan to off-campus housing between semesters.

If I am re-elected I will work toward:

1. Greater and more accurate coverage of University events.

2. Maintaining responsible students in key editorial positions.

3. Investigating the possibility of an all-campus student life magazine. This magazine, by featuring a different facet of campus life with each issue, would become a meaningful part of intra-University communication.

BLOYCE JOHNSON: A platform for SPI members cannot actually contain issues that may be discussed in a debate or countered to support.

Two issues I will support are:

1. A change in The Daily Iowan advertising policy, allowing for a greater return on investment.

2. Retention of Audit Bureau of Circulation rating by year-round newspaper production, which gives us the distinction of being the only college paper receiving the rating.

I do feel that this platform should include qualifications for such a responsible position as SPI board member.

A SPI member should have knowledge of campus activities in order to be available to criticize and be open-minded to criticism of The Daily Iowan and the Hawkeye coverage policies.

I was greatly involved in independent organizations for two years; I am now active in Greek organizations; I have participated in track, Symphonic Band, Marching Band, Pep Band, University Chorus, other musical activities; I am an avid sports fan, so I know what I, as a reader, like to see in sports coverage; I attend art shows, theatre productions, lectures, Soapbox Soundoff, and other activities of interest.

JOHNSON

I have served as a reporter for the local newspaper, and I was top sales advertising man for the high school yearbook, giving me knowledge of the working methods of both the main publications for which SPI is responsible.

I have also familiarized myself with the present Daily Iowan operation and know many of its reporters and photographers, giving me a close contact with those who constitute the working force of the campus paper.

Two candidates have filed platforms for the two 2-year terms. They are Bill Rosebrook, A4, Ames, and Stewart Truelsen, A2, Park Ridge, Ill. One candidate, Steve Morain, A2, Iowa City, has withdrawn.

BILL ROSEBROOK: The Board of Trustees of Student Publications, Inc. means very little to the average student, yet its decisions and its directives affect almost every student at the University with relative frequency. Every time a student picks up a Daily Iowan, or a Hawkeye, or a football program, he comes into contact with SPI. It is therefore important that his representatives on SPI be capable of ably reflecting and intelligently voicing his concerns and interests. It is with this basic necessity in mind that I have decided to run for a two-year term on the Board of Trustees of SPI.

I feel that my past record of involvement in both academic and extracurricular activities has helped to qualify me for a position on SPI. I am enrolled in the Honors Program in the Department of History and have been active in many phases of campus activity and student government. I have served in positions of leadership as well as positions with a primarily representative function. Both orientations are necessary for effective service on SPI, and I am confident that I can satisfy these requirements.

ROSEBROOK

My major concerns over the activities and functions of the Board of Trustees of SPI are as follows:

1. The Board should be very careful in the selection of editors and other appointive personnel for The Daily Iowan and the Hawkeye. Only those who are interested in and responsive to student needs and concerns should be considered.

2. The board must make those financial adjustments necessary to maintain its operations in the black without raising student fees. For example, I believe that The Daily Iowan need not be published between the end of the 12-week summer session and the start of the fall semester. Such a policy would save a significant amount of money.

3. The board should encourage The Daily Iowan to give increased coverage to campus events, organizational activities and news of interest to students. It must also make certain that reporting is accurate and objective.

4. The Board should consider the creation of a magazine entitled "Iowa Student Life," which would place its primary emphasis on coverage of major campus events, living group and organizational activities and other areas of student interest. Students should have the opportunity to contribute their work to this magazine, and they should play an important role in determining its content.

5. The Board should handle its many routine functions in the most expedient manner possible and spend the preponderance of its time considering those constructive changes that will inevitably have to be made in its publications as the University grows and as student concerns change.

STEWART TRUELSEN: The functions of The Daily Iowan as a news medium, sounding board for student opinion and a journalism laboratory can be expanded and improved.

A more complete and accurate coverage of campus activities is needed. Student opinion is vital and should be continued in the letters to the editor column. More student-written feature material would add to the creative nature of the paper.

TRUELSEN

More freshmen and sophomores might be added to the staff to give greater news coverage. The experience they gain now will insure a better quality of reporting later.

Professional journalists should continue in an advisory role to maintain quality. A continuing effort must be made to see that The Daily Iowan offers the student more than just a skim of the news and a campus calendar.

The Hawkeye yearbook must reflect the personality of the students and campus. I would like to see even more candid photos. An effort to include more students should also be made.

Workshop Author Granted $1,000

A $1,000 grant has been made to Leslie Hua-ling Nieh, lecturer in Writers Workshop and Chinese, for her novel, "The Lost Golden Bell."

Aimed to help and encourage creative young writers, this grant was awarded by the Mary Roberts Rinehart Foundation, New York. Richard E. Kim, a former member of the Writers Workshop, also won a grant from the foundation two years ago for his book "The Martyred."

"Growing up is a sad thing, a helpless stuggle," says Miss Nieh in her book. "The Lost Golden Bell," a story about the maturation of a free-willed Chinese girl during the Sino-Japanese war, was written by Miss Nieh in Taiwan and published originally in Chinese three years ago. After she came to the University at the end of 1964, she translated the novel into English.

Iowa State's Smith Named To All-Big Eight Cage Team

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Iowa State's Don Smith was named Wednesday as Big Eight sophomore of the year and was a solid first team pick on the Associated Press's 1966 all-Big Eight basketball team.

The 6-foot-8 Iowa State pivot, who currently leads the conference in rebounding, was the only sophomore among the five players chosen to the AP's first team. All the others were seniors.

Tall Walt Wesley, (6-11), of Kansas, the league's top scorer for the past two years, and Grant Simmons (6-3) who piloted Nebraska's attack, were close to being unanimous choices for the team.

Joining them on the first team were Chuck Gardner, 6-7 Colorado veteran, a consistent scorer and the No. 2 conference rebounder; and 6-1 Delvy Lewis, Kansas leader and the man the Jayhawks could least afford to lose.

In all, 22 players were honored by the AP writers, 10 of whom were sophomores.

Iowa-Indiana Tickets Available

Today is the last day for students to pick up tickets for next Monday's Iowa-Indiana basketball game. Tickets for the game may be picked up at either the Field House ticket office or in the main lobby of the Union between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The game starts at 7:30 and will be the last of the season.

Clay-Terrell Fight Moved To Montreal

NEW YORK (AP) — Montreal got the Cassius Clay-Ernie Terrell heavyweight title fight Wednesday shortly after the politically explosive bout was chased out of Chicago.

March 29 remains the date, according to the Main Bout, Inc., spokesman who announced the new site. Main Bout owns the closed-circuit television rights to the fight-rights that could gross millions of dollars.

Chicago lost out due to a ruling from the three-member Illinois State Athletic Commision, which denied the promoter a permit for the match on a split vote.

The commission announced no definite reason for denying the permit to promoter Irv Schoenwald. However, the Illinois attorney general Tuesday pointed out various violations in Schoenwald's application.

Perhaps a more major reason was the fact that the bout has become a highly unpopular item — and the focal point of a scathing political attack — because of Clay's outbursts since his reclassification in the draft.

Clay's draft board in Louisville recently made him 1-A and eligible for immediate call-up. The champion blasted the action, made several controversial remarks about the war in Viet Nam, and announced he would appeal the reclassification. He had been 1-Y because of his failure to pass certain mental tests.

Five Iowa Teams Vie For Big Ten Honors

By RON BLISS
Asst. Sports Editor

Five of Iowa's six winter sports teams will complete the last leg of their 1965-66 seasons this weekend by competing for high finishes in each of their respective Big 10 championship meets.

TWO OF THE five, swimming and fencing, will host Big 10 meets in the Iowa Field House, while the other three, gymnastics, wrestling and indoor track, will travel to Bloomington, Ind., Champaign, Ill., and East Lansing, Mich. respectively to compete in Big 10 finales there.

COACH BOB Allen's swimmers will open the weekend's activities this afternoon with the start of the Big 10 swimming championships in the Field House pool.

ALLEN

The meet is scheduled to begin with time trials at 1 p.m. today and run through Saturday night's finals which will begin at 8 p.m. that night.

Indiana is favored to capture its sixth straight title in the meet, but should get stiff competition from Michigan and Michigan State.

IOWA'S HAWKEYES, though not a strong title threat, will be looking for a first division finish in the meet after posting the best overall mark that an Iowa swim team has had in 10 years.

The Hawks, who finished the season with a 6-3 overall record and a 3-3 Big 10 mark, will rest their hopes in six sophomores and two seniors in the meet.

The sophomores are Gil Hitchcock, 500-yard freestyle and butterfly; John Scheda, 50 and 100-yard freestyle; Maurice LeVois, individual medley; Ray Kearney, 200-yard freestyle; Viggo Jensen, backstroke; and Al Schenck, diving.

The veteran hopefuls are Ron Berry, breaststroke, and Bill Kanter, diving.

COACH DICK Marks' fencing team will host the Big 10 fencing championships at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday on the varsity basketball court in the Field House.

MARKS

The fencers, 9-7, wound up their regular season last weekend with victories over Oberlin, Case, Chicago, and Ohio State, and appear in strong position to give defending champion Illinois, and challengers Michigan State and Wisconsin a strong run for the title.

Marks' top fencer during the regular season was team co-captain Cap Hermann who had a 31-13 record in the epee event. Wayne Whitmore, who had a 30-16 record on the season, is Iowa's best bet in the sabre event, while co-captain Al Hostetler, with a 26-14 season mark, is the top Hawkeye in the foil event.

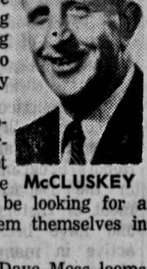
HOLZAEPFEL

COACH DICK Holzaepfel's gymnasts will leave for Bloomington, Ind., today to compete in the Big 10 gymnastics championships which will be held there Friday and Saturday.

The gymnasts, 4-3 in Big 10 meets, will try, along with Michigan State and Illinois, to unseat conference champion Michigan which is in search of its sixth straight title.

Top hopefuls on the Iowa squad are Neil Schmitt, who placed first in several events during the regular season; Ken Gordon, who has done well in the side horse; Ike Heller, 7th place finisher in all-around championship last year and top performer in the long horse and parallel bars this year; Arno Lazar, parallel bars; and Rick Febey, trampoline.

THE HAWKEYE wrestlers will travel with coach Dave McCluskey to Champaign, Ill., today where they will prepare to take part in the Big 10 wrestling championships to be held Friday and Saturday.



McCLUSKEY

After a subpar 2-5-2 conference dual meet record, the Hawkeyes will be looking for a chance to redeem themselves in the meet.

Heavyweight Dave Moss looms as the top Iowa entry, while Jim Ewoldsen, 123; Russ Sill, 167; Ken Shaner, 147; and Dennis Wegner, 157 are other Hawkeye hopefuls.

Coach Francis Cretzmeyer's trackmen seem to offer the best chance of a high Iowa finish. The trackmen have only a five-point dual meet loss to Minnesota marring their record, while they have won a triangular meet from Bradley and Grinnell and a quadrangular meet from Illinois, Northwestern and Purdue.

CRETZMEYER

The squad will leave for East Lansing, Mich., today and will compete in the Big 10 indoor track championships tomorrow and Saturday.

Wisconsin is favored to retain the title that it won in last year's meet, but must hold off challenger Michigan State and always strong Michigan if it hopes to do so.

Iowa seems a good bet for either third or fourth place in the meet, with its' mile relay team and Mike Mondane in the 600-yard run as good bets for individual championships. Both had the best times in the conference in their respective events during the regular season.

Other hopefuls for the Iowa team are pole vaulter Bill Burnette, who currently holds the Iowa record and last year won second place in the outdoor championships; Fred Ferree, who had the second best time in the conference in the 440-yard run during the regular season; Dennis Kohl, second best in the 300-yard dash; Ted Brubacher, fourth best in the 1000-yard run; Larry Wieczorek, fourth best in the mile; and Ron Griffith in the 880-yard run and Al Randolph and Jon Reimer in the hurdle events.

For students and faculty who wish to attend the swim championships, general admission tickets will be available at the door for $1.00 for both the afternoon and evening sessions, and reserved seat tickets will be available at a cost of $2.00 for evenings.

What does the Chicago Tribune want from University of Iowa?

YOU

if you're good enough.

Are you good enough to handle up to $500,000 in advertising billings next year?

As an advertising representative for the Chicago Tribune, you're actually an advertising advisor to top businessmen. You start out handling $100,000 in yearly billings. If you're really good, you may boost your volume as high as half a million dollars by the year's end.

Sure, that's lot of money. But look at the product you're selling: the Chicago Tribune. Largest full-size daily paper in the nation, it carried a total of $85,000,000 worth of advertising last year.

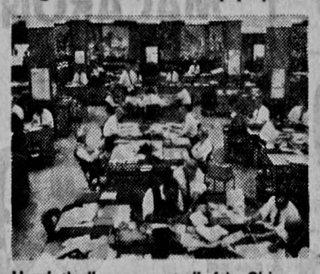
It may look like a fraternity "bull session," but these Tribune salesmen are kicking around a new selling idea. Still in their 20's, already decision-makers.

To maintain its leadership, the Tribune needs young go-getters who are poised and self-confident, quick-thinking, imaginative, eager to earn, learn and win one promotion after another. There's always more work than you have time for, but you have a magnificent organization backing you up. There's the nation's largest staff of newspaper research and marketing experts... plus writers and artists to create ads for the space you sell.

At the Tribune, the pay, the generous fringe benefits and the management opportunities quickly bring out the best in you.

Does a career in advertising sound good to you? The Chicago Tribune offers the best.

Are you good enough to make the news staff of the nation's largest full-size daily paper?



Here's the "nerve-center" of the Chicago Tribune. Many famous writers and editors got their start in this newsroom. The best ones assume the editorial leadership for which the Tribune is noted.

When the Chicago Tribune taps you, you step right into big-time, big-city newspaper work as a member of a news staff of about 500.

To join the Tribune staff, you must be good—and have the grades to prove it. You must be a good writer and be able to demonstrate it. You need a nose for news, quick reactions and the ability to work under pressure, Most of all, you should be dedicated to journalistic excellence and have some ideas of your own about how to achieve it.

Your very first assignment at the Chicago Tribune probably will be a writing job for one of the regular neighborhood news sections. You'll earn your way and learn by working with experienced editors and veteran reporters. You'll work hard, sometimes with irregular hours, to meet hourly deadlines.

Your rewards will reflect your performance. You can move on to copy-editing, makeup, feature writing. You may even make it into top management.

And the pay was never so good as it is today for bright young journalists.

If you have a good scholastic record with writing talent to match, try for the Chicago Tribune's famed news staff.

Are you good enough to win one of the Tribune's other specialized job openings for college graduates?

Big city newspapers are big business today. With the largest circulation of any standard-size newspaper in the U.S., the Tribune grows apace with Chicago and the Midwest.

As one of Chicago's largest businesses, the Tribune now employs more than 4,500 men and women with a multitude of skills. Constant promotions from within create new openings for such people as: research analysts and marketing experts, advertising artists and copywriters, public relations men, engineers and administrative specialists.

With such a wide variety of openings, your studies in any field—accounting, art, economics, English, even dramatics—may qualify you for a career with the Chicago Tribune.

These doors open wide each year for outstanding college graduates.

A Tribune representative will be on campus March 10, 1966. See your placement officer at the School of Business or School of Journalism to arrange an interview.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Engineers and Scientists:

Let's talk about a career at Boeing...
50-year leader in aerospace technology

Campus Interviews, Thursday and Friday, March 17 and 18

The most effective way to evaluate a company in terms of its potential for dynamic career growth is to examine its past record, its current status, and its prospects and planning for the future, together with the professional climate it offers for the development of your individual capabilities.

Boeing, which in 1966 completes 50 years of unmatched aircraft innovation and production, offers you career opportunities as diverse as its extensive and varied backlog. Whether your interests lie in the field of commercial jet airliners of the future or in space-flight technology, you can find at Boeing an opening which combines professional challenge and long-range stability.

The men of Boeing are today pioneering evolutionary advances in both civilian and military aircraft, as well as in space programs of such historic importance as America's first moon landing. Missiles, space vehicles, gas turbine engines, transport helicopters, marine vehicles and basic research are other areas of Boeing activity.

There's a spot where your talents can mature and grow at Boeing, in research, design, test, manufacturing or administration. The company's position as world leader in jet transportation provides a measure of the calibre of people with whom you would work. In addition, Boeing people work in small groups, where initiative and ability get maximum exposure. Boeing encourages participation in the company-paid Graduate Study Program at leading colleges and universities near company installations.

We're looking forward to meeting engineering, mathematics and science seniors and graduate students during our visit to your campus. Make an appointment now at your placement office. Boeing is an equal opportunity employer.

Grants In February Exceed $1 Million

Grants totaling $1,067,741 were accepted for the University in February by the finance committee of the Board of Regents.

The total included $909,363 for research projects, $20,916 for scholarships and fellowships, $5,103 for training grants, $26,300 to be added to student loan funds and $106,059 for miscellaneous purposes.

Included in funds accepted were a $151,071 general research support grant from the U.S. Public Health Service to the College of Medicine; a $100,000 Rockefeller Foundation grant to the School of Music to help support a new program in modern contemporary music creativity and performance; and a $135,265 U.S. Public Health Service grant to the Department of Agricultural Medicine for a community study on pesticides.

Also accepted: National Science Foundation grants of $50,000, $26,000 and $24,000, respectively, to the Departments of Biochemistry, Zoology and Chemistry; six U.S. Public Health Service grants totaling $139,691 to the Department of Pharmacology; U.S. Public Health Service grants of $46,303 and $43,800, respectively, to the Departments of Internal Medicine and Preventive Medicine; and a grant of $26,000 from the Merck Company Foundation, Rahway, N.J., to Student Financial Aids.

ACCIDENTS IN GERMANY — WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — More than a million road accidents were registered in West Germany last year. They killed 15,710 people and injured 432,770. The fatality toll dropped 4.8 per cent under the 1964 peak, showing the first decline in eight years.

Painting By Max Weber Is Donated To University

A major painting by the noted American artist Max Weber has been given to the University by Mr. and Mrs. James S. Schramm of Burlington. Titled "Exotic Dancers," the oil on canvas is now on exhibition in the east foyer of the Art Building.

Painted in 1940, "Exotic Dancers" was kept by Weber in his own collection for some time and was shown in his retrospective exhibiion at the Whitney Museexhibition at the Whitney Museum in 1949.

The University also owns Weber's "Flute Player," which has been exhibited frequently at the University and has been loaned for a number of major exhibitions in other cities.

Mr. and Mrs. Schramm are known in Iowa for their support of the arts and of cultural and civic enterprises. Their art collection includes many paintings by important contemporary American artists and also by such famous European artists as Bourdelle, Marini and Picasso.

Frank Seiberling, director of the School of Art, commented on the painting, "The Schramms' gift of an important work by Max Weber, dating from his mature period, brings a splendid addition to the University's collection. It is now on special display and will not be seen to such advantage again before the completion of the University's new art gallery, planned for the summer of 1967."

Weber, who died in 1961, was a native of Russia but came to the United States at the age of 10. Following three years of study at the Pratt Institute in New York, Weber sudied at the Julian Academy in Paris and with Henri Matisse. He returned to this country in 1909.

Auditions To Be Held For Brecht's 'Puntila'

Auditions for the play "Puntila" by Bertolt Brecht will be held from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. and from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday and from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Friday in B11 Old Armory.

The play, presented by the University Studio Theatre, will be directed by Gert Weyman, visiting professor from Germany, who is teaching acting and directing here this semester.

"Puntila" is a criticism of the inequality of social position. It is concerned with the relationship of Puntila, a rich Finnish landowner, to the people on his estate, especially his hired man, who is also his confidant.
