

NASA Reports Smooth Going For Gemini 8

CAPE KENNEDY (AP) — Astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and David R. Scott will attempt four separate hookups with an Agena satellite and Scott is to walk in space for 2 hours, 40 minutes during next week's Gemini 8 flight.

Officials reported everything proceeding smoothly toward Tuesday's doubleheader launching. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration disclosed these and other details of the flight plan Thursday as the astronauts, their backups and launch controllers ran through several rehearsals.

Armstrong, Scott and their backups, Charles Conrad Jr. and Richard F. Gordon Jr., alternated climbing into the Gemini 8 space ship as they practiced phases of the launching, mission, and some emergency procedures.

An Atlas-Agena rocket is scheduled to blast off at 9 a.m. (CST) to hurl the Agena into orbit as a docking target for Gemini 8. Armstrong and Scott are to take off at 10:41 a.m. atop a Titan 2 rocket to pursue the 26-foot Agena across 105,000 miles of space, catching it during the fourth orbit.

The space agency said Gemini 8 will rendezvous with the Agena about 5 1/2 hours after the astronauts set sail and that the first linkup will occur about an hour later.

U. Heights Hears Plans On Insurance

Recommendations for more insurance coverage were given to the University Heights Town Council Thursday night at its regular March meeting in the St. Andrew Presbyterian Church house.

Robert M. Alderman made the recommendations as a representative of the Iowa City Association of Independent Agents. He is expected to bring exact recommendations and the prices to the April council meeting.

Alderman said the Iowa City Association of Independent Insurance Agents sought to provide recommendations for the best insurance coverage to governmental units in Johnson County. The Association selects the company with the best coverage and the agent best able to serve a particular governmental unit, he explained.

The insurance premium commissions go completely for safety promotion, such as safety clinics, fire prevention week promotion, driver education class publications and safety films.

In other action, Karl A. Robertson, 207 1/2 Grandview Court, was appointed University Heights Civil Defense director.

OPENING OR CLOSING George St. was discussed, and meetings were planned with Henry Africa, 23 George St., and those involved with the Vollmer estate. These two own the major part of the property that would be affected by a decision.

Payment was not approved on an Iowa City charge of more than $45 for eliminating a sewage stoppage. Council felt this sort of charge should be resolved in the negotiations with Iowa City about the contracts for various services provided the town by Iowa City.

Sentiment was expressed for University Heights contributing in relation to its size to the Metropolitan Planning Commission on an annual basis, if the other towns in Johnson County do likewise.

Arson, Riots Shake India; 12 Are Dead

CALCUTTA (AP) — Rioting mobs clashed with police and troops in Calcutta and the surrounding area Thursday night. At least 13 persons were reported killed. One was a policeman beaten to death by a mob.

The fighting climaxed a day of rioting, arson and looting as leftist-led demonstrators protested India's food shortage.

As the violence mounted in Calcutta, a city of five million — India's largest — and in surrounding areas, the Indian army was called in.

About 5,000 rioters fought the army in the center of Calcutta after smashing street lights and plunging the area into darkness. Police cars were set afire.

Twelve of those killed were in the Calcutta area towns of Rishra and Konnagar. The other was killed at the coal town of Asansol, 120 miles west of Calcutta.

The rioters made rail stations in these three towns the target of their violence, setting them ablaze.

West Bengal Chief Minister P. C. Sen told newsmen a leftist-inspired 24-hour strike was "more or less complete" over the entire state. He blamed eastern India's Communists for the violence.

Cost Of Viet Nam War Besieges U.S. Congress

'War' Taxes Win Approval In Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate House troubleshooters reconnected the telephone tax and reworked a Social Security amendment Thursday to give President Johnson the extra $6 billion he wants.

A conference committee representing the two chambers agreed on a compromise Viet Nam tax bill that will go to Johnson next week if Senate and House approve it.

Knocked out was a Senate amendment that would have kept the excise tax on residential telephone service at 3 per cent while restoring long distance calls to the 10 per cent rate.

AS THE BILL stands now the telephone tax will return to the 10 per cent level that prevailed before Jan. 1 on both local and long distance service.

On the Social Security amendment, which also was added to the House bill by the Senate, the conferees came up with a plan that would delay its impact beyond the next budget period.

The original plan was to extend Social Security payments to 1.8 million persons over 70 who are not now covered. As rewritten in the compromise session, it would benefit an estimated 300,000 persons over 72 years of age.

THIS WOULD be accomplished by providing that the monthly payments could not go to anyone who already is collecting a federal, state or local pension of any kind or a railroad retirement pension.

Together, the two Senate amendments would have stripped more than $1 billion from the bill's anticipated revenues.

The bill raises the extra $6 billion by restoring excise tax reductions on autos and telephone service which went into effect Jan. 1, by speeding up payment of corporation income taxes, and by instituting on May 1 of a new graduated withholding system for individual income taxes.

Under the new withholding plan, persons in the higher income brackets will have additional amounts taken from their pay checks but low income families will have somewhat smaller sums withheld.

Postmaster Gets OK

The U.S. Senate approved Thursday the nomination of William J. Coen, 1712 E. St., as new Iowa City postmaster.

Seven other Iowa nominees were approved.

Traffic Report May Suggest Frosh, Soph Car Restrictions

By JON VAN

Editor

Freshmen and sophomores will probably be walking more next fall and enjoying it less.

A report on University traffic problems has not been made public, but it will recommend a restriction on sophomore and freshman cars starting in the fall.

Eugene Spaziani, associate professor of zoology, told the Iowan Thursday that the report "will also include a provision for faculty cars." Spaziani, who is chairman of the University Parking and Security Committee, would not elaborate on this except to say that the report's recommendations "will affect everyone."

THE REPORT scheduled to be completed at a meeting Thursday, was to be sent to Pres. Howard R. Bowen Monday. But the committee hit a snag, Spaziani said, and the report will have to be completed at a meeting scheduled for next Thursday.

Two Iowan reporters were barred from Thursday's meeting by Spaziani, who said his committee would make its report to Bowen and the president would have to decide when and how the report was made public.

Although Spaziani would not say much about the report Thursday, he talked about it at length Wednesday during a news panel sponsored by Union Board.

He said Wednesday that an auto ban would be necessary to meet next fall's traffic problems and estimated that student cars would increase by 1,500 if nothing were done. The ban would not be limited to the campus or to parking. Students placed under the ban would simply not be allowed to have a car in Iowa City.

THE COMMITTEE views any restriction as temporary, Spaziani said. The report will call for long-range measures such as improved bus service, large parking lots on the outskirts of the campus and the removal of some streets that now cut through the campus.

Spaziani told students that he hoped any restrictions could be lifted after four or five years.

Student apathy on University traffic problems was criticized by Spaziani who initiated the discussion to stimulate student reaction. Spaziani did not discuss details for enforcing an auto ban, but he said any student caught breaking the rules would probably be subject to dismissal from the University.

"WE'RE DEPENDING heavily upon the basic honesty of the student," he said.

Exceptions to the ban will probably include married students, commuters and students beyond a certain age. Others would have to apply for exemptions.

Committee studies indicate an auto ban at Iowa would be a first in the nation. Small private colleges often have such bans, but large state universities usually only restrict parking or driving on campus.

Senate Votes Economic Aid To Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $275-million dose of emergency aid for South Viet Nam's war-ravaged economy won overwhelming Senate approval Thursday. In addition a swift, final vote sent to the White House a bill authorizing $4.8 billion in new battlefield funds.

The aid vote came after a warning that without fresh economic help the South Vietnamese government might collapse.

THE AID authorization bill passed, 82-2, after a scant five hours of debate — a thin echo of the long and bitter argument over the big military spending measure.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) and Sen. Ernest Gruening (D-Alaska) were the lone dissenters.

The military money bill cleared its real test in the Senate 10 days ago. Thursday's vote passed in both House and Senate reconciled minor differences and sent it to President Johnson for his signature. The money is for weapons and other military supplies.

As the Senate acted on the emergency aid bill totaling $415 million for Viet Nam and other trouble spots, an Asian affairs expert predicted Communist China would fight to preserve the Red regime in North Viet Nam.

Prof. John K. Fairbank of Harvard University said he doubts Red China would permit unification of Viet Nam as a Southeast Asian buffer state.

"THE CHINESE Communist cannot afford to let us into North Viet Nam without a fight," he told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, "and we cannot afford to let the Communist Chinese into the South where they would threaten the power balance in all of Southeast Asia."

Fairbank recommended admission of Red China to the United Nations — and, at the same time, endorsed a firm policy of military containment.

He said the United States is "stuck in a dirty war," and he criticized current U.S. operations in South Viet Nam. He said the U.S. effort now seems too destructive.

He said also that the stakes in Viet Nam are worth the risks. "The problem of power relations has to be faced," he said.

"Perhaps power has to be used in smaller wars if we are to avoid bigger wars."

Johnson Plan For Loan Aid Is Contested

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's proposal to help needy college students with subsidized and guaranteed bank loans instead of government loans ran into heavy congressional fire Thursday.

Members of a House education subcommittee told Office of Education officials they didn't think the plan would work.

Chairman Edith Green (D-Ore.) who said, "I am as opposed to this plan as I can be," asked, "What is the purpose of this proposal, to make the budget look good for next year or to let kids go to college?"

Rep. John Brademas (D-Ind.) observed, "I am not sure you expect this committee to take this proposal seriously."

Brademas described himself as a strong supporter of Johnson but added, "I don't propose to be a rubber stamp for the administration on any proposal — especially not one which on its face is so hard to rationalize to a reasonable man."

John W. Gardner, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, insisted, "We are really convinced that through this plan, perhaps with some modifications, we can reach every needy student."

The storm center of the controversy is the National Defense Education Act loan program. In the past, needy students have been able to get from their colleges low-cost loans that could be repaid on easy terms after graduation. The colleges, in turn, got most of the money from the government.

Last year an additional program was voted for students in the middle income brackets — a system under which they could borrow from banks or other private institutions, with the government guaranteeing the loan and paying part of the interest. The latest proposal is to phase out the original Defense Education Act program and substitute the guaranteed-loan principle.

Under such a system, the budget would contain expenditures for interest subsidy but not for the principal amount of the loans.

Mrs. Green and Brademas said they had been deluged with letters from colleges protesting the change and that bankers do not appear enthusiastic about it either.

Aid For Poor Soon To Get Federal OK

Final government approval of poverty programs drawn up by the Hawkeye Area Community Action Program (HACAP) is expected by Tuesday, John D. Garfield, president of the governing board of HACAP, told local members Thursday.

Approval would make funds available for the HACAP to begin work on both a sheltered workshop and adult high school programs in Johnson county.

The group also voted to make formal application for a Day-Care Center in Johnson County for underprivileged children of kindergarten age.

A budget for a proposed 13-week Neighborhood Youth Corps was also presented to the governing board. The program would cost $21,000 and would employ 24 workers between ages 16 and 21 for the summer months.

The workers would help beautify the highway entrances to Johnson County cities and parks in Iowa City.

Operation Head Start, also under the supervision of the HACAP, will be a part of the summer program for the second year, Garfield said.

More than 60 pre-school children participated last summer in the Head Start program, said Marshall Field, county superintendent of education.

Field said he hoped to expand participation this year by employing a social worker and by providing transportation for more children.

Construction Site Fire Causes Slight Damage

A small fire in the flooring of an apartment construction project on the 700 block of Michael Street caused minor damage to the building Thursday morning.

The fire broke out in a hallway on the second floor of the apartment complex at 7:15 a.m. Only the floor in the immediate area of the fire was damaged.

Tuition Rates To Be Studied By Regents

By NIC GOERES Staff Writer

The controversial state tuition rules will undergo review by the State Board of Regents, possibly as early as May.

The Regents Thursday approved a motion to conduct a "systematic review" of resident and non-resident requirements affecting tuition rates after a court decision on whether George Clarke, 22, a freshman law student, will pay resident or non-resident tuition.

The trial is scheduled for early May in Des Moines. If a decision is reached before the scheduled Regents meeting May 12 and 13, discussion by the Regents might begin then.

THE MOTION stemmed from the Clarke case and a more recent request for review involving Patricia A. Moehling, A1, Iowa City.

Mrs. Moehling, formerly Patricia Ann Rusley, is being charged out-of-state tuition because she is married to a resident of Illinois. She was married to Ronald E. Moehling, A2, Mount Prospect, Ill., on Jan. 29.

The residence rules say that the wife's residence is that of her husband; therefore, she lost her Iowa residency when she was married.

THIS RULING does not apply to men. Clarke, who married an Iowa resident and claims he has moved permanently to Iowa, must still pay out-of-state tuition.

The motion to review the rules was made by Mrs. Joseph Rosenfield, Des Moines, policy chairman of the Regents.

Business and Building Chairman, Melvin Wolf, a Waterloo lawyer, favored the motion.

"Here is a girl who never set foot out of the state," he said, "yet she's got to pay $600 a year because of a legal fiction."

PRES. HOWARD R. Bowen said the residency requirements must be adhered to at the present, including the Clarke decision, "otherwise whenever a questionable matter comes up there is pressure for change."

A letter to Bowen from state legislator Tom Riley (R-Linn County), recommended study of the residency rules.

"To penalize an Iowa resident who never leaves this state, merely because he or she marries someone from outside the state, is unthinkable," he wrote.

ISU Loses Federal Funds, Asks State Aid

Iowa State University President W. Robert Parks hopes to get some additional state funds to make up for the expected reduction of federal funds going to ISU next year.

Parks made the proposal to the Board of Regents policy committee Thursday in Iowa City. He said he would like to go to the State Executive Council in May or June to explore the possibilities for more money.

At the Regents' last meeting in Des Moines, Feb. 11, Parks said the federal budget proposals would reduce ISU's teaching salaries by $215,000 next year and research funds by $220,000, besides ending the long-established extension relationships.

"We feel that this is money we simply have to have," Parks told the policy committee. "These are funds that have been in for a long time and we've become used to them."

The ISU president also said the government relied too much on project-to-project planning, instead of an overall program that would be more favorable.

Promotions Suggested To Regents

The promotion of two University professors and the naming of a new director of the Institute of Hydraulic Research was recommended to the State Board of Regents Thursday by Pres. Howard R. Bowen.

George W. Forell, professor of religion, was recommended for promotion from acting director to director of the University School of Religion.

Duane C. Spriestersbach, now dean of the Graduate College, was recommended for appointment as vice president for research and as graduate dean.

John F. Kennedy, professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will be considered for the position as director of the Department of Mechanics and Hydraulics.

The recommendations are expected to be acted on today by the Board of Regents. The names were submitted to the regents policy committee Thursday.

If approved, the appointments of Forell and Spriestersbach would become effective immediately. Kennedy's appointment would begin in July.

Painter Case Decision Examined

A panel discussion of the recent Iowa Supreme Court decision on the Painter child custody suit was sponsored by the Young Democrats Thursday in the Old Capitol House Chamber.

According to the panel moderator, Lawrence E. Barrett, program assistant at WSUL, the controversy on the case stemmed from the "unfortunate" wording of the Court's opinion that suggested bias on the position of Harold Painter as the boy's natural father.

In the Painter decision, now under national scrutiny, the Iowa Supreme Court overturned a district court decision and awarded custody of Mark Painter, 7, to his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Bannister of Ames.

THE COURT stated, "... the kind of life Mark would be exposed to in the Painter household... would be unstable, unconventional, arty, bohemian, and probably intellectually stimulating."

The panel of five was divided into two opinion groups, one favoring the court's decision, and one questioning the decision. L. G. Klein, a local attorney, was legal consultant on court procedures during the discussion.

Dr. Richard Jenkins, professor of psychology and chief of the child psychology service of the University Hospital, and Mrs. Gene Allvonn, of the Iowa Lutheran Welfare Placement Agency, upheld the decision of the court in that it is always the responsibility of the court to look to the welfare of the child.

Ira L. Reiss, professor of sociology, and Dr. George Challas, resident in the University Psychopathic Hospital, held that the evidence of Harold Painter's inability to care for his child had not been presented to the court and that one psychologist's opinion should not be the only grounds for decision.

"BOTH SIDES had an opportunity to present their case," Klein pointed out, "and the Supreme Court can only draw inference from the testimony presented and interpret it."

"I feel that what the court did is to listen to the child psychologist who had only the consideration of the child in mind. One would expect that since the Bannister home is a fine place for a child to live that this would be the psychologist's main interest," Reiss said.

Never pass 'Go'

THE NAME OF THE GAME is education, and it's probably the greatest thing since the Parker Brothers hit upon Monopoly. Education is a game for the whole family.

As with all games, the idea is to win. Winning occurs when one or more players is able to move his pawn into the circle marked "Success."

There is something strange about the game, however. Somehow, in the heat of moving ahead, the players forget the rules or confuse the rules of education with the rules of some other games. For instance, if a player's pawn lands on a square marked "Exam," he is given a chance to throw the dice. If the dice turn to double sixes, he is allowed to move his pawn to the square marked "A." If the dice turn up snake eyes, he must move three spaces backward.

Those rules sound simple enough, but what often happens is that the players forget that two pawns may rest on a single "A" square, and one player will push another pawn off the square to make room for his own.

This soon develops into a game of eagle-eyed observation. Each player must protect his pawn from the others.

The originators of the game were careful to include provisions that would allow several people to reach "Success," in the same playing period. In the evolution of the game, however, this concept has been lost, and most players now seem to think only one can win — there can be no success left over for another.

The whole situation of the game of education is unfortunate in that, while it used to be a game played because they wanted to, it is now a game played out of compulsion.

The test is the measure of the man. He either makes it or he doesn't, all on the basis of a test or two or three. His is never to reason why. And how can he help feeling that he's one of the big losers in the game of education?

Learning isn't the goal of the game; success is. It matters terribly whether you win or lose; how you play the game is a secondary consideration. Cheating is but one indication that students are revolting against the System. As George Leonard writes in the current issue of Look magazine:

"Students may be morally wrong in cheating. Educationally they are right."

If there were no tests, there would be no cheating, but how would our mass-production universities ever evaluate their product? How would those universities weed out applicants for admission? How would the instructor ever instruct without his exams?

The rut is deep, but we are not resigned. —Dallas Murphy

Viet discussion

THE IOWA VIET NAM DAYS Committee has designated March 25 as a day for people at the University to learn a little bit about this war we're fighting in Viet Nam.

The group wants to ask all the instructors at the University to take a break from the chemistry or sociology or economics that they would normally spend the hour on, and instead spend the hour discussing the war.

We think this is a pretty good idea, and is in the best of American tradition. The committee isn't asking that any particular opinion be presented; they are asking for open discussion on a topic that most honest people will confess they really don't know as much about as they should, when the extent of our involvement is considered.

By just reading a newspaper or talking to people it becomes apparent that there are as many versions of what is being done in Viet Nam as there are people expressing them. The fact that this diversity exists is evidence that information about the war is not as clear as it might be. Every side has evidence that it can present to refute opposing views.

A day of close examination of the arguments in this war just might clear up some of the foggy part of our information, and at least it could help many of us formulate more rational opinions about the war. —Dave Pollen

Rudolph Serkin earns ovation

By DAVE REID
Staff Writer

A capacity audience filled the Union Main Lounge several minutes before the aging pianist, Rudolph Serkin, walked on stage Wednesday night to present the fourth in a series of concerts sponsored by the University Cultural Affairs Committee.

Serkin wasted little time in showing the audience why many authorities call him the foremost pianist in the world today.

He turned to the audience acknowledging the applause with a broad smile, and seated himself at the grand piano.

Simultaneously the audience silenced and the opening chords of Bach's "Prelude and Fugue in A minor" flowed from the piano. The short prelude soon gave way to the swirling subject of the Fugue allowing Serkin to show his superb technical mastery of the instrument.

THE SECOND SELECTION, Haydn's "Sonata in D major" was an effective homophonic contrast to the complex counterpoint of the Bach Fugue.

The Moderato and Andante movements of the Sonata made it clear that Serkin is more than a technical wizard of the instrument and can draw all the feeling from the piano that Haydn had intended.

A short interlude brought the artist back to open the third selection with the powerful chords of Beethoven's "Sonata in C minor, Op. 111."

The first movement varied from powerful driving torrents of sound of soft thoughtful passages. A restrained second movement preceded a more dynamic finale which had a pianissimo conclusion.

SERKIN IS AN interesting artist to watch as well as to hear. He continually peered at the keyboard as if he were reading the music on the keys as well as hearing the sound from the piano. He sporadically mouthed instructions to himself while he was playing.

Following an intermission Serkin returned to present a "Tocatta" and a "Berceuse" by Beethoven. These two works were not so well received as the rest of the program written by more famous composers. Nevertheless the two works contributed significantly to the concert.

Serkin's performance of the first five compositions was certainly superb, but his presentation of the final work, Schumann's "Carnaval, Op. 9" was monumental.

THE WORK SHOWED Schumann at his controversial best. Serkin would write under two names. Works he composed under the name of Florianer were like fire while those under the name of Eusebius were more restrained.

Serkin was brilliant in bringing out this contrast as he was in his presentation of the intensely melodic sections in the middle.

At the Carnival's conclusion the audience exploded into tumultuous applause and was quite willing to show appreciation with a standing ovation. It took Serkin three encores to satiate the crowd.

Unfastened belts may cost a lot

Failure to fasten his seat belt may soon cost a motorist money as well as injury. The Insider's Newsletter has reported.

The Defense Research Institute, a national organization of 4,300 defense attorneys, with headquarters in Milwaukee, believes that passengers who don't fasten their seat belts may lose their rights to collect personal injury damages in case of an accident.

According to The Institute, the laws in 23 states requiring seat belts in automobiles imply the responsibility of motorists to use them.

Thomas W. Bertz, the Institute's assistant research director, compares seat belt legislation with workman's compensation laws, which provide no benefits where injury or death results from intentional failure of the employee to use available safety devices.

The Newsletter noted that this interpretation of the law may not ultimately stick in court — but it will certainly be argued by lawyers defending damage claims.

How long is eternity?

An eternity isn't quite as long as some people think it is, researchers at a university in Bucharest have discovered.

According to The Insider's Newsletter, a Romanian historian studied some 7,500 international treaties — signed between 1500 B.C. and 1850 A.D. — whose provisions were to be in effect for eternity.

He found that "eternity" had lasted an average of two years per treaty.

'All right, men — they asked for it'

What do you do about a problem like Zemululu?

By ART BUCHWALD

I just received a very heartbreaking letter from a friend of mine who happens to be the American ambassador to an African country which, to protect him, I will call Zemululu.

He writes that he is in serious trouble with the State Department and doesn't know what to do about it.

His problems first began when a year went by without any anti-American demonstrations in the country. Washington became suspicious and thought he was keeping something from them. He received a cable which said, "CAN'T UNDERSTAND LACK OF ANTI-AMERICAN DEMONSTRATIONS YOUR AREA. PLEASE CLARIFY WHY NATION IS FRIENDLY."

My friend wired back he had no explanation for it unless the country's climate did not lend itself to demonstrating. He thought he would hear no more from Washington, but a week later he received a follow-up cable: "HOW COME YOU HAVE SENT IN NO REPORT ON COUPS OR ATTEMPTED COUPS IN YOUR COUNTRY? YOU ONLY AMBASSADOR IN AFRICA NOT EXPECTING A REVOLUTION. WHAT HAVE YOU BEEN DOING?"

He replied, "ZEMULULU NOT COUP-CONSCIOUS. MILITARY GETTING ALONG FINE WITH PREMIER."

By now the matter was being given serious study by the African hands in the State Department.

There was an ominous silence for a few weeks but then he had a bit of good luck and was able to wire, "PEACE CORPS SCANDAL MAY BE BREWING UP-COUNTRY. COULD CAUSE TREMENDOUS DAMAGE TO OUR RELATIONS HERE."

They immediately cabled back, "GOOD BOY. THIS MAY BE THE FIRST BREAK WE'VE HAD. SEND FULL DETAILS."

After a thorough investigation he replied, "PEACE CORPS SCANDAL TURNED OUT TO BE FALSE ALARM. FIRST REPORT INDICATED PEACE CORPS VOLUNTEER WAS GOING TO HAVE A BABY, BUT CORRECTED TRANSMISSION SAYS PEACE CORPS VOLUNTEER DELIVERED A BABY. SORRY TO GET YOUR HOPES UP."

State was very annoyed. To top it off they sent him a nasty wire saying, "YOUR A.I.D. OPERATION HAS JUST BEEN AUDITED AND FOUND TO BE COMPLETELY IN ORDER. THERE HAS BEEN NO MISUSE OF FUNDS OR HINT OF BLACK MARKET OPERATION. A.I.D. PERPLEXED AND THINKING OF CUTTING OFF FUNDS."

The ambassador replied, "PLEASE TELL A.I.D. NOT TO ACT TOO HASTILY. WHILE AMERICAN MONEY BEING KEPT FROM PROFITERS AT MOMENT, SITUATION COULD CHANGE OVERNIGHT."

A month went by and suddenly the code machines started clicking again. "CONGRESSIONAL JUNKIE JUST RETURNED FROM ZEMULULU REPORTS THEY PLEASED WITH STABILITY AND PROGRESS MADE THERE AND VERY IMPRESSED WITH LACK OF SUBVERSION. DO YOU REALIZE THIS COULD HURT OVERALL BUDGET FOR UPCOMING YEARS? ALSO UNDERSTAND TIME AND NEWSWEEK CORRESPONDENTS HAVE MADE OFFICIAL COMPLAINTS TO THEIR EDITORS THAT ZEMULULU IS DEAD AS RUNNING STORY. EVERYONE HERE VERY DEPRESSED."

To save his job the ambassador wired back, "TWO CHINESE CULTURAL ATTACHES HAVE JUST ARRIVED FROM PEKING, AND HAVE OPENED CHINESE RESTAURANT."

An immediate reply from Washington said, "CONGRATULATIONS ALL OF US HERE DELIGHTED WITH NEWS. HOW MANY C.I.A. MEN CAN WE SEND YOU?"

Characters merely images in 'Epitaph'

By GARY SMITH
Staff Writer

The house was like a mortuary. Everyone there seemed dead — or at least, not alive. The characters moved but didn't stop to think why they moved. The life processes were automatic and the characters merely images.

The actors were good at playing the occupants of a mortuary and the audience at least received two and a half hours of provoked thinking from "Epitaph for George Dillon" by John Osborne and Anthony Creighton, now at the Studio Theatre.

The play is an epitaph for George Dillon (Weldon Durham), a man with a secret doubt. He wants the world to believe he has talent, though he is not sure himself. His art is acting and play writing.

GEORGE MOVES IN with the Elliot family to keep from starving while he nurtures his seed of genius. The women of the family expect great works from him. Only Mrs. Elliot's sister Ruth (Nancy Baker) sees him as he is.

The youngest daughter falls in love with him and becomes pregnant by him. George contracts tuberculosis and leaves for a short stay in a sanatorium. When he returns, he settles in as part of the family and abandons the myth of his talent.

The essence of the play is a conflict between intellectual integrity and refusal to think about life. George and Ruth try to keep from being smothered in the pall-like atmosphere of the house. They want to be real.

THE FAMILY REFUSES to think about the meaning of life. They are merely caricatures that go through the prescribed motions. They act and react, but don't think.

The choice open to Ruth and George is much like the one facing the characters of T. S. Eliot's "The Cocktail Party." They must choose the loneliness of leaving the family to save their integrity, or choose to make the best of a bad situation and stay to be stifled.

The play switches back and forth from the deep conversations of Ruth and George to trivial conversations on spirituality with the minister. There is a constant comparison between the complacent security of the family and the heights of creativity George knows he will attain.

The play was good, the acting adequate. The acting conveyed the message well, but did not inspire oratory. Perhaps it is easier to play caricatures.

Mrs. Elliot (Sandra Kourey), a lovely, vicious woman, was played with fussy detail. She fussed vaguely about the stage, snubbed the same smoldering cigarette out four times.

THE MINISTER (Bruce French) was a good caricature of smiling banality. He smiled into and out of the play with a face that would shame a Cheshire cat.

"I just can't make up my mind about you," Ruth tells George.

I agreed. Neither could I. Whatever stance he assumed he looked fake and phony. He never really seemed to become George Dillon. I couldn't decide whether it was because George Dillon was a phony character or because the actor was a phony character.

The set was shoddy, but that was as it should be to match the oppressive atmosphere of the house. The home contained drab furniture and a painting of elephantine roses on the wall. The Studio Theatre contained two noisy radiators that sounded as if they had been installed to match the shabby house.

The end of the play marks the time of decision for Ruth and George. She won't give up her integrity. She leaves the family to live with a budding artist she can support, money and soul.

George chooses to be stifled with security. He has become a mediocre playwright and can assume a caricature like the rest of the family. Therein lies the death of George Dillon.

'Poll' misnamed, reader claims

To the Editor:

Don't ever let George Gallop see the March 9 edition of the Daily Iowan. He may disassociate himself from the School of Journalism because of that "election poll" taken by five reporters.

Not only did the poll predict the wrong trend of the election, but it was also wrong by 42 per cent. In short, the poll indicates a complete lack of scientific process.

I will be the first to admit that I know little about the science of polling. But apparently these reporters know less.

Didn't the reporters see something odd when their "poll" indicated a 38 per cent increase in vote turnout? Have they been reading their own paper?

Three men turned out to hear a presidential debate at Hillcrest. Last Monday only 50 girls at Burge Hall heard the presidential, senatorial and SPI board candidates talk about student apathy. Their platforms were so much alike that you could make carbons of one platform and pass them off as the platforms of all the candidates. I also failed to see any great debate develop in the columns of the Daily Iowan.

How were the people chosen for the poll? I would guess that no off-campus students from Iowa City or other towns were included in the polling. Their percentage is probably in the teens. There might have been 60 calls made to the dorm rooms for all the story tells the readers.

I cannot claim that the story was written to bring out the voters on Wednesday. I know the staff better than that.

Anyway, the results of the election do show that University students remain united in their gigantic organization S.A.S. (Students for an Apathetic Society.)

Calls tuition discriminatory

To the Editor:

I am a resident of Iowa. I have taught school full time for three years in Cedar Rapids. During this time I have paid state taxes, bought Iowa fishing and car licenses, and have voted here.

My problem? The discriminatory policies enforced against me by the University of Iowa regarding tuition fees.

My husband has been a full time student classified as a nonresident during these three years. University policy states that a wife must receive the same classification as her husband. So each year when summer school time comes, I legally an Iowa resident in all other matters, a financial supporter of this institution, a full time teacher, must forget the taxes I pay and must remember that a woman is not granted equal treatment with men under university policy.

Article unjust: reader

To the Editor:

It is my opinion that an injustice has been done. Being a former athlete myself and presently an avid basketball fan, I believe that the ridicule of a player by a sports editor is completely uncalled for. I am referring to the article in the Iowan (March 9) concerning the Keokuk-Ottumwa High School Sub-state contest at the Field House Tuesday night. The article said Keokuk's 6 ft. 8 in. center did not put forth much effort in the game because Ottumwa's tallest player was only 6 ft.

Since when has a player's height been a measure of how much work he has done? Our own Hawks have lost to smaller opponents and we have also won from them and no mention was made as to the easy time they or we had just because of being taller. Winning is not easy — no matter how tall or big you may be.

3 Students Named Wilson Fellows; Awarded $2000

By RON FROEHLICH
Staff Writer

Three University students have been awarded Woodrow Wilson Fellowships which provide a $2,000 stipend for living expenses and payment for all tuition and fees for one year.

The fellowship can be used at any graduate school in the United States or Canada. Funds for the fellowships come primarily from the Ford Foundation.

THE WINNERS were announced by Robert P. Boynton, associate professor of political science and regional chairman for the awards. The winners are Ralph C. Bohlin, G. Coraville; Edmund de Chasca, A4, Iowa City; and John R. McKee, A4, Iowa City.

Bohlin, a February graduate of the University, said Thursday he was "very happy and grateful" to have received the award.

He said he hoped to use the fellowship to attend Princeton University, Princeton, N.J., graduate school next year, but had no definite plans at this date. Bohlin is now enrolled in the University graduate school and is majoring in physics.

Bohlin was one of about 40 students from colleges and universities throughout the nation who spent six weeks last summer at Columbia University, N.Y., under the sponsorship of the National Space and Aeronautics Administration.

BOHLIN SAID HE and the other undergraduates were given an intensive course in the workings of the U.S. space program. After completing the course at Columbia, the group was taken on a tour of U.S. space installations.

De Chasca, who was first informed that he had won the award when a friend called to congratulate him, said he was undecided about where he was going to use the fellowship.

He said he had applied at five graduate schools but had not yet made a choice. He thought he would go to either Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., or Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y. De Chasca is an English major.

McKee said Thursday he was undecided about where he was going to graduate school. He said he was "thrilled" to have received the award.

"I can pretty much go to any school I'd like now that I don't have to worry about money."

McKee is a math major and he will graduate in June.

BOYNTON SAID THAT the Woodrow Wilson Fellowships were awarded on the basis of competitive scholarship. Any senior enrolled in a four-year college or university is eligible to try for the awards.

The only requirement is that the applicant indicate an interest in teaching. However, Boynton said, if a person wins a fellowship he is not obligated to teach after graduating. He might select another field.

About 1,000 Woodrow Wilson Fellowships are given annually. In Sept. 1965, 18 University students applied for the awards. After preliminary screening, 6 of 18 applicants were eliminated, Boynton said.

The remaining 12 applicants were personally interviewed by Boynton and members of a selection committee the first week in Jan., 1966. From this 12, the committee selected the candidates they thought most deserving of the awards.

The committee then forwarded their recommendations to the national office in New York City and final selection was made there.

2nd Renewal Area Planned By City

A 30-day schedule of activities for planning Iowa City's second proposed urban renewal project was announced Thursday by Barry D. Lundberg, director of planning and urban renewal.

The second renewal area is located between Court Street and the Rock Island railroad tracks, bounded on the east by Gilbert Street and on the west by the Iowa River. This area is separate from the first urban renewal area, which is the downtown business district.

MORE THAN 550 letters have been sent to residents, property owners, and businessmen in the second area, advising them of the 30-day schedule.

The first event is a meeting between renewal officials and persons from the area at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Community Recreation Center.

Items to be discussed at the meeting include: condition of buildings in the area, population and business characteristics, and urban renewal in general.

IN HIS LETTER, Lundberg stated, "It is our objective to keep you fully informed as to our plans and recommendations for this area."

"We, therefore, welcome this opportunity to tell you about our activities covering the next 30 days and to request your cooperation and patience as we undertake the necessary studies in this area."

Other events on the 30-day schedule include a building condition survey to be taken between Tuesday and March 25.

URBAN RENEWAL interviews with everyone in the proposed area, concerning business and population characteristics, will be conducted between March 21 and April 8.

Block meetings with property owners, businessmen and tenants will also be held during this period. Times and places of the block meetings will be announced later.

11 TO 13 YEAR OLD BOYS WANTED

by the Institute of Child Behavior and Development to participate in research. The study will be conducted at East Hall on Saturdays during March and April. No unpleasant stimulation will be used and the entire procedure takes less than an hour. Each boy will receive $1.50 for his services. If you are an 11 to 13 year old boy who would like to earn $1.50, call 353-4517 between 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. to arrange an appointment.

Board OKs Zoning Changes For Multi-Dwelling Housing

The Iowa City Planning and Zoning Commission approved changes in the zoning ordinance to provide for dormitory and split occupancy living units and set up requirements for large-scale residences Thursday.

In an ordinance to be recommended to the Iowa City Council the commission defined a large-scale residential development as having 30 or more units, 60 or more persons in a dormitory, or being located on two or more acres of land.

In other action, the commission denied a request by a Cedar Rapids developer to rezone the remainder of Fair Meadows southeast of Iowa City to build an apartment complex.

The request was denied, the commission said, because no suitable access from the property, located near Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Company, was available to Highway 6.

The commission recommended rezoning 12½ acres of land northeast of Iowa City belonging to the American College Testing Program (ACTP) to highway commercial listing as soon as the property is annexed into the city.

ACTP wants voluntary annexation into the city by September, 1967, on the land near Interstate 80 and N. Dodge Street to be used for area headquarters for the program.

To Aid Students Seeking Deferment—Draft Test Tutoring Offered

A committee that will tutor male students for the upcoming selective service deferment exams was established at Thursday's meeting of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS).

The action was brought about through discussion after Robert F. Sayre, assistant professor of English, spoke on the topic "Can the University Release Student Grades to the Selective Service?"

THE COMMITTEE will attempt to sort through all similar tests given during the Korean War and tutor the students in the basic fundamentals of mathematics and science.

Much of the discussion following Sayre's talk centered on the alternatives he posed to the audience: take action through faculty members or take action through students who are "aroused" by the tests.

Sayre explained that through the faculty action, the selective service system could be complicated if every faculty member refused to give students a grade or if every faculty member would give an "A" to all students.

Sayre said that if the students were given a grade, the University still could refuse to comply with the selective service policy of sending student grades to local draft boards.

"THERE SHOULD be an option in which the student decides whether or not he wants his grades sent to his draft board.

Grades should not be treated as if they were public property and sent to everyone who asks for them," Sayre said.

Sayre also pointed out that the University was acting as a "middle-man" for the selective service by sending all grades to the draft boards without the student's consent.

"If the student himself were to make the decision as to whether or not the grades were to be sent, the responsibility would lie with the student; this is as it should be," Sayre said.

Banks Raise Interest Rates

NEW YORK (AP)—The minimum cost of loans to the nation's biggest and most secure borrowers was boosted by major banks Thursday to 5½ per cent from 5 per cent, thus making it more difficult and more costly to borrow.

The move, which ultimately might mean higher rates on consumer loans, was initiated by Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York early Thursday afternoon.

Within hours many of the nation's largest banks had joined the move, although some held off.

The speed with which most fell into line was illustrated by Ed Smith, president of the First National Bank in Atlanta, Ga.

"Ours is already raised," he said. "Raised when we got the news from New York."

Said a spokesman for Indiana

National Bank, Indianapolis:

"We pay more for the money to get to lend. It's pretty obvious we must raise rates."

Smokers, Take Note: Help's A Dial Away

University students and staff who wish to stop smoking may now dial 351-3249 and hear a 60-second recording designed to help them kick the habit.

The new project, called Smoker's Dial, is also designed to encourage persons who have recently quit smoking and keep them from starting again.

Smokers can dial the number anytime day or night. The telephone tips are based on the national Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking.

Smoker's Dial is sponsored by the local Action Unit for Better Living of the Seventh-day Adventist church.

Zarley Takes First Round Lead In Doral Open Golf

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Young Kermit Zarley of Yakima, Wash., who almost missed it all by over-sleeping, shot into the lead with a record-equalling 7-under-par 65 Thursday while favorites floundered in the first round of the $100,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament.

The 24-year-old Zarley knocked in eight birdies with rifle-like iron play and almost errorless putting.

He held a one-stroke lead over Tommy Jacobs of Bermuda Dunes, Calif., and Jay Dolan of Leicester, Mass., tied at 66. Dolan, in a fantastic putting exhibition, sank six putts of 30 feet and over.

Darkhorses Gordon Jones of Orlando, Fla., and Jack McGowan, of Largo, Fla., who had barely made expenses on the tour, and slump-ridden Johnny Pott were tied at 68.

Arnold Palmer was the only name player to conquer the 7,028-yard Doral Country Club Course, which was whipped by 30 mile an hour winds and occasional rains.

Arnie rallied for a 69, which placed him in a tie with Ken Still of Tacoma, Wash., and Phil Rodgers of San Diego, Calif.

Jack Nicklaus, who just returned from a golfing and hunting safari to South Africa, skyrocketed to a 77.

Defending champion Doug Sanders, disqualified in the Pensacola Open, last week, and Tony Lema each shot 74.

Ken Venturi and Gay Brewer Jr., each took 75.

Zarley overslept and raced to the first tee out of breath just before his name was called.

NCAA Midwest Regionals Begin At 7 Tonight In The Field House

By RON BLISS
Asst. Sports Editor

It's basketball at its best tonight when Kentucky meets Dayton and Michigan meets Western Kentucky in the first round of the NCAA Midwest regional basketball tournament in the Iowa Field House starting at 7 p.m.

TOP-RANKED Kentucky and

Dayton will meet in the first half of the double-header at 7 p.m., while Michigan and upset-minded Western Kentucky will clash in the game that follows at 9 p.m.

Kentucky, 24-1, and ranked No. 1 in just about everybody's final poll, will be favored to advance through the regionals to the finals of the national tournament to be held in College Park, Md., next weekend, March 18-19.

Kentucky comes into the tournament as the "Cinderella team of the season." With a relatively young team, Coach Adolph Rupp brought his Wildcats, which had been unranked at the start of the season, to the top in the national rankings by winning 23 straight games before being derailed by Tennessee March 5.

THE BARON OF THE BLUEGRASS, Kentucky coach Adolph Rupp, will send his top-ranked Kentucky team against a tall Dayton team tonight in the first game of the NCAA Midwest regional basketball tournament to be played in the Iowa Field House. Kentucky and Dayton will meet at 7 p.m., and Big 10 champion Michigan will play Western Kentucky in the second game at 9 p.m. Rupp is shown here flanked by four of his five starters. They are, from left, Pat Riley, Tom Kron, Rupp, Louie Dampier, and Larry Conley.

Clawson who was Michigan's second leading scorer with a 15.8 average; and 6-8 center Jim Myers who is a fine out-shooter and carries a 13.3 average.

This is Michigan's third straight trip to the NCAA tournaments in three years. They were third in the 1964 and second in the 1965 tournament.

Whether Coach Dave Strack's Wolverines can capture the elusive NCAA title, however, will be at least partially measured tonight when Michigan takes on a Western Kentucky team that upset fourth-ranked Chicago Loyola last Monday night, 105-86, to gain a spot in the regional field.

WESTERN KENTUCKY emerged as the unbeaten Ohio conference champion, and currently owns a 24-2 season record.

The Hilltoppers hail from Bowling Green, Ky., and are led by forward Clem Haskins, who is the team's top scorer with a 20.5 per game average. He receives plenty of help, however, from junior guard Dwight Smith, who averages 16.1; senior center Steve Cunningham, 14.6; sophomore guard Wayne Chapman, 13.0; and sophomore forward Greg Smith, 9.1.

tournament, 17-7, but when you play against the Wolverines, you play against Cazzie Russell, college player of the year, and that automatically means trouble.

There are not too many people who argue when Russell is called the finest college basketball player in the land. The 6-5 1/2 senior guard can do everything that can be expected of one basketball player and more.

He scored 48 points last Saturday against Northwestern and 34 Monday night against Michigan State to claim the Big 10 scoring title, and finished the regular season with a 31.1 scoring average.

BUT THOUGH the Wolverines depend heavily upon Russell, the team also has other talented ball players. Among them are 6-7, 225 pound Oliver Darden who is a ferocious rebounder and an all-Big 10 choice; 6-4 forward John Flournoy, who is the team's second leading scorer with a 15.8 average; and 6-8 center Jim Myers who is a fine out-shooter and carries a 13.3 average.

The winners of tonight's games will advance to the finals of the regionals which will be played in the Field House at 9 p.m. Saturday night. The losers will play in a consolation game at 7 p.m. that night.

Saturday night's finals will be carried live by KCRG-TV, Channel 9, Cedar Rapids, with Sports Network, Inc. commentator Bill Flemming doing the play-by-play.

Orioles Acquire New Catcher From Cleveland Farm Team

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles, shy on catching depth since brain surgery last Monday put veteran Dick Brown out for the season, acquired Camilo Carreon Thursday from the Cleveland Indians' farm team at Portland, Ore.

The Orioles paid an estimated $25,000 for the 28-year-old Carreon and, as part of the deal, sent outfielder Lou Piniella to the Pacific Coast League club from their Rochester farm roster.

Carreon, owner of a .266 lifetime batting average in the American League for slightly over five seasons with the Chicago White Sox and Cleveland, hit .231 last year for the Indians and .244 for Portland. His big league highs were identical .274 averages for the White Sox in 1963 and 1964.

The 22-year-old Piniella batted .249, including 11 home runs, last season for Elmira, N.Y., the Orioles' Class AA affiliate of the Eastern League.

Carreon joins veteran Charley Lau and rookie Andy Etchebarren among catchers expected to make the Baltimore varsity this year.

Czechs Take Lead In World Hockey

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (AP)—Sweden held heavily favored Russia to a 3-3 tie and Czechoslovakia took over first place with a 2-1 victory over Canada Thursday in the World Hockey Championships.

Sweden's deadlock with the Soviet team is the biggest surprise of the tournament so far and turned the race for the title into a wide-open affair.

The Czechs, who nipped Canada with a goal with just 28 seconds to go, now have won all five of their games and lead the standings with 10 points. Russia has nine, Canada eight and Sweden seven.

Kentucky, Duke Favored As NCAA Tourney Opens

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If form follows, Kentucky, Duke and Texas Western will advance through this weekend's action in the NCAA basketball championship tournament.

BUT WHO will fill the West's spot in the national semifinals—Oregon State, University of Pacific, Houston or Utah?

Kentucky, the country's No. 1 team, is in the Midwest Regionals, No. 2 Duke is in the East and No. 3 Texas Western is in the Midwest. Going strictly by the book, those three should survive sectional games Friday and Saturday nights.

However, there is no ranked team among the four Western entries, and according to experts, neither is there a favorite.

Kentucky's first test is against Dayton at Iowa City, Iowa, in the first half of a doubleheader that closes out with ninth-ranked Michigan against 10th-ranked Western Kentucky.

AT RALEIGH, N.C., Duke plays fifth-ranked St. Joseph's of Pennsylvania and Syracuse meets Davidson. At Lubbock, Tex., seventh-ranked Cincinnati takes on Texas Western and fourth-ranked Kansas plays Southern Methodist. The Western regionals at Los Angeles pair University of Pacific against Utah and Oregon State against Huston.

Friday night's winners pair off Saturday night. The four survivors go to the national semifinals at College Park, Md., March 18. The national title will be decided Saturday night, March 19, at College Park.

Based on the rankings alone, Kentucky and Texas Western should collide in the title match—a game that would pair teams with amazingly identical records. Each won its first 23 games, each lost last Saturday night, and each came back with victories Monday night, when Kentucky closed its regular season by beating Tulane and Texas Western defeated Oklahoma City in a first-round NCAA game.

Cassius Eyes Chuvvalo After Terrell Says No

TORONTO (AP)—Cassius Clay's heavyweight title fight still was in the works Thursday, but now it has hit a new snag—he doesn't have an opponent.

Ernie Terrell, who was to have fought Clay in the much-maligned bout at Maple Leaf Gardens on March 29, said as far as he is concerned "the fight is off."

CLAY NOW is talking up George Chuvvalo of Canada as the No. 1 replacement for Terrell, who is balking over terms of the new contract for the 15-round match.

"If Terrell doesn't come here to fight me, I'd like to fight the man most deserving of the next shot—George Chuvvalo," Clay said upon his arrival here.

"Chuvvalo is more qualified than anybody."

Actually, Chuvvalo's credentials aren't all that impressive. He has lost two of his last three fights, including a 15-rounder to Terrell last Nov. 1 in a bout for Terrell's World Boxing Association title at Maple Leaf Gardens.

TERRELL MADE his dramatic walk Wednesday night, re-emphasized his stand Thursday, and said he was standing pat. He termed the contract sent him by the Gardens as "impossible."

"There's still no deal," Terrell said in his Pleasantville, N.J., training camp after a late afternoon meeting with representatives of Main Bout, Inc., which holds the ancillary rights. "I'm leaving the door open," he added.

Mike Malitz, executive vice president of Main Bout, declared, "We offered one thing, they came up with another."

Terrell said he didn't know if there would be another meeting but said again, "I'm leaving the door open."

THE 6-FOOT-4 Chicagoan said the contract offered him no guarantee and stipulated that if he defeated Clay, he would have to make a title defense against Chuvvalo within two months at Maple Leaf Gardens and under the Gardens' sponsorship.

"I'm not against fighting Chuvvalo again, but I want it on my terms, not Maple Leaf Gardens," he declared.

Clay, obviously shaken by the controversy and bitterness surrounding the fight, countered Terrell's statements by saying: "I'm tired of fooling with him. I'll sign with Chuvvalo if we can come to terms."

"I'm tired and behind in training. I'm mentally tired because of all this controversy. They've got me going."

"Fighting Chuvvalo would be tough. I'm not in shape. I might be in trouble."

Swim Coach Is Optimistic About Next Year's Chances

By ROGER WALLENSTEIN Staff Writer

After posting an 8th place finish in the Big 10 swimming meet, Iowa Swimming Coach Bob Allen was optimistic Thursday about next year's prospects. "Each year we've been improving, and next year should be no exception," he said.

ALLEN SAID the loss of this year's seniors will be felt next year. Among those he mentioned were Captain Ron Berry, a breaststroker; Mike Peterson, in the freestyle; Bill Kanter, a diver; Tom Nestrud, a distance freestyler; and Dan Yocum, a backstroker.

Despite these losses, Allen pointed out that next year's team will have a strong nucleus with 13 returning lettermen. Returnees include freestylers John Scheda, Jim Jones, Ray Kearney and Lynn Wildblood; breaststrokers Bob Synhorst, Maurice LeVois, John Cryder, and Ken McBeath; butterfly swimmers Gil Hitchcock and Paul Monohan.

Also returning are diver Allan Schenk and Backstroker Viggo Jensen.

Allen predicted that a number of freshmen swimmers will help the team next year. Tim Barnes, of Glendale, Calif. is a freestyler who Allen tabs as a prospect.

OTHER FRESHMEN freestylers who the coach said could help the team are George Marshall, of Monroeville, Pa.; Chuck Marshall, of Burlington; and Rick Carter, of Cedar Rapids.

Allen cited freshmen divers Terry Swanson, of Rockford, Ill., and Kent Schafer, of DeKalb, Ill., who should be an asset to the varsity.

JOE QUIGLEY, of Naperville, Ill., is a freshman breaststroker who Allen included as a promising swimmer.

Allen predicted that the Big 10 standings in swimming will not change much next year. He said Indiana should win the conference meet with Michigan and Michigan State the closest pursuers.

As far as Iowa's chances are concerned, Allen said he hopes the team will improve its position, but offered no prediction.

Houston Beats Twins As Exhibitions Begin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baseball's spring training exhibition season got started Thursday with a light schedule.

Only two National League teams were in action, and both won. The Houston Astros nipped the defending American League champion Minnesota Twins 7-6 in 11 innings and Cincinnati whipped Kansas City 5-3 on a three-run homer by Leo Cardenas.

In other afternoon games, the New York Yankees got two-run homers from Clete Boyer and Joe Pepitone for a 7-4 victory over Washington and a double steal helped the Chicago White Sox nip the Boston Red Sox 4-3.

The Cleveland Indians played the Mexico City Reds in a night game at Mexico City.

Jerry Kindall, playing first base, bobbled Walt Bond's bounce and Sonny Jackson scampered home with the winning run for the Astros against Minnesota. Don Mincher slammed three hits for the Twins, who had a 6-0 lead early in the game.

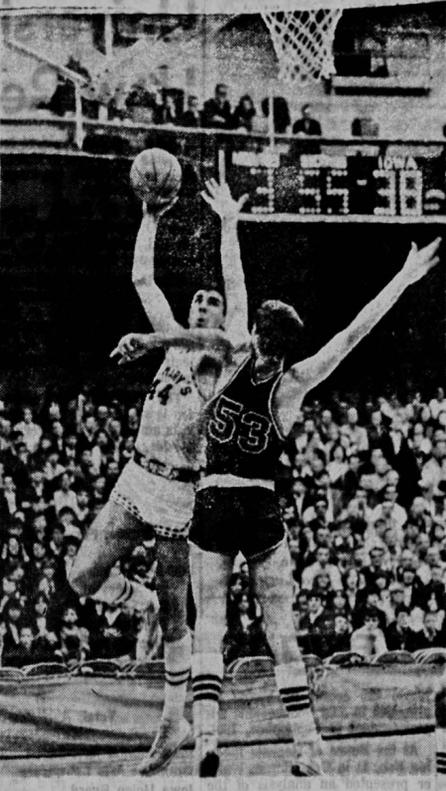

Cardenas, connected against Kansas City reliever Jack Aker in the sixth inning as the Reds snapped a 2-2 tie. Three Cincinnati pitchers—Sammy Ellis, Jim O'Toole and Dom Zanni—limited the A's to three hits.

Boyer and Pepitone both connected in the fourth inning against the Senators with an old-time display of Yankee power. John Orsino and Ken Hamlin honored for Washington. Bob Friend, making his first appearance in a Yankee uniform, pitched three scoreless innings, allowing three singles.

Tom McCraw stole home and Bill Voss swiped second as Chicago worked a double steal for its winning run in the fourth inning against Boston. Johnny Romano doubled home two runs with a bases-loaded first inning double.

Southern Illinois Gains Small College Finals

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Third-ranked Southern Illinois, leading all the way in the second half, after a close first-half battle, defeated No. 2 North Dakota 69-61 Thursday night and moved into the finals of the NCAA College Division Basketball Tournament.

The Salukis will face Kentucky Wesleyan for the championship Friday night.

Unranked Wesleyan routed Akron 105-75 in the opening semifinal contest Thursday night.

The score was tied six times and changed hands 11 times before Southern captured a 30-27 edge over North Dakota at intermission.

Kentucky Wesleyan, paced by Don Bradley and Sam Smith, was never in trouble in routing the Akron Zips.

Hitting .528 from the floor, Wesleyan took a 49-42 halftime lead and was in front 80-56 with 10 minutes to play in the second half.

Defending Champ Ousted In Girls' State Tournament

DES MOINES (AP)—Dunlap up-ended South Hamilton's defending champions 62-55 and Everly routed Maynard West Central 90-65 Thursday in quarterfinals of the Iowa girls' high school basketball tournament.

The two winners will meet in the first semifinal game Friday night.

Five free throws and a basket by Pat Peterson guided Dunlap to a 23-17 lead early in the second quarter, and South Hamilton never caught up.

DUNLAP led 31-25 at halftime, but some accurate shooting by Sharon Tyler of South Hamilton cut the deficit to 41-37 midway through the third period. Dunlap again streaked away and led 48-41 going into the final quarter.

The two teams traded baskets early in the fourth period until five straight free throws by Peterson put Dunlap well out of danger.

Peterson wound up with 38 points, including 17 of 20 free throws.

Tyler, who scored 42 points in a first-round game, wound up with 32 against Dunlap.

Dunlap carries a 24-1 record into the semifinals. South Hamilton bowed out with a 20-3 mark.

IN THE FIRST GAME Thursday, Everly snapped open a tight game by ramming home 17 straight points to take a 32-11 lead midway through the second quarter.

High scoring Jeannette Olson hit 12 of her 47 points during that outburst. Karen Klett had 21 for Everly. Everly, which boosted its mark to 23-3, led 42-25 at the half and had a 57-43 margin at the end of three periods.

Mary Parsons led West Central with 34 points, including 16 of 20 shots from the field. Teammate Gloria Wells chipped in 18. West Central went to the sidelines with a 23-3 record.

West Central hit 30 of 54 shots from the field for 55 per cent, while Everly hit only 24 of 58 for 41 per cent. The difference was on the free throw line, where Everly collected 32 of 54 charity shots while West Central managed only five of 13.

Olson, a 5-10, 16-year-old, connected on 17 of 24 of her team's free throws.

Lake City Rallies To Down Delwood

DES MOINES (AP)—Lake City rallied from behind in the second half and sidled Delwood of Ellwood 61-53 as quarter final round action wound up in the Iowa Girls High School basketball tournament.

Down 23 to 17 midway through the second quarter, Lake City slowly forged to a 34-34 tie with 4:27 left in the third period. It was tied at 38-38 and 40-40 when a basket and a three throw by Mary Jo McClintock put the Eagles ahead for good.

Lake City led 46-42 at the end of the third period and it was 48-45 when Mary Jo connected on two baskets and a free throw and Chris Streeter drilled in three free throws to expand the margin to 57-45. Delwood's Mary Ewing hit five straight free throws to cut the deficit to 57-51, but a basket by Streeter and two free throws by Miss McClintock sewed it up for Lake City.

Wellsburg Whips Montezuma

DES MOINES (AP)—Wellsburg rang up the first 15 points and routed Montezuma 50-29 in a quarter-final round game of the Iowa Girls High School Basketball Tournament Thursday night.

Montezuma did not score its first point until Elizabeth McKee connected with a layup with one minute, 43 seconds left in the first period. Wellsburg led 15-3 at the end of that quarter.

Montezuma scored two quick buckets in the opening of the second period but did not score again until 58 seconds remained in the half. Wellsburg led 29-9 at that point.

While Wellsburg's defense was holding Montezuma in check the offense turned out a balanced attack with Sandi Nederhoff's 24 points leading the way. Teammate Miekka Heddens had 13, including 9 of 9 from the free throw line.

Montezuma managed only seven of 43 shots from the field for 16 per cent shooting. McKee picked up five of these field goals and also added 10 of 13 free throws for a total of 20 points. McKee had been averaging better than 32 points a game.

Wellsburg advanced to Friday night's semifinals with a 26-1 record. Montezuma bowed out with a 24-5 mark.

Dunlap and Everly will play the first semifinal game Friday night.

Tryouts Scheduled For Play

Tryouts for the University Theatre production of "The Inspector General" by Nikolai Gogol, will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday and from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in the University Theatre Green Room.

Any student is eligible to try for a part.

John H. Terfloth, assistant professor of dramatic art and director of the Russian comedy, calls the play "a vehicle for actors."

"Every actor has his own niche in the play," he said Thursday. "Everyone has a chance to portray his talent."

He added that the characters, though exaggerated to the point of being almost grotesque, are very realistic.

The comedy takes place in a small Russian province in the 19th century. The city officials are threatened that their corrupt government will be inspected. Then they bribe the supposed inspector, who turns out to be an imposter taking advantage of the situation.

The theatre's version of the play was translated by Donald Rowe, G. Detroit. Rowe said he tried to modernize the language and still keep the flavor of the Russian province and the peculiarities of each character's behavior.

Blind School Supt. Resigns

The State Board of Regents Thursday accepted the resignation of Don L. Walker, superintendent of the Iowa Braille and Sight Saving School, Vinton.

Walker told the board at its meeting in Iowa City that he had accepted a position as professor of education at the University of Virginia beginning July 5.

"My association with the State Board of Regents, first as a principal and recently as superintendent of the Iowa Braille and Sight Saving School, has been one of the most satisfying experiences of my life," he said.

Walker said he would be responsible for the development of a program for the education of teachers of visually-handicapped children at Virginia.

The superintendent was originally from Columbus, Ohio. He joined the school in Vinton as principal in 1959 and became superintendent in September, 1964.

At the Board of Regents meeting Feb. 11 in Des Moines, Walker presented an analysis of the operation of the school.

This will be a "nice legacy" for the school's new superintendent, said Mrs. Joseph Rosenfield, policy chairman from Des Moines.

No successor has been named for Walker, but the former superintendent said he knew of two men who were qualified for the position, if they were interested.

University Official Explains How Resident Tuition Used

The $340 a year resident tuition students pay is used to make ends meet in University expenses and student activities.

Leonard R. Brcka, controller and University secretary, explained recently that the tuition money was divided into two parts.

The largest part, $139 a semester or $278 for two regular semesters, is allocated to a general fund, he said. This, plus money provided annually by the state legislature, pays the University's expenses.

THE SECOND PART of the $340 fee is spent on student activities. This amounts to $31 a regular semester, or $62 for two semesters.

The $278 allocated to the general fund is used to meet salary, building, upkeep and all other expenses related to the operation of the University.

The activity fee is spent in several ways, Brcka said. Each semester $8.50 is used to pay for the addition to the Union. The remainder, $22.50, is divided among various campus organizations.

The amounts of funds going to any particular activity is largely determined by a fixed percentage. Brcka said that the percentage for an organization was evaluated each June by the Business Office and that most percentages had been stable for the last few years.

Two student organizations, Student Senate and the Union Board, have no fixed percentage of the activity fee. They submit annual budgets which are evaluated and approved by Willard L. Boyd, vice president for academic affairs and dean of the faculties.

A final student activity fee appropriation budget for the academic year has not been compiled, Brcka said, because the second semester fees are not yet fully assessed.

The account will show about the same percentage of disbursements as in 1964-65, he said, but more money will probably go to each organization because of increased enrollment.

Dorm Dance To Be Held Next Friday

The annual Inter-dorm Dance, "The Shamrock Ball," will be held 8 p.m. to midnight March 18 at the Elks Club Lodge, 325 E. Washington St. The high points of the evening, according to the dance chairman, Jon Bowermaster, A2, Fairfield, will be the coronation of the Inter-dorm Queen at 10:30 p.m. and a late evening supper. THE QUEEN candidates are Holly August, A2, Marshalltown; Rozanne Camp, A1, Cedar Rapids; Jeanne Dawson, A2, Ankeny; Emily Gound, A2, Hamburg; Marilyn Dubs, A3, Des Moines; Stephanie Loan, A2, Nevada; and Pam Rodman, A1, Chicago, Ill. The queen will be chosen by a vote of the men's dormitory residents. The charge for the semi-formal dance is $2.50 per couple. This includes the buffet supper. The supper menu includes shrimp, roast beef, potato salad, fruit salad, baked beans and green punch. TICKETS may be obtained from Jon Bowermaster in Hillcrest or from the social chairman in Quadrangle and South Quadrangle.

Viet Nam Meeting Scheduled

The Town Meeting for Peace will hold a public discussion on U.S. foreign policy and Viet Nam at 4 p.m. Sunday in the library of the First Christian Church, 217 Iowa Ave. The Town Meeting for Peace is a weekly discussion group on matters of national and international concern. It replaces the daily Viet Nam Peace Vigil, which had been conducted at various churches during the past several weeks. Music Workshop Set Here

Students and teachers from 16 of Iowa and Illinois high schools will attend a wind and percussion ensemble workshop here Saturday. The workshop is the third in the 19th annual series sponsored by the School of Music in cooperation with the Division of Extension and University Services. The University music staff will audition student ensembles—ranging from trios to an 11-piece woodwind choir—beginning at 9 a.m. and will offer suggestions and criticisms. Student groups judged outstanding will be invited to perform in a 1:15 p.m. concert in North Music Hall. During the day, two concerts by musical groups from the University will be presented in the hall. At 11 a.m. University ensembles will present a program of chamber music and at 3:30 the University Symphony Band, under the direction of Mark Kelly, will give a concert. Each school attending will be accompanied by an instructor. The schools are Cedar Rapids, Washington, Columbus Junction, Davenport West, Dubuque-Wahlert, Indianola, Iowa City City High, Marengo Iowa Valley, Marion, Ottumwa, Sigourney, Solon, Washington High, West Branch, West Liberty, Wilton Junction, and Rock Island, Ill. AMENDMENT RATIFIED — JACKSON, Miss. Brief Course Will Discuss City Renewal

The objectives and problems of urban renewal will be discussed by Iowa realtors Mar. 30-Apr. 1 at the University. Sponsored by the Iowa Association of Realtors, the 3-day short course on "Urban Renewal — Its Goals and Pitfalls" is designed to acquaint realtors with the problems of urban renewal and to show the importance of having real estate men participating in urban programs. The course will open with a dinner Mar. 30 followed by a film entitled "No Time for Ugliness." The program will be moderated by Earl Stewart, associate professor of planning, The University of Iowa. Stewart will present a summary of the urban renewal process during the morning session Mar. 31, followed by a presentation on code enforcement by Max Krumrey, urban renewal director of Des Moines. Citizen participation in urban renewal projects will be discussed during the afternoon session by Robert M. L. Johnson, mayor of Cedar Rapids, and Earl Miller, Cedar Rapids urban renewal adviser. Richard Pratt, assistant professor, U of I College of Business Administration, will speak on the problems of landlords and rental units in slum and declining areas, at the afternoon closing session. The goals of federal urban renewal will be discussed by A. Dean Swartzel, Region IV Director of Urban Renewal, Department of Housing and Urban Development, at the opening of the Apr. 1 session.

Music Grant Is Received By University

The University has been awarded a music teacher training grant by the National Foundation on the Arts and Humanities. The grant will support an eight-week summer institute for 36 selected secondary school music teachers, who will be eligible to receive up to $75 a week plus $15 for each dependent. The program will be free to the teachers. The institute, running June 14 to Aug. 10, will grant eight semester hours of graduate credit. Its instructional program will include courses in analysis of music literature, performance practice, related arts, and methods and materials for teaching music literature. News Contest Set Here Members of the faculty of the School of Journalism will judge entries in the 1966 Milwaukee Press Club Awards Contest. Nineteen $50 prizes will be awarded in various categories of writing, photography and radio-TV news. The awards will be presented at the press club's annual gridiron dinner, April 17, in Milwaukee.

'God Is Dead' Issue Is Trivial, Forell Tells Colorado Group

"The issue is not the 'death of God' but rather the death of man," George W. Forell, professor of Protestant Theology at the University of Colorado, Boulder, Thursday night. Speaking on the "God is Dead" movement, Forell said that the phrase is trivial and meaningless. "You can deny that there is a God, but to say 'God is dead' amounts to saying that at one time there was an immortal God who has now died." Equally trivial is the possibility that the statement indicates God has become obsolete, Forell said, for this appears to say that the God of the childish imagination is not an adequate expression of the Christian faith. THE REAL ISSUE of the movement, Forell said, is the death of man in the sense that man has continually been removed from the center of his universe through technology and psychology that have made him a number on an IBM card or a close relative of the animal. Classics Program Teams 3 Schools

The only degree program in the United States that requires a year of resident study at each of three institutions is being participated in by the University.

Called the Cooperative Ph.D. Program in Classical Studies, this project of the Universities of Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota has been functioning for six years. It is experimental, but unique, according to Oscar E. Nybakken, chairman of the Classics Department.

NYBAKKEN explained recently that the program enables the graduate student to become acquainted with three different faculties. Last year the program was held at Iowa, and this year it is at Wisconsin.

Through an agreement between the schools' graduate departments, students pay resident tuition rates at the university they attend.

The three universities cooperate in drawing up exams and in maintaining uniform standards, Ny-bakken said, but try not to duplicate each other's specialties in the field of classical studies.

THE IDEA for the program arose from the feeling that it would be better to give students a wider field of contact than six or seven faculty members on one campus could provide, Nybakken said.

In addition, he said, the program attracts a number of visiting professors from abroad who can give the varied advantages of their varied backgrounds. In the past, lecturers have come from Great Britain, Germany and Australia.

The cooperative exchange, now in its second three-year round, has been generously supported by the three graduate colleges, Nybakken said. He emphasized, however, that no commitment about its continuance has been made. At least two meetings at each school were agreed upon, Nybakken said, with the program tentatively scheduled to return to Iowa in 1967-68.

Fewer Resign From Faculty, Council Says

Eight fewer faculty members resigned in 1965 than in 1964, the University Faculty Council reported this week.

In its annual study of faculty resignations, the council found that 25 persons resigned in 1965, compared to 33 two years ago.

The number of resignations by full professors increased, however, from 10 to 13 during the same period. The report showed 3 assistant professors, compared to 15 the year before, and 8 associate professors, 7 the year before, resigned. The other resignation was from an administration member.

Joseph W. Howe, committee chairman on faculty resignations, said Thursday that better sabbatical programs at the new institutions was the reason most frequently given by the resigning faculty members. Only four left primarily for a salary increase, he said, but twelve gave this reason in 1964.

"This indicates that the University is meeting at least standard, or maybe even above standard, salary scales," Howe said.

Twenty of the 25 who resigned last year answered the committee's letter of inquiry. Several gave more than one reason for resigning.

Personality problems, concern over features of academic dignity, difficulties in achieving professional satisfactions and dissatisfaction with academic freedom were also mentioned as reasons, said Howe. Four members said they have received a promotion or felt the promotional policy was better at the new institution.

ALDENS

Presents . . . Miss Becky Behrens

Delta Chi Fraternity's Girl Of The Month

The charming young lady above is Becky Behrens, Delta Chi Girl of the Month for March. She is pictured wearing a two-piece spring outfit from the Sportswear Department of Aldens. Both the ruffled blouse and skirt are permanent press fortel and cotton by Bobbi Brooks. Miss Behrens is a senior in Nursing from Cedar Falls, Iowa, and is a member of Delta Gamma Sorority. She is now president of SNO and has been a finalist for both Miss SUI and Mecca Queen. The men of Delta Chi are proud to honor such an outstanding person.
