Johnson Asks New Controls Over Racial Discrimination

Detailed Program Delayed 6 Months

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson urged Thursday in a long-delayed message that Congress enact strong new curbs on racial discrimination in housing, jury trials and education.

He also asked for new means to strike at night riding terrorism and intimidation of desegregationists.

Johnson outlined his aims in his State of the Union message in January, but submission of the detailed program was delayed — reportedly by difficulties in reaching agreement on the wording of its most controversial feature, a broad bar on discrimination in housing of all kinds.

THIS DELAY has served to cloud the legislation's prospects because it goes late to a Congress with many members eager for a short session this election year.

"I think we'll get it," Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach said when asked at a White House briefing how he assesses chances for passage.

The administration concededly must have the support of Republican senators led by Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois if it is to halt a filibuster by the required two-thirds vote.

AFTER SUBMISSION of the message, Dirksen told a reporter, "I have had nothing to do with drafting this."

He added he would have no comment until he had had an opportunity to examine the program in detail.

Even before formal submission of the program, Sen. Sam J. Ervin (D-N.C.), described the housing section as unconstitutional and unenforceable; its school desegregation and intimidation sections "dangerous . . . repugnant."

Johnson termed his fair housing proposal "an essential part of our attempt to rejuvenate and liberate America's growing urban areas — and more importantly, to expand the liberty of all the people living in them."

The President also called for legislation to strengthen the federal government's hand in dealing with school segregation.

HE ASKED for an amendment to the 1964 Civil Rights Act to permit the attorney general to file suit directly, without waiting for a complaint, against discrimination in public schools or public facilities.

He also called for a law to deal with violence and intimidation against children — or their families — seeking to integrate public schools.

The criminal legislation proposed would apply to any violent obstruction of desegregation, but Johnson recommended provisions for civil injunctive procedures against violence, threats of violence, or any other interference with school desegregation.

In calling for legislation to combat racial violence, Johnson told Congress that perhaps "the most evident threat to civil rights in 1966 is the danger that recently secured rights may be violently denied by a few racial fanatics."

Citizens who honor the law and "who tolerate orderly change," he said, "have been shocked by attacks on innocent men and women who sought no more than justice for all Americans."

Health, Education Budgets Raised In House Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Risking the wrath of President Johnson, the House Appropriations Committee on Thursday voted $489,213,000 more than the administration had requested for health and education programs.

In further defiance of the White House, the committee knocked out of an omnibus money measure the entire $31,372,000 the President wanted for the new national teacher corps.

The committee's action was described by Chairman George H. Mahon (D-Tex.) as "an invitation for a tax increase."

It came on a bill appropriating $10,555,342,500 to finance the Labor Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the fiscal year starting July 1. The President had asked for $10,066,129,500 and had proposed cuts in education and public health programs.

THE COMMITTEE'S action was another in a series of budget-busting moves which only Wednesday drew the President's criticism.

There is little likelihood the House will veto the committee's recommendations when it considers the money bill next Wednesday.

The committee's biggest rupture of the budget lines in the pending bill was the allotment of $416.2 million for payments to school districts having heavy concentrations of federal civilian and military employees.

The President asked for $183.4 million and proposed a change in the payment formula to scale down the cost.

THE NICEST PEOPLE ARE RIDING their cycles to class these sunny days. John J. Motorcycle Danger Cited

Spring weather is here. So are motorcycles. And so is a warning against riding them.

John J. O'Mara, associate professor of civil engineering and head of the University safety research center, criticized Tuesday the use of motorcycles and motor scooters, and emphasized the dangers of untrained drivers operating them on a rental basis.

O'MARA CITED a five-year British study that reported that cyclists with less than six months of experience had an accident rate double that of the experienced driver.

The chance of the cyclist's being killed was 20 times that of a car driver's, he said, and a passenger on a cycle had greater chance of being killed than the driver.

Motorcycle retailers around Iowa City reported this week that sales were usually highest during April and May, just before students left for summer vacation, and in September, just after they returned. They said sales began earlier this year because of the mild weather.

Motorcycle rental centers also reported increased business during April, May and September.

UNDER IOWA'S motor vehicle laws, a motorcycle is classified as a motor vehicle. All a person needs to do to rent a cycle is show his driver's license.

In Iowa City last year, 17 of the 990 motor vehicle accidents reported involved motorcycles. Thirteen of the 17 cyclists suffered injuries.

Five motorcycle accidents have been reported to Iowa City police so far this year and all five cyclists were injured. One accident occurred in February and the other four in April.

LOCAL

THE DATE OF PUBLIC HEARING and bid opening on the west side high school project was changed from May 19 to June 2 at the Iowa City Board of Education meeting Thursday. The hearing will be held at 3 p.m. in the City High auditorium. The change of date was the only business transacted at the meeting.

NATIONAL

A VIOLENT CLOUDBURST struck the Dallas area before dawn Thursday, drowning at least seven persons, flooding expressways and forcing hundreds from their homes. New waves of torrential rains swept the northern portion of Texas from San Angelo through the Fort Worth-Dallas areas and into northeast Texas late Thursday, pouring more water into already swollen streams and posing new flood threats. Four victims died when their automobiles either plunged off washed-out bridges or were swept from roadways by swift, high water.

WORLD

THE REBELLIOUS WHITE MINORITY Rhodesian government Thursday canceled its decision to snap the last diplomatic links with Britain now that the two nations have decided to discuss their differences. Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia, who had announced April 16 the last British diplomats must go home, now will allow a skeleton staff of British officials to remain in Salisbury, the Rhodesian capital. A few Rhodesian officials remain in London.

STREAMS OF LAVA FROM AN explosive eruption of Mt. Kelut volcano bore down Thursday on a densely populated area of East Java, and a major disaster threatened, reports from the scene said. Thirteen deaths were reported, but the toll was expected to climb as communications with the stricken area were re-established.

4,000 GIs Land In Viet Nam To Boost Total To 250,000

SAIGON (AP) — More than 4,000 fresh U.S. infantrymen landed Friday to boost total American strength in Viet Nam to nearly 250,000.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces, was on hand to greet the new troops arriving at Vung Tau, 60 miles southeast of Saigon. They were flown to Saigon's Tan Son Nhut air base where they will remain temporarily.

The new arrivals were the main body of the 1st Brigade of the 25th Tropic Lightning Infantry Division, completing the final phase of the division's deployment from Honolulu.

IN THE WAR, the Viet Cong launched an early-morning mortar attack against the headquarters of Vietnamese government forces near Ba Tri, 60 miles south of Saigon. About 50 rounds of 60mm shells were fired, wounding 16 civilians, a government spokesman said. Air and artillery support was called in to drive off the Viet Cong.

U.S. TROOPS Thursday were destroying 30 large caches of Viet Cong supplies found in a hunt for jungle terminals of the Ho Chi Minh Trail near the Cambodian frontier. The discovery was one of the richest ever unearthed in Viet Nam.

Abandoned in the face of an advance by the U.S. 1st Infantry Division and an allied Vietnamese division about 70 miles northwest of Saigon were hundreds of tons of rice, salt, cooking oil and sheet tin. The troops seized 800 black cotton uniforms, enough to clothe two battalions, plus bales of plastic material for ponchos.

Stolen Paintings Recovered; Anonymous Caller Gives Tip

An anonymous phone call to Iowa City police at 12:45 a.m. Thursday led to the recovery of three paintings that had been missing from the Union exhibit of Rosemary W. Teres, G. Flushing, N.Y., since Saturday.

Police said the caller said the paintings were in a garage. Iowa City police picked up the paintings and turned them over to campus police, who returned them to the Union.

The paintings were part of a Master of Fine Arts exhibit and were possible selections for Mrs. Teres's thesis.

Mrs. Teres was unavailable for comment but Peter D. Grundfos, Union program director, said the pictures would be returned to the walls of the Union Main Lounge.

Iowa Projects Money Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — An increase in President Johnson's budget of about $1.4 million for three Iowa water projects was sought before a Senate appropriations subcommittee Thursday.

Sen. Jack Miller (R-Iowa), Rep. John C. Culver (D-Iowa) and delegations from Waterloo and Dubuque asked that the money be included in the public works appropriation for the year beginning July 1.

The funds are sought for these projects:

• $1.2 million above the budgeted $7.1 million for a 9-foot navigation channel on the Missouri River.

• $100,000 for Army engineers to begin planning of the Waterloo flood control project. The budget contains nothing for this work.

• $105,000 to start construction of a Dubuque flood control project for which the budget only recommends $145,000 to complete planning.

Seals' Show To Be On H₂O

A slightly unusual view of Batman, television commercials and cowboy shows will be featured in "Channel H2O" to be performed by the Seals Club at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the Field House pool.

Tickets for the show may be obtained at Campus Record Shop, Whetstone's, the Women's Gym, and at the Field House immediately before each performance. The price is $1.

THE EVENING of modern television will begin as most TV programs do — with a test pattern.

The setting for the Seals Club's first H2O program will be the Wild West where they will perform "H2O Roundup."

The audience will then be brought to modern times with a duet, "Batman."

Even the weight-watcher's favorite program will be featured in the show. Several slimming contortions will be exhibited in "Morning Exercise."

EVEN AN H2O television program must advertise. The commercials to be featured are "Here's To You Each Morning" and "Stronger Than Dirt."

Dorothy Feldman, A3, Ithaca, N.Y., a featured soloist in the show, will swim to the rhythm of a news commentary instead

Macbride Campus To Be Developed, Site Director Says

Utilization of the University's Field Campus at Lake Macbride is only a construction project away.

The 435-acre Lake Macbride Campus has development possibilities that cannot be duplicated any place in the state, T. R. Porter, director of the site, said Thursday.

Porter, associate professor of education, said development at the site depended on construction of some permanent buildings. He spoke at the Rotary luncheon at the Hotel Jefferson.

THE FIELD CAMPUS, 13 miles from Iowa City, is just south of the Macbride dam and lake. It is bordered on its eastern end by the Coralville Reservoir waters. A second tract, the 185-acre Turkey Creek Research Area, lies directly south of the Field Campus.

Porter said the land was leased from the federal government on a 25-year, automatic renewal basis. It is readily accessible because of its proximity to Interstate 80.

The Macbride Campus has many desirable features, Porter said.

"The land and water areas lend themselves to the kind of development that will be of particular value to the entire University for instructional and recreational purposes," he said.

PORTER said a survey at the University showed that 2,000 persons would make use of this area just as soon as it was developed. Greater demand could be expected once facilities are available, he said.

Facilities are needed for a variety of conference groups ranging from therapy to science, he continued.

Development of the campus site has been slow because of lack of funds, Porter said. The site currently has an all-weather access road, parking lot, storage workshop, boat house and electrical and water supplies.

"THE NEXT essential step in our program is to build an all-purpose building to provide meeting places, dining facilities, laboratory space and sanitary facilities," he said.

"A series of winterized cabins must be built so programs can be longer than one-day," Porter continued. "These buildings must all be designed for the handicapped as well as the able-bodied."

A summer development includes making a plant map, developing nature trail plans and drawing up plans for placement of permanent buildings in activity areas.

Foundation grants to supplement state funds will be applied for, said Porter.

Senate Passes

$17.1 Billion Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Using little time or talk, the Senate passed by acclamation Thursday a bill to authorize $17.1 billion to be spent in fiscal 1967 for a wide variety of military hardware and research.

This action came as the House Armed Services Committee approved a like measure and also voted to recommend a 3.2 percent pay raise for the armed forces.

Chairman Richard B. Russell, (D-Ga.) of the Armed Services Committee guided the procurement measure to swift passage with no opposition.

G.M.'s Discount Blocking Ruled Illegal By High Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled Thursday the General Motors Corp. (GM) and three dealer associations illegally blocked the sale of Chevrolets through discount houses in the Los Angeles area.

"We have here a classic conspiracy in restraint of trade," Justice Abe Fortas said in announcing the unanimous decision condemning the way the auto giant halted such sales in 1960 and 1961.

The ruling was a victory for the Justice Department, which brought civil suit against GM and the three associations under the Sherman Antitrust Act, and appears to clear the way for widespread resumption of the discount sales.

THE HIGH COURT passed no judgment on the validity of GM dealers' selling agreements, cited by General Motors to justify its actions and attacked by the Justice Department.

The "location clause" in these agreements prohibits dealers from moving to new locations without Chevrolet's written approval. This, in essence, GM argued, is what several dealers in the Los Angeles area did in selling cars through discount houses.

SIGNIFICANTLY, Justice John M. Harlan said in a separate opinion concurring in the court's ruling, "In my opinion . . . General Motors is not precluded from enforcing the location clause by unilateral action, and I find nothing in the court's opinion to the contrary."

In Detroit, officials of the company reserved comment until they had studied the high court's ruling.

China Reported Preparing Bomb

WASHINGTON (AP) — Red China is preparing a third nuclear explosion that "may be larger and may produce greater radioactive fallout" than her two previous Hiroshima-size blasts, the State Department reported Thursday.

The statement by press officer Robert J. McCloskey left open a possibility that it could be a thermonuclear explosion of hydrogen-bomb type.

Signal for action

WHILE MEDICARE FOR THE AGED is still being bruised in the conversational tug-of-war, some members of the Great Society team are pulling for junior medicare. According to the current issue of Harper's Magazine, the health of young Americans is rapidly going to pot.

In his Harper's article, author Roul Tunley says that the United States ranks eleventh among nations for the death of babies per 1,000 births. He adds that half the children in the United States are 15 years old before they ever visit a dentist. Only a fraction of the children receive preschool eye tests which detect lazy-eye blindness.

The United States, he claims, is the last industrial nation in the Western world without some form of universal health care, and was referred to as an "underdeveloped nation" at a recent obituary congress in Holland.

One of the ways in which the health of children is protected in many other countries is through a nutritious school lunch program which will supplement deficient home diets. The U. S. lunch program leaves much to be desired. Other phases of health programs for the young include free testing, pre-natal care, publicly-financed research into health problems of children, and free dental care.

All this information, gathered by Tunley in hospitals, clinics, laboratories and operating rooms, and compared with health research done in six countries, may shock many placid Americans who are convinced that American children are the best cared for in the world. Yet Tunley emphasizes that much childhood disease stems from parental neglect and ignorance.

Whether this is a problem for the government or for individuals is one of those never-ending political circles. The responsibility for child care belongs first to the parents. When the parent has indicated that he cannot or will not care for his child properly, he has given the government the green light.

Sound of music

WHILE LAWRENCE WELK REJECTS reign supreme at the Union through the miracle of electronics, the Music Room has remained strangely silent.

In past semesters the Music Room has operated with an automatic hi fi playing classical music as students studied during the day. At night Union hostesses were available to manually operate hi fi equipment and play classical music requested by students. On special nights jazz records or other specialties might be provided.

The Music Room was always full of music. Now things are different. The automatic hi fi is not operating, there are no hostesses to handle the manual equipment. Most of the time things are quiet, in the Music Room - except for the sound of Seeburg which makes its way from the hall.

Four nights a week, according to Union officials, students from Union Board committees man the machinery and play requested music in the Music Room. The hostesses who used to have that job have evidently been called to other duty either in the Iowa House or someplace else.

It seems wasteful for the Union to have so much good hi fi equipment and so many fine records and then only use them part of the time. Perhaps Union Board can find some more volunteers to run the equipment more often, or maybe even someday the Union might find the money to hire a student at minimum wages to play the records as he studied.

We hope something can be done to put music back in the Music Room, even if the cheap imitation of it cannot be taken out of the halls of the Union.

New nationalism stirs Europe

By PETER STURTEVANT
Staff Writer

A new nationalism is burgeoning in Western Europe.

Nationalism is a force usually peculiar to emerging nations. We can see it today in sub-Saharan Africa, in Southeast Asia and in South and Central America.

It has been known to breed greed and belligerence which result in conflicts among nations. But it is a force with which every nation must contend at one time during its history.

The United States went through this stage in the early 1800's in the form of the "Manifest Destiny," and extended its boundaries to the West Coast.

But, such is the mind of a nation suffering growing pains, as we certainly were at that stage in our history.

Today a new kind of nationalism has emerged, and it is one which may have a more stabilizing effect on this world so immersed in the Cold War.

It exists in France, and to a lesser extent, in Great Britain and West Germany.

This new kind of nationalism is manifesting itself in the desire of these nations to seek their own place in the sun. If we can momentarily put ourselves in their shoes, it would not be difficult to understand why they seek their own identity.

Charles de Gaulle has pointedly told the United States that he will soon withdraw France from NATO, an announcement which was met with considerable chagrin and bitterness in this country. It is the new nationalism that has led De Gaulle to this position.

De Gaulle's assertion will mean that no longer will we have to maintain American forces on French soil, and this should be a blessing. It will mean that France will have to provide for her own defense. Why should we object to that?

What probably concerns us is this: If a nuclear war were to break out, would France contribute to the defense of the allied nations according to the provisions of the NATO Alliance?

In the first place, a global war is a highly unlikely occurrence. Secondly, we can still remain reasonably assured that France will come to our aid if the need arises. De Gaulle has virtually promised that. Even in this event, France today is, at best, a second rate power, one incapable of inflicting any serious damage upon another nation in the event of war.

A Nazi looks at Viet Nam

By JOHN R. BISHOP
For the Iowa Nazi Party

From the Nazi standpoint, there are five prevalent attitudes on the subject of Viet Nam. They may be classified as the Communist attitude, the Liberal attitude, the Dove attitude, the Hawk attitude, the attitude of the American public, and a rarely heard sixth, the attitude of the American Nazi Party. Let's examine each one in an endeavor to determine the one that offers the greatest return for America.

The Communist attitude, a propaganda hypocrisy pursued by the Reds and their brain washed dupes, constitutes endless marches and slogans designed to pressure the government into withdrawing our forces from Viet Nam and literally turning that Asiatic nation over to Ho Chi Minh.

The Liberal attitude is nearly as bad. They believe "instant negotiation" is the only solution. Any sort of peace arranged through this nonsense would guarantee South Viet Nam becoming a Communist vassal state only months after the withdrawal of American forces.

THE DOVES WOULD attempt a Korean type settlement that would leave American troops in Viet Nam indefinitely, gain us nothing for the sacrifices our soldiers have already made and serve to safeguard North Viet Nam from attack by anyone.

The Hawks would have us gradually escalate the fighting and involve us in a conflict that could run into endless years. Their prime motivation seems to be the love of a wartime profit. The escalation can be gauged to fit the needs of our Keynesian riddled economy. They favor trading blood for money. Someone else's blood.

The attitude of the American public is the typical head-in-the-sand ostrich sort of thing. Let's all "Back Our Boys in Viet Nam." A really wonderful opportunity to wear your patriotism on your sleeve where it can be seen by all. The public seems oblivious to Johnson's policy of trading blood for dollars. If the guns must boom to make the plants boom, why just start waving the flags and call in the reporters. If our President were interested only in combatting Communism, Cuba is a mere 90 miles off our coast and the supermarkets on Main Street are still selling Communist produced canned hams.

IT MAY BE SAID that I am slightly prejudiced, but I incline toward that rarely heard sixth attitude, the Nazi approach to the problem. The entire country of Indo China is made up of the smaller states of Cambodia, Laos, North Viet Nam and South Viet Nam. These four states composed the country known as Indo China for many, many years.

The French forced the Chinese to cede the final area of the state, then known as Annam, in 1885 and ruled the country in its entirety from then until the Second World War. The Japanese occupied the nation during the Second World War by special arrangement with the Vichy French. They ruled until the termination of hostilities.

If we are to believe the statements of the Johnson Administration, it would take us years, if at all, to win this war against one of Indo China's states, composing only a quarter of the entire country. Both France and Japan occupied and ruled this country for a total of more than 80 years and our President expects us to believe that the strongest military force on the face of the earth cannot defeat one little state in this entire country. How right they are when they say the American public can be made to believe anything.

THE NAZI STAND on this matter is, of course, to support our country, right or wrong. May she always be right, but our country, right or wrong. Nevertheless, we would prefer the sixth alternative as outlined by General MacArthur for Korea. Pour in the full strength and fire power of the American military machine. Armor, artillery, aircraft and naval cannon. Not only drive the Viet Cong out of South Viet Nam, but continue on through North Viet all the way to the Chinese border. With the military force at our disposal this could be quickly accomplished. Establish a line along the Chinese border fairly bristling with heavy artillery and mobile armor. Darken the skies over the border area with interceptor aircraft and maintain a fleet directly off the coast.

The Reds would not be so interested in aggressive pursuits if the country they used as a spring board were occupied as payment for their crime. If this would mean world war it might be better to have it come now than later. At the present time, we have the edge. In the future this may not hold true. The foregoing leads one to wonder whether General MacArthur was a Nazi, or whether the Nazis offer America more than the present administration.

And yet we are still irked at De Gaulle, almost saying to the French Cyrano, "What makes you think you're so great that you can defy the Western alliance and rebuff American wishes?"

Let's look at this more closely. Why shouldn't France break with other Western nations and seek its own identity? And more importantly, why should France service to the every desire of the United States?

Great Britain is showing signs of wanting closer ties with Eastern Europe and is seeking to be less dependent on the United States. Prime Minister Harold Wilson and the British electorate merely pay lip service to our commitment in South Viet Nam. They don't wish to be a part of an alliance which demands complete solidarity in world commitments. Can we blame them?

West Germany, although firmly allied with the United States, has no interest in committing soldiers, diplomacy and propaganda on a global scale. West Germany hasn't the wherewithal and is more concerned with such things as the prospect for eventual reunification with East Germany.

So, the Grand Design for Western Europe is not a reality, and it's about time our State Department and foreign policy makers realized that no longer do we live in a world where we can expect a fully united front to oppose the very much overplayed "international Communist conspiracy." The countries of Western Europe have their own interests to protect, many of which are remotely removed from ours.

Thus we find ourselves confronted with a Europe considerably different from the one which emerged from World War II. This new Europe requires new foreign policy thinking on our part. President Johnson was enraged at De Gaulle's urging to remove American troops. He shouldn't have been. He should take note of the motives which gave rise to this action.

Is Johnson really foolish enough to think that every nation in the Western alliance should remain subservient to U.S. will?

We live in a nation which has long held a superiority in world politics. Perhaps there are a few other nations which crave a certain measure of this superiority. And who can blame them?

This split in the Western alliance is by no means a serious threat to the balance of power. After all, the Communists are suffering similar difficulties. Witness the Sino-Soviet schism, Indonesia's break with Communist China, Cuba's recent break with China and Yugoslavia's desire to be as fully independent of Moscow as possible.

Albania has allied itself with China, breaking with its previous ally, the Soviet Union.

In addition, the East European nations are growing restless, tiring of paying homage to the Kremlin. The Iron Curtain is less a reality with each passing day.

We live in a very divided world, one which is indeed considerably better off than the one which came out of World War II. The Cold War at its outset featured the struggle between two major power structures. Today it is less easily defined, and despite this new breed of nationalism, or perhaps because of it the world is in far less danger of falling into the abyss of a nuclear global war. There are too many factions now.

That doesn't sound like a blessing, but think about it.

Why punish all?

To the Editor:

I believe I have a partial solution to the problem of having art shows in the Union. Instead of using the Main Lounge (which is dimly lit, and not very conducive to looking at paintings), why not continue to use the old YWCA rooms where John Hegarty's work was hung? The exhibit could then be opened for specific times, someone could always be there, the paintings would be in their own gallery, and they would be seen to better advantage.

Certainly it is not fair to deprive M.F.A. candidates of having a show, or to deprive the public of the chance to see what's done here simply because some stupid fool steals paintings.

Lilting comedy lends life to 'Puntilla'

By CHARLOTTE WILLARD
Staff Writer

"Puntilla and His Hired Man," a light comedy running through Saturday as Studio Theatre's last offering for this season, is a play the audience can just sit back and enjoy. Though the beginning is slow and the end too long in coming, the middle, peppered with bawdy innuendoes and plotting, moves in laughter.

"Puntilla" was written by Bertold Brecht, considered one of Germany's best writers of this century, and is directed by a German visiting professor, Gert Weyman. The story, set in Finland during the 1920s, deals with the basic conflict that exists when a man has to obey the whims of his employer.

Puntilla (William Snare, G. Tipton), a harsh landowner who becomes humane and congenial when he is drunk, and Mattia (Farley Lewis, A2 Dallas, Tex.), his tolerant foil and hired man, are the major combatants in the tale.

One of the most mirthful segments of the play is the scene in which Mattia and Puntilla's daughter Eva (La Mar Parker, G. Whitewater, Wis.) plot to force Puntilla to break the engagement he engineered between Eva and the boring but good-catch attache (Michael Dennis Browne, G. Surrey, England).

AS A TEAM, the cast does a passable job of acting. Individually considered, the actors could use improvement. Snare and Lewis make so many tongue bumbles, slipping on a word and starting over, that both of them could well use extra line rehearsals.

Especially in the drunk scenes, Snare seems to be forcing himself into his role. The image he produces with his voice closely resembles Jim Bacchus' Mr. Magoo.

Lewis is good with his dry, casual delivery of lines such as, "You never know what familiarity might breed." He, as well as some of the others, is aware of where the laughs will be and he waits for them.

THE MAJOR contribution of Miss Parker as Eva is her beauty. Her acting closely resembles the stilted coyness of the archetype heroine of the silent movies. At one point Wednesday night Miss Parker lost her hold on Eva, violated the rule of staying in character and broke up on stage.

His authentic British accent contrasting with the Texas drawl of Lewis, Brown fits well into the role of the stuffy attache. (Lynn Weiss A1, Skokie, Ill.) also does a good job as Laina, the cook, who hobbles out to deliver pithy summations of the preceding scene whenever the set has to be changed.

The play is unfolded in seven or eight separate scenes, or collages. Each scene calls for prop changes which the production crews make swiftly to lulling, calliope-like music.

Although the acting is not impressive, the play is worth seeing. The dialogue is amusing and the cast seems to enjoy performing.

Group Rezones Sears Lot, Acts On 3 Other Requests

The Iowa City Planning and Zoning Commission re-zoned one and heard two requests and objections to spot rezonings at Thursday's meeting.

The Sears Roebuck and Co. Farm Store lot, 328 S. Clinton St., was rezoned from C2 to CB. Mr. and Mrs. Gene Oathout, owners of the Rebel Motel, 336 S. Clinton St., requested the zoning change.

They plan to remodel the Sears building into a restaurant, which would be incorporated into the Rebel Motel. Parking considerations necessitated the zoning change.

THE OATHOUT'S request for rezoning other areas around the motel was denied by the commission because Oathout does not own these areas.

The commission tentatively approved rezoning land in the Towncrest subdivision near Benner's Towncrest Shopping Center, 2425 Muscatine Ave. The change from C1 to C2 will allow a medical office building. Tentative approval was given pending approval by the fire department.

Requests for spot zonings at North Dodge Street and Prairie Du Chien Road and in the Tower Addition were also heard. Objections were voiced.

THE HILLTOP DX Service Station, 1101 N. Dodge St., asked rezoning to permit it to build a new station at the Dodge and Prairie Du Chien site. Two home owners objected, saying that present zoning allows filling stations south of the site on Dodge Street and these sites should be

SDS Committee Plans Activities Of Next Meeting

Issues to be brought up at the next meeting of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) were planned at Thursday's meeting of the group's steering committee in the Union Grant Wood room.

The steering committee decided to:

- Formulate plans for handing out Viet Nam tests as persons enter the upcoming selective service student deferment tests;
- Examine various ways in which the senatorial campaign of Herbert F. Hoover, Republican candidate for nomination, can be aided;
- Discuss the possibility of setting up a permanent telephone hook-up for educational purposes, to be financed through educational funds.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. next Thursday.

Collegium To Perform At Meeting

The University Collegium Music members will present a concert at 8 tonight in the University Theatre in connection with the regional meeting of the Modern Language Association (MLA).

The Collegium will play before and after a puppet show, "Dr. Faustus," presented by the Department of English for the MLA members.

The program will include works from the Renaissance, some of which were played by the Collegium at its April 15 concert.

Sister M. Victorine Fenton, G. Crookston, Minn., will play a harpsichord solo, and Barry Shor, G. Brooklyn, N.Y., will sing a tenor solo.

Playing a recorder ensemble will be John Fink, A3, Cedar Falls; David Grainger, A2, Nank, Conn.; Robert Block, G, Chicago; and George Daniels, G, Quincy, Ill.

Other Collegium members who will play in the concert are Martin Farren, G. Goleta, Calif.; Krummhorn; Edward Railsback, G. Anaheim, Calif.; bassoon; Patricia Carney, A4, Iowa City, bassoon Edwin Penhorwood, G. Toledo, Ohio, harpsichord; Jeanne Cloud, G. Cedar Rapids, harpsichord; Dallas Tjaden, G. Cedar Rapids, violin; and Harold Sundet, G. Iowa City, violin.

Robert Donington, visiting professor of music, and E. Eugene Helm, associate professor of music, are the directors of the group.

Symphony Band Will Start Home From Moscow Today

The University Symphony Band was scheduled to leave Moscow by plane for Copenhagen, Denmark, at 8:30 a.m. today Moscow time and arrive at Kennedy Airport in New York City at 3:55 p.m. (EDT) today. Arrival time at the Des Moines airport was still indefinite late Thursday afternoon.

Celts Top Lakers, 95-93; Win 8th Straight NBA Title

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Celtics, regarded by many as the most fabulous team in major league sports history, captured their eighth straight National Basketball Association championship Thursday in defeating the Los Angeles Lakers 95-93 at the Garden.

Responding to pressure and the cheers of a sellout crowd of 13,909, the Celtics gave retiring Coach Red Auerbach a title salute with another clutch performance in winning the deciding game of the best-of-7 championship series.

The Celtics, riddled by a series of injuries and dethroned by Philadelphia after a nine-year reign as regular season Eastern division kings, capped a hard-fought playoff by winning their ninth NBA championship in 10 years.

Led by veteran Capt. Bill Russell, who will take over as player-coach as Auerbach moves into fulltime duty as general manager, the Celtics turned in a tremendous defensive effort in stopping the Lakers' high-powered attack.

The Celtics carried a 16-point lead, 76-60, into the final period and were in front 95-85 with 1½ minutes remaining. Then Boston withstood a blistering Los Angeles rally which just fell short.

Russell, the 32-year-old former University of San Francisco All-American, turned in one of his finest performances in leading the Celtics with 25 points and grabbing 30 rebounds.

Sam Jones contributed 22 points and John Havlicek 16 as the Celtics became the first major league team ever to win eight straight championships.

Hawkeyes Play Illini, Boilermakers

The Iowa baseball team, sporting a 2-1 conference mark, moves to Purdue for a single game today, and then on to Illinois for a Saturday double-header.

The Hawks have won 8 out of their last 11 games, all by shutouts. They have an 11-9 overall record.

The Big Ten baseball pennant chase should become more clear this weekend as leaders Illinois and Minnesota square off.

Each has forged to the front with 3-0 marks and collide Friday in a single game at Illinois.

This headlines the weekend program which involves other single encounters Friday that send Indiana (1-1) to Ohio State (1-0), Michigan (1-0) to Northwestern (0-3), Michigan State (0-2) to Wisconsin (1-2).

Saturday's doubleheader round sends Indiana to Ohio state, Michigan to Wisconsin, Michigan State to Northwestern and Minnesota to Purdue, in addition to the Iowa-Illinois contest.

Frank Brosseau, who blanked Wisconsin on a three-hitter last week, is expected to be Minnesota's mound choice against Mike Rodgerson Friday. The Gophers banged out 24 runs in sweeping their first three games downing Wisconsin 2-0 and passing Northwestern by identical scores of 11-4.

PIRATES 9, CUBS 6

Bill Mazeroski's double, his third extra-base hit of the game, touched off a four-run 10th inning that gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 9-6 victory over the Chicago Cubs Thursday.

The Pirates put together four hits and two stolen bases in the big frame.

Mazeroski led off the inning with his double off reliever Cal Koonce and scored the lead run on Bob Bailey's single. Manny Mota's pinch double, Roberto Clemente's RBI forceout and Mota's steal of home on the front end of a double theft accounted for the other runs.

Ron Santo slammed two homers for the Cubs, the second with none aboard in the 10th.

The Pirates, trailing 5-4, tied the game with two out in the ninth on Willie Stargell's run-producing double.

GIANTS 3, REDS 0

Juan Marichal pitched his fourth straight complete game victory Thursday, shutting out Cincinnati on four hits as San Francisco defeated the Reds 3-0.

The triumph snapped the Giants' three-game losing streak.

It was the first shutout of the season for Marichal, who led the majors with 10 last year. The Dominican right-hander retired the first 16 batters he faced before Leo Cardenas notched Cincinnati's first hit in the sixth inning.

Third baseman Jim Hart scored the first two San Francisco runs off Sammy Ellis. He doubled in the second and scored on a single by rookie Ollie Brown.

In the fourth, Hart singled and scored when Tom Haller tripled. Jim Davenport homered for the final Giant run in the sixth.

TIGERS 13, A's 5

Don Wert's grand-slam homer and a three-run blast by Jerry Lumpe high-lighted a seven-run fifth inning and carried the Detroit Tigers to a 13-5 victory over the Kansas City Athletics Thursday.

Al Kaline also hit a three-run homer and Jim Northrup contributed a two-run home run for the Tigers.

Lumpe, who had three hits, singled home Detroit's first run in the third, and Kaline capped the inning with his homer.

Tiger starter Mickey Lolich, who left after the fifth inning but received credit for the victory, wild pitched two runs across in the Kansas City fifth.

Kaline's homer was his fifth of the season. They have come in the first five home games of the season.

Larry Stahl slammed a pinch-hit homer for the A's in the ninth.

INDIANS 2, ANGELS 1

The Cleveland Indians tied the major league record for consecutive victories at the start of the season, winning their 10th straight game Thursday night when they shaded the California Angels 2-1.

Leon Wagner's eighth-inning sacrifice fly brought Pedro Gonzalez home with the winning run after California's Rick Reichardt had tied the game 1-1 with his fourth homer of the season in the top of the eighth.

Alumnus Commu

Arthur C. Douglas, University alumnus, has been named director of the Hawk Community Action Program (HACAP).

The appointment of who is now an informant with the San Francisco office of the U.S. Dept. of Labor, was made at a meeting Wednesday night at John C. Garfield, president of HACAP.

DOUGLAS WAS born and has both his B.A. and M.A. degrees in political science from the University. He is currently on his new duties June annual salary of $13,000.

worked five-and-a-half years for the Labor Department in Washington, D.C., and living in San Francisco since March, 1964.

According to Garfield, the functions of the Area Community Action Program are to assess the adequacy of social welfare programs in Johnson County. He said that the first task is to do a social analysis of relevant changes of disadvantaged families.

The director's job is to coordinate, Garfield said.

Religious Publish

The non-scientific character of religion may be a reason for the Gallup Poll survey indicating a decline in religious faith.

This suggestion is made in the Semantic Study of Religion, an article in the June issue of the Journal of Health and Behavior by E. John assistant professor of psychology and business administration.

"As a nation we are many millions of dollars in scientific pursuits," K said, "and it is little wonder that something as non-scientific as religion would lose much of its appeal on a society which values the fruits thereof."

The findings of the study are that religious manifestations of religious attitudes of 167 of Iowa students suggest teachings of the Christian religion would play a more significant role in human affairs if related more meaningfully to man's needs.

Does your present shirt have "lapped seams"?

If it doesn't, it isn't a Hathaway Club.

THERE are seven little telltales on every Hathaway Club shirt. (Hathaway calls them their Hallmarks.)

One is the "lapped" seams above. These are sewn much like the seams on a traditional sport jacket. Result: the seams are unusually strong, flat and neat.

The other six telltales are pretty functional, too.

1. A tag for your name that's sewn on the tail. It keeps your Hathaways out of envious hands.
2. A hand-turned button down collar that looks equally well with or without a tie.
3. A red "H" sewn where the tails meet—but only after the shirt passes 18 inspections.
4. Perfect pattern matching around pockets and collars. (Usually found only on custom made shirts.)
5. A trimly tapered body that won't billow or bulge over your waistline.
6. Three-hole buttons that are much stronger than the four-hole kind. (Euclid knows why.)
7. To see all seven telltales together, come in. We can show them to you on a vast array of striped and colored Hathaway Club shirts.

DOUGLAS WAS born in Cresco, and has both his B.A. and M.A. degrees in political science from the University. He is to assume his new duties June 1, at an annual salary of $13,000. He has worked five-and-a-half years in the Labor Department, first in Washington, D.C., and has been living in San Francisco since March, 1964.
According to Garfield, one of the functions of the Hawkeye Area Community Action Program is to assess the adequacy of current social welfare programs in Johnson County. He said Thursday that the first task was an analysis of relevant characteristics of disadvantaged families.
The director's job is to devise programs to meet local needs and to coordinate, Garfield said.

Music Symposium Coming

A Symposium for Contemporary Music will be presented Monday through Friday by the School of Music and will be highlighted by several concerts and visits from composers and critics.
Milton Babbitt, professor of music at Princeton University and coordinator of the Columbia-Princeton Electronic Music Center, has been selected as this year's visiting composer.
Babbitt has won a number of awards, including two New York Music Critic's Circle Citations, a Guggenheim Fellowship, a Ford Foundation Commission and a 1965 Koussevitsky Foundation Commission.
THE COMPOSER has a background of study and research in mathematics as well as in musical theory and composition.
Beginning in 1947 he began applying certain mathematical principles to musical theory and composition, particularly with regard to the method of composition known as "the twelve-tone system," evolved by Arnold Schoenberg.
"His articles on music theory and on the twelve-tone system have been widely published and he is recognized as one of the most prominent American music theorists," Richard B. Hervig, professor of music, said this week.
HERVIG ADDED that Babbitt was also one of the leading American proponents of electronic music.

"This is the eleventh year that a composer has been invited to the campus to be honored by a concert of his works and to confer with the students in the school of music," said Hervig.
During his visit, Babbitt will deliver a public lecture at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in North Recital Hall on "The Production and Perception of Electronic Sound."
A lecture will be given at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday in North Recital Hall by Michael Steinberg, a music critic of The Boston Globe, on "Composition, Performance, and Criticism."
Babbitt will be a guest at the final University Symphony concert at 8 p.m. that evening in the Union Ballroom. Tickets are now available at the Union information desk.
THE PROGRAM will include the world premiere of a "Concerto for Piano" by Charles Wuorinen who will appear as soloist. Wuorinen is a young American composer and co-director of the Group for Contemporary Music at Columbia University. He is co-director of that group with a University alumnus, Harvey Sollberger.
This piano concerto was composed for James Dixon, conductor of the University Orchestra and of the Tri-Cities Symphony. Charles Treger, violinist and professor of music, will also be featured as soloist in "Concerto in D Minor for Violin and Orchestra" by Sibelius. Treger was the winner of the international Wieniawski violin competition.
THE CONCERT will also include "Five Pieces For Orchestra" by Arnold Schoenberg.
A forum will be presented at 3:30 p.m. Thursday in North Recital Hall on "Contemporary Music: Responsibilities of Composer, Critic and Audience." It will be led by Babbitt, Wuorinen, and Benjamin Doretz, editor of the periodical Perspectives of New Music and professor of music at New York University.
A concert of Babbitt's works will be presented at 8 p.m. that evening in North Recital Hall. Among his compositions will be: "String Quartet No. 2" by the Iowa String Quartet; "Composition for Four Instruments" (1947) by Betty Bang, associate professor of music, flute, William A. Hibbard, G. Newton, Mass., violin, Paul Zonn, G. Iowa City, clarinet, and Eric Jansen, G. Fargo, N.D., cello.
"COMPOSITION for Twelve Instruments" (1948) by Miss Bang, flute, Wilma Zonn, G. Iowa City, oboe; Zonn, clarinet; Ronald W. Tyree, assistant professor of music, bassoon; Steven Miller, E. Bettendorf, trumpet; Niel Burstrom, G. Northfield, Ill., horn; Hibbard, violin; Wendy L. Gannett, A3. Davenport, viola; Jensen, cello; Linda Gannett, A4. Davenport, base; Steven Osburn, A4. Iowa City, celesta; and Jean Alshuler, G. Scarsdale, N.Y., harp. The last two pieces will be conducted by Dixon.
The two other pieces on the program will be electronic compositions presented by magnetic tape recording. They are "Com-

Religious Attitude Article Published By Prof. Kottman

The non-scientific character of religion may be a reason a recent Gallup Poll survey indicated a declining role for religion.
This suggestion is made in "A Semantic Study of Religious Attitude," an article in the April issue of the Journal of Religion and Health by E. John Kottman, assistant professor of journalism and business administration.
"As a nation we are spending many millions of dollars daily on scientific pursuits," Kottman said, "and it is little wonder that something as non-scientific as religion would lose much of its grip on a society which values science and the fruits thereof so highly."
The findings of the study of intentional manifestations and religious attitudes of 167 University of Iowa students suggest that the teachings of the Christian church would play a more significant role in human affairs if they were related more meaningfully to man's needs.
One might expect this, Kottman said, because religious faith is of an intentional or non-scientific nature.
"One's faith is based largely — if not solely — on verbal and other forms of symbolic experience," he said. "There is no way to check to find out if the words or symbols are grounded in reality. One believes because he has faith, not because he has proof."
ADVISER APPLICATIONS DUE
Applications will be accepted until 5 p.m. today for the student adviser program which will begin next fall under a committee of Associated Women Students.
They are to be turned in at the Office of Student Affairs, 111 University Hall.
Any current freshman, sophomore, or junior is eligible for the program which will train student advisers for incoming freshmen and transfer students in the general liberal arts area.

Record By Alum To Be Released

A musical work by University graduate Harvey Sollberger has recently been recorded for commercial release.
The composition, "Chamber Variations (1964)," is performed by the Group for Contemporary Music, a Columbia University ensemble co-directed by Sollberger. The Columbia group was co-founded and directed by cellist Joel Kronick, assistant professor of music, before he came to Iowa.
Sollberger's record is one in a series of 10th anniversary releases by Composers Recordings, Inc., a company specializing in works by contemporary composers.
Sollberger received his B.A. from the School of Music in 1960.

Galagan Named To National Post

Dr. Donald J. Galagan, dean-elect of the College of Dentistry, has been appointed to a national advisory committee for the study of professional communications in radiological health.
The 14-member committee will advise the Columbia University School of Public Health and Administrative Medicine in the development and conduct of a nation-wide study, seeking to improve the use of X-rays by health scientists.
Dr. Galagan, named to represent the dental profession, met with the advisory committee in New York, Tuesday.

Mann Resigns Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — The resignation of Thomas C. Mann as undersecretary of state for economic affairs, effective June 1, was accepted "with regret" Thursday by President Johnson.
Mann, a specialist on Latin American affairs whose views have stirred controversy in some quarters, is stepping out after 2 1/2 years of federal service to enter private business. No successor has been named.

IOWA CITY
HERE I COME!

Iowa City Welcomes Mother's Day...

Is your mother coming to Iowa City this weekend? If so, show her by showing her the fine points of your city. Who knows, maybe she will send more money next week, and you can be sure she will enjoy her experience. She will love to see the store where you bought her that new skirt, just like the one you borrowed from her last year or where her son buys those new loud ties. It may surprise you that she would like to see that place where you buy those radical new books that are being written nowadays. When she is slowing down, take her into your favorite lounge or drugstore for a quick refresher—maybe she'll buy. There's no doubt that she will like to see jewelry — what woman doesn't? Also show her the appliance store where you buy goods to furnish that plush apartment she doesn't think you can afford. The next stop is easy — the bank where her money stays for such a short time, but keep her away from the cashier. Finally show her where her son gets his hair trimmed and not cut, like father used to do it. No doubt she will benefit from such an excursion and who knows, maybe you will too.

Summer Repertoire To Use 4 Plays; Cast Announced

The University Summer Repertory Theatre company will face five weeks of intensive rehearsal in preparation for the cycle of four plays to be given this summer.

Five actresses, nine actors and a four-member stage crew compose the company. They will be registered students in the University summer session.

The players are: REATHAL BEAN, G. West Plains, Mo.; Carolina Leinbauser, G. Ottumwa; Patricia Dougan, A1. Washington; Mary Beth Spingler, A2, Marshalltown; Ann Wayner, A1, Iowa City.

Robert Boburka, Berwyn, Ill.; Harmon Dresner, A1, Chicago; Robert Ernst, A3, Humboldt; Alan S. Just, G, Hicksville, N.Y.; Barry Kaplan, G, New York City; Lee McCain, Los Alamitos, Calif.; Nicholas Meyer, A2, New York City; Edward Sostek, G, Iowa City; and Frank Vybiral, Wahoo, Neb.

Stage crew members are: KAT BURNHAM, Raton, N.M.; W. Michael Doherty, Wilmette, Ill.; Martha Seigel, A3, Murraysville, Pa.; and H. Clay White, Covington, Ky.

The company will assemble June 8 to begin rehearsing the four plays, which include a love story, a hit musical and an American comedy.

The first play, "The Amorous Flea" by Jerry Devine and Bruce Montgomery, will open July 13. It will be followed by Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie," John Cecil Holm and George Abbott's "Three Men on a Horse," and Jean Anouilh's "Le Gend of Lovers (Eurydice)."

The plays will be performed Monday through Saturday in nightly rotation through August 4.

LOCKHEED COCKPITS— JOHANNESBURG (AP)—South Africa's Division of Civil Aviation has decreed that airliner cockpits must be locked against any intrusions in flight. The order was generally welcomed by pilots as a security measure but some said they'd miss informal visits forward by passengers and the smiles of hostesses aloft.

Tots Teach Grad Students How A Child Acts, Learns

By S. B. ELLIOTT
Staff Writer

A black spiral stairway winds its way upward to a darkened second floor room furnished sparsely with a wooden bench, a few armchairs, a speaker system and a one-way mirror.

From here, the student of child behavior can watch and listen to an infant in an adjacent room without interfering with his play.

In the room beyond that mirror, a 3- or 4-year-old may be looking at nonsense images projected on a wall. He may be guessing the color of the next marble about to be shown him, or he may be watching an animated puppet show.

EACH OF THESE games that children play at the Institute of Child Behavior and Development, 7 E. Bloomington St., is relevant to research going on at the University.

The animated puppet show tests the child's tendency to imitate the actions he sees.

By familiarizing the child with certain nonsense figures projected on a wall, and then introducing new images, the researcher is testing youthful curiosity behavior. The experiment studies the effect of new opposed to familiar stimulation upon the young.

By asking the child to guess which of two colored marbles will next appear, the researcher is testing the attention and memory mechanisms in young children. The question is whether the child remembers the marble he has just seen and whether this previous stimulus influences the child's next judgement.

MISS ELIZABETH Alden, associate professor of child behavior and development and supervisor of the pre-school, said this week that the institute was created 45 years ago to serve three functions.

"The institute is a training center for graduate students in the field of child psychology. The pre-school within the institute provides subjects for research and is a laboratory school in which we attempt to discover what and how children learn in a group situation."

Its findings, she said, are passed on to the community.

The research at the institute is separate from the pre-school curriculum. Miss Alden said that the child "spends about 20 minutes twice a semester as a research subject." The rest of the time he is part of an experimental program that uses different kinds of play activity to demonstrate new information to the child.

THE RESEARCHER often spends a number of afternoons getting to know the child before beginning the experiment.

Richard Bogartz, assistant professor of child psychology said, "The experiments are by and large structured as a game and are usually of short duration. If it is a long experiment, it has to be a game, or the child will lose interest."

Miss Alden said that parents were well aware of the research that was going on at the institute and there is no shortage of applicants for the pre-school.

Children were selected, she said, on the basis of three criteria: the child's place on the waiting list, the requirements of research, and the need that the school has for a boy or a girl to balance out the enrollment.

The research program and the pre-school curriculum are well integrated. Both are aimed towards stimulating the child's curiosity.

"We hope we develop an attitude of inquisitiveness in our children," said Miss Alden. "We hope they will learn to like learning."

Medical Professor Presented Grant Totaling $2,500

Dr. Ian M. Smith, professor of internal medicine, has received a $2,500 research grant from Wyeth Laboratories, Philadelphia, Pa., pharmaceutical firm.

Justin M. McCarthy, a representative of the firm, presented the grant at a luncheon for friends and associates of Smith. McCarthy said the grant was given in recognition of Smith's research accomplishments and could be used in any way he wished to improve or speed research under his direction.

Smith, who is head of the division of infectious diseases in the Department of Internal Medicine, has been doing research on the cause of death from staphylococcal infections for several years.

Red Cross Course Set

Student Operates Booking Agency For Talent Acts

Comedy acts? Singers? Tight-rope walkers? Any student who has talent and wants to perform publicly may talk to Jim Kerr, 338-4817.

For three years Kerr has run a non-profit booking agency for students at the University. He now books 17 student acts, each of which earns an average of about $25 for each performance.

Kerr, who does a comedy act himself, and another student began the agency by booking acts for other Iowa schools, including Coe College, Iowa State University and William Penn College, Oskaloosa.

BECAUSE HE received many calls from clubs and organizations that wanted talent acts, he said recently, he began to send out brochures advertising the available acts.

Many persons don't realize there is a "darn lot of talent on campus," he said recently. He calls his work a lot of fun and said that students he had booked also had found him bookings for his comedy act on occasion.

KERR, 30, is a junior majoring in English. He has spent seven years as a radio announcer at KXIC in Iowa City, then went back to school because radio announcing "was not for me." He now plans to earn an M.A. and possibly a Ph.D. in English.

RILEEH Week Is Coming

By DAVE POLLEN
Staff Writer

RILEEH Week is coming, and with it the RILEEH program will stress its first major goal — understanding.

RILEEH (Rust-Iowa-LeMoine for Expanding Educational Horizons) is a three-way cooperative program between the University; Rust College, Holly Springs, Miss.; and LeMoine College, Memphis, Tenn. Rust and LeMoine are both predominantly Negro colleges seeking ways to improve education on their campuses.

RILEEH WEEK is intended to inform Iowans about Rust and LeMoine, so they will know how they can help these schools combat limited opportunity for the Southern Negro college student, according to John Huntley, associate professor of English and a RILEEH leader.

"The RILEEH program is the only inter-college cooperative program that is supported solely by contributions from the University community," Huntley said recently. "RILEEH funds are used to ease the growing pains that both colleges are feeling, and are helping break the barriers between poverty and education."

During RILEEH Week, its members will be pasting posters, selling buttons and giving speeches about RILEEH.

RILEEH Week will be climaxed May 6 by a concert by the Rust College Choir in Macbride Auditorium. The concert will be the first in a number of cultural exchanges between Iowa, Rust and LeMoine.

MANPOWER AND money are the two things RILEEH needs most, said Huntley, and RILEEH leaders hope to get enough of both once they've accomplished their first goal — informing persons about Rust and LeMoine and what RILEEH can do to help turn their aspirations into achievements.

People needed by RILEEH include volunteers to house mem-

Exiled Prelate Visits Iowa, Offers Mass

CEDAR RAPIDS — Josef Cardinal Beran, exiled archbishop of Prague, drew an overcapacity crowd to St. Wenceslaus Roman Catholic Church Thursday as he celebrated mass.

SOME 500 persons jammed into the church, in a predominantly Czechoslovakian parish, as the cardinal began the only full day of his visit to Cedar Rapids.

Among those attending the mass were Archbishop George Bishop of Des Moines, a native of the parish; Archbishop James J. Byrne of Dubuque and Auxiliary Bishop Loras Waters of Dubuque.

Cardinal Beran, on a tour of Czech groups across the country, visited students and teachers Thursday at Mount Mercy College and was scheduled to take part Thursday night in a banquet expected to draw up to 800 persons. Rep. John C. Culver (Iowa), was scheduled to speak.

The archbishop was greeted by about 100 persons when his plane arrived Thursday night. Included in the welcoming group were 25 women wearing native Czech costumes who gave him the traditional gift of bread and salt.

CARDINAL BERAN, who appeared healthy and well for a man of 77, waved at waiting crowds as he entered and left the church.

He extended his Cedar Rapids visit from Friday morning to Friday afternoon in order to visit grade school children and tour the city. His next stop will be Cleveland.

The Cardinal was banished from Prague in 1951 and has been living in Rome. He was a prisoner of the Nazis during World War II.

The influence of religious leaders grows as they practice what they preach, Beran said Thursday.

He told a news conference that progress made by the Vatican Council will depend largely on the extent to which changes are put into practice.

He noted he knew little about what the Vatican Council was doing until he was expelled from his Iron Curtain country in 1964.

He said the Czech government had found any relatives of Czech descent in the United States. He said there are many Berans in this country, some of whom claim to be relatives, and although they offer no proof he welcomes them all.

As a matter of fact Pat Beran, a receptionist for television station KWLL in Waterloo, attended the news conference.

The cardinal's interpreter, the Rev. Jaroslav Polc, asked newsmen not to make any inquiries about political affairs in Czechoslovakia, explaining it could have serious repercussions for Czechs and might disrupt Vatican negotiations with the Communists.

Cardinal Beran was scheduled to leave Friday afternoon for Chicago.

Lieutenant Governor Gets Speeding Ticket

DUBUQUE — Lt. Gov. Robert Fulton was fined $10 and court costs Thursday for speeding.

Fulton pleaded guilty through his attorney, State Rep. John L. Duffy of Dubuque, before Municipal Judge Frank Gilmore Jr.

The lieutenant governor was given a ticket April 16 for driving 70 miles an hour in a 60-mile zone on U.S. 20 three miles east of Dyersville.

Highway Patrolman Lyle Peters, who issued the ticket, said he did not know until Thursday that Fulton was the lieutenant governor.

5 Americans Die In Peru Air Crash

LIMA, Peru — A search party reached the wreckage of a Peruvian airlines plane that crashed high in the Andes and reported Thursday that all 49 persons aboard had been killed. Five were Americans.

The four-engined Constellation of Lineas Aereas Nacionales, carrying 45 passengers and a crew of six, smashed into a mountain between the hamlets of Huampara and Omas, about 60 miles south of Lima, police said.

Ice Cream Contest May 14—

Dolphins To Test Gluttony

Tension mounts as one of the most competitive Iowa athletic events approaches. Members of the Dolphin fraternity will soon compete for the coveted China Pig, a prize given to the Dolphin who can stow away the most ice cream in two hours.

It's the 37th annual glutton contest and it's bound to be an exciting one. For some it will be the grand finale to a year of heavy training, of second helpings and constant snacking. For others it will be the disappointment of failure and the biggest stomach ache imaginable.

THE CONTEST will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. May 14 in the Field House swimming area.

The sponsor of the contest is Irving B. Weber, an Iowa City ice cream executive and former University swimmer. Weber, who has provided ice cream for all past contests, said the contest had its origins in an incident that took place during the depression.

HE WAS TAKING several members of the swimming team on a tour of the ice cream plant and gave them some samples. The swimmers soon turned the treat into a contest which has since become a time-honored tradition.

Heavy contenders for the varsity title this year are James Rasley, A3, Cedar Rapids; Neil Schmitt, A2, Adickson; and Ralph Kruder, A3, Lake View, N.Y. Competition is also being held in the freshman and coaches' division.

Last year's champion was Tony Riker, A3, Boone.

Discontent On Rise In Cuba, According To U.S. Official

WASHINGTON (AP)—Asst. Secretary of State Lincoln Gordon said Thursday there were signs of internal struggle within the Fidel Castro regime in Cuba and "growing discontent and disillusionment within the general population."

Gordon, whose province is inter-American affairs, indicated in an interview that only the "admittedly efficient, ubiquitous and ruthless state security apparatus utilized by Castro" was keeping down public anti-Castro manifestations.

He said the action of more than a third of a million Cubans in fleeing their homeland and registration of about one million more for refugee flights "bespeak in stark terms of the extent of the rejection of the Castro regime by the Cuban people."

Gordon said recent trials following a charge by the Havana regime of a plot on Prime Minister Castro's life, and purges of leading officials "certainly are surface indications of widespread tensions in Cuban leadership circles"

'Penny Days' Drive To Start

A two-day "Penny Days" fundraising drive sponsored jointly by Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority in which Iowa City and the University will compete for the proceeds will begin at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

The proceeds of the drive, said fraternity activities chairman David Proctor, A2, Des Moines, will go to one of two charities depending on the outcome of the competition.

Contributors, he said, will be given the chance to drop their gifts into one of two jars, one marked for the city and one for the University, at booths placed strategically around the campus and in the city.

IF THE CITY wins the competition, Proctor said, the proceeds will go to the Sheltered Workshop for handicapped adults being built in Iowa City.

If the University wins, the funds will go to RILEEH, a committee that sponsors a developmental program for two southern Negro teachers' colleges.

Proctor said that in order for the city to win the competition, it would have to earn a proportionately larger sum of money because it has a larger population.

THE BOOTHS will be placed on the Pentacrest, in the Union, in the Burge Hall lobby, and there will be two more in the downtown business district.

Proctor said that the drive was not asking for the donor's dollars, just his dime. "It's a Penny Day drive," he said. "If you have a few dimes in your pocket, drop them into one of the jars."

RENT CEILING IN ROME—ROME (AP)—The Italian government has decreed general extension of rent ceilings to the end of this year and a gradual lifting to be completed in 1969.
