

Lake MacBride Crowded Over Fourth

By ROBERT BUTTON
Staff Writer

Fourth of July weekend meant recreation for thousands of Iowans, many of whom took advantage of one of the most popular recreation areas in the state, Lake MacBride State Park.

The park area attracted more visitors last year than any other state park, and attendance over this year's Fourth of July weekend was estimated to be 50,000.

The state park and Coralville Reservoir, which it adjoins, hosted more than a million people last year. An additional facility, the University Field Campus, is being developed in the area for special uses.

Developed in 1930s

Lake MacBride State Park reached by driving west through the Solon business district was originally developed during the 1930s under various federal work programs. It comprised 600 acres of ground with a 130-acre lake. These figures compare with 950 acres of water on nearly 3,000 acres of ground today. Lake MacBride is the state's largest man-made lake.

When the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers built the Coralville Dam during the 1950s, the man-made lake was threatened, so the Lake MacBride dam was raised from 30-40 feet. At that time park facilities were moved back to their present location.

Last May the park acquired 75 acres of land between the two arms of the lake, which will eventually double the park's recreational area. The advantage of the most recent addition, Chuck Hagen, park superintendent said recently, is that it provides access to previously-owned land with good development possibilities.

Use Increased

The primary reason for the growth is tremendous increases in use, which is part of an increase in outdoor recreation across the country. Hagen reported that use had tripled in four years to 730,000 persons last year.

Funds for development are appropriated by the state legislature. One of the biggest needs is for parking. Completion of a new lot this summer for 120 cars has increased parking capacity to 3,400 cars, but almost double that number can be accommodated on roadsides and grassy areas.

Future development also calls for a new beach area for swimmers. There is now one supervised beach with bath house facilities, which can handle 5,000 to 6,000 persons. Swimmers pay 25 cents to use the area.

Two different camping facilities have been developed in the last five years and were used by sanitation facilities, and electrical hookups, costs $1.50 a day for a direct electrical hook-up. There is a two-week time limit for use of camping facilities.

Fishing Better

Fishing, according to Hagen, has been far better than average this spring, according to Hagen, "slowed it down." The lake is stocked with crappies, blue gill, bullheads, large mouth bass, walleyes, northern and catfish.

The park is closed from 10:30 p.m. to 4 a.m. to all but registered campers. Enforcement of this rule is important because campers don't want to be annoyed, and, according to Hagen, 90 per cent of the vandalism occurs during those hours. Hagen said the park was checked several times a night.

Coralville Reservoir, visited by approximately 425,000 people last year, is a 5,000-acre lake created on the Iowa River by a flood control dam. The reservoir provides storage of flood waters for protection of downstream areas, particularly along the Mississippi River. In addition, the conservation pool provides public recreational opportunities with benefits for fish and wildlife.

There is no charge for using public reservoir facilities.

Camping facilities are provided also at Dam Site, south of the dam on the Dubuque Street side. Boat launching ramps are available at Dam Site, West Overlook, Curtis Bridge (north of 218 Marina), Sandy Beach and Sugar Bottom.

Swimming Allowed

Swimming is allowed in the reservoir, according to Gary Thompson, electronics technician, but it is not supervised. Boat and motor size is not limited. The reservoir is stocked with bass, crappies, bluegill, northern, carp, walleyes and buffalo.

Newest of the facilities being developed in the reservoir area is the University Field Campus at a bend in the Iowa River south of Lake MacBride where the dam separates it from the reservoir, and north of the Mehaffey Bridge being constructed.

The 435-acre field campus and a 185-acre Turkey Valley research area south of the field campus are on land leased by the University in 1959.

Development of the area according to T. R. Porter, associate professor of education and director of the site, proceeds as money becomes available.

"Although the University administration is interested in the project, needs on the main campus are being met first," said Porter. "Material needed to ap-

President Spurs Hope For End To Viet War

Reports Communists Don't Expect Victory

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson said Tuesday that the United States looked forward to an end to the Viet Nam war and added, "We think we're on the way to doing it."

He said that diplomatic reports indicated that the Communists "don't really expect a military victory in Viet Nam."

He said further, however, that he was "aware of the danger of speculation."

86 Per Cent Hit

The President reported that intensified bombing of North Viet Nam has hit 86 per cent of that country's oil-storage capacity and that 57 per cent of the reserve supplies have been completely destroyed.

Johnson read the figures, relayed to him in a top-secret cable from the Pentagon, to newsmen who gathered on the front lawn of his ranch home near here for a wide-ranging news conference.

Johnson disclosed that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara planned to reduce substantially scheduled production rates for bombs and ammunition within the next three to six months.

Report Read
The President read a report in which McNamara said ordnance stockpiles were ample and that production currently exceeded consumption.

The chief executive said that the production cutback would save several hundred million dollars.

The chief executive was asked if the projected reduction in ordnance buying indicated the major part of the Viet Nam military buildup was past.

"No," he responded. "I wouldn't make such an evaluation."

Men To Be Sent
He said more men would be sent overseas and other steps would be taken to add to American military muscle in South Viet Nam.

Discussing his decision to bomb oil-storage facilities near Hanoi and Haiphong, Johnson said military officials and responsible diplomats felt that "this action at this time was required by conditions."

Forecast
Partly cloudy today with scattered showers or thunderstorms likely north and central portions. Cooler north today. High today 80s extreme northwest to 90s in southeast. Outlook for Thursday scattered thunderstorms and cooler.

Saying that a national public opinion poll, not identified, indicated 85 per cent support for his decision, Johnson said, "We did the right thing at the right time."

In what amounted to his most extensive statement to date on his bombing order, the chief executive said it made "no sense to sit with our hands tied behind us" while North Vietnamese Communists continued to infiltrate into the south and spread terror and assassination.

Operations Made Costly
"We do not say it will stop the infiltration, and we don't even say it will reduce it," Johnson said of the bombing.

But he added the air strikes would make Communist operations more costly.

The President told the newsmen he had called McNamara to a conference at the LBJ Ranch Wednesday to discuss future events in the Viet Nam war. Johnson said this would precede a session McNamara would hold with Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp Jr., the Pacific high commander, in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Hanoi Evacuation Is Speeded Up, Reporter Says

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet correspondent reported from Hanoi Tuesday that evacuation of civilians from the North Vietnamese capital had gone into high gear following U.S. air raids on oil depots in the city's outskirts.

A dispatch from Tass correspondent Yevgeny Kobleev said: "The old part of Hanoi is like an excited beehive. The narrow streets of the trading and residential districts are alive with bicycles, handcarts and cars loaded with household goods."

"The mass evacuation of the population is taking place."

"Only those directly engaged in production and members of anti-aircraft detachments are allowed to stay in the city."

"All children up to secondary school age, pensioners, tradesmen and their families are subject to immediate evacuation."

Navy Plane Shot Down In Viet Nam

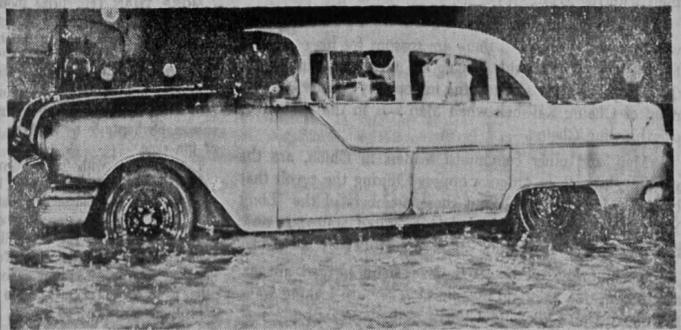

SAIGON (AP) — Another air-sea paign against North Viet Nam fight marked the America campaign Tuesday. For the second time in five days, U.S. Navy planes exchanged fire with Communist torpedo boats. One plane was shot down. It was undetermined whether the boats were hit.

On the political front Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military government installed an 80-member army and a people's advisory council, including a number of skilled technicians, to help in the progressive transition of power to an elected civilian regime next year.

From a Paris weekly magazine, Enterprise, came a report that before the bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong, President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam had warned Red China and the Soviet Union that "if there is no new development, we will have to come to terms with the United States toward the middle of 1967." The magazine cited no authority for its information.

At the same time Red China's foreign minister, Chen Yi, declared in a statement broadcast from Peking that his government would support North Viet Nam at all costs and "will not hesitate to risk any danger to annihilate U.S. aggression and win final victory." He spoke at a reception marking the fourth anniversary of Algeria's independence from France.

A State Department spokesman said Tuesday he had no information on the Paris report.

One-Way Streets Are Urged

Iowa City councilmen were asked Tuesday night by City Manager Carsten D. Leikvold to give "top priority" to portions of the Interim Traffic Plan that call for one-way streets and the removal of parking spaces from all arterial streets.

"We are not sure on the timing," he said, "but we would like to get as much of this done as possible by September."

Leikvold said the council would be called upon to pass resolutions to implement the various steps of the program from time to time this summer.

Commission Consulted

He said that Jefferson and Market Streets would become the city's first one-way streets because they presented the least amount of problems for conversion.

The State Highway Commission would have to be consulted before work proceeds on the one-way system for Dodge, Governor and Lucas Streets, he said.

The council was presented a list of 32 arterial streets from which parking should be removed.

Kirkwood Ave., East Benton Street and Page Street from Riverside Drive to Dodge Street headed the list which was prepared in the order Leikvold recommended for action.

Each recommendation, he said, would require a separate resolution.

Bid Accepted

"These changes are going to cause some inconvenience," Leikvold said. "The citizens will get a little time to adjust to the changes and signs before they are enforced by the police department."

In other action, the council accepted a bid for construction of a North DuBuque Street water main. The bid was submitted by the Marion Construction Company for $108,966.30.

Bids on two other projects — the College Street Band Platform and the 1966 Sanitary Sewer Program — were rejected because they were above Administration estimates.

Cat Ordinance Called 'Dreamy'

Dr. Charles B. Thayer, director of animal care at the Animal House, told the Iowa City council Tuesday night that the proposed cat ordinance was a "dreamy idea."

"Because of the disposition and psychology of cats, enforcement of such an ordinance would be impossible," he said. "Cats don't understand legislation."

Thayer said Leikvold's proposal for an air-conditioned dog shelter was too expensive.

"Dogs don't need air conditioning," he said.

Saturn Testing Is Successful

CAPE KENNEDY (AP) — A 92-foot-long segment of America's Saturn man-to-the-moon rocket tumbled into orbit Tuesday with a belly load of high-energy hydrogen fuel, hurdled an important milestone in the lunar landing program and became this nation's heaviest satellite.

Devices riding on the television-equipped flying laboratory, called a Saturn 4B, successfully kept its highly volatile hydrogen fuel in a proper position for the 29-ton rocket stage to twice restart during a 4½-hour, three-orbit mission through space.

A successful sequence of events carried out during the flight "was a dramatic demonstration that the engine could have been fired in orbit," National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials said.

"This technical feat must occur when three American astronauts venture to the moon. During the lunar trip, the Saturn 4B — which will then be the third stage of a Saturn 5 moon rocket — must coast in earth orbit about 4½ hours so astronauts can check out spacecraft systems. It must then restart to propel the spacemen toward the moon.

After nearly two hours of delays caused by a troublesome television camera aboard the Saturn 4B, the record-breaking rocket stage roared skyward from Cape Kennedy at 9:53 (CDT).

U.S. DISTRICT JUDGE Ralph C. Body denied Tuesday in Philadelphia a request by New York publisher Ralph Ginzburg, convicted of mailing obscene literature, for reduction or suspension of a five-year prison sentence. Ginzburg was found guilty in 1963 by Body, sitting without a jury, and was fined $28,000 and ordered jailed. Ginzburg carried appeals to the U.S. Supreme Court, seeking either acquittal or a new trial, and lost all the way.

MRS. MARINA OSWALD Porter, widow of the man accused by the Warren Commission of assassinating President John F. Kennedy, has given birth to a boy, according to the Dallas Morning News. Officials at Richardson, Texas General Hospital and Mrs. Porter's mother-in-law would neither confirm nor deny the report. The newspaper said the 6-pound, 12-ounce boy was born Sunday and was named Mark Wayne Porter.

RONALD REAGAN removed himself Tuesday from consideration for the 1968 Republican nomination for president. Reagan, the GOP candidate for governor of California, told a news conference in Los Angeles that if he is elected he will serve all four years of his term.

AUTHOR RALPH NADER, critic of what he calls lack of safety in automobiles, Tuesday termed the National Safety Council an industry-dominated "mother hen" financed by the auto industry. He told a news conference in Los Angeles that engineering reforms are needed in the construction of new automobiles.

LYNDA BIRD JOHNSON flew to Bonn Tuesday night for a visit of a week or so as the guest of U.S. Ambassador and Mrs. George C. McGhee. The President's daughter arrived after a tour of Spain on a European trip following her college graduation. She traveled by regular airliner and was greeted by Mrs. McGhee and the Ambassador at the airport.

Storm Strikes Central Iowa

DES MOINES (AP) — A violent wind storm tore through central Iowa Tuesday night, ripping up trees, garages and power lines and leaving much of Des Moines in darkness.

Moving in from the west, a band of thunder clouds with winds up to 80 miles an hour, caused widespread damage but there were no immediate reports of fatalities.

Hundreds of trees, uprooted or twisted apart, left a trail of littered streets in Des Moines.

At the George Mellerup home in Urbandale, a Des Moines suburb, the car was left standing on the concrete floor while the garage flew into a neighbor's yard.

Broken power lines caused some serious incidents in Des Moines. One was a 160,000-volt line that left many homes without power.

The power was cut off at Waukee, Norwalk and Van Meter, towns to the west and south of Des Moines and the winds caused damage both in residential and rural areas.

Thunderstorms broke a six-day heat wave in parts of Iowa. The storm system through central Iowa was violent but did not bring much rain except in temporary downpours.

Chinese 'checker'

RED CHINA IS FINALLY aware that Moa Tze-tung is purging the party ranks of liberal elements that are forming their own version of socialism.

All the Red Chinese newspapers and the New China News Agency recently carried an editorial that said Mao was personally directing the purge.

If the dissident members of the Chinese Communist Party have become powerful enough to worry Mao, then their power may be sufficient to bring about some profound changes in the ideology so rigidly held to by Mao once he disappears from power. If these anti-party elements gradually take over the government, then Red China may lose its unchanging philosophy of communism in a similar manner to Russia when it softened its approach to the outside world after the death of Stalin.

While in power, Stalin carried out a ruthless purge, more ruthless than the present one in Red China. After his death, Khrushchev led Russia in de-Stalinization, a sort of purge that undid Stalin's work and brought about improved relations between Russia and the democratic countries.

It is too early to tell whether Red China will follow the same path as Russia. Mao has had to demote party members for accepting revisionist theories of communism and for being soft toward the West. That these liberals exist among the party ranks may leave the way open for improved relations with the West.

Mao has been a hard man for the United States to deal with during his reign, and there are reasons for his animosity toward America. Besides being an ideological opponent, the United States supported the unpopular, corrupt government of Chiang Kai-shek when Mao was in the process of overthrowing Chiang.

Mao, and other communist leaders in China, are the very revolutionaries America opposed during the revolt that brought Mao to power. But these members of the "Long March" who have grown to hate the United States are now receding from power, either through senility or the casket.

Some of their successors, the ones being purged, are not as chauvinistic as the old members. They are seeking ways to amend Mao's line and China's outlook toward the rest of the world. Some don't believe in the World Communism as envisioned by Mao and his sidekicks.

Perhaps the new blood that eventually comes to power in Red China will take up a less offensive attitude toward the Western World. The younger generation will not hold the grudge against the United States that has been so dear to the present rulers.

When the new generation of rulers replaces the old revolutionaries, the United States should continue to work toward ways of increasing dialogue with Red China.

Perhaps the United States might admit that there are over 700 million people on the other side of the earth, that these 700 million people now have the atomic bomb, that they possess a gigantic land army, and that whether or not the United States likes it, the present government is the real government of that country.

So far we have opposed admitting Red China to the United Nations, and have succeeded in exerting our control over that international organization to the detriment of world peace. Our acceptance of Red China in the United Nations would show that we too, are ready to reason with the opposition.

We could extend friendly relations in a number of ways. Increased trade, cultural exchanges similar to the United States-Russian exchanges, and establishment of formal relations between the United States and China would facilitate more harmony between the two countries.

Such relations wouldn't be a "better Red than dead" attitude, they would just mean that two nationalistic ideologies have begun to lose some of their bigotry.

'Magnificent Men' is nostalgic, entertaining

By NICK MEYER
For The Iowan

While by no means a masterpiece, "Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines" has a high enough percentage of infectious gaily and good humor to make it worth seeing. The original screenplay by director Ken Annakin is based on an historic incident — an airplane race from London to Paris held in the year 1910. With this as his jumping off point, Annakin plies his audience with nostalgia from every conceivable angle.

To begin with, there are the airplanes. All are carefully reconstructed from the original plans, and, believe it or not, they actually fly. Between watching them cavorting precariously through the skies, and hearing paeanes to flight sung by various members of the cast, the viewer is soon caught up in the same fanatic enthusiasm the characters feel for the conquest of the air.

OTHER NOSTALGIA is derived from early movies. There is a real live hero (an American hobo pilot from Arizona, played in an endearing "shucks, ma'am" style by Stuart Whitman), a real live villain and his forelock-tugging henchman, (played with relish by Terry Thomas and Eric Sykes), a delicious Gilbertian heroine (Sarah Miles), her millionaire papa (Robert Morely), and a host of international comedians portraying the various contestants. (Excuses for foreign stars are non-existent in this film, as their presence for once can be justified by the plot instead of the European film market).

Jean-Pierre Cassel appears as the French entry, and Gert (Goldfinger) Frobe is his German rival, who believes in flying by the book — literally. Alberto Sordi plays the Italian enthusiast, saddled with an enormous retinue of a family that cringes whenever he is in flight.

MORE THAN THE prize money is at stake, by the way. Sarah Miles, whose papa is sponsoring the race, is engaged to the blond, blue-eyed British contestant, James Fox ("The Servant"). With the arrival of drawing Stuart Whitman, however, Miss Miles' attention is somewhat distracted, and a personal rivalry for her hand ensues, obviously to be resolved by the outcome of the race.

This, coupled with Terry Thomas' projected skulduggery, keeps the action busy indeed. It should be noted, however, that "Magnificent Men" never goes into the realm of the completely fantastic (as did "The Great Race," a similar film by Blake Edwards, with Tony Curtis as a hero always dressed in immaculate white. "Magnificent Men" never goes quite that far). The comedy here is wild and woolly, but it is always possible, however improbable.

SOME OF the screenplay is terribly witty — (the French-German feud, culminating in the most ludicrous duel ever filmed — blunderbusses from opposing balloons, over a sewage swamp) — while some of it falls completely flat — (giving the Japanese contestant a dubbed Oxford accent, for example). One of the film's chief strengths is the successful playing off of national characteristics against each other.

The thing that carries "Magnificent Men" most emphatically along, is the enjoyment, enthusiasm, and tenderness every one involved with its making obviously had for it. The cast performs with gusto and as a team, and the props, cameras, editing and stout-hearted rum-tum theme song by Ron Goodwill all combine to nudge the audience into "coming back with us to those thrilling days of yesteryear" — and smiling at all the high-jinks on the screen.

OCCASIONALLY IT gets out of hand, or a bit too desperate, but in general, things are under control, and there are some almost parenthetical touches to delight the viewer. (For example, safety ground crew at the training field is clearly a parody of the Keystone Cops). The film has no point to make, nothing much to say, except that movies and flying are terrific fun, and that the early days of both should not be completely forgotten. "Magnificent Men" manages to survive its faults (usually those of excess). In fact, (to coin a phrase), it rises above them.

Why Washington never returned

By DAVID POLLEN
Editorial Page Editor

HEAVEN — Plans for George Washington's reincarnation here — set to coincide with Fourth of July celebrations — were frustrated Monday after a series of incidents occurred enroute from Heaven to Washington, D.C., which forced the trip's cancellation at the last minute.

The former President was enthusiastic when he realized that his long-awaited reincarnation was actually underway, but his enthusiasm was soon dampened by a number of disagreements with the reincarnation committee. "George," the head of the committee pleaded, "you simply can't appear in Washington with that long hair of yours and those tight breeches."

"Why not?" said George defiantly. "I've always worn powdered wigs, and I'm told my legs are rather shapely and that breeches suit me best."

"But that's not the point, George. People in America now will think your clothes are sort of, well, gay, and with that long hair, everyone will be calling you a communist. Schoolboys dressed like you are thrown out of school nowadays in America."

"Nonsense," George answered. "Even if this sort of thing isn't the latest rage, Americans are different from most people; they never criticize a person because of the way he dresses or call him names because his tastes are different. "But George, the FBI is thoroughly convinced that long hair is directly related to communism. They've got all long-haired guys on file."

"Say, just what is this communism, anyway?" George asked.

"Well, originally it was this economic philosophy proposed by a guy named Marx, but now it's anything that might tend to upset the status quo."

"But Americans thrive on change. . . ."

"You just don't understand, George. Communism is a threat to the Great American Way."

POLLEN

Americans will stop at nothing to eliminate something that might turn communistic."

Just then the pilot who was guiding their ship — a reconstruction of the gunboat that George once crossed the Potomac in — remarked that he hadn't seen anyone bring a passport along for the President.

"Good grief, that's right," one of the others said. "We'll never get him into Washington now."

"That just shows how little you know about America," George said. "America welcomes the huddled masses of the world, the tired, the hungry. . . ."

Just then, machine gun fire from a SAC fighter shook the old gunboat.

"Keep on rowing," George shouted to the oarsmen. "After all, we're already dead anyhow."

"It's no use," one of the men told him. "They still won't let us in. Heaven isn't officially recognized by the State Department."

George gulped. "Turn back," he said. "I guess things have changed."

If you were wondering why you didn't see George Washington during the Fourth of July parade, now you know.

Traffic Toll Totals 576

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Traffic accidents killed 576 persons during the three-day Independence Day holiday, the worst motoring toll for any summer holiday in the nation's history.

The death toll not only was a record for a three-day observance of the holiday, it also surpassed the record 557 deaths for a four-day July 4 weekend as well as the three-day 1965 Labor Day toll of 575 deaths that was the worst for any summer holiday.

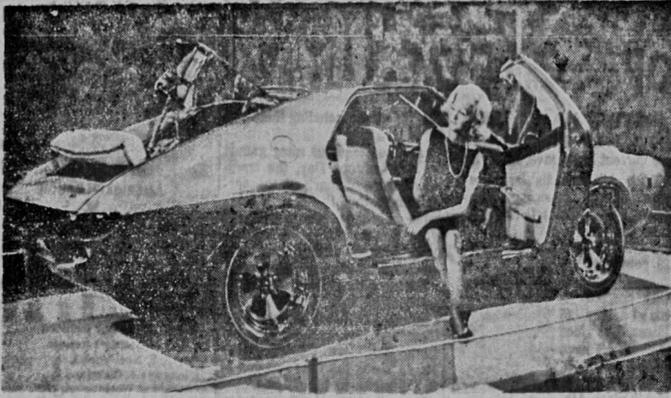

Last year Independence Day holiday traffic accidents accounted for 551 deaths, the previous record toll for a three-day July 4 period. The four-day record for the holiday was set in 1963.

In addition to this year's traffic toll there were 222 deaths by drowning and 52 in boating accidents, an over-all total of 850 fatalities that resulted from holiday activities.

The National Safety Council had estimated before the start of the holiday that traffic deaths would total between 510 and 610 for the 78-hour period.

A number of accidents in which multiple deaths occurred contributed to the high traffic toll.

The single accident with the most fatalities occurred near Tucson, Ariz., Sunday. Two cars collided head-on, killing all 10 occupants.

THE CAVALIER, an experimental car made by American Motors, was one of three "idea" cars exhibited at a downtown Chicago hotel Tuesday. A concealed roll bar that is built into the roof and a "Ramble seat" are several of the features on the car.

Economists Study Job Trends

The total number of women in Iowa's labor force will increase by more than 33 per cent by 1970, a report on job trends in the state predicted recently.

The trends were discussed in an article in a recent issue of the Iowa Business Digest, a publication of the University Bureau of Business and Economic Research, prepared by Mario F. Bognanno and Vern C. Hagen, instructors in economics.

Basing their projections on personal income and employment figures for Iowa for the decades 1940-50 and 1950-60, they forecasted the job situation for 1970.

More Women Employed
The employment picture has an increasingly larger place for women. Figuring an over-all employment increase from 1960 of 87,394 persons, the authors come up with a total force of 1,116,396, a 9.5 per cent increase by 1970.

Of this total, the number of women (410,810) will be an increase of more than 33 per cent. The total number of males employed (a projected 705,586) will be a decrease of .7 per cent from 1960.

There has been a trend of more and more women at work in Iowa since 1940. The number of women employed increased more than 43 per cent from 1940 to 1950, and nearly 26 per cent from 1950 to 1960.

In a breakdown by industry, more than half of the increase in women's employment will be in professional and related service. Other increases will be in manufacturing, 11 per cent; wholesale and retail trade, 11 per cent; personal services, 9 per cent; and finance, insurance, and real estate, 8 per cent.

Decline Foreseen
A decline is foreseen for women workers in only one industry, mining, and the decline will be small.

The major decline for men will be in agriculture. A reduction of some 45,000 men is predicted.

Nearly 24,000 Iowans left farming in the 1940s, according to the article, cutting relative farm employment from 36 to 28 per cent. The farm-job decrease was even more rapid in the 1950s, with a drop of 75,000 jobs.

However, agriculture is not on its way out of the Iowa economy, the authors point out: "More than 40 per cent of the value added to Iowa manufacturers in 1960 was in the farm equipment, farm machinery and food and kindred products industries."

A substantial decline of men in transportation and in business and repair services is also predicted in 1970. Minor drops are predicted in the wholesale and retail trade category, personal services, construction, amusement, recreation, and related services, and mining.

Increases Shown
Increases are shown for men in some industries; 65 per cent of which will be in manufacturing and in professional services. Minor increases are expected in finance, insurance, and real estate, communications, utilities, and government.

Warning of the dangers of projections for areas subject to technological change, alterations of business investment, and government expenditure, the authors also reached these conclusions on the employment outlook for 1970 by occupation:

- Employment declines for men in two major groups which include farmers and laborers.
 - Major increases for male professional and technical workers and for operatives.
 - Minor increases in male clerical and sales workers, craftsmen and foremen, and service workers.
 - A decrease in only one category for women — laborers — which includes farm workers.
 - Two categories totaling almost 80 per cent of the increase for women, service workers and clerical and sales workers.
 - 10 per cent of the total increase for women in another category, professional and technical workers. Smaller gains in the rest of the classifications.
- Increases and declines for each occupation will vary among the different industrial categories.

New Computer Taught In Class On Programming

Dan Tubbs, International Business Machines (IBM) System engineer, will be the instructor for the Advanced FORTRAN Programming classes which will begin at 3:30 today. FORTRAN is an IBM computer model.

The classes will be held from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in 225 Chemistry Auditorium.

An official in the computer center stressed the importance of having previous training in FORTRAN, before taking the advanced class.

Starting with today's class, there will be classes every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday until July 22.

SNCC Sponsors Rights Leader From Waterloo

Friends of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) will sponsor a speaker on the subject of the racial problems in Waterloo at 7 tonight in the Union Minnesota Room.

Mrs. Anna Mae Weems, a Waterloo civil rights leader, and a delegation from there will discuss some of the events concerning the racial situation in Waterloo.

Several demonstrations occurred last month. They were the result of one person's jailing in connection with disturbances. He then hung himself in the Waterloo City jail.

The medical report released about two weeks ago concerning the prisoner, Eddie Sallis, said that it was suicide.

Some sympathizers said that Sallis hung himself after being subjected to police brutality.

These topics and other aspects of the situation will be discussed.

Russia, Allies In Agreement Over Security

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — After what appeared to be a clash between Romania and the Soviet Union over military issues, the Warsaw Pact powers found something to agree on Tuesday — European security.

A "declaration on the strengthening of peace and security in Europe," was signed by all the delegations representing the Soviet Union, Romania, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Poland, Bulgaria and Hungary, the Romanian news agency Agerpress announced. It gave no details.

Official spokesmen denied knowledge of the declaration, believed to have been worked out by the pact's foreign ministers in Moscow last month. The military meeting is expected to end Wednesday, probably with a strong statement on Viet Nam but with little else being made public.

The Soviet party leader, Leonid I. Brezhnev, looked a little more affable as he arrived for the conference than he did after the meeting with the Romanians Monday night. He had a serious look then when he ended a three-hour session with Nicolae Ceausescu, the Romanian Communist leader.

The main subject of the conference is believed to be Soviet efforts to tighten the Kremlin's control over the forces of the Warsaw Pact — the Communist answer to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Romania has been resisting the Russians with assertions of its own sovereignty and has demanded that each pact member be given a voice in the organization's military decisions. Romania wants some kind of a veto over pact decisions, fearing it might be drawn into war.

ply for planning funds from a foundation should be ready by the end of the summer."

A topographical map of the area is completed, and work is being done this summer on a proposed layout for the campus.

The plan is to develop a natural arboretum, which involves locating ecological communities of trees. Two nature trails, along which plants will be labeled, are planned, and one will be designed for use by people confined to wheelchairs.

Programs Planned

Porter said the campus was being designed with several potential programs in mind, one of the most important being outdoor education. In this program, University or area school classes would stay on the field campus for several days and study outdoor material related to their course.

The most obvious use would be by science classes at all levels, but other uses could include a study of measurements in math or painting in art. University school classes have already made use of the area.

Recreation leadership classes or workshops sponsored by the physical education department would be well-suited to the field campus, said Porter.

A program of camps and conferences in an informal atmosphere with fewer distractions than are found on the city campus can be developed, he added. Two camp areas are proposed, one with floors and walls as bases for tents, the other with cabins suitable for winter use.

Porter pointed out, "This would be an excellent place for student leadership retreats with members of the faculty or administration, but it would also be useful for groups such as the scouts."

Use Is Proposed

Use by handicapped people is proposed, and children from Pine School are spending some time there this summer.

Recreational possibilities for the area are almost unlimited, according to Porter. A boathouse has been constructed on the property, and the University Sailing Club is making heavy use of these facilities.

On a more informal basis, many classes use the area for short field trips, said Porter, and it is a good area for public hiking. However, the field campus is different from a state park and is not designed for mass picnics or "blasts," according to Porter. As a part of the University, the rules effective on any University property apply.

Groups Desiring To Use
Groups desiring to use the field campus should make arrangements either through Porter or G. Ed Wainwright, the full-time caretaker.

When development is completed and buildings have been constructed, the field campus could be used by 2,000 persons a year. However, Porter estimates the use will be greater than that, especially when a non-University groups are considered.

Prof. Millsap Write Book

A book that deals primarily with state administration has recently been published by Russell Ross, University professor of political science, and Kenneth Millsap, assistant Iowa City manager.

The book is "State and Local Government and Administration," (Ronald Press, 700 p., $8.50).

Ross said he had decided to write the book after his dealings with state government in 1960-61 indicated to him that there was a need for information about its administration.

He and Millsap compiled statistical materials including charts and tables to explain the functioning of state administration.

Ross said that the book would probably be used in a state administration course and Iowa government and politics course next fall.

Ross denied that his book had anything to do with the "publish or perish" stories recently popular. However, he did say that it was "helpful to a teacher to keep up with his material." One of the best ways to do this, he added, is to publish something in one's major field.

Ross and another co-author, Fred Schwengel, former First District congressman, have two additional books being reviewed for possible publication. One is entitled "Position of the Moderate in the Republican Party." The other, "Item Veto," deals with the veto power of the President, Ross said.

Ross published his first book in 1957, "Government Administration in Iowa." In addition, he has written four monographs and 30 articles on various phases of state and local government.

Teamsters Union Gives Hoffa Vigorous Vote Of Confidence

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — "The hell with our enemies," Teamsters Union Pres. James R. Hoffa shouted Tuesday in a war cry before some 2,000 cheering union delegates.

The twice-convicted Hoffa predicted he would thwart those in government and in the nation's press who he said want to see him jailed or otherwise removed from office.

"I happen to be quite healthy and I happen to have good lawyers and I happen to still believe that justice in the United States is still honest," Hoffa said.

Hoffa Prepares
Preparing for certain re-election despite pending prison sentences totaling 13 years for alleged jury tampering and mail fraud, Hoffa asked the delegates to disregard what he called "the slander, mud, filthy lies and garbage" aimed at him.

"You judge whether or not I'm a fit person to run this international union and whether or not I have done what I promised you," he said to an ovation that he had to silence with his gavel. The delegates gave Hoffa a unanimous standing, whistling, cheering vote of confidence as he said: "Let that be an answer to our enemies and those stupid individuals who think they can divide us with their filthy propaganda."

Hoffa said the Teamsters Union had made greater gains during the past five years in organizing workers and winning good contracts than any other union or combination of unions.

Delegates To Consider
Delegates are due to consider a resolution naming a general vice president and also must consider one to raise Hoffa's annual salary from $75,000 to $100,000.

The general vice president would succeed to the top job if Hoffa died, resigned, or was removed from office by the union itself.

Hoffa has singled out Vice Pres. Frank Fitzsimmons of Detroit to be the new general vice president.

JAMES R. HOFFA, Teamsters Union president (right), gives a victory signal to Vice President Frank Fitzsimmons of Detroit, whom Hoffa is backing to be the new general vice president. If elected to this post, Fitzsimmons will succeed to the top job in the union, replacing Hoffa if necessary.

$168,283 Of Federal Funds Allotted For Community Aid

The U.S. Office of Education has approved a state plan for three Iowa universities to spend $168,283 in federal funds for community aid, it was announced Tuesday by Robert Ray, dean of the University Extension Division and State coordinator for the program.

Projects include help for alcoholics, advice to community theaters, dissemination of consumer information, and training of police officers and community officials.

Universities participating in the Iowa Community Service Programs are the University, allotted $78,766; Iowa State, $62,167; and Drake, $18,585. The $8,763 balance of the allocation is for administration. Each of the institutions must put up one dollar for every three dollars allocated from federal funds.

The state received the federal aid under Title I of the Higher Education Act of 1965. Iowa's plan was the fourth in the nation to be approved and the second to be funded.

Program Planned
The Board of Regents is the administering agency and a Regents' body, the State Extension Council, has been assigned to implement the program. A 16-member State Advisory Council, composed of Iowa citizens, state officials, and representatives of institutions of higher education, made the initial recommendations for allotment of the federal funds after studying proposals for projects submitted by colleges and universities across the state. The Extension

Council approved the recommendations.

The approved allotment covers the period from the past June 14 to June 30, 1967. A like program, also under Title I, is being planned and will cover the period from last Friday to June 30, 1967. A further federal allocation will cover this latter period.

Projects under the first allotment are for government and community affairs, community health services, community education services and community social, cultural, and recreational services.

Clearinghouse Organized
The largest federal grant was $31,078 for training programs for community leaders and persons on the job in local government. The University will offer 21 different educational programs the first year in the form of conferences, institutes, short courses and correspondence courses. The programs will be conducted throughout the state as well as on campus.

ISU was granted $23,308 to set up state coordination of consumer education. A center will be staffed by a director who will organize a clearinghouse to collect, evaluate and disseminate consumer information, advise and consult with groups and urban community leaders on meeting local consumer needs, and plan and conduct state consumer workshops.

The University was allotted $20,597 to train community alcoholism consultants. Communities are to establish citizens' committees on alcoholism and establish an alcoholism information center. A consultant from each community will then be temporarily employed at Oakdale for training. Afterward he will return to his community for service but will maintain formal connection with the University and return periodically for refresher work.

Urban Conferences Planned
ISU plans to spend $17,302 in federal funds on monthly regional conferences on urban planning. Four regions are to be covered the first year; possibly six more will be added later.

About $12,400 has been allocated for University community theater regional workshops. Eight theater consultants from universities, colleges and community theaters will conduct one-day conferences at strategic locations in the state. Local theaters will select participants.

Another $12,081 will be used for development of an integrated series of short police courses in a police recruit school. After completing that training, the recruits will attend a series of basic courses and then take advanced, specialized courses if they desire.

Kaline Jumps To 2nd In AL Batting Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Kaline's four-hit explosion on Independence Day climaxed a productive week and sent the veteran Detroit Tiger roaring into second place in the American League batting race.

The 31-year-old outfielder, who underwent a toe operation last fall after hitting only .261, took a foothold on the No. 2 position after batting at a .448 pace last week. He had 13 hits in 29 times at bat and raised his average 18 points to .316. Kaline was eighth a week ago.

Russ Snyder of Baltimore remained in first place although he lost one point to .337. Snyder had nine hits in 27 tries. Chico Salmon of Cleveland held the No. 3 spot despite a six-point drop to .314.

Frank Robinson of Baltimore, the runner-up last week, fell 24 points to .311 and dropped into a fourth place deadlock with Minnesota's Tony Oliva, the defending champion.

Matty Alou of Pittsburgh regained first place in the National League batting competition. Third last week, Alou hit at a .438 clip with 14 hits in 32 at bats and raised his average 14 points to .335.

Willie Stargell, also of the Pirates, remained in second place. He gained two points to .325 with 11 hits in 32 attempts. Rico Carty of Atlanta rushed up three matches to third on a 15 points gain to .322. He had 12 hits in 28 tries.

Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente, the pace-setter last week, slipped to fourth at .320.

U.S. Cage Team Set For European Tour

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — A dozen of the nation's outstanding basketball players culled from college and industrial ranks reported Tuesday at the U.S. Naval Academy for a week of practice before embarking on a European tour.

The squad is under the direction of John Kundla, University of Minnesota coach, who is being assisted by Hank Vaughn of the Goodyear Wingfoots of Akron, Ohio.

Eight games in Russia have been arranged for the U.S. team selected by the Amateur Athletic Union.

49er Grigger Out

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dan Colchico, defensive end for the San Francisco 49ers, will miss the 1968 season because of an injury suffered last year, the National Football League club announced Tuesday.

The 29-year-old veteran of six seasons with the 49ers will work with the club as a public relations assistant, effective immediately.

Colchico, former San Jose State College star, suffered a ruptured Achilles tendon in his left leg during the 49ers opening 1965 league game.

Palmer Set For British Open Test

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP) — Arnold Palmer tossed his woods aside Tuesday and promptly mastered Muirfield's tough par 71 links in his final workout for the 1966 British Open golf championship which starts Wednesday.

He also threw away the habit many top professionals indulge in — the complaints of bad backs, sore shoulders, colds and other ailments which seem to disappear magically when play begins.

PALMER

"I'm fine," said the Latrobe, Pa., golfing millionaire. "Nothing wrong with me at all."

Meanwhile, some of the others kept up the legend of their weaknesses and ailments.

Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif., who won the Open at St. Andrews in 1964, complained bitterly about a cold and sinus trouble.

Phil Rodger of LaJolla, Calif., wasn't feeling well and said of his closing practice play: "I was real poor out there."

Julius Boros of Mid-Pines, N.C., was struggling with a sore elbow and three fingers which have been hurting him since he dug up a tree root in a tournament three years ago.

Peter Thomson of Australia, the defending champion, worried about his hay fever did not play.

For all his confidence and demonstrated skill in practice, Palmer was only second choice at 5-1. Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, has been installed 7-2 favorite.

Kansas City Making A Habit Of Knocking Off Contenders

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics, almost as hot as the current heat wave, have turned giant-killers in the last month, knocking off American League pennant contenders with uncommon regularity.

After the first 20 games of the season, Kansas City sported its customary 15 losses. But since then the A's have played .500 ball.

On June 17, the eighth-place Athletics faced the dreary task of playing the league's top five clubs in 27 consecutive games. Included in that stretch, that actually ends this coming Sunday with a doubleheader against Cleveland, are 19 straight contests against league-leading Baltimore, second-place Detroit and third-place Cleveland.

DARK

But Manager Al Dark's batting A's, a crew of rookie pitchers and fielders picked up from a number of teams in last-minute trades, have won 12 of the last 19 games, including their last three in a row.

And the standings after games on Independence Day, the traditional halfway mark of the season, show that the A's, jokingly referred to in past years as a New York Yankee farm club because of their many trades, have won one more game than the Yanks.

Kansas City split a four-game series with both California and Chicago, took three of four from Cleveland and stopped a three-game Baltimore winning streak before losing the final two games of the series to the Orioles.

Then the A's traveled to Detroit where the Tigers were hoping to move closer to the top rung of the American League ladder.

But Kansas City swept a doubleheader Sunday, taking three of the five games.

Monday, Dark sent 20-year-old Jim Catfish Hunter against Baltimore with only two days rest. Hunter, in only his second professional season, received help from Jim Duckworth, a Washington Senator castoff, and Jack Aker, a 25-year-old relief specialist, to crush the Orioles 9-6.

Jackson's 2-hitter Stops Giants, 3-1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Al Jackson pitched a two-hitter and St. Louis' speed led to two runs as the Cardinals topped the San Francisco Giants 3-1 Tuesday.

Jackson, winning his eighth game in 14 decisions, retired the last 16 batters in a row.

The Giants' National League lead to 1 1/2 games over second-place Pittsburgh which defeated Chicago 6-0.

Lou Brock, who stole three bases, led off the game by reaching first after striking out on a wild pitch that bounced off the plate. He stole second and came home on consecutive ground outs by Phil Gagliano and Curt Flood.

Dal Maxville opened the eighth with a single, moved to second on Jackson's sacrifice bunt, went to third on an error by losing pitcher Ron Herbel and scored on a squeeze bunt by Gagliano.

Tim McCarver's bases-empty homer in the second accounted for St. Louis' other run.

Home runs — St. Louis, McCarver (4).

Minnesota Rally Beats Indians, 4-3

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ted Uhlaender doubled home the tying run and Harmon Killebrew sacrificed fly drove in the winner as Minnesota rallied for a 4-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians Tuesday night.

Uhlaender's double scored Jimmie Hall and chased starter Tom Kelley in the seventh. Hall rapped a pinch hit single for starter Jim Merritt and moved around on a single by Ziolo Versailles.

Killebrew then lofted a sacrifice fly to Vic Davalillo off reliever Dick Radatz after Tony Oliva was purposely passed.

Rocky Colavito and Chuck Hinton homered for the Indians and Oliva rapped one for the Twins, his 16th. Colavito's 16th gave the Indians a 2-0 lead in the first following a walk to Chicago Salmons.

Red Sox Whip Yanks With 4-Run Inning, 7-1

NEW YORK (AP) — George Smith's home run with two runners on base highlighted a four-run second inning that carried Boston to a 7-1 victory over the New York Yankees Tuesday.

The drive helped right-hander Derrell Brandon win his first major league game. He has lost two.

Smith's homer followed a triple by George Scott and a walk to George Thomas. A single by Mike Ryan, a sacrifice and Rico Petrocelli's double added the fourth run.

The Red Sox scored single runs in the third on singles by Carl Yastrzemski and Scott plus a wild pitch, and in the seventh on Petrocelli's 14th homer.

Fryman Fires 2-hitter As Pirates Win, 6-0

CHICAGO (AP) — Rookie Woody Fryman fired a three-hitter for his third straight shutout as Pittsburgh defeated the Chicago Cubs 6-0 Tuesday.

Fryman was tagged for a single in the first inning and a double in the third, and a single in the ninth, all of them by Billy Williams. Only three other Cubs reached base, two on errors and the other on a base on balls. He retired 17 batters in a row over one stretch.

The victory was Fryman's seventh against three losses. He has allowed just seven hits in his last three games.

Donn Clendenon and Jose Pagan were the Pirates' batting stars. Clendenon hammered a two-run homer in the sixth and Pagan had three doubles, driving in two runs.

Pittsburgh ... 200 003 100—4 13 2
Chicago ... 000 000 000—0 3 2

Home runs — Pittsburgh, Clendenon (12).

Angels Top Tigers, 4-3

DETROIT (AP) — Joe Adcock slammed a three-run homer in the sixth inning and the California Angels held off a late Detroit surge, handing the Tigers their fourth straight loss, 4-3, Tuesday night.

Adcock entered the game in the fourth inning after Norm Siebern pulled a muscle in his right leg while running out a run-scoring single.

Angels' starter Dean Chance held the Tigers to two hits through the first six innings but lost his shutout in the seventh when Al Kaline doubled and Jim Northup followed with a homer.

2-Run Double Lets Phils Beat Mets, 3-1

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Larry Jackson slammed a two-run double and pitched the Philadelphia Phillies to a 3-1 victory over the New York Mets Tuesday night.

Jackson, who upped his lifetime record against the Mets to 15-0, trailed 1-0 when he came to bat in the sixth with one out and runners at first and second. He ripped a double that scored Bill White, who had singled, and Bob Uecker, one of seven walks that rookie Bill Hepler allowed in his first major league start.

White Sox To Face Cubs In Charity Game July 25

The Chicago White Sox and Chicago Cubs meet for the only time this year Monday night, July 25, at White Sox Park in the 17th annual Boys Benefit Game.

Although the White Sox have won the last two games, the Cubs hold the edge in the series, 10 victories to 6, in the classic which began in 1949. All proceeds go to help promote boys baseball in the Chicagoland area.

It's the Cubs' turn to be the home team so the White Sox will be attired in their blue road uniforms. The famous exploding scoreboard will do its customary act on home runs hit by either team. Pat Pieper, veteran Wrigley Field announcer, will handle the public address announcements.

The Sox-Cub series has been featured by huge crowds, the series averaging 27,830 per game since it began in 1949. The largest crowd turned out in 1964 when a standing-room throng of 52,712 watched the White Sox whip the Cubs, 11 to 1. But, the series has been marked by very close contests, with seven of the 16 Benefit Games being decided by one run and four others by just 1 runs.

Total attendance for the series to date is 445,285 for 16 games. The series has raised well over $1,000,000 for Chicagoland Boys Baseball.

Tom Maloney, White Sox ticket manager, announced that good seats are still available for the Benefit Game. Reserved seats for $3.25 and $2.15 are available by mail or in person at White Sox Park, Wrigley Field and at the Chicagoland Sears stores. General admission tickets at $1.50 can be purchased at White Sox Park.

16-Year-Old 'Hitch-hikes' To England To See Girl 15

LONDON (AP) — A 16-year-old American who slipped aboard airliners from Kansas City to London without passport or tickets said Tuesday night he came to see a girl friend.

"Her name is Mary Parsons," said James Richard Clark Davidson, San Marino, Calif. "She's an American girl, 15 years old, and we went to school together for a year in San Marino."

"Unfortunately, when I got to the London apartment where she now lives with her family, I found they were all away on vacation in Europe. I guess I'll have to leave her a note to tell her I called by."

The youth had bluffed his way past dozens of airline officials and British customs and immigration officials.

He and his mother, Mrs. Nova Davidson were visiting friends in Overland Park, Kan., a Kansas City suburb, when he decided to take off for London.

He had only $11 in his pocket when he headed for the Kansas City airport Saturday evening.

He said he had told his mother he was going to visit a friend overnight.

"I studied a chart of the airplane departures and watched the airport routine for a while," he said in an interview. "Then I figured out how to get aboard a plane and caught the 9:10 p.m. flight to Chicago."

"I traveled first class and even had a cocktail on the flight. There was one moment when a man asked for my ticket, because I was in first class, but I had a bundle of papers in my hand. I took so long looking through them for the ticket that I didn't have that he just got tired of waiting and went away."

Iowa's Wieczorek Hoping To Become A Top Miler

By BILL BURNETTE Staff Writer

Larry Wieczorek, a two-time Illinois state mile champion, came to Iowa two years ago and has continued his winning record here.

Wieczorek, from Maywood, Ill., started his track career as a sophomore at St. Joseph High School in Maywood.

Whiz, as his teammates call him, played baseball and basketball as a freshman. At the start of his sophomore year he decided to get in shape for basketball by running cross country. He did very well and his coach persuaded him to drop the other sports and concentrate on running track.

His junior year he transferred to Proviso East High School, also in Maywood, because it had better cross country and track programs.

That year the speedy miler won the Illinois state mile championship and led his team to a third place finish.

His senior year he captured the event again and set a record, 4:14.5, which still stands.

His high school highlight was being invited to the Golden West Invitational track meet, a meet in which the nation's best high school track men compete. Whiz placed fourth.

Ted Wheeler, a former Iowa track great, recruited Wieczorek to Iowa. The school appeared to him because it was reasonably small and had Big 10 prestige. He is a business major.

Last summer while conditioning for cross country Whiz injured his leg and began his college track season with a disappointment, he could not run cross country.

The slender runner overcame his injury to capture the Big 10 indoor mile title in his career best time of 4:09.7.

The 5'7", 135 pound miler felt the only difference between high school and college track was that college track was just another step up in athletics and he liked college more because it emphasized team victory over individual victory.

Whiz wants to be a member of an Iowa championship track team, run a sub-four minute mile, and has a flicker of hope for the coming Olympics.

His workouts show his determination. It consists of a dual session daily, five and one-half miles on his own in the morning and the regular team workout in the afternoon.

Wieczorek tied a Big 10 undergraduate record with a 4:06.9 mile in a meet against Drake and Chicago Track Club this past spring and will be looking to even greater things to come next spring.

The future looks bright for both the Iowa track team and its top miler, Larry Wieczorek.

FORMER TIGER DEAD — DETROIT (AP) — Ervin Pete Fox, swift outfielder of three Detroit Tiger championship teams, died of cancer Tuesday in New Grace Hospital. He was 57.

Fox played on the American League Tiger champions of 1934, 1935 and 1940.

Archery Club Meeting Set

An organizational meeting for an Iowa City Archery Club will be held July 12 at the Iowa City Recreation Center at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting will be for informational and organizational purposes. Movies will be shown on bowhunting and Dennis Ballard, director of the Iowa State Archery Association will present a talk about current trends in archery. Refreshments will also be served.

The club members can use a newly constructed field archery course of 14 targets at the Macbride field campus. This campus is licensed by the University from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The club will concentrate on field practice with declining concentration on bowhunting practice and target practice. All shooters, including beginners, are welcomed to the meeting and will be invited to join the club.

Shep Begins Training

DEEPWATER, Mo. — Old Shep, world's champion chowhound, arrived here Tuesday and began training for the annual All-Star Coon and Snipe Hunt to be held Friday.

Old Shep expects stiff competition from arch-rival Big Ruf, said Irving Fenster, Old Shep's trainer. Old Shep has won the last three All-Star events.

The new Coon and Snipe Hunt Association Commissioner William D. Mouthpiece, a retired Army private, said he would attend the event "for the fun of it."

The All-Star meet will be held at the new Brush Memorial Park. The riverside park was built near a huge cement arch that is believed to be the world's biggest croquet wicket.

DODGERS GET STUART — LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers announced Tuesday they have acquired slugger Dick Stuart for pinch-hitting duties.

Stuart, a right-handed first baseman, was released recently by the New York Mets. With the Mets, Stuart batted .218.

Mildenberger To Meet Clay For Title Sept. 10

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — European champion Karl Mildenberger of West Germany signed a contract today to meet Cassius Clay in a world title bout in Frankfurt's soccer stadium Sept. 10.

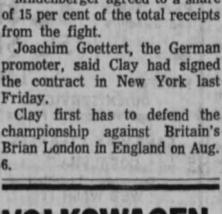

The signing took place in an office at Frankfurt's airport just before Mildenberger flew to London for a meeting with Jarves Astraire, who holds the world television rights for the fight.

Mildenberger agreed to a share of 15 per cent of the total receipts from the fight.

Joachim Goettert, the German promoter, said Clay had signed the contract in New York last Friday.

Clay first has to defend the championship against Britain's Brian London in England on Aug. 6.

Korean Dance Recital Set

A "Recital of Korean Dance" by Won-Kyung Cho, instructor of the dance of Korea, will be presented at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Shambaugh Auditorium.

Cho's performance, sponsored by the Summer Institute on the Far East, comprises 12 Korean dances ranging in origin from the 7th century to 1935.

In his introduction, Cho will compare Chinese, Japanese and Korean dances. He will demonstrate the use of fans, scarves and characteristic movements of male and female dancers of each country.

Thirteen different costumes, all duplicates of the originals, will be used during the performance.

Cho compared his dances to museum pieces, but he added, "They aren't just museum pieces. I give them order and make them more enjoyable."

Cho accomplishes this by combinations of the three classic forms of Korean dance: royal, religious and common form.

Several of Cho's dances are no longer seen in Korea. Moo Ae Mu (The Gourd Dance), for example, hasn't been danced since the 15th century. Cho reconstructs these dances from written records.

Cho came to the United States in April, 1960, to observe Western dances.

"I always dreamed of coming to study and see the Western world," he said. "These performances cannot be studied without being seen."

Cho estimates that since his arrival he has appeared at 300 American universities.

He danced at Carnegie Hall, New York City, in 1961 and the Seattle World's Fair, Seattle, Wash., in 1962.

At present, Cho makes New York City his home.

Futures Market Is Kiwanis Topic At Noon Meeting

When you hear about a person going broke on the board of trade, it's probably his own fault, according to James M. Kelley, representative from the Iowa City office of R. C. Dickinson & Company.

Kelley, who spoke on "The Commodity Futures Market" during a noon Kiwanis Club meeting Monday at the Hotel Jefferson said, "People lose their shirts on the board of trade because they over-extend."

"The man who makes 2 cents a bushel profit on his grain might extend himself some more. He might hold out for 3 cents profit and end up with a loss."

Kelley, who spoke on grain trading, explained that the futures market at a Chicago Board of Trade was a place where buyers and sellers of grain meet to do business on a future basis.

Concert To Be Presented By Symphony Orchestra

The University Symphony Orchestra, accompanied by the Iowa Brass Ensemble, will present its annual summer concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Iowa Main Lounge.

The 73-member orchestra, conducted by James Dixon, associate professor of music, will present Gustav Mahler's "Symphony No. 1 in D Major" and "Elegy for Small Orchestra" by the contemporary American composer Kenneth Gaburo.

Featured in the concert will be Bach's "Concerto in A Major for Harpsichord and Orchestra" with soloist Gerhard Krapf, associate professor of music, and Giovanni Gabrieli's "Canzona in the 9th Mode a 12 for 3 Brass Choirs," with the Iowa Brass Ensemble.

The program's major work, the Mahler symphony, is especially noted for several songs from his "Songs of a Wayfarer" and some folk tunes. The performance will draw on several different editions of the symphony, which the composer finished at the age of 28 but which he revised throughout his lifetime.

In 1963, Dixon received the Mahler Medal of the Bruckner Society of America in recognition of his "significant contribution to the appreciation of the works of the 19th-century composer."

The Gabrieli work will be performed by three orchestral choirs widely spaced around the concert hall for heightened spatial effect. One orchestral choir will be in the balcony, the two others on the main floor.

The Bach concerto is representative of the mature Baroque style. Usually performed contemporaneously by two harpsichordists, the University performance will feature Krapf's presentation of both the soloist's part and of some of the harmonies which would have been provided by the second player.

"Elegy for Small Orchestra" was given its premier seven years ago by Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic and has received the Tanglewood Orchestral Award.

The concert is part of the University's 28th Annual Fine Arts Festival. Tickets are free and are available at the Union south information desk. The concert will be broadcast live by KSUI and WSUI.

Law Student Is Candidate

Charles H. Pelton, L3, Clinton, is seeking the Republican nomination for the Clinton County representative to the Iowa Legislature.

He is scheduled to enter the September 6 primary election. The general election is held in November.

Pelton, 25, graduated from Clinton High School in 1958 and received a B.A. in science from the University in 1962.

Presently, he is supervising the Neighborhood Youth Corps in Iowa City and is active at the University in the Young Republicans.

He anticipates receiving a law degree from the University in August.

Pelton was a student senator at the University for two years and was a member of the Board of Trustees of Student Publications, Inc., for one year.

He is also a member of Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity and Phi Delta Phi professional legal fraternity.

Since becoming a student at the University, Pelton has worked during summers at the Clinton Corn Processing Co. and for the Clinton Neighborhood Youth Corps. He was a supervisor with the Clinton youth corps in 1965.

2 Burglaries, A Drowning, Fire Mar Celebration Of 4th

Two burglaries, a drowning and a fire caused by an exploding firecracker damaged a peaceful Fourth of July celebration.

Police reported that the American Legion Post 17, American Legion Rd., and Imperial Oil Company, Highway 218 South, were broken into Friday. Legion officials said that about $1,000 had been taken from the safe after it had apparently been chiseled open. About $150 was missing from the office safe of the Imperial Oil station, police said.

Entry to both buildings was apparently made through windows.

Authorities are still searching the Iowa River for the body of a man who is believed to have drowned late Saturday. A man identified as Gene L. Garrison, about 32, Cedar Rapids, apparently drowned as he attempted to swim ashore from a motor boat which had stalled southwest of the Butler Bridge. Three persons remained in the boat and about 15 minutes later were towed to the Coralville power dam by passing fishermen.

Firemen were called to City Park Monday to extinguish a fire in the front seat of a parked car. Officials said that the seat cushion apparently had been ignited by an exploding firecracker.

David Bartholow, 12, of 1125 Pickard St., was taken to Mercy Hospital Monday night after being hit by flying debris from an exploding firecracker in City Park. He was treated in the emergency room and released.

The Sun Mart in Muscatine was held up about 9 p.m. Saturday. According to police, the gunman and a heavy-set woman who drove the get-away car took about $12,000.

Police said Tuesday that the description of the hold-up man was similar to the man who robbed the Eagle Food Center, 600 N. Dodge St., Oct. 11 and the A & P Food Store, 700 S. Clinton St., May 21.

One of the longest stretches of undeveloped beach remaining on the Atlantic seaboard has been turned into Cape Lookout National Seashore.

THE GUILLOTINE BOUNCED BACK THROUGH THE FLOOR!!

ONLY TWO HENCHMEN THIS TIME? HARDLY WORTH WORRYING ABOUT!

BETTER CALL THE CHIEF, ROBIN! TELL HIM CAT WOMAN IS IN CUSTODY!

OH, ER... IS IT ALL RIGHT IF I USE YOUR PHONE, CAT WOMAN?

MOOSE

HOW CAN MOOSE SLEEP ON THE COUCH IN THIS HEAT?

HE'S NOT ON THE COUCH.

I WAS SO SURE I HAD YOU BEATEN, BATMAN!

SURE, BATMAN!

OH, ER... IS IT ALL RIGHT IF I USE YOUR PHONE, CAT WOMAN?

Solo Art Exhibit To Open July 10

A solo exhibition of recent paintings by a former Iowa City woman, whose earlier works can still be seen in many Iowa public buildings and homes, will open July 10 in the Main Gallery of the University Art Building.

Mildred Peizer Lynch will be honored at the opening of her exhibition from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the gallery on that date. Now a resident of Orlando, Fla., Mrs. Lynch is studying painting during the summer session at the School of Art.

Including some 30 oil paintings, one watercolor and one drawing, the exhibition will be open to the public through July 31. Gallery hours will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays and from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sundays.

Many of the works in the show, all of which Mrs. Lynch has completed in the last year, are based on sketches which she made during travel to Europe and the Orient from 1962 through 1965. Among titles of oil paintings to be shown are "Village Near the Sea — Japan," "Evening, Hong Kong," "Madrid, Old City," "In a China Harbor," "Village in Spain," "Old Chicago, a Memory" and "Yokohama Evening."

Many of the works are semi-abstract, presenting a marked contrast to Mrs. Lynch's earlier, more representational murals and floral paintings. The exhibition includes a number of landscapes and several paintings which have captured fleeting impressions of figure. Several works which are completely non-objective are in brilliant colors.

A native of Wisconsin, Mrs. Lynch grew up in Montana, where she attended Montana State Normal College. She later studied at the Pratt Institute, the Art Students League, Columbia University, Iowa and the University of Wyoming.

She did much of her painting during the 1940's in a studio which she had built from stone quarried in the Amana Colonies. It stood on a hill overlooking the Iowa River north of Iowa City.

A number of large murals which Mrs. Lynch completed during the 1930's are still on display in Iowa. She received commissions to paint eight murals for the Jefferson Hotel featuring early Iowa scenes, a single large mural titled "Symphony of Iowa" for the Iowa City Press-Citizen, and a mural for the postoffice at Waverly. The Jefferson Hotel murals were reconitioned recently at the University School of Art.

Mrs. Lynch also served as chairman of activities planned in celebration of Iowa City's centennial.

Also during this period, she designed and published historical maps for the cities of Dubuque and Burlington and one of the state titled "Iowa, Prairie Chronicles in Pictures." Many Iowa libraries still have copies of the historical map of Iowa.

During the 1940's, Mrs. Lynch painted portraits of a number of prominent Iowans, including the late Dean Carl Seashore and the late Dean Emil Boerner, and completed a series of paintings of American churches and cathedrals, 50 of which traveled in special exhibits. The series was titled "Where Americans Worship."

Suharto Gains New Powers From Sukarno

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The Indonesian Congress stripped President Sukarno of authority to name Cabinet members Tuesday, possibly marking the leader's final eclipse. The army was alert to block any pro-Sukarno move.

The Congress, the nation's highest legal authority, also took away Sukarno's titles of president for life and Great Leader of the Revolution.

It granted broad new powers to the army strongman, Lt. Gen. Suharto, and declared Suharto would be acting president if Sukarno, 65, left the country or were unable to perform his duties.

It was clear Sukarno would be no more than a figurehead president, if the congressional decisions can be carried out by Suharto and the civilian-military regime now in control of this nation of 3,000 islands and 105 million people.

Sukarno has been ruler of Indonesia since independence from the Netherlands was proclaimed in 1945.

To forestall any move by Sukarno or his followers to upset the rulings, about 80,000 troops were moved into position around Jakarta Monday.

Beck Questions Fund Use As Students Hear Johnson

DES MOINES (AP) — A candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination demanded Tuesday that the Democrats investigate reports that federal anti-poverty funds were used to bring some Job Corps students here last week to hear President Johnson speak.

Robert K. Beck of Centerville said if the report is true, "it would appear to be a clear violation of the use of federal funds for political purposes."

Beck said he understood a busload of Job Corps students from "a nearby college" were brought to Des Moines last Thursday and given seats in the balcony to hear Johnson speak at a $100-a-plate Democratic fund raising dinner.

Balcony tickets were free, but most were given to dinner ticket buyers for their friends.

"In view of the fact that the meeting was not open to the public, the youngsters who were given the tickets must have received them from a political source," said the GOP candidate.

The State Office of Economic Opportunity said the only Job

Corps center in Iowa is the recently opened one for girls at Clinton. An OEO spokesman called the charge "almost inconceivable" and said they knew nothing about it.

Similar responses came from the governor's office and Democratic headquarters.

A spokesman for the Upward Bound program at Central College in Pella, however, confirmed that some 80 area high school pupils and counselors made the Des Moines trip to hear the President.

Mrs. Barbara Dieleman, director of the program, called it a routine part of the anti-poverty program's "social studies enrichment" course and said they would have gone regardless of which party was staging the affair or the politics of the President.

"In many instances the students would not get to see a President give a live address," she said.

Mrs. Dieleman estimated federal cost of the bus trip at $22 and said only transportation was involved. She added a member of the Central staff obtained the balcony tickets through Democratic headquarters.

Being carried on at several Iowa colleges and universities, the Upward Bound program is designed to encourage high school sophomores and juniors to finish school and continue with higher education.

Britain Suspends Current Talks With Rhodesia

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson announced yesterday temporary suspension of Britain's search for a Rhodesia compromise and said any final settlement must be acceptable not only to all Rhodesians but internationally.

Conservative opposition leader Edward Heath immediately challenged Wilson to acknowledge that he had laid down a new condition for a settlement by insisting on "Rhodesia's acceptance in international society."

Until now the British have insisted a Rhodesia solution must embody six defined principles. These include a guaranteed advance toward African majority rule and acceptance by the whole Rhodesian people of the final agreement. These demands prompted Rhodesia to declare its independence of Britain last November.

Irish Teenager Had No Intention To Harm Queen

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A 17-year-old apprentice plumber told police Tuesday "I had no intention of harming anyone" when he dropped a 12-pound concrete block on the car of Queen Elizabeth II.

The apprentice, John Francis Morgan, was arraigned along with Iris Carruthers, 44, a chambermaid, who was accused of throwing a beer bottle at the queen's car.

The incidents occurred Monday as the queen and Prince Philip rode through Belfast on their state visit. The block, dropped from a fourth-story window, dented the hood and radiator of their Rolls-Royce. A few feet farther and it would have smashed the glass canopy over the royal couple.

Morgan, a light, brown-haired youth, seemed unconcerned by the gravity of the charge he faced.

He was said to have stated when arrested by police to save him from an angry mob: "I just did it for a protest."

Miss Carruthers ran out of a hotel and threw a beer bottle at the wheels of the royal car. She is a small gray-haired woman, wearing spectacles. She seemed near tears during a few minutes in court.
