Vietnamese Fight Hard In Mekong Delta Area

155 Viet Cong Reported Killed

SAIGON (AP) — Strong elements of the elite Vietnamese 7th Division destroyed one of the main Viet Cong medical and arms depots in the Mekong Delta in a massive attack Wednesday, a government spokesman said Thursday.

More than 155 enemy troops were reported killed in the heavy fighting that lasted through the day.

The battle was part of the increased Vietnamese action in the delta, during which heavy blows have been dealt the enemy.

In the war, U.S. jet pilots were disclosed to have zipped safely Tuesday through a Communist missile barrage that one pilot said had looked like a Fourth of July fireworks display. The jets blasted four missile sites and two oil depots between Hanoi and Red China's frontier.

106 Raids Made

The action occurred during a record high number of 106 raiding missions on North Viet Nam.

The loot seized in the delta was among the most important ever taken from the Viet Cong there.

Aside from arms, ammunition and field equipment, more than three tons of medical supplies were taken from the large and well-concealed Viet Cong depot — long a secret site — at Thach Thoi in Kien Hoa Province on the South China Sea about 80 miles south of Saigon.

The 7th Division is considered one of the best in Viet Nam's army.

Losses Light

The enemy force's size was not estimated.

Vietnamese losses were described as light, the spokesman said.

The loss of the depot and the capture of its large stores was a strong blow at Viet Cong activities in the southeastern delta, the spokesman said. He added that the depot had been the Viet Cong's main supply sources not only for medical stores but for arms and ammunition as well, in the area.

Tuesday a Vietnamese regiment of about 3,000 men engaged a large enemy force about 60 miles southwest of Saigon and killed 83 Viet Cong.

Weariness Developing

In another engagement Wednesday, Vietnamese troops said they killed 74 Viet Cong in the central coastal province of Binh Dinh.

A large enemy force is in the province, and both U.S. and Korean forces face the Viet Cong there.

U.S. Undersecretary of State George W. Ball said Wednesday that reports from Hanoi indicated a development of war-weariness among the North Vietnamese people.

Hall told a Washington news conference, however, there was no word of a political decision to seek a peaceful settlement and he did not want to create an overly optimistic picture.

Missiles Evaded

U.S. Air Force officers expressed pleasure at the way their planes — aided by secret electronic devices jamming the enemy's radar detection signals — had evaded the Soviet-built surface-to-air missiles known as SAMs that roared aloft in apparently record numbers over the Red River Valley. Pilots said some exploded more than a mile off target.

The American counter-missile system is "one of the most significant military advances of the war," a senior officer said.

While dodging the onslaught of the "flying telephone poles," Air Force planes teamed with Navy fighter-bombers to mount one of the heaviest raids of the 17-month-old war north of the border. They flew a combined total of 106 missions, a new high involving at least 212 planes. A spokesman said, however, it was not a record day for individual combat flights.

Sightings Inaccurate

There was speculation that North Viet Nam had wasted 16 or 17 missiles, against the previous high of 12 fired one day last March. U.S. headquarters worked to sort out pilots' records that earlier had added up to 27 or 29. A spokesman said these were not accurate and there may have been some duplicate sighting, with two or more pilots reporting on the same missile.

"It looked as if all the SAMs in North Viet Nam were concentrated along the Red River Valley," said one of the raiders, Capt. Frank D. Moruzzi, 30, of Agawam, Mass.

The missiles showed up from 50 to 115 miles northwest of Hanoi along that river, which flows from China across North Viet Nam to the Gulf of Tonkin.

Pilots reported that they had knocked out four of the missile sites. Pursuing a campaign that "President Johnson estimated Tuesday had destroyed 57 per cent of the North Viet Nam's petroleum storage facilities, they bombed two more fuel depots. The depots were situated 28 miles north and 33 miles northwest of Hanoi.

The raiding fighter-bombers also hammered at bridges, barracks, storage areas, aircraft sites and other installations in the southern part of the country.

Radio Hanoi, saying nothing about Tuesday's raids, declared four U.S. planes were shot down over North Viet Nam Wednesday. There was no confirmation in Saigon.

There was unusually heavy air action in the south in the 24-hour period up to dawn. American pilots flew 443 sorties and Vietnamese pilots flew 252 such single flights.

The Americans said they destroyed or damaged about 500 Viet Cong huts and fortifications and noted 55 secondary explosions, which usually means detonation of ammunition or fuel caches. Spotters said possibly 28 Viet Cong were killed.

Soviets Report Pilots Paraded Through Hanoi

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow radio reported that scores of captured American pilots were paraded through the main street of Hanoi on Wednesday night before thousands of angry North Vietnamese citizens shouting, "Down with U.S. imperialism."

A Soviet correspondent reported from the North Vietnamese capital that U.S. bombs killed women and children on the outskirts of the city in an air strike last Wednesday.

The United States has said the raid, and another on the outskirts of the port of Haiphong, hit oil depots and one or two civilians may have been killed. U.S. officials said no planes were lost in the attacks, but Hanoi claimed seven were downed.

Hanoi radio, monitored in Tokyo, also reported the parade of captive U.S. fliers. It did not say how many had been involved but said they had been taken under armed guard to a place where they would be interrogated.

In Washington, a Pentagon spokesman said his records showed there were 37 U.S. prisoners in North Viet Nam. He said they did not show how many were pilots. He said that of the 37 it was presumed that all 21 Air Force prisoners were air crewmen-pilots or navigators. But he had no idea which of the 2 Marines and 14 Army prisoners were pilots. There are no Navy prisoners, he said.

One or two of the pilots "tried to put on an arrogant air," the Hanoi broadcast said, "but in the face of the wrath and protests of the population, all of them marched docilely, their heads bent, their faces pale and sweating with fear."

"Angry people" stepped forward and shouted, "Down with the U.S. aggressors!"

Kansas City Firm Contracted To Do 1969 Freeway

A contract for the proposed Iowa City-Cedar Rapids Freeway was made Wednesday with a Kansas City engineering firm, the State Highway Commission announced.

The $306,000 contract with Howard, Needles, Tammen and Bergendoff covers the preliminary plans for a 17.3 miles of expressway, to be built between Interstate 80 and the proposed Cedar Valley Expressway at the south edge of Cedar Rapids. Total cost of the segment is estimated at $10 million.

The road is scheduled to open in the fall of 1969.

No action was taken by the commission, however, on the Iowa City Expressway, proposed to run from the Interstate 80 interchange south and east into Iowa City.

Trade Talks Spark Violence

see Picture on Page 4 — Ed's Note. — KYOTO, Japan (AP) — The United States said Thursday it opposed long-term credits for trade with Communist countries but was reviewing nonstrategic trade with the Soviet bloc.

The statement came in a communique at the end of a high-level U.S. - Japan conference that has touched off violent anti-American demonstrations by leftist students.

In its part of the joint communique, Japan said it intended to develop trade with Communist countries, including Red China, "on the basis of the principle of separating the political and economic aspects of Japan's relations with them."

tion of the fifth annual joint U.S.-Japan Committee on Trade and Economic Affairs, the communique "avoided" mention of political problems discussed at the sessions.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Foreign Minister Etsusaburo Shina were reported in disagreement over Viet Nam and China. Under pressure from some elements of Japanese public opinion, Shina reportedly urged U.S. moderation in Viet Nam. The Japanese also favored closer contacts with Peking.

Leftist students attacked police Wednesday night with big rocks and concrete chunks ripped from culverts near Rusk's hotel, climaxing an anti-American demonstration.

Rusk had just met with Foreign Minister Etsusaburo Shina of Japan, telling him that North Viet Nam is beginning to feel the military pressure and is no longer sure of victory.

It is doubtful if Rusk saw or knew of the melee, in which six policemen and at least 10 students were injured. Seven students were arrested.

The students were from the Zengakuren organization, a far left outfit whose stormy street demonstrations against the U.S.-Japan mutual security treaty forced President Eisenhower to cancel a visit to Japan in 1960.

Police To Patrol Des Moines Park

DES MOINES (AP) — Police planned to patrol a near north side Des Moines park in force Wednesday night in hopes of avoiding a third straight night of troubles with young Negroes.

Police Chief Vear V. Douglas announced plans for beefed-up patrols of the area in and around Good Park after conferring with other law enforcement officials and several Negro leaders.

Several hundred Negro youths clashed with police Monday and Tuesday nights, throwing bricks, bottles and barricading a street when officers tried to clear them from the area.

Body Recovered In Iowa River

The body of Gene Laverne Garrison, 32, Cedar Rapids, was recovered from the Iowa River near Coralville about 9 a.m. Wednesday.

A patrol boat discovered the body floating 300 feet north of the Coralville power plant, about a mile from where Garrison had left a stalled motor boat Saturday. Three companions who had remained in the boat reported Garrison missing after he attempted to swim ashore after the motor had stopped.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Watts and Soll Funeral Home, Murray, Iowa.

Water Rules Listed Here

Swimming and boating accidents are responsible for the majority of the annual drownings in the United States, Gerald Buxton Jr., water safety chairman of the John County Red Cross Chapter, said Wednesday.

Buxton said that 6,700 persons were drowned in 1964.

"By exercising proper care, many of these fatalities could have been avoided," he said.

The Associated Press reported that approximately 250 persons died in water-related mishaps over the last Fourth of July weekend.

Buxton listed these 10 safety precautions for swimmers and boaters:

- Learn to swim. If you can swim a little, learn to swim better.
- Always swim with a companion, never swim alone. For long distance swimming, have someone accompany you in a boat.
- Swim in a safe place. The presence of lifeguards usually indicates the area is safe for swimming.
- Before diving, make sure the water is deep enough and there are no hidden objects beneath the surface.
- If you have not gone swimming since last summer, take it easy. Recognize your limitations and don't try to go beyond them.
- Wait at least an hour after eating before going into the water. Do not swim if you are overheated or overtired.
- Don't depend on a tube or inflated toy to hold you up. They can slip away from you.
- Watch your step. Walk, don't run, around pool decks.
- Try to remain calm in case of trouble in the water. Assume a face-up floating position. Keep your hands under water and slowly move your hands and feet.
- If your boat capsizes, don't swim away from it. Most small craft will float, even when filled with water.

—Say One Has To Be Negro To See Problem—

Rust Students Discuss Civil Rights Issue

By DEANNE NEUMAN Staff Writer

"To see the real problem, you just have to be a Negro," said John Johnson, Rust College student from Harrisburg, Miss., in discussing the civil rights issue.

Johnson and five other Rust students, from Mississippi, Lora Batts of Lamar, Lawrence Malone, of Waterford, George T. Mitchell, of Louisville, and Roy Nunnaley, of Holly Springs, answered questions about the race problem in the South and particularly in Mississippi for The Daily Iowan this week.

Mitchell said that the 1964 Civil Rights bill did have a tremendous effect, but that "we're taking the bill in the wrong sense if we think it will open all doors."

Social Atmosphere Changed

The students agreed that the bill had perhaps the greatest im-act in the area of public accommodations, but Johnson stated that even that section was not being tested enough.

Another noticeable change since the bill's passage is in the social atmosphere, according to Mitchell. He said that formerly the usual form of address had been "Boy" or just "Nigger," but that whites were now beginning to show more courtesy in the titles they used, and he speculated that the change was largely due to school integration.

Miss Batts said that she didn't see this change, however. She explained that in her hometown whites and Negroes were together in public places now, but that they still did not really mix socially.

Prices Higher

As an example of this still-present discrimination, Miss Batts said that although Negroes were not allowed in some white restaurants, they were given different menus with prices as much as two times higher.

Describing other instances of discrimination, the students mentioned being denied use of public restrooms, having peanuts tossed at them by whites while dining at a restaurant, and a case of a Negro senatorial candidate's being refused the right to speak in front of the Holly Springs, Miss. courthouse.

Several of the students said that there was a difference in the treatment they received depending on the size of the city. Mitchell said that there was more mixing in larger cities, and more job opportunities there because a larger number of businesses were owned by Negroes.

This statement brought up the point that because of the lack of Negro businesses in most parts of Mississippi, an economic boycott would have little beneficial effect, as the Negroes would be unable to survive.

Marches Effective

Commenting on other courses of action in the drive for equality, Nunnaley said, "Freedom marches are effective because they gather more support for our cause. They show the public that we are still being discriminated against regardless of legislation."

Johnson expressed concern over the increasing violence associated with the marches and other civil rights incidents.

This increasing emphasis on militancy by some organizations has caused friction between groups with different lines. All of these organizations are there to help, however, and each plays its own role, he said.

'Black Power'

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), for instance, has a long history of helping in the area of finance, while Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), plays its part in contacting the rural people personally, he said.

The students agreed that there was much confusion over the recently introduced term "Black Power."

"It is the means of attaining freedom, and not really a power structure," said Malone. "Protests and marches are good, but we need political power, too."

Nunnaley commented that some Negroes did not vote because they did not think it would do any good. He said that the idea of Black Power would make them feel more effective.

"Black Power to me means Negroes making laws to favor just them," explained Miss Montgomery. She added that bloc voting by Negroes could show power, but that this was not necessary to have equal laws.

"This is what we have accused the whites of doing and we would be hypocrites if we did it ourselves," she said.

Mitchell said that he did not think Black Power was the seizing of control by Negroes, but rather "a unity plea of self-determination within an area to get us to see what we are."

Education Important

When asked what he felt he could contribute to the civil rights cause as a young Negro, Malone said that the best thing to do would be to become better edu-

ANNA MAE WEEMS

Rights Leader Says Waterloo Has Problem

Negroes need to put an end to discrimination in Waterloo as much as anywhere in the South, Mrs. Anna Mae Weems, civil rights leader there, told Friends of the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) Wednesday night.

Mrs. Weems, active in civil rights in Waterloo for the past 16 years and former president of the Waterloo branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), described the plight of Negroes in Waterloo in their efforts to obtain equal opportunities.

Waterloo, with a Negro population of 8,000 out of a total population of 85,000 was the scene of racial demonstrations earlier this summer. The demonstrations followed the death of Eddie Sallis, who was arrested there and found dead hanging in his jail cell June 1.

Investigation Requested

Mrs. Weems and others hold that circumstances surrounding the death cast doubt that it was really a suicide, and they have requested a full investigation.

The incident led to the formation of an Equal Opportunities Commission to petition the city for demands in the areas of housing, employment, and education.

Mrs. Weems spoke about particular instances of discrimination against Negroes in Waterloo and her efforts to better the situation against what she called "the white power structure."

Application Denied

She also told of her application for the position of director of the Waterloo Human Rights Commission, a position she said was being denied her because of the activity she has stirred up in the past concerning racial discrimination.

"The Human Rights Commission hasn't been at all effective," said Mrs. Weems. She said that she felt qualified to serve because of her long experience with civil rights.

"I know every Negro in Waterloo. I make it a point to," she said.

Mass meetings are being planned to arouse support for the demands made of city officials, and Mrs. Weems said the help of any SNCC members from the University would be of great value.

Second try slows 'Stagecoach'

By NICK MEYER
for The Iowan

The first thing that rubbed me the wrong way about the remake of "Stagecoach" was the tasteless advertisement that began: "We believe in good recipes," and then proceeded to reduce John Ford's masterpiece as written for the screen by Dudley Nichols, to the level of a "good recipe." No matter what the quality of the ingredients, if only mixed in the proper proportions, it would inevitably produce a masterpiece again and again.

Certainly Martin Rackin, the producer, and Gordon Douglas, the director, ought to have known that great art (they refer to their film as a "classic"), is never the result of a formula. At any rate, they have disproved their own offensive prediction.

Movie Not Distinguished

"Stagecoach" is not a bad western, but it is by no means a particularly distinguished one. It comes nowhere near being the creation of John Ford's. For those unfamiliar with either film, let it be known that "Stagecoach" is the story of nine born losers, all thrown together by chance on the same stagecoach, and that same stagecoach is pursued on its journey by the fates in the form of savage Indians. Between the murderous redskins and the conflicting personalities of the passengers, emerges the drama.

The losers include an alcoholic doctor, played rather well by Bing Crosby, except that he chooses to surrender the pathos implicit in his character for pure comedy; a nervous embezzler, improbably delineated by Bob Cummings; a P. with an H. G. ("Prostitute With a Heart of Gold"), nicely, but familiarly executed by gorgeous Ann Margaret; an innocent gun-slinger (John Wayne in the original), played in a curiously imitative fashion by Alex Cord, who was clearly cast because of certain peculiar physical resemblances to Wayne.

Both possess ruggedly chiseled features, huge bodies, and the uncommon knack of looking as though they could say a lot more if they chose, but prefer to carry their opinions and emotions somewhat below the surface — men who have some sort of secret. The unfortunate difference is that no one can outplay Wayne at this type of role. Wayne has perfected it.

With all these superficial similarities, Alex Cord comes off as a boy, where Wayne was definitely all man. Cord's face — rugged as it is — is just a shade too pretty when compared with Wayne's heroic mug. Even the flap-button Wayne-style Western shirt that Cord is given does not quite bridge the gap, but rated with the rest, Cord pulls his own weight with competence, if not originality.

Characters Described

The above-mentioned "rest" includes Red Buttons as a frantically timid liquor salesman, continually mistaken for a parson, and a pregnant army wife, wondrously played by Stephanie Powers. There's a lonely, handsome, one-time Southern Gentleman, now destitute of proper genteel surroundings in the aftermath of the Civil War, overacted (as usual) by Michael Connors, who looks too much like Rory Calhoun for his own good; a poverty-stricken marshall, excellently played by Van Heflin, and a talkative stagecoach driver played in typical fashion by Slim Pickens.

As a unit they perform erratically, and with a tendency to overact under Gordon Douglas's unimaginative direction. The film is poorly paced, having far too little to do with actual travel in the stagecoach, and seemingly too willfully diverted to various stops along the way, during one of which Stephanie Powers has her baby.

The one sequence of real excitement is their sole encounter with marauding Indians, for which we have to thank not director Douglas, but second unit man Ray Kellogg. Kellogg's five minute, fast cut Indian chase is a brief but genuine thriller, and easily the high point of the film.

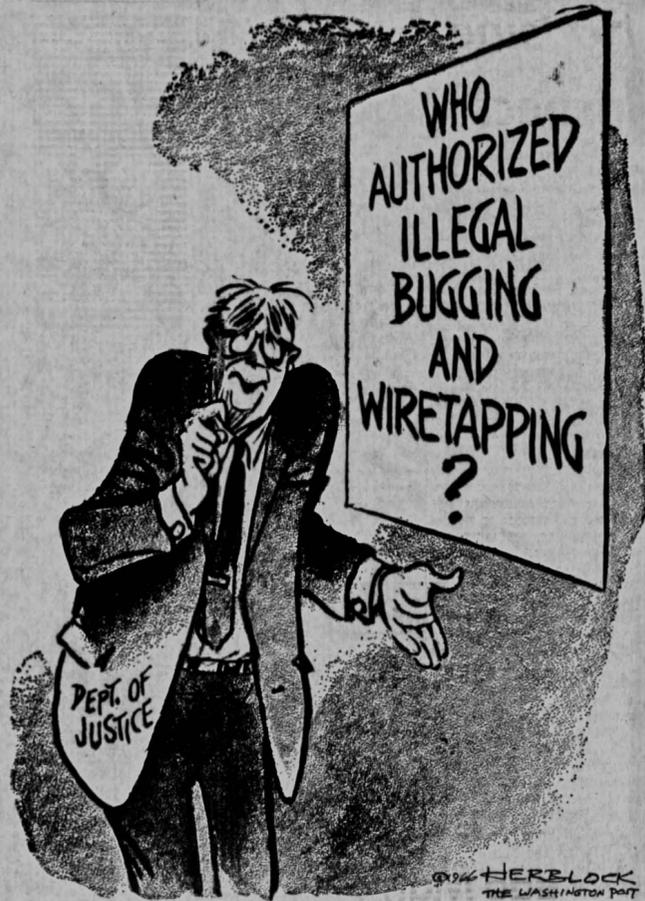

Assistant Outdoor Director

The second unit man is not supposed to outshine the director, although it seems to happen all too often. (Eg: Yakima Canute's chariot race in "Ben-Hur," 1959, was easily the best sequence in THAT film.)

"Stagecoach" is never really boring. Enough of the celebrated "recipe" sees to that. But it is by no stretch of the imagination a work of art, much less a great one. The quality of the ingredients is its undoing. The pacing, the self-consciousness of the imitation, and the inferiority of the cast keeps it from being a better film.

Let us hope its relative failure teaches Messrs. Rackin and Douglas a lesson, although the worst part of the whole thing is that these scoundrels have bought up the rights to the original "Stagecoach" so that we may be safely sure it will never be shown publicly again.

That is the most unforgivable crime of his whole copy-cat venture.

Hoboken found hard to civilize

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — Thailand has just announced that she will send Peace Corps volunteers to the United States as a reciprocal gesture for American Peace Corps volunteers dispatched to Thailand.

The announcement said that several projects, including the teaching of the Thai language to Americans, would be worked out.

No one in his wildest dreams ever thought that there would be this kind of backlash to the Peace Corps. While the U.S. has been very eager to send Peace Corps volunteers abroad, we're not too certain it's such a great idea to have other countries send Peace Corps volunteers to the United States.

I can just see the first Thai Peace Corps volunteer, after spending two years in the United States, returning to Thailand and being interviewed by a newscaster on Bangkok television.

"We have in our studio Mr. Yok Bin Lin, who has just returned after serving two years in the United States as a Peace Corps volunteer. Mr. Lin, how was it over there?"

"I had a wonderful time and I think I taught them a lot. The village where I worked in New Jersey was called Hoboken. By our standards it was very primitive, but the people were simple and friendly and willing to learn."

"Was it dangerous, Mr. Lin?"

"Well, you couldn't go out at night, but in the daytime it was perfectly safe to wander in most areas."

"Where did you live?"

"As you know, Thai Peace Corps volunteers are trained to live with the natives, so I moved into an urban housing development. It was hard at first, because the plumbing kept me awake at night, but after a while I got used to it."

"Did you eat the native food?"

"I tried to, but it wasn't easy. The Hoboken people refuse to raise any food themselves and

Reader urges new laws for cycles

To the Editor:

While reading my weekly hometown newspaper recently, I came across an article which tells of a new Oregon law for the regulation of the operation and rent of motorcycles.

The law requires operators of two-wheeled vehicles to be fully licensed drivers, as well as demonstrate ability to ride a cycle for the examiners. At the same time, it will be illegal to rent, lease or otherwise furnish a motorcycle to anyone who has not first displayed a license with a motorcycle endorsement.

The Oregon lawmakers, however, left out a major consideration in their bill, that of safety equipment. As was mentioned recently on this page of the Daily Iowan, motorcyclists should at least be required to wear crash helmets. (As a bicyclist I have often thought it would be nice to have one, but whoever heard of a bicyclist wearing a crash helmet?)

At the same time the public and law enforcement agencies are becoming alarmed at the rapidly increasing number of serious motorcycle accidents, the public, at least, is also becoming enraged about the excessive noise produced by those little machines. The funny thing about this aspect of motorcycling is that almost every city already has a law prohibiting excessive noise. In an age when the noise of city living is getting more and more obnoxious and unbearable, why is it that the Iowa City police force is so lax in the enforcement of this law?

they must buy it at supermarkets frozen and wrapped in cellophane."

"You must be joking?"

"No, I'm not. One of my first projects was to try to teach the natives how to grow their own vegetables so they wouldn't have to spend money, but they were too set in their ways."

"What did you find was the Americans' biggest problem?"

"They're full of fears. It's very hard to work with the people because, in the world they live in, they've lived with fear so long."

"What do you think the origin of the fear is?"

"It starts with their young, who are told at a very early age that they have had breath, that they perspire too much, that they will probably get cavities, that they are susceptible to headaches, neuralgia, and stomach aches. By the time the young grow up, they're frightened of everything."

"What about the family structure?"

"There is not too much to speak of. The children go off when they're quite young and have a great hostility towards their elders. The husbands and wives don't get along too well either, so there is quite a bit of friction right inside the family."

"Looking back over the two years, Mr. Lin, what do you consider was the greatest contribution you made?"

"I got everyone in Hoboken to practice birth control."

'Assembly line' frogs invented

British scientists have made a discovery which, theoretically could be used to create an endless series of living copies of everything from champion race horses and prize bulls to human beings. The Insider's Newsletter reported today.

According to the report, the researchers have succeeded in raising frogs to full maturity from unfertilized eggs. In the process, the nucleus of an egg was destroyed by radiation and replaced by a nucleus from the intestinal cell of a tadpole and the resulting frogs are exact duplicates of the "parent" tadpole.

Dr. J. B. Gurdon, who supervised the frog experiments, says he expects that surgical techniques sophisticated enough to be used on mammalian cells will be available in "the next 10 to 20 years."

BEETLE BAILEY

By Mort Walker

Help wanted

THE UNIVERSITY HAS always been pretty thorough in its role as substitute parent when it comes to watching out for the morals of its students. But when it comes to something students want looked after, like their pocketbooks, the University doesn't help at all.

The thing students coming to college for the first time really need adjusting to most is the handling of their own finances, but in the tons of literature poured on the incoming student, handling money is the one phase of adjustment that is rarely touched upon.

What makes this problem especially bad is the fact that local merchants are aware of it, and too many of them are using this financial naivety to their own advantage.

We would hardly expect the University to watch over each student's spending money. But we do think it would save students some frustration, embarrassment and money if the University would make some mention of sensible money handling practices in the literature it sends out to new students, and also mention a few of the things to look out for in Iowa City.

If the University is to continue in its substitute parent role, then it ought to direct at least some of its efforts toward what is often a very serious problem for many students. In the past, this aspect of the student's welfare has been ignored. The University had enough trouble watching over its own finances, and has even been going a bit too far in its dealings with students; the fine print on the housing contracts is a prime example.

We suspect that students would sign their dorm contracts far less willingly if they were aware of just how binding and limiting the contracts are. It should be made clear to the student just what he is committing himself to before a housing contract is accepted.

Besides giving new students some warnings about handling their funds, the University might use its influence to put some pressure on the businesses that are taking advantage of students. While only a small percentage of the local businesses engage in unethical practices, both students and the large number of visitors that Iowa City sees suffer. Automobile repairs at the wrong place can be disastrous to someone who doesn't know his way around cars or Iowa City.

Students who have always let their parents handle these sort of things just don't know what to look out for, and it's difficult to take action against the firms who take advantage of this. The Iowa City Chamber of Commerce is the only agency in town now that deals with unethical business practices, but the solidarity of the local merchants prevents the Chamber of Commerce from being very effective, except against new-comers who set up their con rackets in Iowa City.

There is no local office of the Better Business Bureau, and one is needed. It is only when such an organization is able to keep track of unethical businessmen, and then put the necessary pressures on them so that they reform, that the problem can be dealt with satisfactorily.

Until there is an effective weapon against these firms, whether it comes from the city or the University, the University should at least accept the responsibility of warning students about such things, and encourage such things as discount plans (which local businessmen have already turned down once) and legal assistance from law students for students who have gotten themselves into a financial jam or who have gotten gyped.

Legal assistance and discount plans have worked out well at a number of other Universities. It is hoped that student leaders and administrators will look into such plans to protect students in the one area where they really can use and even want protection.

Housing Safer, Inspector Says

Houses and apartments in Iowa City are rapidly becoming safer and more inhabitable, according to Dennis L. Platteter, city housing inspector.

"Since we began our inspections this spring," Platteter said Wednesday, "Iowa City residential property owners have been very cooperative in correcting defects we have pointed out."

Platteter and the eight inspectors he supervises have been performing inspections throughout residential areas. These are in compliance with the new city ordinance requiring owners of dwelling units to meet certain standards.

"In carrying out inspections," Platteter said, "we take into consideration such factors as fire and structural hazards as well as heating, lighting, ventilation and sanitation devices."

All Units Inspected
July 1 was the tentative deadline for all owners of dwelling units to apply for inspections.

"When we go through the residential areas, we find some people who haven't filed applications," Platteter explained. "In these cases, we inspect the dwelling units and set a date for correction of defects."

All rental units must be inspected, according to Platteter. When defects are corrected, owners of family living units and duplexes receive certificates of inspection and owners of multiple dwelling units receive, in addition to certificates, operating permits.

60 Per Cent Completed
Last winter, when plans for the inspections began, housing inspectors said they hoped to have two-thirds of all units inspected by July 1. Today, with about 60 per cent of all units — or 6000 units — completed, they are not far from the original goal.

Platteter said he hoped to have all initial inspections completed by September 1. Plans have been made to re-inspect all units every two years.

Most frequently, Platteter and his crew find small defects in the units they check. Common defects in this category include missing handrails on stairways and improper relief valves on water heaters.

Deadlines Set
"Almost all multiple dwelling units have at least one major defect," Platteter said. "Frequently we find that these units don't have secondary exits or proper floor separation."

"While we find many defects, we find the great majority of people willing and even eager to correct these defects."

Platteter explained that deadlines set for repairs varied with the amount of work to be done.

"Naturally we give more time to the person who must install an exit in a unit than we give to the person who requires a water heater relief valve."

Poland Starts Stamp Hassle About Eagle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Poland has threatened to refuse all U.S. mail bearing a new U.S. 5-cent postage stamp honoring 1000 years of Christianity in Poland, a government source said Wednesday.

Thus what was intended as a gesture of good will seems to be developing into a minor diplomatic incident as the scheduled July 30 issuance ceremony draws near.

At the heart of the controversy is a rather scrawny looking eagle, the traditional symbol of Poland. It appears on the stamp on white, wearing a crown, and surmounted by a simple Christian cross.

The highly reliable government source said the Poles, through their Washington embassy, protested that the eagle is the pre-World War II eagle instead of the Communist post-war eagle.

The only apparent difference between the two birds is that the Communist eagle does not wear a crown, as did the pre-war eagle. But the source said the Polish government contended it objected neither to the crown nor to the cross, but to the bird itself.

Milwaukee artist Edmund D. Lewandowski, who designed the stamp, said his drawing was intended to depict neither the pre-war nor the post-war eagle, but was supposed to be a stylized version of the traditional Polish symbol.

Volkswagens Are Recalled For Defects

NEW YORK (AP) — More than half a million Volkswagen automobiles throughout the world are being recalled by local dealers for inspection of possible defects, the manufacturer announced Wednesday.

About 480,000 of the beetle-shaped sedans are being called back for inspection of front-axle ball-joint assemblies, said a spokesman for the company in Wolfsburg, Germany. Involved are sedans made between Aug. 1, 1965 and January of this year.

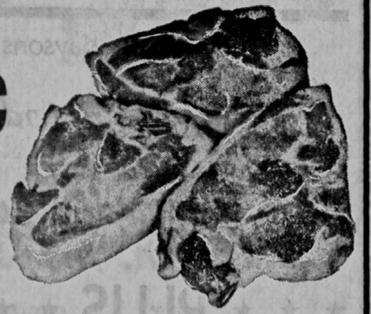

In addition, 22,000 square-back sedans, resembling the larger American-type station wagon, are being recalled for examination of rear luggage-compartment lids. The Wolfsburg spokesman said these cars had been made especially for export to the United States.

The American Importer, Volkswagen of America, Inc., Englewood Cliffs, N.J., said 175,000 sedans and Karmann-Ghias, a sports model, were included in the U.S. recalls in addition to the squarebacks.

Chicago Man Charged In Sex Extortion Case

CHICAGO (AP) — A former Chicago policeman, reputed to be a key member of a multimillion-dollar sex extortion ring, waived a preliminary hearing Wednesday and was ordered held for removal to the U.S. District Court in New York.

John J. Pyne, 52, appeared before U.S. Commissioner C. S. Bentley Pike on a charge of interstate racketeering. Pyne was arrested June 24 by FBI agents at his Southwest Side home after a bench warrant had been issued by the U.S. District Court in New York following the return of an indictment by a federal grand jury the previous day.

Pyne now is free on $50,000 bond. A warrant for his arrest was issued in New York after he failed to appear to answer an indictment in a national probe into alleged extortion from homosexuals. The indictment specifically charged Pyne with violating the law in several states by conspiring to travel in interstate commerce to promote, establish and carry out extortion.

Treasury Says Coin Shortage Is Now Ended

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department officially declared the nation's coin shortage ended Wednesday after a crash program of mining.

It said that beginning Aug. 1 all coins would be minted with a 1966 date until next Jan. 1, when the annual dating of coins with the year at hand would be resumed.

Ast. Secretary of the Treasury Robert A. Wallace said sufficient inventories of coins had been built up in the Federal Reserve Banks, and the mint to permit dropping the emergency coin date juggling which had been put into effect to stem the shortage last year.

Wallace outlined the Treasury position in a letter to Chairman Wright Patman, (D-Tex.), of the House Banking Committee, and Patman announced it Wednesday night.

Traditionally, U.S. coins have been dated with the year of their manufacture.

But as a device to lessen demand for coins by collectors during the shortage that developed in 1963 and 1964, the Treasury with congressional approval continued to use the 1964 date on all coins minted after the end of that year.

All new alloy coins made under last year's coinage act were dated 1965. The dates on pennies and nickels were changed from 1964 to 1965 late last year. Consequently, all coins now being minted bear the 1965 date. No silver dollars have been made since 1935.

Boy Found After Search Of 25 Hours

ELY, Nev. (AP) — A young Cedar Rapids boy was found safe Wednesday 25 hours after he was reported missing.

Gary Sheriff, 12, had spent most of the time in an abandoned house in Ely, the White Pine County sheriff's office said. Then, after seeing police cars go up and down the street in a search for him, he went to another house and told the occupants who he was.

Gary, wearing swim trunks and a red T-shirt, left the Ely swimming pool in anger over an unexplained incident not involving any member of his family, deputies said.

Gary and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Sheriff, are visiting relatives in nearby Ruth, Nev.

Natural Resources Council Favors Navigation Project

DES MOINES (AP) — Witnesses at a hearing before the Iowa Natural Resources Council Wednesday favored the proposed construction of navigation improvements on the Mississippi River near Fort Madison.

Othie McMurray, director of the commission, said no objections to the project appeared.

Fort Madison city officials, a member of the Lee County Board of Supervisors, and representatives of the Fort Madison Chamber of Commerce and the Chevron Co. all favored the proposal.

The plan calls for an access channel from the main Mississippi River channel to the Fort Madison-Port Lee industrial area south of the city at an estimated initial cost of $986,500.

The access channel would be 10,300 feet long, 200 feet wide at the bottom and have a depth of 9 feet below flat pool level.

The Chevron Co. Plans to build its own dock facilities on the access channel, and local interests would build public terminals and transfer facilities, to be maintained at local expense.

The Army Corps of Engineers said in a report to the National Resources Council that the project was economically justified and advisable.

It added the benefits would amount to about $2.20 for each dollar of expenditure.

The council after a hearing also agreed with the Corps of Engineers that a proposed flood control project on Duck Creek in Davenport would not be economically justified.

The engineers reported that benefits of the project would amount to only about 30 cents on each dollar of cost.

The council re-elected Dr. H. Garland Hershey of Iowa City as chairman. Also re-elected for one-year terms were Stanley L. Haynes of Mason City, vice chairman, and Louis P. Culver of Davenport, secretary.

Pitchers Announced For National League All-Stars

CINCINNATI — Six starting pitchers, headed by Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry of the San Francisco Giants, plus two relief experts, were named Wednesday to the National League pitching staff for the annual major league All-Star game.

The game against the American League All-Stars will be played in St. Louis' new Busch Stadium July 12.

Dodger Manager Walter Alton, who will direct the National League team, picked Jim Bunning of Philadelphia, Bob Gibson of St. Louis, Claude Raymond of Houston, Billy McCool of Cincinnati and Bob Veale of Pittsburgh in addition to Koufax, Marichal and Perry.

Earlier, Minnesota Twins Manager Sam Mele, who will direct the American League team, named Danny McLain of Detroit, Gary Bell and Sam McDowell of Cleveland, Steve Barber of Baltimore, Jim Kaat of Minnesota, Mel Stottlemyre of New York, Jim Hunter of Kansas City and Pete Richert of Washington to his hurling staff.

Unlike Alton, he did not name a single relief specialist. Going into Wednesday night's games, the National League staff has a 70-31 record. The top men are Perry at 12-1, Koufax at 15-3 and Marichal with 13-4.

Bunning is the leader in times named for an All-Star team — seven — but two of those were in the American League when he was with the Detroit Tigers. He has a 1-1 record in All-Star competition.

Koufax was picked for a sixth time. He pitched only one inning last year but was the winning pitcher. He is 1-0 in All-Star play.

The only pitching newcomers to All-Star competition will be Perry, whose record gives him the highest winning average in the majors among regular hurlers.

Marichal, who was the winning pitcher in 1962 and 1964, was named for the fifth time. He was the National League's starting hurler last year and allowed only one hit in three innings. His All-Star earned run average is 1.13.

Gibson, 11-1, was picked for a third time. He pitched the last two innings of last year's game and preserved the National League's one-run margin.

Nicklaus Ties For Lead As British Open Begins

MUIRFIELD, Scotland — Big Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, and Jimmy Hitchcock of England fired one-under-par 70s Wednesday and shared the first round lead in the 72-hole British Open Golf Championship.

Nicklaus, this year's Masters champion, scored 37-33. He was one over par for the first nine and two under for the back nine. Hitchcock had 36-34. He came close to taking the lead by himself but his putt for a birdie three on the 18th hit the hole and popped out.

Nicklaus and Hitchcock had a stroke lead on Doug Sanders, the colorful California pro, Tony Lema, 1964 winner from California, and Ronnie Shade, the Scottish amateur champion.

Nicklaus had four birdies, three bogeys and 11 pars. He birdied the 11th, 13th and 17th holes and pulled out of trouble on the 18th by sinking a 20-footer for a par four.

At 72 — one over par — were Kel Nagle of Australia, the 1960 Open champion; Gary Player of South Africa, who won his first big tournament here at Muirfield in the 1959 Open; Christy Greene of Ireland; Alex Caygill and Fred Boobyer of England; John Carter of Scotland, and Dave Thomas of Wales.

Arnold Palmer, two-time winner of the title from Latrobe, Pa., defending champion and five-time winner Peter Thomson of Australia, Australia's Bruce Devlin, and Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N.C., were two-over-par 73s.

Others in at 73 were Bobby Cole the 18-year-old South American who won the recent British amateur 19-year-old Peter Townsend of England, and England's Michael Bonallack and Peter Butler.

Freddie Haas of New Orleans, the new international seniors champion; Bob Charles, the 1963 winner from New Zealand, and Argentina's Roberto de Vincenzo were in the 74 group.

Palmer, Sanders and Lema all agreed on one theme: The shift of breeze from the west to the east completely changed the way every hole played, and lessons learned in practice rounds could be thrown away.

Nicklaus remained the 7-2 favorite to acquire the one championship that has eluded him in his career. Palmer is the second choice.

MENARD QUILTS
DES MOINES — Minnie Menard, 32, resigned Wednesday as coach of the Des Moines club in the International Hockey League, saying he may seek a job in another field.

Menard said he quit effective July 15 for "personal reasons" and indicated that he probably would leave Des Moines.

He was hired as player-coach when Des Moines joined the league in 1963 but later confined himself only to coaching.

"I'm doubtful at this time whether I'll remain in hockey," Menard said. He is a native of Timmins, Ontario.

Gymnastics Coach Named; Bailie Replaces Holzaepfel

Sam Bailie, 31, a national champion gymnast who is now gymnastics coach at the University of Arizona, Tucson, was named head gymnastics coach Wednesday at Iowa. Athletic Director Forest Evashevski announced.

Bailie, who earned two degrees at Iowa, succeeds his coach, Norman R. Holzaepfel, who has been named director of the University's Macbride Field Campus in addition to his teaching duties as an associate professor of physical education for men.

Holzaepfel, gymnastics coach at Iowa since 1948, coached Bailie to the national AAU flying rings championship in 1955, to the Big 10 side horse and flying rings championship in 1957, and to the Big 10 side horse championship in 1956.

Bailie entered coaching at the University of Arizona in 1960, the year he earned the master's degree at Iowa. His teams have won four straight championships in the Western Athletic Conference since 1962.

His 1965-1966 team compiled a dual-meet record of 15 wins and 2 losses and won 11th place in the National Collegiate Athletic Association championships.

Bailie, who once came within .5 of a point of winning the NCAA side horse title while wearing a full leg cast, scored 35 of the 50 points earned by the Iowa team in winning fourth place in the 1957 NCAA championships. He holds the Iowa three-year intercollegiate gymnastics competition record with 1,003 points.

DICK HOLZAEPFEL Heads Macbride Campus

SAM BAILIE New Gym Coach

Holzaepfel, who fielded teams that won 124 meets while losing 37, said Wednesday: "Sam is the finest man in the country for the job — certainly the one I recommended. I feel he is being left with the makeup of the finest freshman and varsity teams we have had at The University of Iowa."

The Macbride Field Campus which Holzaepfel will direct is a woods and stream area of 435 acres leased by the University from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. It is in the Coralville Reservoir area of the Iowa River ped for development into an arboretum and has been in use by classes in recreation leadership, camp management, ecology, and geology. The University Sailing Club boathouse is located there also.

Bailie will also teach the skills course and gymnastics in the physical education program for men. He was the organizer of the Western Gymnastics Clinic held annually at the University of Arizona, an event which in five years has grown to be the largest of its kind in the nation. Last year more than 700 coaches and gymnasts attended. He is also editor of the U.S. Gymnast magazine.

Bailie, who grew up in St. Petersburg, Fla., is married and has three children, Sam, Jr., 7, Steve, 5, and Sharon Jo, 3.

Holzaepfel earned degrees at the University of Michigan and Colorado State College. Prior to joining the Iowa faculty in 1948 he was coach and instructor at Manistee High School in Michigan and at the Milwaukee University School, and was an assistant professor at Colorado State College from 1946 to 1948. He will continue to teach anatomy and kinesiology, and first aid and athletic training.

In Big 10 competition, Holzaepfel's teams won second place three times, third place once, and fourth place eight times. In addition to Bailie, he coached six national champions in AAU and NCAA competition.

Daugherty Is Undecided On All-America Game Starters

ATLANTA — Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State said Wednesday the only way to choose starters for Saturday night's Coaches All-America football game is by flipping a coin.

"That's the way we will determine many of our starters," said Daugherty, coach of the East squad. "We have three good boys for most positions and there is no way to tell in a week which two are the best."

West Coach Tommy Prothro said he is having trouble deciding on some of his starters, too.

"I don't know whether Randy Johnson or Gary Lane will start at quarterback," Prothro said after the team's fifth workout for the nationally televised game.

Johnson, Texas A&I standout who has played in the Blue-Grey and Senior Bowl games, is considered the best passer, but Lane was a strong runner for Missouri and was a dangerous passer.

Senators Edge White Sox Twice

WASHINGTON — A wild throw by reliever Bob Locker led to two runs in the eighth inning, giving the Washington Senators a 3-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox and a sweep of their twin-night doubleheader Wednesday.

The Senators won the opener 4-3 behind Don Lock, who hit a two-run homer in the first inning and scored the winning run in the fourth.

The White Sox led the night-cap 2-1 and starter Joe Horlen was working on a five-hitter when Lock got the Senators going by drawing a walk.

Horlen was replaced by Locker, who picked up Ken McMullen's bunt and threw it into right field for a three-base error that let Lock score with the tying run.

Paul Casanova then doubled McMullen home with the tie-breaker.

Lock hammered his homer in the first inning of the opener as the Senators struck for three runs. Chicago tied the score in the fourth when Floyd Robinson hit a two-run homer.

Lock then opened the fourth inning with a single, moved up on McMullen's sacrifice and rode home on Ed Brinkman's two-out double.

Red Sox Whip Yankees Twice

NEW YORK — Carl Yastrzemski drove in three runs with a single and a homer as the Boston Red Sox completed a doubleheader sweep, beating the New York Yankees 5-4 in the second game Wednesday.

Dalton Jones' two-run pinch homer in the ninth inning gave the Red Sox a 5-3 win in the opener.

Yastrzemski singled Jose Tartabull home with the run that broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh inning of the nightcap. Tartabull had singled and stole second before Yastrzemski's hit.

The same combination had given the Red Sox an early 2-0 lead. Tartabull was on first in the third inning when Yastrzemski hit one into left center field and raced around the bases for an inside-the-park homer.

Jones' homer in the first game broke a 3-3 tie.

Twins 4, Indians 3

CLEVELAND — Tony Oliva and Bob Allison drove in two runs apiece Wednesday night, boosting the Minnesota Twins to a 4-3 victory over Cleveland. It was the Indians fifth straight loss.

Oliva rapped a tie-breaking two-run double in the eighth off reliever Dick Radatz, following a walk to Zoilo Versalles and a single by Ted Uhlaender.

Allison punched a 3-2 pitch off starter Sam McDowell over the center field fence after Rich Rollins singled in the second inning. It was Allison's second two-run homer in three days.

McDowell, named Wednesday to the American League All-Star pitching staff, struck out 11 before he was lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh, when the Indians rallied for two runs, tying the score.

Giants 3, Cards 2

SAN FRANCISCO — Willie Mays' 524th career homer lifted the San Francisco Giants to a 3-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday.

Mays' three-run shot erased a 2-0 Cardinal lead in the eighth inning. It was the 19th homer this season for Mays and left him 10 short of Jimmy Foxx, his next target in the all-time list of home run hitters. Foxx' 534 are second only to Babe Ruth, who had 714 homers.

Cardinal starter Tracy Stallard was working on a four-hitter with one out in the eighth when pinch hitter Len Gabrielson singled. Tito Fuenes followed with a single, knocking out Stallard.

Joe Hoerner came on to get pinch hitter Dick Dietz for the second out, but then Mays connected against the third Cardinal pitcher of the inning, Don Dennis.

Pirates 10, Cubs 5

CHICAGO — Roberto Clemente drove in five runs with a double and homer Wednesday, pacing the Pittsburgh Pirates to their 10th victory in the last 13 games, a 10-5 trouncing of the Chicago Cubs. Clemente doubled home two runs in the Pirates' three-run seventh and then lashed his 13th homer of the season with two mates aboard in the ninth. The five RBI gave Clemente 53 and tied him with Willie Stargell for the club leadership.

Mets 7, Phillies 5

PHILADELPHIA — Ed Kranepool knocked in three runs with a pair of doubles and Jack Hamilton turned in another clutch relief job Wednesday night, leading the New York Mets to a 7-5 victory over Philadelphia.

The Mets got a break in the sixth inning when Jim Bunning, who has beaten them 11 times in 12 decisions, was forced to leave when he pulled a groin muscle while covering first base. The Phillies led 3-2 at the time.

In the eighth, Hamilton, who has now saved eight games for the Mets in his last 11 appearances as a reliever, got into trouble, loading the bases on two singles and a walk, but he fanned Bob Vecker to end the inning.

THE LONE DISSENTING VOTE against a resolution to use Teamster funds to pay for Pres. James R. Hoffa's legal expenses was cast by Larry Thomas, one of more than 2,000 delegates to the Teamsters Union Convention. Hoffa faces a 13-year sentence for mail fraud and jury tampering. —AP Wirephoto

Teamsters To Pay Hoffa's Expenses

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Teamsters Union delegates approved Wednesday nearly $1 million spent on Pres. James R. Hoffa's criminal trials, gave him a blank check for future legal fees and authority to name his successor if he goes to prison.

Court action currently forbids use of Teamsters money to pay legal fees, according to a high Teamster official.

One lone delegate, Larry Thomas of Philadelphia, opposed approval of the resolution to use the union money for the legal fees, and there was scattered opposition to naming a general vice president to replace Hoffa if necessary.

But the overwhelming majority of some 2,000 delegates smothered the opposition, shouting through both resolutions in a standing vote.

About 25 delegates stood in opposition to giving Hoffa power on the spot to appoint his own successor, arguing it should be left up to the union's ruling 15-man executive board.

Three Dramas To Be Given By Workshop

Hoffa, facing sentences of 13 years in prison, has picked his old friend from Detroit, Vice Pres. Frank Fitzsimmons, to be named to the newly created post of general vice president in elections Thursday.

Hoffa is unopposed for a new five-year term as president, although he could soon go to jail if his appeals fail on jury tampering and mail fraud convictions.

In 1964, Hoffa quit using money from the union treasury for his huge legal expenses which the Labor Department said amounted to more than $500,000 over several years.

Four rebel Teamsters are currently suing the union, demanding repayment of money spent for legal fees for Hoffa and all other union officials.

Hoffa indicated Tuesday that he would not actually draw on the treasury for more legal fees until all legal questions were settled.

Tickets are now on sale for "Festival of Theatre," a presentation of three types of drama by high school students participating in the 35th annual Workshop in Speech and Dramatic Art.

The program will be given at 8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday in the Studio Theatre.

Tickets are available at the Union East Lobby Desk from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays and from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday. They are free to summer session students with identification cards and certificates of registration, and are $1 for others.

Included in the evening's entertainment will be an oral interpretation of an excerpt from A. A. Milne's "Winnie the Pooh;" "The Stronger," a dramatic monologue by Strindberg, and "A Kiss in Xanadu," a pantomime by Kaufman and Connelly. Students will perform between the main features.

Shirlee Dicker, A4, Iowa City, will direct "Winnie the Pooh," Betty Levens, G, West Liberty, "The Stronger," and Cathy Chandler Fane, A4, Des Moines, "A Kiss in Xanadu."

Fifteen of the 51 students currently attending the Workshop in Speech and Dramatic Art will appear in the "Festival of Theatre." The workshop, which began June 20 and will continue until July 15, includes such areas of speech study as discussion and debate, radio and television, and voice and speech development, as well as dramatic art.

Hubbard, Huit To Visit ROTC Summer Camp

M. L. Huit, dean of students, and Philip G. Hubbard, dean of academic affairs, will visit the 1966 Army ROTC Summer Camp at Fort Riley, Kan., Sunday and Monday.

Their trip is part of an institute for administrative educators from 35 colleges represented at the summer camp.

An informal gathering with 75 cadets representing the University will mark the beginning of the deans' visit. Hubbard and Huit will have an opportunity to talk with the cadets and find out how the University is doing in competition with the other colleges.

Monday morning the group of educators will be welcomed by Maj. Gen. George S. Eckhart, post commander. They will be presented with a formal itinerary and briefed about the cadets' training schedule.

The rest of the day will be spent observing various training exercises and combat problems. They will eat lunch in the field with the cadets.

A roundtable discussion will follow the day's tours. The educators will be able to discuss the camp's activities and comment on their observations. Fort Riley's officers will answer any questions the men might have.

A dinner for the representatives and a farewell speech by Eckhart will bring an end to the educators' visit.

The Fort Riley summer camp began June 25 and will continue until Aug. 6. The 35 ROTC departments represented at Fort Riley are under the jurisdiction of the 5th Army, whose headquarters is in Chicago.

Five instructors from the university's Department of Military Science are participating in Fort Riley's training program. They are: Maj. George V. Kmiotek, associate professor of military science; Capt. John H. Kirkwood, assistant professor of military science; Sgt. 1/C Norbert E. Martel, assistant instructor of military science; Staff Sergeant Joseph A. Tinoco, supply sergeant; and Staff Sergeant Martin Z. Schulte, assistant instructor of military science.

Last year the University took first place in combat competition at Fort Riley in the large school category.

Nursing Grads To Be Given Board Exams

Forty-five June graduates of the College of Nursing will be among those taking the state board examination for registered nurses in Des Moines on July 14 and 15. Two other June graduates will take the examination in October.

The examination is constructed by the American Nurses' Association and the National League for Nursing (NLN). Those who write test items are selected from all states on a rotating basis. The same examination is used throughout the United States and in some Canadian provinces, facilitating interstate licensure.

The Iowa Board of Nursing administers the test in Iowa. Candidates' answer sheets are sent to the NLN for machine-scoring, and statistical reports are sent to each state board of nursing. The board studies the results and determines the minimum passing score.

1,500 Invited To Celebrate U-High Golden Anniversary

A Golden Anniversary dinner for alumni and friends of University High School will be held July 16. More than 1,500 of 1,900 graduates and former staff members have been located and formally invited to the celebration.

The reunion dinner, at 6:30 p.m.

SDS MEETING TONIGHT—

Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) will meet at 8 tonight in the Union Ballroom. The purpose of the meeting will be to organize with Aid to Dependent Children mothers in Johnson County, schedule seminars for next fall and discuss "Black Power," the new militant Negro movement.

in the Union Ballroom, will commemorate the founding of U-High in 1916, when classes were first held in borrowed space in the basement of the Physics Building.

Among returning graduates will be Nicholas Johnson, of the class of 1952, a member of the Federal Communications Commission and a former U.S. Maritime administrator.

Johnson will deliver a University Summer Session Lecture, "Opportunities to Serve," at 8 p.m. July 15 in the Union Main Lounge.

The reunion program will include a pictorial record of U-High and its students, compiled by James A. Kent, manager of the University Photographic Service.

Invitations have been sent to the graduates and former staff members whose addresses have been obtained for an alumni directory which is being prepared at the school.

Reservations for the reunion dinner should be made by today according to John H. Haefner, professor of social studies education, co-chairman for the event with John E. McAdam, professor of education and director of University High School.

U-High serves as the focal point of the University teacher education program and provides the state with facilities for educational experimentation and curriculum consultation, but its central purpose is "to provide high quality education for its students," said McAdam.

Sixty-four students attended U-High in 1916, when the school was first opened. There were five faculty members.

After one year in the Physics Building, the school was moved to the Old Dental Building. The present building, just west of Carrie Stanley and Currier Halls, was constructed in 1925.

More than 300 students now attend U-High. The faculty includes 12 full-time personnel with professional rank at the University and some 50 part-time faculty members, most of them teachers, working toward advanced degrees.

JAPANESE POLICEMEN AND 300 LEFTWING STUDENTS battle during a brief but bloody protest against U.S. policy in Viet Nam. The demonstrators threw rocks and traded punches with the police during the melee. The incident occurred about 100 yards from the Kyoto Hotel where U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk is staying for American-Japanese discussions. It is doubtful if Rusk saw or knew of the melee, in which six policemen and at least ten students were injured. Seven students were arrested. The students have been so combative that most socialist and labor union groups have disowned them. About 12,000 Socialist and labor union groups demonstrated peacefully in the evening. —AP Wirephoto

FCC Man, Iowa City Native, To Give Lecture Here July 15

Nicholas Johnson, a native of Iowa City who has just become a member of the Federal Communications Commission, Washington, D.C., will speak at 8 p.m. July 15 in the Union Main Lounge. His topic will be "Opportunities To Serve."

A feature of the 1966 Summer Session Lecture Series and the 28th annual Fine Arts Festival, the lecture will be free to the public. Tickets will not be required for admission.

Johnson's appointment to the Federal Communications Commission for a seven-year term was approved last week by the U.S. Senate. Before taking his present post, he had served for more than two years as U.S. maritime administrator.

Since he received his law degree in 1958, Johnson has taught at the University of California Law School, and has served as law clerk for several judges, including Justice Hugo L. Black of the U.S. Supreme Court. From 1963 until his appointment as maritime administrator, Johnson was associated with a Washington, D.C., law firm.

Admitted to practice in the U.S. Supreme Court, the District of Columbia and Texas, Johnson has served on the Jurimetrics Committee of the Association of American Law Schools, which is concerned in part with the use of computers in legal research, and as a director and member of the board of editors of the International Society for General Semantics.

Sheltered Workshop Opens Soon—

Goodwill To Open

By BOB DILLON
Staff Writer

The opening of the Goodwill Industries Sheltered Workshop this month will offer hope and opportunity to handicapped people who want to hold regular jobs someday.

"Our ultimate goal is job placement," said Clinton D. Waters, executive director of the Goodwill Industries of Southeastern Iowa.

Waters said Tuesday that the Sheltered Workshop, 121 E. College Ave., would open in mid-July. The organization has employed eight physically or emotionally handicapped persons and is processing 10 more applications.

Waters said that the organization was providing on-the-job training and rehabilitation for those handicapped persons who wanted help.

Although the Goodwill Industries will not open its store to the public until the middle of July, employees are already repairing appliances and mending sacks full of clothing and toys donated by area residents.

Donations include sporting equipment, hard-bound and paperback books, furniture and even some antiques.

"We've even got a plow," he said.

Waters said that eventually there would be a furniture refinishing and repair shop. Also, the organization purchased a loom on which a blind person could be trained to make rugs.

Waters summarized Iowa City's cooperation with the Workshop as "excellent." Montgomery Ward & Company gave Goodwill the lease to the building on College Street when the store moved to its new location south of the city.

The major difficulty, Waters said, was getting a truck to pick up the donated items. He said, however, that Maher Bros. Transfer & Storage Inc., had loaned its trucks many times to collect donations.

Waters said that any resident who wanted to give items to the Goodwill Workshop could call 337-9995 and that the donations would be picked up.

The organization is aided financially by voluntary donations and by the sale of salvage material, Waters said.

But he emphasized, "The majority of income will be from sales in our store."

When opened, the store will have its shopping area on the first floor with workshops in the basement and on the second floor, Waters said.

Many persons working at the Workshop have been recommended by the State Division of Vocational Rehabilitation. But Waters added that a person did not have to apply through the state organization. He said a call to him would be enough to get an application and an interview.

Reviewing the Goodwill Industries' goal, Waters said that seeing an improvement in an employee's productivity and seeing him adjust to his work were rewards for both the employee and the director.

2 Negro Leaders Disagree On Rally

CHICAGO (AP)—Two major Negro leaders, the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and the Rev. Dr. J. H. Jackson, disagreed Wednesday over King's plans for a civil rights rally in Chicago on Sunday.

Jackson, who described his 5.5-million-member National Baptist Convention as the nation's largest Negro organization, announced he would not support the rally.

Informed of Jackson's decision, King said, "I don't think Dr. Jackson speaks for one per cent of the Negroes in this country."

In making public a letter to King, the Baptist leader said civil disobedience and nonviolence would not carry the civil rights movement any higher and might lead to disrespect for law and order and to possible violence.

King, speaking at a luncheon, said, "Violence will only create more social problems than it solves." He drew applause from a mixed audience when he declared black supremacy is "as evil as white supremacy."

The luncheon was for labor leaders and others supporting King's plans for a Soldier Field rally and march on City Hall scheduled for Sunday.

Disagreement between King and Jackson came at a time when some civil rights groups seem headed for different courses. The Congress of Racial Equality and the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee are moving toward greater militancy.

King is head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

The demonstration Sunday will be sponsored by the SCLC and the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations, an alliance of Chicago civil rights groups.

King said his nonviolent organization has "got to provide a nonviolent channel for expressing discontent and frustrations."

If that channel fails, he added, then there will be violence.

MATRIMONY, ABOVE ALL—

EDMONTON, Ala. (AP)—A big majority of women in a class of 800 at Rice University were there seeking to corral husbands, according to a survey by Dr. Donald Wood of Houston, Tex. He told a high school student union workshop at the University of Alberta that 77 per cent of the surveyed Texas class were women and 72 per cent of them admitted to pursuit of matrimony above all else.

Engineer Club Recommends Better Lighting

By SUE HOOVER
Staff Writer

A recommendation to improve the city street lighting was presented to the Iowa City Council recently by the same group that has promoted paved streets, a city-owned water system and a new county home in years past.

The group, the Iowa City Engineers' Club, from the time of its formation in the early 1920s, has met not only with the common interests as engineers in mind, but with the interests of the city from an engineer's standpoint.

Its recent recommendation, the results of the club's annual project study, called for upgraded street lighting in residential areas of the city.

Claude Peterson, head of this year's study, said it was limited mainly to residential areas because urban renewal plans would include improved lighting downtown.

Major proposals in the recommendation are the improvement of underground service systems in new subdivisions.

Noel Willis, president of the club, said lighting, as it existed, was only 15 to 20 per cent of the level recommended by the National Illuminating Engineering Society.

Of 900 fixtures in residential areas, 350 have light measuring less than .1 foot candle (the unit of measure for light intensity); whereas, 6 foot candles are recommended.

The Engineering Club proposal would remedy this discrepancy.

The second part of the plan calls for underground cables in the new subdivisions instead of overhead lines as they have been installed in the past.

In addition, the newer poles would be aluminum rather than wood.

The Engineering Club, with about 40 active members, is made up of engineers in private practice, in industry and from the University.

Various programs of interest to engineers and the general public are featured at each of eight monthly meetings throughout the year.

Although F. G. Higbee, professor emeritus of engineering drawing and charter member of the Engineering Club, remembers a club drive for the election of "competent" county supervisors, Peterson said now the group was strictly "flow pressure."

Similar clubs are organized in other cities, such as Ames and Des Moines, where there are a large number of engineers.

3 Iowa Grads To Be Featured In 'Rainmaker'

Three University graduates will be featured in the Timber Lake Playhouse production of "The Rainmaker," which will be presented July 12 to 17.

"The Rainmaker," a romantic comedy by N. Richard Nash, will be directed by Holly Michaels. Featured actors are Ron Duffy as the rainmaker and Joan Helg as the spinster daughter.

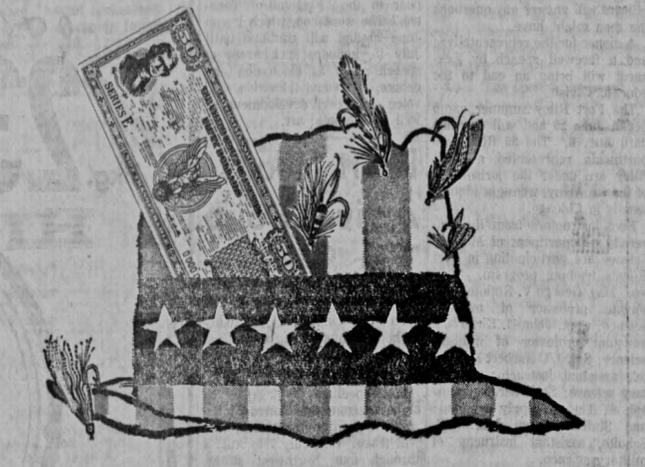

The play, which was made into a movie starring Burt Lancaster and Katherine Hepburn, concerns the attempts of a con-man to bring rain to a drought-stricken Western town and to reawaken an unbelieving family.

The Playhouse is located southeast of Mt. Carroll off Route 88. Tickets are $2.25 during the week and $2.50 on Saturday. Reservations may be made by calling 244-8844 or by writing the playhouse.

Red, white, & blue retirement plan

Sure, you'll have social security. Maybe an insurance plan, company pension and money in the bank to boot.

But buying U.S. Savings Bonds is also an excellent way to prepare for that day when you start taking it easy full time.

If you buy one a month at $37.50 for 7 1/2 years before you retire, you'll have $50.00 a month coming in for 7 1/2 years after. (That's just an example. You can adjust the dollars and the years to suit yourself.)

Something else to think about: Bonds can help make sure you'll have a future to retire to in the first place. The money does a lot to strengthen Uncle Sam's hand in the free world.

Why not make it a habit to buy Bonds regularly where you bank, or on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work? See if you don't feel pretty good about it—now and later.

Quick facts about Series E Savings Bonds

- You get back $4 for every $3 at maturity (7 1/2 years)
- You pay no state or local tax and can defer the federal tax until the Bonds are cashed
- Your Bonds are replaced free if lost, destroyed or stolen
- You can get your money when you need it

Band Platform Sought Here By Park Head

Edward L. Bailey, director of parks and recreation, said Wednesday that he hoped College Hill Park would get a band platform by fall.

The Iowa city council rejected two bids on the project Tuesday night because they were substantially higher than the administration estimates of $12,000 to $15,000.

Bailey said he wanted the council to re-submit the project for bidding later this summer.

If so, it would mark the third time the council has attempted to get an acceptable bid. When the project was first advertised about two months ago, no bids were submitted.

Bailey said that contractors were just too busy at this time to be interested in the project.

"We want more than just a concrete slab for the band platform," he said. "We want an attractive building that can be put to more uses than the six scheduled summer band concerts each year."

He said the platform, 51 by 36 feet, would have free-standing walls and off-stage areas for rehearsals. The off-stage areas could be used for dressing rooms in the event the platform was used for drama, he said.

Graduate Student To Give Recital

A violin recital will be presented by Frederick Palmer, G. Ashland, Ore., at 8 p.m. Friday in North Recital Hall.

Comprising his program will be selections from Schubert, Mozart and Debussy.

Assisting Palmer will be pianist Edwin Penhorwood, G. Toledo, Ohio, and violist Thomas Hall, assistant professor of viola at Southern Illinois University.

Palmer is presenting the program in partial fulfillment of the requirements for a Ph.D. in music literature and performance.

Calif. Court Will Rule In Topless Suit Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The topless bathing suit reached the State Supreme Court Wednesday. The City of Hawthorne, Calif., asked the court to rule in the case of Jean Davis, who modeled the outfit in her husband's bar in Hawthorne.

Mrs. Davis and husband, Harlan C. Davis, were convicted of outraging public decency. But the State District Court of Appeal reversed the conviction. It said the state law was unconstitutional.

City Atty. A. B. Keel of Hawthorne appealed to the Supreme Court.

Police Training Revamped With Use Of Federal Funds

By NEIL SIDEN Staff Writer

Police training at the University will take on a new look as the result of recently approved federal funds, Police Science Bureau Director Richard L. Holcomb said Wednesday.

Holcomb said the funds would be used to reduce class size and increase specialization.

The funds Holcomb referred to were the $12,081 given to the University by the U.S. Office of Education for the development of an integrated series of short police courses.

Courses Demanded
University courses in police training, Holcomb said, have been going on at Iowa for 30 years, but "there's more demand now than before."

The demand has reflected itself in classes containing between 50 and 80 students. "You can't run a good class with that many people in it," Holcomb said.

The one- to two-week courses are not for University credit, Holcomb said, and there are no fees charged to students for the program.

The University pays the cost, which isn't expensive, he added. The courses that comprise the program, Holcomb said, are de-

Reed Marionettes To Be At Union With 'Pinocchio'

Union Board will present the Reed Marionettes' production of "Pinocchio" at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Union Ballroom.

Tickets are 50 cents for children under 12 and $1 for adults. They are available at the Union Activities Center and at Whetstone's.

The play features 21 hand-carved characters and a truckload of equipment including strange inventions that create puppet "magic." For example, when Pinocchio starts to tell a lie his nose becomes larger and larger.

The Reed company has been in business for 17 years. It began as a father-and-son operation and was taken over 10 years ago by Reed and his wife who introduced automation into the puppet business.

Suit Filed Here Claiming $11,000

El-Mar Gardens, Inc., of Palo filed suit Wednesday in Johnson County District Court claiming about $11,800 against Irwin J. Caspe.

El-Mar charges that Caspe failed to pay on several promissory notes, and has asked that foreclosure proceedings be taken against properties that Caspe allegedly has mortgaged to El-Mar.

signed as "in-service training" and are taken by about 10 per cent of all police officers in the state.

Some of the courses offered deal with traffic, command, investigation, interrogation and recruit.

25 Subjects Taught
The recruit course teaches 25 basic subjects, Holcomb said. The subjects covered include patrol procedures, traffic law, juvenile offenders, traffic direction and law of arrest.

Holcomb himself teaches the course on interrogation. When asked about the recent Supreme Court ruling affecting his course, Holcomb said that it "may change the emphasis." He added that "up till now they have held that as long as the confession was obtained in a civilized manner, you're okay. But now the defendant has to have a lawyer."

Holcomb expressed a concern not for the ruling itself, which he called "unfortunate," but that it might set a trend that wouldn't help the expression of justice.

Kerr-Mills Revision In Effect In 9 States—Bill To Affect State Welfare

By BRUCE HARRISON Staff Writer

The expansion of the Kerr-Mills federal program under Title 19 of federal health and welfare legislation could substantially affect state welfare programs and private medical practice, according to a University Hospital official.

"The recent Kerr-Mills revisions authorize government-assisted medical care to all persons receiving public assistance and many other medically needy persons regardless of age. This program went into effect Jan. 1 in nine states where medical aid programs under Title 19 have been adopted," said James H. Cavanaugh, assistant professor of hospital and health administration.

"The state will have to provide extremely broad benefits that include in-patient and out-patient hospital care, nursing home care for adults, lab work and X-rays.

"In addition, the Federal government will help finance many optional benefits, such as prescribed drugs, prosthetic devices, and diagnostic and preventive services," Cavanaugh said.

"Virtually every added benefit will entail a doctor, who in most cases will be a private physician.

Physicians Affected

"A large majority of the private

Government Encourages

The federal government is encouraging participation in Title 19 programs. "States adopting the legislation will receive an increase in matching federal funds. A state must adopt the Title 19 program before January 1, 1970, or lose all federal medical-assistance money," Cavanaugh said.

"After July 1, 1967, a participating state must cover all physicians' services—whether furnished in the office, the patient's home or a hospital or nursing home," Cavanaugh said.

"The state will have to provide extremely broad benefits that include in-patient and out-patient hospital care, nursing home care for adults, lab work and X-rays.

"In addition, the Federal government will help finance many optional benefits, such as prescribed drugs, prosthetic devices, and diagnostic and preventive services," Cavanaugh said.

"Virtually every added benefit will entail a doctor, who in most cases will be a private physician.

Physicians Affected

"A large majority of the private physicians in the country will be affected because of the increased patient load. Kerr-Mills used to cover only 2.4 million needy old people.

"If every state enacted just the first stage of the revised program, 5 million additional people would be immediately eligible for benefits," Cavanaugh said.

Under the second stage of the program, millions of medically indigent people under 65 will be included in the state programs.

"After including this group, the state will provide benefits to children in families whose incomes can cover ordinary living needs—except for the youngsters' medical care.

"Ellen Winston, the U.S. Commissioner of Welfare, estimates that the program, when extended to its full potential, could take in one-fourth of all the children in the country, which means about 16.6 million additional patients," Cavanaugh said.

States To Cover

"By July 1, 1975, each state is expected to cover any remaining medically needy persons aged 21 through 64. The state will do this at its own expense and failure to do so will cause the state to lose federal financing of the rest of the program.

"The volume of patients is likely to go up fast for many doctors. The doctors will perform many more services, which will be paid for by the government. Present welfare discount rates will give way to full payment for services the physician performs.

"The doctors will be able to prescribe the best medical procedures because the financial strain will not fall on the patient. Patients are likely to seek care earlier with the financial barrier gone," Cavanaugh said.

The growing shortage of all types of health personnel, particularly physicians, will become even more evident with the increased number of patients. Congress has passed legislation to encourage and help finance professional education. The medical profession must organize and deliver their services so that all levels of health personnel are used to the best advantage, Cavanaugh commented.
