Student Senate Asks Change In Football Ticket System

By EDSON EGGER
Staff Writer

The Student Senate adopted a resolution Tuesday night calling for quick action to alter the student football ticket system. The Senate is seeking to enable students to pick up game tickets in advance for their dates without their dates being present before the current season ends.

Athletic director Forest Evashevski and Athletic Board members Ward Tuttle and Hugh Kelso, who were present at the Senate meeting, said arrangements for a change in policy could be worked out, possibly in time for Iowa's Homecoming game with Northwestern Oct. 22.

The three board members responded to the Senate's questions about this year's ticket policy, which has been strongly criticized by a number of student leaders.

The policy was changed this year because of plans to turn the students' athletic fee into an athletic building fee.

Members of the Senate raised questions as to why students were not allowed to buy single tickets for $2 at season ticket rates, but instead were required to buy an entire season ticket for $10. Single tickets cost $5. It was pointed out that many students can only attend one or two games and must pay for a season ticket.

Evashevski explained that if this program were initiated, everybody would buy tickets individually, probably to conference games only, and money would be lost through a great decrease in season ticket sales.

"I have talked to many freshmen who are very pleased with the program as it is," Kelso stated. "They like it because they have season tickets and don't have to wait in line to pick up their tickets each week."

To this senate members replied that the present system is advantageous to underclassmen because many of them are receiving better seats than seniors.

Tuttle acknowledged that the system has flaws but explained that it had to be set up hastily.

"The decision to build new facilities wasn't made until the end of last school year," he explained, "and this is why we had to announce the extra fees in a letter during the summer. Next year the situation will be better."

The majority of the Student Senate favored last year's program whereby one student could get two tickets by presenting two identification cards, and seating was issued according to class.

One senate member stated that she thought resentment for this year's program was not because of the extra $10 fee but because of the way the system kept groups and couples from sitting where they wished.

Evashevski expressed pleasure at attending the Senate meeting.

"I'd really like to come and tell you some of our problems sometime. I think it would build a much healthier relationship between students and us."

"I have learned more about students' feelings and problems by attending this meeting and think more of this kind of communication would improve relations."

LBJ To Attend Manila Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will fly to Manila in the Philippines in about three weeks for a seven-nation summit conference on the Viet Nam war. A major aim will be to press an allied peace offensive.

Announcement of the 10,000-mile trip immediately stirred speculation as to whether Johnson might visit embattled South Viet Nam itself as well as other Far Eastern nations. His arrival in the Philippines on or about Oct. 15 will put him within 1,000 miles of Saigon and the land where more than 310,000 American troops are involved in increasingly violent conflict with Communist-led forces.

That the trip has great domestic political importance for the President seems obvious. It will be the first transoceanic journey as chief executive to a foreign capital — in the midst of this fall's election campaigns.

The conference was publicly called Monday night by President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines to include all countries with military forces engaged on the allied side in the conflict. The first White House reaction was to describe Johnson as interested.

Proposal Kept Secret

The matter had been talked about by Johnson and Marcos when the Philippine leader visited Washington within the last two weeks — Sept. 14-16. The project was a well-kept secret.

Then the White House dropped its coy reaction Tuesday and announced: "President Johnson is glad to agree to this invitation and will be glad to join the meeting of the other chiefs of state or government in the Philippines on or after Oct. 18."

The other participating nations include the Philippines, with 200 troops in South Viet Nam and 2,000 going there; South Korea, with 39,000 troops; Australia, 4,500; New Zealand, 200; Thailand, fewer than 100; and South Viet Nam itself, with 707,000, including 320,000 regular forces.

Expanded Honolulu Meeting

J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said this makeup sounds to him like "an expanded Honolulu meeting" — a reference to Johnson's Hawaii talks with the top South Vietnamese leaders.

Marcos, announcing the conference in Honolulu, said the military situation would be reviewed but that the emphasis would be on political, economic and diplomatic aspects of the Vietnamese conflict.

The projected conference, which other invited government chiefs also quickly accepted, coincides with designation by Pope Paul I of October as a month of prayer for peace. Johnson is known to be responsive to such a move by the pontiff.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP) — James E. VATICAN CITY (AP) — A special Vatican mission flew to Viet Nam on Church business Tuesday but with powers to seek new ways for Pope Paul VI to help bring peace to that war-torn land. The three-man mission was seen as a new move in the Pope's peace campaign. Departure of the high-level mission came a week after the Pope's plea in his latest encyclical for a negotiated end to the Viet Nam conflict.

The decision by Ford and Chrysler to take a second look at their new car price schedules meant a saving of about $130 million to car buyers over the original prices.

McGilmer Ineligible

By JIM MARTZ
Sports Editor

Ben McGilmer, one of Iowa's top basketball players last season, will not be eligible for competition during the first semester of the 1966-67 season, coach Ralph Miller announced Tuesday.

McGilmer, 6' 6½" junior from Detroit, did not succeed in bringing his grade point up to the proper level after taking summer session work and a later correspondence study.

Assistant basketball coach Lanny VanEman said Tuesday night that McGilmer missed by about .002 of a point in achieving the required grade point average established by the Big 10.

Miller said, "We will miss McGilmer because he had developed late last season into a consistent scorer and rebounder."

Miller said recently he rated McGilmer as possibly the second best basketball player he had ever coached. He rated Dave Stallworth, an All-American at Wichita State, as his best.

Last season McGilmer averaged 10.8 points per game. He averaged nearly 20 points a game in the final 10 contests as a replacement for starter Gerry Jones, who was ruled scholastically ineligible for the second semester.

McGilmer met Tuesday with Miller and assistant coaches Dick Schultz and VanEman and said he would stay in school and would enroll for a full load of 14 hours.

VanEman said McGilmer would lose his financial aid and would not be able to practice with the team.

VanEman also said that if McGilmer regained his scholastic eligibility for the second semester, he would be eligible to play the final nine games, starting with the Ohio State game Feb. 1.

It was announced Monday that Gerry Jones, senior forward, had made up his scholastic deficiencies and was in good standing for this semester.

Sen. McCarthy Stalls Approval Of Katzenbach

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nicholas Katzenbach wholeheartedly supported U.S. foreign policy Tuesday but promised not to become a yes man as undersecretary of state.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee suspended judgment on his nomination to the No. 2 post in the State Department.

Committee Chairman J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.), at first said the committee had approved Katzenbach's appointment, but then reported the approval was being suspended because of an objection by Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, (D-Minn.).

Fulbright said McCarthy, who was not at the committee session, had "an important question" he wanted to ask Katzenbach. So, Fulbright said, the committee suspended action pending another hearing.

McCarthy indicated he was upset by a column written by Howard K. Smith. He said Smith wrote that McCarthy had gone to St. Louis to deliver a speech for a fee when his vote was needed for cloture on the civil rights bill.

McCarthy told newsmen he wanted to ask Katzenbach, who as attorney general was one of the chief administration backers of the measure, if he had given Smith that information.

McCarthy said that while he had intended to give the St. Louis speech, he finally postponed it and was present for both cloture votes.

At Tuesday's hearing, Fulbright sharply questioned whether Katzenbach, now attorney general, could fulfill the role of devil's advocate-skeptical challenger of policy decisions — within State Department councils.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, concerned about too much of a unanimity of view in the State Department, urged the devil's advocate role on Katzenbach.

Mansfield, also a member of the committee, recalled that the man Katzenbach is replacing — Undersecretary of State George W. Ball — had performed such a function.

North Vietnamese Troop Infiltration Hits New High

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. bombers slashed anew Tuesday at enemy supply routes that intelligence experts said are feeding more North Vietnamese troops than ever before into the jungle war in the South.

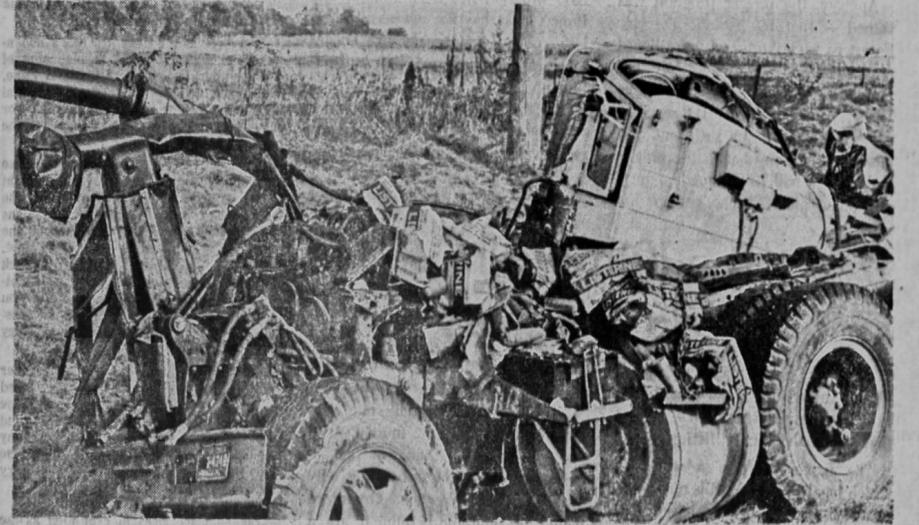

An estimate that Hanoi regulars are now moving in at a rate of more than 6,000 a month arose in Saigon even as B52 jets pounded the demilitarized zone in their 11th strike at that frontier infiltration area since July 31. Smaller planes hit farther north.

In a day of generally light and scattered ground action, South Korean troops drew special attention: Four thousand more troops landed to join the White Horse Division, boosting the Korean enrollment in Viet Nam to 36,500.

South Viet Nam's new Constituent Assembly, hailed by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky as introducing "an era of democracy, peace and prosperity" went into closed session to elect officers.

Diplomatic sources said there was a struggle for key posts between veteran parliamentarians and novices among the 117 members, with the latter seeking a slate of new men. Work on drafting the new constitution, the first since the downfall of President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime in 1963, is expected to start next week.

The estimate that North Vietnamese are infiltrating at a rate of more than 6,000 a month was up 1,000 a month from recent reckonings.

Negro-White Jury Acquits KKK Man In Liuzzo Murder

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A jury of eight Negroes and four white men Tuesday night acquitted Ku Klux Klansman Eugene Thomas of first-degree murder in the killing of a white civil rights worker.

The verdict came after the jury had deliberated 1 hour and 25 minutes. If convicted Thomas would have faced the death penalty.

Thomas, 43, of Bessemer, Ala., thus became the second of three members of the hooded organization to win an acquittal in state court in the slaying of Viola Gregg Liuzzo, a Detroit, Mich., housewife shot to death March 25, 1965, following the Selma-to-Montgomery march.

The verdict was handed to the court by one of the four white jurors, Joe H.

Guthrie, who was chosen by his fellow jurors to act as foreman.

First Bilingual Jury
The jury was the first bilingual group chosen in four trials growing from the killing.

Defense testimony put Thomas at a Veterans of Foreign Wars Club at Brighton, a suburban community near Thomas' home, when Mrs. Liuzzo was slain.

State attorneys rested their case without calling an FBI undercover agent who had testified in three previous trials that he witnessed the slaying.

Instead, the prosecution, directed by Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers, relied chiefly on the testimony of FBI agents that the bullet which killed Mrs. Liuzzo had been fired from a 38-caliber pistol identified as one owned by Thomas.

The state produced evidence that Thomas had been stopped for a muffler violation on the highway where the Detroit housewife was slain and the testimony of an FBI agent that Thomas had admitted to him he was in the vicinity the night of the murder, and that he had his gun with him or knew where it was throughout the night.

There was no immediate explanation from Flowers for his unexpected decision to seek a first-degree murder conviction without the testimony of Gary Thomas Rowe Jr., the FBI undercover agent.

Key Witness
Rowe, who said he had joined the Klan to get information for the FBI, was the prosecution's key witness in three earlier trials growing out of the Liuzzo killing.

Johnson, Erhard Agree On Atlantic Alliance Re-Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany agreed Tuesday to hold a strategic review, "a searching reappraisal," of the European defense requirements.

It would take into account, they said, the balance of payments problems of the United States, Britain and Germany.

The two leaders, in a joint communique on their two days of conferences, agreed that "tension in Europe is less acute, yet a basic threat to security persists and the Atlantic alliance continues to be the vital condition of peace and freedom."

The U.S. and West German leaders worked out the final details of the communique on their flight to Cape Kennedy, Fla., for a 2½ hour tour of the sprawling spaceport.

They visited the world's largest building, where the Saturn V man-to-the-moon rockets are assembled and they saw a launch pad where a model of the giant Saturn V is being checked out.

Determination Reaffirmed

The communique, in reaffirming the determination of Johnson and Erhard to maintain the strength of the Atlantic alliance said the two leaders agreed that:

"A searching re-appraisal should be undertaken of the threat to security and, taking into account changes in military technology and mobility, of the forces required to maintain adequate deterrence and defense."

But the communique did not spell out when or where the re-appraisal would be made.

However, the review, the communique said, should address itself to the question of "equitable sharing of the defense and other comparable burdens" and the impact of troop deployment and force levels of the balance of payments of the United States and Britain.

Study Recommended

This cautiously worded statement seems to indicate that the German chancellor accepted the U.S. Government's position that changed political and technological circumstances permit a review of the Western world's military requirements and especially the number of troops stationed in Europe.

There have been demands in Congress for cutting down drastically the number of American forces.

These questions, the communique said, should be studied by the three powers most interested in Germany's defense, meaning Germany, the United States and Britain.

Parking Director Says 'I' Sticker Is Valuable ID

The University "I" registration sticker is a useful "license plate" to help vehicle identification by Security Department officers, John Dooley, Parking director, said Tuesday.

Some students have been reluctant to register their cars with the University because they think that the $3 registration fee doesn't entitle them to motor vehicles privileges, he said.

The sticker enables officers to determine quickly ownership in case of an accident, theft or vandalism involving a student's car. The $3 fee is not a money-making venture, he said, and pays only the cost of the registration.

"This is for the student's own protection," Dooley explained. "The sticker also grants various privileges to the student," he continued.

"University vehicle storage lots are not open to students unless they display a sticker and register their cars. Also, accurate registration of all student vehicles helps to gain figures for parking programming."

Dooley also said the "I" sticker allows students to park in reserved areas at night.

Dooley warned, however, that non-registered student vehicles attempting to use these privileges would receive an $11 fine.

Coralville Council Discusses Bridge

Construction of a new bridge over Clear Creek on First Avenue in Coralville was discussed Tuesday night by members of the Coralville City Council at their weekly meeting.

The unsafe condition of the present bridge over the creek was cited in describing the need for a new bridge. No action was taken.

The extension of sewer facilities to serve eight new lots along the right of way of Highway 6 was also discussed by the council, but no action was taken. The cost of the project was estimated at $17,000.

In other action the council set a public hearing for Oct. 11 rezoning a tract of land east of the Scotsdale Apartments on Sixth Street.

Project AID stumped by athletic board

The Board in Control of Athletics has again successfully used its high-handed tactics in stifling about anything the student body wishes to do.

For Saturday's Iowa - Wisconsin game, Project AID planned to sell yellow balloons with black I's for 15 cents each, with the plan that all the balloons, filled with helium, would be released en masse when Iowa scored its first Big-Ten touchdown. The profits of this undertaking were to be used for student scholarships. Although it was certain that the scholarship fund would have been bolstered, the opportunity for letting balloons fly for Iowa's first Big-Ten touchdown at Saturday's game was debatable.

Anyway, the project program was vetoed — first by Athletic Director Forest Evashevski, then by the Board in Control of Athletics. Before the plan was vetoed, Student Senator Lee Dicker, head of Project AID, received what he thought was sufficient permission to go ahead with the project and ordered balloons and made numerous other plans. Dicker's operation would have legally operated outside the 100-yard radius of the concession franchise, so there appeared to be no reason for the refusal by the athletic board.

And no reason has yet been given by the board or by Evashevski. Administration officials questioned Hugh Kelso, chairman of the athletic board. The crux of the excuse given second-hand to Dicker was that such activities must be outside the 100-yard radius, which it was anyway.

Last year Project AID received permission to solicit at the North Carolina State game — outside the radius — for the same purpose. What is the athletic board's reason for refusal to do the same thing this year?

As it now stands, Saturday's Project AID program has been canned and Project AID has not yet received its letter of explanation, nor has Dicker received any direct verbal explanation.

The athletic board has gotten away with quite a few questionable acts in the past. We hope that someone will soon apply the brakes.

'The 10th Victim': today's game

A science-fiction kind of movie, "The 10th Victim," presents the future in a frightening light, if one forgets that it is only science fiction.

The movie portrays a world in which legalized killing fills man's recreational needs; extended leisure and technological advances make all other "sports" insufficient.

To most of us, we suppose the movie seemed unreal. We can't imagine ourselves being so thoroughly bored with our present pastimes, or with so much free time on our hands, that we would want to hunt and be hunted ourselves as part of an organized sport.

An interesting idea, we might say, but still far away in the future.

Had Leonard Benton lived, however, he would have disagreed.

Benton was a drifter, a skid-row dweller, who fell asleep one night last week in a doorway in New York City's Bowery. Five youths, all under 16, poured kerosene on Benton while he slept and set him on fire.

David Pollen

Benton died of the burns two days ago.

Benton wasn't the only one who would have said that murder as a sport was nearer than we like to think; others know what big city slums can be like too. Organized games of hunt-and-be-hunted are a well established part of slum life. The hunts, the wars and the deaths, are real.

In too many respects, the world of the slum dweller is a lot like the world of "The 10th Victim." A slum youth finds he has more time on his hands than he knows how to use, and the hard reality of the slum makes common sports and pastimes an insufficient means of escape. Like the society in "The 10th Victim," people in today's slum societies find their environment too boring to settle for any less "sporting" a sport than murder.

Leonard Benton was a victim of "The 10th Victim" game; it is more than science-fiction now, and we find its future frightening.

Pyne speaks — nation listens

By SETH ALAN BARKAS
Staff Writer

You turn on your tube. A small pudgy man forms from out of the shimmering haze — his head cocked like stiff spaghetti, ready to snap back and forth. Even with his mouth closed, you notice he finds a way to whisper hate through his shut lips. He opens his mouth and you know, by God, you know. It's Uncle Sam's stun gun of social retribution — the abominable showman — welcome Joe Pyne.

Sitting in his High Chair of Moderator, Pyne lurks with his vicious tongue ready to lash helpless interviewees as some frogs de files. You turn him off and try to drive his super-sweet face from your memory.

But — What have you really turned off? The Joe Pyne Show, syndicated on both radio and television to over 200 stations throughout the nation, is something more than a discussion program.

Les Crane slowly ebbed off the air. They killed Mort Sahl. How could discussers like Pyne come about? Go back to the tube. See what has really happened. See the discussion show that has become popular because there is no discussion.

In a flick of the dial, America's non-intellectual was given the sophistication of the situation comedy: cruelly. And Pyne, who looks upon himself as a paternal figure, punishing his interviewees for their sin of non-conformity, has put the leather belt into Father Knows Best.

Ostensibly, guests are invited because they have some peculiarity that might turn out to be amusing. Shaking up the guests with insults, irrelevant questions and insinuations, Pyne tries to put the person and not his subject on the spot. Homosexuality, LSD, Jew baiters, Black Muslims. Who cares? What really matters is whether they let "creeps like you around kids' playgrounds." Pyne reassures his audience that if they do they shouldn't.

Left or right, guests are put asunder with the same flailing fingernail, stoned by the same wagging tongue. As the world is made safe for democracy and free speech, Pyne gives you the uncanny feeling that it's really only the people he interviews who are ruining the country for the average guy and his family.

Pyne is divorced. The audience rises in exaltation as the interview reaches its supreme moment of truth: weakness. And the guest humbly complains: "That's notta, wha, wha I meant . . . please . . . I, I was saying . . . please . . . listen . . . the, that . . ."

Then Pyne snaps his jaw and declares: "Now, we're getting somewhere. Just what is it you've got to hide."

Chunk. Chew. Occasionally, Pyne doesn't growl and growl, but he actually interviews. But Pyne gets paid for tearing people apart and not seriously probing an issue. After all, the program appeals to the part of the audience who want to hate the unfamiliar rather than discuss the different.

The Mini-Might of the country, who don't watch Pyne, get sick. They shut him off and try to forget him like a greasy hamburger.

But the way to put up with Joe Pyne is to turn him on — in the morning. Watch his quiz show which is now being syndicated throughout the country. Joe Pyne has a quiz show. It's like Perry Mason doing the merry mailman. On this program Pyne's pudgy $200,000 a year face isn't capable of a sneer. The man is a cherub.

After the mean way he acts at night, he's funny frolicking in his quizmaster's high chair. The funniest thing said about Pyne the Predator are after all, really said by Pyne himself. Our tiger, the illiterates' devil's advocate, is only a pussy cat. All you have to do is give him the tidy box to play in.

EDITOR'S NOTE — East meets West in the smog cloud; even Tokyo suffers like Los Angeles. The story is the same — much talk, some action.

TOKYO — The pine trees are dying around the Imperial Palace. Polar bears in Ueno Zoo are no longer white. Chimpanzees grow nose hairs for protection. Even the cherry trees are wilting.

It's the smog in Tokyo, a product of the boom in factories and automobiles.

Newspapers campaign against "our poisoned atmosphere," saying the capital city, home of 11 million, is strangling under a smog blanket with a rising trend of respiratory, nasal and throat ailments.

Spot checks in some areas show two or three times the normal incidence of respiratory ailments among school children.

The primary sources of the sickening contamination are all too evident. Smoke billows from the stack of many of the 3,105 factories in and around Tokyo. Cooking and heating stoves in homes contribute their share. Automobiles and trucks, many using propane gas, add pungent fumes.

Officials have set up a smog warning system using a special measuring device, and the government officially broadcasts warnings by radio when too dense a smog-pall curtains the city. One warning came after visibility had been cut to less than two miles. But the official warnings require no action, and factory owners are free to ignore them.

The metropolis almost daily experiences an average of 0.2 parts per million of sulfurous gas content in its air. The number of days when smog besieged Tokyo last winter rose 1.6 times over a year ago.

The Health and Welfare Ministry discovered that carbon monoxide content in the atmosphere at busy street corners far exceeds normally tolerable dosages for human health. Traffic police must wear gas masks at busy crossroads.

At one intersection where 100,000 vehicles pass every day contamination reached as high as 55 ppm, soaring even to 110 ppm at the worst times. The normal tolerable dosage for human health maintenance is 30 ppm continued for eight hours or longer. Sulfuric gas, nitrogen monoxide and floating dust present other menaces to human health.

What are Tokyo authorities doing about this? They hope the poisonous smog-cloud will disperse when promised government regulations go into effect late this year.

An anti-public nuisance measures liaison council has debated the question of restrictions on soot and industrial smoke. It has elected to institute "strong administrative guidance" — in the absence of foolproof purifying devices and equipment — to force factories to build high chimneys.

Japanese automakers, faced with a U.S. move to ban import of cars not fitted with exhaust fume controls, are seeking to perfect clean exhaust engines. They have been asked to keep carbon monoxide content of exhaust gas to 3 per cent, from the previous 6 to 7 per cent limit, on all cars starting with 1967 models.

Such controls have shown promising results in California. The State Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board reports that experiments with 800,000 cars this year have reduced crankcase fumes by 70 per cent. Starting with the 1968 models, all American cars must be equipped with fume suppressors.

One problem in Tokyo is that there are no smog control regulations with teeth in them. Government requests for cooperation often fall on deaf ears. What regulations exist are skimpy and rarely enforced. Penalties, when imposed, are limited.

Tokyo authorities insist, however, that they are finally on the move. They pledge full-scale smog counter-measures. Warnings henceforth will be backed by action and stiffened penalties, they say.

Office, office, who get's the job

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — The method used by President Johnson in announcing Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach's appointment as undersecretary of state has Washington very worried.

You may recall the President did not make the announcement until a reporter asked the question at a press conference. The fear here is that if the President decides to break the news of all his appointments in this manner, and no one asks him the right question at a press conference, many important vacancies in the government may never be filled.

This was compounded by the President's statement that the more the press speculated about a certain individual for a job the less likelihood that person would have of getting the appointment.

If this is the case, perhaps we may never have an attorney general again.

Suppose the President is meeting with advisers to discuss Katzenbach's replacement in the Justice Department.

"Mr. President, I don't like to push you, but it's been a year now and you still haven't announced who the attorney general is going to be."

"It's not my fault. If the newspapers would stop speculating I could decide on somebody. But every time I think I've got someone they haven't heard of the name pops up in a column, and then I've got to eliminate him. I thought I had them when I decided to appoint Sandy Koufax to the job, but somehow Sports Illustrated got wind of it."

"We hadn't thought anyone would be on to Koufax," one of the advisers admitted. "What happened to Dr. Spock?"

"Drew Pearson had it in one of his predictions, and I was darned if I was going to give him the satisfaction of being right," the President replied.

"Mr. President, don't you think we ought to appoint someone as attorney general with legal experience?"

"I'd like to, but you know as well as I do that every lawyer we could possibly think of has already been suggested for the job by either a column or a newspaper. The more they speculate the harder it gets for me."

"Why couldn't we forget about the press and just appoint somebody to the job?"

"Not as long as I'm President. I'm not going to have anyone tell me who to appoint and who not to appoint. Besides, you lose the element of surprise."

"The President's right," an aide said. "We should be able to think of somebody that the press hasn't thought of."

"It's easier said than done," another aide said. "Remember when we were going to appoint Ed Sullivan and Variety heard about it?"

"There must be someone that no one has thought of."

Just then the phone rings. An aide picks it up and listens. Then he says to the President, "It's Hubert Humphrey. He wants to know if you still think highly of him."

The President snaps his fingers. Why didn't we think of it before?"

The aide says, "It was right under our very noses."

The President picks up the phone. "Hubert, I've got a job for you. No, I can't tell you what it is, but tune in on my press conference this afternoon. I think you'll be in for a real surprise."

Airline Faces Union Strike Over Wages

NEW YORK (AP) — American Airlines, a major domestic airline that escaped last summer's costly strike by the Machinists Union, faced a walkout of 12,000 non-operating employees at sunrise Wednesday. It is the nation's second largest carrier of air travelers.

A strike by the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union — the late Michael Quill's union which struck the New York City subways early this year — is expected to stop American's flight operations and idle 28,000 employees.

Involved in the contract deadlock are ground crewmen, mechanics, clerks, communication workers and supply personnel.

They voted 6,139 to 186 against a contract offer presented last Thursday by American.

Thereupon, the TWU set a strike deadline for 6:45 a.m. EDT Wednesday across the nation.

The spokesmen for American said the line's contract offer included an increase of 50 cents an hour in top wage brackets over three years — or 3 cents more than the Machinists won in their strike against Eastern, National, Trans World, United and Northwest airlines.

The fringe benefits also were described by the company as better. Union leaders called the offer "utterly unrealistic."

Non-operating wages at American were said by the union to range from $2.54 to $3.57 an hour. The union sought a 30 per cent increase — or hourly boosts, ranging from 76 cents to $1.07.

Tryouts For Seals At Women's Gym Are Next Week

Tryouts for Seals Club, the women's synchronized swimming club, will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 5 and 6, in the Women's Gym swimming pool. Practice sessions will be held at 8 p.m. next Monday and Tuesday in the same location.

Students planning to try out are asked to attend an organizational meeting at 7 p.m. today in W105 Women's Gym and to wear a bathing cap to the tryouts.

Seals Club is designed to challenge girls experienced in aquatic art and to provide instruction for those interested in synchronized swimming.

Members of the club have participated in the Aquatic Art workshops, the Midwest AAU Meet, the Midwest Collegiate Meet and local events. This year's activities will culminate with the annual swim show on Mother's Day weekend.

Footbridge Requested Over Riverside Drive

AMES — Several University and Iowa City officials Tuesday asked the Iowa Highway Commission to construct a pedestrian overpass across South Riverside Drive at Burlington Street in connection with a new four lane automobile bridge the commission plans to build there.

The overpass would cost an estimated $56,500.

Pres. Howard R. Bowen spoke for the University, citing the fact that dormitory expansion plans call for 6,100-bed facilities south of the Burlington Street bridge by 1975.

By 1975 there will be 29,200 pedestrian trips daily across the intersection, local officials estimated.

Commission policy has been not to build such overpasses for financial reasons, but the present overpass at the intersection of Riverside Drive and Iowa Avenue was built by the Commission.

Also representing the University at the meeting Tuesday were Stanley J. Redeker of Boone, president of the Board of Regents; Elwin T. Jolliffe, vice president for business and finance;

Thais Oppose Bombing Halt

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Thailand declared Tuesday that no member of the United Nations nor any of its officials has the right to sell away the right of South Viet Nam to exist as a free nation.

In a policy speech to the U.N. General Assembly, Thanat Khoman, foreign minister of Thailand, opposed any U.S. decision to halt the bombing of North Viet Nam and begin a military withdrawal without matching concessions from the Communists.

The 118-nation assembly also heard Paul Hasluck, foreign minister of Australia, declare that North Viet Nam "wants no agreement, but surrender."

Both Thailand and Australia will take part in the seven-nation Viet Nam peace conference in Manila next month to be attended by President Johnson. They are allies of the United States in Viet Nam.

"A truly worthy solution to the Viet Nam war must see to it that aggression shall not be rewarded, Khoman said.

Brown, in a tight race with Republican Ronad Reagan, appeared with the vice president at an airport rally.

This year, Brown said, San Diego and the rest of Southern California "is the battleground" in his race against Reagan. Reagan won heavy support here in the June nominating primary.

Brown said he expected to carry northern California by 250,000 votes, but will still have to make a good showing in the more populous south to win.

Truck Crash Kills Driver Near Hills

Willis G. Bible, 48, of Carthage, Ill., was killed about 2:45 Tuesday morning in a fiery crash of two semi-trailer trucks on Highway 218 near Hills. The highway was blocked until almost 5 a.m.

The accident sent the Johnson County death toll to 17, compared to 14 at this time last year.

Injured were John Berghammer, 41, of St. Paul Park, Minn., and Gordon Ganrud, 42, of Hastings, Minn.

Both men were taken to University Hospitals, where Berghammer was reported to be in serious condition, and Ganrud in good condition.

The Iowa Highway Patrol said Bible's empty livestock truck was southbound, and Berghammer's freight truck was going north at the time of the collision.

Red Guards Form World Movement

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — China's Red Guards have formed an international movement to spread the teachings of Mao Tse-tung with the hopes of one day extending their revolution to the streets of New York, dispatches from Peking reported Tuesday.

Tanjung, the Yugoslav news agency, quoted American writer Anna Louise Strong, who lives in China, as saying that the aim of Red Guard leaders is to make the whole world Communist. Red leaders think revolutionary posters will one day appear on New York City's streets, she said.

Wisconsin Shows No Letdown After U.S.C. Loss

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin showed no signs of an emotional letdown Tuesday as it began heavy drills for Saturday's Big 10 opener against Iowa.

The Badgers, mauled last Saturday night by mighty Southern California 38-3, drilled for two hours polishing patterns they will use against the Hawkeys.

"I'm optimistic," said Coach Milt Bruhn. "Now we're playing a team on our own level."

The Badgers concentrated on rigging defenses against Iowa quarterback Ed Podolak, who was described by Bruhn as a player in the Troy Winslow mold.

Winslow led the Trojans' onslaught against Wisconsin Saturday.

Bruhn promoted Dick LaCroix to a starting offensive guard.

Cyclones Concentrate On Goal Line Stands

AMES (AP) — Iowa State's defense spent part of Tuesday's 90-minute drill concentrating on goal line stands as preparations continued for Saturday's Big Eight game here with powerful Nebraska.

The offense, meanwhile, worked on passing, topping off the drill by holding an offensive goal line session.

Fall Baseball Drills Begin

By ROGER JAYNES
Staff Writer

Dick Schultz, Iowa's new head baseball coach, is wasting no time revamping the Hawks into a strong Big 10 contender for the coming spring.

Increased fall workouts, which began the opening day of classes, and a new spring training schedule highlight Schultz's new outlook on Iowa baseball.

"I'm putting more emphasis on the fall workouts to see more of the boys in actual game situations," Schultz said. "In the past the tendency was to wait until spring, but weather problems and our new spring training schedule eliminate much outdoor work then."

Bigger Schedule

The Hawks will have an enlarged 45 game schedule including a 10 day spring training trip to Arizona beginning March 25.

"The games with Arizona and Colorado won't count on our season record, as in the past," Schultz explained. "It puts the team in a hole psychologically for a winning season. Certainly it's unfair for the boys to face teams which are ¾ through their seasons before we have played a game."

The 75 man squad spent its first week in running and intersquad drills.

"Many of the boys' summer baseball schedules ended two or three weeks ago," Schultz said. "We're at the point now of starting speciality drills, alternating the infield and outfield squads in the early part of the afternoons."

"We'll still end our practices with intersquad games. I'll probably trim the squad sometime next week."

Expect Sound Defense

The Hawks, who finished 15-16 last season, have lettermen returning to every infield position and two of three outfield spots.

"We expect to have a sound defensive club," Schultz said. "Our pitching is solid."

Brown Has No Plans To Return To Football

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Brown, the former professional football star of the Cleveland Browns, said Tuesday he had no plans to return to the game.

"I'm finished," he said upon arrival here from London where he made a movie. "I made my decision."

Brown, leading ground gainer in pro football history, announced his retirement as a player two months ago. The Browns' record this season is 1-2, winning their National League opener.

Hawks Drill Hard For Wisconsin

Coach Ray Nagel sent his Iowa Hawkeys through hard drill Tuesday as the practice pace picked up for Saturday's Big 10 opener here against Wisconsin.

Nagel said although Wisconsin was whipped 38-3 by Southern California last weekend, the Badgers did have a good club.

"What impressed me is that they are a solid team," said Nagel. "They don't have too many plays, but they run them all well."

Over The Sports Desk

By JIM MARTZ
Sports Editor

Lynn Stiles, Iowa assistant football coach who scouted Wisconsin, believes that the Badgers are playing a more sound, fundamental game than in 1965. In his scouting report he said they used many power plans in the running attack and tried to play a ball-control game.

"It is a young team, with great enthusiasm and determination," Stiles said. "Quarterback John Ryan, who usually does not start but plays a great deal, is a good passer. Their best running back probably is halfback Lynn Buss. In general, the Badgers are big and strong but not especially quick," Stiles said.

Defensively, Wisconsin is strong inside and has a fine linebacker in Bob Richter, Stiles said. Richter was picked as the outstanding lineman after last Saturday's game with USC. Stiles said that the Wisconsin defensive secondary had two sophomores, therefore lacking experience.

STILES

Keeping the field goal record of Iowa's Bob Anderson straight: he has made eight in 11 tries. In 1965 he was accurate on six of eight; in two games this fall he has made two of the three.

Anderson's average distance has been 33½ yards. The longest was 42 yards against Minnesota in 1965, and the shortest was 23 against Indiana, also last season. This season Anderson made a 33-yarder in the Arizona game and a 33-yarder against Oregon State. Last year he had two against this Saturday's opponent, Wisconsin.

Team statistics for the first two games mostly are in favor of opponents. Iowa trails in first downs, 38-30; in rushing yards, 294 to 407; total yards, 556 to 634; punting average, 34.2 to 36.8; interception returns, 2 for 9 to 5 for 26; and scoring, 34-37. Opponents have the better pass percentage: .508 to .442 and have more total plays, 146-125.

On the favorable side are yards passing, 292 to 232, and penalties, 6 for 65 to 11 for 161.

The Gant Story

We believe that Gant shirts have a certain well-bred look that distinguishes them from all others. Careful tailoring and adherence to a strict tradition are qualities indigenous to Gant. The emphasis here is on meticulous detail in a heritage of conservatism.

Do you like a really neat, well fitting collar? Softly flared collar construction is gently RIGHT. Do you want to hang your shirt up? A trim hanger loop sees to that. Room to breathe? Oversize body construction is the answer. There's a full length box pleat back for trimness, too. Precise stitching lets the easy barrel cuffs roll up at mid-point.

The Gant shirt has been designed to serve you through a lifetime of correct dressing. There is painstaking workmanship in every fine Gant shirt... it comes from the expert craft of New England's finest shirtmakers. The craft explains why the careful details of these Gant shirts have been many times imitated but never duplicated.

ARE IN BUSINESS TOGETHER!

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Don Drysdale, big Los Angeles Dodger right-hander, would have you believe his problems just went up in thin air. He admits he had a problem the first half of the season but won't say what it was.

Going into Tuesday night's game against St. Louis and a 2½-game lead over the second place Pittsburgh Pirates, Drysdale was working on a three-game winning streak that has returned him to his customary role as a big stopper for the defending world champions.

But he isn't about to offer any explanation for the sudden turn-around he made after winning only nine games before his streak.

"I got my own reason for what was wrong, but I'm staying away from it," Drysdale said. "I'm not making any excuses because I don't want to sound like I'm alibiing. I had a lousy first half and I just hoped I would be better the second half."

And he has.

But while Drysdale stands behind his no-alibi shield, there are those who will suggest that since he didn't have any physical problems, it's possible there was a mental hangover stemming from the holdout siege he and Sandy Koufax conducted in the spring.

Drysdale, meanwhile, talks about consistency, although he admits having had a clear-the-air talk with Buzzy Bavasi, the Dodger general manager.

Twenty of the University's prettiest coeds have been selected to compete for the title of Miss U of I at Homecoming. Announcement of the candidates was made Tuesday by Roger T. Servison, B4, Sioux City, publicity director of the Miss U of I Pageant Board.

Each of the sorority houses and girls' dormitory units have the opportunity to select a girl to represent them in the pageant.

The pageant will be held in the Union Main Lounge Saturday evening, Oct. 15, one week prior to the Homecoming dance where Miss U of I will be presented. Bond Sale For New School Set For Thursday Afternoon

The Iowa City Community School District will accept bids for the remaining bonds for the new Westside High School Thursday. The high bidder, providing he meets all requirements of the contract agreement, will be awarded the bonds for cash. The proceeds of over $3 million in school building bonds sold last March are being used to construct the new high school to be located west of the Iowa River. Because of rising building costs, the original bond revenues were insufficient to finance the school construction. For that reason the question of issuing $575,000 in additional school building bonds was placed before the voters Sept. 12 and approved by the necessary two-thirds majority. The proceeds of these bonds will be used to complete the new high school and to provide for additional elementary classroom space.

Bids for the new bonds will be accepted until 1 p.m. Thursday, according to Robert T. Davis, school board secretary and business manager. Then the board will meet to select a buyer for the bonds.

James Stromayer, a foreign service career officer, will be on campus Oct. 12 and 13 to discuss careers in the U.S. Foreign Service with interested students. A newly-released film by the State Department, "In Search of Peace," will be shown by Stromayer. The film illustrates the purposes of this country's foreign policy and includes comments by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other senior officers.

Interested students should contact the Business and Industrial Placement Office, 102 Old Dental Building, to arrange to hear Stromayer's talk.

Stromayer, a native of Chicago, Ill., received his B.A. from Northwestern University and his M.A. from Johns Hopkins University. He has served in Stockholm and London and recently completed one year of Atlantic affairs training at the European Institute, Columbia University. Stromayer is now assigned to the Office of European Community and Atlantic Political-Economic Affairs.

PRES. HOWARD R. BOWEN To Attend Ceremony

Noon Opening Scheduled For Union Room

The State Room, a luxury restaurant accommodating 90 persons, will open officially this noon at the Union.

Pres. Howard R. Bowen and Mayor William C. Hubbard will be present at the ceremony.

Loren Kottner, director of the Union, said that luncheon and dinner would be served in the new restaurant seven days a week. The menu, prepared under the direction of Chef Albert Gonzales, will include individual loaves of Iowa cornbread, Maytag and Kalona cheeses, and fresh fish. It will also offer lobster, steaks, and fish-kebabs.

The State Room is decorated in black and gold with red table cloths and gold table accessories. It is located on the first floor of the Union between the main lobby and the Iowa House lobby.

Luncheon is served from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and dinner is served from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Sunday hours are 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Kottner said that students, faculty, and guests of the University would use the restaurant.

Panhel Banquet Set For Monday

The 28th annual panhellenic scholarship banquet will be held at 6 p.m. Monday in the Union Main Lounge.

The sorority house with the highest grade point average will receive a trophy. The second and third place houses will be verbally recognized.

Air Pollution Threat Is Seen

It's the "energy explosion" in the United States and not the population explosion that is presenting health officials with a most serious problem, Dr. Ralph Larsen, of the U.S. Public Health Services, said Tuesday. And this excess combustion is causing serious air pollution problems, he said. "We are running out of air."

Foreign Service Career Officer To Visit Campus

James Stromayer, a foreign service career officer, will be on campus Oct. 12 and 13 to discuss careers in the U.S. Foreign Service with interested students.

A newly-released film by the State Department, "In Search of Peace," will be shown by Stromayer. The film illustrates the purposes of this country's foreign policy and includes comments by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other senior officers.

Larsen said, "gaseous air, liquid water and solid food."

He added that most of the lead in the atmosphere is produced by motor vehicles burning leaded fuels.

An effect of this lead poisoning is a brain involvement particularly evident among young children, Larsen said. It has a fatality rate of 25 per cent.

Larsen suggested that elimination of 90 per cent of the sources of air pollution would be one way to get "quality air."

But he added, "The only person who is going to pay for elimination of air pollution is the consumer."

Ham Radio Operators Face Re-examination

WASHINGTON — The Federal Communications Commission, concerned about the caliber of the nation's quarter-million amateur radio operators, may re-examine most of them.

The proposal could cost the ham operators about $1 million. The rule change was suggested by the American Radio Relay League, an organization representing about 85,000 hams.

In its request for the rule changes, the league said there is "increasing concern . . . as to whether the basic purposes and objectives of the amateur radio service, particularly those relating to technical qualifications and proficiency, are being achieved."

In short, the league is concerned because more and more hams have no great interest in radio technology. Many of them, as an FCC official said recently, "just go out and buy their equipment, plug it into the light socket, connect the antenna and operate."

This is a big change from only a decade ago when most hams built at least part of their equipment.

"One can truthfully say that the percentage of licensees who are the true tinkerer or technical types has been dropping," an FCC source said.

Now, with more money, most hams are able to buy fine, commercially built equipment.

Although hams still are required to pass tests in international Morse code and basic electronics, some FCC officials feel they have not progressed as far as might be expected, considering the developments in electronics and communications.

The result: The FCC picked up the league idea and began formulating new rules. The changes, if approved by the seven-man commission, would be the biggest overhaul of amateur rules in 15 years.

A new license grade would be established. To retain all their present operating privileges, most hams would have to take new, stiffer tests in code and radio theory, at a cost of $4 per exam.

Those who fail would still be allowed to operate on all frequency bands or groups of frequencies which they now use. But they would be permitted only on certain segments of these bands.

There is some feeling that the justification for reserving these frequencies for hams depends upon the value of the radio amateur to the country.

FCC officials point out that hams have been valuable.

Hams have helped the public in times of emergencies. Where international regulations have permitted, they have handled messages between members of the armed forces and the folks back home.

If hams do not perform these services and do not continue to upgrade their skills, then officials fear that they will have no basis for reserving large blocks of frequencies for hams.

Part of the FCC concern over the status of hams is related to the allocation of precious radio frequencies. Other services such as maritime radio stations, aeronautical radio services, and international broadcasting would like to take over the valuable amateur frequencies.
