Marines, Mortar Fire Kill 51 In Viet Valley Fighting

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marines poured mortar and artillery shells and fiery napalm Thursday on a North Vietnamese command post. They reported killing 51 more Communist soldiers in the action near the demilitarized zone dividing North and South Viet Nam.

The command post was in a valley about 1 1/2 miles south of the zone where Marines have been fighting the North Vietnamese 324B Division for two months.

A U.S. spokesman said the Marines poured mortar and artillery fire on a troop concentration in the valley, three miles north of the boulder-strewn mountain called "The Rockpile."

Grassley Speaks At YAF Meeting

State Rep. Charles Grassley (R-Butler County) Thursday night told Young Americans for Freedom (YAF) that the dangerous trend that the American government is taking toward centralization must be reversed.

Grassley, a former Drake University political science instructor, spoke to 40 YAF members in the Union Hawkeye Room.

Grassley cited the centralization of power in the office of president as the major problem facing the American people today.

Resolution Asks Change In Tickets And Seating

A resolution asking the Board of Athletics to improve ticket distribution and seating for the 1967 football season is being considered for Student Senate action later in the year, according to Tom Hanson, student body president.

A resolution by Sen. John Pelton, A3, Clinton, was tabled at the last senate meeting until three student representatives to the Athletic Board had been appointed.

The tabled resolution included the following points:

Permanent reserved seats would be eliminated.

Student tickets would be distributed as in past years, with students picking them up before each game by ID number.

He said jet aircraft also dropped napalm over the 1,000-yard-long target area. In a ground sweep after the attack, the Marines counted 51 North Vietnamese dead. The spokesman said the target area was used as a regimental or battalion command post and was a network of bunkers, tunnels and spider holes — holes dug in hillsides.

The latest enemy casualties raised to 933 the total of North Vietnamese killed by the Marines in Operation Prairie since it started Aug. 3. Marines listed their own casualties as moderate.

To the south in the central highlands, a company of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division ambushed a Communist force of unknown size Thursday and reported killing four of the enemy in an area eight miles southwest of Pleiku City.

Near the central coast, north of Qui Nhon, armed helicopters of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Airborne Division strafed Viet Cong troops caught in the open in paddies. Pilots reported killing 26 Viet Cong in three separate attacks 3 1/2 miles from the coast.

In air strikes against North Viet Nam on Thursday, U.S. Navy jets from the aircraft carriers Coral Sea and Oriskany raided a nine-mile stretch along coastal Rt 1A and pilots reported destroying or damaging 11 boats, 8 railroad cars and 3 trucks. The area attacked was 30 to 40 miles southwest of Thanh Hoa.

Air Force B57 Canberra bombers struck a North Vietnamese storage area inside the demilitarized zone and fliers reported 20 small secondary explosions. Other U.S. planes attacked aircraft sites about 20 miles northwest of Dong Hoi and claimed destruction of 24 guns and three sties.

"We don't want to confine these athletic board representatives to a set proposal," Hanson said. "We don't want to pass any specific resolution until the representatives have had a chance to talk with the board."

A proposal similar to the Pelton resolution, however, will probably be passed later in the year after the athletic representatives have had time to consider it, Hanson said.

Hanson said he planned to present the resolution passed at the last senate meeting to the Athletic Board. This resolution would allow students to get tickets without taking their dates with them to the Field House.

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — Killer Hurricane Inez struck the Dominican Republic and neighboring Haiti with roof-lifting force Thursday and reports from the Haitian coastal town of Jacmel said there were many deaths from a flood tide whipped up by the storm.

Thousands were reported homeless in Haiti as the hurricane tore roofs off of buildings in Port au Prince, the capital, including that of the Haitian-American Sugar Co.

The hurricane center in Miami, Fla., said there is only a slight chance that the storm will reach the U.S. mainland.

In the Dominican Republic authorities reported a death toll of six, revising an earlier total of nine. A spokesman for the Armed Forces Ministry said the report of a drowning of three persons in Barahona turned out to be erroneous. This brought the confirmed death toll from Inez to 29 before it struck Haiti.

As the storm moved westward to Haiti, torrential rains and winds up to 75 miles an hour were reported to have hit Port au Prince. The town of Jacmel, where the flood tide was reported, is 24 miles southwest of the capital and in 1950 had a population of 8,500.

A large number of ram-shackle homes were reported unroofed or destroyed in Haiti. There was no word from the southern Haitian peninsula along which Inez sped westward, packing winds up to 150 miles an hour.

Twenty-three of the deaths were recorded Tuesday when Inez swept the French island of Guadeloupe. Inez also left 500 injured and 10,000 homeless in its wake.

The U.S. Weather Bureau in Miami said the storm threatened eastern Cuba. It said the center of the hurricane should arrive over the extreme east portion of Oriente Province Friday morning, but gale and hurricane force winds were expected well before daybreak.

Dominican government officials said the nine deaths recorded so far had been due to drowning. Three persons perished on the island of Saona, off the southern coast. Three more died in a flooded eastern suburb of Santo Domingo and three others at Barahona.

Authorities reported that contact had been lost with Cabral and Enriquillo in the Barahona peninsula, where the damage was reported heaviest. However, limited radio contact was maintained with the city of Barahona, which has about 20,000 inhabitants.

Rivers in the Barahona peninsula were reported at flood levels.

The armed forces sent additional units toward the peninsula with medical and food supplies.

The churning seas in Santo Domingo ripped off a portion of the sea wall protecting the Ozama River harbor. This caused large and small craft to seek refuge higher up the swollen river.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate fired the huge $58-billion defense appropriation bill — and its Reserves callup hot potato — back to the House Thursday. The Senate by a voice vote approved a motion by Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) to reject a House-passed compromise version of the defense bill and send it back into conference.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Prince Philip was showered with anti-British leaflets Thursday after a shooting incident and a plane hijacking had marred his visit to Argentina. The leaflets, calling for return of the disputed Falkland — Malvinas — Islands to Argentina, apparently were thrown by workers at a big electric plant Philip visited in the morning. The leaflets called on the British to recognize Argentine sovereignty over the two tiny islands in the South Atlantic, where Argentine extremists landed a hijacked plane Wednesday in a gesture of support for the anti-British Falklands campaign.

NEW YORK (AP) — Discouraged selling produced another sharp loss for the stock market Thursday but trading continued moderate. It was the second straight big drop for the market and brought it very close to its 1966 lows reached Aug. 29 in the Dow Jones industrial average. The question in Wall Street was whether the '66 low would hold as a support level, or whether the market would break through it.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Labor Committee on Thursday approved two giant federal education bills totalling $10.6 billion, about $3 billion more than President Johnson requested.

Urban Renewal Reviewed

"It's still up to the city council," Barry D. Lundberg, director of planning and urban renewal, said Thursday, speaking of proposed changes in Iowa City's downtown area.

Lundberg appeared before the city council Wednesday and presented several renewal plan variations involving different numbers of downtown business buildings.

He told the council there might be as many as 100 possible plans short of a maximum scale plan. He outlined seven levels of property acquisition at the meeting, any number of which may become part of the plan presented to the public Oct. 19.

"The council still has not settled upon a definite list of policies and minute details," Lundberg said. "It would not be right to call it 'the' plan until the council decides definitely what is the best plan to present for public discussion."

Lundberg told the council it is important to keep in mind the objectives of urban renewal — to make the four-block area bounded by Clinton, Washington, Linn and Burlington streets a pleasing and convenient focus of Iowa City commerce.

Lundberg said that the plan to be presented Oct. 19 must include maximum figures throughout in order that the potential size of the project be understood. Those figures call for 226 businesses to be relocated. With a minimum plan, he pointed out, as few as 111 business establishments would be affected.

The major factors in getting federal acceptance for a renewal plan, Lundberg said, were logic and consistency. The council discussed policy in the areas of relocation adjustment payments to businesses and families, private costs of appraisal for building rehabilitation and preference order for acquisition of redeveloped land in the renewal area.

Part-Time Jobs In Ready Supply

By BRUCE MOST
Staff Writer

The stack of part-time work slips listing jobs for male students keeps growing higher and higher on the desk of manager Howard Moffitt in the University Student Employment Office.

"There are more jobs for students at this moment than there have been for the last six or seven years," said Moffitt.

Moffitt attributed the increased demand to two factors. First, the Federal Government began a program this fall which guarantees student loans made by banks or financial institutions. This allows more students to get loans and relieves the necessity for part-time work.

Second, the demand for male help has jumped considerably. For instance, the recently increased apartment construction has demanded part-time help seldom needed before, Moffitt said.

However, the demand and variety for female part-time work is more limited, explained Moffitt, although there is a demand for baby-sitters and housework.

Approximately 55 to 60 per cent of University students work part-time. Moffitt said that the majority of students part-time help, Iowa City businessmen are quite enthusiastic with student help.

Students Help Business

"A person is making a mistake if he doesn't use student help," said Bob Cornett. Cornett said young sales people provide a good psychological factor whenever other students come into a store. Cornett added that he often checked with his student salesmen as to the color and style of clothes before he ordered his merchandises.

Greg Irwin, B4, Davenport, a salesman at Stephens Men's Wear, said the hardest thing about part-time work was "getting a good schedule."

Police Squelch Rioting In San Francisco Area

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Heavy police patrols, backed up by a reserve force of National Guardsmen, kept an uneasy peace on the asphalt battlefields of the riot-ravaged Negro areas of San Francisco.

The third day of racial unrest was marked by temperatures in the 90's and by sporadic incidents, which were squelched by about 600 law officers patrolling in squad cars, four men to a vehicle.

Because of the relative quiet, broken only by occasional rock throwing, National Guardsmen were withdrawn from patrols and stationed on stand-by at San Francisco's two big sports stadiums, Kezar and Candlestick Park.

The violence exploded Tuesday after a white policeman shot and killed a 18-year-old Negro boy. Guardsmen were used to maintain an 8 p.m. street curfew Wednesday.

Police have again called a 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew for the two districts.

Police and military forces maintained quiet and order in the bay-bordering Hunters Point and inland Fillmore Negro districts through Wednesday night after one brief but fierce outbreak by snipers and rioters. It was quickly quelled.

Negro unemployment, which Mayor John F. Shelley called the chief reason for the disorders, drew quick official attention all the way to the White House.

This action against the apparent motive for the Negro violence, plus the firm police and military action, raised hopes that the rioting may have run its course.

"The test is whether we have a quiet night tonight," said Maj. Gen. Paul R. Teihl, field commander of the Guard forces.

Mayor Shelley sent a plea to President Johnson for federal funds to attack the "critical unemployment situation" in the Negro areas.

"I plead in the name of God and human decency for immediate emergency funds to assuage this situation," Shelley declared.

Johnson responded by ordering White House assistant Joseph A. Califano to work on Shelley's request with Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz and Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The Labor Department estimated San Francisco's unemployment rate at 5 per cent. The August rate for the national civilian labor force was 3.9 per cent. The jobless rate for Negro males in the five-county San Francisco Bay area is triple the white race and double for Negro women.

Nine young Negro men were wounded by police shotgun fire in the fierce flare of violence Wednesday on 3rd Street near the Bayview Community Center. Most were leg wounds and none were serious.

The police fired shotgun blasts at the center building after fire bombs were hurled from its windows into the street, and snipers fired at a police car.

One officer was hit in the face by a flying bottle. He suffered a fractured nose.

Through the night, 135 persons were arrested by police patrols in the Hunters Point and Fillmore districts. Eighty were charged with violating the tightly enforced curfew. Twenty-six were charged with riot or inciting to riot.

The arrest total in two nights of disorder reached 181.

Schmidhauser 'Astonished' By Opponent's Talk

Rep. John R. Schmidhauser (D-Iowa) said Thursday that he was "absolutely astonished" that his opponent, Fred Schwengel, had attacked him on his "factual reports on key legislative actions which vitally affected the people of the First District."

Schwengel was quoted in Thursday's Daily Iowan as accusing Schmidhauser of "telling a falsehood" when Schmidhauser said he had received federal approval for a Mississippi River Bridge at Muscatine after nothing had been done about the project in the previous 10 years. Schwengel, speaking to the Young Republicans here Wednesday, said he had sponsored a bill which was defeated in 1956 calling for a bridge at Muscatine.

"As for his charge of alleged inaccuracy in regard to the Muscatine bridge, my report speaks for itself."

"My report stated, 'Although everyone in southeast Iowa has known for years that the old Muscatine Bridge was inadequate, a new facility could not be built over an inter-state waterway without congressional approval. All previous efforts to get a congressional go-ahead floundered on senatorial opposition to toll highways and bridges built under federal auspices. As a result, legislation authorizing the bridge gathered dust for many years.'"

Schmidhauser said his "victory on the Muscatine Bridge" would never have been possible without information supplied by the Muscatine Bridge Commission. Gov. Harold E. Hughes and members of the Iowa Highway Commission also lent strong support to his efforts, he said.

Pollution solutions

Scientists are saying we aren't getting our money's worth of air anymore; that is, air pollution is reducing the amount of fresh air we breathe each day.

Locally, at a science writers' workshop at the University, and nationally, at various conferences and institutes, those in the know have stressed the damage that polluted air can do to man and his environment. Wherever combustion occurs, they say, the air is polluted. As tons and tons of carbon dioxide are dumped into the atmosphere, the population is faced with more respiratory ailments, noxious smells, dizziness, and a dozen other effects.

It does not appear that the scientists are exaggerating the problem; if anything, too little has been said or done about it. What has been accomplished so far is the invention of devices to treat pollutants before they reach the atmosphere so that most of the waste is filtered out. Also, some scientists have thought that different mixtures of fuel would produce a cleaner waste from automobiles and industry.

However, it seems more reasonable to shift emphasis from the mere treatment of pollution to the elimination of the type of fuel that produces it. By replacing coal, oil, or gas as the primary fuels of industry and transportation with power sources that do not emit carbon dioxide, treatment devices would be unnecessary. Some industries and the Federal Government have experimented with various types of substitutive power sources such as batteries, fuel cells and atomic energy, which do not let off pollutants.

The government is apparently going to get into the act and business and industry will probably follow. The financing of air pollution combatants will have to be shared by everyone, including the taxpayer.

For too long the power and use of the sun and atom have been known; however, relatively little research has been directed at making these power sources practical for business and the people. Industry still installs the well-tried furnaces that have been modified hundreds of times since the industrial revolution; car manufacturers have spent billions of dollars on stylistic improvements on automobiles while not placing sufficient emphasis on development of safety features or different machinery to power those cars.

The rapid pace at which the United States and the world are industrializing and populations are expanding will call for an endless supply of pollution control devices. But instead of inventing a proliferation of these devices, more far-reaching effects could be achieved by eliminating the sources of the pollution.

Protesting protesters

According to the letters of a number of servicemen in South Viet Nam complaining about protesters back home, the Vietnams are a despicable bunch. If Vietnams read some of these letters from irate soldiers, then the reasoning of these letters is probably just as repulsive to the protesters.

One of the complaints voiced in virtually every letter from soldiers in Viet Nam is that the Vietnams use the same old line over and over again. But then in almost every one of these letters the angered GI uses the same argument:

"I've seen the war, the wrecked homes, the wrecked lives, the dirty Viet Cong, the burned bodies of women and babies. If those protesters would only come down here and fight in these stinking jungles, there would not be many protesting anymore. We'd take care of them."

Not only are the arguments stereotyped to the Army line, they don't make sense. If anything, the protester is repulsed by the thought of war, much less the actual participation in war. And those who dislike wars in general would probably be willing to support the war effort in Viet Nam if they thought the war was justifiable. The trouble is, the protesters don't really believe in this war; and for that matter, neither do a lot of our elected leaders and veterans of the war itself.

The letters also repeat the well-known threat that communism poses to free government in lands everywhere, whereas the United States stands for freedom everywhere. Again, there are the black-and-white labels for situations not definable in such terms.

Protester and those who have not been too critical of the war have admonished that the United States had a hand in preventing a truly representative election in South Viet Nam. They do not believe that eliminating neutralists, Communists and anyone opposed to the military regime from the ballot is an example of the pure freedom that the United States likes to talk about.

Perhaps there is a compromise between the soldier and the protester. Send the protester to Viet Nam to hear the propaganda fed to soldiers by the military. In turn, send the soldier to one of the protesters' conventions to hear their line.

It would be an educational experience for both.

LSD-cure for alcoholism

EDITOR'S NOTE — In the hills outside San Diego, psychiatrists regularly inject patients with LSD, but not just for kicks. It is a controlled experiment to see if the much-maligned drug can cure alcoholics. This is the first in a two part series.

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer
VIEJAS, Calif. (AP) — He was a half-destructive drinker. Alcohol led him into trouble. It helped break up his marriage. Once he tried to kill himself.
Ten minutes ago — to help sway him away from drink — he received an injection of a controversial drug on trial, LSD, a packaged bit of dreams that thrills, frightens, distorts, damages, depending on the mind that drinks it up, seeks it out. And depending on who gives the drug, and where.
It is a scary drug, defamed by misuse, defended by hope, and too often endowed with magic by those who shouldn't have it.

But this is different.
A minute after injection, he feels the first effects. Now he is somewhere between his mind and his imagination, aboard a single musical note in a flotilla of notes, riding a single strand of color in a changing ballet of multi-hued pipe cleaners, ribbons and spheres. Everything is pure.

Whispered Descriptions
The only notion his companions have of what he sees behind his black eyeshade are his infrequent whispered words, his trailing, unfinished sentences:
"Have you ever seen . . . when you're at the seashore — the skeleton of a crab, so clean from the sea. Well this is . . . this is . . . transience . . . I don't ever want to forget this."
His hands move to the music like two frail birds afraid to fly. His lips and chin are drawn tight in a tense, closed smile as if pleasure were welling up from his breast into his throat, and he were afraid it would escape.

The drug's chemical name is lysergic acid diethylamide. Its effects are unpredictable, mystical, beautiful and potentially dangerous. It is easy to make, difficult to control. Its action is as varied as the persons that use it. Its repeated use seems to leave its mark on the personality. It can strip a psychotic of the defenses that enable him to cope with the world. It has been all but banned by the national government. It has been taken by philosophers, musicians, doctors, writers, drug addicts and kids bent on kicks. Each tastes it differently.

Results Look Good
In this small camp in the rugged mountains outside San Diego, LSD is being tried on carefully selected subjects as a treatment for alcoholism, one of a handful of experiments condoned and supported by the National Institute of Mental Health.

The results look good, — but the tests have barely reached the half-way mark, they have about 1½ years to run, and the psychiatrists who guide them are well aware of the tight grip alcoholism has on its victims, of the frailty and temporariness of good resolutions.

Each month a group of volunteers at this county honor camp are given the drug in a controlled study administered through the Vista Hill Psychiatric Foundation to determine if LSD can pull alcoholics away from the path of drink. A study in Canada has claimed success with these and misfits under LSD, but proof is not easy. Hopefully, the San Diego experiment will have enough follow-up to be meaningful.

SHIL Little known
Dr. Keith Diltman, psychiatrist at the University of California at Los Angeles, who heads the study, prefers to withhold judgement. He has had LSD himself, as have other doctors on the team. They know many of its effects. But no one knows exactly how the drug works, whether it temporarily upsets the chemical balance of the brain and nervous system, where the site of action is, whether the drug blocks or enhances or both.

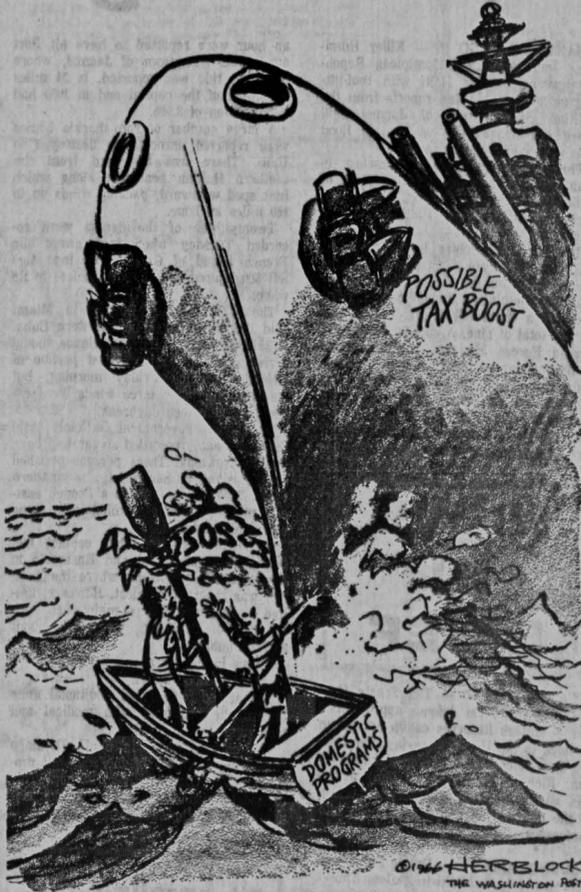

Diltman explains that LSD makes a person more open to suggestion from outside stimuli, more impressionable. If you look at the human brain as a camera, he says, the effect of LSD is to increase the speed of the film, make it more sensitive. For some susceptible individuals, and a massive LSD experience, there is often a religious-like conversion. For alcoholics who often have a sort of gun barrel view of the world, LSD can conceivably provide a broadening, fulfilling experience.

Open Mind To Past
Indeed some say they have seen the demons of their lives, some have found it a gateway to religious experience. Some have seen hellfire and some have seen heaven. Some have seen both. Some have come out of the experience, says Diltman, with a sort of chemical Christianity.

The hope is that the alcoholic's LSD experience can somehow open his mind to his own past, help him see it more clearly, erase in one great purging some of the troublesome emotions that have led his life astray. Indeed, for some it seems to work this way. The experience seems to allow them one brief afternoon for the private screening of an autobiographical fantasy.

He meets in his dream world some of the people who arouse his hostility, and he goes into each meeting with a kind of superiority that makes the hostility unnecessary, or at least explainable. In short, a man may come face to face with his more base, more destructive self.

Intellectualism: religion's challenge

NEW YORK (AP) — A man whose dream became geography, Rabbi Dr. Israel Goldstein, was completing his annual pilgrimage to America Thursday, and he saw a need for giving another vision more substance.

"We've got to work at it," he said. The scholar and international statesman, 70, said it is urgent to reinforce religion with modern learning.

"All of religion is being challenged by the glorification of science as God, as a false Messiah," he said.

"To hold religion we must meet the challenge of intellectualism," he said. "We must interpret religion in terms of the science and culture of today. This is the chief problem of the age."

"In genuine religion, the spirit seeks embodiment," he said. "It presses for action among men to improve the world under the kingdom of God."

In this conviction, Dr. Goldstein pioneered in the struggles for the rights of labor, interfaith cooperation, the Zionist goal of a Jewish state, Negro equality and civil rights.

"I've always disdained the notion that spiritual leaders should content themselves with generalities and shun specifics, or that they should 'stick to religion and keep away from politics,'" he said.

Over the years, he has held high office in many organizations. He was a consultant at the founding of the United Nations, founded Brandeis University and was an early leader of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Uncle Tom on one side, black supremacist on the other

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — It is incumbent for every white man in these enlightened times to have a Negro friend, but it is very dangerous for a Negro to have a white friend.

Take my friend, Belsky, if you will. Belsky is in all sorts of trouble, none of his own doing.

Belsky complained to me the other day, "You are looking at a man without a country. I am in hot water up to my ears, and I don't know what to do about it."

"How so, Belsky?" I inquired.
"Well, I did everything they told me to do. They said, 'Belsky, get an education and you'll be able to throw off the chains of slavery and injustice that your people have suffered for nigh on 300 years.' So I went out and got a college education.

"Then they said, 'Belsky, move out of the ghetto into a decent neighborhood so your kids can breathe good air and grow straight and tall.' I moved out of the ghetto and found a nice home in a middle-class neighborhood, and everyone seemed happy that I had made it.

"The black people said, 'Look at old Belsky. He broke out of the neighborhood. If he can do it, we can too.' And the white neighbors, after they got over the shock of it, said, 'You know, once you get to know Belsky he's just like us.' I almost got the feeling they were proud to have me in the neighborhood.

"For three years everything was going along fine, and then one day a black relative said, 'Belsky's an Uncle Tom.' And another black friend said, 'Of course, he's an Uncle Tom. If he wasn't he'd be living in the ghetto with us.'

"Another one said, 'Belsky has white friends. Anyone who has white friends must be Uncle Tomming it all the time.' And still another one said, 'His kids go to a good school. You know he's sold out to Whitley.' And so, back in my old neighborhood everyone was saying 'Burn, Belsky, Burn.' "I tried to point out I was only trying to do the right thing by integrating, but they said the only ones that want to integrate are Uncle Toms. Since I was a member of the PTA and had a good job with a company it had to be assumed I was up to no good."

"You're in a tough spot," I had to admit. "Well, that's just the half of it. I thought about it for some time and decided there was no sense moving back to the old neighborhood, and if the price of giving my kids a decent break was being called an Uncle Tom I could live with it.

"But I hadn't reckoned with the effect the black power scare would have on the white people. Lately my neighbors have become very nervous. 'You want to burn down my house, don't you Belsky?' one of them said. I denied it. 'Well, your people want to burn my house.' I denied my people wanted to burn down his house. 'Well,' he said angrily, 'someone wants to burn down my house.'

"Another neighbor said, 'Belsky, I'm wise to you and your black power, and I want you to know I've bought a gun.' Several kids, white kids, have been running by my house lately shouting 'Burn, Belsky, Burn!'"

"Then you're considered an Uncle Tom by the Negroes and a black power advocate by the white people?" I said.

"Exactly. Nobody's very happy with me, and everyone wants me to burn." "Well, I want you to know, Belsky," I assured him, "you're still my friend, and if you want to you can burn down my house any time."

"Thanks," he said gratefully. "There aren't many people left like you any more."

Old House Finds New Life As Mugwump Opens Doors

By MARLIN LEVISON
Staff Writer

It looks like any other house in any other quiet residential section of Iowa City — from the outside. But the similarity ends once inside the two-story wooden frame house at 707 Melrose Ave. The upper two stories of the structure are vacant and collecting dust; the basement is filled with tables in hopes of collecting students. The low ceiling room is to be the location of a coffee house, organized within the past year by several dozen University students in cooperation with campus ministry groups.

Named the Mugwump as a result of a house-naming contest, the coffee house will serve its first pot of espresso coffee tonight.

"It's like wild," said Cheryl Ingram, A2, Sioux Rapids, in describing the color scheme of the Mugwump walls she helped paint.

Flourescent Pipes
"The four walls are painted red, green, turquoise, and yellow, with fluorescent coated water pipes jutting down here and there," she explained.

"The atmosphere should be lively, yet with no alcoholic beverages being served, the quiet, intellectual activity for which the coffee house was designed can still be maintained," said Miss Ingram, who along with a dozen other students volunteered to ready the basement for public use.

The house is owned by the United Campus Christian Ministry Board, consisting of the Presbyterian Disciple, United Church of Christ, Evangelical Lutheran, and United Brethren campus ministry groups.

Started Last Year
"The idea of originating a coffee house in Iowa City started a year ago with several students declaring a desire to establish a place to go to study, have quiet conversation, and engage in spontaneous talent displays — all over a hot cup of coffee," said Gary Ellis Smith, A4, Fairfield, publicity chairman of the coffee house.

"Once the campus ministry group donated the building it was merely a matter of determining the physical layout and a program of activity," he said.

The coffee house will be open from 8 to midnight Sunday through Friday. The area will be supervised, but activity will be left to the wishes of the students. Stereo music will be provided.

The name Mugwump was submitted to the campus ministry group by Mary Brandes, 312 Davenport St., a research assistant in physiology. Mrs. Brandes won a security blanket figured with a Linus cartoon and autographed by Charles Schulz, cartoonist for the comic strip "Peanuts," for submitting the first place entry.

Indian Word
The word Mugwump is derived from Algonquian Indian language, in which it means "great man." The word later picked up political connotations, and meant to take a position in the middle of things.

"Regarding our facilities, Mugwump means the coffee house is open to all sides of discussion and any form of service," said Smith.

Senate Approves New Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to set up a Department of Transportation — the 12th Cabinet-level department — passed the Senate Thursday 64 to 2.

Somewhat rewritten from the form proposed by President Johnson, the measure was sent to conference with the House, which had passed a substantially similar bill Aug. 30. Leaders expect quick agreement on the Senate-House differences.

The new department would be the fourth largest in the number of its employees and the fifth in the size of its budget. It would take over policies and functions now carried on by almost 100,000 persons in 35 separate units. They spend more than $6 billion a year.

Antipoverty Bill Passed By House, Tightens Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed the administration's $1.75-billion antipoverty bill Thursday but tightened congressional control over the program and added curbs to spending.

Passage came after Republicans, rebuffed in their efforts to make any major changes in the bill, tried to kill it and almost succeeded.

A parliamentary motion by Rep. Paul A. Fino, (R-N.Y.), that would have killed the bill, was approved by a nonrecord vote of 123-112. Republicans and Southern Democrats voted solidly for it. The Democrats then rallied their forces and on an immediate roll-call vote defeated the motion 208-156.

Library Staff Uses Summer To Rearrange Book Collection

The entire collection of books in the University Library — more than a million — was rearranged by the library staff this summer to facilitate better access to books by students.

New steel shelving also was added to the second and third floors during the summer.

The third floor now shelves all Class A Library of Congress materials, all bound periodicals prior to 1960, all oversized books from the Library of Congress, and all thesis materials.

Class B-Z of the Library of Congress can be found on the second floor. Bound periodicals since 1960 and unbound issues for the current year are on the first floor.

The circulation and information desks now have additional hours. The circulation desk is now open on Saturdays from 2-10 p.m., and the information desk is open on Sundays from 2-5 p.m., and 6-10 p.m.

The library also offers a pamphlet of the floor plan with instructions for touring the building. It enables the student to explore the library on his own and saves staff members from having to explain where to find materials.

Although the self-help tour is designed for the new student, library officials said it will be useful to all students in finding books under the new arrangement. The pamphlets are available at the information desk.

Teaching Job Offers Rise By 62 Per Cent

The University's Educational Placement Office reported it received 57,500 requests last year for teachers and administrators on all educational levels.

Currently 1,800 students and alumni are registered with the Educational Placement Office.

The requests for teachers and administrators, which came from 50 states and many foreign countries, represents a 62 per cent increase over the previous year.

Miss Ermina Busch, director of the Educational Placement Office, attributes much of the teacher-administrator shortage, the worst since World War II, to the growing number of government-sponsored educational projects.

On the elementary and secondary level teaching position offerings increased by 91 per cent. In late August the Placement Office was swamped with requests from school districts desperate for qualified help.

Many teaching positions still remain unfilled.

Openings on the college and university level increased by eight per cent. Miss Busch said colleges were mainly interested in Ph.D. applicants or those who are completing their dissertations.

Foreign Visitors And Prize Winners— Varied Talents Come To Workshop

The new graduate assistants and lecturers of the Writers Workshop this year bring with them a variety of foreign backgrounds and impressive credentials.

Among the graduate assistants who will be studying at the workshop and teaching at the University are a Filipino novelist who is writing his third novel; a writer who received a $10,000 grant this year; the winner of the Yale University prize for younger poets; a poet from Hull, England, on a Fulbright grant; a South African writer who is finishing a travelogue entitled "The Sea and Corsica;" and a novelist who has just returned from a four-year stay in Israel.

Bienvenido N. Santos is a lecturer in the Writers Workshop as a Fulbright scholar, and is starting work on his third novel. Now vice-president of the University of Nueva Caceres in Naga City, Philippines, he was at the workshop from 1958 to 1961 studying under two Rockefeller Foundation awards and a Guggenheim Fellowship. He wrote "Villa Magdalena" and "The Volcano," novels which were published in 1965.

Philippines Award Winner
Santos, who writes in English, has also published two collections of short stories, "You Lovely People" and "Brother My Brother," and a volume of poetry entitled "The Wounded Stag." Last year he won the Republic Cultural Heritage Award for Literature in the Philippines.

During his visits to the United States, Santos has received an M.A. from the University of Illinois, studied at Harvard and Columbia Universities, and attended two Breadloaf Writers Conferences at Middlebury College in Vermont.

Richard Yates, who lectured during the 1964-65 academic year here, received this year a $10,000 grant from the National Council for the Arts and Humanities. He is the author of "Eleven Kinds of Loneliness," a book of short stories, and "Revolutionary Road," a novel which was nominated for the National Book Award in 1961.

Former Kennedy Speech Writer
In 1963, Yates received a Guggenheim Fellowship, and he was for some months a speech-writer for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy (D-N.Y.), who was then U.S. attorney-general. This year he will teach fiction writing to graduate students while working on another novel of his own.

James Tate, a graduate assistant, is at 22 one of the youngest poets to win the Yale prize, which has been given since 1919. His book is entitled "The Lost Pilot." Poems by Tate have been published in Atlantic Magazine and North American Review.

He attended the university of Missouri at Kansas City and received a B.A. in English from Kansas State College in Pittsburg in 1965. Last year he worked toward an M.F.A. at the University, and he hopes to receive an M.A. here in January.

Authority On Faulkner
Norman Jackson of Hull, England, is making his first visit to the United States, on a Fulbright scholarship. He has attended Faircroft College at Birmingham, England; Hull University; and Hull College of Art. For a time he was the Yorkshire junior schoolboy champion in the 100-yard dash.

He has read his poetry on BBC television on a program called "The Northern Drift," and written book reviews for the London Tribune.

His thesis on "Faulkner, the Novelist Behind the Man" was published by the National University Press in England and brought Jackson a state scholarship. After arriving in this country he visited the Faulkner collection at the University of Mississippi in Oxford to present the manuscript of his thesis. He has agreed to give three lectures on Faulkner during the coming year at Mississippi.

South African Writer
Stephen Gray, another graduate assistant, became acquainted with the Mediterranean island of Corsica during vacations from his job teaching English literature at the university at Aix-en-Provence in France. He left Capetown, South Africa, his hometown, six years ago to study at Cambridge University in England, where he received a bachelor's degree after three years.

Later he toured South Africa as director of a Shakespere company of students and professional actors. He went to Aix-en-Provence first as a correspondent for a South African newspaper before taking the teaching position. He will write fiction at the workshop while working toward an M.F.A.

Jerome Greenfield, a native of Seattle, spent the past four years teaching English at Tel Aviv University and the University of Jerusalem in Israel. He has a

B.A. from the New School for Social Research and an M.A. from Columbia. He is starting work on a Ph. D.

Greenfield has published short stories in Interim and Jewish Frontier magazines, and published a novel entitled "The Chalk Line" in 1963. He is planning another novel which he hopes to write during his stay here.

L.A. Moves Toward Pennant, Wins 2-1

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers increased their National League lead to two games Thursday night as Sandy Koufax stopped St. Louis 2-1 on four hits and became the first pitcher in major league history to reach the 300-strikeout level in three different seasons.

The victory put the Dodgers in position to clinch their second straight pennant Friday night if they beat Philadelphia and second-place Pittsburgh loses to San Francisco. The Dodgers and Pirates each have three games remaining.

Koufax, now 26-9, went into the game with 294 strikeouts. He reached and passed the 300 level when he struck out the side in the fourth inning. Koufax struck out 306 batters in 1963 and fanned 382 last season.

Walter Johnson of the Washington Senators and Rube Waddell of the Philadelphia Athletics previously were tied with Koufax for the record with two 300-strikeout seasons each.

Koufax, who also struck out the side in the sixth inning, wound up with 13 strikeouts.

Mulligan, Williams To Captain Hawkeyes

TONY WILLIAMS
Named Offensive Captain

TERRY MULLIGAN
Named Defensive Captain

Iowa's Terry Mulligan and Tony Williams were named co-captains Thursday for Saturday's Big 10 opener here against Wisconsin.

Mulligan, a senior, is a 6-3, 230 pound defensive tackle from Cleveland, Ohio.

Williams is a 5-11, 182 pound junior halfback from Davenport. He is Iowa's leading ground gainer with 99 yards in 23 carries for a 4.3-yard average.

The Hawkeyes held a spirited, 30-minute practice session Thursday in sweat clothes.

Coach Ray Nagel said that John Evenden, 6-3, 259 pound defensive tackle who injured his hand earlier this week, would be ready to play Saturday.

Hawks Are Eager To End Long Big 10 Losing Streak

Big 10 football teams Iowa and Wisconsin, both eager to enter their Saturday afternoon's effort in the league's "W" column after too many ventures into the "L" column, open their series of games which really count in the standing.

For Iowa, this third straight home game starts the 67th Big 10 season, launches new coach Ray Nagel into his Big 10 career after eight seasons in the Western Atlantic Conference, and matches teams with 1-1 records.

An expected crowd of 53,000 will watch Iowa try to snap off the string of twelve straight Big 10 losses and take the first league victory since Oct. 10, 1964, when the Hawks beat Indiana 21-20, at Bloomington.

Although it is coach Nagel's first venture into the Big 10 with an Iowa team, his 1961 Utah eleven tangled with the Wisconsin Badgers and Milt Bruhn, losing 7-0 at Madison.

So his current acquaintance with Wisconsin is just by means of the scouting report of Lynn Stiles and a close scrutiny of the Wisconsin-Iowa State film.

Both Are 1-1
"It should be a fine game," Nagel said Thursday, "I am looking forward to it and so are the players. Both teams have 1-1 records. Wisconsin's attack is very similar to the one we faced from Oregon State but I hope the Badgers lack the speed of the Beavers."

Gary Larsen, left end and leading pass-receiver, will miss the game because of a double dislocation of his right thumb. Al Bream, a safety man, has been worked into the position and sophomore John Hayes is also ready.

Iowa hopes to get the roll-out, run-pass option play in gear and will use Tony Williams and Silas McKinnie, the two top runners, on inside and outside slants. Ed Podolak, sophomore quarterback, is the roll-out specialist. Williams has a 4.3-yard average and McKinnie has 3.1.

In drills this week, Iowans have concentrated upon plugging up the defense which was penetrated by Oregon State for big yardage last week. Hawks have yielded an average of 4.6 yards per game by rushing and opponents have hit just over 500 on passes.

Big Badger Runners
Wisconsin has big running backs but apparently does not appear to have the speed which Oregon State showed here. Quarterback John Ryan and John Boyajian are dangerous players, and backs Vic Janule and Wayne Todd are powerful ball-carriers.

This game is the 44th with Wisconsin since the series started in 1894. Iowa has won five of the last six at Iowa City and Wisconsin has the same record for games at Madison. The all-time record shows 28 wins for Wisconsin against Iowa's 15. The Badgers have taken the last four, including 16-13 at Madison in 1965. Iowa last won in 1961, 47-15, at Iowa City.

Gym Coach Says Hawkeyes Will Be Big 10's Best Team

By ROGER JAYNES
Staff Writer

It's Iowa gymnastics head coach Sam Baillie's first year in the Midwest and he sees no reason why the Hawks' squad can't lead the Big 10.

Baillie, a former NCAA gymnastics champ at Iowa who left a similar position at the University of Arizona, spoke positively to his 17-man squad at their first meeting Sept. 23.

"With out a doubt we have the best team," he said. "We have the most strength and depth Iowa has ever had, and should finish first in the conference."

"I won't be satisfied with anything else," he added.

Baillie has a good combination of youth and experience on his roster, with 10 lettermen but only four seniors. He is especially proud of his seven sophomores.

"We have an outstanding group of sophomores — many of whom will be shooting for national honors in their first year," Baillie said.

Baillie felt the Hawks were especially strong at the high bar, parallel bars, rings, and side horse.

"We do have a lot of hard work ahead on our weak areas — trampoline, floor exercise, and long horse," he said. The Hawks have only four lettermen in those areas: senior Ike Heller and juniors John Kellner, Neil Schmitt, and Paul Omi.

Other lettermen include seniors Dan Price (highbar), Tom Goldsborough (parallel bars), and Ken Gordon (side horse); and juniors Arnie Lazar (parallel bars), Bob Singerman (rings) and Marc Sloten (side horse).

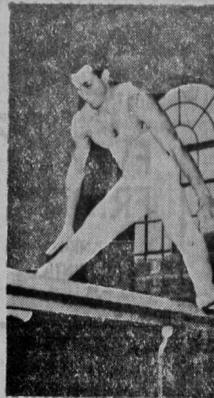

Oct. 3 has been set aside as picture and press day for the squad.

"On paper we look real good," Baillie said. "Many are predicting Michigan State to finish first with Iowa and Michigan second and third, respectively."

"This means we'll have to work harder to prove our point."

Badgers Hold Light Workout

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin's football team held a light workout Thursday as it tapered off for Saturday's Big 10 opener at Iowa.

"We've been working them hard for two days and have to let up on them," coach Milt Bruhn said in ordering a 90-minute drill without contact.

The Badgers will leave Madison by plane at 1 p.m. today for Cedar Rapids, where they will spend the night. The 40-man squad will include two players whose leg injuries have kept them out of play so far this season — No. 2 fullback Kim Wood and linebacker Ken Criter.

Chuck Burt, starting quarterback most of last year but now an offensive end, will remain at home along with halfback Gale Bucciarrelli, who has a bad leg.

Bauer Sings New Contract For Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP)—Hank Bauer, who directed the 1966 Baltimore Orioles to their first American League pennant, was given a new two-year contract Thursday on the eve of the World Series.

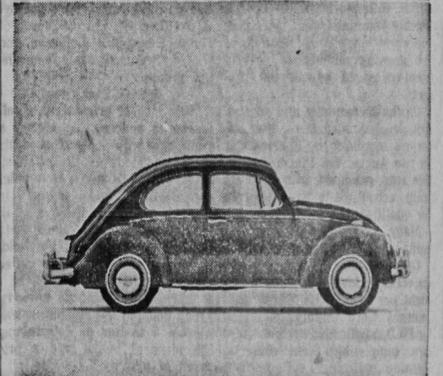

Salary terms were not disclosed, but estimates placed Bauer's new contract at close to $50,000 per year, an increase of $10,000 to $12,000.

Bauer, 44, a former New York Yankee outfielder, is completing his third year as Oriole manager. He also coached for Baltimore in 1963 before replacing Billy Hitchcock as manager.

After the Orioles finished third in 1964, two games behind the pennant winning New York Yankees, Bauer was named American League manager of the year. Baltimore also finished third last year, eight games behind the Minnesota Twins.

Bauer's first tenure as a manager was with Kansas City from June 19, 1961 until he quit at the end of the 1962 season, just before he was expected to be fired by Kansas City owner Charles O. Finley.

OVERSEAS DELIVERY AVAILABLE

Introducing two of the most radical changes in Volkswagen history. Can you spot them?

Did you notice that the headlights are vertical now instead of leaning back a bit? That doesn't make the car look any better. But it makes the road look better by making the lights a little brighter.

And that little hump in the back? We did that to hold the license plate up straight so the police can read it better. (Sorry.)

What you won't notice without driving the new model are the big improvements.

The engine has been enlarged to a ferocious 53 horsepower. That only adds 3 m.p.h. to the top speed. Because we put most of the additional power where it would make the engine accelerate faster, turn slower and last even longer.

Now that the VW is getting to be such a hot car, we put in a couple of things to slow it down. Dual brakes.

The front wheel brakes are completely independent of the rear wheel brakes. So if you ever lost the front wheel brakes, you could still stop the back of the car. (Which automatically stops the front of the car too.)

The new VW also has seat belts, backup lights and recessed door handles as standard equipment. In fact, this year we made so many changes on the Volkswagen that we thought we'd better make one more.

We wrote "Volkswagen" on the back of the car to be sure everybody would know what it was.

Illness Slows Activities Of Ex-President

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman, the No. 1 citizen of Independence and a familiar sight on its streets, hasn't left his home for nearly two months.

Truman, 82, was hospitalized July 30, suffering from severe colitis. He was dismissed after six days but his doctor has not permitted his return to work in the Truman Library, half a mile from his home.

"Every day he says, 'I'll be any day now,'" Miss Rose Conway, Truman's long-time secretary, said Thursday. "He's progressing well."

Miss Conway visits the Truman home daily to bring the former president his mail "because he can do it with less strain there and at his leisure."

Truman had kept regular office hours since his White House days, seeing visitors, writing articles and answering mail. He usually was the first one at the office in the morning — to work in solitude.

School Board Sells Bonds For West Side High School

Building bonds totaling $775,000 were sold Thursday by the Iowa City School Board to the Chicago City of Halsey, Stuart and Company at an interest rate of 3.9463 per cent, the lowest bid.

Funds from the bonds will be used to construct the second phase of the new west side high school. Work on the school's first phase has already begun with funds from $3 million in construction bonds sold last March. Because of rising building costs the original bonds proved insufficient to finance the project. Additional funds were authorized in a bond issue passed earlier this month.

Halsey, Stuart and Company competed with 10 other firms to buy the school bonds from the local board. Total interest from the purchase will amount to $278,573.

In addition to selling the bonds, the school board viewed and approved a display of various color schemes for the school.

School Board Pres. William Phelan pointed out the need for

Remodeling Adds Rooms For Botany

The Botany Department has relocated the mycology section to the third floor of the Chemistry-Botany building. The move will give the section more room for research and teaching.

Rooms that have been added are: an incubator room, an instrument room, a transfer room, a photographic darkroom, a graduate teaching lab, a general teaching lab, a preparation room and a new office and lab for Martin Rosinski, associate professor of botany, whose major interest is mycology.

The instrument room, incubator room and transfer room are air-conditioned. Rosinski said that the air conditioning was necessary in order to keep fungus specimens alive.

A freeze-drying machine has been added that will preserve the cultures for nine to ten years. Previous processes only preserved them for two to three years.

U Job Office Holds Meeting For Teachers

Students interested in college, elementary or secondary teaching positions starting in February, June or August are requested to attend one of two meetings to be sponsored by the Educational Placement Office on Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 11 and 12 in 221A, Schaeffer Hall.

Those interested in teaching at a college or university are asked to attend a meeting either at 4 p.m. or 6:45 p.m. Tuesday. The meetings are expected to last about 30 minutes.

Students seeking elementary and secondary school teaching positions will meet at either 4 or 6:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Ermina Busch, director of the Educational Placement Office, said the meetings were scheduled to explain how to prepare credential folders necessary for those expecting to make application for teaching positions.

She said students planning to teach in February, June or August should register now for an appointment with the Educational Placement Office.

Requests for elementary and secondary teachers have increased 91 per cent over last year, Miss Busch said.

Will Do Less Talking This Year, Says SDS

Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) will be doing more and talking less this fall, according to two of its members.

At the group's organizational meeting Wednesday night, Everett Frost, G. Coventry, Conn., said the aim of SDS this year would be "to get people thinking about changing their attitudes," and not to merely discuss problems.

"We're going to tone down the political demonstrations," said Harry MacCormack, G. San Jose, Calif. MacCormack said SDS was not now planning any demonstrations, but said members would be free to participate in protest actions sponsored by other groups.

Bruce A. Clarke, A2, Des Moines, was named executive administrator at the meeting. Frost said SDS would have no president or strict organizational structure, in keeping with the group's aim of "total democracy."

The program involves "getting these people to have confidence in themselves, to tell people what they need," said Frost. SDS is supporting the mothers in their fight for an increase in state aid.

Barry Gholson, G. Defiance, Ohio, and Eugene Peters, G. San Francisco, are joint heads of a committee on the Selective Service and Viet Nam. MacCormack said Gholson would be in charge of finding means of investigating and attacking present draft laws, while Peters would "promote education on the war in Viet Nam." Peters is a former member of the San Francisco Viet Nam Day Committee.

MacCormack said SDS members would go into dormitories, fraternity and sorority houses, and Iowa City neighborhoods to speak against the Viet Nam war.

MacCormack and Frost will head a "Radical Arts" project, out of which will come a periodical "penny paper" of poetry; a spring conference on the arts, and a literary page in "New Left Notes," the weekly newspaper of the national SDS organization.

Laurie C. McComb, A2, Naperville, Ill., was named the local SDS chapter's liaison to national SDS headquarters in Chicago. Frost said the positions of Great Plains regional correspondent and treasurer remained unfilled.

Henry Barbatti, assistant director of the physical plant, said he hoped the new boiler would help relieve deficiencies in the University's overall steam capacity. He said that with present facilities some of the buildings would have to cut down on heat if there was a long, cold winter. He added, however, that there would be few problems if the winter turned out to be mild.

The new boiler will replace two obsolete, coal-fired boilers that have been in operation since 1925. The installation of the new boiler will mark the completion of the physical plant's steam rehabilitation project started early last summer.

During the summer, the physical plant installed larger steam pipes in all the underground tunnels. The larger pipes will allow the boilers to work to capacity, Barbatti said.

Bids Opened For Theater At Iowa State

AMES — Bids were opened Thursday for construction of a 2,000-seat theater-auditorium, the first building in a planned $12 million cultural complex at Iowa State University.

Martin K. Eby Construction Co. of Wichita, Kan., was the apparent lowest among four bidders on the general construction contract at $2,618,700.

University officials will study the bids and make a recommendation to the executive committee of the Iowa State University Foundation. If the committee approves, the bids will go to the State Board of Regents next week for award of a contract.

Eby spokesmen said they could begin construction immediately, and the building would take about two years to erect.

Bids taken earlier this year will bring construction cost to about $4 million. They covered such subsidiary contracts as electrical work, air conditioning, elevators, and stage rigging and lighting.

New Boiler Adds Power To U Plant

A new gas-oil boiler with a capacity of 150,000 pounds of steam an hour will soon be added to the University power plant.

Henry Barbatti, assistant director of the physical plant, said he hoped the new boiler would help relieve deficiencies in the University's overall steam capacity. He said that with present facilities some of the buildings would have to cut down on heat if there was a long, cold winter. He added, however, that there would be few problems if the winter turned out to be mild.

The new boiler will replace two obsolete, coal-fired boilers that have been in operation since 1925. The installation of the new boiler will mark the completion of the physical plant's steam rehabilitation project started early last summer.

During the summer, the physical plant installed larger steam pipes in all the underground tunnels. The larger pipes will allow the boilers to work to capacity, Barbatti said.
