—Judging Is Saturday At The Union— 20 Compete For Miss U Of I Title

Ticket sales for the Miss U of I Pageant, to be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Union Main Lounge, began Monday morning and will continue throughout the week. Reserved seat tickets for $1.50 and general admission tickets for $1 may be purchased at the Union's new information desk, Campus Record Store or at Whetstone Drug.

According to Roger Servison, B4, Sioux City, publicity director for the pageant, tickets will be sold in dormitory dining lines in an attempt to encourage more men living in dormitories to attend the pageant.

Highlight of the pageant will be the selection of the five finalists who will compete for the title of Miss U of I. Miss U of I and her attendants will reign over 1966 Homecoming activities, Oct. 21-22. Candidates will be introduced in skits presented by their sponsoring house units. The field of 20 candidates will be narrowed to 10. The judges will base their decisions on the skit, on the personal appearance of the candidate, on the fashions she wears, and on an interview with the candidate prior to the pageant.

The 10 semi-finalists will be asked an impromptu question. Following the candidates' responses, the judges will vote again and name the five finalists.

An all male vote Oct. 20 will determine who will be crowned Miss U of I. Polling places will be located in University buildings and dormitories. Coronation ceremonies have been set for 8 p.m., Oct. 21.

U.S. Supreme Court Upholds Iowa Subdistricting Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Iowa Legislature will have to provide for subdistricting in the temporary reapportionment plan now in use, the U.S. Supreme Court said in effect Monday.

The nation's highest court in a brief announcement refused to review an Iowa Supreme Court decision ordering subdistricting of counties electing more than one senator or representative.

The decision was greeted by an expression of approval by Gov. Harold Hughes and of disappointment by Iowa Solicitor General Tim McCarthy.

Hughes said at Ottumwa, where he was on tour with a Democratic campaign caravan, that he thought the high court made "the right decision."

Subdistricting Is Necessary

The governor said he always has believed subdistricting is necessary in multi-legislator districts and is the most democratic way of electing representatives, even though this view is opposed by some of his party's state leaders.

McCarthy, who had asked the review of the state court's ruling, said he was "quite disappointed" at the decision.

He pointed out the nation's high court did not rule on the merits of the case.

"What was decided was whether it would accept jurisdiction," he said.

David Belin of Des Moines, attorney for a group of Iowans headed by Mrs. Elizabeth Kruidenier of Des Moines who brought suit challenging the 1965 legislature's reapportionment plan, commented that "the next move is up to the legislature" and added:

"I feel the most important fact of the litigation is that it helps solidify what I call citizen participation in government. "As society grows more complex, we have to keep government close to the people."

The U.S. Supreme Court said only that the state's petition for a writ of certiorari review was denied.

The Iowa Supreme Court ruled in April that the temporary reapportionment plan voted by the 1965 legislature violated both the equal protection of the laws clause of the 14th Amendment to the federal constitution, and the Iowa constitution's equal application of the laws clause.

It ruled 5-4, with the court's five Republicans forming the majority, that allowing people of the more populous counties to vote for several senators or representatives while those in other counties can vote for only one member of the same house, discriminates against residents of the smaller population counties.

Atom Weapons Curb Hinted After Johnson-Gromyko Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko said — and the State Department agreed — Monday night that the United States and Soviet Union are moving toward agreement on a treaty concerning nonproliferation of nuclear weapons.

"It looks like both countries are striving to reach agreement and facilitate conclusion of an international agreement," said Gromyko after he had met for one hour and 45 minutes with President Johnson and 2½ hours with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

But Gromyko refused to tell newsmen about anything else discussed at the late afternoon White House session or at Monday night's State Department dinner.

The White House described the Gromyko sessions with Johnson as "a frank and wide-ranging discussion in a businesslike atmosphere."

Both sides agreed to continue talks on the nonproliferation question. They reportedly will pick up in New York within a few days with Arms Control and Disarmament Agency head William C. Foster the likely U.S. negotiator.

Washington sources said after the Gromyko visit that both sides are agreed a nonproliferation agreement is desirable, and that "some of the underbrush" had been cleared away by the day's talks. But no agreement is yet on paper, it was learned.

The general idea of such an agreement would be for nuclear countries to agree not to give away or sell nuclear weapons, and for non-nuclear countries not to acquire such weapons.

Student Senate Budget Proposal Stirs Controversy

By EDSON EGGER
Staff Writer

Union Board Pres. Harry D. Maas, A3, Wellsburg, is concerned about a new Student Senate proposal which would give the Senate greater control over campus organizational spending.

The proposal would require that Union Board, Associated Women Students and Women's Recreation Association submit a final itemized budget to the Senate for approval, and would give the Senate control throughout the year over how each organization spends its money.

The Union Board, which receives almost half of all money budgeted, would be required to present all new program ideas costing more than $100 to the Senate for approval. Any programs less than $100 could be carried out without Senate approval.

"I wouldn't be opposed to the new resolution if that $100 figure were raised to $300 or $400," Maas said, "But the way it stands now, it could really put us in a bind."

At a previous Senate meeting, Maas said the resolution would cause the Union Board headaches and would waste the Senate's time.

"If we have to present every new idea to the Senate for approval," he contended, "you (the Senate) will be here all night just considering Union Board's plans."

Student Senate Pres. Tom Hanson, A4, Jefferson, doesn't think this situation will arise.

"If Union Board puts on 1,000 programs over the year, hardly any of them could cost more than $100," Hanson said. "Most of them will probably only amount to about $25. I don't think the new resolution would hinder Union Board's operation."

Hanson explained why the resolution is being considered. "When Senate is given the authority to budget, it should have some control over how organizations spend their money," he said.

Dodge, Governor One-Way Streets On Wednesday

Dodge and Governor streets will change to one-way traffic arteries at 6 a.m. Wednesday, City Manager Carsten D. Leikvold announced Monday.

The couplet will split Highway 1 traffic, which has followed Dodge Street, into two one-way arteries. Traffic will move north-bound on Governor Street and south-bound on Dodge.

"We caution everyone to drive in the area with extra care and attention," Leikvold said. "Old driving habits are hard to break."

Parking has been eliminated on both streets north of Burlington Street. Cars will be allowed to park only on the right hand side of the one-way streets south of Burlington.

Dodge and Governor will be one-way from Bowery Street, the major southern link, north to where they intersect to become Highway 261.

The new one-way couplet is part of a $200,000 interim traffic program worked out for Iowa City by Barton-Aschman Associates, planning consultants. The interim traffic program was designed to co-ordinate the efforts of the street department until Iowa City reaches a decision on urban renewal.

No Hearing Date Set On Narcotics Charge

Iowa City Police Judge Marion Neely has not set a date for the preliminary hearing in the case of Dennis Ankrum, 19, A2, Webster City, who was charged with possession and control of narcotics Sept. 30 by Iowa City police.

Ankrum's attorney appeared for him in Iowa City Police Court Friday, and entered a plea of not guilty to the charges, asking for a preliminary hearing.

A needed voice at Regents' meeting

Students at the State College of Iowa may have begun a trend, a trend that seems to have merit if it does not get too far out of hand.

Friday at the State Board of Regents meeting in Cedar Falls, SCI students escorted regent members around the campus to point out that student dormitories were overcrowded, that waiting lines in the cafeteria were too long and that registration procedures were archaic and cumbersome.

It was undoubtedly an inconvenience for the board members to interrupt their busy two-day meeting for about two hours, but they did so willingly and showed a sincere interest in learning what the students had to tell them. Normally, the regents meet with the presidents and administrators of the three state schools during the monthly meetings, and that alone is enough to occupy the regents' schedule. As it was, some items had to be postponed until the next meeting.

Normally, students take their complaints to the administration which brings it to the attention of the president or other higher members of the school hierarchy, and there the problem is worked over. It was obvious that this had been done at SCI; however, the college's president, J. W. Maucker agreed to let the regents see the students' problem first-hand.

Even before the students came face to face with the regents, Maucker presented statistics showing that dormitories at SCI were indeed overflowing. This year, 1,484 men occupy dormitories with a capacity of 1,192 and 2,701 women occupy halls with a capacity of 2,259. Along with the statistics, Maucker proposed adding a second tower to the 13-story North Hall dormitory project recently approved by the regents. The regents approved Maucker's proposal. By 1968, 1,200 spaces will be opened up instead of 600. The expected overload of 809 students should be reduced to between 160 and 200.

The October meeting was not the only time that SCI students made their presence felt. Last May a representative of the student body pleaded the case for approval of a controversial union, of which part of the first floor was to be underground. The regents had been reluctant to pass the project until the student informed them that most of the students at SCI favored the union plans.

SCI's problems perhaps are similar to many of those faced at the University and Iowa State University. Overcrowded dormitories, long food lines and fouled-up registration procedures are nothing new here. Despite the similarities, SCI students feel that their problems are both unique and pressing and want something done about them. Both the SCI student leadership and Pres. Maucker are aggressive in meeting those problems.

It is encouraging to students, who want their wishes heard, to have both open-minded administrators and board members; and the board apparently appreciates the interest that students take in their schools.

Robert F. Kennedy speaks at Marion

By PAUL LOGAN
Staff Writer

The people of Marion and the surrounding area had eagerly waited for this special Sunday for quite some time. The town square began to fill hours before, and by 4 p.m. the area around the speaker's platform was filled with professional and homemade placards, a band with red-plumed hats, television cameras, and hundreds of people.

All was in readiness, but the crowd had to wait a little longer because Bobby was late.

By 4:30 the crowd was becoming restless. Such mutterings as "Hurry up Bobby, my feet are getting tired" and "I wonder if the Dodgers will ever score a run" began to take the place of political talk.

Finally the roar of those on the outer perimeter of the crowd and the squeal of the sirens announced his arrival.

As he and the dignitaries accompanying him made their way through the mass of people toward the platform, the cheers and applause grew louder.

The welcoming reached its height when there appeared on the platform before the dancing placards, waving hands, and flashing cameras, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy (D-N.Y.).

Although Gov. Harold E. Hughes, Rep. John C. Culver (D-Iowa), and senatorial candidate E. B. Smith gave speeches besides Kennedy's, the people seemed to have come just to see and hear Kennedy.

When he was introduced by Hughes the cheers were deafening.

Kennedy spoke of the challenge, excitement and adventure of the next 35 years. He also spoke of tyranny and freedom, of poverty and prosperity, and national unity and international peace.

The speech he gave was similar to what the preceding politicians had said, but it was the person saying them that made the difference. One had the feeling that Kennedy could probably have spoken about anything and the crowd would have liked it.

When his speech was over the crowd surged forward. They were not content to just see and hear him, they wanted to touch him. The force of the shoving crowd was shown while Kennedy was descending the platform ramp. The weight of the crowd caused the ramp to buckle and nearly knocked him to the ground.

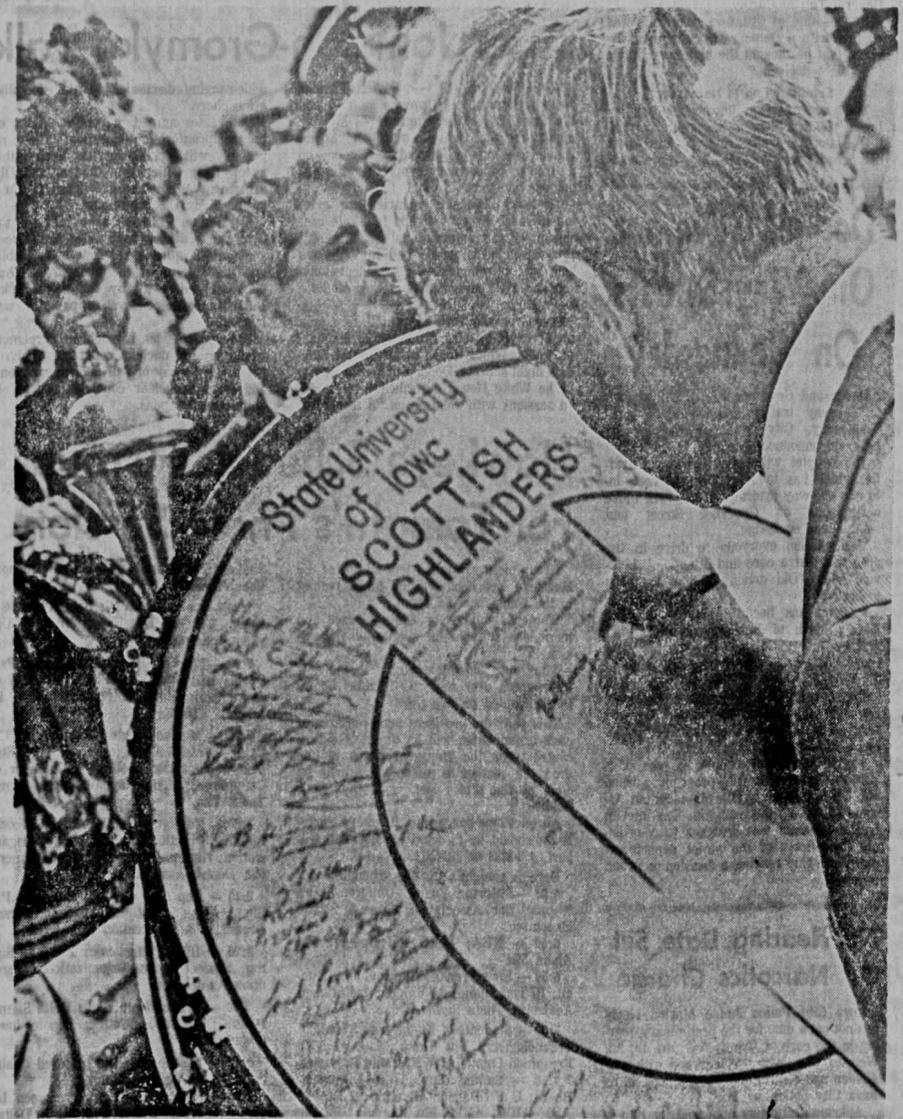

Finally he was ushered through the pushing mob of outstretched hands to a convertible. As the car inched away from the town square the people continued to reach out in hope of touching his hand.

Kennedy, who seemed to thrive on the handshakes of the people, stood on the trunk of the car so that he could shake hands with as many people as possible.

After Kennedy had left such phrases as "I touched him" and "I actually saw him in person" were heard around Marion and will probably continue to be heard for quite some time.

SLAP Group To Campaign For State Aid

"This is a good chance for students to help themselves in an area where it can do some good," said Carl Varner, A2, Centerville, when speaking of the Student Legislative Action Program (SLAP).

Varner, Inter-University Affairs Director, explained Thursday that the objective of the program is to sign up about 50 students to act as student representatives to talk to their state legislators about the need for increased aid to the three state supported schools.

"What we hope to do is to get these student representatives organized so that we can send them home for the Christmas vacation and they can contact their state senators and representatives. This will let them (state legislators) know that we are interested in what goes on," Varner said.

Varner said that when the next legislature is in session, five to ten of the student representatives would be sent to Des Moines during spring vacation to talk to legislators.

"Students don't need to be well-schooled to participate in this program," Varner said. "They only need to be sincere in their efforts."

Varner pointed out that the Board of Regents' requests for the three state supported schools had been cut an average of 40 per cent biennium for the last ten years.

He added that there was a tremendous need for granting increased state aid because enrollments were increasing, faculty salaries needed to keep pace with the rest of the Midwest, and existing programs needed to be continued.

Journalism Enrollment Up 16% To 378 Students

Enrollment in the School of Journalism has increased 16 per cent.

Enrollment is 378, or 53 more students than a year ago.

Leslie G. Moeller, director of the School of Journalism, said an increased enrollment of graduate students seemed to have been a considerable factor in the gain of enrollment. There are 79 graduate students this year, the largest in the school's history.

Moeller also said there has been an increase in the number of transfer students from junior and community colleges.

Job Placement Office Will Explain Services

Over 300 companies search the Iowa campus each year for seniors and graduates to fill positions in business, industry, and government. The Business and Industrial Placement Office, which aids students in job-finding, will hold a meeting at 3:30 p.m. Thursday in 100 Phillips Hall to explain its services.

Miss Helen M. Barnes, coordinator of placement services, said Monday the meeting will emphasize that seniors and graduates should register early in the Placement Office.

If students register early, the office can help them get oriented in their efforts to find a job, she said.

For instance, she said, spring graduates interviewed in the fall by companies will be better prepared for the rush of interviews in the spring.

Miss Barnes said employers want to see the students on campus.

Early interviews often influence a senior or graduate as to what courses to take which might better his job opportunities.

Miss Barnes encouraged military-bound students to register before they join the service. When they leave the service they will be better able to go into the work world, Miss Barnes said.

"The job of the placement office is to help the student know what is available and to present his qualifications to the work world," Miss Barnes said.

The office maintains files on all students who have found work. This information is used to aid a student in knowing what a particular company has to offer and how other graduates have succeeded in that company.

Disciplinary Action Taken Against Fraternity

Delta Tau Delta Fraternity will undertake a community service project soon as the result of disciplinary action taken by the Interfraternity Court (IFC) following an investigation of a Sept. 20 beer party in Johnson county in which minors were involved, Mike Kirby, chief justice of the court, said Monday.

The project will involve labor on the grounds of the Johnson County Home. Details have not yet been worked out.

IFC's action against the fraternity was taken after it was learned that of an estimated 50 minors from the University who attended the party, at least 19 were members of Delta Tau Delta.

Sheriff's officers and Coralville police broke up the party on Rapid Creek Road, north of Iowa City. The group was gathered in an abandoned farm house. Officers took the names of 38 minors and confiscated what Sheriff Maynard Schneider called, "a large quantity of beer."

The names were turned over to Johnson County Attorney Robert W. Jansen who referred the matter to University officials rather than file charges against the students.

The students met Monday with Dr. Robert Hubbell, counselor to men, and Miss Helen Focht, counselor to women.

They were counseled about their obligations as citizens in the community and reminded of the state law concerning drinking as minors.

M. L. Huit, dean of students, commented, "Although the party in question appears to have been an impromptu gathering of individuals, the fraternity has been willing to accept responsibility under the IFC court's interpretation of group regulations. We are satisfied that some of the minors in the group were not involved in drinking, although their names were reported, and there is no indication that the party was in any way disorderly.

"In the future, however, we expect that any charges of violations of state or local laws involving students or student groups shall be disposed of initially in regularly-constituted courts of law, and that students shall be treated under the law as other citizens in the community."

AP Names Orioles' Bauer As AL Manager Of The Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Hank Bauer, the former Marine who led the Baltimore Orioles to their first American League pennant and World Series victory, was named the circuit's Manager of the Year for 1966 Monday in the annual Associated Press poll.

Bauer was an overwhelming choice in the balloting by 380 baseball writers. He received 321 votes. Al Dark of Kansas City was second with 53 votes.

The Orioles led victoriously throughout the season, clinching the pennant 10 days before the end of the campaign and finishing with a record of 97 victories and 63 defeats. They wound up nine games ahead of the second-place Minnesota Twins.

Hampered by the sore arms of several of his starting pitchers, Bauer made effective use of his strong bullpen that included Stu Miller, Moe Drabowsky, Eddie Watt, Ed Fisher and Dick Hall.

The former New York Yankee outfielder made a key personnel move before the season's opening, placing rookie Dave Johnson at second base. Jerry Adair, who had played that position for Baltimore in 1965, was later traded to the Chicago White Sox for Fisher.

Johnson turned out to be one of the club's most valuable members along with outfielder Frank Robinson, who won the triple crown, third baseman Brooks

Robinson and rookie catcher Andy Etchebarren.

Bauer is 44 years old and a native of East St. Louis, Ill. He took over as Baltimore manager before the start of the 1964 season and the club finished third the next two years.

Dark, who managed San Francisco for four years, directed

Purdue Beats Iowa 35-0; Big 10 Loss String To 14

By RON BLISS
Asst. Sports Editor
WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind.—

The same bug that plagued Iowa's football team in games against Oregon State and Wisconsin, bit the Hawks here again Saturday as Purdue's Boilermakers added to Iowa's woes by blasting the Hawkeys 35-0 before a Dad's Day crowd of 52,715 fans.

The game featured the individual brilliance of Purdue's All-American quarterback, Bob Griese, and an Iowa offense that moved the ball well, but for a variety of reasons was unable to score.

Griese was everything the fans had come to see — he completed 16 of 24 passes for 215 yards, passed 40 yards for a touchdown the first time he had his hands on the ball and in the course of play tied or broke four Purdue career records.

Griese, who does about everything but sweep out the locker room after the game, set career marks for most completions (275), most passing yards (3,394), most extra points (60) and tied the record for most points scored (126).

Third Bad Weekend

Meanwhile, Iowa and sophomore quarterback Ed Podolak were having their third frustrating weekend in a row. The Hawks penetrated Purdue territory seven times, but lost two fumbles, two intercepted passes and had time run out on them twice deep in Purdue's territory.

Iowa amassed 263 yards total offense to Purdue's 402, but still the difference on the scoreboard was 35 points.

"I don't know why we can't score," said Iowa coach Ray Nagel after the game. "It's really frustrating. Every time we get close to a score, something happens. It's almost as though we're snake bitten."

Nagel explained that the Iowa defensive backfield just plain froze on the first play when Griese hit Jim Bernie with the touch-down pass.

Koiate Situation

"The backs were in a rotate situation, out just plain didn't rotate. They froze and Griese spotted the open man and hit him with the pass."

Later, Purdue coach Jack Molenkopf explained that the bug was not the principal receiver, but was able to get out in one open and Griese hit him with the pass.

"Purdue is a sound football team," Nagel said, "they could beat anyone in the Big Ten on any given day. They have great coaching, great personnel, which makes them a tough combination to beat."

The loss was Iowa's 14th Big 10 defeat in a row and the second Big 10 loss this year. The Hawks, now 1-3, travel to Minnesota Saturday.

Barry Crees, who has been Iowa's starting wingback all season, has been demoted to the second unit, Coach Ray Nagel said Monday.

The Hawkeys, meanwhile, were sent through a rugged hour and 45 minute drill Monday as preparations began for Saturday's Big 10 game at Minnesota.

Don Nelson, Boston Celtics Play In Rock Island Tonight

The World Champion Boston Celtics, featuring former Iowa All-American Don Nelson, will battle the Cincinnati Royals tonight at Rock Island, Ill., in a National Basketball Association exhibition game.

Game time is 8 p.m. at the Rock Island Fieldhouse. A capacity crowd of about 6,000 is expected. Some $2 tickets remain and will be sold at the door.

Nelson, who has been promoting the game, joined the Celtics early last season after playing briefly for the old Chicago Zephyrs and for two years for the Los Angeles Lakers.

He became a fine scorer under

Celtic coach Red Auerbach and averaged 10.2 points a game his best previously had been 6.7 with Chicago in his rookie season, 1962-63.

Coach Auerbach reported he wanted Nelson for his defensive prowess and bought him off the pro-negotiation list for $1,000 after Los Angeles released him. "His scoring was a most pleasant surprise," said Auerbach.

Nelson is 6-6 and weighs 175. He is married and lives in Moline, Ill., in the off season.

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. — Yea, Purdue . . . Silo Tech, man. Their football team is called the Boilermakers, alias Riveters, Rail Splitters, Cedar Choppers, Pumpkin Shuckers, Blacksmiths, Hayseeds, and Cornfield Sailors.

It's a school whose football team was 7-2-1 in 1965, but at the close of the season the school's newspaper called for coach Jack Mollenkopf's replacement because the team hadn't won the Big 10 title. And at this season's 42-3 opening game win over Ohio U., several fans hollered "Fire fat Jack."

Dominant on Purdue's campus is a huge smokestack, commonly referred to among students as Purdue's gesture to the world.

Around the campus Saturday, signs were draped on dorm walls and Greek houses saying: Hang the Hawks, Ionize Iowa, Crack the Corn, De-feet Iowa, MOLLENKOPF and Flip the Bird.

Slanted Reporting

Purdue's newspaper, the Exponent, ran "Iowa Continues to Lose in Big 10" as its front-page banner on Saturday morning. The story beneath it set journalism accuracy back 20 years. It said Iowa's 1965 team "lost faith in Snook's ability after a couple of mediocre games, players broke training and finally Burns had to suspend valuable personnel in an attempt to lift the team's morale. Thus, no one was really surprised when Burns, himself, called it quits." For the record, Burns was fired.

The story also said, "Nagel continues with the popular I formation." Around here Iowa's offense is called a winged-T, and it looks nothing like an I. Then the story said, "fullback Silas McKinnie and tailback Tony Williams combined for a total of 277 yards rushing last year." McKinnie rushed for 286 yards, but Williams was a defensive back. He did catch two passes for 15 yards as a flanker and was Iowa's leading punt returner (18 for 179 yards), but didn't carry the ball once on a running play.

Griese Hard To Stop

The game was something else. Iowa got, as expected, plenty of that Griese kid's stuff. He carried the ball four times for 25 yards, completed 16 of 24 passes for 215 yards and a touchdown. He also broke the Purdue career records for most pass completions, yards by passing, total offensive yardage, and conversion kicks.

Of course, he had plenty of time to do all this. After all, he and the rest of Purdue's starters were still in the game when they led 28-0 in the fourth quarter. It's not that they were pouring it on — they would never think of such a thing.

No, man, the Boilermakers were gracious hosts. They gave Iowa the Keys of the city — a sophomore defensive back named John. This guy did everything but go to the concession stand and sell popcorn. On four of his kickoffs he booted the ball 60 yards to Iowa's endzone. He made two solo tackles and assisted on six others. He returned one punt for 16 yards. Then for good measure he was inserted at offensive halfback and carried once for nine yards and threw a touchdown pass for 12 yards to end Jim Biene. Someday he may make Purdue fans forget there ever was a Bob Griese.

Notre Dame Jumps To 2nd In Associated Press Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Powerful Notre Dame continued its place-a-week increase in The Associated Press major college football poll this week while closing in on the leading Michigan State Spartans.

Losses suffered by fifth-ranked Arkansas and eighth-ranked Tennessee dropped each from the rankings and resulted in additional position switching in the Top 10.

Purdue and Baylor are the newest rated teams. Alabama, Southern California, Nebraska, Georgia Tech and Florida also gained ground.

Michigan State collected 18 first-place votes and 369 points in the latest poll based on games through Saturday. Notre Dame accumulated 353 points, including 150 from 15 first-place votes. Points were awarded on a basis of 10 for a first place vote, 9 for second etc.

The Irish, who were fourth two weeks ago and then climbed to third last week, crushed Army 35-0 last Saturday while Michigan State downed Michigan 20-7.

Alabama advanced one place to third in the balloting by a national panel of 40 sports writers and broadcasters. The Tide defeated Clemson 26-0.

UCLA, in the runner-up spot a week ago, tumbled to fourth after its hard-earned 27-24 victory over Rice.

Southern California and Nebraska each moved up one place, the Trojans to fifth and the Cornhuskers to sixth. USC beat Washington 17-14 and Nebraska whipped Wisconsin 31-3.

Georgia Tech, 6-3 victor over Tennessee climbed from ninth to seventh and Florida, which defeated Florida State 22-19, also advanced two positions to eighth.

Purdue, 3-1, after walloping Iowa 35-0, took over the No. 9 spot. Baylor's 7-0 conquest of Arkansas moved the Bears into 10th place. Baylor's record is also 3-1.

The top eight teams are unbeaten, Notre Dame and Alabama in three games and the others in four.

The top 10, with first place votes in parentheses and total points on a 10-9-etc basis:

1. Michigan State (18)	369
2. Notre Dame (15)	353
3. Alabama (4)	309
4. UCLA (2)	288
5. Sou. Calif. (1)	214
6. Nebraska	186
7. Georgia Tech	174
8. Florida	112
9. Purdue	42

Dallas-Cardinal Game Not That Important Says Landry

DALLAS, Tex. — Possibly with a view toward relieving any tension his team might build up over the showdown National Football League game at St. Louis next Sunday, Coach Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys says it won't be "the deciding one by any means."

St. Louis, winner of five National Football League games, and Dallas, which has captured four, clash in what many think will be the big one in the fight for the Eastern Conference championship.

"There'll still be a long way to go," said Landry as he started preparation for the coming struggle. "If we lose, it will make our job doubly hard, but there are too many games ahead to settle on this one as being a championship affair."

He also wanted it known that he didn't figure St. Louis would be easy to handle despite the fact that the Cardinals had trouble beating New York 24-19 Sun-

Alworth Leads AFL Receivers

NEW YORK (AP) — Lance Alworth's 10 pass receptions in San Diego's losing cause against New York Saturday gave him the lead among American Football League pass receivers.

Alworth now has a total of 28 catches good for 461 yards, an average of 16.5 yards per reception and four touchdowns. Alworth gained 149 yards on passes against the Jets, but New York won 17-16.

Art Powell of Oakland, the leader last week, fell into second place, one reception behind Alworth.

High For Game

NEW YORK (AP) — Temple Coach George Makris had a simple explanation Monday for his team's amazing 82-14 victory over Bucknell Saturday.

Noting that Temple had lost to Bucknell 12 times in a row before Saturday's game, Makris told the New York Football Writers Association by phone: "We were very high for the game."

Iowa Sailing Club Places 5th In Big 10 Championships Here

By SUE HARDER
Staff Writer

Indiana, finishing first in six of 14 races, edged out Wisconsin by six points to capture first place in the Big 10 Championship sailing regatta held on Lake Macbride this past weekend.

Led by their two skippers, Skip Crowell and Dave Kelly, Indiana placed either first or second nine times to compile 92 points while Wisconsin finished close behind with 86.

Defending Big 10 champion Michigan finished third with 72 points, and Iowa, the host school, placed fifth, behind Ohio State.

Seven Schools In Meet
In all, seven Big 10 schools were represented in the two-day regatta sanctioned by the Midwest Collegiate Sailing Association (MCSA), an organization which sponsors all intercollegiate regattas among its 22 member schools.

Protests marred Iowa's chances for a better showing in the championship. Four of the five complaints lodged during the meet were against the Iowa club. Three of them cost the Hawkeye sailors enough points to drop them two places in the final standings.

Round Robin
The races were run in a round robin manner, with each skipper commanding a different boat in each event. All participants raced in Iowa's Flying Junior sailboats. By rotating boats, a race becomes a test of sailing prowess rather than how well a boat is equipped.

The sailors found the Gold Cup style course, a mile-and-a-half triangle marked by three buoys, more difficult than usual due to southwesterly winds ranging from 15 to 20 m.p.h. Normally this course arrangement involves maneuvering into the wind on one leg, but the southwest wind forced the skippers to tack to the windward on two of the triangle legs.

Hawkeyes Place
Iowa's A-team skipper John Cravens, A4, Sanborn, earned only 30 points to place him sixth in the top level, while Sandy Sandrel, A3, Missouri Valley, skipper of the Iowa B-team finished with 31, tying for fourth place in his division.

Don Kelly of the Indiana B-team won three races and wound up with 45 points nearly edging out Christiansen in a skippers' duel that found them tied after five of their seven races. Christiansen barely nosed out Kelly for first place in the remaining two races, giving him a two-point margin of victory in the B-division.

Michigan's Nick Langenfeldt gave the third place school their only two places, winning the third and sixth A-team events. Ohio State, finishing in fourth, and Purdue in sixth, won one race each. Michigan State, unlike the mighty Spartan football team, finished behind the pack, failing to finish in two races, and able to muster only a single second place and one third place in the 14 races.

Six Firsts For Hoosiers
Indiana's six first places were a team high. The next best number was three by Wisconsin's skippers Sandy Sell and Roy Christiansen. Iowa's lone first place was taken by Sandrel in the fourth B division race.

With racing in two class divisions, A and B, the scoring was combined into a single team total for each participating school. Points were awarded on the basis of eight for a first place, seven for a second, and so on.

Skip Crowell, who skippered the Indiana A-team to three wins and 47 points earned the high point trophy in the A division. Wisconsin's B division skipper Roy Christiansen also scored 47 points with two firsts and three seconds to take the trophy on that level.

Trophies Awarded
Team trophies for first, second and third places were carried home by Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Iowa was chosen as the site for the championship last spring because of its excellent facilities at Lake Macbride. The Hawkeye club is the newest member, but the MCSA ranks its facilities second only to Wisconsin.

The Big 10 Championship marked the second home regatta in the club's year-and-one-half history. The first was the Davis Invitational held last April 16, where Iowa sailed to victory in a race among four schools.

FINAL STANDINGS

High Court Rules On Sport Disputes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in its first full day of the fall term, issued decisions Monday pertaining to football, boxing, golf and horse racing.

Among the opinions handed down, the high court:

1. Refused to review a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court in Denver holding valid and enforceable a contract signed by Ralph Neely, former University of Oklahoma football star, to play pro football with the Houston Oilers of the American Football League.

2. Rejected a second appeal by Paul John Carbo, onetime under-world boxing boss, and Joseph Sica, Los Angeles sports promoter, who were convicted of conspiracy and extortion for trying to muscle in on the earnings of Don Jordan when he was world welterweight champion in 1958.

3. Denied De la Ware Sports Service, engaged in providing horse race results by long line telephones, a review of its legal battle against discontinuance of wire facilities.

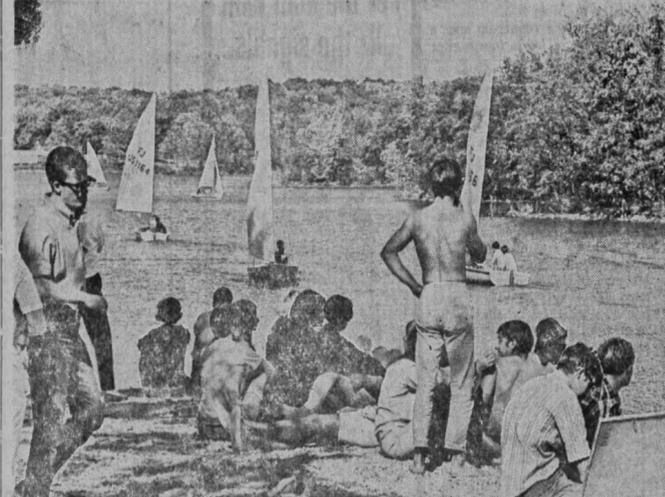

4. Granted a hearing to the Curtis Publishing Co. on its appeal of a $460,000 judgment given Wally Butts, former University of Georgia football coach, in a libel suit. No date was set for the hearing.

No One Wants Broncos' Gilchrist

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Apparently nobody wants Cookie Gilchrist, the one-time No. 1 ball carrier of the American Football League.

Officials of the Denver Broncos worked up to the midnight deadline Sunday in an effort to trade their rebellious fullback. But they had no success.

The only thing left is for some other club to claim Gilchrist via the $100 waiver route.

Join the Peace Corps... or join General Electric

Let's face it, the Peace Corps isn't for everybody. (Neither is medicine, law or social work.) But you can get a lot of the same kind of satisfaction from a job with General Electric.

Because we, too, are trying to make life on earth more livable. That can mean a job designing a new satellite to forecast weather. Or supplying nuclear reactors to generate electricity more cheaply than ever before. Or controlling smog in our cities and pollution in our streams.

It can mean better lighting to cut down crime. It can mean new rapid-transit systems to unclog traffic.

All it takes is brains, imagination, drive and a fairly rugged constitution. These qualities can get you a job with General Electric — or with the Peace Corps.

If you choose the Peace Corps, we'll understand. But when the day comes that you leave the Corps, remember us. You'll still be young, and at General Electric, the young men are important men.

Big Battle Expected Near N. Viet Border

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. military units are leapfrogging northward to strengthen defenses against Communist thrusts across the old demilitarized zone between the two Viet Nams, American authorities disclosed Monday.

A big battle may be in the making in the border province of Quang Tri, where American Marines and South Vietnamese troops have killed about 2,000 infiltrating Hanoi regulars in two operations since last July and are holding the line against others.

The ground forces are under orders not to occupy the six-mile-wide buffer strip—a point reiterated by U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara to newsmen in Saigon. But fighter-bombers struck again at military trails and supply dumps within the zone and B-52 jets pounded a Communist base camp just north of it.

Manpower shifted. Developments so far disclosed in the shift of manpower:

A battalion—perhaps 800 men—of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade, which has headquarters at the Bien Hoa airfield near Saigon, sped to Da Nang. That city, 300 miles northeast of Saigon, is headquarters for U.S. Marines in Viet Nam and for the Saigon government's 1st corps.

From its base at Chu Lai, 53 miles down the coast, the headquarters unit of the 1st Marine Division also pulled into Da Nang, evidently to arrange for a move of combat detachments.

Headquarters of the 3rd Marine Division, based at Da Nang, headed 30 miles north to the Hue-Phu Bai sector. There was no announcement as to how many Leatherneck regiments might be expecting orders.

The field command post for American Marines and Vietnamese troops in the long engagement is 40 miles farther north at Dong Ha, within artillery range of the border zone that the Geneva conference of 1954 earmarked as neutral territory.

First Troops in Area

The 173rd Brigade paratroopers are the first U.S. Army soldiers, aside from advisers and Special Forces, to be assigned within the 1st Corps area, the northernmost region of South Viet Nam. Helicopters give them mobility.

Allied troops directly involved on the outskirts of the zone between the South China Sea and the Laotian frontier total about one division—15,000 men. It's a 45-mile-long front.

Intelligence agents have identified elements of three North Vietnamese divisions in and around the zone and strategists expect the Communists to try an offensive under cover of rain and fog due with a seasonal switch in monsoon winds this month.

The front was temporarily quiet, but Marines found 25 dead North Vietnamese in fresh graves near the scene of heavy fighting last week.

Spokesmen said the Marines, while suffering moderate losses, have now counted 1,071 of the enemy killed in Operation Prairie, which was launched Aug. 3. A July sweep called Operation Hastings accounted for nearly 1,000.

Tracking Station To Be Relocated

A satellite tracking and radio astronomy station will be built north of Iowa City by the University at no cost to the University.

The situation arose because of a power line that will stand near the University's existing station 10 miles south of Iowa City. Electromagnetic interference from such a high-voltage line impairs or destroys the usefulness of sensitive equipment used in picking up weak electrical signals from artificial earth satellites.

Builders of the power line expressed a willingness to help correct the situation through relocating or duplicating the facilities. This assistance, coupled with coincidental gifts to the University of a surplus "dish" antenna and a surplus Navy shipyard gunmount, make it possible for the Department of Physics and Astronomy to expand its teaching and research facilities for space-oriented studies at a new site.

Regents Approve

The State Board of Regents meeting in Cedar Falls Friday approved a 25-year lease agreement with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers under which the University will pay $400 a year for 18 acres in the Coralville Reservoir on which to locate the new tracking and radio astronomy station. The site is some eight miles north of here.

The project calls for a expenditure of $85,000, all to come from the Union Electric Co., St. Louis, Mo., and the Iowa-Illinois Gas & Electric Co., Davenport. Involved are installation of a large parabolic antenna—of the "dish" type now in use at the Hills tracking station, construction and equipping of a 24- by 40-foot metal building for the station headquarters, and installation of a microwave radio link to transmit data between the station and the Physics Research Center on the campus.

The parabolic antenna and the gunmount will be on a 43-foot tower. A 150-foot tower will be built for the microwave antenna and a 65-foot tower will be built on the Physics Research Center for the microwave antenna needed in Iowa City. Shipboard gunmounts are often used for directional receiving antennas because they will rotate over a wide range, thus permitting the antenna to be pointed to any part of the heavens.

The site for the new station is approximately 1.5 miles northeast of North Liberty. It is on the Coralville Reservoir west of the road which will cross the new Mehaffey bridge now under construction.

Additional Use

In addition to use in radio astronomy, the antenna will be used to receive data from University radiation detection experiments aboard artificial earth satellites, an activity that has been carried on at the University for several years under the direction of James A. Van Allen, head of the physics department. Once the facility is established, it is also expected that experimental studies will be set up in conjunction with the research division of the Collins Radio Company in Cedar Rapids.

AWS Member Picking Changed

Freshman Council, the leadership-training arm of Associated Women Students (AWS), is reorganizing its method of selecting members.

Formerly, girls were chosen through their housing unit, two girls to each unit. Now, the AWS General Council will screen applicants and pick the 22 representatives.

AWS hopes in this way to have a larger group from which to draw candidates and to provide better representation for girls in dormitories.

Members of Freshman Council gain experience by working with committees and also by sponsoring their own projects.

Application forms for Freshman Council may be obtained at the Office of Student Affairs, or at the Union Activities Center. They must be returned to the Office of Student Affairs by Wednesday.

Andrew Wehde of the University's Data Processing Service will be one of the speakers at the regional meeting of the National Association of Educational Buyers Oct. 10-11 at the Union.

Wehde will discuss how automation can be used in university administration. The association comprises purchasing agents for several educational institutions in the two states.

E. T. Jolliffe, vice president for business and finance, will welcome the group before the first session, and A. G. Burks, University purchasing agent, will preside at the Monday afternoon session.

Frederick C. Ebbs, director of bands, will speak after dinner on "Touring Russia with the Iowa Band."

New Cable TV Authorities Say There Is Room For All

NEW YORK (AP)—The head of the Federal Communications Commission's newly formed Community Antenna Television (CATV) task force told the industry today that "There is room for everybody," both the traditional broadcaster and those that supply cable TV.

In remarks prepared for the National Community Television Association, Sol Schildhouse said he was certain the community antenna industry was not interested in putting broadcast television out of business.

"I am just as sure that television stations that do their job need not fear the future. Television is a vast business and this is a big country. There's room for everybody," Schildhouse said.

The FCC created the CATV task force to develop regulations and assume control of the growing cable television industry, which has been, in recent years, opposed by radio and television broadcasters.

CATV is a television reception service which uses a master antenna and connecting cable to provide subscribers with clear TV reception and a wider choice of television signals.

The cable system eliminates the need for the commonly used chimney antenna or the rabbit ear antenna seen on top of the TV set.

Congress To End Work By Oct. 22

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional leaders decided in a bipartisan conference Monday to drive for adjournment by not later than Oct. 22.

House Speaker John W. McCormack (D-Mass.) said after a meeting with Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois he believed Congress can quit by that date or possibly earlier.

The House Republican leader, Rep. Gerald R. Ford, of Michigan, was out of the city.

British Move On Gibraltar Draws Blank

LONDON (AP)—Britain served formal notice today of its wish to refer legal aspects of its dispute with Spain over Gibraltar to the International Court of Justice.

The British move came when officials of the two countries resumed talks, arranged under United Nations pressure, to promote a settlement of the Gibraltar issue. Spain ceded the Rock to Britain in 1713. Now Spain demands its return.

Initial reactions of the Spanish delegation led by the ambassador, the Marquis de Santa Cruz, were not immediately disclosed. But the regime of Gen. Francisco Franco has been portrayed as opposing the British proposal.

"What Was Hiroshima Like, Jesus, When the Bomb Fell?"

The prayers of Father Malcolm Boyd are unlike any you've ever heard. They're modern prayers, for modern man. Troubled man. Alienated man. And they speak his innermost thoughts, in his own language. They're prayers about sex and the bomb. Civil rights and mankind's wrongs. Love and hate. And Auschwitz.

Guitarist Charlie Byrd's stunning original accompaniment heightens still further the dramatic intensity of each prayer on this unique LP. And the effect is devastating. As you'll hear in "What Was Hiroshima Like, Jesus, When the Bomb Fell?" "Blacks and Whites Make Me Angry, Lord," "It Takes Away My Guilt When I Blame Your Murder on the Jews, Jesus," "This Young Girl Got Pregnant, Lord, and She Isn't Married" and 18 others, equally trenchant, equally compelling. Prayers like these don't happen often. They ought to.

University's Injun 5 Seeks Source -

Satellite To Study Northern Lights

By PAUL STEVENS Staff Writer

For years, man has marveled at the colorful Northern Lights, but has not yet discovered their source. However, through the efforts of the University's Department of Physics and Astronomy, the mystery of their source may be discovered within the next two years.

tion, commonly known as the Northern Lights, and the sources which produce the lights.

L.A. Frank assistant professor, is in charge of constructing equipment that will detect the sources of light and the mechanisms that produce them.

The satellite, constructed entirely at the University, will be designed to study auroral radiation field centers where "Injun Five" will be placed under simulated environmental conditions, similar to those it will have to withstand in outer space. Launching is scheduled for late 1967 at the Western Test Range, in California.

More than 100 persons are connected with the building of "Injun Five." The satellite project was contracted to the University under a NASA grant and work has been carried on for the past year.

Both undergraduate and graduate students are working on various projects connected with the satellite, for purposes of thesis work or part-time employment.

D.A. Gurnett, assistant professor, and S.O. Shawhan, research assistant, are conducting a study of radio waves in the aurora belt.

is monitoring and studying for high-energy charged particles that compose much of the aurora belt. S. Krimigis, assistant professor, and T.P. Armstrong, research associate, are conducting work in this field.

The mechanical structure of the satellite is being designed by the University's Department of Mechanics and Hydraulics, Kwan Rim, associate professor, and R.O. Stafford, research assistant, are directing this phase.

Other Experiments Two other experiments to be included in "Injun Five" will not be composed at the University.

Psychology Project Studies Deaf Children's Personalities

How does someone understand the personality problems of a deaf child or a child who has poor command over the spoken language?

David G. Martin, assistant professor of psychology, and William Van Dyke, G. Grand Rapids, Mich., are working on a program to answer these questions.

Threefold Purpose

The project has a threefold purpose, Martin said. The first purpose is to develop a personality test with children that requires only a minimal use of words on the child's part; second, to gather information that will help in understanding deaf children's personalities; and third, to produce psychological tools that will facilitate experiments with children in the area of personality.

Martin said that most personality tests available at this time for children require a command of the spoken language. These tests rule out deaf children and other children who cannot speak well. In addition, psychologists' interpretations of results have been subjective because of the lack of adequate norms.

Scientific Approach

Martin's research project is scientific in its approach. Empirical data will be gathered and norms will be established, he said.

To establish these norms, Martin and Van Dyke will collect test responses from several children. The responses enable them to differentiate between responses given by normal children and responses given by children with personality problems, Martin said.

Martin said that he and Van Dyke were developing a modified version of the "Make a Picture Story" test (MAPS).

Expresses Perception

In the MAPS test, a child is given a picture of a scene, such as a school room, and told to place cardboard figures on the picture. These figures include persons engaged in different activities and expressing different emotions. It is in choosing figures that the child expresses his perception of his environment, Martin said.

Martin is a trained clinical child psychologist. He said he became interested in this type of project when he was asked to do psychological testing with deaf children and found no good instruments available for testing the personalities of deaf children.

The project is expected to take two to three years. The first year of research is being supported by funds from the graduate college.

Day Raps Viet War

Charles Day, a candidate for the U.S. Senate for the Peace Independents, explained his one-issue candidacy Sunday before about 70 persons at the adult discussion meeting at the Unitarian Church.

Day, an Urbandale science teacher, was nominated at an early August convention by the then newly formed Peace Independents organization.

The organization was established to give voters a convenient opportunity to record a protest vote in November against the government's Viet Nam escalation.

Many of those who helped form Peace Independents had supported Herbert Hoover of Oskaloosa in the Republican primary against incumbent Sen. Jack Miller (R-Iowa). Hoover drew less than 20 per cent of the votes.

Day said he recognized that he had "less than a one in a hundred chance of being elected," but kept hitting away on the Viet Nam issue, hoping that the votes cast for him would be recognized in the White House.

"Johnson recognizes some polls and votes," Day said.

He described Miller as "war-hawkish," and Smith as supporting the President's Viet Nam policy.

Day said he recognized that the United States was intensely involved in Viet Nam, and urged that "the most powerful nation — economically and militarily — pull back into enclaves, and take the issue to the U.N. Security Council, then, if necessary, to a special session of the General Assembly."

Day said that involving the U.N. might lead to a reconvening of another Geneva Conference. He supports negotiating with the Viet Cong.

Speaking of those working with him, Day said, "We can't understand why we in Iowa can't have a man like Wayne Morse, George McGovern and the others who are speaking out against Viet Nam escalation representing us in the U.S. Senate."

Credit Merchant Exploitation Is Linked With Negro Riots

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Columbia University sociology professor Monday linked rioting in the nation's cities with exploitation of the poor by unscrupulous "credit merchants."

Prof. David Caplovitz told a special House inquiry on consumer problems that one cause of the violence was a realization by the poor that they were being exploited.

"In the past year or so," Caplovitz said, "we have seen some alarming evidence that the poor are aware of the exploitation they face in the marketplace and are rebelling against it."

"Students of the riots that have swept our country have been struck by the selectivity exercised by the rioters in their destruction," he went on.

"It seems that not all buildings are ransacked and burned, but mainly those of the credit merchants."

Caplovitz said the McCone commission, which investigated the Watts riots, had greatly underestimated the number of adults participating actively in the disturbances. And he noted that a study being made by Columbia history professor Robert Fogelson was discovering a similar pattern in rioting in other cities.

Theodore M. Berry of the Office of Economic Opportunity's community action program and Caplovitz said poor people paid more for most things because they had to buy on credit in small quantities and deal with more expensive corner stores.

They are easily tempted into buying things on credit that "may bring some ray of happiness into a cold war flat or a drab life," Berry said.

ROTC Enrollment Up 46%; Freshman Cadets Rise 71%

Total enrollment of freshmen Army ROTC cadets has increased by more than 71 per cent over 1965, Col. Cyrus R. Shockey, professor of military science, said Friday.

Shockey said that 288 freshmen enrolled in the program at freshman orientation which was completed Thursday. Cadets enrolled in the program as freshmen numbered 168 a year ago, Shockey said.

"The increase is especially encouraging when you consider that enrollment of male freshmen students this year showed a decrease when compared to last year's enrollment," Shockey said. A total of 1,858 male freshmen enrolled this fall, compared to 1961 a year ago.

The freshman increase raised the enrollment in the University's Army ROTC program to 627 cadets. This is an increase of 46.8 per cent over last year when 427 cadets were enrolled in the program. By classes there are 153 sophomore cadets, 123 junior cadets and 63 senior cadets, in addition to the freshman class.

"We anticipate an even greater increase next year," Shockey said. "The large increase by classes is representative of the success the program has enjoyed since going voluntary four years ago."

Until 1962 all male freshmen students were required to enroll in an ROTC program.
