Marijuana Sale Reported Here

Meters Worked By Beer Tab But $6.50 Repair Required

Despite increasing inflation, the word is that beer tabs have not become legal tender.

Approximately 100 University parking meters each week have been jammed with beer tabs, according to John D. Dooley, head of the Parking and Security Department. There are about 500 University meters in all.

Dooley urged students Thursday not to use the tabs to fill parking meters.

"It's not the free time students are getting that bothers us so much," Dooley said, "it's the bother and the high cost of repair. It costs us around $6.50 to repair each meter, and with 100 jammed meters each week, this runs into a lot of money." "We are making some mechanical changes in some of the meters to try to prevent students from putting tabs in," Dooley said.

"If a car is caught parked at a meter with a beer tab in it, a ticket will be issued," he said. Any jammed meter should be reported to Campus Security immediately.

If this practice persists, Dooley said, the only choice the Security Department has is to raise fees for parking to make up for the losses.

"We don't want to do this, because all students would then have to pay for the pranks of a few," he added.

Said To Be Available In Public For $5 And $10

By NIC GOERES
Editor

There is marijuana in Iowa City. If you have $5 and know the right people, you can get the stuff in a matter of a few days.

This is what an informed and apparently reliable source says. He has spent the past three weeks talking to persons who say they buy, sell and smoke marijuana in Iowa City.

"Pot," as marijuana is called, is sold in nickel bags, so called because they cost $5, and in dime bags that sell for $10. A nickel bag contains a bit less than a quarter ounce of marijuana, enough for 12 cigarettes; a dime bag contains twice that much, the source says.

The pot may be sold either in public places such as bars or restaurants or at a rendezvous. If the person selling pot believes there is a chance of being caught, he will meet the buyer at a designated time and place, or not at all, the source said.

Sellers Are Non-Students

Those who sell the most pot are "fringe students," according to the source. They are non-students in their early 20s who strike up friendships with University students.

Much of the pot that these pushers have been selling, the source said, was brought in this fall after summer trips to Mexico. Other sources are Madison and Chicago.

Marijuana also grows wild in and around Iowa City. Earlier this year, cultivated marijuana was discovered at Lake Macbride. It was quickly sprayed with poison.

The source said he thought there were at least four or five persons selling marijuana in Iowa City.

One pusher got most of his marijuana from Mexico, according to the source. He was able to smuggle it across the Mexican border by stuffing the marijuana into the ceiling of his car, the source said.

Another pusher, the source said, gets marijuana from cities in neighboring states.

Both pushers described by the source have jobs. One works in a local bar, the other plays in a band.

Arrest Boosted Price

Both pushers, the source said, became more selective about whom they sold to when Dennis Ankrum, A2, Webster City, was arrested for possession of narcotics on Sept. 30. He said the price also increased.

Now, however, the sellers have relaxed and it is fairly easy to buy marijuana again, he said.

On the night of Ankrum's arrest, the source said, another pusher was walking around the city streets "high." That is, he had been smoking marijuana.

The source also said a friend of Ankrum's was tipped off in time to flush the marijuana down the toilet by the time the police arrived.

Most of those using drugs take marijuana, the source said. He knew of "very few" instances of people taking LSD and said he knew of no one selling or using heroin here.

Approached By LSD User

The source said a girl approached him recently at a party and offered to sell him LSD. Although he said he had not known the girl before, she told him that she had some to sell.

She told him she would try a dose herself before selling it to him, he said. If it was good she would charge $7.50 a dose, if weak, $5.

Several days later the girl approached the source and said the price was $7.50 a dose.

The girl was obviously not a pusher, the source said, because she was too open about selling the LSD.

Buying marijuana in Iowa City is fairly easy, the source said.

Here is the procedure he described: A person usually begins his search by asking around at one of several bars or eating places where the sellers go. The prospect usually is told who to see for a purchase.

When contacted, the pusher determines whether the prospect is a safe buyer. The pusher can then arrange a meeting time and place for the transaction or refuse to sell.

Transactions Day Or Night

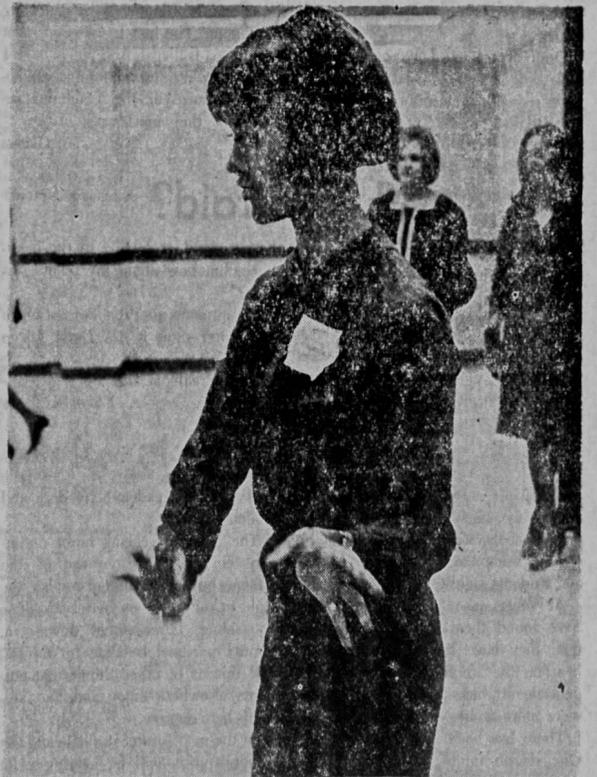

The pusher and buyer then come to the rendezvous from different directions to avoid suspicion. The transactions may take place day or night.

Some persons can contact a pusher less than an hour after they start asking around, the contact said.

Pot parties appear to be quite common among the marijuana smokers. The parties are not necessarily held on weekends, the source said. Monday night appears to be the most popular time, he said. Usually about six persons attend a party.

Pot parties are both planned and spontaneous, the source said. One usually starts when several members of the "group" get together and decide to throw a party.

The system of steam tunnels dug beneath the University was once considered a popular spot for buying and smoking pot, the source said. However, the users now consider the tunnels dangerous, he said, because the heavy sweet smell and green smoke given off by marijuana are too easily detected if police show up.

Johnson Says Aggressor Cannot Succeed In Asia

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — In a challenge to North Viet Nam, President Johnson says the United States and its allies in South Viet Nam have built a military shield "strong enough to prevent the aggressor from succeeding."

Until North Viet Nam withdraws its forces, "we must continue to resist the aggression that threatens South Viet Nam." Johnson made these statements in a report Thursday to the American people.

"We do so because we believe that the Communists will unbolt the door to peace only when they are convinced their military campaign cannot succeed," he also declared.

The speech was taped in Manila and released as Johnson spent the day relaxing at the resort village of Bang Saen after 10 days of his Far East tour.

He goes by helicopter Friday to 68 miles northwest of Bangkok where he is to be welcomed by King Bhumibol and Queen Sirikit.

In his two-day visit to Bangkok, he will have an opportunity to discuss with Premier Thanom Kittikachorn the growing Communist guerrilla menace in Thailand's impoverished northeast.

Johnson also will have an opportunity to see some of the 27,000 U.S. soldiers based in Thailand although he is not scheduled to visit any of the five air bases from which American pilots fly to bomb targets in North Viet Nam.

Johnson's speech was in the form of a report on the Manila summit conference and his flying visit to the big U.S. coastal base of Cam Ranh Bay in South Viet Nam.

Rally, March Planned To Protest Viet War

Plans for a rally and march on Nov. 5 protesting the war in Viet Nam were made Thursday evening by three campus organizations.

The Iowa Socialist League, Students for a Democratic Society and the Viet Nam Days Committee will sponsor the rally and march.

The rally will be held on the Pentacrest from 7-8 p.m. Speakers will include students and faculty.

A torchlight parade will follow the rally. The route of the march has not been determined.

NEW YORK (AP) — The local draft board Thursday ordered actor George Hamilton to report for a physical examination in what was described as a move to "get all the information possible into his record." Hamilton, a frequent escort of President Johnson's elder daughter, Lynda Bird, has been deferred from active service on the grounds that members of his family are dependent upon him for support.

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin will pay an official visit to France in the first half of December, the Soviet government announced Thursday night. Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev and President Nikolai V. Podgorny will visit France sometime in 1967, the same announcement said.

Zoning Requests Are Voted Down By Commission

The Iowa City Planning and Zoning Commission said that a request by Mr. and Mrs. Ralston Kornegor, if granted, would result in "spot zoning," and recommended that the Kornegors take other channels to have their request granted.

The Kornegor's petition asked for the rezoning of their property at 1231 Muscatine Ave. from residential to commercial. A commission spokesman said that a commercial zoning permit there would require 12 parking places and that room for them was not available. Final action was postponed until the commission's next meeting.

The commission also turned down a request by Beeler Development Co. to rezone part of Marion's Subdivision from residential to commercial. The commission's decision said that such a rezoning would cause a traffic problem and that the area should remain residential.

The commission voted in favor of annexation of a part of the 80-acre site of the proposed new west side high school. The property involved is presently being contested by Coralville in District Court.

The vote for annexation by the commission was intended to show the people of the area that Iowa City wanted the property, said Allen Vestal, a commission member.

The commission also discussed a measure which would require contractors to install underground utility lines in future subdivisions. Further study on this idea was recommended.

authorities and Iowa Highway Patrolmen joined in a massive hunt for the abductor or who reportedly was driving a light and dark green car.

Officers said the child, Christine Edwardson called home from a Waterloo coffee shop about 7:45 p.m. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Edwardson.

Christine and her two brothers were walking by a food market when the car pulled over to the curb. The man got out, snatched the girl and drove off.

Two policemen went to the coffee shop and brought Christine to the police station where she was reported in distraught condition.

Detectives said the girl appeared unharmed but a doctor was summoned to examine her.

A car answering the description of the kidnaper's was reportedly seen in several places between Waterloo and Cedar Falls.

The abductor was described as having dark hair, wearing a green shirt and dark trousers. The Iowa Highway Patrol joined in the search for him.

County Attorney Says Violations Hard To Prove

County Atty. Robert W. Jansen said Thursday that he was aware there was marijuana in Iowa City but that it was difficult to prove a person had marijuana in his possession.

"We have made one arrest," Jansen said, "but anyone else we attempt to question must be advised of his constitutional rights."

Dennis Ankrum, A2, Webster City, was arrested for possession of narcotics Sept. 30.

The constitutional rights Jansen referred to were those defined by a recent Supreme Court decision saying a suspect must be informed of his right to legal counsel before he is questioned by police.

Jansen said there had been "a lot of man hours" spent investigating marijuana in Iowa City.

Jansen said a person could be arrested only for possession or control of narcotics.

Possession means on the person or in his house or car, Jansen said.

To be arrested for control, it must be proven that a person placed the narcotics on another person's property without informing the person of its contents, Jansen said.

"This is a type of crime that is hard to detect because there are no witnesses. It is done in secret," Jansen said.

Jansen said nobody tells the police about marijuana. Those who have knowledge will talk about it among their friends, but are reluctant to inform the police, he said.

Faculty Considers Senate Creation

A constitution calling for the creation of a 70 to 80 member Faculty Senate was distributed last week to all University professors for consideration. Its designers say it will properly represent the faculty on policy matters of general concern.

Prof. J. Richard Wilmeth, chairman of the Faculty Participation Committee, which drew up the document, said the senate is not being sought to help run routine administrative duties.

"We think 75 members can appropriately represent the faculty on wide-spread issues like general standards for admission, Saturday classes, and equal treatment for women faculty members. The senate is not being created to run the university on a day to day basis," Wilmeth said.

Wilmeth said the idea for the senate could probably be traced back to the time when the 16-member Faculty Council voted against the University's participation in the Rose Bowl game.

"The council's position was completely ignored. But if 75 members had voted against the Rose Bowl trip, the decision would have carried more weight," he said.

According to the constitution, the senate will consist of at least one representative from each college except the Graduate College, and additional representatives based on the number of voting faculty members in each college.

Besides the elected representatives, who might hold either tenured or non-tenured appointments to the faculty, the senate would also include eight representatives who at the time of their election must hold non-tenured appointments. Of those eight non-tenured representatives, three would be elected from Liberal Arts, two from the College of Medicine, and three at large from the remaining colleges.

Voting regulations are liberal. Holders of the rank of professor, associate professor, assistant professor and instructor are eligible to vote in the annual elections. The Committee on Elections may also recommend that persons engaged in teaching or research under other titles be permitted to vote.

The constitution is not yet a final document. Allan Vestal, professor in the College of Law, said the Participation Committee wants to receive comments on the document.

"We would like to hear if there are objections," he said.

The constitution will be discussed again at the next Faculty Council meeting Nov. 1. Before it can be submitted to the Regents as a document it must pass the Faculty Council, the administration, and be favorably voted on by the 1,200 member university faculty.

U. Heights Approves Service Agreement

In a public hearing held Thursday night, University Heights City Council voted to accept a proposed agreement between Iowa City and University Heights for the provision of certain municipal services to University Heights.

Under the new pact Iowa City would provide University Heights with services in public safety, sanitation, recreation, utilities, municipal enterprises, and any portion of planning pertaining to urban renewal.

Marijuana problem

The story on marijuana appearing in today's issue will undoubtedly bring an outcry against police because nothing has been done to apprehend the criminals.

County Attorney Robert Jansen is right when he says it is extremely difficult to get convictions for possession of marijuana.

Quite a few students on campus believe it exists and many say they have seen it. The trouble is, nobody goes to the police. Those who have valuable information don't want to sneak on their friends.

Arresting persons for other crimes such as murder or robbery is much easier. These crimes are often done publicly where witnesses are at hand. Not so with marijuana. The deals are made under strict secrecy.

There are arguments for legalizing marijuana. The fact is, however, that marijuana is illegal. And police have a very difficult task obtaining convictions because of the numerous restrictions they must work under.

It seems that one of our readers has a perverted sense of value — or is it humor?

He writes: "Is your 'staff writer' afraid to identify himself because he used a naughty word in his Ferlinghetti review? Indeed, Ferlinghetti

A legitimate question, but not when the writer signs it: "A Daily Iowan Reader."

Students' rights

The University's administration is reasonably liberal. Compared with some schools, students at Iowa have a good amount of academic freedom and students' rights.

At other schools where students have found themselves in this position, they have brought pressure to bear on the administration, and, depending on the amount of pressure, were more or less effective.

There has been little of this here. One reason might be that the administration here is liberal enough to quiet any discontent.

But things are changing here now. Students are now organizing a group that will put pressure on the administration for many of the things we find basic to academic freedom and student rights.

The group is seeking fairer dormitory contracts, greater use of the Union (built with student funds), the right to audit courses, better academic counseling, fairer prices downtown, greater personal freedom for minors, and dozens of other things that students elsewhere enjoy and that students here deserve.

In the near future, students and the administration will be hearing a lot from this group. They will receive a lot of student support, since what they seek is in the interest of all students.

So it might pay to listen.

Politics - a foreign view

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — It's very hard for an American to explain domestic politics to a friend from overseas as I found out the other day when I tried to describe to a British journalist what was happening during the present political campaign.

"I'm rather thick about it all," he said. "Could you explain to me why President Johnson left the country during the height of the campaign?"

"The feeling here is President Johnson can get more votes for the Democrats by going to Southeast Asia than if he stays in the United States and campaigns for them."

"The votes aren't in Southeast Asia. The votes are here, but President Johnson feels many people in this country will be so impressed by him going abroad at this time that they'll vote Democratic. The Republicans would have liked to have gone with the President, but he didn't invite them."

"Bad luck, that," my British colleague said.

"Are there any interesting contests going on that I should know about?"

"Well, we have a wonderful governor's race in Georgia. The Democratic nominee is named Lester Maddox and he used to own a fried chicken restaurant and sell ax handles as souvenirs on the side."

"Now you're pulling my leg," he said angrily.

"I'm not. Mr. Maddox sold chicken and ax handles. But when the civil rights law was enacted and he got very mad, because he was ordered to sell chicken and ax handles to Negroes.

"So he chased the Negroes through his parking lot with a pistol and when he was arrested for that, he decided the only thing to do was to close down his restaurant and run for governor of Georgia."

"Ha, ha, ha," my British friend said. "What an amusing thing. It must have given everyone in Georgia a good laugh."

"Good laugh, my foot. Maddox won the Democratic nomination and now he's favored to win the election."

"Surely you're making this all up."

"I wish I were. So do a lot of people in Georgia."

"What's happening in Alabama?"

"That's also a very interesting race. Mrs. George Wallace is running for governor of that state."

"Oh, is she interested in politics?"

"No, but her husband, the present governor, couldn't succeed himself, so he ran his wife instead. His wife will be the governor, but he'll continue to run the state."

"And the people of Alabama won't mind?"

"Won't mind? They're all for it. You see, George Wallace wants to run for President of the United States in 1968, so if his wife is governor of Alabama it will make him look good. Do you understand?"

"Quite," he said with a pained expression on his face. "Tell me something. What is Bobby Kennedy running for?"

"He says he's not running for anything."

"Then why is his photo on the front pages of all the newspapers and magazines?"

"Because he insists he isn't running for anything. The more the papers and magazines run his pictures."

"And the reason you never see Hubert Humphrey's picture is because he is running for something?" my friend asked.

"Now you've got it. Are you going to file a story on the American elections?"

"I better not. My editors think I drink too much when I'm over here anyway."

French, Soviets hint new treaty

High French sources say that President de Gaulle and Russian leaders have informed President Johnson that they are willing to enter into a joint treaty along with "anybody else who might want to join," to guarantee the independence of Viet Nam, both North and South, from any outside aggression.

According to The Insider's Newsletter, the conditions of the treaty would demand that the United States cease bombing and announce its intention of withdrawal from South Viet Nam over a two-year period.

The offer, The Newsletter says, may prove irresistible to the President because it would dramatically reaffirm the U.S. - Soviet detente and would serve to contain China.

It would also provide an honorable end to the war before the all-important 1968 Presidential election. However, no public comment on the proposal is expected until after next month's elections.

Another French offer reportedly in the works is a bilateral mutual defense pact with the U.S. to replace the broken NATO ink. De Gaulle has long favored this idea and apparently feels that recent friendly talks between his Foreign Minister, Couve de Murville, and President Johnson, indicate a possible U.S. interest.

Spy film shows the other side

By NICHOLAS MEYER
Staff Reviewer

"Where the Spies Are" is a superior thriller, its superiority stemming from a generally witty and lucid screenplay by Wolf Mankowitz, some brisk, if ordinary direction by Val Guest, and a first rate performance by always-urbane David Niven.

The most interesting thing about "Where the Spies Are," and perhaps the most significant, is the fact that it is not another spoof. Indeed, for all its "elan" and polish, I do not think it is a spoof at all, but rather a clever and slightly melancholy indictment both of the spy film genre and of spying itself.

In this vein "Spies" follows the footsteps of such heartbreaking predecessors as "The Spy Who Came in From the Cold" and Graham Greene's "Our Man in Havana." These films have considerably more at their cores than voyeurism, sadism and endless brutality for its own sake.

Niven, doing a splendid job and his suave and naive yet completely fitting role, plays an innocent English doctor, ferreted out of a quiet country practice to go to Beirut for British Intelligence and find out what's happened to a missing agent.

At first, we suppose that we are watching just another chronicle of impossible derring-do in which no one in particular gets believably injured, much less killed. It isn't long however, before Mankowitz and Guest tell us how wrong we are, and how tragic the business of spying can be.

True, they do not play that tragedy for all it is worth as in "The Spy Who Came in From the Cold", but their product is far from the happy-go-lucky comic-strip confection most spy films turn out to be.

Niven is just the man to be convincing as the bewildered doctor, and John Le Meursier does extremely well as his espionage boss. Francoise Dorelac (who will be remembered by some as Jean Paul Belmondo's batty girl friend in "The Man From Rio") is least acceptable, but still good as a sexy spy.

Towards the end, things begin to get out of Messrs. Mankowitz and Guest's capable hands, and their melodrama begins to run wild off its moorings. The picture ends just in time, yet the last scene or two certainly rams the authors' point home. Spying is not the greatest business in the world to be in.

Part of the film's effectiveness I am sure is derived from the deceptive production format (modified James Bond) chosen by Val Guest. It doesn't sound like an "art" film, it doesn't sound like an "art" film, etc., hence the audience is led on in the same way the somewhat foolish (however lucky) doctor is led on, until it is too late, and the real meaning of it all becomes pathetically clear. "Where the Spies Are" is a modest effort which is modestly successful and has a certain element of originality to its conception and execution. As such it deserves to be seen.

'The Fixer': true today

By BILL PIERROT
Staff Writer

"The Fixer," by Bernard Malamud (New York: Farrar, Straus & Giroux, 1966), $5.75. Available at Iowa Book & Supply.

Bernard Malamud has created a common little man and through a magnificently constructed story transforms him into a hero.

"The Fixer" is the story of a Russian Jew in Kiev more than 50 years ago, but many of the insights are true of people today and probably will be true 50 years from now.

Yakov Bok, a fixer of things by trade, is managing a brickyard in Kiev when a young Russian boy is found murdered. The boy's body has been butchered with stab wounds and drained of its blood. Yakov, the handiest Jew, is accused of a "ritualistic murder" and of using the blood in a Jewish ceremony. His only crime is that he lives in a section forbidden to Jews. But because he is a Jew and anti-Jewish feeling is running high, evidence based on lies builds up.

Two years of humiliation and physical torture in a Russian prison follow for Yakov. The police are in no hurry for his trial to begin. They have invented much evidence against him but they know it will not hold up in court. So they work for a confession. Actually, the police want a confession rather than a conviction based on evidence, because it would put the Jewish people even lower in the eyes of the Russian people.

The ordinary man might confess and pray for leniency, but Yakov is not an ordinary man. He refuses to confess to a crime he didn't commit.

At first he refuses because he is innocent. As time passes he refuses because he sees no reason to hurt his fellow Jews. In the end he refuses because he does not believe his captor's promises of leniency. But always he refuses.

At the close of the book, Yakov has finally won a trial. He cannot be certain he will be found innocent but he knows that many people are now on his side.

Not all readers will be able to stomach this novel. The descriptions of the prison and of Yakov's treatment are far from euphemistic, and Malamud makes one believe they are true.

Malamud's style is highly readable and his narrative never gets dull. He has a way of lulling the reader along, then hitting him with what he least expects when he least expects it.

Some will not believe the book. The setting is tsarist Russia 50 years ago. The Russians had their own version of the Ku Klux Klan, the Black Hundreds, to "keep the Jews in their place." The regime has changed. The persecution hasn't.

The book is more than the story of one Russian Jew. Many of the observations and insights of Yakov Bok are true in today's world, and most of the people Yakov deals with have their counterparts today.

The prosecuting attorney is a man on the way up. To get a confession of ritualistic murder would be a short cut to a judgeship. Guilt or innocence doesn't matter.

All the other characters are also presented realistically: the prison guards, who mistreat Yakov most of the time but occasionally break down and discuss their families and problems; the investigating attorney, who doubts Yakov's guilt and is rewarded with the next cell; the wife and father-in-law of Yakov and the other prisoners.

But the most moving and powerful character is Yakov, the man who was in the wrong place at the wrong time, the man who stands up to his captors, the man who at times exists through sheer will power. To the reader, Yakov appears as a hero. In his own eyes, he is never more than a simple man.

Yakov is the little man pitted against the big world. He is the victim of injustice. He exists today.

Hitler youth were playful

To The Editor:
Erika Young was right in commenting that Hitler Youth was literally a youth organization where young German people came to play, sing and dance (The Daily Iowan 10-20-66). She just forgot to mention that ever so often they used to go to Bar-B-Q parties around the corner, namely in Buchenwald or A u s c h w i t z parks.

Election Registration Closes At 8 Tonight

Voter registration for the Nov. 3 general election closes at 8 tonight. Iowa City clerk Glen V. Eckard reminded Iowa City residents Thursday.

"The clerk's office has been open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. every weekday for several weeks now, and Friday night is the last chance," Eckard said.

There were about 17,000 registered voters in Iowa City as of Thursday — more than 500 of these registering in the past week — but there will be no exact count until after registration closes, the city clerk said.

Eckard said the registrars are now required under a voter registration law passed by the last Iowa General Assembly to ask a registrant for his party affiliation. He said the majority say, "No party."

Iowa City has permanent voter registration with a qualification.

16 Sororities Select Coeds For Contest

Sixteen coeds have been nominated by their sororities for Beta Theta Pi fraternity Centennial Queen.

Betas will be celebrating 100 years on campus the weekend of Nov. 4, 5 and 6. The queen will be chosen from a group of five finalists not yet announced by the fraternity. The queen will reign Nov. 5 at a banquet and dance to be held at the Iowa Athletic Club.

Girls nominated include: Nancy McGimpsey, A2, Davenport; Gamma Phi Beta; Barbara Jess, P1, Ames; Alpha Delta Pi; Sue Junge, A3, Bettendorf; Kappa Alpha Theta; Cheryl Imel, N2, Glen Ellyn, Ill.; Alpha Chi Omega; Mary Gustafson, A2, Nevada; Delta Gamma; Elaine Rumelotte, A1, Mason City; Pi Beta Phi; Dee Johnson, A2, Sioux City; Chi Omega.

Other queen candidates are: Suzan Anderson, A2, Wilmette, Ill.; Alpha Gamma Delta; Carole Neville, A3, Anamosa; Delta Delta Delta; Jill Applegate, A3, Evanston, Ill.; Alpha Phi; Pam Ward, N3, Wakefield, Mass.; Alpha Xi Delta; Bonnie Robinson, A3, Evanston, Ill.; Alpha Epsilon Phi; Julie Phillips, A3, Penfield, N.Y.; Delta Zeta; Sharon Weiner, A3, Chicago, Ill.; Sigma Delta Tau; Nancy Hammann, N2, Washington, Ill.; Zeta Tau Alpha; and Lois Kercher, N2, Park Ridge, Ill.; Kappa Kappa Gamma.

A voter's registration will lapse if he fails to vote in any one of four consecutive elections.

The party affiliation declared by the voter when he registers also is carried over. Changing party affiliation in order to vote in the other party's primary may be accomplished by signing an affidavit at the time of the primary.

The party affiliation noted on the registration rolls is important only at primary time. It has no significance for the voter in a general or special election.

Under the recent Iowa voter registration law, a municipality is entitled to appoint six "mobile deputy registrars" (three from each party) for each 10,000 persons within its jurisdiction.

These registrars can register any eligible person anywhere in the municipal jurisdiction, making it unnecessary for each voter to go to the Civic Center to register.

Iowa City has 24 mobile deputy registrars working around the city, Eckard said they began registering voters on Aug. 1 and would be working until registration closes tonight.

"The deputy registrars have done a fine job," Eckard said. "We have had as many registrations from them as we have had through the clerk's office."

Metal Companies Give Grant To 7

Seven University of Iowa undergraduates are sharing a $2,000 grant by the Foundry Educational Foundation and Deere & Company.

They are: Jerry H. Voigts, E4, Bristow; James C. Heskie, E3, Cedar Rapids; Robert L. Goodson, E4, Clinton; Corwin W. Groth, E4, Davenport; Ray E. Swartzendruber, E4, Mount Pleasant; Richard G. Olson, E3, Muscatine; and Stephen C. Wood, E4, Thornton. The grant is the second in two years for outstanding students interested in the cast metals field at the Department of Industrial and Management Engineering.

NECKTIES REQUIRED — LUMBUMBASHI, (former 1y Elisabethville) the Congo (U) — Neckties must be worn by civil servants of South Katanga Province in their offices regardless of the weather in this mile-high capital 11 degrees south of the equator. "Functionaries should always be dignified during service hours," said the government ban on the popular open shirt collar.

Erhard Holds Onto Power In Germany

BONN, West Germany (U) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard decided to run West Germany with a minority government after the four ministers of the Free Democratic party resigned in a budget dispute.

It was the first time in the history of the 17-year-old Federal Republic that this has been tried. Erhard's Christian Democratic party has only 245 of the 496 votes in the Bundestag. But he can only be overthrown if the opposition gets together and elects a new man. This has never been tried either.

The crisis arose over the 1967 budget, heavily burdened by promises to buy arms in the United States. Erhard saw no way to balance it except by raising taxes. The Free Democrats, with important local elections coming up, resigned rather than approve.

Erhard replaced them with Christian Democrats who will take on their jobs in addition to their present portfolios.

Democrats Invite Auto Critic Nader To Fund Raising

Ralph Nader, author of "Unsafe at Any Speed," will be the guest of Iowa Atty. Gen. Lawrence Sealise at a Democratic Party fund-raising party in Iowa City Saturday afternoon.

The party's sponsored by the University Young Democrats, will be held at the home of John Gerber, 359 Magowan Ave., following Saturday's football game with Indiana.

In his book, Nader criticized present automobile construction and safety features. He and Sealise worked together in Iowa's hearing on automobile safety.

I. Gov. Robert Fulton and local Democratic candidates will also attend the party. All interested persons are invited to attend the gathering.

State Department Team Coming Here

Four State Department experts will appear in Iowa City Nov. 17 as part of a series of community meetings on U.S. foreign policy.

The community meetings are sponsored by the Division of Extension and University Services to promote a better understanding of our foreign problems, policies and programs.

According to Mrs. Mary Bryant, program associate in extension and coordinator of the program, three of the State Department experts have been named; the fourth is to be announced later.

Francis J. Meehan, foreign affairs officer in the operations center, Office of Secretary, will lead the group.

Other members of the team will include Frederick J.O. Blachly, public affairs adviser in the Bureau of International Organization Affairs, and Franklin O. McCord, Hong Kong and Macao Adviser for the Office of Asian Communist Affairs in the Bureau of Far Eastern Affairs.

The featured program Nov. 17 will be a panel presentation by the entire team at 3:30 p.m. in Shambaugh Auditorium. Dr. Vernon Van Dyke, professor of political science and director of the Center of International Studies, will moderate the program. A question and answer period will follow.

Members of the State Department team will speak individually to groups throughout the day in Iowa City. They will meet with the Rotary Club, League of Women Voters, social studies classes at City and University high schools, and University students session sponsored by the Campus UN Organization.

The State Department officials will spend five days visiting other Eastern Iowa cities, Ames, Cedar Falls-Waterloo, Cedar Rapids, and Burlington. This is the first series to be held in Iowa.

Mills To Appear For YR Meeting

Max Milo Mills, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor of Iowa, will make a campaign appearance in Iowa City Monday.

Mills, State Senator from Marshall County for six years, will speak at a meeting sponsored by the Young Republicans to be held at 8 p.m. in the Union Lucas Dodge Room.

A lawyer from Marshalltown, Mills served as president of the Marshalltown Chamber of Commerce and County Attorney.

'Rigoletto' To Be Performed Next Week

The Goldovsky Grand Opera Theater will present an all-English version of Verdi's "Rigoletto" at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Iowa Memorial Union as the second program in the 1966-67 Concert Course.

The Goldovsky group, which presented "Barber of Seville" in Iowa City in 1961, is making its 20th cross-country tour. Recently described in Time Magazine as a "fresh young company," the group includes 50 musicians — singers, orchestra, chorus, and conductor.

Since its founding in 1946 by Boris Goldovsky, the company has presented English versions of the operas of Rossini, Mozart, Verdi, and Puccini.

"Rigoletto," based on the Victor Hugo play GOLDDOVSKY "Le Roi S'Amuse," tells of a crippled court jester whose bitterness over his handicap leads to his vicious trouble-making in the Italian court and to his eventual downfall.

Free tickets are available to students upon presentation of identification cards from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays at the University Box Office in the Union South Lobby.

University staff members may buy tickets at the same times for $2 each. Sale of tickets to the public for $2 will open Monday.

According to director Goldovsky, this opera is a "keen and perceptive character study which lends itself ideally to mid-20th century psychological interpretation."

The 115-year-old Verdi opera was translated by Sarah Caldwell and Goldovsky in the belief that the language of performance should be native to the singer in order to achieve the truest characterization and to bring out the subtleties of the dialogue.

Edward Alley will conduct the performance. Soloists will be Teresa Orantes, soprano; Rosemary Rosales, mezzo-soprano; Enzo Citarelli, tenor, and baritone Robert Hale and Alexander Gray.

BLOOD DEBT SETTLED — SINGAPORE (U) — Japan has agreed to pay Singapore $17 million to settle a long-standing "blood debt" arising from destruction of lives and property during the World War II Japanese occupation of this island city-state. Group Copies Free University

A discussion group that might turn out to be a "free university" along the lines of those established at Ohio State, Berkeley, New York and Boston has begun in Iowa City.

Louis G. Hoffman, assistant professor of microbiology, is the organizer and moderator of the group, which meets at 5:15 p.m. Sundays in the Episcopal Student Center, 320 E. College St.

At existing free universities, subjects are presented which would never be discussed in the formal atmosphere of a college classroom. Curricula are diverse, ranging from "Political Theory of the New Left" to "Mathematics as a Humanistic Art."

"As of now, we're discussing American involvement in Viet Nam," Hoffman said, "but if we sense interest in other areas, 'courses' in those areas could be organized."

Hoffman said the Viet Nam course is "no-credit, no-lecture, no-grade and no-exam."

Hoffman noted that a course offered at Ohio State's free university was called "Philosophical Ramifications of Modern Drama, or What in Hell are we Doing in South Viet Nam?"

"In contrast to the loaded nature of the Ohio effort," Hoffman said, "the objective in our discussions is education — not propaganda."

The students are using two texts for the discussions: "Peace in Viet Nam — A Report Prepared for the American Friends Service Committee" and "Viet Nam: Why — A Collection of Reports and Comments from The Reporter."

"We consider the former moderately biased in one direction, and the latter in the opposite," Hoffman said.

The group hopes to go beyond these sources to material published in the popular press.

The group's first "class" met last Sunday. About 10 students attended. Upcoming sessions will deal with "Nationalism and Social Revolution in Southeast Asia" this Sunday, "The Role of China" on Nov. 6, and "Negotiation, Settlement, and/or Escalation" on Nov. 13.

Air Force ROTC To Conduct Trips For Cadets, Profs

The United States Air Force will conduct 23 visits to various locations in the United States this year for students enrolled in Air Force ROTC at the University.

Major Norris W. Overton, associate professor of aerospace studies, has been appointed as officer-in-charge of the visitation program. He has arranged for visits to various Air Force bases, aircraft companies, radar sites, and to the Air Force Academy.

States to be visited include Arizona, California, Colorado, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Nevada and New Hampshire. Cadets from Grinnell and Coe colleges, as well as the University, will make the trips.

Included on the schedule is a March visit to McDonnell Aircraft Co. in St. Louis, Mo. McDonnell builds the Phantom F-4C which is now being used for a variety of missions in Viet Nam.

Another trip will take 14 cadets to the Gulf of Mexico where they will cruise on the aircraft carrier, U.S.S. Lexington and watch jets launched from its decks on operational missions.

Day Care Nursery Serves Community

By JANET BEAVER Staff Writer

"We're offering something that many people would love to have, but have not heard about," said Mrs. Joanne Marian, head teacher at the United Campus Christian Ministry (UCCM) day nursery.

The day nursery for three and four-year-old children was opened Oct. 17 as a service to University students with children. A survey taken two years ago indicated a great need for the nursery.

The nursery, located at 701 Melrose St., was originally planned to care only for children of University students, but now is open to the public.

The initial expense was covered by the UCCM and it runs as a non-profit organization.

"It's just a matter of breaking even," says Mrs. Marian. "All tuition fees go back into supplies."

The nursery is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and will be in operation during the summer as well as during the school year. The cost is $60 a month or $3 a day. Children are accepted part-time at $2 a half-day.

There are fewer than 10 children enrolled at this time, and the nursery can take up to 24.

Two full time teachers are employed. They are Mrs. Marian, who has an M.A. in Christian Education, and Mrs. Judy Fuller, who has an M.A. in Education with public school teaching experience. Both teachers have had experience with group work, camping and scouting.

"It's not just a matter of babysitting," Mrs. Marian said. "We have good equipment and planned activities."

Child-sized cots, tables, chairs, benches and lavatory facilities are included inside the nursery. There are more than 1,000 square feet of play area plus a kitchen and office.

Additional equipment includes art supplies, games, puzzles, play house materials, toys and a record player.

"We've been experimenting with classical music," Mrs. Marian said. "The children love it, they really do."

"We'd rather read them stories than just have them listen to stories on records," says Mrs. Fuller.

The nursery has two guinea pigs and a fish bowl.

Outside are 14,000 square feet of play yard with swing sets, sandboxes, and a playhouse. The basement of the nursery will be used for play this winter.

Activities for the children include both group and individual play.

"We try to stimulate them, and yet let them be independent," said Mrs. Marian.

The children also take frequent walks with their teachers, and have been watching the University Band practice. A hot lunch is provided at noon, and snacks and milk are served during the day.

Leaflets about the nursery are being sent to all married students. Interested persons may call 338-1805 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. or 351-3545 during the evenings.

Graham Plans Viet Nam Tour For Preaching

BERLIN (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham announced Thursday he planned to go to Viet Nam in the near future and "preach the Gospel" to American fighting men.

If he can get at them, he added, he will talk to the Communist Viet Cong also.

"I don't know if there is any Christian movement in the Viet Cong," Graham told a news conference at the first World Congress on Evangelism, "but it would certainly be a wonderful experience if I could reach them."

"I'd go to Hanoi also," he said, "but I am not sure that an American would be welcome there."

Graham said he was invited to visit South Viet Nam 18 months ago by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces there.

"I was unable to accept the invitation then because of an operation, but I plan to make the trip in the near future," he said.

Graham is honorary chairman of the evangelism congress.

Coach Says More Freshmen Needed For Winning Team

By ROGER JAYNES
Staff Writer

Iowa freshman football coach Ted Lawrence said Thursday Iowa must raise the number of its incoming freshman players to 50 a season to insure adequate material for a winning varsity team.

"Our freshman squad isn't large enough," Lawrence said. "Out of the 35 men we bring in each year, about half play ball for us. Of those, we usually lose one or two due to academic trouble.

"Every year we need about 20 or more sophomores to add to the varsity. We'd like to work toward an 80-man varsity squad."

The current freshman squad stands at 36 players, the varsity near 60.

"Redshirting" Rule Hurts

"In addition to the reduced number of tenders, the higher entrance requirements and rule against 'redshirting' hurts all Big 10 schools," he said.

"Redshirting" refers to prolonging athletic eligibility of athletes with no relation to their academic standing. Big 10 rules state athletes are ineligible four years after the day they enroll as freshmen.

Other conferences that redshirt can thus keep promising players on the squad as many years as they want as long as they don't participate in games during the season.

"The Big 10 pioneered the raise of grade points and outlawed redshirting practices," Lawrence explained. "A few other conferences are adopting these rules, but until they are accepted nationwide we'll get our brains beat out."

The Big 10 is not the football power it was a decade ago. Iowa's record against non-conference opponents was 8-5 for the last five years, compared with a 15-1 mark from 1956-1960. Big 10 teams stand 11-16 against non-conference opponents so far this season.

"As long as academic levels aren't altered, the increase in tenders can be the only help," Lawrence said. "It's not a question of money."

The question is whether or not the Big 10 Rules Committee will grant the scholarship increase Athletic Director Forest Evashevski, Head Coach Ray Nagel and Lawrence are fighting for.

Evy Opposes Redshirting

"Evy is against redshirting and has fought hard for national acceptance of the 1.65 grade point average," Lawrence said. "When it is adopted, and I think it will be in the future, the fans will see a better brand of college football."

"We don't have anything against the present academic requirements," Lawrence said. "We need more boys. I think the more qualified students we can help receive an education, the better."

The first positive change under Lawrence's plan to improve Iowa's freshman football program was introducing freshman competition with Northern Illinois (Nov. 11) and Iowa State (Nov. 19).

"Right now we're working on a game team," Lawrence said. "Usually we'd stress fundamentals first, but we also need some organization to prepare for the two games."

Opponents' Plays Diagrammed

Practices with the varsity also give the freshmen experience and help stem the current player shortage.

The freshmen are supervised by Lawrence, aide Arnold-Jeter, and varsity players John Diehl and Terry Huff. Diehl and Huff both are sidelined with shoulder injuries.

"We diagram all the opponents' plays on white cards and simulate them as much as possible," Lawrence explained. He pointed to a stack of 100 such cards on his desk. "That's Indiana."

"Our major goal is to prepare every kid we have for varsity competition as soon as possible. I want to keep them interested, eligible, and ready to report to spring practice. That's when we'll know what we've got for players."

Moreland, Newland Are Captains

Linebacker Dave Moreland and offensive guard Jeff Newland were chosen captains Thursday as the Iowa football team ran through a highly spirited 40 minute workout in sweat clothes. The Hawks play Indiana Saturday.

Moreland, a 6-1, 195-pound senior from Audubon, will be defensive captain. He leads both the team and the Big 10 in tackles. He has made 48 solo tackles and 29 assists in six games this year for a total of 77, and has made 57 total tackles in four Big 10 games.

Newland, a 6-0, 207-pound junior from Des Moines, is unheralded, but has been a starter and steady performer in each of the Hawkeyes' six games this season. He will lead the offense in Saturday's game.

Iowa's football team may be last in the Big 10, but several of its players are among the best in the conference, according to statistics released this week by the Big 10 News Service.

Linebacker Dave Moreland and defensive halfback Dick Gibbs rank first in the Big 10 in separate defensive departments, and quarterback Ed Podolak is second in two offensive categories and quarterback Chuck Roland second in another.

Holds Big Lead

Moreland holds a wide lead in both solo tackles and total tackles. He has made 33 solo tackles and 24 assists in four Big 10 games. His total of 57 tackles is nine better than runnerup Gary Reiersen of Minnesota and his 33 solo tackles are nine better than runnerup Bob Richter of Wisconsin and Gibbs.

Gibbs leads the Big 10 in interceptions. A 6-0, 186-pound senior from Chariton, he has intercepted three passes and returned them for 43 yards. Tom Schinkes of Wisconsin also has intercepted three passes (all against Iowa), but has returned for only 29 yards.

Podolak ranks second in both rushing and total offense. In rushing, Podolak has carried 66 times for 265 yards and a 4.0 average. Dave Fisher of Michigan leads with 278 yards on 49 carries for a 5.7 average.

Podolak Only 9 Short

Podolak's 234 yards total offense against Northwestern last week moved him to within nine yards of leader Jimmy Raye of Michigan State. Podolak has gained 348 yards by passing and 265 yards by rushing for a 613 total. He ranked third a week ago.

DAVE MORELAND
Defensive Captain

JEFF NEWLAND
Offensive Captain

Roland, who has been handling Iowa's punting since Larry McDowell was injured two weeks ago, is second only to Michigan's Stan Kemp in punting. Roland has kicked 12 times for a 38.2 average. Kemp has averaged 39.9 yards on 18 kicks.

THOMSON LEADS GOLF MEET

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—Australia's Peter Thomson, who made three eagles on the back nine, and Arnold Palmer shot seven-under-par 67s Thursday to share the first round lead in the 72-hole Australian Open Golf Championship.

Palmer, of Latrobe, Pa., had finished his 33-34 round over the par 35-38-73 Royal Queensland course when Thomson came surging from behind with 35-32.

City High To Battle CR Jefferson

Iowa City High School's Little Hawks battle unbeaten and mythical defending state champion Cedar Rapids Jefferson at 7:30 tonight at City High athletic field. It is Iowa City's Homecoming.

"I really believe Iowa City will be the toughest team we have faced so far."

Jefferson's offense has averaged 426 yards per game.

The Jefferson J-Hawks are 6-0 for the season and are ranked second in the state. They are unbeaten in their last 30 games. The Little Hawks are 4-2 for the season.

CYCLONES SET FOR GAME— AMES (AP)—Iowa State wound up preparations Thursday for Saturday's game at Oklahoma State with a light workout and a warning from Coach Clay Stapleton.

Island Film Will Be Shown

The islands of Indonesia will be the subject of an Iowa Mountaineers Film-Lecture at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in Macbride Auditorium.

Phil Walker, a native of California who was an announcer, director and writer for the National Broadcasting Company in San Francisco before he began making travel films, will present "Exotic Islands of Indonesia."

Scenes filmed on Sumatra will show the tapping of rubber trees, growing and drying pepper and the weaving of clothing from gold fibers. Java sequences will include views of the capital, Jakarta; Pres. Sukarno speaking; the University of Indonesia; a Brahma cattle auction and the volcanoes of the island.

Walker was introduced to the South Pacific area while serving in the U.S. Army Transportation Corps during World War II. His assignments included sailing a 75-foot tug through mine-infested waters from Australia to the Philippines.

Tickets for Walker's film-lecture will be on sale Sunday at Macbride Auditorium. Season "passports" for the 1966-67 lecture series will also be sold at the door.

OFFICERS ELECTED—

Omicron Chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, has elected the following officers for this semester: Rick Echternacht, B4, Fort Dodge, president; Jim McCoy, A3, Des Moines, vice president; Steve Odem, A2, Eddyville, treasurer; and Rick Long, A2, Iowa City, recording secretary.

Interviews For Jobs Rise To New Level

Demands by business, industry and government to interview students for jobs ranging from the sciences to sales are very heavy this year, Miss Helen M. Barnes, coordinator of the Business and Industrial Placement Office, said Tuesday.

Miss Barnes said demands by companies for fall interviews with students have grown every year. Companies from all over the country have arranged interviews with students, the office said.

1,000 Interviews Held

Over a thousand interviews between companies and students were held during a five-week period last fall in the Placement Office, Miss Barnes said. Companies are interested in talking to students who will graduate any time in 1967, the Placement Office said. Many companies, the office said, will hire even though a student may still have military service ahead of him.

Miss Barnes said all students who have not taken out papers in the Placement Office should do so if they are interested in company interviews. The office emphasized that several companies interested in math, physics and chemistry students will interview only once during the year. Interviews are also held in the spring.

Can Help After Service

Miss Barnes said students going into military service should take out papers in the Placement Office. When they get out of the service, she said, the Placement Office can quickly update their papers and explain what jobs are available.

Fall interviews begin in November. The following companies will send representatives to campus during the month:

Control Data, Lybrand, Ross, Bros., and Montgomery, Pillsbury, Penick and Ford, Caterpillar Tractor, Chevron Chemical, Best Foods, Boeing, Alexander Grant, Campbell Soup, Arthur Andersen, Mead Corporation, Eastman Kodak, Koehring Corporation, Montgomery Ward, Arthur Young, and U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

Also interviewing will be Interstate Power, Hallmark, Price Waterhouse, U.S. Information Agency, Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Wisconsin Electric Power, Dr. Salsbury's Laboratories, Touche, Ross, Bailey and Smart, Trane Company, American Hospital Supply, Baxter Laboratories, U.S. Public Health, Eli Lilly and Company, Humble Oil, Bankers Life, J. I. Case, Sherwin Williams, Black, Sivalls and Bryson, Shell Oil, McGladrey Hansen, Minnesota Mining, Northwestern Bell, A. T. & T., Bell Laboratories, Western Electric, American Can, Northern Natural Gas and Collins Radio.

Others sending representatives will be: Link Belt, R.J. Reynolds, Peoples Gas, Light and Coke, Kresge, Mead Johnson, Ford Motor, Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, Ernst and Ernst, Procter and Gamble, Continental Illinois Bank, IBM, Maytag, Olin Mathieson, American Oil, Lincoln National Life, Johnson and Johnson, Anderson Clayton, Inc., Hunt's Foods, Booth Newspapers, Alton Box Board, Swift and Company, J.C. Penny and Harris Trust.

First Concert By New Group Will Be Free

One of several new music organizations on campus, the Center for New Music, will perform its first concert at 8 tonight in the Union Ballroom. Admission is free.

A three-year Rockefeller Foundation grant of $100,000, supplemented by University funds, made it possible for the center to organize. The center aims to support composition through performance.

Tonight's concert will be the first in a series of eight concerts that will present 20th Century music. Some of the eight concerts will be presented elsewhere in the Midwest.

The center has been organized within the framework of the School of Music. Richard B. Herwig, professor of music, is director. Conductor and adviser for the group is James Dixon, University Symphony Orchestra. Musical director is William Hubbard, instructor of music.

In addition to performing these various concerts, members of the center will play in the University Symphony Orchestra. They also will be available for consultations with local composers and will assist in auditions and performances of new works by School of Music composers.

Members of the center, besides Hubbard who plays the violin, Doris Allen, violin; Joseph Dechario, piano; William Konney, cello; William Parsons, percussion; Patrick Purswell, flute; and Janet Steele, soprano.

It may be less grand than most station wagons. But it's also about a grand less.

If you're looking for a miniature moving van, our Squareback Sedan isn't it. Even with its back seat folded down it only holds half as much as the average station wagon. Which means you can't lug 30 pieces of luggage. Or a full-sized double bed. But maybe you just need a car that can carry 15 valises. Or a full-sized single bed. Then you can save a lot of money with a Squareback Sedan. It costs only $2,295* And it not only goes for less than most conventional wagons to begin with, it keeps on going for less. A Squareback travels about 27 miles on a gallon of gas. It takes 5 pints of oil instead of 5 quarts. It never needs an ounce of anti-freeze, because it's cooled by air. It should get a good 35,000 miles on a set of tires. And it avoids repair bills like a... well, like a Volkswagen. So before you go out and buy some station wagon that has twice as much space as you really need, ask yourself this question: Will all that extra grandness be worth an extra grand?
