Astronauts Die On Launch Pad

Grissom, White, Chaffee Trapped In Flash Fire

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Three American astronauts died Friday, trapped in their burning Apollo spacecraft that was engulfed by a flash fire during a test atop a 200-foot rocket at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

Killed were Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom, one of the seven original Mercury astronauts; Air Force Lt. Col. Edward H. White II, the first American to walk in space, and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee, a rookie awaiting his first flight in space.

Feb. 21 Launch

The grim accident occurred at 6:31 p.m. (EST) while the three men busied themselves in a full-scale simulation of the Feb. 21 launch of an Apollo flight scheduled for up to 14 days in orbit in preparation for an eventual flight to the moon.

They were trapped behind closed hatches, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said.

"Some one said there was a fire in the cockpit," said Paul Haney, voice of the astronauts. Mission Control at the space center here, which was participating in the test, heard the report.

Haney said here was no word from the astronauts during the fire.

Haney said the word of the fire came from someone on the ground.

Hampered By Smoke

Emergency crews tried to reach the astronauts but were hampered by dense smoke. An unknown number of Cape Kennedy launch crew workers were treated for smoke inhalation.

The pilots climbed into the spacecraft about 3 p.m. During the test they had encountered minor difficulties with the environmental control and communications system, a spokesman said.

NASA said only that all data had been impounded, pending an investigation.

Grissom, 40, was one of the famed seven Mercury astronauts chosen to pioneer America's efforts in space in 1959.

He flew the second U.S. manned space flight on July 21, 1961. At that time he was victim of a near tragedy, when he had to swim for his life as his Mercury spaceship, Liberty Bell 7, sank.

1st 3-Orbit Mission

His flight lasted 15 minutes. On March 23, 1965, Grissom teamed with Navy Cmdr. John W. Young to fly this country's first three-orbit mission in Gemini 3.

During this flight Grissom had the honor of becoming the first man to maneuver a spacecraft in space. Grissom, a short, crewcut, father of two, then was to have the honor of being commander of the first flight in another new program — Apollo, the one that would eventually lead America to the moon.

White, 36, spent 21 thrilling minutes outside Gemini 4 on America's first spacewalk. He and Air Force Lt. Col. James A. McDivitt went on to complete a four-day mission, at the time the longest on record.

Military Background

White, also the father of two children, was born in San Antonio, Tex., to a military family. He went on to graduate from the U.S. Military Academy.

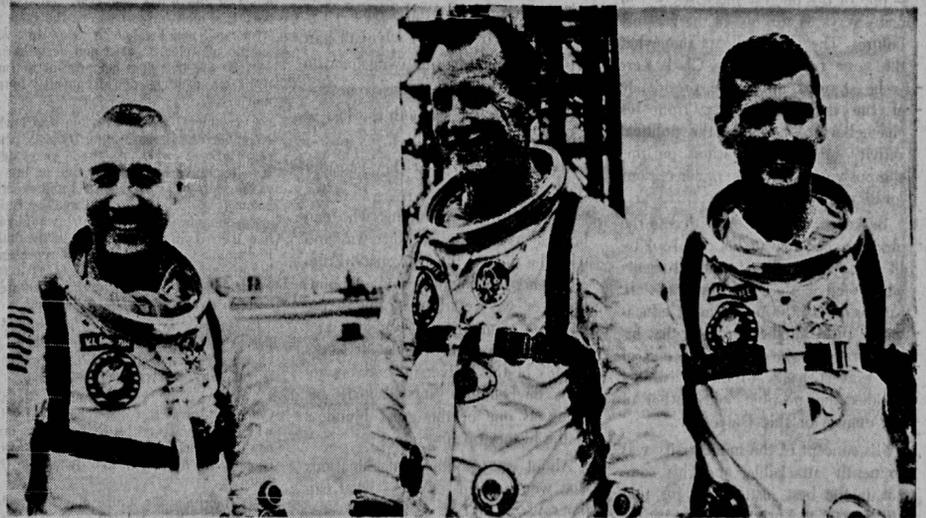

Chaffee, a slight, dark-haired would-be spaceman at 31, joined the program with the third group named in October 1963.

He was the father of two. A native of Grand Rapids, Mich., Chaffee logged more than 1,800 hours of flight in jet aircraft.

The Cape Kennedy tragedy was the first "on premises" incident of death in the American space program. Three other astronauts died in airplane crashes, but no man had yet been killed while in the massively intricate space hardware.

"Three valiant young men have given their lives in the nation's service," President Johnson said in a statement. "We mourn this great loss and our hearts go out to their families."

"The United States will push ever forward in space and the memory of these men will be an inspiration to all future spacemen of the National Aeronautics and Space Council."

Sinkiang Turns On Mao Giant Snowstorm Moves Eastward, Followed By Cold

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOKYO (AP) — Peking wall posters reported Friday that seven of the eight army divisions in Sinkiang Province had turned against Mao Tse-tung in an "anti-revolutionary rebellion" and more than 100 persons had been killed in clashes.

If the northwest province lines up against Mao, it will be a serious blow to the 73-year-old party chairman's prestige. Sinkiang is Red China's nuclear testing grounds, is rich in uranium, and has many atomic plants.

There was little reason to doubt the reports of serious dissatisfaction. Sinkiang is ruled by Wang En-mao, first secretary of the party's provincial committee and commander of the province's military district. Maoists have denounced him for having ties with "counterrevolutionaries."

Radio Peking Anti-Mao

With Sinkiang reported crumbling, Radio Peking indicated setbacks to Mao in Manchuria and Shanghai by broadcasting thousands of words from Maoists there calling for "an all-around struggle to seize power." People's Daily, the official paper, said the appeal was "applicable to all other parts of China."

Wall posters also indicated there was a long struggle ahead between Mao and the forces of President Liu Shao-chi. Japanese reports said the posters quoted Premier Chou En-lai as telling Mao "the recovery of authority has only started."

With the civil conflict spreading over China, Chinese in Peking let off steam by staging a demonstration outside the Soviet Embassy for the second straight day.

Streets Jammed

Peking correspondent of Tokyo's paper Yomiuri estimated 100,000 Chinese jammed the streets outside the embassy. Kyodo News Service said demonstrators hurled insults at Soviet citizens entering the building while teen-age Red Guards painted anti-Soviet slogans on automobiles outside. Chinese swarmed on cars trying to enter the grounds, pounding on them with fists and sticks.

The demonstrations began Thursday as a protest against alleged manhandling of 69 Chinese students Wednesday in Moscow's Red Square, a charge the Russians denied.

A killer storm which smothered the Midwest with a paralyzing snowfall, and rendered Chicago a snow-heaped wasteland with the heaviest accumulation in its history, thundered toward the east Friday.

Sunny skies prevailed over Iowa Friday while residents in southeastern counties continued digging out of a 13-inch snowfall. Although moderate winds in eastern Iowa kept temperatures in the 20s, light variable winds in the western part of the state permitted the mercury to rise into the lower 30s in the Missouri Basin area.

A moderation in temperatures was expected for the weekend, and forecasters said Saturday's high should range from the upper 20s east to the 30s in the southwest.

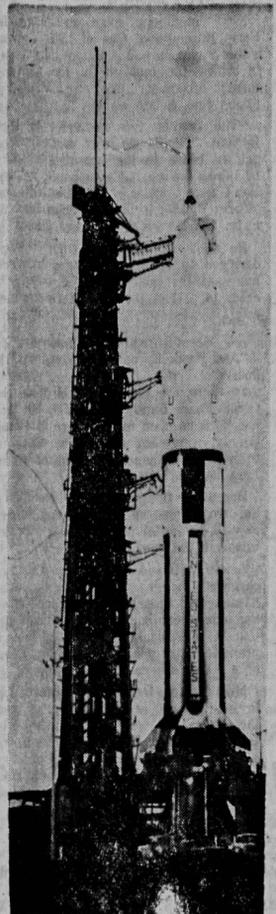

Variable cloudiness was expected to continue Saturday night and Sunday.

Chicago was crippled by a 23-inch snowfall. All three major airports were closed and no schools were open. The expressway resembled huge parking lots. Sidewalks were impassable.

In South Bend, Ind., a snow-covered awning fell and buried two children as they played in a drift in Friday's snowstorm.

Kelly Lynch, 7, and her neighbor companion, Lyle Thompson, 6, were dead on arrival at a hospital.

Hazardous driving warnings were issued for Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and lower Michigan, and for Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and northeast New York. Heavy snow was forecast for northern Maine.

THE APOLLO-SATURN ROCKET in which three astronauts met their deaths Friday is shown in this photograph taken at Cape Kennedy last October.

Easier Money Sends Stock Up

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market climbed again Friday as the trend toward easier money and lower interest rates was ratified by some of the biggest banks in the United States. Trading was heavy.

The slight trend toward softening interest rates which ushered in 1967 became a flood Friday as the Bank of America, the nation's largest, and most of the major banks around the country went along in reducing their prime interest rate to 5 1/2 per cent from 6 per cent.

Stock prices rose from the start and were spurred higher by the encouraging news from the banks. Tight money and stiffer interest rates were the largest factors in sending the market down to its 25 per cent loss in 1966. The process was now being reversed.

Train Lost

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — The New York Central Railroad lost a passenger train carrying about 600 persons in Friday's blizzard in northwest Indiana.

It stalled near Oxford, about 20 miles northwest of Lafayette, when a heavy power line hung low over the tracks.

A spokesman at NYC regional headquarters in Indianapolis said the first they knew where the train was when the Associated Press called and asked particulars.

The Indianapolis bureau of The Associated Press was told about it by G. K. Hoenfeldt, former AP educational editor who was on the train and hitchhiked into Lafayette after it stalled.

The train, en route to Chicago from Indianapolis, got going again after a 16-hour delay when the power line was removed.

Peace-In-Space Treaty Signed At White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomats from 60 nations signed the new peace-in-space treaty Friday at an unusual White House ceremony which President Johnson described as "an inspiring moment in the history of the human race."

Representatives of the United States, the Soviet Union and Great Britain were the first to sign the document that aims at preventing territorial or military rivalries in outer space and at blocking the orbiting of nuclear warheads.

Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin, after signing for the Soviet Union, told an East Room audience: "Let us hope we shall not wait long for solution of earthly problems."

Johnson, who proposed such a treaty last May, said that if disarmament on earth still remains a goal to be sought,

"we can at least keep the virus from spreading" to space.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the treaty demonstrates that conflicts or disagreements among nations cannot be allowed to deter a persistent search for areas of agreement. Nations, he said, "must take even small steps" toward amity and cooperation.

The 2,000-word treaty seeks to block the orbiting of nuclear warheads or any other weapons of mass destruction. It is aimed also at preventing territorial claims in space — such as asserting national title to real estate on the moon.

Other provisions ban military tests or maneuvers on the moon or other celestial bodies and call for the prompt return of any astronauts, cosmonauts, and spacecrafts that might land accidentally on alien soil.

Residents Of Area In Renewal Plan Critical Of Officials

By DON YAGER Staff Writer

This is the third part of a nine-part series on the proposed urban renewal plan for Iowa City. — Ed.

Urban renewal is conflict. Urban renewal is decision making. Urban renewal is demolition and reconstruction. But, much more important, urban renewal is people.

People will be forced to move. Some will have to move from filthy apartment houses. Some will have to move from pleasant rented houses. And some will have to move from their own homes.

In informal interviews with 13 residents of the proposed urban renewal area, bounded roughly by Madison, Court and Van Buren Streets and Iowa Avenue, one attitude that stood out among them was criticism of urban renewal officials for a lack of communication with the residents.

Questions Unanswered

Some of the residents said they had gone repeatedly to the urban renewal offices in the Civic Center with specific questions and were referred from one person to another without ever receiving a satisfactory hearing.

One man said, "There is an honest lack of communications and we don't know what's going on."

However, a retired University professor living in the area said, "There is plenty of communication, but with too much variance. There is too much arrogance on the part of renewal officials and if you dare inquire, you're treated as a criminal."

Barry D. Lundberg, director of planning and urban renewal, said recently that there had been actually very few inquiries from affected residents. He said that each of the inquiries received was considered by either him or his assistant or both.

Lundberg also said that each person in the area had been notified by mail and personally given renewal information.

"They were notified a little less than a year ago and haven't been formally contacted since," he said. "In a very short time we will be contacting them again."

Many of the affected residents are retired with little income other than pensions and social security. For them, relocation would be especially difficult even though they could receive up to $200 for moving expenses and, if eligible, up to $500 in relocation adjustment payments.

The problem for the older residents is essentially not one of money but one of convenience and sentiment.

A widow who lives on South Linn Street said, "I sold my home on Lucas Street and am renting this place so I can be closer to church and the downtown area."

"I had a stroke 19 years ago and haven't worked since," said a man who lives on South Dubuque Street. "We won't be able to get another place in Iowa City."

Money Invested

Another woman on South Linn Street said, "I bought this house in 1953 and have put lots of money into it. If I have to move, I want something as comfortable as I have now. I think I deserve it."

Said the retired professor, "I've been around the world but this is where I wanted to spend the rest of my life. Now, my whole plan is destroyed."

Some of the residents had quite different ideas from these about relocation.

"It doesn't make any difference to me," said an 84-year-old woman. "I'd be glad to go somewhere else. I don't even care if I stay in Iowa City. Of course, it's different for both my neighbors who have lived here all their lives."

A man, who lives in a home which has been in his family for 65 years, said bitterly, "Frankly, I wouldn't want urban renewal help in relocation."

Improvement Needed

Most of the people interviewed felt there was a need for some form of downtown improvement but a majority of them felt that federally-financed renewal was not the answer.

"There definitely should be improvement downtown," said a man who lives on South Madison Street. "But we certainly don't want the town torn down. I know that the businessmen would get together to improve their property if federal urban renewal would be kicked out."

An apartment house owner on South Dubuque Street said, "Any federal project ends up with lots of waste anyway."

Most of the residents agreed that some form of private renewal would be much better than federal urban renewal.

"Private citizens are expected to help themselves, so why can't the businessmen be allowed to help themselves?" asked one woman.

Alternative To Piecemeal

F. T. Aschman, of Barton-Aschman Associates of Chicago, the city's land planning consultant for the renewal program, has said, "The renewal plan offers an alternative to piecemeal improvement. If there is no overall improvement program in a business district, the prudent property owner will question the validity of going it alone in rehabilitation or replacement of buildings on his land. Some owners, of course, see profit in blight, and their decisions add to the insecurity of the investments of others."

One of the main objectives of renewal is the orderly expansion of the University. Lundberg has recommended that the city acquire properties not owned by the University in the four-block area west of Capitol Street to make this land available for University expansion.

University May Benefit

The South Madison Street resident questioned this plan when he said, "It's a damn good way of getting a lot of cheap property for the University. The University will get some properties for one-half or one-third of their true value."

Lundberg has said that the University would have to buy the land from the city at "fair market value."

A woman, who closed her restaurant because of the uncertainties of urban renewal, said, "The University is getting a black eye from people's conversations. Many think the University is out to get something at the expense of others. This isn't true."

Another person criticized the University's public stand on renewal.

"University employees are afraid to speak out if they're opposed to renewal. They're afraid that they'll lose their jobs."

Other Views Sought

A statement from Phil E. Connell, assistant to University Pres. Howard R. Bowen, said in part, "In Mr. Bowen's letter to the council endorsing the principle of urban renewal, he called for other citizens to express their views to the council. There was no inference that these should coincide with the University's position. Any member of the faculty, staff or student body of the University should feel no reluctance to take whatever position on this subject that they feel is right and valid."

Although most of the residents interviewed are opposed to the present renewal plan, only two of them are actually taking an active part in organizations expressing their views.

One of them, the retired professor said, "The lack of knowledge of people is appalling. Advocates of renewal live in ivory towers and don't realize the terrible crisis it will bring to human lives. Did you know that more homes will be destroyed here than by the Belmont tornado?"

89 Houses Involved

A map in the urban renewal offices in the Civic Center pinpoints 89 houses which would be acquired. Newspaper accounts of the Belmont disaster said that over 100 houses were destroyed.

The South Madison Street resident said, "There have been codes for years which could have been used to enforce upgrading of the central business district. Every day that we discuss urban renewal we are destroying Iowa City because people are going to the shopping centers. We need a parking ramp downtown."

Present renewal plans call for the building of a parking ramp on the west side of Linn Street north from Burlington Street. Also, parking lots containing about 1,050 spaces would be built east of Gilbert Street and south of Burlington Street.

Although most of the residents are convinced that someday urban renewal will force them from their homes, some of them still want a public vote on the issue.

"This is a free country and every man has a right to declare himself," said a man on South Capitol Street. "There should be a vote."

The two residents involved in interest groups have different opinions on a public vote.

Too Many Crazy People

Said the South Madison Street resident, "There should be no vote because there are too many crazy people — unless only the people in the area affected would be allowed to vote."

Councilman Loren Hickerson has said, "The city as a whole has an interest in the matter. In one way or another, every citizen has a valid interest in the business district and every Iowa City taxpayer has a direct financial stake in the present and future values of property in the business district, and in expenditure of tax dollars there."

Hickerson has also said there will be no public vote.

The retired professor said, "A vote would do no good. In January of 1965 the council said unless 70 per cent of the people approved, there would be no urban renewal. This implied a poll of some sort. Now they have stopped talking altogether. Nothing can stop it now."

Knowledge Limited

In general, the residents interviewed had a very limited knowledge of urban renewal. All of them knew that they would probably be forced to move if the project were approved. But only a few of them knew of the city's responsibility to help them in moving.

They used broad generalizations in referring to the effects of urban renewal such as, "They're tearing everything down to make a big parking lot."

Most of them were openly bitter towards city officials and, generally, towards anyone supporting renewal. One woman constantly referred to Lundberg, who is a native of Indiana, as, "that darned Hoosier."

Some of the residents said they were interested in the situation from the start and had followed it closely. Most of them had not.

A number of residents refused to be interviewed, with the most frequent reason stated being, "I don't want to become involved."

But, whether they want to be or not they are involved.

Those who were willing to talk were genuinely interested in saving their homes, even though their comprehension of the situation was foggy.

Perhaps those who were unwilling to talk were either less informed than their neighbors or they really didn't care. The only other conclusion would be that they adopted the attitude that is taken so often in controversial matters — "If I don't talk about it, it will go away."

Palmer Trails Massengale By 2 Shots In L.A. Open

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Massengale, bounding back from a disheartening performance in the Bing Crosby Golf Tournament last week, caught and passed Arnold Palmer in the second round of the $100,000 Los Angeles Open Friday.

Playing behind Palmer, who forged to a temporary lead with a seven-under-par 64, the 29-year-old Massengale came in with a 65 and a 36-hole total of 132, tying the tournament record for this distance at 132.

Palmer, with a first-round 70 as compared to Massengale's 67, hit the mid-way mark with 134.

Messengale from the little Texas hamlet of Jacksboro, 60 miles north of Ft. Worth, won the Crosby event in 1966, as well as the Canadian Open. But last week he couldn't break 80 in the four rounds at Pebble Beach.

Jack Cupit, the first-round leader with a 66, shot 71 Friday to go into a four-way tie at 137.

Masters king Jack Nicklaus, admittedly trying to cure a hook, dropped back to 143 with a 74 over the par 36-35-71 Rancho Golf Club course.

The weather remained sunny, but par was a little more elusive than it was the first day.

National Open champion Billy Casper Jr. added a 70 to his first-round 72 for 142.

Massengale, a former golf star at Texas Christian University, said this was his best two consecutive rounds since he turned pro in 1960. His 132 tied the tournament record set in 1956 by Lloyd Mangrum.

Scores of 145 and under made the cut, which left 86 players eligible for the final rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Tied with Cupit at 137 were Bill Martindale, with a 70 Friday; Bert Yancy, 67, and Gay Brewer, 70.

Deadlocked at 138 were Bob Rosburg, with his second straight 69; Bob Goalby, the recent San Diego Open winner, 68; Chuck Courtney, 70, and Johnny Pott, 70.

Massengale, who said he normally plays better a little later in the winter and spring, made the tour in 32-33-65. The round included six birdies and no bogeys.

Jack Rule, Iowa professional, had a card of 72-70-142 Friday and was tied with 12 others, 10 strokes behind the leader.

3 Big 10 Games Scheduled Today

CHICAGO (AP) — A basketball doubleheader featuring top-ranked UCLA and scheduled for the Chicago Stadium Friday night was postponed Friday until Sunday, Stadium officials announced.

The doubleheader would pit UCLA against Illinois, preceded by the Brigham Young University-Loyola of Chicago game.

However, there were reports, not confirmed immediately, that Brigham Young could not play because the Mormon religion prohibits sports activity on Sundays.

The Brigham Young team was somewhere between Chicago and Detroit on a train when the announcement was made.

Stadium officials said that a Saturday night tripleheader at the Stadium definitely is on.

The tripleheader will feature UCLA vs. Loyola, Illinois vs. Notre Dame and Texas Western vs. Brigham Young.

The Friday night game schedule was postponed because of a record snow storm that dumped 24 inches on Chicago and virtually paralyzed the city.

City officials urged all persons to remain home unless of an emergency.

UCLA and its sensational sophomore, Lew Alcindor, arrived early Friday afternoon after a 20-hour trip from Los Angeles. The team went to St. Louis by plane and finally got a train to Chicago after O'Hare International Airport was closed by the storm.

Fears Named To Head New NFL Team

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tom Fears, the National Football League's Most Valuable Player in 1950, was named Friday as the first head coach of the New Orleans Saints — the newest NFL team.

The hiring of the 44-year-old Fears, who has been offensive coach of the Atlanta Falcons for the past season, was announced by John W. Mecom Jr., majority stockholder of the Saints.

Mecom also said that Larry Karl, presently assistant general manager of the Dallas Cowboys, would join the Saint's organization as assistant to the executive committee.

Fears, who played at Santa Clara and UCLA, spent nine seasons of professional football as an end for Los Angeles Rams.

2 Pennsylvania Grid Stars On Campus This Weekend

Two outstanding high school football players from Harrisburg, Pa., are visiting the campus this weekend as guests of the University.

They are Jan White, a 6-2, 200-pound end and Dennis Green, a 5-11, 185-pound halfback. Both came from John Harris High School in Harrisburg, which was the No. 1 high school football team in Pennsylvania last fall. Their coach is George Chaump, one of Pennsylvania's finest coaches.

White is described as a super star in both football and track. He was a member of the all-Pennsylvania football squad last fall and is expected to play in the Pennsylvania-Texas all-star game in Hershey, Pa. next summer. In track he holds the Pennsylvania State low hurdle record.

White is interested in studying law in college.

15-Foot Snowdrifts Won't Stop NU Game

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Despite the 15-foot snowdrifts surrounding McGaw Hall at Northwestern University, school officials said, they expect that the Wildcat's home basketball game with Ohio State will be played tonight.

A university spokesman said that the Ohio State team is enroute by train from Columbus.

Monday Is Last Day For Ticket Pickup

Monday will be the final day for students to pick up tickets to the Iowa-Illinois basketball game which will be played Tuesday, Feb. 7 in the Field House.

Tickets may be picked up any time between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday in the lobby of the Field House. Cost is $1 for students and $1.50 for spouses. Students may park on the tennis courts south of the Field House while picking up their tickets.

An individual student may also purchase a second student ticket, if he has the ID card and certificate of registration of the second person. A spouse ticket may be picked up only if the student is listed as married in University records.

Ticket pickup for the Feb. 14 Iowa-Northwestern game will begin next Wednesday, Feb. 2.

SE Conference Frosh OK'd For Varsity Play

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Southeastern Conference freshmen will be allowed to compete in varsity sports this spring under a rule adopted Friday by school presidents.

The change will allow freshmen to compete in baseball, track, golf and tennis.

NCAA rules permit competition by freshmen, but most conferences, including the Big 10, have banned freshmen from varsity sports for academic reasons.

LaRusso To Sue NBA Board

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Rudy LaRusso of the Los Angeles Lakers said Friday he will sue the National Basketball Association because of the action of the NBA's board of governors that ordered him to Detroit as part of a three-team trade.

His lawyer, Fred Rosenfeld, said the suit will be filed next week. He said it will seek damages but did not specify an amount.

The board of governors ruled Thursday that the trade involving LaRusso was binding. LaRusso had been traded, then had retired, then was reinstated by the Lakers who said the trade was void.

Rosenfeld said LaRusso sent a telegram to the board of governors Wednesday informing Tight Credit Takes Blame In Auto Slump

NEW YORK (AP) — Auto dealers pinched by a new car sales slump now in its tenth month — place a major share of the blame on tight credit.

Other factors cited in a nationwide sampling of dealer views included rising taxes, the huge sales of 1965 and 1966, the higher cost of living, apprehension about the safety of 1967 models, the large number of men in the armed forces, and the threat of the draft to prospective young buyers who are eligible for Selective Service.

The sales slowdown has forced production cutbacks by General Motors, Chrysler, Ford and American Motors. With 15 to 20 per cent fewer cars finding buyers than in 1966, some 20,000 auto industry workers face layoffs.

Market Is Saturated
Noting that 1965 was the record year for new car sales and that 1966 was the second best, Ed Amory, sales manager of Williams Rambler agency in Detroit, advanced this theory: "I think the market is saturated and there's a slack period. That's the basic reason. We might have a slack period for two or three years."

In Dallas, Tex., Bill Clark, whose father owns John M. Clark Rambler, summed up the tight money aspect this way: "What we pay the bank to buy cars with has gone up and therefore we've had to go up on the consumer. I'd say on new cars our sales are off 15 to 20 per cent and our profit is off a good 50 per cent. People are shopping to the last dime and nickel."

Doug Peters, general manager of West End Chevrolet in Waltham, Mass., said he thought the sales slowdown was "more or less due to the over-all tax picture and the fact that we have a quarter million young boys in military service."

Banks Blamed
But Wood Miller, president of Avis Ford in Detroit, declared sales would be running ahead of 1966 "if the banks would take the same deals they did a year ago."

And in Los Angeles, Fred B. Funetti, a Ford dealer whose sales have dropped from an average 250 a month to half that, also blamed the credit squeeze. "Two years ago if a person came in with $400 and a record of repossessions say five years in the past, we'd put him in a car," said Funetti.

Ken Brown, a Detroit Plymouth dealer, said he was getting "lookers" but that a lot of them were not buying because they are eligible for the draft.

Herbert Tousey, general manager of Chicago's Courtes Motors, Inc., a major Ford dealer, put most of the blame on credit difficulties.

University-Produced Film To Be Shown On TV Sunday

A University film about a mentally retarded 8-year-old child will be shown on the College Close-Up television series at 11 a.m. Sunday on station WQAD-TV (Channel 8), Moine, Ill.

The film, entitled "Someone Special," shows a day in the life of Charles Lacina, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lacina, Rural Route 3, Iowa City. Included in the film are interviews with Mr. and Mrs. Lacina; Dr. Hans Zellweger, professor of pediatrics; and Munro Shintani, coordinator for the State Department of Public Instruction and the University

Special Education Curriculum Development Center. The documentary was made last year by students in a speech and television course taught by H. Clay Harshbarger, head of the Department of Speech and Dramatic Art. The student producers were Morris Alter, David, Arthur J. Schwidder Jr., Fort Dodge, both alumni, and Bruce J. Kienapfel, G. Carroll.
