Johnson Likely To Name Clark Attorney General

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is likely to act fairly soon to name an attorney general — a job that has been vacant for more than four months. Odds-on choice to get the Cabinet nomination is Ramsey Clark, 39, deputy attorney general, who has been acting in the top spot since last Oct. 3. Pressures on Johnson to make a selection are growing almost daily because: • Clark now in effect occupies four top Justice Department positions, a work load he could not be expected to shoulder indefinitely. He is acting attorney general and still deputy attorney general. He also is filling two assistant deputy attorney general vacancies, one dealing with judicial appointments and the other with legislation. • The attorney general will have a lead role in seeking congressional passage this year of major administration proposals in such areas as civil rights, crime control, campaign spending and lobbying curbs. This is no task for a caretaker attorney general. • Some believe employe morale in the Justice Department is suffering, if only marginally, because of the delay in appointing an attorney general. • Filling of important vacancies has become more difficult. Lawyers are not eager to join the department when there is uncertainty about its future leadership. Some White House sources attribute the delay in naming an attorney general to a decision by the President last fall to wait for the 1967 session of the Senate, which must pass on the nomination. Clark, son of Associate Justice Tom C. Clark of the Supreme Court, has been acting attorney general since Nicholas Katzenbach resigned and became under-secretary of state.

Magazine Reveals CIA-Student Dole

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department acknowledged Tuesday the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) was a secret financial backer of the country's largest college student organization — the National Student Association (NSA) — for more than 10 years. The disclosure threatened the future of the NSA and promised a new storm in academic circles and in Congress over the big spy agency's secret operations.

Campus governments at both the University and Iowa State University once were affiliated with NSA, but both severed their ties a few years ago. Tom Hanson, A4, Jefferson, president of the Student Senate, explained they dropped out of NSA in November of 1965 because the group was moving too far to the left. The Senate felt, said Hanson, that NSA was paying too much attention to liberal stands on such issues as civil rights and foreign affairs — and not enough emphasis on student activities. Connection Supported As for the CIA influencing NSA policies through its financial support, Hanson said: "I don't think the NSA sold out to the CIA. I don't believe there was anything wrong with this." Capitol Hill sources familiar with CIA activities said privately however, they knew of the CIA - NSA financial connections and the State Department indicated the relationship was approved "at the high levels of government." The president of NSA, W. Eugene Groves, formally revealed the connection after Ramparts magazine trumpeted in newspaper ads Tuesday morning that it was going to expose "how the CIA has infiltrated and subverted the world of American student leaders."

Police Issue Instructions On Preventing Attacks

Iowa City police have once again issued advice to students on steps to be taken if they find themselves under attack. The precautions were issued Tuesday after two young University women were involved in incidents Saturday and Monday nights. Iowa City Police Chief John Ruppert and Campus Security Police Chief John Hanna aimed their advice to coeds who might be attacked by another person or who must walk or work in campus buildings during the dark hours. One of the incidents involved a student who was working late in one of the campus buildings while the second involved a coed who was walking on a public street. In both cases, the offender escaped. Hitchhiking is one of the biggest sources of trouble, Ruppert said. "It is asking for a ride into trouble or injury from another car." Both Ruppert and Hanna suggested the following steps to help prevent students from being attacked, assaulted or molested while walking on the streets.

- Never walk alone at night. Stay in pairs.
- Don't walk in unlighted areas of the street.
- If you are molested or attacked, get some sort of a physical description of the person. Don't try to remember everything about your attacker. Attempt to remember things that make this person stand out from all other students.
- If you are attacked inside a car, attempt to remember a description of the vehicle, especially the license plate number.
- Notify the police immediately. Don't return home to consult your friends or sorority sisters. Valuable time is lost.
- If you must work inside a University building at night, Hanna recommends:
 - Lock the door in the room where you are working. Admit no one unless you recognize the voice or the name.
 - If someone attempts to get inside the room, try to call the Iowa City police. "I'd rather answer a thousand calls to check out a building than being called after something has happened," Hanna said.

Bloody Fighting Of Maoists, Foes Erupts In Tibet

TOKYO (AP) — Bloody fighting between supporters and foes of Mao Tse-tung has broken out in Lhasa, the capital of Tibet, and anti-Maoists have declared martial law in the city, Japanese dispatches from Peking said Tuesday. Wall posters in Peking said opponents of Mao clashed with armed Maoist forces Friday and seized control of Lhasa's security agency, the police office, the Municipal party headquarters and the offices of the Peoples Committee, the reports said. The dispatches, in the Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri and the Kyodo news service, said the dissidents inflicted scores of casualties and took more than 10 prisoners. The anti-Maoists were led by Gen. Chang Kuo-hua, one of the most powerful men in western China, the reports said. He led the Red Chinese army into Tibet in 1959, forcing the Dalai Lama to seek refuge in India, and has been there since as commander of the Tibet military district and first secretary of the Communist party organization there. These other developments were reported in the turmoil on the Chinese mainland: Peking wall posters, also reported in the Japanese press, pointed to a sweeping purge of top military men in an effort to eliminate supporters of President Liu Shao-chi, a leading foe of Mao. A correspondent for the Japanese newspaper Sankei said 25 military leaders are under attack, including Deputy Defense Minister Hsiao Ching-kuang and the commanders of the Inner Mongolia and Sinkiang military districts.

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. renewal of bombing in North Vietnam brought editorial expressions of disappointment Tuesday from around the world and outbursts of Communist denunciation. Presidents Johnson and Ho Chi Minh each drew criticism. The official Soviet news agency Tass accused Johnson of "official hypocrisy" and of "having closed the door to peace by his order to resume piratic air raids." Tass said Johnson "continues to claim that the United States is seeking peace, but has no other choice but to resume full scale military operations." But who will believe this now? The Vatican daily L'Osservatore Romano placed the blame for interference on Ho Chi Minh's reply to Pope Paul's appeal for peace negotiations. The newspaper said Ho's reply "does not, unfortunately, contain any new elements to furnish hopes for the start, at least now, of negotiations for an honorable end to the sad conflict."

Legislators See Cuts In Budget

By LOWELL FORTE AND AL KORBEL Staff Writers

Several Iowa state legislators conceded Tuesday that the proposed operating expense appropriations for the University and capital improvements would be cut. The legislators were among 60 who visited the University campus Tuesday afternoon. Many were members of Senate and House committees that will work on the appropriation measures. The legislators interviewed believed there was a need for the money, but gave several reasons for the probable cuts. The University is asking for $185 million for operating expenses and $25 million for capital improvements in the next biennium. Rep. Ray V. Bailey (D-Wright) said, "The question is, are the amounts asked plausible when you consider all the other demands on the available funds?" Bailey said, "Historically, a cut is the usual situation. The Board of Regents cuts the amount asked by the University, the Governor cuts the amount asked by the Regents and the General Assembly cuts the Governor's requests." Rep. Cecil Reed (R-Linn), agreeing to the cut possibility said, "Looking at the projected out-look, we will have to do in 10 years what was done in 100 years before. It is an ambitious program, but it is needed." Sen. Howard C. Reppert Jr. (D-Polk) said "No matter what the feelings were about the budget, it would have to be kept down to allow money for other governmental agencies." House Minority Leader William J. Gannon (D-Jasper) said the budget would probably be closer to the Governor's requests. He also stated that the influence of a "strong, but small faction" favoring a fourth university would have little influence on keeping the appropriations down. This faction, according to Rep. Floyd Edgington (R-Franklin), will have little influence. He said that the creation of 16 area colleges would completely rule out a fourth university.

Rep. Leroy S. Miller (R-Page) said he had been part of the faction but left it after the formation of the area colleges.

"I fought for the fourth school when it was needed, but with the area schools there is the problem of financing even the high schools properly," he said.

The legislators interviewed said recent student demonstrations posed little chance of adverse effect on the amount of appropriations.

Reppert said he was "happy to see the students voice their opinions," but said he was concerned about the Barnett situation.

He said the problem with Barnett "may have to be taken up before the legislature."

Edgington and Rep. Marvin W. Smith (R-O'Brien) also expressed concern over the publicity stemming from Barnett's refusal to submit grades.

Bailey stated the protesters at the University were merely a "minority and have no influence on the general student body." He said he was more concerned about the situation at Iowa State University (ISU).

At ISU, Donald Smith, member of the Students for a Democratic Society was elected by a large majority as president of the student body last week. Smith was quoted as saying he would drag ISU "kicking and screaming into the 20th century."

When a large majority of the student body endorses such action, then a University should take it as a warning for needed changes, Bailey said.

1st Term Grades To Be Available

First semester grades will be available to students from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday in the Union Ballroom. The grade reports will be in the form of an unofficial copy of the student's permanent record. Each student will be allowed to pick up only his record, and will be required to show his student ID card. Those records which are not picked up at the Union will be taken to the Registrar's Office, 1 University Hall, where students may pick them up during the week of Feb. 20-24. All records remaining in the Registrar's files at 4:30 p.m. Feb. 24 will be mailed to the student's home address. Records will not be mailed to students' local address.

6 Legislators Stop, Harangue Barnett In Hall

Donald L. Barnett, assistant professor of sociology and anthropology, said that six Iowa state legislators "rudely stopped" him in the hall Tuesday as he was getting his mail and asked why he had not turned in grades.

The legislators were among a group of about 60 on campus for a tour to learn about long-range campus development. Barnett said that he identified one of the legislators who approached him as Rep. Charles E. Grassley (R-New Hartford).

Barnett said the legislators tried to give him some "fatherly advice" by encouraging him to turn in his grades and save his job.

The legislators told Barnett that his action could hurt the state universities' image in the legislature resulting reduction of appropriations by the legislators.

Barnett said he was "angry with the implication" and that his major concern was with the war in Vietnam. He said he felt "no sense of loyalty to this school or to this state" and that his loyalty was to human beings.

"I wouldn't do anything to prosecute this war," said Barnett.

A reporter that talked to one of the legislators after their meeting with Barnett asked him whether Barnett's action would hurt University appropriations from the legislature. The legislator said, "No, I don't think so. Not after what we've seen today."

Negro Casualties In Vietnam War Exceed Average

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negro enlisted men make up about 11 per cent of the total fighting force in South Vietnam but accounted for 17.8 per cent of the overall combat deaths through 11 months of last year, statistics showed Tuesday. This means that Negroes were being killed last year at a rate about 60 per cent higher than their proportion of servicemen in the Southeast Asian country — in comparison to those of other races. The Defense Department statistics also indicated that proportionally more Negroes died last year in Vietnam than in previous years. No precise comparisons can be made because of lack of data. But last March the Pentagon released figures showing that about 12 per cent of the total enlisted fighting force in Vietnam between 1961 and 1965 was Negro and the Negro enlisted death rate in these years was 18.6 per cent. This means that Negroes were being killed those years at a rate about 55 per cent higher than their incidence in Vietnam. Negroes comprise about 10 per cent of the U.S. population. The Pentagon statistics on Negro casualties were made available to an inquiring newsmen, but not distributed by the Defense Department. Asked about this, one official explained, "that's the way we always do it." The high rate of Negroes serving and dying in Vietnam long has been a source of controversy, with some congressmen and civil rights leaders raising the question of racial discrimination.

New Bombings Criticized

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. renewal of bombing in North Vietnam brought editorial expressions of disappointment Tuesday from around the world and outbursts of Communist denunciation. Presidents Johnson and Ho Chi Minh each drew criticism. The official Soviet news agency Tass accused Johnson of "official hypocrisy" and of "having closed the door to peace by his order to resume piratic air raids." Tass said Johnson "continues to claim that the United States is seeking peace, but has no other choice but to resume full scale military operations." But who will believe this now? The Vatican daily L'Osservatore Romano placed the blame for interference on Ho Chi Minh's reply to Pope Paul's appeal for peace negotiations. The newspaper said Ho's reply "does not, unfortunately, contain any new elements to furnish hopes for the start, at least now, of negotiations for an honorable end to the sad conflict."

In Britain, the Guardian (Liberal) said "the sky yesterday began to look thick with doves. But President Ho Chi Minh possibly, and President Johnson certainly, have shot them down and the sky over Vietnam is as black as ever." Expressions of pessimism marked British press reaction. The Times (independent) said "the setback is severe. At the moment there can only be a faint hope that Mr. Kosygin (Soviet premier) and Mr. Wilson (British prime minister), understanding each other more fully, will be able to seize on another opening when it comes." The Sun (Labor) said "America's determination to go on with the bombing, unless the North Vietnamese stopped using the pause for their own military build-up, is understandable. What is deplorable is that the Americans have moved with such blundering haste."

Nepszabadsag described the six-day bombing lull as "no more than a propaganda trick." L'Humanite, the French Communist party daily, asserted that "Johnson, once more, has chosen war and closed the way which could have opened toward peace." Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, said the United States "strives for the continuation of bloodshed on Vietnamese soil and is afraid of peace." In Paris, the Daily Figaro (independent) asked "What had they (the United States) expected from the very brief suspension? ... The United States did not offer proof of very much patience, and the resumption of the bombings ... will be badly understood by international opinion." The Frankfurter (West Germany) Allgemeine said, "One cannot say the opponents are already in the anteroom to peace, but the prospects of peace have also not worsened."

Coeds be careful

This is a warning to coeds. In the past couple days one girl has been molested and another approached by an exhibitionist. There have been scattered reports of other similar incidents.

Naturally the police are trying to catch the person or persons. There is no proof that only one person is involved.

We urge coeds to be especially careful at night. It is best that they travel in pairs or catch rides home with someone they know, or take a taxi if necessary. Hitchhiking back to the dormitory or sorority is especially hazardous at night and should be avoided.

Whether police catch this person, or these persons, does not mean that the campus or Iowa City sidewalks are going to be safe for coeds at night. It is virtually impossible for police to prevent all assaults.

The coeds' best defense against being molested is eliminating the opportunity for such occurrences. Even if the police do nab a suspect, it is no guarantee that another molester is not around. So be careful.

Congress and Mr. Powell

Once the House of Representatives has unraveled the legal puzzle of whether it can expel Adam Clayton Powell, it will face a political question: Should it?

For now, a House committee is plunging through the constitutional thicket in search of what exactly qualifies Rep. Powell to become an ex-representative. Powell himself says that he should be judged only on requirements spelled out in the Constitution — age, citizenship, residence. That is why the committee is curious about how much time Powell spends in his Harlem congressional district. The gentleman from "Bimini" now becomes not only a sobriquet but an accusation.

Powell is willing to settle the question on that basis. He has produced his New York State income tax returns and recalled the sermons he delivered to his Harlem congregation on Sundays, the one day of the week he was safe from arrest.

It is legitimate, however, to ask if the House should expel Powell even if it legally can. No matter how irritating his habits or clouded his reputation — traits that used to be blanketed by the term moral turpitude — there's a danger in clearing Congress of its exceptionally objectionable members. As Sen. Robert A. Taft once said: "If the Senate can say that the absence of moral turpitude is a qualification, it can impose qualifications based on morals, the religion or lack of religion or the philosophic views of any persons elected."

Powell has already lost his committee chairmanship, and on the evidence of his misuse of committee funds that loss was amply justified. Other evidence developed against him has presumably been examined by the Justice Department.

But the people of his district did, after all, choose to be represented in Congress by Adam Clayton Powell, for better or for worse. Short of some unlikely finding that would put him behind the bars, Congress would be treading on dangerous ground to deny the people that right of representation.

Ticket system is proposed

To the Editor: Here is a revolutionary, new idea to solve the basketball ticket distribution problem that seems to plague this university. The idea is a complete change — not a modification of the present procedure. Thus, even I do not expect immediate acceptance of this avant-garde idea. However, even though it is entirely new and original, I believe its logic will be so undeniable that it will soon gain acceptance with the "enlightened."

Since: (1) The purpose of athletic teams is to broaden the educational experience of both the team members and all the students of the university. (2) The purpose of athletic teams is not to make a profit for the university. (3) Student schedules are markedly varied due to tests, papers, etc. Thus it is difficult for the student to know if he will be able to attend a game on the "second Tuesday of next month." (4) Time consumed picking up tickets could be better spent studying. (5) Part of the student tuition goes to the athletic fund. And (6) the university must pay for materials and people to handle complicated student ticket handling procedures.

I propose this revolutionary idea: (1) Approximate the number of students expected to attend each basketball game. Designate this number of seats for students. (2) Instead of requiring students to buy and pick up tickets allow them to be admitted to the field house by having a number on their current registration punched!

This original idea would solve existing problems in the following ways: (1) By upholding academic excellence at the university by allowing time for study that was formerly used to pick up basketball tickets. (2) By relieving the frustration of trying to decide whether to go to the game or study in the dim future two weeks away. (3) By increasing student attendance and therefore spirit at games. (4) By alleviating the university's responsibility for handling complicated ticket procedures. And (5) by allowing the funds of the "poor" student who is an avid athletic fan to be channeled into books and food.

I realize that since my ideas are so revolutionary I may be ridiculed. However since "they" laughed at Robert Fulton too, I am prepared.

WASHINGTON — Red China is making threatening noises at the Soviet Union and has even said that if the Russians keep beating up Chinese students at Red Square the People's Army of China will have no choice but to attack the Soviets in force.

American sympathies for the first time in years are with the Soviet Union, and, while it's hard to believe, we may soon be referring to the Russians as "our valiant allies" again.

No one speaks about it, but there is a contingency plan for just such an eventuality, and it's headed by a State Department-type named Horace Turnover.

I found Turnover in the subbasement of a temporary World War II building located behind a dark marked Department of Friendly Soviet-American Relations and Co-ordinating Commission.

When I walked in I found him on his hands and knees putting the last touches on a sign which said "Take a Russian to Lunch."

Turnover seemed elated with the turn of events and said, "For 22 years they made fun of me, but they aren't laughing any more. Why, if things keep going as they are between the Soviets and the Red Chinese, they might even move me back to the State Department building."

I noticed for the first time that Turnover's window was broken and the snow was pouring in.

Big Man On Campus

Alphaville: old story, new view

By NICHOLAS MEYER
Staff Reviewer

Perhaps there is nothing original in the world left to say, there are only original ways left to say it. That people must love one another, that reason is not enough, are ideas almost as old as time, but men are always finding new ways of restating and expressing them.

One of the most interesting recent re-workings of this theme is a film called "Alphaville" by a brilliant young French director named Jean Luc Goddard (who first attracted attention in this country with a sizzling thriller called "Breathless," starring Jean Paul Belmondo and Jean Seberg). Goddard's screenplay is a satire about a Utopia which has much in common with "1984," "Brave New World" and others of that ilk. Alphaville is a city run by computers and logic. Tears and love are forbidden.

Here's the catch. Although the story is set in the future, the production is set in the present. There are no "futuristic" sets or costumes. Alphaville, in appearance at least, looks like any other modern city. All a genius like Goddard needs are a few neon lights, some IBM machines, and, with the air of his amazing camera and facility for juxtaposing just the right images in his editing, Goddard creates a perfect nightmare of a world that doesn't in the least resemble today's — except that it does because all the objects and costumes are completely familiar. The implications are intriguing and much more disturbing than if the whole film had been dressed up with trapping of some future date.

The story is unashamedly comic strip in plot line and execution; Lemmy Caution, secret agent from the "Outlands," comes to "Alphaville" to investigate the computer city and, if necessary, destroy it. He represents the man who feels as well as thinks, and in the process of foiling Alphaville's "logical" plans for universal conquest, he manages to fall in love with and rescue the daughter of the arch-villain-professor who set up the whole cock-eyed town.

Throughout the entire film, Goddard's sharp eye and ready wit keep inventing ludicrous and painful aspects of this grotesque world where dictionaries are "bibles," women are branded for easy identification, and people say "yes, thank you, I'm fine" without ever being asked. Even when the viewer's interest flags where the plot is concerned, he is always engaged with Goddard's horrifying vision of the world unless we do something about it and remember the importance of tears.

"Alphaville" also gives what for most of us is the first glimpse of the notorious Eddie Constantine, an American actor who has made his entire career as the number one (or thereabouts) box office attraction in French movies. Mr. Constantine looks like a cross between Humphrey Bogart and Laurence Olivier, with an expressionless, ravaged face and sad all-knowing eyes. His performance has Bogart's wooden quality, with his pathetic eyes serving the same purpose Bogart's did: providing the satisfactory illusion of depth where perhaps none exists.

Playing the branded brain-washed heroine is Anna Karini. She does not do much but it isn't necessary. Both look interesting enough and the story and its execution more than absorbs the attention of the viewer.

"Alphaville" is a brilliant, witty and disturbing film. If nothing else, Goddard's

Reader criticizes cartoon

To The Editor: Herblock's editorial cartoons, it appears, were too imaginative for the editorial page of the Daily Iowan. Their complexity seems to have exposed, by contrast, the paucity of wit, the lack of imagination, the unconcern with complexity, and the flailing conservative corn field run the editors of the Iowan champion.

The drawing of Professor Barnett is meek slander. The figure labeled "Barnett" has, it seems, (it's a poor drawing) his palms pressed together, hands pointing to heaven. What its creator means is that the figure is begging; the palm is out, and open. But to picture Professor Barnett begging would not be in keeping with the normal policy of meek slander, so the drawing, obviously going counter to whatever scant knowledge its creator has of Professor Barnett, has the figure half begging, half praying (it is apparent, from the title of the cartoon, that its author sees some distinction). To attack the creator of this drawing in his positioning of the hands is to attack his religion. The artist protects himself from an overt charge of slander by benignly assigning the figure qualities which must belong to its creator: a round-eyed sadness, meekness, subservience.

Ach. There seems, after all, to be complexity in this kind of meek slander. Even the cartoon's title "Alms . . ." with the ambiguity of meaning in the word "poor" of the unfinished statement is nicely slanderous, conservatively viscous.

The STUDent called better

By VICTOR POWER
Staff Reviewer

The February issue of The STUDent is now on sale in Iowa City. The layout of the magazine is still amateurish, a slavish imitation of Playboy. But due to the use of better quality paper, the photographic reproduction in this month's issue is much improved.

The cover too is clever. It shows an Iowa City meter maid typically caught in the crosshairs of a telescopic rifle, as she writes out a parking ticket.

More imagination like this would have improved the issue. As it is the advertisers still lead the editorial staff in imagination and basic layout. Greta Grandview is again first class (artist John Burrell), and Jon Jacobson's photographs are improved. The short stories by Tom Young and Jim Ridihalgh are barely adequate while the editorial page, the Winter Fun and Letters page are so badly printed that they are unreadable. If the printer cannot provide better type than this, fire him. For 35 cents one expects value.

There are some things in the magazine. At least it is local. And in spite of its birthmarks, I still think the infant can survive.

Soviets now are the good guys

"I gather up until now they haven't given your department too much money."

Turnover pulled his overcoat tight around his throat. "You can say that again. You might even say they've tried to keep my department under wraps, but now all these years of waiting have paid off."

"What do you plan to do first?"

He took me over to a rusty metal cabinet and opened it.

"I have all the film here that we made about our valiant Russian allies during Word War II: 'Song of Russia,' 'Convoy to Murmansk,' 'The Meeting at the Elbe' and 'Our Friends, the Ukrainians.' As soon as I get the word we're releasing them for television on the Late, Late Show."

"It will be nice to see them again," I said to him.

"Then we'll give the Soviets 50 old American destroyers as part of a new lend-lease program."

"But what do they need with destroyers? The Red Chinese have no navy to speak of."

"It will be a friendly gesture. After that we can send them the hard stuff. We'll explain to the American people that the Russians are fighting our war."

"Something like any attack on the Soviet Union is an attack on us?" I asked.

"Exactly. We might even bring over some Russian war heroes to see U.S. defense bonds."

"Maybe we could have a rally in Hollywood for the Soviet Union Widows and Orphans Fund," I said excitedly.

"It's not going to be easy," Turnover said. "I called Hollywood and spoke to a writer about starting one, and he said the last time he organized such a rally he couldn't find work for 23 years."

The snow was now blowing all over Turnover's desk.

"Well, I hope for your sake the Red Chinese really give the Soviets a had time," I said.

School Board Delays Decision On Proposed Swimming Plan

A proposal to make swimming and water safety education mandatory in Iowa City schools was presented to the Iowa City School Board, which met Tuesday night.

Richard W. Buxton, 720 Clark St., asked for formal approval of a voluntary citizens group that would try to raise enough money to donate swimming pools to the school district.

School Board Pres. William V. Phalen said that the board preferred not to make any formal statement until definite plans had been made by the group.

Senate Met; No Quorum, No Action

The Student Senate met at 7:30 Tuesday night but was forced to hold an informal meeting because the necessary quorum could not be met. A quorum requires 16 of the senate's 31 members.

During the informal session the senators discussed an "open house" a proposal in approved housing.

The proposal, which has been referred to the senate from the Committee on Student Life, needs only the senate's approval before it is sent to Pres. Howard R. Bowen.

The resolution states "it is felt that such an opportunity for intervisitation in University approved housing may well play a part in promoting the student's perceptions of the residence hall as a home and of the residents as mature young adults."

According to the resolution, "Social regulations must take into account the rights of all students in the residence; respect for other students' privacy, maintenance of a reasonable noise level and other rules of order."

By privacy, the resolution refers to closed doors, according to Tom Hanson, Li, Jefferson, student body president.

Under the policy of the resolution, the time and place of "open house" would be determined by the residence's governing body in accordance with University rules as to the time when social events may take place.

The board accepted a resolution for the naming of three schools. The present high school will be named City High School, the new high school will be named West High School and the new elementary school will be named Grant Wood Elementary School.

Bids were accepted by the De-Vac Company to furnish new windows for Longfellow School and by the Rusco Company of Iowa City to install new windows in Central Junior High. The bids totaled $57,990.

A statement was read to the board by Richard S. Hootman, 1131 Wade, from the Iowa City Local 1618 of the American Federation of Teachers charging the board with refusing to cooperate with the group in negotiation. Phalen said that all negotiations with teachers would be carried on with the Liaison Committee which Phalen said represented the majority of teachers.

Posing Coed Disciplined

GAINSVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Pretty Pamela Brewer, 18, was given disciplinary probation for the next two terms at the University of Florida Tuesday because she posed nude for a magazine published off campus.

"I thought it would be more severe," Goldin said.

Pamela, when asked her opinion of the punishment, said: "I don't really think anything yet. I didn't know what to expect. I guess I'm rather surprised."

Goldin said the probation meant she could remain in school and would have no problems as long as she did not get into trouble. He said he understood it carried no social restrictions.

Asked if he planned to appeal the mild penalty, Goldin replied, "We'll make a statement on that sometime next week." He said he still felt the university's decision, convicting the Springfield, Va., coed of "inappropriate and indiscreet conduct" was not justified. She was punished for displaying her nude 38-25-38 figure while reclining on a Persian rug.

Coralville Accepts Pool Bid; Police Ask 'Parking' Funds

A bid for the financing of a $90,000 swimming pool was accepted by the Coralville City Council Tuesday night.

Low bidder was the Carlton D. Bey Company of Des Moines. Bids were on a percentage basis and Bey's bid was 3.66 per cent over 17 years.

The public swimming pool, expected to be completed by July 1, will be located west of Coralville's Drive-In theatre in a park of approximately 30 acres.

At the council meeting, Coralville Police Chief Wayne J. Winter asked the council to help enforce a parking regulation by appropriating money for signs to be placed in "trouble spots."

2 Youths Injured In Auto Accident

A single-car accident Tuesday, three miles east of Iowa City on American Legion Road, injured two persons.

Johnson County Sheriff's Department said a car driven by Cindy Lou Gingerich, 16, of 824 Willow St., went out of control on a curve, struck a power pole and overturned.

Miss Gingerich was released following treatment at Mercy Hospital while a passenger, Ross Pedersen, 15, 2313 Mayfield Rd., was admitted to the hospital in good condition.

Legislators Told Old Capitol Lore

"We are gathered here today in the cradle of the state government," Bowen told the visiting delegation of more than 60 senators and representatives.

Hearings Set On Housing

Student ideas of future University housing needs will be the purpose of a series of public hearings to be held by a subcommittee of the Student Faculty Housing Committee.

The first of these hearings, intended primarily for graduate students, will be held at 4 p.m. Friday in the Main Lounge of Rienow Hall.

Future hearings, intended to give all students a chance to express their views, will be held on subsequent Fridays in other housing units.

The sub-committee is headed by Robert F. Sayre, associate professor of English. It was formed in response to a request by Pres. Howard R. Bowen that the Student Faculty Housing Committee undertake a study to determine how the University can better "combine the living experience in the dorms with the educational experiences."

The sub-committee is responsible for reviewing student housing history and preparing general proposals for housing of students.

"The students have indicated they don't want any more cubicles, but the committee wants to know what they do want," said Sayre. "We want to know if the students want dorms or apartments, big or little housing units, and what kind of dining facilities," Sayre said.

Berkeley Author-Professor Will Speak Here Tonight

Czeslaw Milosz of the University of California, Berkeley, will speak at 8 tonight in the Senate Chamber of the Old Capitol.

The title of the speech is "Stanislaw Ignacy Witkiewicz, a Polish 'Catastrophist' and Philosophical Jester."

Milosz is the chairman of the Department of Slavic Languages and Literature at the University of California. He has written more than 20 books, the first of which was published in 1933. His most recent book is a selection of poems he edited and translated. "Postwar Polish Poetry," which was published last year.

Milosz Was Active He was born in 1911 in Lithuania and took high school and university studies at the University of Wilno, which at that time was in Poland. He is one of the leaders of the so-called "Second Vanguard" in Polish poetry.

During World War II he was active in the resistance movement in Warsaw as author and editor of clandestine publications. From 1945 to 1951 he was in the foreign service of People's Poland. His collected poems, including poems of resistance, published in 1945 in Poland, were considered one of the most valid contributions to modern Polish poetry.

In quarrel with socialist realism, he left Poland in 1951 and until 1960 lived as a free lance writer in France. He was awarded Le Prix Littéraire European for a novel in 1953. Since 1960 he has lived in Berkeley. His output embraces poetry, translations of French, English, and American poetry into Polish (including T.S. Eliot's "Wasteland"), translations into English, two novels and literary essays.

Letter To Engle In a letter he wrote to Paul Engle, professor of English, he said that Stanislaw Ignacy Witkiewicz (1885-1939) was considered today in Poland as one of the most striking phenomena of modern Polish literature.

"Witkiewicz was a playwright, a painter and a novelist. His theory and practice of the theatre as Pure Form makes him, in a way, a precursor of the theatre of the absurd, though he started from different premises and was more radical in his conclusions," Milosz wrote.

Sponsored By Workshop "Witkiewicz's utterly pessimistic vision of 20th century civilization — he prophesied the death of religion, of philosophy and of art — found its expression in his philosophical treatises and in two quite extraordinary novels of anticipation — 'Facewell to Autumn,' 1927, and 'Insatiation,' 1930. Should you drink beer straight from the bottle?

If you're on a fishing trip or something, carrying along a glass is pretty clumsy. But when it's convenient, we think it's a shame not to use one. Keeping Budweiser inside the bottle or can is missing half the fun.

Those tiny bubbles getting organized at the top of your glass have a lot to do with taste and aroma. Most beers have carbonation pumped in mechanically. Not Budweiser. We go to a barrel of trouble and expense to let Budweiser create its own bubbles with the natural carbonation of Beechwood Ageing. So you really can't blame us for wanting you to get it at its best, can you?

Just for fun, pour your next four or five bottles of Bud into a glass. If you don't agree that the extra taste, clarity and aroma make a big difference, go back to the bottle.

We won't say another word.

Hawks Tie For Lead

Contain Northwestern Rally To Post 80-75 Big 10 Win

By RON BLISS
Asst. Sports Editor

Iowa's Hawkeyes staved off a second-half Northwestern rally in the Field House Tuesday night and threw the Big 10 leadership into a four-way tie with an 80-75 victory over the Wildcats.

The victory was Iowa's 21st straight in the Field House and left the Hawkeyes tied with Northwestern, Indiana and Michigan State for the Big 10 lead. All have 5-2 conference records.

The Hawkeyes, mainly on the strength of some fine out-side shooting, grabbed a 10-point halftime lead, but had to scramble in the second half to hold off a Northwestern rally that once brought the Wildcats to within two points of the lead.

The trouble for Iowa came when Northwestern reeled off eight straight points with 12:56 remaining in the game to cut the Iowa lead from 58-48 to 56-56 in a two minute period.

Gerry Jones countered for Iowa with seven straight points and Ron Norman cashed a field goal to put the Hawks back safely ahead, but Iowa still wasn't out of hot water.

With Iowa leading 67-56 with 6:31 remaining, Northwestern slowly started to chip into the lead and cut the deficit to just three points at 74-71 with 2:07 remaining.

At that point, however, Iowa Coach Ralph Miller decided it was time to slow things down, and went into a stall in an attempt to preserve the Hawks' slim lead.

Northwestern was forced to foul to get the ball and the Hawkeyes took advantage of the situation to convert six free throws and assure themselves of the victory.

The Hawks' Sam Williams, who leads the Big 10 in scoring, was the big man for Iowa again as he scored 24 points and pulled down 10 rebounds to lead his team in both departments.

Close Game Broken
It was Williams' nine-point burst in the first half that broke a close game open for the Hawkeyes. His spree came midway through the period with the Hawks holding a slim 9-8 lead. When he was done, however, Iowa was ahead 19-12 and on its way to its 12th victory of the season against just five losses.

Gerry Jones chipped in 22 points and pulled down eight rebounds to help the Iowa cause, while Tom Chapman added 13 and Norman 12.

Jim Burns, Northwestern's leading scorer, could manage only six of 18 shots from the field, but still led the Wildcats with 21 points.

Iowa, which leads the Big 10 in both field goal and free throw percentage, fired a warm 61.8 per cent for the game, compared to Northwestern's 39.5 per cent. Northwestern led in rebounding 37-35.

UCLA Keeps Wide Lead In AP Poll

By The Associated Press
The undefeated UCLA Bruins play a comfortable repeat performance while the schedule for the other ranking teams in The Associated Press' major-college basketball poll appears to be less hazardous this week than last.

Five rated teams were beaten last weekend, resulting in a shifting of positions.

UCLA, though, was a unanimous choice for first place for the fifth straight week. The Bruins lifted their record to 19-0 by trouncing Oregon State 76-44 and Oregon 100-66, and they play the same two teams again this weekend.

Louisville moved into second place in the voting by 32 members on the national panel of sports writers and broadcasters. The Cardinals accumulated 275 points, which were awarded on a basis of 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second etc.

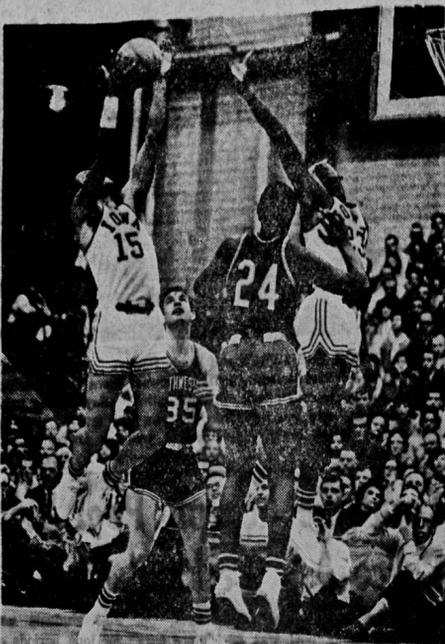

Princeton also advanced one notch to third while North Carolina, beaten by Georgia Tech, slipped two notches to fourth.

Western Kentucky and Kansas each advanced one position. The Hilltoppers climbed to fifth after beating Murray in overtime and East Tennessee. Kansas moved into the No. 6 spot after defeating Nebraska and Kansas State.

Houston, beaten by Notre Dame, fell from fifth to seventh while Texas Western held the No. 8 position despite its loss to Seattle.

Vanderbilt and Syracuse complete the rankings, occupying ninth and 10th places, respectively. They replaced Providence and Boston College.

Three among the rated teams scored victories Monday night. Western Kentucky beat Tennessee Tech, Kansas downed Oklahoma State and Houston defeated Creighton.

IOWA'S HUSTON BREEDLOVE goes high to snare a rebound in Iowa's Big 10 game with Northwestern in the Field House Tuesday night. Breedlove helped the Hawks offset Northwestern's rebounding power by pulling down seven rebounds in the game. If we looked for stereotyped engineers, Mustang would still be on the drawing board.

We do a lot of engineering at Ford Motor Company to come up with better ideas. We know they don't come from people who look alike, act alike and think alike.

They come from thinking individuals.

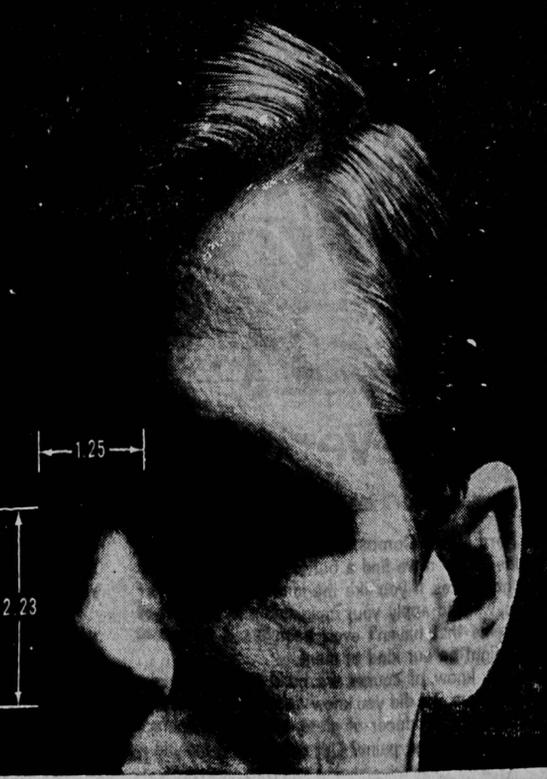

That's why Ford Motor Company has a College Graduate Program for engineers which provides immediate opportunities for individual development.

And a two year rotational assignment program.

If you want to be an engineer—mechanical, industrial, electrical, chemical or metallurgical—write our College Recruiting Department. Or better yet, see our representative. He'll be on campus soon. Looking for better engineers with better ideas.

'The Chinese Bible' States Mao's Thoughts, Instructions

HONG KONG (AP)—Mao Tse-tung's quotations—the bible of his attempt to control China's destiny for years to come—range from broad Communist platitudes to specific instructions.

They are in a 270-page handbook, covered in red plastic and measuring 5 by 3 3/4 inches. It resembles a prayer book.

Millions of these books have poured off China's presses to delineate Mao's prescriptions.

Even in fields where it gives neither platitudes nor instructions, Mao's followers credit it with producing miracles.

A Chinese woman sharpshooter while performing in Moscow missed her target. After consulting the red books she hit a bulls-eye.

Its 33 chapters start with the Communist party. Then come such topics as classes and class struggle, socialism and communism, the correct handling of con-traditions among the people, war and peace, "imperialism and all reactionaries are paper tigers," "dare to struggle and dare to win," people's war, the people's army, leadership of party committees, political work, relations between officers and men, relations between the army and the people.

Chapter three, socialism and communism, goes back to Mao's prediction in 1949 of a bitter power struggle in Red China.

Mao says: "After the country-wide victory of the Chinese revolution will still exist in China. The first is internal, that is, the contradiction between the working class and the bourgeoisie.

"The second is external, that is, the contradiction between China and imperialist countries.

"Consequently, after the victory of the people's democratic revolution, the state power of the people's republic under the leadership of the working class must not be weakened but must be strengthened."

Mao apparently believes a third world war inevitable and he demands that the Chinese people be prepared.

In chapter five, war and peace, Mao says: "War is the highest form of struggle for resolving contradictions, when they have developed to a certain stage, between classes, nations, states or political group, and it has existed ever since the emergence of private property and of classes.

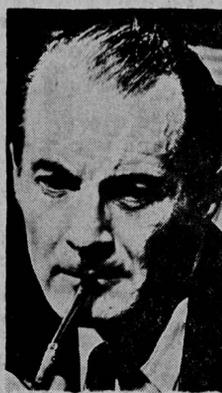

"We are advocates of the abolition of war, we do not want war; but war can only be abolished through war, and in order to get rid of the gun it is necessary to take up the gun."

ACLU Official Here Friday

The associate director of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), Alan Reitman, will address the Graduate-Faculty Club of the Department of Political Science Friday.

Reitman's lecture, "Bringing a Case to Court: Pre-Judicial Decision Making," will be given at 3 p.m. in the House Chamber of Old Capitol. The lecture will examine the political and legal considerations which enter into a decision to bring a constitutional case to court.

After graduating from Rutgers University in 1942, Reitman worked on the CIO's Political Action Committee until 1949, when he joined the American Civil Liberties Union as publicity director. In 1958 he assumed his present position as associate director and is responsible for co-ordinating most of the legal and non-legal activities of the organization.

ROBERT PASTENE, who will be appearing in "An Evening with a Well-Known Bard" Sunday has been a member of the Minnesota Theatre Company since 1963. He has had leading roles in the company's productions of "Hamlet," "Volpone," "Saint Joan" and "Dance of Death." The program will be at 8 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. Tickets are $2.50 and $3.50.

Iowa Faculty Will Debate Senate Idea

University faculty members will participate in a discussion on a proposed document to form a faculty senate at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Old Capitol Senate Chamber.

Participants in the debate, sponsored by the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors, will be Robert Boynton, associate professor of political science, and Jerry Kollros, professor of zoology, on the "pro" side of the question, and Richard Lloyd-Jones, professor of English, and Dr. Henry Hamilton, professor of internal medicine, on the "con" side.

Ballots on the proposed constitution will be distributed to the faculty Monday and they must be returned by 5 p.m. March 3. If the document is approved by the faculty, it will be submitted to Pres. Howard R. Bowen and the State Board of Regents for their approval.

The faculty senate, which would have about 60 members, and a new faculty council would replace the present 16-member University Faculty Council, which presently is the sole instrument of expression of faculty opinion.

This triangular emblem with a fluorescent orange center and reflective red border is becoming widely recognized in many parts of the country as a warning of a slow-moving vehicle. The Iowa Legislature is expected to be asked to make its use mandatory on vehicles traveling less than 25 miles per hour and using public roads. But the Iowa Loss Prevention Institute urged farmers not to wait until its use is mandatory, but to install the emblems immediately on all their slow-moving vehicles likely to travel public roads. Prompt action can prevent accidents and injuries and save lives, the Institute said.

University Alumnus To Present Alaska Film-Lecture

"Alaskan Album" is the title of a film-lecture to be presented in the 1966-67 Iowa Mountaineers Film-lecture series at 2:30 p.m. Sunday by Alfred M. Bailey, a native of Iowa City and a University graduate who is now director of the Denver Museum of Natural History.

Appearing in the Mountaineers series for the eighth time, Bailey will include sequences which he filmed of the islands of southeastern Alaska, the big game country of the interior and western areas. The latter include the Alaska Peninsula, Nunivak Island in Bering Sea, and herds of musk oxen roam, and a spring hunt with Eskimos of Bering Strait.

Scenes from the interior of Alaska, photographed north from Anchorage to Mt. McKinley and beyond, include the Brooks Range and life among the Eskimo caribou hunters.

Bailey has traversed the entire coast line of Alaska by boat — from the southeastern islands to Demarcation Point, the Arctic meeting place of Alaska and Canada. He wintered at an Eskimo village 300 miles north of the Arctic Circle, and in late winter traveled by dogsled with Eskimo companions from Point Barrow 750 miles down the coast to Cape Prince of Wales on Bering Strait.

During the spring migration of sea mammals through Bering Strait north to the Arctic Ocean, Bailey hunted walrus and other animals with the Eskimos, crossing Bering Strait from Alaska to Siberia and returning three times in an oomiak, an open boat made of skins stretched on a wooden frame.

PAPER-BACKS IN REVIEW

A publisher's survey of what's new in the way of unrequired reading

The building of a new hydroelectric power station in Siberia may not seem like the most promising subject matter for a 150-page epic poem. And it would be difficult to imagine one of our own poets — perhaps Allen Ginsberg? — singing an unsatirical paean of praise to the Hoover Dam.

But the poet in this case is very serious. He is also one of the most exciting in the world, one who uses the power station as a framework on which to hang his unique view of existence. Yevgeny Yevtushenko is the poet; the poem is Bratsk Station, and it is, in the words of Vogue Magazine, the 33-year-old Russian's "newest and perhaps his greatest."

Some of you may already be familiar with a bit of Bratsk Station, for on his recent tour of American colleges, Yevtushenko read parts of it to enthusiastic audiences. Now the whole epic cycle of 35 poems, along with 26 other new poems (on such diverse subjects as seals, jukeboxes, and the death of Edith Piaf) are collected in a new Doubleday Anchor Original paperback.

In the introduction to Bratsk Station and Other New Poems, translated by Tina Tupikina-Glaessner, Geoffrey Dutton, and Igor Mezhaikov-Koriakin ($1.25), Rosh Ireland calls Bratsk "a second autobiography. Besides Yevtushenko's view of history, it contains... the coalescing of a coherent view of his errors in the past and determination for the future... and a vast amount of evidence on his view of himself and his own generation."

Mr. Ireland sees Yevtushenko "as a poet whose value, like his inquiry, extends beyond the boundaries of the Soviet Union, and whose work is properly the concern of all to whom poetry is important." Yevtushenko himself, in setting himself the monumental task of this distinctly Russian, yet universal poem, writes in a prologue, the poet is his century's image, and the visionary symbol of the future. Without shyness, the poet summing up the total, all that has happened before him... Can I do this?

On the evidence, the answer is yes.

Another author who set himself a monumental task and succeeded is John Barth. Six years ago, when the author of the bestselling Giles Goat-Boy wrote The Sot-Weed Factor, critic Leslie Fiedler said it was "closer to the great American novel than any other book of the past decades." Now John Barth has revised The Sot-Weed Factor, as he puts it "to make this long narrative a quantum swifter and more graceful," without in any way changing the plot or the characters. It was 806 pages; it's now 768. The Sot-Weed Factor: revised edition, $7.50.

The two books reviewed above are published by the sponsors of this column, Doubleday Anchor Books, 27 Park Avenue, New York City, and Doubleday & Company, Inc., Garden City, New York. You'll find them both at one of the best equipped bookstores in the country — your own college store.

Soundoff Speakers Oppose Final Week

By FRAN PUHL
Staff Writer

Delayed by a one-hour discussion of the Vietnam war, Tuesday's Soapbox Soundoff speakers finally took up the planned topic of whether final week should be abolished at the University.

The discussion was prompted by a recent statement made by Pres. Howard R. Bowen that final week as such should be eliminated, and instructors should individually schedule comprehensive tests for their courses.

In general, the speakers favored abolishing final week, but none of them supported Bowen's alternative proposal of tests.

Dave Markham, A3, Iowa City,

pointed out that under the present final week system, the University had a rule which set the maximum number of tests a student must take on one day at three. Markham warned that if Bowen's suggestion was adopted, a control system must be worked out to keep students from having to take four or five "finals" scheduled by instructors on the same day.

Objection Raised

Randy Miller, A4, Cedar Rapids, said it was absurd to eliminate final week and not finals. He suggested that a term paper would perhaps be a better means of allowing students to "synthesize general trends" as a proof of knowledge.

Arnold W. Samuel, A3, Coralville, said that "take-home" exams were a better assessment of learning than finals, because they required an application of what had been learned rather than a listing of memorized facts.

Other speakers went beyond the topic of final week to suggest that there were greater problems in the University learning system.

Jean Taylor, A3, Richfield, N.J., said the issue of grade pressure was one of the greater problems. The emphasis on grades detracts from the importance of learning and it is perhaps the grading system that needs revision, she said.

Tests Found Annoying

Richard T. Dickens, E3, Davenport, said, "It's all those pestering little tests and quizzes" that are the educational problem. He said that students were so busy studying for quizzes and frequent departmentals that they didn't have time to "think."

The preceding discussion of Vietnam was started when Bruce Clark, A2, Des Moines, read a paper distributed by Students for a Democratic Society which attacked the use of napalm by the United States.

Napalm is a chemical substance used in bombs that causes heat up to 2,000 degrees which, Clark read, can kill victims not even touched by the substance. Clark's main argument against the use of napalm was that so many civilians were injured by the bombs.

Clark advocated having a peaceful demonstration in front of representatives of Dow Chemical Company, a producer of napalm, who were interviewing job applicants on campus.

Views Agree

Eugene F. Peters, G, San Francisco, Calif., expressed similar views on the war.

Former Student To Return As Concert Guest Soloist

SIMON ESTES
Guest Soloist

Simon Estes, who began serious music study at the University less than five years ago, will return to the campus as a concert artist Feb. 26. A bass-baritone who has achieved international recognition since leaving the University in 1963, Estes will be guest soloist in the fourth Concert Course program of the 1966-67 season.

Last June was the high point in Estes' short career, when he won third prize in the Tchaikovsky International Vocal Contest in Moscow.

A native of Centerville, the bass-baritone was honored by both New York Mayor John V. Lindsay and Des Moines Mayor George Whitmore when he returned to the United States. Mayor Lindsay congratulated Estes on his performance and thanked him for bringing honor to both the United States and New York City, while Mayor Whitmore presented to him the "key to the city," which he said symbolized "our esteem and affection."

Hailed by the Moscow newspaper, Pravda, as possessor of "a great voice and talent" who sang Russian "better than all the other singers in the Tchaikovsky competition," the young Iowan joined the two other U.S. winners, Jane Marsh and Veronica Tyler, in July to appear with the Boston Symphony Orchestra at the Tanglewood Festival in Massachusetts. He and Miss Tyler then made concert appearances across the country, including performances at the Hollywood Bowl and the White House.

This fall Estes sang with the Hamburg Opera in Germany, and in late November, returned to the United States as a soloist in the New York Philharmonic's presentation of the "Messiah."

The 28-year-old musician, the son of Mrs. Ruth Estes of Des Moines, has been praised by critics in both Europe and the United States. A Berlin newspaper cited his "full, resonant voice and clean singing technique," and the Boston Herald, his "pure tone, intense but not booming, and with an edge which commands authority."

In a New York Times review last month, critic Howard Klein noted that Estes' performance of Ives' "Lincoln, the Great Commoner," was the high point in the January New York Philharmonic Young People's Concert conducted by Leonard Bernstein.

Estes began serious vocal training in 1962 with Charles Kellis, former University faculty member, although he had previously sung in Centerville concerts and had been soloist with the Old Gold Singers. In June, 1963, he left Iowa to study on scholarship at the Juilliard School of Music in New York.

Following his New York stay, Estes went to Germany, where he sang in five different productions of the "Deutsche Oper" in Berlin, and in "Turandot" and "The Marriage of Figaro" with another German company, the Lubeck Opera. The young musician also sang in recitals in Berlin and with orchestras in Stuttgart and Munich.

Tickets for the Estes concert will be available to students and faculty beginning Monday and to the public beginning Feb. 24 at the University box office in the South Lobby of the Union.

Students may pick up free tickets upon presentation of identification cards between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Faculty members and others may buy tickets for $2. Any remaining tickets may be purchased from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. the day of the concert.

UNION BOARD

Union Board will meet at 8:30 tonight in the Union Directors' Room for a closed meeting. Members will discuss reorganization of Union Board structure and reorganization of campus activities.

Study Grant Awarded To 3

The political scientists from the University have received a $14,000 grant from the Social Science Research Council for the last phase of their Iowa Legislative Research Project.

They are Samuel C. Patterson, associate professor of political science; G. R. Boynton, assistant professor of political science; and Ronald D. Hedlund, a University Ph.D. candidate who will join the faculty of the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee in September.

The first two phases are being financed by a National Science Foundation grant of $9,000. They include 75-minute interviews with 1,000 randomly chosen Iowans on their knowledge and attitudes about the legislature and interviews with all the senators and representatives of the 1967 legislature on their attitudes about their work.

The Laboratory for Political Research, directed by Boynton, has supported the project.

Patterson said that five of the nine scholars to receive grants this month from the Social Science Research Council are connected with the University. The two other men receiving grants are Joseph Tanenhaus, professor of political science, who is doing research on federal courts and Dr. Jack L. Walker Jr. of the University of Michigan, who earned his Ph.D. in political science at the University in 1963.

WHY DOESN'T SOMEONE INVENT ONE?

Don't blink your eyes, or someone will. It seems that no idea is beyond the power of electric service — or gas service — either. That's what makes the future happen — imagination, plus energy.

The imagination of people, plus the energy of industry in meeting the needs of people, has helped create many of the good things Americans enjoy today. Playing a large part in this partnership have been the people of the investor-owned gas and electric companies, like Iowa-Illinois — and the people they serve.
