

Conferees To Examine China's Internal Affairs

By BILL EDWARDS
Staff Writer

Experts embracing a wide spectrum of knowledge about the internal affairs of Communist China will gather today in the Union for a two-day conference.

The conference, called the Midwest China Conference, is sponsored by the regional organization of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations (CCUN). The conference will focus on the questions of the Sino-Soviet split, Red China's economy and the prospects of Red China becoming a member of the United Nations.

Pres. Howard R. Bowen and James Starr, director of the CCUN regional organization, will open the conference with addresses.

Hamilton To Speak

David Hamilton, assistant professor of history, will speak on "Contemporary China in Historical Perspective" at 3:30 p.m. in Macbride Auditorium. Hamilton, a Fulbright Scholar to Formosa during 1962-64 received an M.A. degree in Asian Affairs from Harvard University at Cambridge, Mass.

A former prisoner in China, the Rev. Harold Rigney, will discuss "Freedom in Red China" at 5 p.m.

Gerald Maryanov, assistant professor of political sciences, who recently returned from a year as guest lecturer at the University of Malaya, will speak on "Overseas Chinese" at 7 p.m.

"The Chinese Revolution" will be the topic of a speech at 7:30 p.m. by O. Edward Clubb, a member of Columbia University's East Asian Institute and a U.S. consul at Peking at the time of the Communists' take-over.

At 9 p.m. a film entitled "Inside Red China" will be shown.

A representative of the U.S. State Department, Franklin McCord, will speak Wednesday in the Union Ballroom on "Current Economics in Mainland China." McCord is the Hong Kong-Macao officer in the State Department's Office of Asian-Communist Affairs.

Discussion slated

At 10 a.m. a panel of educators will discuss "China, the U.S. and the U.N." Panelists will be Clubb; McCord; James Murray, chairman of the Political Science Department and a Ford Fellow to the U.N. in 1957; and Cheng Hsi-ling, professor of social science at the State College of Iowa, who has acted as counselor of the China delegation to the U.N. and adviser to the ambassador.

Clubb will speak at 1:30 p.m. on "The Sino-Soviet Split." At 3 p.m. Vernon Van Dyke, professor of political science, will give a resume of the conference during a panel discussion on "The Challenge of China and the American Response."

Dr. Walter Judd, a former missionary and congressman, will speak Feb. 22 in conjunction with the CCUN conference. Judd's speech, "What About China?" is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Union Main Lounge and will be open to students with tickets. Tickets are free and may be obtained at the Union box office after Friday morning.

Judd, a noted authority on foreign affairs, on the House Foreign Affairs Committee for 16 years and a delegate to the U.N. in 1957.

The two-day CCUN program is open to the public as well as students and faculty members. Tickets good for both days will cost $2 for adults and $1 for children. They may be purchased this afternoon at the CCUN registration desk in the rotunda of the Union Ballroom.

WSUT's coverage of the China Conference is described in a story on page 7.

Action On Barnett Delayed

Barnett Hits Resolution

By BECKY HUXTABLE
Staff Writer

Donald Barnett accused the Iowa Senate Thursday of attempting to establish police state control. The accusation came after the senate brought up a resolution to have the University fire Barnett. The resolution failed, however, to pass the legislature.

When asked if he thought that such action was the business of the legislature, Barnett replied, "They're making it their business."

The action by the legislature was not the first interest in the Barnett case shown by its members.

Six legislators, who were among a group of about 60 on campus Tuesday for a tour to learn about long-range campus development, approached Barnett, an assistant professor of sociology and anthropology, who has refused to turn in grades for his first semester studies.

The legislators tried to encourage Barnett to turn in grades and told him his action could result in a cut in appropriations to the University by the legislature.

Representative Critical

Rep. Charles Grassley (R-New Hartford) said, "I told Barnett I thought he had a contribution he could make to the state if he would turn in his grades. Barnett said to forget that, it's all over."

State Sen. William J. Reichardt (D-Des Moines) took the floor of the senate Wednesday to declare he was "nauseated" by recent happenings on three university campuses. One of the cases he was referring to was that of Barnett.

Ever since Barnett announced his refusal, a state of confusion has prevailed over Barnett's status with the University and his students' standing as far as course grades. Some of the confusion can be clarified now.

When the controversy first arose, students in Barnett's class were told that some sort of grading arrangement would be provided for them. As promised, they were given hour credit and also a pass grade for the course.

The story for this semester is different, however. Students wishing to register for Barnett's course were informed at registration that if no grades were turned in, no credit would be given. The justification for this is that the students were made aware of their status upon signing up for Barnett's course this semester. In contrast, last semester's students were caught up in a situation over which they had no control.

Check To Be Withheld

And what is the situation with Barnett? Will he receive his pay? According to the University Manual, Section 2, p. 48, if semester grades aren't turned in on time, then the result is to withhold the instructor's paycheck. This is what has been done with Barnett. For those questioning such a punitive measure, the answer is simple, it was a matter already set up by University policy.

A great deal of pressure has been applied to University officials for an immediate end to the confusion in the case. Pressure has come from the State Legislature, students, and other faculty members.

When Barnett was asked whether he thought all this pressure on University officials was justified, he replied, "I'm not worried about justification, all I'm concerned about is Vietnam."

Improved 'Rapport' Sought

The Educational Policy and the Executive Committees of the College of Liberal Arts heard several proposals Thursday which were presented by the senior class officers of the college in hopes of improving student-faculty rapport.

The recommendations given at the meeting in Old Capitol, were made on the basis of the results of a questionnaire which was distributed before Christmas by the senior officers to a random sample (10 per cent or 900) of the students at the University.

In an effort to improve student-faculty communication, the class officers recommended a program of teacher and course evaluation.

About 78 per cent of those who participated in the survey thought that there was a need for teacher evaluation and 79 per cent for course evaluation at this University. More than 92 per cent said they would give their evaluations if there was such a program.

On the basis of the survey, the students recommended that such a program be carried out by the Student Senate, that students evaluate all of their teachers and courses, that results be used for departmental consideration as to faculty and curriculum, and that faculty-student steering committee work out the details of the plan.

The second recommendation was the adoption of a pass-fail grading system. The proposal was nearly identical to one passed by the Student Senate recently.

More than 80 per cent of the students in the survey favored the plan.

Also based on the survey, the students recommended the immediate adoption of a system which would exempt second-semester seniors from taking finals in courses in which they have a grade of B or higher.

Suggestions for revising the University advisory system, including the formation of a central professional adviser system for freshmen and sophomores, brought most of the comment from the faculty.

Carolyn Lukensmeyer, A4, Hampton,

DES MOINES (AP) — The Senate voted 35-24 Thursday to sidetrack to the Education Committee a resolution calling upon the University to fire Donald L. Barnett, a assistant professor of sociology and anthropology, who has withheld his students grades in protest against the Vietnam war.

Sen. Gene Glenn (D-Ottumwa) said the action was "nothing but a subtle method of killing this resolution."

The Education Committee chairman, John Kibbie (D-Emmetsburg), said he opposed the resolution but would assign it to a subcommittee comprised of both opponents and backers of the measure.

Kibbie added, however, he doubted it would ever emerge from his committee if the University takes some action in the Barnett case.

Jurisdiction Argued

Like many opponents of the resolution, Kibbie said the University, rather than the legislature, should handle the matter.

Glenn said questions about academic freedom raised by opponents of the measure were irrelevant. The issue, Glenn said, was "should the taxpayers of Iowa be asked to pay this man's contract obligations when he refuses to abide by the rules and regulations of the University in regard to grades and credits?"

Sen. Chester Hougen (R-Cedar Falls) said he would like to see the resolution "a little stronger" but agreed with sending it to the Education Committee "to leave this hanging over the heads of these people."

Floor leaders of both parties opposed the resolution.

Majority Leader Andrew Frommelt (D-Dubuque) said the University has already begun proceedings leading to action against Barnett for possible contract violation.

"Interference from the outside will only strengthen the position of the party involved rather than contribute to a solution," said Frommelt.

Asks Hands Off Policy

Minority Leader Robert Rigler, said Iowa's state schools have been able to boast that the legislature does not interfere with academic freedom. He said the lawmakers should continue to keep hands off.

Sen. Gilbert Klefstad (D-Council Bluffs) said lawmakers "sometimes get to the point of thinking we know all the answers to all the problems." He said the legislature should ignore the Barnett matter.

But Sen. Eugene Hill (D-Newton) said "We can't forget it, sweep it under the rug, or ignore it, or else the people will think the legislature condoned Barnett's behavior."

"We must make clear what our position is in regard to the matter by adopting the resolution," Hill said.

Sen. Roger Jepsen (R-Davenport) said, "fuzzy-minded guys with signs and beards... have been allowed too long to crowd out the quiet majority."

He said the legislature should adopt the resolution and "send it on to the people of Iowa — let 'em know what we think."

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The United States urged Thursday night the rapid creation of a Latin-American common market and promised full U.S. backing. Secretary of State Dean Rusk made the call and the promise at a closed meeting of hemisphere foreign ministers attending the third special inter-American conference here.

Red Guard Forces Claim Big Gains

TOKYO (AP) — Radio Peking said Friday Mao Tse-tung's forces had seized Fukien Province opposite Formosa after a "fierce struggle" involving armed clashes. It was the fifth of Red China's 21 provinces claimed by Maoists in their struggle to wrest provincial machinery from Mao's foes.

Constitution Vote Delayed 1 Week

The Faculty Council voted Thursday to extend the deadline for accepting ballots on the proposed constitution for a Faculty Senate and Faculty Council by one week to March 10.

The action was taken following a "rail-roading" charge at a panel discussion of the constitution held Wednesday by the American Association of University Professors.

The ballot will be distributed to faculty members Monday, giving them 16 days before ballots are due.

Following a discussion of other opposition raised at the discussion, the council voted to submit the constitution to the faculty in its present form and to make no additional changes.

The ballot question will be, "Should the proposed constitution for the faculty Senate and Faculty Council be adopted?" Boxes labelled "yes" and "no" will be provided for the faculty to check.

No ballots will be tabulated until after the March 10 deadline.

Mayor Predicts Renewal Change Will Be Enacted

Mayor William C. Hubbard said Thursday that the Iowa City City Council will have no choice but to divide the proposed central business district urban renewal project into two phases.

Since the total request for federal funds for the project is now expected to be $12.4 million, planning director Barry Lundberg recommended Wednesday that the project be divided into two phases. Iowa City has but $8 million in federal funds reserved for the downtown project.

The first phase would be bounded by Washington, Linn and Court Streets and the Iowa River. Lundberg said that the first phase would come before the council for final approval no later than September.

Hubbard also said that when the council votes March 7 on whether to send the plans into the federal government for approval, the phasing would be included in the resolution.

However, Councilman Richard W. Burger said, "We will have to wait until after the meetings with the representatives from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to make a final decision."

IOWA CITY HAS BEEN appropriately called the "City of Signs" by many people. For example, the city installed 3,169 new signs last year to cope with the growing traffic problem. In fact, one just doesn't know which sign to obey anymore. For example in this picture, cars are instructed not to stop in the foreground, and then in the background are instructed to stop for pedestrians in the crosswalk.

ISU's Smith Vows Change

By ELAINE SCHROEDER
Staff Writer

Donald Smith, newly elected president of the Government of the Student Body (GSB) at Iowa State University (ISU), Ames, said in a telephone interview Thursday that he thought he had won the presidency because students were dissatisfied with the present situation.

Controversy has arisen over the election of the bearded "radical," as Smith terms himself.

Most of the uproar in the aftermath of Smith's election has been caused by his stated intention to use sit-ins, demonstrations, marches and picketing to achieve his goals if the traditional methods fail.

Smith was quoted in the Iowa State Daily as having said, "If I am elected, this university is going to be dragged, kicking and screaming, into the twentieth century."

Among the measures that Smith advocates are the abolishment of all women's hours, the abolishment of the administrative veto power over senate action and the elimination of all student rules from the Chart (a student handbook like the University's Code of Student Life).

He also said he would like to see the abolishment of the Student Conduct Committee (similar to the University's Committee on Student Life) and the establishment of a cooperative student bookstore.

Measure Probably To Pass

Smith speculated that the present senate would probably pass a measure calling for no hours for all women except freshmen before he took office in March.

Jerry Bierbomb, present GSB president, reported, also in a telephone interview, that GSB had approved the measure and that it was awaiting the decision of a faculty committee and ultimately the signature of ISU's president, W. Robert Parks.

Smith's platform also calls for the abolishment of the administration's veto power over all senate action.

Smith expressed doubts about how successful GSB would be in achieving such a measure, especially since it would take the administration's approval before the veto power could be abolished.

Proposal Called Impractical

Bierbomb termed such a proposal highly impractical.

Smith said that if the normal methods were not successful he would call for student support to stage a massive demonstration to force the administration to give its approval.

The GSB bill to eliminate all student conduct rules from the Chart and another to abolish the Student Conduct Committee are aimed at promoting the freedom of the ISU students, Smith said.

In addition to the establishment of a cooperative student bookstore, Smith said he planned to cut the high prices charged ISU students by merchants and landlords and to reduce high traffic fines.

Smith said he planned to present as many of his proposals as possible before GSB this spring and hoped that he would receive the necessary support from the recently elected senators.

When he was contacted, all the returns were not in and Smith said he did not know whether he would receive that support.

If the new senators approve his proposals, and they are subsequently vetoed by the administration, Smith said he would call on the student body to hold demonstrations. Smith said he did not want to demonstrate, but that he would use that "threat" to get his way.

Bierbomb Doubts Support

Massive student action such as Smith proposes would require strong backing. Smith said he thought the students would give him such support, but Bierbomb expressed doubt.

Two birds with one stone

There is one side to the Student Senate's proposal to open the dorms to visitors of the opposite sex that hasn't been brought to light yet, and it just might make the whole thing more palatable to the administration if it were.

The proposal will solve one of the University's most pressing problems — the parking dilemma.

Let's face it. If the University is going to persuade students to leave their cars at home, it will have to provide something the students can use as a substitute, and this open visiting policy might just be it.

The University has been trying to tackle the parking problem for a long time, but the problem has kept growing because the alternative that the University offers has little to do with why students feel they need cars.

Bus subsidies may help somewhat, but as far as many students are concerned, a 10 cent bus ride will never replace one of the automobile's basic uses — the pursuit and diversion, amusement or conquest of the opposite sex.

Cars are more than a means of transportation; they are an integral part of our social structure. Think of all the accidents we could prevent if they were replaced by the much safer dorm rooms.

Us nasty students

Students are leading the unpopularity poll in Iowa.

The University of Iowa has demonstrations against the Central Intelligence Agency, against napalm and for Donald Barnett. Iowa State University has elected a member of the left-wing Students for a Democratic Society as student body president. State College of Iowa has been the scene of a forum on homosexuality. Nazi leader George Lincoln Rockwell recently spoke at Drake University.

No wonder our sheltered state legislators are dropping their jaws. The entire state system of higher education is falling to subversive Communists and mad-dog Fascists. On top of that the fags have taken over SCL.

It must be pretty serious, especially when an ex-football player and Air Force veteran gets excited. State Sen. William J. Reichardt said that such campus activities "nauseated" him. Several other legislators have agreed with Reichardt.

Really, legislators, it's not all that bad. There are still enough symptoms of the "typical" college life of yesterday. We still have drunken orgies; we still cut classes; fraternities are just about as wild as ever — we even had a Pajama Party in the Union the other night. We have had no recent case of carrying dead horses from one fraternity house to another; nobody has tried to paint the Old Capitol dome red or anything like that. Perhaps we are falling down in some areas of your old traditions.

There is one tradition we are upholding quite well, we think. We are receptive to all ideas, just as state legislators should be. We at least want the opportunity to hear ideas, even if they are unpopular. The free expression of unpopular ideas is part of the backbone of education in a free and democratic society. That free and democratic society is one aspect of our national (and state) pride that state legislators should be first to fight for — not against.

It seems that Reichardt and others in the state legislature are quite concerned about Communist subversion on our campuses. We remind the legislators that one aspect of Communism as we know it in the Soviet Union is the suppression of free speech and free thought. By trying to suppress that freedom on our campuses the legislators become no better than any Red commissar.

We admit, we talk about some stupid things on our campuses. So does the legislature. Our state politicians have devoted many valuable hours to talking about Daylight Saving Time, about Iowa the "Beautiful" or "Bountiful" land, and about serving booze to Indians. They haven't enacted a bit of meaningful legislation this session.

That nauseates us. Nic Goeres

Clergymen voice war opposition

(The following is the first of two parts of the text of a statement prepared by a group of American clergymen on the war in Vietnam. — Editor.)

I. THE NEED TO SPEAK

A time comes when silence is betrayal. That time has come for us in relation to Vietnam. As members of American churches and synagogues, we voice not only our own convictions, but seek also to articulate the unexpressed fears and longings of millions of Americans.

The Old Testament forbids us to prophesy "smooth things," and in the face of any evil, the mandate of Albert Camus is laid upon all men, whether religious or not, that they "should speak out loud and clear, and that they should voice their condemnation in such a way that never a doubt, never the slightest doubt, could rise in the heart of the simplest man. They should get away from abstraction and confront the blood-stained face history has taken on today."

Our share of responsibility for that blood-stained face haunts us today and prompts our outcry. We confess that we should have spoken sooner and with clearer voice, but we do speak now, hoping it is not too late, adding our voice to the voice of Pope Paul, the World Council of Churches, the Synagogue Council of America, the National Council of Churches, the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, and other religious bodies, in urging a re-appraisal of our policy in Vietnam.

Our allegiance to our nation is held under a higher allegiance to the God who is sovereign over all the nations. When there is a conflict between those allegiances, the priorities are clear: "You shall have no other gods before me." "We must obey God rather than men." Each day we find allegiance to our nation's policy more difficult to reconcile with allegiance to our God.

Both the exercise of faith and the expression of the democratic privilege oblige us to make our voices heard. For while we speak as members of religious communities, we also speak as American citizens. Responsible expression of disagreement and dissent is the lifeblood of democracy, and we speak out of a loyalty that refuses to condone in silence a national policy that is leading our world toward disaster.

We speak in full awareness that no easy answers are available. But we believe that issues must be pressed and questions forced, if new answers are to be forthcoming. The old answers no longer satisfy us. No one planned the type of war in which we are involved. It has slowly escalated from one small move to the next small move, each presumed to be the last that would be necessary, so that now we find our nation able to offer only military answers to political and human questions. We sympathize with the dilemmas that face our President and Congressmen in dealing with a situation all decent men abhor. But a recognition of past mistakes does not entitle us to repeat and compound those mistakes, by continuing them on an ever-widening scale.

We are unable to support our nation's policy of military escalation and we find those to whom we minister caught as we are in confusion and anguish because of it.

1. This anguish is based first of all on the immorality of the warfare in Vietnam. We add our voice to those who protest a war in which civilian casualties are greater than military; in which whole populations are deported against their will; in which the widespread use of napalm and other explosives is killing and maiming women, children, and the aged; in which the combatants are systematically destroying the crops and production capacity of a country they profess to liberate; in which the torturing of prisoners by both sides has been a commonplace.

All who believe that man is made in God's image must be horrified by such crimes committed against God and man. There is guilt on all sides in such a war as this, but the guilt is ours far more than we have the courage to admit. We can only tremble at the thought that God is just.

2. Even those of us who recognize that sometimes evil must be done lest greater evil prevail, feel a sense of anguish in the inconsistency between our stated aims and the consequences they produce.

Our ongoing escalation, far from bringing the war closer to an end, serves rather to increase its duration and intensity.

Our bombing of the north, far from bringing our enemies to their knees, serves rather to strengthen their will to resist us.

Our military presence in Vietnam, far from stemming the tide of communism, serves rather to unite more firmly those communist societies which might otherwise develop separate destinies.

Our widening military involvement, far from demonstrating to the world our firmness and resolve, serves rather to make the world suspicious of us and fearful of our use of power.

Our unilateral action in Vietnam, far from strengthening our influence among other nations, serves rather to jeopardize new alliances we might be creating.

At home we find the war threatening the very goals we claim to be defending in Vietnam. Programs to help members of minority groups realize their own human dignity are jeopardized if not destroyed. A spurious type of patriotism is challenging the right of dissent and the open debate of public issues. Financial and psychological preoccupation with the war is destroying creative plans to alleviate poverty, overcome disease, extend education, replace city slums and exalt human dignity. We grieve over lost opportunities that may never be reclaimed.

Many of us are called upon to counsel young men of draft age who in conscience question our presence in Vietnam. The moral dilemma they face is part and parcel of our own. Their anguish is frequently motivated by a high patriotism that forces them to challenge, often at great personal cost, policies they believe will stain their nation's honor. How can we counsel them to participate in such a war as this? When they decide that they cannot condone the war by their personal involvement, we must support them in that decision.

3. Our anguish is deepened by the discrepancy between what we are told by our government and what we discover is actually taking place.

We are told that the other side gives no indication of desire to negotiate and we then discover that such indications have been given, but that we have responded either with rebuff or military escalation.

We are told that our nation is prepared to negotiate with all concerned and we then discover that certain of the combatants will not be welcome at the conference table.

We are told that certain cities have not been bombed and we then discover that they have been.

We are told that civilian targets have been avoided and we then discover that they have not been.

Such actions not only play into the hands of those who distrust us, since they can consistently discount our word, but the continuous discovery of discrepancies between our nation's word and deed has already shaken the confidence of our own people in the word of their government. We fear both the immediate and long-range consequences for our nation of this increasing deterioration of trust.

This, then, is our ongoing anguish: a crisis of conscience concerning what we do know, and a crisis of confusion concerning what we do not know.

III. THE NEED FOR CLARIFICATION

The public debate is forcing us to choose between divergent alternatives in Vietnam. Consequently, agreeing with the American Roman Catholic Bishops that it is "our duty to magnify the moral voice of our nation," we ask for clarification of the real alternatives.

The choices usually presented to the American people are three: (1) we could escalate rapidly and "win the war" in the foreseeable future; or (2) we could withdraw our troops and accept defeat; but (3) since to most Americans these alternatives are unsatisfactory, we must continue our present course, i.e. gradually escalate the war until the other side capitulates to our increasing pressure.

We believe the realistic alternatives are closer to the following: (1) we can continue to fight a hard, bloody, increasingly bitter and frustrating war for many years, a war we can conceivably "win," but at the price of destroying the land and people we presume to liberate, of sacrificing more and more of our own young men to death, of widening the probability that other nations will enter the conflict, or engendering increasing hostility against ourselves throughout the rest of the world, and of emerging at the end with no "victory" worth what it has cost.

(2) we can commit ourselves unequivocally to seek now rather than later for a negotiated peace, realizing that history does not present us with easy choices and that the road to such a peace would be long and torturous. Just as there has been frustration and heartache in our gradual escalation, so too there would be frustration and heartache in the development of new initiatives leading to a negotiated peace. Just as the risks of extending the war are great, so too the risks of seeking new initiatives for negotiated peace are great.

But confronted by such a choice, we believe the American people will choose the path of initiatives for negotiation, and that the risks involved in such a choice are well worth taking.

IV. THE PRECONDITIONS OF NEGOTIATIONS

1. The first precondition is implied in our questions and involves an assurance from our government that we are genuine, ready to negotiate and that we are not merely trying to win diplomatically what we have not won militarily. There will be no reason for response from the other side unless we indicate a willingness to seek peace without prior assurance that all details of the peace will follow our desires.

2. There must be some action by our government to lend credibility to our willingness to negotiate. It is increasingly clear that one indispensable prerequisite is our willingness unconditionally to cease the bombing of North Vietnam.

We are at an impasse. We have said we will not cease the bombing until there is a sign from the other side of willingness to negotiate and yet when such signs have come we have ignored them. They have said they will give no further sign of willingness to negotiate until we cease the bombing, and yet when we have briefly ceased the bombing, no sign has come.

There is no way beyond this impasse until someone takes a fresh initiative. We, as the stronger nation, have both the obligation and the opportunity to take that initiative.

The initiative must be unconditional. Having ceased the bombing, we must be prepared to wait until the other side responds. We have no reason to expect that a response will come soon, for it will take time to gain credibility for our intent. In the interval, while diplomatic channels are explored, we will call upon religious leaders in other countries to intercede and urge the positive response we made.

3. If we truly do not intend to dictate the terms of peace in advance, then we cannot exclude from the conference table any who are involved in the present struggle. Our nation must accept the National Liberation Front as a partner in the peace talks in its own right. The previous assurances of our leaders have failed to state this clearly.

4. Other conditions are desirable, such as a de-escalation of the ground war to a degree commensurate with the protection necessary for those already there. But since the destiny of all nations is involved in a negotiated peace, we must not seek it unilaterally, but must ask the full cooperation of all agencies designed to deal with international tensions. These must include an increasing role for the United Nations and a recognition of the potential role of the International Control Commission in reducing ground hostility by providing an international presence under cover of which foreign troops might ultimately be withdrawn from Vietnam.

A look at the Pepsi generation

By DAVID POLLEN
Editorial Page Editor

(This writer represented The Daily Iowan at a national conference of college editors held Feb. 3-5 in Washington, D.C.—Editor.)

Earlier this month some 500 college editors met in Washington to discuss the "Generation Gap" and its relation to the issues facing this country today.

The "Generation Gap," they told us, was a barrier between this vocal and active generation of the 60s and the generation that is running the world.

It was assumed from the start that the delegates to this conference, sponsored by the U.S. Student Press Association, were people with sensitive social consciences, people not concerned with maintaining the status quo but rather with creating a better society and a better world. In short, it was assumed that the college editors there were a part of and spoke for the New Left, although many hesitate to use the term now because of the degree to which the term has been abused in the popular press.

It was pleasing to see that assumption made. The relative solidarity of opinion among the delegates simplified the issues and kept discussions pertinent and clear. Everyone could see where everyone else stood.

From the standpoint of the generation of the 60s, the list of speakers was impressive. It included columnist Walter Lippmann, Sen. Walter Mondale, (D-Minn.), SDS organizer Paul Potter, SNCC organizer George Ware, presidential consultants Walt Rostow, John P. Roche, and Charles Frankel, theologian William Stringfellow, critic Alfred Kazan and artist Allan Kaprow.

All tried, with varying degrees of success, to appraise our generation and its attitudes, comment on our roles as spokesmen for this generation, and speculate about the merits of our actions and their potential impact on the world.

The issue which proved to be of most interest, because it was the area of greatest conflict, was not based on goals or ideals but on tactics. The differences were exemplified by two spokesmen for the civil rights cause, Ware and Rev. Jesse Jackson, Chicago director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Jackson was a part of the established civil rights workers of the early 60s. He is a disciple of Martin Luther King and is a Christian. His tactics are non-violence and firm but legal political and economic pressure.

Ware is a part of the new breed of black leaders that rose with Stokely Carmichael and the Black Power slogan. The goals of both are identical. Both want economic, political and cultural strength for the Negro. Both are advocates of the rights concept which has come to be known as Black Power. The difference is, Jackson won't use the slogan, even though he likes what it means.

The reasons are obvious; white people get scared, he said, when they hear the Negro say Black Power. They panic with thoughts of being murdered in their beds by power crazed Negroes, whose appetites were whetted by the civil rights concessions of the early 60s. And their reaction is what has come to be called the White Backlash.

The Backlash has clearly damaged much worthwhile civil rights progress. Friends of SNCC, which used to collect money in Iowa City for Mississippi without much trouble, now has difficulty raising funds because of SNCC's association with the Black Power slogan.

Jackson has rejected the slogan because he knows the road ahead will be rough enough without the backlash. Why, then, do Ware and Carmichael use it? It sometimes seems as though they get some sort of pleasure out of seeing fear and panic they can generate through those two words, even though it may be building a wall between themselves and their goals.

Ware said it was because they are tired of dealing. Negroes were getting their heads split for ten years in the South using King's tactics, Ware said, and all they got back was a law which no one could enforce very well. They were tired, he said, of whites who thought they were doing enough by making life a little bit better for the Negro, or who thought it was enough to treat the Negro as if he were as good as the white man. And it was necessary to shock the white man to really get somewhere, then that is what they would do. They were through dealing; they were through trying to appeal to Christian sensibilities that just weren't in the white man.

SNCC's methods are the same as King's and Jackson's. They both will organize Negroes to get the political and economic power their race deserves. Although both advocate the Black Power concept, this doesn't mean that they are racists. They haven't turned against integration; they just don't think it is all that important. They think that Negroes are entitled to the same ethnic identity that Poles, Scandinavians and Jews enjoy. They are proud of their own culture and don't regard entering the white American culture as a prerequisite to freedom. Cultural and ethnic identity, they maintain, is essential to the self-respect and personal dignity which the white man says the Negro lacks.

Thus, what is called the big split in the civil rights movement exists in spite of identical views of both groups. The same split is apparent in the anti-war movement and in any other activist movement; many feel that the tactics or appearances of many demonstrators is detrimental to their cause, and fear a backlash to the cause est their members retain their "respectability."

Where to draw the line when it comes to maintaining this respectability is probably the greatest concern to the activists of our generation. Too often frustration and human weaknesses (which movements have little room for) will lead activists to step too far — sometimes to the point of resorting to the things they are opposing, often to the point of destroying any effectiveness of their actions through tactics which only serve to repulse or infuriate those whom they are trying to influence. Giving the opposition one legitimate argument, no matter how noble the cause or ideals, will smother the effort.

There isn't any rule you can make about maintaining your respectability. Sometimes it is essential to do so; other times it is a waste of time, and, if the cause is not to be abandoned, other things must be tried. Mistakes of judgment are being made, and our generation, judging from the opinions of it we find expressed in the press, is paying for it.

If our generation has made mistakes because we've lost patience at times, it certainly seems understandable. We have seen the generation that's running the world mess it up pretty badly, and lie to us about it, to boot.

The things that our grade school teachers told us about America just weren't so. There are people who can't go from their cabins to the White House and there isn't liberty and justice for all.

When we ask why, we are given lies and promises that no one intends to keep. If we persist, we are ignored, called names, or further misled. And we have found it frustrating.

Planners Ask Zone Change

The Iowa City Planning and Zoning Commission Thursday approved a resolution asking the Iowa City Council to rezone the eight-acre site on the airport's West Benon land for building a restaurant and motel complex.

The city would maintain ownership of the land through a 49 year lease to a private Sioux City company and receive rent and tax revenues for improvements. At present the land is idle.

In the same resolution, the commission asked the Airport Commission to request that the land in a strip east of the airport's runways and adjacent to Highway 218 be rezoned.

Commercial Zones Asked

Presently, both areas concerned are zoned RIA. The rezoning actions, if approved by the council, would change both to highway commercial (CH).

Kenneth A. Mulford, chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission, said that rezoning only the restaurant area would "look like a large case of spot zoning."

Rezoning the entire area, the commission said, would make it possible to conform its present usage to the proper zoning classification.

The airport is now carrying on actions that should rightfully be classified under highway commercial zoning, the commission said.

Land Strip Requested

After approving the final plat of the proposed southeast Lake-side Addition, the commission passed a resolution requesting the council to purchase a 30-foot wide strip of land through the new school site, which is adjacent to the Fair Meadows Park. The land would be used for building a connecting street with the proposed Parkland Avenue.

The school board earlier had obtained a 30-foot wide strip through the area to put in a sidewalk leading to the proposed school, which will soon go under construction.

The commission stated that the city should buy the other 30-foot strip and combine it with the school's strip in order to build the street instead of the sidewalk. A right-of-way of 60 feet is required to build the street.

The school board agreed to pay a substantial amount of the cost for building the street.

Payment Undecided

The rest of the expense would be paid by the city or assessed from the property connected to the street. This point was not decided upon.

In other action the commission approved part of a plat of a proposed Park View Terrace subdivision, but referred it to the developers for further corrections so it would conform with city regulations.

A hearing concerning the B & K Realtors sign at 1232 E. Burlington St. was referred to the Board of Adjustment. The sign is too large to conform with zoning regulations.

The commission also discussed rezoning of property belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Schneider at 119 W. Benton, and the vacating of an alley between La Fayette and Benton streets for use by the Cedar Rapids and Iowa City Railway Company.

5 Remain In Queen Contest

Five coeds were selected Wednesday night as finalists for the 1967 Military Ball Queen competition.

They are: Miss Diane Jordan, A4, Palantine, Ill.; Miss Carla Homan, A4, Alton; Miss Linda Nolan, A4, Guthrie Center; Miss Mary Jo Schaezel, A4, Denver, Colo.; and Miss Judy Sorensen, A4, Hazel Crest, Ill.

The finalists were selected by a vote of senior class Army and Air Force ROTC cadets at a special smoker held Wednesday evening in the Union Lucas-Dodge Room. They were selected from a group of 10 semi-finalists.

One of the five will be crowned 1967 Military Ball Queen and named Honorary Cadet Colonel at the 1967 Military Ball, which will be held Saturday, March 11 from 8 p.m. to midnight in the Union Ballroom.

Voting Schedule

The Military Ball Queen will be selected by a vote of the Army and Air Force ROTC cadet corps. Voting will take place during the weekly drill sessions the week of Feb. 27-March 3.

The theme for this year's Military Ball is "Camelot." Decorations at the Ball will depict a medieval court-yard scene and create an atmosphere of the Middle Ages.

The Blue Diamonds, a 12-piece dance band from Minneapolis, will provide entertainment. The Blue Diamonds were winners of the Iowa State University Music Festival in 1965 and 1966 and winners of the 1965 Notre Dame Jazz Festival. They were selected by the Midwest Band Association as one of the five best new dance bands in the Midwest in 1966.

Also entertaining at the Ball will be Jim Kerr, a well-known local comedian, who has entertained at conventions and nightclubs in the Iowa City area during the past several years.

Ball To Be Formal

Dress for the Ball will be formal attire. Cadets will wear dress uniforms and their dates may wear either formal or cocktail dresses.

Tickets are $5 a couple for advanced members and $3 a couple for basic course members. Tickets may be purchased through members of the Army and Air Force cadet corps.

Car-Train Wreck Injures Student

A car-train accident on Greenwood Drive just north of W. Benton Street Thursday injured a University student.

Richard P. Moore, B3, Tipton, was treated for a cut on the head at University Hospital. He was released after treatment.

we carry GANT shirts for women because...

For women, Gant makes shirts, not blouses. Now, the difference between a shirt and a blouse is not styling, but the craftsmanship sewn into it which directly reflects in the fit, flair and look. Women's tailoring is wonderful, but it doesn't have the substance, the character, the precision to make a man-styled shirt look authentic. And this we think is precisely what women are seeking in button downs, convertibles and Bermudas.

Gant, you know, are shirtmakers, not blousemakers. They use the same deft "needle" in their women's shirts as they do in their men's—with a difference. Their women's shirts are cut to women's proportions; collars are smaller, so are cuffs. The fit is woman, the niceties are woman—but the look and tailoring are authentically man.

In substance, Gant shirts are for women of discerning taste—women who have an innate sense of quality. These women are our customers.

Union's Role Argued

By CHARLES NORTON
Staff Writer

A controversy has arisen over who is allowed to represent teachers in negotiations with the Iowa City School Board.

Richard S. Hootman, president of Iowa City Local 1618 of the American Federation of Teachers, said in a statement at Tuesday's board meeting that the board was "ill advised" in refusing to talk with the union this year.

On Wednesday, Hootman said that the union had been allowed to talk with a committee of the board when the union was formed a year ago.

School Board Pres. William V. Phelan, also at the meeting said, "It is not in the best interest of our district to attempt to conduct multiple parallel discussions with different groups of teachers."

Board Works With Committee

Phelan said Wednesday that it was written in the teachers' contracts and that it was the board's policy to work only with the Liaison Committee in matters of interest to teachers as a group.

The Liaison Committee is made up of the city superintendent of schools, the board itself, six teachers, and the president of the Iowa City Teachers Association (ICTA).

Hootman said he did not think discussions with the union would parallel those with the ICTA. He said the main interest of the union was to "keep more teachers who are deeply interested and concerned in their jobs."

According to Hootman the ICTA "doesn't seem to serve the function of keeping the professional teacher."

Teachers Evaluated

Evaluation of teachers was another issue that appeared in Hootman's statement to the board. He said the union was on record as "encouraging" these evaluations as an aid in improving the local school system. He said, however, that teachers should be given a copy of any written evaluations.

Phelan said that the evaluations now being made were not available to the board and that they were not included in the teacher's personal file. He said the present written evaluations were used only to help the evaluator and it was not necessary for teachers to have a copy of them.

Hootman said the union was interested in keeping competent teachers because recent college graduates could not afford to go into public school teaching at the starting salaries now offered. He said the only way to insure continuing quality in public education was to keep the salary levels of experienced teachers high enough to encourage them to stay in the teaching profession.

Students Favor Ban On Campus Parking

By BARBARA MYATT
Staff Writer

Students apparently favor a partial ban on cars at the University and increased subsidy of the city bus company to expand its routes, according to comments made at a Student-Faculty External Affairs Committee meeting Thursday afternoon.

The meeting, which was supposed to be a hearing open to the public, was attended by only seven people.

A majority of those present favored a partial ban for freshmen and sophomores which would prohibit parking on campus during the day.

Student Sen. David Markham, A3, Iowa City, favored a complete ban on freshmen cars, starting a trend which would eventually lead to an all-campus car ban.

John W. Holmes, B4, Waterloo, asked committee members to approach the parking problem with a positive attitude by trying to solve the problem instead of making it harder on students.

Holmes favored wide expansion of the city bus service which would enable students to attend classes without driving.

Additional storage lots and parking ramps were also recommended.

$50 Fine Too High

Lyle Krewson, A4, Van Horn, said, "The committee's recommendation of a $50 fine for a sticker violation is too excessive." Most were in agreement on this point.

Sunday Baseball Ruled Out By Big 10 Commissioner

CHICAGO (AP) — Proposed Sunday baseball play, if required by postponements, has been ruled out by the Big 10 Commissioner Bill Reed announced Thursday.

The conference, at its December meeting, proposed possible Sunday play along with a rule that a team must play at least one half of its 18-game conference schedule to qualify for the title.

Reed disclosed that some schools could not authorize Sunday re-scheduling for possible postponement of regularly scheduled Saturday games.

Thus, the requirement that at least nine conference games must be played for title consideration also was dropped.

The 1967 conference baseball schedule still will include 18 games. It will be played over five weekends, starting April 21-22, including a series of seven-inning double headers on Fridays and Saturdays, on four weekends and one Friday-Saturday round of single nine-inning games between "natural rivals."

Last season, the Big 10 operated on a 15-game schedule.

Williams Holds Wide Lead In Conference Scoring Race

—Shooting Lead To Iowa—

By MIKE BARRY
Staff Writer

The champion in the race for Big 10 Conference basketball supremacy this season is still in hiding amidst that four-way jumble atop the league standings.

Either, Iowa, Indiana, Michigan State or Northwestern could take it all. And right now, Ralph Miller's Hawkeyes are taking their share of the top spots in conference statistics.

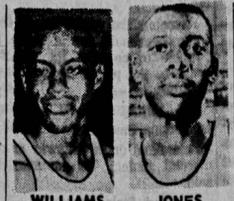

Iowa leads the Big 10 in three departments according to statistics released Thursday by the Big 10 News Service. Iowa leads the league in field goal and free throw accuracy — 47.4 per cent and 76.3 per cent respectively — in addition to having the league's top individual scorer in Sam Williams with a 28.3 point per game average.

Northwestern still leads in team scoring with a 92.9 average and Michigan State has the best defensive average of 74.6. Iowa ranks fourth in team defense with a 79.9 point yield per game.

Kondia Second
Minnesota's Tom Kondia replaced Jim Burns of Northwestern as the second leading scorer behind Williams. Kondia has a 25.2 average. Burns dropped to fifth behind Jim Dawson of Illinois and Ohio State's Bill Hosket, with a 22.7 average.

There are still a number of other factors, besides a good showing on the statistical charts, which are contributing to Iowa's present position in the conference title chase.

Williams cited the team's mental attitude and the improved play of 6-4 senior forward Gerry Jones as two of them. "We know we have a job to do," said Williams Tuesday night. "The coaches won't let us forget that. We are in contention for the Big 10 title and if we keep working as a unit, we will be Big 10 champs. And another thing," he said, "Gerry Jones is playing ball like the Gerry Jones of old. If he continues to do so, we'll be that much more effective in our quest for the championship. Everybody on this team is a team player," he said. "This has to be one of the most unselfish teams that I have ever played on."

Williams also said that Huston Breedlove was another major factor contributing to Iowa's current four-game winning streak.

"Huston fights down to the last second," said Williams. "He's been doing a tremendous job on defense, even though he is smaller than most of the men he has had to guard so far."

"He has a lot of pride and is one of the main reasons we are on top right now," he said.

Jones agreed that Breedlove's defense and rebounding has been of vital importance to Iowa's sudden rise to prominence.

"He gets a lot of rebounds and keeps the other team's center from scoring a lot of points," said Jones. "And he's so fast that he can wear his man out by halftime."

In regard to his own play, Jones said, "the coaching staff and the other fellows on the team have been encouraging me to go ahead and do whatever I can — to relax and let myself go. I've started believing them and with this added confidence, it has been easier for me to put out."

5-Under Par 66 Lets Palmer Take 1st Round Tucson Lead

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Arnold Palmer showed Thursday he was not rusty after a week's layoff from the golfing wars when he fired a six-under-par 66 to take a one-stroke lead after the first round of the $60,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament.

Chuck Courtney had caught

Palmer with two holes to go but missed a three-foot putt for a par and finished in a three-way tie for second at five-under-par 67. Bruce Crampton and Joel Goldstrand of Worthington, Minn., who had to survive a qualifying round playoff to enter the tournament, also shot 67s.

Palmer, who missed last week's Phoenix Open, showed his army of some 400 rabid fans that the rambling par 36-36-72 Tucson National Golf Club Course, measuring 7,200-yards, was made to order for him.

Hitting pinpoint approach shots and putting well over the huge undulating greens, Palmer registered seven birdies and one bogey as he missed only one green all day.

"This is my lowest score on a starting round this year," said Palmer, who surged from an opening 70 with straight sub-par rounds to take Los Angeles Open last month.

Courtney, 26-year-old tour regular from La Jolla, Calif., playing in lengthening shadows in the early evening, finished with birds on the fifth, sixth and eighth holes after beginning play on the back nine.

His birdie on the eighth hole caught Palmer for the lead, but on the 455-yard, par-four ninth hole he needed three putts to get down.

The pros found the large multi-level greens spongy and many of them were having difficulty throwing their approaches close enough for makable putts.

"They're soft and really biting on approach shots," said Joe Campbell, the 1966 Tucson Open titlist who shot a two-under-par 70 Thursday.

Wind gusts of up to 25 miles per hour forecast for Thursday failed to arise but are again forecast for Friday's second round as the pros and qualifying play for the $12,000 winner's purse.

Kentucky Player Allowed To Keep His Scholarship

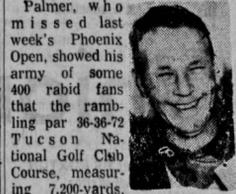

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Bernie Shively, Kentucky's athletic director, said Thursday a conference between basketball Coach Adolph Rupp and ousted player Bob Tallent had resulted in Tallent's retaining his grant-in-aid.

"Bob told Coach Rupp he was sorry for what he did," said Shively, who attended the meeting. "Bob also stated he had no hard feelings toward Coach Rupp and that he had been treated fairly and squarely in the action taken on his dismissal from the squad."

Tallent's dismissal from the squad came Tuesday after a court-side hassle with Rupp during the Kentucky-Tennessee game Monday night at Knoxville.

Rupp removed him for "disciplinary reasons," but would not give details of the argument. He also refused further comment, saying, "Nobody talks back to me."

Where does an engineer intern?

Before you decide on the job that's to start you on your professional career, it's good to ask a few point blank questions . . . like:

- Will this job let me rub shoulders with engineers doing things that haven't been done before, in all phases of engineering?
- Will I be working for an engineering oriented management whose only standard is excellence?
- Will I have access to experts in fields other than my own to help me solve problems and stimulate professional growth?
- Will I be working with the widest range of professional competence and technological facilities in the U. S.?
- Are engineering careers with this company stable . . . or do they depend upon proposals and market fluctuations?

Gymnasts Face Major Test

Entertain MSU Saturday In Important Big 10 Meet

By JOHN HARMON
Staff Writer

Only one day remains until possibly one of the most important gymnastic meets in recent Iowa history. Tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 Iowa's gymnastics team will face a veteran Michigan State team in the Field House and Coach Sam Baillie has nothing but optimism.

"This group of boys has the best attitude of any team I've ever been associated with," commented Baillie. "With the home court edge giving us a couple points, I think the boys should score at least 185 points and beat Michigan State."

BAILLIE

The importance of the meet is reflected in the Big 10 standings. Michigan State's victory over Michigan Wednesday night, 190-80 - 190.425, brought the Spartans to 5-1 in the conference while Iowa is 5-0. Also in the race are Illinois, 3-2, and Michigan 2-1.

Final MSU Meet
Saturday's meet will be the last in the Big 10 for MSU, while Iowa has only Michigan to face next week. Illinois has Indiana and Minnesota left on its schedule, while Michigan must battle Wisconsin, Minnesota and Ohio State, in addition to Iowa. Coach Baillie has good reasons for his optimism: first, his team; and second, this year's records. The Hawkeyes have defeated Illinois, Illinois beat Michigan State and Michigan State beat Michigan.

Physically, this should be the team's strongest week, according to the coach. Neil Schmitt, hampered by injuries all season, will make his first start in weeks on the high bar.

Wednesday's Michigan - Michigan State outcome in which both teams scored over 190 points could have been a setback to Baillie's optimism. It wasn't.

"The scores were rather high," said Baillie, "but I feel it was just a case of two very evenly matched teams meeting and the judges having a hard time trying to decide who was best. Consequently the judges may have awarded 9.2 or 9.3 scores to routines ordinarily getting 8.8 points."

Teams Are Even
Saturday's match should feature close matches in nearly all the events. The still rings will pit Iowa's sophomores, Don Hatch, Terry Siorek and Bob Dickson against the Spartans' Dave Croft, the Big 10 rings champ and the NCAA champ, Ed Gunny. Michigan State also has Larry Goldberg, a third place finisher in the rings in last year's Big 10 meet.

If Ike Heller is to continue his double-victory skein on the long horse and parallel bars, he will have to defeat All-America Dave Thor. Heller has won both events in the Wisconsin and Indiana matches.

Thor, who was tabbed as "the key to the 1967 Spartans" by his coach, George Szyplu, won last year's Big 10 all-around title with first place finishes in floor exercises and side horse. He either ranks first or second among the Spartans in six events.

An event in which both teams are evenly matched, but "better than average" according to Baillie, is the trampoline. Iowa's lineup in that event will be Gil Williams, Bob Dickson, Ken Gordon and Don Uffelman. Michigan State will probably field letter winners Keith Steiner, Ron Aur, Thor and Ray Walker.

Spartan Incentive
Paul Omi, who has recently out-pointed Dickson in the still rings will be one of Iowa's key performers in the floor exercise, and will work out of the number four slot in the rings.

Michigan State can counter with sophomore Bob Towson the AAU floor exercise champion and the winner of the 1966 Midwest Open crown in the same event.

The Spartans have an added incentive to win Saturday's meet — they have yet to win a Big 10 championship, although finishing second five times including last year. Iowa hasn't won the Big 10 title since 1937.

Overall, Coach Baillie believes the Spartans could have a slight edge after the first two events, with the trampoline being a pivotal event and the parallel bars and still rings deciding the match — in favor of Iowa.

The only other home event this weekend will be the Iowa-

NCAA Refuses To Meet AAU On Track Dispute

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association will not meet with Amateur Athletic Union officials to resolve their long-standing track and field dispute until AAU suspensions are withdrawn, the NCAA president said Thursday.

Dr. Marcus L. Plant of the University of Michigan, NCAA president, also said no meeting could be held until certain AAU ineligibility rulings are dropped and a mediation board's jurisdiction is recognized by the AAU.

Plant took the stand in a telegram to Theodore W. Kheel, New York attorney who heads a five-member arbitration board named by Vice President Hubert Humphrey to settle the dispute.

Only a few hours earlier, Walter Byers, NCAA executive director, announced in Kansas City that all foreign athletes on students exchange in this country will be eligible for NCAA meets, even if declared ineligible by the AAU.

The dispute had smoldered under a moratorium imposed by the arbitration board, but it flared anew when the AAU suspended nine foreign students for taking part in the NCAA-approved U.S. Track and Field Federation invitational indoor tournament in New York last Friday night.

If the AAU fails to meet the specifications set forth in his telegram, Plant said, "I see no other course left open to all of this other than to return the issue to Congress."

Plant also warned that if the board is unsuccessful in getting the AAU to observe the moratorium, "then we must assume it is not applicable to either party."

In New York, Kheel said he had received the telegram and that his panel would make a ruling and inform the parties involved of its decision before 9 a.m. (EST) today.

AFL Votes For Expansion

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — upon the new member by June. Cincinnati, which will break ground in April on a new, 55,000-seat stadium, is believed to have the inside track. A bid by a Seattle group was weakened recently by defeat of a new stadium bond issue.

Phoenix and Birmingham groups also have applied. "Our meeting definitely has speeded the merger effort," Woodard said.

American Football League owners voted Thursday to move toward immediate expansion after a meeting that President Mill Woodard said may have advanced for one year a complete merger with the National Football League.

Woodard said the AFL would send representatives at once into cities seeking a 10th franchise in the league and hoped to decide

Southern Ill. Holds Lead In College Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It was an ideal way for the Lincoln Tigers of Jefferson City, Mo., to celebrate Lincoln's Birthday week. They were named to the NCAA college division basketball tournament after advancing to fourth place in the latest Associated Press poll.

In seventh place a week ago, the Tigers beat Fort Hays, (Kan.) State and Kentucky State in lifting their record to 21-2. They collected 72 points in the balloting by a national panel of 17 sports writers and broadcasters.

There were no changes in the top three positions of the small-college poll. Southern Illinois held first place followed by Kentucky Wesleyan and Cheyney, Pa. State. Southern Illinois accumulated 169 points on a basis of 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second etc. Kentucky Wesleyan had 144 points and Cheyney 88.

Lincoln was selected Wednesday as an at-large entry for the NCAA competition along with Kentucky Wesleyan and Akron.

The voting was based on games through last Saturday.

NBA Sets Date For 1967 Playoff

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association playoffs will start no later than March 22 and the playoff pool will amount to a record $280,000, President Walter Kennedy announced Thursday.

The pool is more than double the pool of four years ago and $100,000 more than in 1966.

The top four teams in each of the two NBA divisions will participate in the pool. The NBA announced this playoff setup:

The first round will involve the first- and third-place teams and the second- and fourth-place teams in each division. These series will be best-of-five games.

The two winners of each division will then meet in a best four-of-seven series to establish a divisional champion. The two division champions will meet in a best-of-four title series.

If the divisional first-place winner with the best season's winning percentage should emerge as the over-all champion, that team would receive $87,500 for its share.

Ruffing Is Named To Hall-Of-Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — "I was wishing for the Hall of Fame. Now, I have to start wishing for a job in baseball," Charles Red Ruffing said Thursday after being named to the sport's shrine at Cooperstown, N.Y., in a special run-off election.

Ruffing received 266 votes of the 306 ballots cast by members of the Baseball Writers' Assn. of America. Joe Medwick, former slugging outfielder of the St. Louis Cardinals' Gas House Gang, was second with 248 votes, followed by Roy Campanella, former Brooklyn catcher, with 170.

Pick the right day to test drive a Volkswagen and you'll have the road to yourself.

Back when the weather was better, everybody was inviting you to come in and test drive their new whatever.

But now that the weather isn't so hot (and a test drive is really a test), the invitations have dropped off sharply. Now maybe you can spare a little time to try out the new Volkswagen.

Not right this minute. Wait for a nice lousy day. The next time it's snowing or slushing or something like that, drive down to your Volkswagen dealer. (If you can make it in your car.)

He'll be happy to take you out and show you how a Volkswagen works when hardly anything else does.

How the weight of the motor on the rear wheels makes the VW dig in and go, in the snow or the mud, or even on ice.

As you pass all the stranded cars that passed their test drives in balmy days, he'll tell you about the VW's other cold-weather comforts.

The air-cooled motor. It doesn't freeze over, so it doesn't need anti-freeze or a winter thermostat.

And if you have to leave the car out on a cold wet night, it's got four coats of paint and a sealed bottom to keep it cozy.

You've even got an edge with a VW if the worst happens and you get stuck.

What could be easier to push?

Lindquist, Education Pioneer, Presented Research Award

NEW YORK — E. F. Lindquist, who has been doing pioneer work in education at the University of Iowa for the past 40 years, received the American Educational Research Association (AERA) - Phi Delta Kappa Award at the Statler-Hilton Hotel Thursday night.

The award, given at the AERA's annual banquet, praised Lindquist for a meritorious pattern of contributions rather than for a single piece of work, and cited his distinction in a variety of research areas including statistical methods, tests, and measurements.

Lindquist became director of the University Testing Program in 1930, working first on the "Iowa Brain Derby" high school tests, and then originating the Iowa Tests of Basic Skills for elementary school pupils (1935) and the Iowa Tests of Educational Development for high school students (1942).

In the early 1950's he invented the first high speed electronic scoring machine, used to correct the Iowa tests, and he became president of Measurement Research Center (MRC), the non-profit scoring corporation he founded in 1953. Before Lindquist's machine, 150 women spent several weeks correcting the consultant to the board of directors of ACT, which now gathers and reports a variety of data about college-bound students and colleges and universities from all over the country.

In 1964 he established the Iowa Educational Information Center, a data bank for Iowa's public schools designed to reduce teachers' paperwork and to make available large quantities of data for educational research.

He has published two books, "Educational Measurement" and "Design and Analysis of Experiments in Psychology and Education."

Lindquist is now at work on plans for a new MRC building housing the Computer Center, the Iowa Educational Information Center, Iowa Center for Research in School Administration, and the Iowa Testing Programs.

The 1966 winner of the AERA award was Dr. T. R. McConnell, a native of Iowa who earned his M.A. and Ph.D. at the University in 1928 and 1933, who is former chancellor of the University of Buffalo and chairman of the Center for the Study of Higher Education at the University of California at Berkeley.

Previous winners were Dr. Ralph Tyler in 1965, director of the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences at Stanford University; and Arthur I. Gates in 1964, professor emeritus at the Columbia University Teachers College.

ROTC Team Comes In 2nd In Intercollegiate Rifle Meet

The Army ROTC varsity rifle team recently won the second place team trophy in the Iowa Intercollegiate Rifle League. Five of the 10 league trophies awarded for individual and team efforts went to the University's team.

The league is composed of the University's team and one Navy and two Army ROTC teams from Iowa State University (ISU).

The league competition this year consisted of three matches conducted during the first and second semesters. The matches were scored on the following basis: Each target was worth 100 possible points. Points were scored individually, and then added together to make up the team score.

Team Moves Up

The team placed last in 1966, but pulled into second place this year with score of 3,723 points.

One ISU Army team took first place with 3,781 points, and the other took third place with a score of 3,712. The Navy team shot 3,637 for last place.

The University's team captain, Craig R. Lewis, A3, Des Moines, won two trophies. One was for firing the highest score from a standing position. The other was for the highest score that combined all the points shot from the prone, kneeling, and standing positions.

Thomas R. Schrunck, A4, Cedar Rapids, also won two trophies. One was for shooting the highest score from the kneeling position, and the other was for the fourth highest total score in the competition.

Lewis scored 781 and Schrunck scored 768.

Other team members' scores were: Donald L. Dewees, A2, Cedar Rapids, with 754; William J. Hierstein, A4, Burlington, with 720; and Denis A. Uecke, A1, Fort Dodge, 689. Dewees scored seventh highest in the competition and Hierstein placed in the upper half.

—Churchmen Picket White House—

Local Men Attend Vietnam Parley

By SISTER MARY JEANETTE QUINN Staff Writer

Two campus clergymen and a Catholic layman who teaches theology here have returned from Washington, D.C., where they represented the Association of Campus Ministers in the national gathering of Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam, Jan. 31-Feb. 1.

The three are Rabbi Samuel S. Lerer of Hillel Foundation, the Rev. Robert Van Horne of Wesley House and James McCue, assistant professor of religion.

They were among the 2,000 ministers, priests, rabbis and laymen who publicly gave "witness" to the opposing of the escalation of the war in Vietnam. In Washington they took part in a silent vigil in front of the White House, attended a joint religious service and participated in interviews with Iowa's congressmen.

Clergy Appeal To LBJ
Re-constituting itself as a committee to end the war in Vietnam, the "concerned" clergy and laity drew up an appeal to the President; called for the three-day national fast observed last week from Feb. 8-10; asked for an end to clergymen's exemption from the draft; and urged seminars for congressmen in Washington to prove to them that "religious concern is not to be equated with naive concern."

The turnout of religious leaders of all denominations from 45 states was about half of what committee heads had predicted a month ago. While there have been larger crowds at peace demonstrations in Washington, topped by the 25,000 mobilized by the Students for a Democratic Society and other student groups in November, 1965, never has there been one so predominantly clerical.

Counterpicketers carrying signs bearing such messages as "God and the Devil Don't Co-exist" and "I'd Rather Be Dead than Red" met the clergymen near the White House. However, there were no incidents.

Lerer Glad He Went
Rabbi Lerer, discussing his participation in the event, said that he was happy he went to Washington with the group because the trip satisfied his conscience, helped to eradicate the state of silence "too long practiced by churchmen" and gave him the chance to meet young men in the ministry who are the "church's leaders of tomorrow."

"Every affair of mankind is our responsibility," he said. "Our having been there is a certain witness to the seriousness of our concern," said Van Horne. McCue said that the number of persons participating was too small to have made an immediate and dramatic effect on American policy, but he was hopeful that more and more people who were concerned with what was going on would express this concern both in their own communities and to their political representatives.

Credibility Gap Attacked
A position paper prepared by Robert McAfee Brown, United Presbyterian theologian and a visiting professor at Stanford University, which was distributed by the group in Washington, D.C., states that a "time comes when silence is betrayal and that time has come in relation to Vietnam."

According to the prepared statement of the Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam, they and the millions of Americans for whom they speak declare: "We are unable to support our nation's policy of military escalation in Vietnam because of the inconsistency between our stated aims and the consequences they produce and because of the discrepancy between what we are told by our government and what we discover is actually taking place."

A realistic alternative to the Vietnam struggle, the clergymen state in their position paper, is for the American people to choose the path of initiative for negotiation.

U.S. Must Take Initiative
Regarding this country's willingness to negotiate a diplomatically-won peace instead of a militarily-achieved peace, the "concerned" clergy and laity said that America, as the stronger nation, had both the obligation and the opportunity to take initiative to stop the bombing of North Vietnam and to de-escalate the ground war to a degree commensurate with the necessary protection for those already there.

This negotiated peace, the statement reads, must not be sought unilaterally, but it must ask the full cooperation of all agencies designed to deal with "international tensions."

The aim of this negotiation, as set forth in the position paper, is an increasing role for the United Nations and a recognition of the potential role of the International Control Commission in reducing ground hostility by providing an international presence under cover of which foreign troops might ultimately be withdrawn from Vietnam.

Further steps that Americans can take to indicate their desire to play a creative rather than a destructive role in the future of Vietnam, according to the clergymen and laity, include the urging of Congress to re-examine the international agreements to which the United States is pledged, so that America can "try anew to conform policy and practice in Vietnam to international law as embodied in the several agreements of Geneva and the Hague, the Nuremberg judgments, the Charter of the United Nations and other such documents."

Citizens Should Help
Citizens are urged by the clergymen to pledge themselves to acts of mercy and rebuilding and reconciliation.

"We must not seek to impose an alien culture on the Vietnamese," the position paper declares. "Rather, by insisting that our help be channeled through international agencies, we must convey our desire to let the Vietnamese be the arbiters of their own destiny."

Religious organizations are urged to follow the example of the World Council of Churches in arranging special offerings for the relief of all victims of Vietnamese warfare, whether in the north or south, to be administered through the International Red Cross or similar agencies.

At the religious service held in Washington's New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, planned "to give witness to penitence, shared suffering and commitment to peace," money offerings were collected to aid burned and war-injured Vietnamese children.

As peace negotiations proceed, other projects should be initiated, the laymen and clergy maintain. Their position paper asks that further suggestions be sent for appropriate implementation to "Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam, 475 Riverside Drive, New York, New York 10027."

MAP FINISHED, FINALLY—
SINGAPORE (AP)—A troop of British royal engineers has completed one of its toughest peacetime tasks in the Far East—mapping the rugged and partly impenetrable terrain of Sarawak in Malaysian Borneo. They spent six years at it, traveling by foot, boat and helicopter.

Senate Proposal

DES MOINES (AP)—More than 100 nurses jammed into a Senate committee room Thursday to protest a proposal to do away with the Iowa Board of Nursing.

A subcommittee headed by Sen. Lee Gaudineer (D-Des Moines) is conducting hearings on a governmental reorganization proposal which calls for elimination of the 18 boards which now license various trades and professions, and giving this job to a licensing department.

Sister Mary Brigid of Davenport, vice-chairman of the Board of Nursing, said if the change were made as recommended Iowa would be prohibited from further use of a licensing test developed by the National League for Nursing.

The committee also heard objections to abolishment of the Board of Medical Examiners, Iowa State Board of Funeral Directors and Embalmer Examiners and others.

Concert To Be Given

Selections from operas by 18th and 19th century composers will be presented by faculty members Kathryn Harvey, soprano; Robert Eckert, tenor, and Albert Gammon, bass, at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Macbride Auditorium.

No tickets will be required for the concert, which will be free to the public.

The program will open with arias from "Julius Caesar" by Handel and will close with a trio from Verdi's "The Lombards."

Faculty Get Study Grants

University faculty members have qualified for 3 of the first 287 fellowships to be granted by the National Foundation on the Arts and the Humanities.

Stow S. Persons, professor of history, received a senior fellowship; Warner J. Barnes, assistant professor of English, received a fellowship for younger scholars; and Galen O. Rowe, assistant professor of classics, received a summer fellowship.

Writers Workshop Gets Grant

In addition, E. Eugene Helm, associate professor of music, won a $3,000 Foundation research grant. The International Writing Program, which is being developed by Prof. Paul Engle of the Writers Workshop, received an educational grant of $10,000.

Persons is working on a history of gentility in the 19th century United States. Under the grant he will continue his research at the University this summer and will complete his work in the summer of 1968 at the Huntington Library in San Marino, Calif.

Cooper Editor Planned

Barnes will use his fellowship for a preliminary investigation toward producing a critical edition of the 46-volume works of James Fenimore Cooper. He will do research in libraries at Yale and the University of Texas, and in Europe, to prepare a bibliography and guidelines for the project.

Barnes is director of the Center of Textual Studies, a division of the Department of English for the presentation of a 22-volume edition of Mark Twain and an 8-to-10-volume edition of Tobias Smollett.

Research Planned On Orations

Rowe expects to spend the coming summer at the University Library doing research on the language and style of the orations of Demosthenes, a Greek of the 4th century B.C. Rowe plans to write a book or a series of essays on this topic.

Helm is in Europe this semester, on a University research professorship, gathering information for a book on the music and times of Carl Philipp Emanuel Bach, the son of Johann Sebastian Bach. He is expected to continue his research there this summer on the Foundation grant and to return to the University in September.

Translation Workshop Noted

The educational grant for the International Writing Program gives special note to the Translation Workshop, which has brought writers to the University from all over the world to translate literature into and out of languages such as Turkish, Polish, Japanese, Chinese, Pashto and Amharic. The grant is also expected to encourage new works in English or foreign languages by visiting writers.
