Busing Bill Wins Senate Approval

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Senate voted 35-26 Wednesday for a bill to let private school pupils ride public school buses where they can do so without the public bus going off its regular route.

where its chance of approval appears slimmer than in the Senate. The bill was debated five hours before galleries filled most of the time with a crowd plainly favoring the measure.

Huit Upholds IFC, Rejects Frat Bid

M. L. Huit, dean of students, upheld an Intrafraternity Council (IFC) court decision Wednesday by rejecting Phi Delta Theta's appeal to remain a member of IFC.

Opponents argued it was an aid to schools backed by religious institutions and would open the door to more demands for aid to private schools at the expense of public education.

Amendments Rejected Supporters managed to knock down three unfriendly amendments before the Senate turned to debate of the bill itself.

Though the fraternity is now suspended from IFC, the Office of Student Affairs still is considering an appeal by the fraternity to keep its University status.

Supporters of the measure quickly dropped in an amendment to erase that objection, and the bill soon afterwards was adopted.

Phi Delta Theta was put in its present position by IFC court action Feb. 24. The court ruled to suspend the fraternity from the IFC and recommended that University recognition be withdrawn.

Bill Attacked "This bill," Stanley said, "leads us down the long, painful road that will end with severe damage to the public schools and the private schools."

Last semester Phi Delta Theta was on University and IFC probation. When brought before the court Friday the fraternity's status was being reviewed.

If the measure becomes law, parochial and public schools will ask for more aid that will "eventually undermine our public school system" by encouraging more churches to open schools, said Sen. Eugene Hill (D-Newton).

The court decided to act after a can of beer was found in one of the fraternity's rooms during an IFC check and several pledges were found drinking at a party at a local motel.

The bill would require boards of public school districts to allow private pupils to meet the public bus on its regular route and ride to whatever point on the route is nearest or most convenient to the pupil's private school.

The fraternity presented two appeals before Huit Tuesday. The first appeal to block suspension from IFC was denied. The second appeal to block University suspension is being studied further by the Office of Student Affairs before definite action is taken.

Monday Phi Delta Theta will present a statement to the office stating why it thinks it should retain University recognition. Further investigating will be necessary before a decision can be made, Huit said.

When the office makes an unfavorable decision, Phi Delta Theta has the right to appeal that decision to the Committee of Student Life.

Senate's Resolution 'Vague,' Panhellenic President Says

The president of the Panhellenic Association said Wednesday that Student Senate's resolution calling for the association to investigate all sororities' membership selection policies was "in such vague terms that nothing will be done at this time."

According to the constitution and by-laws of Panhellenic, its purposes are to coordinate functions of sororities, to further intellectual and scholastic goals, to cooperate with the administration in the maintenance of high social standards, to be a forum for discussion and to compile rules governing rushing, pledging and initiation on this campus.

Ellen J. Taylor, A4, Madison, Conn., president, also pointed out that an investigation of policies of membership selection was completed in 1964 and was found to be satisfactory by the University.

"We just don't feel its our function to investigate houses as to membership selection," said Miss Taylor. "If the Committee on Student Life wants to investigate, it's their prerogative."

The recent concern over membership policies in sororities is largely based on the fact that these organizations need recommendations from alumnae to pledge a girl.

IFC President Is Satisfied Stephen C. Wherry, B4, Des Moines, president of Interfraternity Council (IFC), said that he was "very satisfied" with that part of the senate resolution that IFC investigate the policies of Sigma Chi and all other fraternities on membership selection.

Concerning the recommendation system, Miss Taylor said that when the study was made three years ago "all members concerned were satisfied with the recommendation policy and no chapter felt that undue pressure was put on by their national concerning membership selection."

"We really want to do it. We want to insure the fact that all fraternities will have the opportunity to pledge who they want to," Wherry said.

Statement Given 3 Years Ago "We submitted this statement three years ago and it holds just as true today as it did then," said Miss Taylor.

The Senate's resolution was introduced by Gary L. Calhoun, A3, Des Moines, IFC senator, as an amendment which replaced a similar proposal by Student Body pres. Tom Hanson.

Miss Taylor also said "We do not feel that the alumnae hindered our membership selection and that is exactly what they're asking us to investigate all over again."

The senate resolution also calls for a report from IFC on Sigma Chi's membership selection policies by May 15, 1967.

Panhellenic's function is not to be an investigating body, according to Miss Taylor.

Cadavers Needed By Med School

By PAULETTE SCHMIDT Staff Writer

The College of Medicine needs human bodies. If the University's high quality of instruction is to be maintained more bodies are needed for dissection, said William O. Rieke, head of the Anatomy Department.

These methods would decrease the quality of the instruction.

"We need a minimum of 62 bodies a year for education, but we fall short of this amount every year," he said. Distribution of the cadavers at present is one body to every four students. Prior to 1966 the distribution was seven bodies to every 15 students.

Situation Serious The situation is serious in many other states, too, reports the National Society for Medical Research in Washington, a non-profit organization that disseminates information about the need and use of bodies and animals for medical research.

Rieke said that the shortage is more critical in schools such as Iowa which are not in a metropolitan area, because they do not have a large population to draw from.

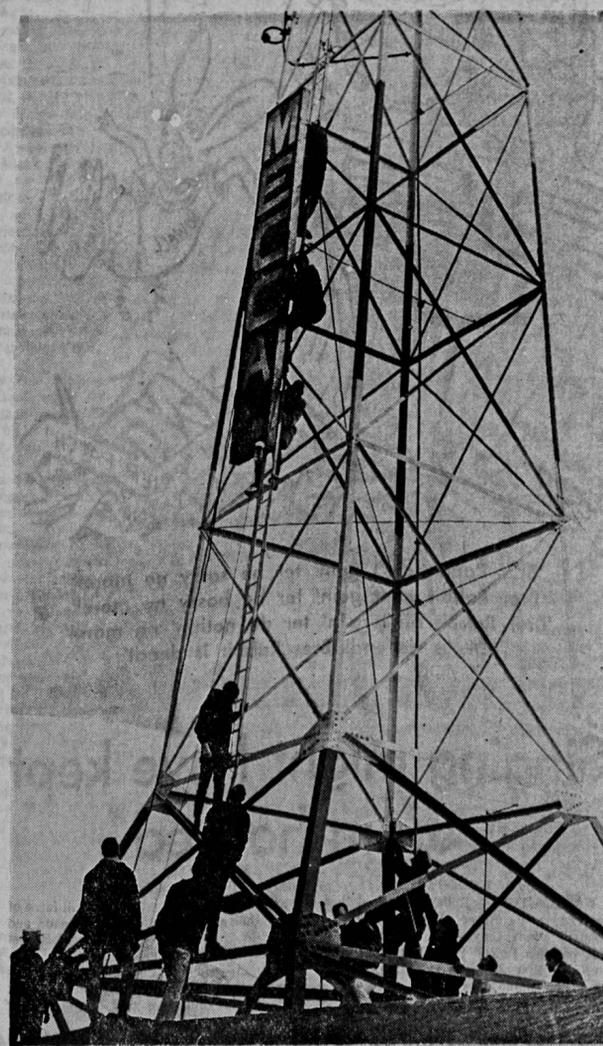

Rieke said that the shortage is more critical in schools such as Iowa which are not in a metropolitan area, because they do not have a large population to draw from.

With this basis for measurement, 32 bodies are needed this year for medical students, 15 for dental students, and 15 for students in occupational and physical therapy. But only 56 bodies were received in the last year.

"It is only with a human body that the future doctor can get the true feel and understanding of the structure and function of the body and the relationships of its several parts," said Rieke.

Rieke said, "Either we must discontinue dissection for some courses or we must redistribute the cadavers to increase the number of students to each body. Both of

Item Veto For Governor Passed By Legislature

DES MOINES (AP) — A proposed constitutional amendment to allow the governor to veto individual items in appropriation bills found the going rough, but finished its second trip through the legislature Wednesday.

HUGHES

The House passed the measure 66-55, but may not be through with it yet. Shortly after the final rollcall was announced, Rep. Laurence Allen (R-Council Bluffs) filed a motion to reconsider.

ville) attacked the measure as one that would give the governor "an ever present arm twister" to use against the legislature to influence future legislation.

If passage is allowed to stand, the proposal would be placed before the voters in the 1968 general election. The measure would become part of the Iowa Constitution if they approve it.

And Rep. John Mowry, (R-Marshalltown) spoke harshly of what he called "all these quickie-drawn constitutional amendments" launched by the Democratic-controlled 1965 legislature.

House Speaker Maurice Baringer (R-Oelwein) stepped down to the floor and took personal charge of the fight for the measure, endorsed by both Republican and Democratic state platforms.

He said an item veto would mean that "appropriations committees won't do their chores. If there is any doubt about an item they'll put it in, and depend on the governor to take it out."

He said the measure would provide "one more check and balance" by enabling the government to veto individual appropriation items. Baringer said the governor now cannot disapprove any appropriation without vetoing the entire bill of which it is a part.

"In these states that have item veto, it's a game to see who's going to put who on the spot — the legislature or the governor."

But Rep. William Winkelman (R-Lohr-

Mowry contended Iowa doesn't need item veto, because its Constitution prohibits adding "riders" to appropriation measures, and the legislature appropriates lump sums for each state agency, rather than spelling out individual items anyway. The individual items are listed in the budget book instead of the appropriations bill, he said.

"If one-man decisions are in order," asked Rep. Laverne Schroeder (R-McClelland) "why do we have 12 men on our juries?"

Possibility Seen Of 2nd Assassin

By BILL EDWARDS Staff Writer

Edward Jay Epstein, noted authority on the death of President Kennedy and the investigation that followed, said Tuesday night that there was a definite possibility that Lee Harvey Oswald had an accomplice in the assassination.

eral judges with unlimited staff and unlimited time to study the facts.

Epstein, speaking as a part of Union Board's Warren Commission Symposium, said "evidence indicates that Oswald definitely fired on the President, but I would not be surprised if a second person had fired at least one shot."

Epstein said he did not believe the investigation was being left closed because the commission was afraid of "mass hysteria in America." He said recent polls indicated 70 per cent of the American people do not completely believe the report anyway.

He said the Warren Commission was slow in beginning the investigation and he blamed the delay for discrepancies now in the report. The final report was scheduled to be finished by June 1964, but it was not actually completed until much later, Epstein said. He said the prospect of this delay created a feeling in the commission members that they "should not open any new doors, but rather close them and get the report out as quickly as possible."

In a question from the audience, Epstein was asked what he thought about the reports of the mysterious deaths of persons involved in the investigations. He said he did not consider any of these deaths mysterious except that of David Ferry. None of the people mentioned, he said, were closely connected with the assassination.

Rumors Dispelled "The commission tended to dispel rumor," Epstein said, "rather than dig into them."

Death Mysterious He said the death of Ferry, a New Orleans airplane pilot who died recently of supposed natural causes, was mysterious because "he left a suicide note, then died of natural causes."

He added that the Garrison investigation in New Orleans was now "simply going deeper into the investigation of these rumors and as a result is finding things overlooked by the commission."

Another member of the audience asked about photographs indicating that the President's head was thrown backward by the bullet's impact. Epstein said the obvious reason was a shot from the front but that he could find no evidence of such a shot hitting the President. He added that the acceleration of the car may have caused the President's head to be thrown back.

Epstein said the Garrison investigation might cause Congress to begin a new study of the issue, but that he would prefer to see the case given to three fed-

In response to a question about the bullet found on the floor of the hospital where Kennedy was taken, Epstein said the bullet could not possibly have been the one which hit both Kennedy and Gov. Connally. He said the bullet found was intact but the one that hit the President left lead fragments.

Popkin Replaces Lane As Speaker

Richard Popkin, former University philosophy professor and author of "The Second Oswald," will speak this afternoon in place of Mark Lane in the Warren Commission Symposium.

Epstein said he thought the bullet found in the hospital may have hit only Kennedy and have fallen from his stretcher.

Popkin will speak at 4 p.m. in the Union Main Lounge. Tickets originally sold for Lane's lecture will be honored.

Another questioner asked about rumors that Jack Ruby, Oswald's killer, and several Dallas policemen met in Ruby's bar before the assassination. Epstein said original evidence substantiating this rumor had since been completely dispelled.

Lasch, now a professor of history at Northwestern University, will moderate the program. Questions from the audience will be answered following the program.

Epstein discounted the fact that 58 witnesses stated they heard a shot from a knoll in front of the President's car. He said "the effect of an echo and mass hysteria could account for these people's impression." He reemphasized the fact that the front of the President's body showed no sign of a bullet wound.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorneys for Adam Clayton Powell filed suit in U.S. District Court Wednesday in an effort to regain the ousted Harlem Democrat's seat in Congress. They charged that the House action last week to exclude Powell violated his constitutional rights and discriminated against him because he is a Negro.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A state judge indicated Wednesday Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison may have to produce his unnamed "confidential informant" at a preliminary hearing next Tuesday for Clay L. Shaw, who was booked on a charge of conspiracy in the Kennedy assassination. "It is my inclination now that the identity of the informant will have to be disclosed at the hearing," Criminal Dist. Judge Bernard Bagert said at the conclusion of a hearing in which he refused to dismiss the case for lack of jurisdiction.

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers union chieftains Wednesday declared an administrator in charge of a rebellious Ohio local, but the local's membership flouted the order and voted to strike a key General Motors parts plant.

ATHENS (AP) — The Ohio University faculty and executive committee called meetings Wednesday as the school prepared for a possible shut-down during a strike by non-academic employees. Pres. Vernon R. Alden said he would meet with the committee and faculty members before broadcasting a report to students and appealing for an end to the 4-day old strike.

The revolt against the UAW's high command — including President Walter P. Reuther — followed by 16 days a similar strike that led to a crippling of GM auto production across the nation with more than 200,000 layoffs in 86 plants. GM said the layoffs were necessary because of parts shortages.

1st Major Red Attacks Made On U.S. In Delta

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong in the Mekong delta killed 6 Americans, wounded 25 and perhaps captured 1, Wednesday, in attacks on two camps of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division.

when most of the men were asleep. Two were killed and 23 wounded at that camp, a mile-square base built up among soggy paddy fields with silt dredged from the river.

The division is getting set to challenge the Viet Cong's 20-year grip on the populous delta rice bowl.

Two hours later the guerrillas struck with mortars and small-arms fire at American infantrymen and South Vietnamese troops sharing outpost duty at Rach Kien.

The guerrillas, who prefer to operate at night, struck both camps before dawn. They faded away in the darkness under counterfire from American artillery and helicopter gunships. Their losses, if any, were undetermined.

A U.S. spokesman said four Americans had been killed at Rach Kien, two wounded and one missing. A Vietnamese spokesman, without disclosing precise figures, said casualties among the 60 or so government soldiers in the battle were heavy.

Camps In Delta The targets in these first major attacks against the U.S. newcomers were the Dong Tam camp, on the My Tho River, 40 miles southwest of Saigon, and the Rach Kien outpost, 18 miles southwest of Saigon.

Other Action Reported Briefing officers, in reporting on developments elsewhere, said contact had slackened between U.S. Marines and mortar-backed North Vietnamese regulars below the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam. A spokesman said there was no significant contact Wednesday.

Eighty mortar shells rained on the Dong Tam camp. Part of the 9th Division moved to this camp in January as the first American ground force assigned permanently to help South Vietnamese troops break the long stalemate in the delta.

A delayed account of clashes over the last three days, however, disclosed some previously unreported Marine casualties — 9 killed and 19 wounded. The account included a battle between Marines and 200 or more Communists who hit the U.S. troops Monday and maintained scattered contact over the next 24 hours.

Krauts, japs and charlies

Several months ago an Iowan reviewer referred to a native of Japan as a "Jap." A reader then wrote a letter to the editor strongly criticizing the use of the term.

Most people, we suspect would agree with the writer; the term is one that is commonly used only when referring to the Japanese with a derogatory intent, with the belief that calling someone a "Jap" is to insult him. People don't think much of someone who would use the term today. To use it in an argument, they would say, is to use an emotional appeal, rather than a logical appeal. And we certainly agree.

But there was a time, however, when the term "Jap" was readily acceptable to Americans. This was during the war, when Americans could justify use of the term because they were convinced that the Japanese were less than human. Americans granted human status to the Japanese after the war, and with this concession, dropped the word "Jap." Now "Jap" is a dirty word. It is wrong to use it.

Enemy Vietnamese, however, are being denied any human status by the American people. It is all right to use "cong" or "charlies" without being impolite or unfair simply because the people we are fighting don't deserve fairness or courtesy.

But the argument — regardless of one's opinion of the National Liberation Front — is still the same; one is making an emotional appeal by using these terms rather than a logical appeal.

If there are logical arguments for fighting the NLF or the North Vietnamese, we ought to use those, and abandon the fallacious emotional appeals that so much of the news on the war is loaded with.

And if there are no other means with which we can justify the war other than such emotional arguments, then let's pull out now.

Freedom camps

When U.S. officials announced the plans for Operation Cedar Falls, they said that residents of the area would be relocated in "camps," rather than risk civilian injuries in the Mekong Delta.

Mostly women and children were put in the camps; the men were presumably all fighting for the National Liberation Front. The refugees did not choose to go to the camps, but were forced to move. And now more than 2,000 of the less than 6,000 originally put in the camp have fled from it. The new homes and different land that the Americans had offered them were rejected; they turned down "a new life free from Viet Cong oppression."

It appears that stricter action against the peasants may be necessary to insure that they remain in the camps long enough to appreciate all the benefits that American freedom and Democracy have to offer them.

Powell won't forget the big spenders

The House of Representatives will probably want to drop the issue of congressmen's spending practices when Adam Clayton Powell gets re-elected to the seat he has been ousted from. But it is unlikely that Powell will let them.

Powell's flagrant misuse of funds has thoroughly disgusted his fellow congressmen and a good many Americans, as it well should. So to set the revenge seeking consciences of Americans at ease, the House has seen fit to close the matter of ethical reform in Congress with Powell's punishment. With Powell no longer in Congress, the House can feel free of further threats of ethical reform.

Or so they think. But we suspect that Powell, even after he is re-elected to his former seat, will continue to disgust Americans with his misuse of funds until there is some true reform in Congress, not just token punishment of one disliked member.

Singing might have kept Adam housed

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — It has been said that the reason the House of Representatives treated Adam Clayton Powell so badly was because Powell refused to show any humility. How different everything would have been if the ex-congressman (at least for the moment) had thrown himself on the mercy of the House and asked forgiveness.

BUCHWALD

"Adam Clayton Powell, please step forward."
"Yassuh, boss."
"It has been charged that you have insulted this body of lawmakers."

"Ah'm a sinner. Amen."
"That you put your wife on your payroll although she did no work and received no checks."
"Ah did the taxpayers wrong. Lordy Lord."

"That you furthermore used an airline credit card for personal trips to Florida for yourself and your beautiful secretary and that you spent in excess of $40,000 of government money."

"Praised be the government and all its good works."
"Adam Clayton Powell, you have lived high on the hog for 20 years. Your absenteeism record is known to all of us, and your contempt of court citation in New York still hangs over your head."

"How could ah have done it after the white folks have been so good to me?"
"This House cannot allow anyone to violate its rules nor can it allow anyone to be guilty of unethical conduct, particularly if it gets in the newspapers."

"Ah have seen the light. May ah be struck down during a filibuster if ah sin once more."

"It isn't enough to say you're sorry, Adam. You must be made an example of or every congressman will be putting his wife on his payroll and taking his secretary to Bimini."

"Let me be punished; let the full force of this House crash down on my head; and then let me dwell in the House of Representatives forever and ever."

"Adam Clayton Powell, this body is impressed by your humility and we want to do everything we can to make your punishment as light as possible."

"Ah beg to differ with you, suh, but ah think ah should get the full treatment. What ah have done is unforgivable. If you show me mercy then ah will not feel ah have been forgiven. You must purge me of my guilt, for only then will ah be able to shave and look at mahself in the morning."

"What should we do with you, Adam?"
"Let me pick a bale of cotton, pick a bale a day."

"That would be too harsh."
"Ah could tote a barge and lift a bale and if ah got a li'l drunk ah could land in jail!"

"I don't think that would be constitutional."

"But you don't understand, suh. Mah heart is weary and ah'm sick of tryin'. Ah'm tired of livin' and 'feared of dyin'."

"Sing it, Adam."

"But ole man river, he just keeps rollin' along."
"As you can see, Adam, there isn't a dry eye in the House. We're going to let you take your seat, because we're a forgiving people in this body, and when we see a man as humble as you, we can only say 'go forth, brother, and sin no more.'"

"Thank you, boss. Ah'll jes go and take mah seat in the back."

Student reverses decision, won't take exam

To The Editor:

In the Tuesday morning, March 7, 1967 edition of "Des Moines Register" there was an article about Prof. Barnett's class ignoring the examination offered them by the Sociology and Anthropology Department in order that they be able to receive letter-grade credit for their coursework. I am the foreign exchange student on a Fulbright scholarship who was mentioned in the article as being the only person to sign up for the exam.

After much thought, however, I have decided to reverse my decision, and I would like to make public this decision not to take the exam. After going deeply into what Dr. Barnett is trying to do towards rousing the conscience of the people against the war, I have decided not to take advantage of my position as a foreign student if with it I am contributing in some way to support this war.

I have said to Dr. Barnett that this is his struggle, the struggle of all American people who realize the immorality of this war. But this is not true for me anymore. This is the struggle of all people who are concerned about mankind. The world would not have war if each of us were really concerned about humanity.

When I signed up for the exam I was looking to my own personal interests, but I have realized that these personal interests are in opposition to Dr. Barnett's position regarding the war. I agree with Dr. Barnett's basic ideas about the war, I am against this war and any kind of war because I believe that men should find out the way to live together in peace instead of destroying. I do not believe that man has the power of death or life over his equal.

Reader calls activities to help war 'collaboration'

To The Editor:

The chairman of the Vietnam Peace Committee, Peter Noerdlinger, recently said (D.I. Feb. 23), "his organization would do anything necessary to create public awareness of the true situation in Vietnam." What he means by that I don't know. It would seem that all of us, even those who express opposition to the war, have "grown accustomed to" the war. The mendacity and savagery of the war are daily apparent in the press but for this country as a whole it is "business as usual."

Professor Barnett, as a minority of one, has dared to call this what it is — collaboration. Collaboration of the same sort that German Universities in the thirties were guilty of. Mr. Noerdlinger (and crew) should rather say he will do "anything" that will not endanger his status quo. In point of fact he has not declared his intention of disassociating himself from the instrumentalities of the war that are with in his reach. He has not even ventured verbal support for one who is willing to act on what he believes.

Perhaps he has come to the conclusion that such actions as Dr. Barnett's are "adventuristic" or self defeating. He should take careful stock of his own activities as he continues to teach and grade in the University. In reality he assists in his own little way to "keep the trains rolling" to Vietnam. He acts as a collaborator in the war effort. His liberal mind which must always insist that "words speak louder than actions," will not admit just what might in reality be "necessary to create public awareness of the true situation in Vietnam."

German intellectuals were able to perpetuate such self-mystification until they were no longer able to either talk or act. How long will the American intellectuals last?

Reader finds poster situation 'deplorable'

To The Editor:

Campaigning has started here at the University, as anyone walking past the dormitories can witness.

I find it terribly distasteful to see campaign posters on every tree around the Quad. If one poster per tree isn't enough, several trees have three or four posters on them. Can not our Elections Committee regulate this eyesore on the campus? Or perhaps our candidates could use better judgment.

Coeds condemn poster thieves

To The Editor:

The party concerned: Sunday night marked the beginning of the campaign for students running in the campus elections. Many students had worked hard making posters — entailing considerable time, effort, and expense. Many of us, interested in the elections, volunteered to put up posters for the candidates of our choice in Currier Hall.

But, Holy Sneaking Politics — all of a sudden the posters are disappearing from the bulletin boards and private doors into waste baskets and paper chutes. And, lo and behold, the ones that have managed to escape total destruction by the Currier Phantom are defaced.

Currier Phantom, who in the hell do you think you are? We thought only college students lived in Currier. Apparently the age level has fallen to admit you — you two-year-old you.

Williams Is Unanimous All-Big 10

CHICAGO (AP) — Youth and scoring skill mark the 1967 All-Big 10 basketball team named by the Associated Press Wednesday.

Five schools shared the five first-team berths with Iowa's Sam Williams and Minnesota's Tom Kondla as unanimous choices of the 10-man voting board.

Williams, a 6-3 junior from Detroit, has already been given honorable mention on the Associated Press, United Press and Look magazine All-America teams.

Both Are Seniors

Iowa senior Gerry Jones, a forward, and Tom Chapman, a guard, were accorded honorable mention on the All-Big 10 team.

Also named to the first team were Jim Burns of Northwestern, Butch Joyner of Indiana and Bill Hosket of Ohio State.

Jim Dawson of Illinois missed the No. 1 unit by one first-team vote. He was joined on the second honor team by Chuck Nagle of Wisconsin, Craig Dill of Michigan and two Michigan State stars, Lee Lafayette and Matt Aitch.

Burns Only Senior

This year, Northwestern's Burns was the only senior on the all-star unit rounded out by four juniors. Last season's all-conference was composed entirely of seniors, including All-Americas Cazzie Russell of Michigan and Purdue's Dave Schellhase.

That this was the Big 10 season of the newcomer is reflected by the fact that only three players on the first two units were rated as highly as honorable mention last year.

These are Hosket and Burns on the first team and Dawson on the second team.

Kondla A Surprise

The lack of a super star also is underscored in the wide open team title race which goes down to Saturday's closing round with Indiana and Michigan State tied for first and runnerup Iowa having a chance for a championship tie.

Probably the league's most surprising star is 6-foot-7 Kondla of lowly Minnesota. Kondla came out of nowhere to wrest the scoring lead from Iowa's Williams in his 11th league game.

Kondla closed his season Monday with a 14-game average of 28.3, apparently locking up the scoring title. With one game left to play, Dawson is second with 25.2 and Williams third with 25.0.

2nd Team Listed

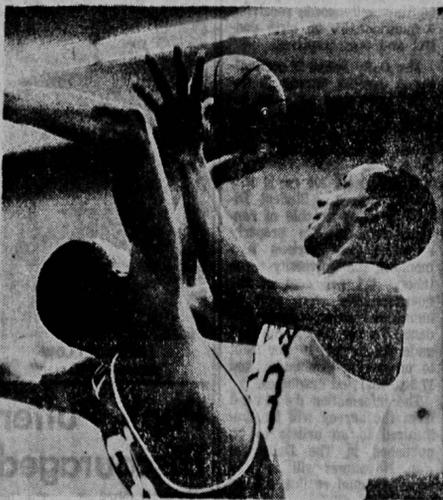

Hosket, also finished for the season, posted 22.8.

On the second all-star team, Nagle and Lafayette are sophomores, while 6-10 Dill, Aitch and Dawson are seniors.

Accorded honorable mention in addition to Jones and Chapman were: Verne Payne of Indiana; Joe Franklin of Wisconsin; Dave Scholz of Illinois; Henry Ebershoff of Purdue; Mike Weaver of Northwestern; Herman Gilliam of Purdue; and Ron Sepec of Ohio State.

PINCH-HIT TWICE—

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Joe Cronin, president of the American League, gave all 10 clubs in his circuit permission Wednesday to use one pinch-hitter twice in a game during the exhibition baseball schedule.

IOWA'S SAM WILLIAMS, named Wednesday to the All-Big 10 basketball team, shoots over Wisconsin center Jim Johnson in recent game at the Field House. Williams has also been given honorable mention on several All-America teams.

University Students Busy In Billiards Tournaments

GAIL E. ALLUMS, A2, Chicago, winner of the women's regional pocket billiards, gets some guiding advice from the two other tournament finalists. Herbert E. Mandell, A3, Elmhurst, N.Y., (left) won the men's three-cushion billiards and Jerry M. Peck, G, Schenectady, N.Y., placed third in the men's pocket billiards competition. The double elimination tournament for students was held Feb. 18 at the University of Minnesota Coffman Memorial Union.

By JON TAYLOR
Staff Writer

Mark Twain once said that proficiency in billiards is a sign of a misspent youth.

This image is slowly being erased. The recreational facilities of the Union and the services of the recreational director, Robert E. Froeschle, have made several contributions toward eliminating this image.

At a regional tournament sponsored by the Association of College Unions on Feb. 18, at the University of Minnesota, three Iowa students either won or placed in billiard competition.

Could Be Finalist

Gail E. Allums, A2, Chicago, winner of the women's regional pocket billiards title will probably represent Iowa in the National finals to be held April 20-22 at Oregon State University in Corvallis, Ore.

Froeschle said that Miss Allums had a very good chance of becoming one of the national finalists.

The national finalists are determined by the four top scores of the 12 regional tournaments. "At present, Gail is in second place of all the regions," Froeschle said.

There are four regions that haven't reported the results of their tournaments.

At Minnesota the women's competition played to 35 points in each match.

Jokingly, Miss Allums said that her matches were close. She won all of her matches: 35 to 2; 35 to 11 and 35 to 14.

"The competition wasn't good at all," Miss Allums said. "I'm used to playing pocket billiards with better players," she said.

"Here at Iowa I usually shoot with male students or even Mr. Froeschle. He has helped my game a lot. He adds a lot of constructive criticism. The better my competition is, the better I seem to play."

Miss Allums began playing pocket billiards a little more than a year ago. "I went to the Union on a date and we ended up playing billiards," she said.

More Nervous In Union
"I get more nervous playing for fun here in the Union than I did in the regional finals," she said. "At the tournament I saw my competition shoot. I only practiced once before I played my first match."

In the men's competition the story of Herbert E. Mandell, A3, Elmhurst, N.Y., first place finalist in the men's three-cushion billiards, is "straight from a book of fairy tales."

Mandell, who won fourth place in the University's competition, ended up as Iowa's representative in the regional tournament.

Of the three winners ahead of Mandell at Iowa, one didn't register for the second semester, one had an eye infection and one was in St. Louis at the time of the tournament. The responsibility fell to Mandell.

Although Mandell won the three-cushion billiards tournament, he is out of the national finals. Some of the scores that have been reported are higher than his.

Practiced Little
Mandell said, "I only practiced once in a month before I went up there. However, I had played some pocket billiards. I wasn't expecting to go. With a little practice, I might have done better in the over-all scoring."

Jerry M. Peck, G, Schenectady, N.Y., won third place in the men's pocket billiards competition.

"I'm a Sunday billiards player," Peck said. "For me pool is a good hobby, nothing more."

Peck said, "Of all the campuses I've been on, Iowa has the most interest in billiards."

"You can't refer to billiards in the old 'pool-hall' connotation anymore. All over the country pool seems to be undergoing a transition. There is a tremendous influx of billiard parlors with carpeting and piped-in music around my home town," he said.

Froeschle Helps
"I think it's because of the efforts of men like Mr. Froeschle that this bad connotation is disappearing. Mr. Froeschle is an excellent player, and he knows the game well. He is a great help to us in competition," Peck said.

Froeschle will be the Tournament Director for the Billiard Congress of America (BCA) Tournament to be held in St. Louis this summer. He is also rules consultant for the NBA.

The double elimination tournament for the students, held at Minneapolis, included 14 schools besides Iowa.

There were 16 men in the men's pocket billiards competition, 6 men in the three-cushion billiards and 4 women in the women's pockets.

Football Draft For Pros Set This Tuesday

NEW YORK (AP) — The American and National Football Leagues will hold their first combined player draft in New York Tuesday under a compromise plan which prohibits the selection of college red-shirted players. Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the NFL, said in the future a player who had collegiate eligibility remaining could be chosen by a pro team until five seasons of football had elapsed since he first entered a recognized college.

In recent years NFL teams drafted red-shirts in the regular draft while AFL teams held a special draft for them. A red-shirt is a player who still has college eligibility left after the class in which he entered college has been there four years.

Plan Is Compromise
The new plan, an obvious compromise to the two factions in the newly merged pro setup, could be a boon to college football, several years ago, George Sauer Jr. was red-shirted by the University of Texas but was chosen by the New York Jets as a junior.

Sauer signed with the AFL club before the start of his senior year and has become a star with the professionals. During the off season he is working on an advance degree in mathematics at Texas.

Rozelle said that 17 rounds of the draft would be held here starting Tuesday and that the picking might last two or three days. In all an estimated 445 players would be chosen including 30 extra picks by New Orleans, newest team in the NFL. Sixteen NFL and nine AFL teams will select.

The first pick will go to the Baltimore Colts, who obtained the right in the recent trade that sent their reserve quarterback Gary Cuozzo to the New Orleans Saints. The second pick originally was held by the New York Giants but was traded to the Minnesota Vikings Tuesday as a part of the package that brought quarterback Fran Tarkenton to the NFL's cellar club.

No Indication Made
Neither the Colts nor the Vikings have indicated whom they might select.

Here's how the club's will pick in the first round, with only minor variations in the remaining 16 rounds:

1. New Orleans (traded to Baltimore).
2. New York Giants (traded to Minnesota).
3. Atlanta.
4. Miami.
5. Houston.
6. Denver.
7. Detroit.
8. Minnesota.
9. Pittsburgh (traded to Green Bay).
10. Chicago.
11. San Francisco.
12. New York Jets.
13. Washington.
14. San Diego.
15. Los Angeles.
16. St. Louis.
17. Oakland.
18. Cleveland.
19. Philadelphia.
20. Baltimore.
21. Boston.
22. Buffalo.
23. Dallas (traded to Houston).
24. Kansas City.
25. Green Bay.
26. New Orleans (extra choice).

AP Announces All-Americans In Small Colleges

NEW YORK (AP) — Walt Frazier, the outstanding small-college player of the season, is ready to lead the Southern Illinois Salukis against St. Peter's of New Jersey Thursday night in the first round of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden. Frazier, a 6-foot-3 junior whose all-around play made the Salukis known as the giant-killers, headed the 1967 college basketball Little All-America announced Wednesday by The Associated Press.

Four seniors — Earl Monroe of Winston-Salem State, Sam Smith of Kentucky Wesleyan, Phil Jackson of North Dakota and Mel Cox of Central Washington — were named on the first team with Frazier in the voting by 103 sports writers and broadcasters.

Salukis Champs Of Final Poll

Cager's Future Still Uncertain

NEW YORK (AP) — The basketball future of Dave Stallworth, 25-year-old forward of the New York Knickerbockers, will not be known for at least three or four days.

A Knicks spokesman said Wednesday that Stallworth was undergoing a series of tests by two heart specialists.

Dr. Kazuo Yanagisawa, team physician said Stallworth suffered a posterior coronary, a heart attack, last Saturday in Fresno, Calif.

Hawk Trackmen To Compete In NCAA Meet At Detroit

Iowa's indoor track team will compete in three events in the NCAA meet Friday and Saturday in Detroit.

Larry Wiecezorek, winner of the Big 10 indoor mile last Saturday in a record meet time of 4:05.3, will be after a national title this weekend. However, his competition includes Jim Ryun of Kansas, who holds the world record in the event.

Another Hawkeye competing in this weekend is Mike Mondane in the 400. Mike won the event in the conference championships in 1969, his best time this year.

Iowa's mile relay of Fred Ferree, Carl Frazier, Mondane and Jon Reimer will also compete. It won the Big 10 in a record time of 3:13.1. The old mark was set by Iowa's 1963 relay team.

On Friday night, preliminaries will be held in the mile and mile relay and finals in the 400. The finals Saturday of the mile (4:05 p.m.) and the mile relay (5:10 p.m.) will be televised by ABC.

Police Aided Start Of Clay's Career

This is the first of a series of articles about Cassius Clay, the world's heavyweight boxing champion. Staff writer Rick Garr, like Clay, is a native of Louisville, Ky. He has avidly followed Clay's career for several years. — Ed.)

By RICK GARR
Staff Writer

The 12-year-old colored youth stood weeping with his face in his hands. Police man Joe Martin, who was patrolling Columbia Gym that night in Louisville, approached the youth and asked what was the matter.

"Somebody stole my new bike," he blurted out, "And I'm going to find out who did it and bust him in the nose."

Martin looked at the youth and smiled. "Do you know how to fight?" he asked.

"Not too much," he said. "Well, if you'd like to learn the Police Department is sponsoring a clinic to teach boxing to young fellas like you. Wanta join?" Martin asked.

The youth accepted the offer and the career of Cassius Marcellus Clay (Muhammad Ali, if you wish) was begun.

Under the watchful eye of Martin and other policemen, young Clay began to learn the use of his hands; the jab, the right cross, skipping rope, conditioning, and all the other fine points of the art of fisticuffs.

Six weeks later Cassius Clay stepped into the ropes of misty old Columbia Gym for his first fight, a split decision over another 12-year-old, a white boy.

Over a period of six years his skills gradually matured with his slender frame, and by the end of his amateur career he amassed an impressive record of 100 wins and 8 defeats, six of the losses to left-handed boys.

Until the age of 16, Cassius was almost "skinny." He had spindly legs, wiry arms, but he always had the quickest pair of hands in the Mayor's Youth Program boxing clinic. Old timers thought he looked like a thin Sugar Ray Robinson, one of the quickest fighters to put on gloves.

'Only Talked Of Money'
Louisville Cadillac dealers became aware of a strange little brown face peering into the showroom windows at the shiny cars inside. The lure of wealth had a strong attraction to the young man from the slums of the West End.

"All Cassius talked about was money — turning pro," said Martin. "At first, I didn't encourage him. A year later, though, you could see that the little smart aleck had a lot of potential."

Joe Martin's son, Joe Jr., also participated in the boxing program, and being the same age as Cassius, the two were always being matched for the weekly main event on local television in Louisville. A southpaw, young Martin would sneak in long leads with that quick right of his, and Cassius developed a habit of reacting to this lead that has followed him throughout his career.

This habit was leaning back his head when a punch was thrown, thus exposing himself to wide open body punches. Various coaches, managers and trainers have tried to correct this habit, but Clay continues to use it. Luckily for him it has never cost him a bout.

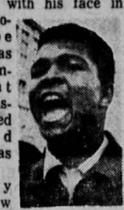

Practiced Before Mirror
To develop his strong legs,

Cassius skipped rope for hours. He worked endless hours on the heavy punching bag to strengthen his arms. And to quicken his timing and reflexes, he worked out before a mirror, sparring with his own darting image.

The only major scare of his amateur career happened when he was 15. One doctor at a pre-fight examination said he heard a heart murmur and denied Cassius permission to be in the bout.

But nothing came of the matter. Cassius took a four-month vacation from training and was pronounced fit to continue his boxing.

To gain experience in the ring, Cassius skirted the country participating in amateur bouts, disposing opponents at will. But the real test was coming up: the Golden Gloves.

University Symphony Band Returns

The 100-member University Symphony Band returned Wednesday by bus following a four-day concert tour of seven Iowa towns.

Under the direction of Frederick C. Ebbs, the group has presented concerts in Harlan, Atlantic, Jefferson, Sioux City, Le Mars, Aurelia, and Humboldt since Sunday.

Featured in the tour program, which included marches as well as symphonic music, were soloists Stephen Wright, A3, Burlington and John Cryder, A4, Plainfield, Ill.

This year's trip is the band's 26th tour of Midwestern cities. Last spring the group spent three months on a concert tour of seven European countries and Russia, under sponsorship of the U.S. Department of State.

- 1. Student Life
 - Student conduct should comply to existing federal, state, and local laws, but should not be further infringed upon by University regulations without the consent of the Student Senate.
 - The present Committee on Student Life should be abolished, with its functions and authority being assumed by the Student Senate.
 - Ultimate judicial authority over student misconduct shall be vested in the Committee on Student Conduct, as proposed by the ad hoc committee on the Reorganization of University Judicial Structure.

- The basic rights of students as citizens should be practiced and protected by student government.
- Social functions, including open house visitation, by student groups not financed by student fees may be held at the discretion of these groups, with the governing body of the group having jurisdiction to establish and enforce rules pertaining to the function. Only notification of the event will be forwarded to the Office of Student Affairs.
- Closing hours for freshmen and sophomore women should continue as long as it is the wish of those affected. Extended hours should apply whenever class is not in session, i.e. during examination, registration, and vacation periods. Privileged hours should be extended to all women for the Homecoming Weekend.
- Student activities allocations funded from University fees should be substantially raised to allow the creation and extension of these programs. Existing auditing procedures and services through the Auditor of Student Activities should be continued.
- Distribution of materials by student groups should be free, but approval to display materials on University property must be obtained from the Director of Space Assignment.
- There should be an establishment of a Student Legal Aid Service, formed in cooperation with the Law School, to provide students with free legal advice.

- There will be a creation of a Presidential Cabinet, consisting of students from all arenas of University life, to discuss student problems and suggest solutions which the president will act upon through Student Senate.

and least integrated one with student participation.

- University Housing Committee — Balanced representation is required on this committee. As it stands now, there is no representation from the men's dormitories.
- Village Housing — The dormitories are completely inadequate as student housing. They are dingy, have narrow hallways, and lack any personality. A solution to this is village housing, whereby clusters of houses of about sixty people apiece are built, instead of high-rise, prison-like dorms we now have and have planned for the future.
- Graduate Dormitories — Until the village housing complex can be perfected, graduate dorms or dorms for those over twenty-one should be established. South Quad for the men and a part of Currier for the women could be used. The essence of this proposal would be that these students would set their own policies as to visitation hours, liquor, and closing hours.
- Semester Contracts — It has been recommended that we have semester dorm contracts by the Student Senate. Now is the time for action in this area. Students would be allowed to buy out the remainder of their contracts at the semester for a set fee, or the contracts would be at a premium for one semester and at a lower price the following semester. There are too many unforeseen circumstances to require an unbreakable contract from June to June.
- Dormitory Grievance Councils — There is now as much bureaucracy involved in presenting a dormitory complaint to the administration that it usually takes over a semester before any action is administered. These councils, composed mostly of students, would eliminate all of the middle men and would be directly responsible to the administration.
- Student Relationships With The Administration: This requires a firm and positive stand but not one of inflexibility. If we assume an inflexible position, the natural reaction will be to do the opposite. Our position will be one of concreteness, unified with the goals and desires of the students.
- Lobbying Committee — We presently have a representative for this purpose in the Iowa College Council. No we must expand into action through the use of Iowa students to promote our causes and issues with the people of Iowa City and the representatives of our state legislature.
- The Role of the University in Student Life — These University regulations that establish unnecessary requirements upon the students will be vigorously attacked when the students express their dislike. The impetus must come from the students and equally must be pursued by their elected student government. Anything less on either part is unacceptable.

Wolfe-Lemons

Student government has been approaching the administration through the back door. It is time for student government to represent the students on issues as they originally conceive and desire them. Every compromise that need be worked out should follow the original presentation, not precede it. We propose to accomplish this through a student government based on action and change, and through implementation of the following areas of our platform.

1. Student Senate: As the forum of student ideas, its senators must be oriented towards legislative procedures and an empathic view of student needs. This can be accomplished by a retreat organized and activated by the Director of Student Activities during the Spring, shortly after the new Senate convenes.

Activities Board — Being the co-ordinator of student activities run by students, its inception and implementation must represent all interest groups of the student body.

Ticket Proposal — It is an issue of prime concern to the majority of the students, thus it must be decided upon by referendum. The main issue is not one of feasibility, but one of what students actually want.

Late Hours — Freshman girls should be allowed one late night a month and sophomore girls two a month. Parental consent is unnecessary, as it is implied by the mere fact that the student is mature enough in her parent's eyes to leave home.

Education for Education's Sake — If a student wishes to audit a course in the Liberal Arts College, then this is his option. Present policy prohibits this. Likewise for those courses outside of a student's major and core requirements, he should have the opportunity to receive his credit on a pass-fail basis.

Imaginative Parking Solution — This can be accomplished without compromising the student needs. Storage lots for student cars are apropos to this. The main point is to light and police these lots and do the same for those now used by students. Without this protection, this plan would be incomplete.

HOUSING: This is an area that concerns all students. But it is also the most unpublicized

Weingrad-Derden

As members of the Hawkeye Student Party we believe student government should be the effective representative of the student body. Student government should act free of University administrative control, not merely as an appendage of the administration. It should serve as a united student voice in its dealing with the administration, faculty and State of Iowa. Student government must guard all students' rights as University students as well as citizens.

As the Hawkeye Student Party we pledge ourselves towards these ends through the accomplishment of the following platform:

1. The Immediate Attainment Of The Following:
Free admittance to all university athletic events.

Unrestricted distribution of leaflets on campus.

Elimination of hours for coeds. Open dormitories (visitation).

2. The Initiation Of Long-Range Plans To Benefit Students:
Establishment of student cooperative bookstore.

Organization of a "Student Better Business Bureau" to handle complaints about the downtown businesses.

Student control of the Iowa Memorial Union.

3. Improvement Of Student

A Union Board Thieves Market?

Even though it's a Thieves Market my friend, you can't steal culture. But you can borrow it.

Borrow a painting or a sculpture. UB Art Lending and Thieves Market committee lends student and professional art works at criminally low rates.

Borrow an evening of culture. UB Exhibits committee plans interesting exhibitions with topics like "The Children's Oriental Art Show."

Borrow a chance to create your own culture. UB Artist at Work committee makes arrangements for students to paint, sculpt or use the potter's wheel under the observation of instructors.

It doesn't matter if you're an art major, enthusiast or just a curious observer (preferably without a gun), you can appreciate the many quality art programs sponsored by the Union Board Art Area.

Med Student Wins $1,500 Fellowship

JAMES D. MATTHIAS, M.D.

JAMES D. MATTHIAS, M.D.
Clarksville, will be assisting in a mission hospital for three and a half months under a foreign fellowship.

A $1,500 fellowship will provide an opportunity for James D. Matthias, M.D., Clarksville, to assist missionary physicians in a hospital on the tropical South Pacific island of New Guinea.

The stipend and educational opportunity were made possible by a Smith, Kline & French Laboratories Foreign Fellowship from the Association of American Medical Colleges. The fellowships are supported by a grant from the Philadelphia prescription drug firm.

Yagum Hospital, where Matthias will be working under the supervision of Dr. T. G. Braun, is a Lutheran mission hospital located eight miles from Madang, New Guinea. The 400-bed hospital has about 4,000 admissions and some 6,200 out-patients annually. About 1,000 surgical operations are performed each year.

Matthias will leave March 30 for the mission, where he will spend three and a half months taking part in nearly all the activities of the hospital, including admissions, assisting in surgery and caring for assigned patients.

Hospital Trains Natives
The hospital is also used to train New Guinean students to serve the medical needs of their own people in villages and mission centers.

The medical staff consists of four U.S. physicians, three laboratory technicians, two nurses engaged in teaching, one X-ray technician, a clinic surgery supervisor, a pharmacist and eight registered nurses, as well as 14 nursing graduates from the hospital's training program.

Located in a population center of some 10,000 people, the mission hospital treats patients brought in by ships and planes from the entire northeastern segment of the territory in addition to serving a Chinese community and government officials living nearby.

New Guinea has not yet been fully explored. It is still possible to find people living in a Stone Age culture and also practicing cannibalism. There are few cities and towns on the island. Most of the people live in villages located in remote valleys or on mountain ridges.

The mission is located in the northeastern part of the island, a former German colony now administered by Australia under trusteeship of the United Nations.

Matthias, a graduate of Wartburg College in Waverly, is the fourth student from the University College of Medicine to receive such a fellowship. He is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Paul C. Matthias, Clarksville.

Grad Students Display Works In Pictures

Three University graduate students are exhibiting their work in creative photography in the Upper Gallery of the Art Building. The three students are Lawrence P. Feldstein, G. White Plains, N.Y.; Douglas D. Prince, G. Des Moines; and Sheri L. Stern, G. Milwaukee.

It was originally displayed at Purdue University by the Department of Creative Arts throughout December and is composed of graduate students' works from the University of California at Los Angeles, the Institute of Design at the Illinois Institute of Technology, and Indiana University, as well as the University.

Henry H. Smith, professor of creative photography at Indiana University, has written an article titled "Photography at College." In it he said, "The academic world has permitted photography to join the courses of study at major colleges and universities in the United States."

Playwrights Set Dates For 'Max-Henry-Thad'

A cluttered boys' apartment that looks as if the Fifth Army had just marched through it forms the scene for Iowa Playwrights' one-act production of "Max - Henry - Thad" by James Dunlavy.

The play will be presented at 7:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. Saturday, and 8 p.m. Sunday at Wesley House Auditorium. Tickets are available at the door for 50 cents.

Three roommates and their landlady, who demands her rent to be paid in her bedroom, and not with money, form the characters and plot of the play.

The roommates are Max, Henry and Thad. Fan is their slightly out-of-the-ordinary landlady, played by Kathy Dunn, A2, Elk Grove Village, Ill.

Reactions Differ
Each roommate's personality is one that represents a different way of reacting to the situation they are given by the landlady. Max, played by Bruce Wheaton, A2, Cedar Falls, is very duty-oriented and cultivates common sense. On the other hand, Henry, played by John Kelly, G. Des Moines, is a rather passive fellow who just does not want to cause any trouble. Michael Coffeen, A2, Decorah, portrays Thad, a true intellectual.

David Smit, G. Prairie Village, Kans., is directing the performance.

James Dunlavy, a graduate student in speech and drama last semester, wrote his play while enrolled here. Other playwrights, who have contributed plays to the Iowa Playwrights' Association, include Denver Sasser, who wrote "The Dressing Table," produced last November, and Ransom Jeffery, G. Denton, Tex., author of "This Situation."

Attempt Fails
Producers Eric Nightingale, G. Old Greenwich, Conn. and William Lehr, G. St. Louis, Mo. described "This Situation" as a play dealing with the Negro role in society today. They attempted to produce it last January, but were unable to acquire actors to play the roles.

Iowa Playwrights' Association exists to enable playwrights to present their plays before a live audience. It also offers experience for amateur actors. Nightingale said that the association plans to produce more plays in the very near future and that he wanted to give special thanks to the Rev. George Paterson and Wesley Foundation for the use of their auditorium.

TWO TO EXCHANGE CUPS—
DAMASCUS — North Vietnam has given Syria what the government described as a metal cup made of the wreckage of U.S. planes shot down in Vietnam. The announcement said Syrian Culture Minister Zuhair Akkad in turn "expressed the hope to make a similar gift to Vietnam . . . a cup made of the wreckage of Israeli planes which would be shot down in the forthcoming Palestine liberation war."

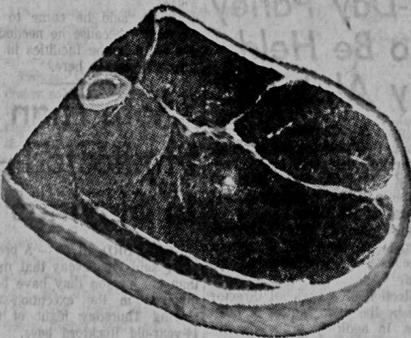

Local Group To See Film About China

A native of New Zealand who now makes her home in Hollywood will present a program on China in the 1966-67 Iowa Mountaineers Film-Lecture series at 8:30 p.m. Sunday in Macbride Auditorium.

Miss Bathie Stuart, who made her film on China during the summer of 1965 while on a tour of the country with a Canadian Party of nine, will be presenting an Iowa Mountaineers lecture for the first time. She has appeared before more than 1,000 audiences in the United States and other countries.

Miss Stuart presented her first film-lecture in America in 1948 and now has seven travelogues. Her film on China features five cities, but also shows much of the Chinese countryside. Her sequences of Canton include pictures of varied forms of transportation on the Pearl River, the city's many gardens and parks, and an ivory factory.

From Hangechow, she presents pictures of Buddhist temples, cotton plantations and a silk factory. Shanghai scenes include groups of workers shadowboxing for exercise, the manufacturing of a doll and other factory sequences. From Soochow, she shows workers in an embroidery center making decorative screens. Peking scenes include the city's Museum of Chinese History, emperor's palace, the Ming tombs and the Great Wall of China.

Grad's Musical Work To Be Premiered Here

A musical story of the Passion, composed by Edwin Penhorwood, G. Toledo, Ohio, will be premiered at the 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. Sunday services at the First Presbyterian Church, 26 E. Market St.

Singing the new "Passion According to St. Mark" will be the church's adult choir, with Robert Eckert, assistant professor of music, taking the part of the Evangelist. There will be full orchestral accompaniment.

Speaking of his composition, Penhorwood, who regularly serves as organist at the First Presbyterian Church, said, "The greatest problem confronting a composer attempting to write a contemporary setting for the Passion is deciding how to bridge the gap between the 'avant-garde,' on the one hand, and the 'conservative-traditionalism,' on the other, and yet satisfy the composer, performer and listener and convey the vital message of the Gospel."

Penhorwood said that he had tried to solve the problem by using the traditional form of the Passion, a new and dramatic translation of the Scripture and a personal musical style which blends the traditional with the contemporary.

The Evangelist's part, he said, is set in a style similar to Gregorian Chant. This enables the Evangelist to almost "speak" his part. The choruses and roles of Jesus, Pilate and Peter have been made as dramatic.

2 Traveling Scholars Here — Intensified Study Program —

By SANDY HANSCH Staff Writer

Two graduate students from other universities are attending the University this semester as participants in the Committee on Institutional Cooperation (CIC), an intensified graduate study program.

Julian Frankenburg from the University of Illinois and Fred Altman from the University of Michigan are doing research for their Ph.D.'s in paleobotany and psychology, respectively. Paleobotany is a study based on fossil remains.

The CIC was set up to expand opportunities in higher education, especially in highly specialized fields.

The main purpose of the CIC is to allow capable graduate students to take advantage of the special resources found on other campuses.

Such resources may include special courses, research opportunities, unique laboratories, or unusual library collections.

Need Arises

Occasionally the need comes up in the advanced student program for an exchange of resources. A. H. Scaff, associate dean of the Graduate College, said recently, "In this way each institution is spared the cost of supplying the necessary equipment and faculty, he said.

To become a CIC Traveling

Scholar the graduate student must first be recommended by his adviser. The adviser then contacts the appropriate faculty member at the host institution.

After the agreements have been made by the advisers, both graduate deans are informed. They have the authority to approve or disapprove the arrangement.

The student will be registered with his home university and his fees will be collected and kept by them. All credit for courses taken will be recorded at the home university.

CIC Traveling Scholars will normally be limited to one semester or two quarters at a guest school.

As CIC Traveling Scholars, Frankenburg and Altman, will be working and studying at the University during this semester.

Studies Fossils

Frankenburg is working with Donald A. Eggert, assistant professor of botany, studying the fossil of the lycopsida, which is a type of plant.

"I came to Iowa because of Dr. Eggert. He is what I consider the world authority on lycopsids," said Frankenburg.

"This program also gives a perspective on different institutions to a person and adds to his practical experience," he said.

Frankenburg will not spend the entire semester at the Univer-with rats. He is teaching them to hold a bar in a particular position for a specific amount of time.

After the rat has successfully accomplished the task of holding the bar in place, he is automatically rewarded with sugar water.

Altman said he came to the University because he needed to use some of the facilities in the computer center here.

3-Day Parley To Be Held By Alpha Xi

Alpha Xi Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional business fraternity, will host the fraternity's North-Central Regional Conference Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at the Union.

One hundred fifty delegates from seven Iowa and Minnesota colleges and universities will attend.

Election of a regional director will be the main matter of business. In addition, proposals will be prepared for the fraternity's 1968 national convention, and methods of improving chapter efficiency will be discussed.

William F. Weinheimer, national president of Alpha Kappa Psi, will address the delegates at a Saturday evening banquet in the Amara Colonies.

Founded in 1904, Alpha Kappa Psi is the nation's oldest professional business fraternity. The University chapter, Alpha Xi, was founded in 1924 and has a current membership of 70.

'More Than 1' Implicated In Slayings

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — A prosecutor said Wednesday that more than one person may have been involved in the execution-style slaying Thursday night of two 14-year-old Rockford boys.

William R. Nash, Winnebago County state's attorney, indicated during a preliminary hearing for John W. Williams Jr., who has been charged with murdering the boys, that other persons were being sought.

"We can speculate that there were other persons involved, and that they might not have realized that this incident would go as far as it did," Nash told Circuit Judge John Ghent. "Perhaps these people were seated in a car and heard the shots."

Nash also told the court, "Obviously there is a missing weapon."

Williams, son of a former Winnebago County deputy sheriff, was ordered held to the grand jury without bond.

Drake Lifts Ban On 200 Coeds

DES MOINES (AP) — Drake University lifted a ban Wednesday which had kept about 200 coeds in their dormitory for two nights.

The Student Judiciary Board imposed the ban on girls in Herriot Student Residence Hall after somebody stole a box Sunday night containing cards which the coeds sign when leaving and returning to the dormitory at night.

Monday and Tuesday nights the girls were forbidden to leave the dormitory from 7 p.m. until 7 a.m.

Nobody ever did return the missing box.

Russian Treaty Under Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate approval of a new consular treaty with Russia would demonstrate the fallacy of giving the Senate exclusive treaty ratification power, Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) said Wednesday.

"The House of Representatives as presently constituted," Gross said, "would never approve this treaty — this sellout to the Communists — under the existing international situation."

Gross said the treaty, now pending in the Senate, would "be used as the hinge on which to swing open the door" for East-West trade at urging of international bankers.

'Miranda' Affects City Court But Not Police

MIRANDA WARNING

1. You have the right to remain silent.
2. Anything you say can and will be used against you in a court of law.
3. You have the right to talk to a lawyer and have him present with you while you are being questioned.
4. If you cannot afford to hire a lawyer, one will be appointed to represent you before any questioning, if you wish one.

WAIVER

After the warning and in order to secure a waiver, the following questions should be asked and an affirmative reply secured to each question:

1. Do you understand each of these rights I have explained to you?
2. Having these rights in mind, do you wish to talk to us now?

BERLINER & MCGINNIS NEVADA CITY, CALIFORNIA

IOWA CITY police officers are now carrying Miranda police cards. Police Chief John Ruppert said the card had become a standard piece of equipment along with the officer's badge and gun.

Jansen Attacks Court Decision

By TOM MATTAUSCH Staff Writer

The Supreme Court Miranda Decision places an extra burden of proof on police officers while it sacrifices the rights of society, according to Johnson County officials.

Johnson County Attorney Robert Jansen said, "The courts have leaned over backwards to protect individual rights against the collective rights of society."

The federal decision gave suspected criminals these basic rights: (1) the right to remain silent (2) the right to know that their statements can and will be used against them and (3) the right to have an attorney present.

According to Jansen, this places an extra burden on police in cases of homicide, burglaries and narcotics cases where there are no witnesses present.

"If a suspect waives these rights," said Jansen, "the police must definitely prove that he was informed of his rights."

Johnson County Sheriff Maynard Schneider has avoided the problem by not interrogating any suspect until an attorney is present.

"We don't attempt to talk to the prisoners," he said, "but, we do attempt to get them to sign a confession."

Management's slate of 12 candidates for the board of directors defeated a ticket headed by Philip J. Levin, New Jersey land developer, a director and MGM's largest single stockholder.

It was a victory for Robert H. O'Brien, 62, MGM president whose direction of the company had been disputed by Levin.

O'Brien's candidates received votes of approximately 2,572,000 shares. The Levin slate received votes from 1,881,000 shares.

Steven J. Carey, 20, was arrested and charged by Highway Patrol officers on Dec. 2, south of North Liberty on old Highway 218.

PHIL FLEMING Staff Writer

The Miranda decision by the U.S. Supreme Court has had an effect in the operation of the Iowa City police court but not in the overall interrogation procedure used by the Iowa City police department.

The Miranda decision, issued June 13, 1966, involved the fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination and restricts police interrogation of an arrested suspect.

Police Court Judge Marion Neely said the decision has made the court more aware of the rights of a defendant. Attorneys are now appointed in every case where it is justified, Neely said.

The practical effect of the court decision has been the disposal of certain cases without having a jury trial, Neely said. Neely said there had been many cases where the evidence was not sufficient for prosecution and the case was disposed of at the police court level. In other incidents, Neely said, with proper counsel, the charge was reduced from a felony to a misdemeanor and a plea of guilty was entered.

Neely said the requirement of furnishing an attorney to a person unable to provide one does not apply to misdemeanor cases. He said, however, he informs a person appearing in court they have the privilege of entering a plea of guilty or not guilty.

Police Chief John Ruppert and Sgt. Donald A. Strand, assigned to the detective bureau, said the department used the same method of questioning suspects as before the court ruling. "Before the Miranda decision, we always informed an individual of his rights. Now, the only thing that has changed is to also inform a suspect of his right to have an attorney furnished," Strand said.

Police work is like a game, according to Strand. "There are certain rules we have to abide by and the Miranda decision is just another rule. It is a matter of getting along with the rules," Strand said.

Ruppert said the court ruling had resulted in more thorough investigations being completed before a suspect is questioned. The department doesn't always need a confession to take a person to court, Ruppert said.

Ruppert and Strand both agreed, although the decision had no overall effect, there were two areas of police interrogation which have changed. The first involves voluntary questioning.

The second concerns a suspect who is believed to be involved in several crimes.

"We can no longer request a person to volunteer information," Strand said. He said if a person volunteers information, the officer will advise him before hand of his rights.

Strand said the ruling has also imposed restrictions when police are convinced they are questioning a person who is involved in a series of crimes. If the suspect refuses to sign a waiver after police have informed him of his rights, then the questioning has come to an end, Strand said.

"If the suspect refuses to talk about one crime, it is impossible to question him concerning others," Strand said.

Refusal to be questioned also prevents police from clearing up records concerning past crimes, according to both officers. Before the ruling, Strand said, officers might solve a rash of break-ins or burglaries in an interrogation session. Now, however, if the person refuses to talk, the crime remains on our books, Strand said.

Strand said there was a certain point in questioning a suspect when an individual's constitutional rights were extremely important. "This point occurs when the questioning leaves the interrogation stage and enters the accusation stage. Just when this point is reached is hard to determine," Strand said.

The court decision has imposed another duty on police officers which presents an uneasy relationship. In warning an individual of his rights, we are acting in the capacity of an attorney, Strand said. "Why should we, as policemen, not trained as lawyers, be required to give suspects legal advice?" Strand said.

Both Ruppert and Strand agreed the decision wouldn't make any difference to the hardened criminal.
