

-'We've Never Buried An Elephant Cemetery Available For Pet Burials

By RICK GARR
Staff Writer

In a small section of land next to Memory Gardens Cemetery in Iowa City lie several ground-level grave markers with some highly unusual writing on them.

For example, names like "Madame Sen Yat Sun," "Buddy," "Pancho Corey," and "Governor" may be seen on the tiny pieces of metal set in the soggy earth.

These and 20 more markers are the only visible evidence of Iowa City's first pet cemetery. Separated from the cemetery proper by a footbridge across Ralston Creek, almost 100 animals lie in peace, and some of their former masters lie in Memory Gardens.

John S. Tucker, 2400 Muscatine Ave., owner of Memory Gardens, said the pet section began as an answer to a concerned public's question of where to bury its beloved animal companions.

"We're not doing this for nothing, and we're not doing it to get rich," he said. "We are just accommodating the public in something they have asked us to do." Tucker said the majority of the animals buried there were dogs and cats, but he said one bird was laid to rest recently.

Never Buried Elephant

"We've never buried an elephant or anything that big," he said. "And I hope we never have to — we don't have a plot of land big enough."

The Iowa City pet cemetery began in early 1963, and since then Tucker said the pet burial business was booming across the country.

"I heard of one man in Topeka, Kan., who had a memorial built to his dog. He has a bronze statue of him made, and the whole thing cost about $1,500."

Tucker said the most unusual burial here was the case of a lady who had a large dog she wanted to bury. She bought an infant casket, but it was so large that it took up two of the cemetery's plots. And after paying for these, she purchased a grave marker, giving her a total investment of $140.

This sum, however, is not the average cost of a burial. Tucker said Memorial Gardens charged five dollars for the plot, five dollars for the digging and five dollars for permanent care of the grave. Thus, for a total of fifteen dollars, "including tax and installation," anyone can have his pet put to rest.

Birds Cheaper

If the pet happens to be a bird, Tucker said the cemetery would provide all these services for only five dollars. Although he has only buried one bird, Tucker said he had set aside a whole section of the pet cemetery for birds in case there should be future requests for bird burials.

"Some people might object to pets being buried in the cemetery," said Tucker, "so my son-in-law and I made the pet section a separate part of the cemetery and put it across the creek."

John Daine, 528 Clark St., Tucker's son-in-law, assists him in caring for the cemetery.

"We haven't advertised the pet section much until now," said Tucker. "Some people might object to the idea. But now they will know that the pets are across the creek, so I don't think they will mind."

He said that one small problem arose when people volunteer to do their own digging.

"We have to tell them they can't do it because it would mess up the way we have the plots laid out. If they insist, I tell them to come back in the winter when the ground is frozen and try digging then."

Prospects 'Growing'

Tucker said the prospects for the future in animal cemeteries was "growing every day."

"They have one in Davenport that is doing real well," he said. "They tried one in Cedar Rapids but it didn't work out."

Aside from the head markers with the pet's name, birth and death dates and the family name of the owner, Tucker said the biggest innovation in the field was the newly developed animal casket.

Memory Gardens began an exhibit Monday of the new caskets, made of fiberglass and lined with white satin. They are copertone colored, waterproof and they contain a lace-trimmed satin pillow. The average cost is about $25 each.

The new caskets are made by a Solon company, and Tucker said one of its salesmen visited him recently to give him all the facts about the new item.

"The business must be booming," he said, "because this man was traveling around the country selling these caskets, and he said he is way behind in filling his orders."

Parley On Nonviolence Slated For April 28-29

Four speakers will study questions about nonviolence as it affects the Midwest student at the Midwest Conference on Nonviolence April 28 and 29 at the Union.

The speakers will be Cecil E. Hinshaw, the Rev. James Bevel, the Rev. Philip Berrigan, and Russell Johnson.

Hinshaw, executive secretary of the North Central Regional Office of American Friends Service Committee, will speak on "The History and Traditions of Nonviolence." A lecturer for many years for the American Friends Service Committee, Hinshaw has traveled widely in Europe, the Middle East, Asia and Latin America.

"Black Power and Nonviolence" and "The Mobilization for Nonviolence and Peace" will be discussed by the Rev. Mr. Bevel, national director of the Spring Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam.

A close associate of Dr. Martin Luther King, the Rev. Mr. Bevel has worked as a leader in the civil rights movement from its beginning.

Traveled Through Asia Johnson, peace education secretary of the New England Region American Friends Service Committee, will speak about "International Relations and Nonviolence." He knows personally many Asian leaders and government officials from two extensive trips through Vietnam and Cambodia.

"The Religious and Philosophical Aspects of Nonviolence" will be discussed by the Rev. Mr. Berrigan, co-founder and co-chairman of the Catholic Peace Fellowship. He has conferred with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Sen. J. William Fulbright, (D-Ark.), and is working with Fulbright to plan a testimony before the Senate Foreign-Relations Committee by major faith theologians concerning the morality of the Vietnam war.

Joseph Rosmann, G. Harlan, committee chairman of the conference said the purpose of the conference was to explore the relevance of nonviolence as a way of life and as a means to promote social welfare and social change.

"Many challenges are being presented today to the preservation of peace and to the promotion of peace through peaceful means," Rosmann said. "Many of these challenges will be voiced at this conference and discussed."

Questions To Be Examined

Questions about personal integrity, freedom, individual responsibility, legality and morality of modern war, and the relevance of violence as a means to attain beneficial ends will be examined, he said.

General addresses, workshops and panel discussions will make up the conference.

The conference, open to the public, is sponsored by students and faculty members of the University, the Association of Campus Ministers, the University Circle Teach-In Committee of Cleveland, Ohio, and the North Central Regional Office of the American Friends Service Committee.

Cooperating national organizations are the Fellowship of Reconciliation, the Catholic Peace Fellowship and Students for a Democratic Society.

A registration fee will be $3. Tickets to individual sessions will be 50 cents and $1 for Bevel's lecture.

NEWS IN BRIEF

NEW YORK — An internationally famed Chinese violinist emerged dramatically from refuge here Wednesday, and said he fled his Communist homeland beneath the fearful spur of Red Guard terrorism. "I spent 103 days in a dreadful hideout for devils and demons and underwent what is too painful to describe," said the defector, Ma Szu-tung, who has been granted asylum with his family in this country.

WASHINGTON — The unions involved in the railroad wage dispute set a new nationwide strike deadline of May 3 after President Johnson signed legislation Wednesday extending the legal no-strike period until that date.

MOSCOW — Soviet space pioneers predicted Wednesday new manned space flights — after a gap of more than two years. There were hints of cosmonauts probing deeper into space than before.

WASHINGTON — Longhaul truckers resumed highballing across the nation's highways Wednesday after the end of a three-day lockout that did not last long enough to be felt by most of the country. But the auto industry, unable to get parts shipments, still had some 24,000 workers laid off.

WASHINGTON — Senate preparedness investigators contend the war in Vietnam has left the U.S. Atlantic Fleet short of trained manpower, ships, airplanes and ammunition. Secretary of the Navy Paul H. Nitze replied that the fleet "is and has been capable of execution of all its contingency assignments." The senators conceded that "the Atlantic Fleet is still a formidable and efficient fighting force."

DES MOINES — A bill to prohibit racial and religious discrimination in housing, but requiring those who bring a complaint to first post a bond, was passed by a 49-11 Senate vote Wednesday. The measure goes to the House, where some senators said it could win approval because it carries a highly controversial amendment adopted by a 31-28 Senate vote requiring any complaint be accompanied by a $500 bond.

DES MOINES — No major problems were reported despite rain Wednesday as the Mississippi River's spring flood crest moved along Iowa's eastern border. Only a few people living in low-lying areas have been forced from their homes, and reinforced dikes were reported holding back all but a comparative trickle of water.

PEORIA — Richard Speck's five sisters — two of them sobbing — and his mother and a brother testified for the defense Wednesday at his trial on charges of murdering eight nurses. Speck, 25, a drifter, watched closely but showed no reaction as they filed to the witness chair. They were the first witnesses called by Gerald W. Getty, attorney who is defending the accused slayer of the eight young women who were stabbed or strangled July 14, 1966, in their townhouse dormitory on Chicago's South Side.

LBJ Vows Try On Trade, Aid

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay — President Johnson, in his first statement at the hemisphere summit conference, promised Latin Americans on Wednesday he would try to gain worldwide tariff concessions for developing nations and consider granting them greater freedom to spend more kinds of U.S. aid money.

In his initial conference appearance, Johnson thus tackled two of the toughest points at issue in the meeting — trade and aid between the United States and Latin America.

The President made his remarks at a private meeting that preceded the formal opening ceremony of the summit.

Johnson and 17 other American heads of state convened formal meetings behind closed doors in a converted gambling casino for a long series of speeches.

Although Johnson's statements on the two major points at issue were calculated to get a good reception from his fellow presidents, he actually made no hard and fast commitments.

To Explore Possibility
On trade, he promised to explore the possibility of "temporary tariff advantages for all developing countries by all industrialized countries."

As for aid, Johnson promised only to "try to establish whether we can agree that aid funds for capital projects and related technical assistance can be used in alliance for progress countries in ways which will protect the U.S. balance of payments."

This type of aid probably amounts to no more than $250 million a year.

Aid grants now are required to be spent in the United States. Latin Americans would prefer to be able to spend U.S. aid money anywhere in the hemisphere.

Lincoln Gordon, U.S. assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, told reporters Johnson might give the Latins their answer in the closed-door sessions.

Another vexing point arose from Latin demands for greater share of U.S. markets on a preferential basis — meaning special tariff concessions.

Collision Expected
Gordon conceded that the industrial United States and lesser developed Latin America naturally figured to collide. Johnson has to deal with this tough topic also.

Johnson hoped to nail down agreement for a common market in Latin America that will integrate the nation's economies and dampen trade rivalries.

But he was expected to give only tranquilizing answers to Latin American demands for more aid beyond the $1 billion a year of the Alliance for Progress and permission to spend aid dollars somewhere other than in the United States.

Latin countries voluntarily assumed responsibility for establishing the common market and a working group finally reached a patched-up compromise on the preamble to the president's final summit statement.

McCulloch Sees NLRB Encouraging Cooperation

Frank W. McCulloch, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB), said Wednesday that the central objective of the board was not federal intervention in industry, but rather encouragement of labor and management cooperation in solving their conflicts.

McCulloch gave a history of labor and management relations in the United States since the beginning of collective bargaining 30 years ago. He discussed in detail the decisions that the NLRB has dealt with.

He spoke at the 11th Annual Labor Management Conference in the Union Ballroom. Sponsored by the College of Business Administration's Center for Labor and Management, the conference was attended by employers, managers, personnel officers, labor officials and government representatives, most of them from the Midwest.

McCulloch said that the NLRB was set up in 1935 to carry out a policy to protect the rights of self-organization and collective bargaining.

According to McCulloch, the board is an agent of Congress with limited authority. Its only functions are to hold elections for the representatives of workers and to remedy statutorily-defined unfair practices of management and unions.

"The parties themselves are the major people working these out. We try to provide basic protection that the law says we should."

"We keep the people advised of the basic legal means. You work out the real substance and the content of the relationships. As to this, we do not have power," he said.

18 Million in Unions

There are now 18 million people in labor unions and 100,000 to 150,000 bargaining contracts in operation, according to McCulloch.

McCulloch said that collective bargaining has benefited workers, management and the entire country. Employees' salaries and working conditions have improved, employers have found that they can cooperate with their workers and still make money, and the peace and prosperity of the United States has been aided.

The cases of labor-management relations that get publicity, according to McCulloch, are not typical. Three-fourths to four-fifths of the cases that seem to need action are settled by the regional boards. Less than one-half of one per cent of the unfair labor practices cases come to court.

The NLRB's rulings have been in several areas of management-labor relations.

Rulings Made

The board has decided that workers in some industries can be organized on the district level, such as the Chicago area, rather than only on state or national levels.

It also decides in which cases craft unions can separate groups of craftsmen from other workers for bargaining purposes.

The board has ruled that unions as well as employers can withdraw from multi-employer contracts prior to the onset of negotiations.

McCulloch said it had been suggested to him that the NLRB's power should be sharpened to make it unprofitable to refuse to conform with the board's policies.

However, he said, "We hope the understanding and perception of people will be sharpened."

Officials Study Renewal Project

By LARRY STONE
Staff Writer

Iowa City officials discussed the city's second proposed urban renewal project with Jack Pettigrew and Nicholas Trkla of Barton and Aschman Associates, urban renewal planning advisers, Wednesday afternoon.

Mayor William C. Hubbard summed up the meeting by saying, "The trimming of the first project has caused certain problems."

"We are trying to correct these problems in project two although we realize that this one also will be trimmed," he added.

The first urban renewal project includes the city's central business district as far south as Court Street. The second project is to be bounded by Court, Gilbert and Des Moines Streets and the Iowa River.

Both projects will require more federal funds than have been reserved by the department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). Project one was therefore limited so that the first phase could be started as soon as approval was received from HUD. The first phase of project one is expected to be started next fall.

Specifically, the council asked Pettigrew and Trkla to find room for two automobile dealers in the urban renewal area. Councilman Richard W. Burger said, "If we don't provide a place for the car dealers, we will kill the first project."

Student Senate To Discuss Support Of Vietnam Protest

By ELAINE SCHROEDER
Staff Writer

A resolution calling for support of the National Mobilization to End the War in Vietnam is to be debated at a special public Student Senate meeting scheduled for 7 tonight in Room S107 Engineering Building.

The proposal, which was submitted by Frederick L. Wallace, G. New Haven, Conn., describes the mobilization as "a call to all Americans, from all walks of life, who believe that the United States should stop the bombing at once, initiate a cease-fire, recognize the National Liberation Front as a party to any negotiation, and provide a clear commitment to speedy withdrawal of troops on the principle of self-determination for the Vietnamese."

The mobilization is planned to include a mass march and rally at the United Nations Building in New York and at the founding place of the United Nations in San Francisco on Saturday.

Demonstration Friday
Locally, the demonstration is to include a teach-in Friday afternoon and a march and rally Friday night.

"So far the dissent against the war has only been voiced on the student level by what can be considered extreme groups. This issue must also be considered by groups, such as the Student Senate, which maintain a respectable position within the society," stated Wallace.

Student Body Pres. John Pelton agreed that the "senate should not be afraid to debate public issues," but questioned whether the senate which represents all the students would be the "appropriate" body to take such a stand.

Names Considered
Pelton also said he wondered whether only the names of senators who voted for the resolution should be used to endorse the mobilization, leaving out the names of those voting against it.

The resolution states that "the mobilization will say to all humanity that millions of Americans are deeply opposed to this war and have come together in a dramatic and visible manner to express a fundamental unity of purpose."

It also charges that "the Student Senate of the University of Iowa must not be afraid to stand up for its beliefs."

If approved, the resolution will provide senate support for the mobilization, the listing of the senate as a sponsoring organization for the local mobilization events and the fixing of the senate's name to the mobilization's call to action.

The mobilization call states, "We, the people from all walks of life, declare an end to our silence. We declare it particularly to the government of the United States."

Concern about Vietnam

Thursday the Student Senate will meet with interested members of the University community to see whether the senate should support the National Mass Mobilization to End the War in Vietnam.

The mobilization is to take place Friday in Iowa City and Saturday in Des Moines to protest the war in Vietnam.

If the resolution is approved by the senate, the senate would be listed as a sponsor of the Iowa City and Des Moines marches and the senate's name would be included on the list of supporters of the national rally at the U.N. in New York and in San Francisco (the founding site of the U.N.) Senate approval of the resolution would also mean the senate endorses the "National Call to Mobilization."

We encourage all interested students to voice their opinion on the senate resolution. The meeting will be a sort of verbal referendum to help the senators decide whether to pass the resolution.

It is the "National Call to Mobilization" that undoubtedly will raise many questions in the minds of the senators and the students. Such statements as "We call all Americans to unite and mobilize in a movement to end the senseless slaughter of American GIs and the mass murder of Vietnamese" seems to be gross generalizations that are more misleading than true.

The "whereas" of the resolution fortunately were toned down from another set proposed Tuesday at the senate meeting. For the most part the earlier statements were meaningless cliches. The new "whereas" encourage the United States to stop bombing at once, to initiate a cease fire, to recognize the National Liberation Front as a party to negotiations and to provide a clear commitment to speedy withdrawal of American troops. These are much more reasonable than the others.

If the senate were to pass the resolution and support the mobilization it would certainly indicate that it isn't simply the "lunatic fringe" that opposes the Vietnam war. For the senate to go on record with the mobilization in opposing the war would show citizens that the campus as a whole is concerned.

If you are concerned, come to Thursday night's meeting.

River blues

We're glad to know that flood crest predictions for the Mississippi River have dropped. Perhaps this is indicative of all rivers in this area.

If this is so, male students who have been conscientiously watching the river of late should be reassured.

The males have been so concerned that twice last week they gathered en masse to practice flood prevention measures. It just happened that they became so enthused that they went to the women's dorms to ask their help and cooperation.

Unfortunately, the women were not allowed to leave the dorm to help the men. We commend them for their effort and reassure them. If crest predictions continue to fall, the riverbanks should be safe for spring recreation.

Students, faculty urged to discuss Vietnam

To the Editor:

The war in Vietnam is the most important single issue facing the American people today. We feel that it is the responsibility of the academic community to bring this issue to discussion in front of the American public. The Student Senate of this University has felt this issue important enough to discuss it before the entire student body tonight.

We call upon the faculty, students and administration to participate in a discussion of the war as it affects American society at the teach-in scheduled for Friday afternoon in Calvin Hall. We hope that the University will not only call off classes on Friday afternoon so that interested students and faculty can participate, but that it will release its own employees to attend if they wish.

We challenge those who are in favor of the war to stand before the University community and explain why they believe it should be continued. We also challenge those who stand opposed to the war to speak out before their peers, explaining why they hold the feelings and beliefs that they do.

We call upon those who are opposed to the war to join in a public march at 6 p.m. Friday, beginning at the College Street Park and proceeding to the steps of Old Capitol where a rally will be held. We march, in the words of the "National Call to Mobilization," to "affirm our respect for the principle of equal rights and self-determination of peoples, acclaimed by mankind and embodied in the U.N. Charter, but violated by the United States. We march to dramatize the world-wide concern that the United States remove its troops from Vietnam so that the Vietnamese can determine their own future in their own way."

As students, it is our feeling that the intellectual community both here and across the nation has abdicated its responsibility to create the dialogue necessary for the maintenance of a free society. We believe that our privileged position carries the responsibility to act as critics of a society when it is misdirected.

To the Editor:

In Tuesday's Daily Iowan there appeared an account of a meeting called by the Committee on Student Life to explain the new University policy which asks that fraternities and sororities have local autonomy in the selection of their memberships.

According to The Daily Iowan's account of the meeting, Ben Summerwill, an Iowa City businessman, was cheered when he asserted that the Higher Education Act of 1965 prohibited the University from in any way interfering with the method of membership selection used by fraternal organizations.

Ben Summerwill was cheered for uttering a false statement. The Higher Education Act of 1965 says nothing of the sort. The only provision of that Act which is concerned with fraternal organizations is part (b) of Sec. 804 of Title 8 which reads: "Nothing contained in this Act or any other Act shall be construed to authorize any department, agency, officer, or employee of the United States to exercise any direction, supervision, or control over the membership practices or internal operations of any fraternal organization, fraternity, sorority, private club or religious organization at an institution of higher education (other than a service academy or the Coast Guard Academy) which is financed exclusively by funds derived from private sources and whose facilities are not owned by such institution."

This provision of the Act was strongly championed by those fraternal organizations who wished to continue their dis-crimatory membership practices. They feared the Act might otherwise be used as a device to pressure colleges and universities to encourage fraternities and sororities to cease such discriminatory practices.

Thus the Act provides that the federal government may not withhold funds from an educational institution because of the membership policies of fraternities or sororities. But the University is not prohibited by the Act from setting whatever standards of behavior for its students which it thinks wise.

Ben Summerwill's behavior at the meeting is itself indicative of the situation which the Committee on Student Life is trying to correct. Every fraternity has its "big brothers" who have never outgrown their days of wine and roses but who wish to continue to participate actively in student fraternity affairs — even to the extent of determining the membership of the organizations.

If there is student dissatisfaction with the new interpretation of the Code of Student Life, then the students should express that dissatisfaction and work with the University community to resolve their difficulties.

Why must Ben Summerwill have a hand in the matter at all? Certainly it was irresponsible of him to attempt to crystallize opposition to the new University policy by misinterpreting federal law and giving a specious legality to discriminatory practices.

O'Brien starts cabinet fad

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien's radical proposal to do away with the Post Office Department and make it into a nonprofit government corporation is getting serious study here. His reason for making the suggestion is that the post office is a money-losing proposition and he feels it should pay its own way.

The trouble with the plan is that if it is adopted it opens up a whole new can of worms with the other departments of government who are also losing money, and the time may come when every Cabinet member will demand that his department be made into a corporation, too.

Let us peek in on a Cabinet meeting a few years from today.

"Gentlemen, the President of the United States."

"All right, let's get the meeting under way. We'll hear from the chairman of the board of the Interior."

"I'm happy to announce, Mr. President, that the Interior Corporation is in the black. We had to sell the Grand Canyon to do it, but we still have Yellowstone National Park, and by raising the rents on the Indian reservations we should have a banner year."

"Very good. What about the Labor Corporation?"

"Mr. President, the Labor Corporation is in very good shape. By merging with the Teamsters Union we've been able to do away with our deficit and even invest money in negotiable bonds."

"That's wonderful, Willard. Are we still charging a substantial fee for invoking the Taft-Hartley Act?"

"Yes, sir, it's been one of our best money-makers."

"Fine. Now let's hear from the chairman of the Justice Corporation."

"Mr. President, I'm happy to say that Justice is holding its own. We lost money on our crime cases, but we showed a profit selling bugging equipment to private companies. We used the surplus to buy a race track outside of Washington and it's doing very well."

"As long as you don't keep it open on Sundays, I guess there's nothing wrong with it. Does the Transportation chairman have anything to report?"

"As you know, Mr. President, we merged with General Motors and we were doing fine until Ralph Nader wrote a sequel to 'Unsafe at Any Speed.' Now car sales are off. We've asked the Justice people to follow Nader, but they say it's no skin off their corporation."

"Let's have no bickering. Now the Defense Corporation. I see from the books that you people lost $50 billion last year. Can we attribute this to faulty management?"

"I know it looks bad on paper, Mr. President, but the Vietnam war just isn't showing a profit. Maybe we shouldn't have gone into it in the first place. If we had to do it all over again I think we should have gotten into a fight with Switzerland."

"Well, if the Defense Corporation can't make a go of it, we're going to have to give it up."

"I have one suggestion, sir, that could get us even."

"What's that?"

"Conrad Hilton wants to buy the Pentagon and rename it the McNamara Hilton."

"Let him put in a bid and we'll consider it. I guess that winds it up for today. Oh, by the way, next week we're meeting at the Shoreham Hotel instead of here."

"How's that, Mr. President?"

"Howard Johnson's has just leased the White House from us at very reasonable terms."

People disappoint her

To the Editor:

I was disappointed by the actions of the people participating in the incident Saturday morning at the women's dormitories. The boys in the street and the girls aggravating the situation by calling or throwing clothing from the windows displayed a great lack of maturity.

I approved of the enthusiasm shown but would appreciate it in a more positive direction. The general attitude was not malicious, but neither was it "good clean fun." Large-scale serenading was suggested by one girl as a less rebellious way of expressing the same spirit.

During the three years that I have been a student here, I have heard many people complain about restrictions placed upon students by the University. Surely, they must realize that until students show that they are capable of conducting themselves as responsible citizens, they cannot be given the privileges of adults.

Bankers running out of gold

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The present tempest over the role of monetary gold will at least expose a subject so full of cobwebs it must be aired.

The controversy, one of a succession, arises over suggestions from private American bankers that this country, whose supply of gold is being depleted, might refuse to exchange any more gold for its dollars.

This ability to turn in $35 and get an ounce of gold has long been assumed to be a right and has been, in fact, the basis for establishing the relative values of international currencies.

Now we're running out of gold. What should we do?

It doesn't matter who launched the latest balloons, even though Europeans will believe they were launched at the request of the U.S. Treasury. That, perhaps, isn't all important.

What is important is that the theoretical proposals that have long slept in the world of academia have now bridged the gap to the conventional world of banking and international economics.

What happens if the United States declines to redeem dollars in gold?

A large suspicion exists among some theorists that, after the tumult and the shouting, absolutely nothing will happen. There is the belief that the dollar simply would continue in use as international currency — in place of gold.

"Isn't the U.S. economy strong enough to make the dollar the most stable currency in the world, even without gold?" these people ask.

Not everyone agrees though. Some believe that it could destroy any sense of the relative value of one currency and another and thus stymie trade and commerce.

"If we are not certain that $35 can be traded for one ounce of gold, always and forever, then how can we build a structure of relative currency values?" they ask.

In our present world monetary system, each nation's currency must be convertible with the other and also convertible to gold at a fixed rate. The United States fixes that rate. It guarantees it. This, in effect, makes the dollar the standard. And there is some suspicion it isn't worth what we say it is.

PUPILS IN A first-grade class at Hoover Elementary School were surprised to receive a letter from the White House last week, after sending letters to President Johnson a month earlier. Viewing the letter (left to right) are: Robbie Hoffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Klaus Hoffman of 320 4th Ave.; Michelle Senecal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Senecal of 2507 Potomac Drive; Deborah Sagen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Sagen of 2408 E. Court St.; and Jeff Dwyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dwyer of 2407 Mayfield Rd.

1st Graders Write To LBJ; White House Sends Reply

By MARLIN LEVISON
Staff Writer

"Mrs. Johnson asked me to tell you how much she and the President appreciated your lovely letters. . . ."

This was the opening of a letter received last week from a White House secretary to 31 members of a first-grade class at Hoover Elementary School.

The six-year-old first graders had sent letters to President Johnson a month earlier, congratulating him on expectations of becoming a grandfather in June.

"The project started out as a creative writing assignment," said Mrs. Linda Kennedy, the student's teacher. "But the letters were so well written that I decided to send all 31 of them to the White House and see what kind of response we'd get."

Response Includes Photos

The response included a letter of thanks from the President's secretary, pamphlets on the American flag and the duties of a president, and photographs of the White House, the first family, the LBJ ranch and the Johnson beagles.

The student were not short on advice to offer the President about the baby Luci Johnson Nugent is expecting.

The President was advised to get his new grandchild a teddy bear as soon as possible and to teach him to ride ponies at the ranch when he was old enough.

Most of the students wrote that the child would be a boy, and suggested that he be named John.

"It seemed clear that the children had been influenced by pictures they had seen of President Kennedy's boy, John, crawling about behind the White House desk," said Mrs. Kennedy.

LBJ Warned About Phone

"Most of them warned President Johnson to keep his grandchild away from the papers on his desk and not to let him play with the White House telephone."

Not all of the students understand the situation clearly. One boy included in his letter a statement of congratulations and then assured the President that "Pat and Lucy are nice girls."

The project had an educational value, according to Mrs. Kennedy.

"The exchange of letters brought out the human side of President Johnson. The students had previously thought of the President as a symbol and were surprised to learn that he could be an understanding grandfather just as their own grandfathers are."

The success of the project may have started something, said Mrs. Kennedy. The students now are planning correspondence with Batman and Robin.

Panel to Discuss Negro Revolution

The Friends of Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee (SNCC) will sponsor a student panel discussion entitled "Adam Clayton Powell and The Negro Revolution" at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Union Lucas - Dodge Room.

Excerpts from Powell's recording, "Keep the Faith, Baby," will be played and Leroy Jones' "The End of Man is His Beauty" will be read by Betty Vaughn. A question and answer period will follow the discussion.

Participants will be Charles Darden, A2, Waterloo, Hawkeye Student Party; Lena Baker, G, Des Moines, SNCC; Sam Williams, A3, Detroit; George Lonesome, G, Charleston, W. Va.; and James Rogers, G, St. Louis, former CORE field worker.

2 Music Students To Give Recitals

Two students in the School of Music in North Music Hall.

At 8 p.m. Saturday, baritone John Benjamin Bay, A4, Shenandoah, will give a recital. Singing works in English, French, Italian and German, Bay's program will include songs by Massenet, Cesti and Brahms, and three Elizabethan love songs by Rosseter. He will be accompanied by pianist Ira Hawkins, G, Los Angeles.

Richard Johnston, G, Brooklyn, will give a piano recital at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Minneapolis Orchestra To Present 2 Concerts

The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, hailed by New York Times critic Harold Schoenberg as "one of the country's great orchestras," will present its annual concert at 2:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Union Main Lounge.

Schoenberg said the "fine, high-quality musicians who make up the orchestra perform with a single purpose — to inspire and entertain their audiences with great performances of the world's finest music."

Tickets are available to students and faculty at the University box office in the Union 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Friday and 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday. Students may pick up free tickets by presentation of identification cards. Faculty and public may buy tickets for $2.

Annual Event

The orchestra, which has given annual concerts at the University for more than 20 years, will feature works by 19th and 20th century composers.

Under the direction of Stanislaw Skrowaczewski, the orchestra will present a different program each performance.

For the matinee, the orchestra will play Witold Lutoslawsky's "Funeral Music for String Orchestra," Igor Stravinsky's "Card Game, A Ballet in Three Deals," and Anton Dvarak's "Symphony No. 2 in D Minor, Op. 70."

"Overture to 'Euryanthe'" by Carl Maria von Weber, Ludwig Beethoven's "Symphony No. 1 in C Major, Op. 21," and "Symphony No. 10 in E Minor" by Dmitri Shostakovich will complete the orchestra's evening performance.

Composers Living

Composers Lutoslawsky, from Poland; Stravinsky of the United States, and Shostakovich of Russia, whose works will be presented, are still living.

The Minnesota Symphony Orchestra, founded in 1903, was conducted by Antal Dorati before Skrowaczewski replaced him in 1960. Skrowaczewski is former musical director of the National Philharmonic in Poland and has been guest conductor with major orchestras in Europe and the United States.

7 Students Apply For DI Editorship

The editorship of The Daily Iowan is in demand. Seven students, apparently a record number, have applied for Daily Iowan editor.

Leslie G. Moeller, director of the School of Journalism, said, "There have never been more applicants since I came to Iowa in 1947, and usually there have been three or four."

The seven applicants are: James P. Breiling, G, Iowa City; Wesley C. Garr, G, Fairdale, Ky.; Dennis B. Kiesey, A3, Keota; William B. Newbrough, A4, Des Moines; Charles T. Wanninger, G, McComb, Ill.; Don C. Yager, A4, Fenton; and Gordon L. Young, A4, Cozad, Neb. All are journalism majors.

Breiling graduated from the University and owned a newspaper before returning here for graduate study.

Garr served as editor-in-chief of his undergraduate paper for two years.

Kiesey is presently an editorial page editor on The Daily Iowan.

He worked as a sports reporter on the Iowa City Press-Citizen for three years.

Newbrough has a double major in journalism and political science. He is a correspondent for KWWL and WHO radio stations in Waterloo and Des Moines, and he has worked for WSUI.

Wanninger was section editor of the 1965 Hawkeye, and he has worked for The Daily Iowan as a reporter and copy editor. He is currently Iowa assistant news editor and a correspondent for The Associated Press.

Young worked for 16 months as a general assignment reporter for the Des Moines Tribune and as a correspondent for the Daily Independent of Grand Island, Neb., before coming to the University.

Ohio To Host IFC Meeting

Executive council members of Inter-fraternity Council (IFC), and Women's Panhellenic Association will attend the Big 10 IFC Conference in Columbus, Ohio, from today until Saturday.

The purpose of the conference is to discuss problems common to Greek systems at other Big 10 schools. And it will suggest new ideas for rush and Greek week which might be applied to our own campus.

Those attending the conference from IFC are: Hugh V. Mossman, A3, Vinton; Henry D'Olier, A3, Chicago; David K. Peters, A2, New Hampton; and William T. Rubin, A3, Perry.

Panhellenic officers attending are: Peggy A. Norden, A3, Davenport; Cheryl K. Arnes, A2, Cedar Rapids; Patricia A. King, A3, Lombard, Ill.; and Carolyn A. Mueller, N3, Oak Park, Ill.

Fraternity Adviser David L. McKinney will accompany the group.

Hawkeye Post Sought

One applicant has filed for Hawkeye editor. She is Frances A. Puhl, A3, Mason City. Miss Puhl is currently assistant editor of the Hawkeye. She was identifications editor of the 1966 Hawkeye.

Richard B. King, A2, Evanston, Ill., and Steven W. Seymour, A3, Mason City, have applied for Hawkeye business manager.

King was assistant business manager of the 1967 Hawkeye. Seymour was a photographer on his high school yearbook.

The Daily Iowan editor and Hawkeye editor and business manager will be selected by the Board of Trustees of Student Publications, Inc. at their meeting next Wednesday.

VIETNAM TALK—

James F. McCue, assistant professor of religion, will speak on "The Significant History of Vietnam" at 3:30 Friday in the Wesley House. This will be the first in a series of informal discussions of the Vietnam War.

Campus Chatter

The female gender has one mystery of its very own that I don't think the males of this world will ever really understand. The researchers of the wonder-world of cosmetics spend millions each year to improve our closely guarded secrets so that we can all be more alluring and what we do will be less detectable.

Allurement I'm for, but why the secret about it all? I'm for telling men all about it so they will understand now why it takes so long for a girl to get ready.

Every girl has faced the last minute phone call for a date that she has been dying to get. But rather than explain that it will take at least a half an hour, she says, "Fine," to a five-minute warning, slams down the phone and then dashes madly around the room throwing her hairdryer, fingernail polish remover, cotton balls, and mascara trying to make the deadline. And by the time the date arrives, she's panting as if she's just run a mile! Now, wouldn't it be easier if they only understood?

I remember the time my little brother found my eyelash curler as he rummaged through my cosmetic bag. He thought he'd discovered a secret weapon. Then he found the mascara, eyeliner, tweezers and manicure set. So I spent the entire afternoon demonstrating how girls use them. Whew! What an afternoon! But at least now he knows.

But even with this constant misunderstanding, cosmetics are one vital way to protect our gender. There's something genuinely feminine about your choices of fragrances and makeup. One girl I know insists that a splash of cologne does as much for her as two cups of coffee. And another doesn't feel her eyes are quite open until her eyeliner's on.

And every year so many new products catch on that the field requires constant catching up on. One of the most intriguing products to come out in a long time is "Interlude in the Sun" by Frances Denney. It's the romantic name for a practical concept, a fragrance to tan by. The product was developed after Frances Denney learned that alcohol base scents can leave a trail of red blotches on sun-sensitive skin. So they eliminated the alcohol and scented a protective suntan lotion. This entire line of products can be found in the cosmetic department at Armstrong's in Cedar Rapids.

There are many services that a good cosmetic department can provide besides just selling you what you already know you want. A trained cosmetician knows what fragrances suit different tastes, what skin creams are best, and what cosmetics go with your coloring. They can usually help you find whatever you want if you will only explain your problem.

Mine was finding a second perfume that would complement my favorite one. And while there's much to be said for taking one scent and making it your signature, you do run the risk of being an olfactory bore.

So I marched up to the cosmetic department at Armstrong's determined that here I would find my search of a year for that fragrance.

I told the cosmetician the one that I was trying to complement and she quickly suggested three that were different, but complementary to my favorite.

I tried samples of Germaine Monteil, Elizabeth Arden, and Revlon, which are three of their special lines. And I was delighted to find that Royal Secret by Germaine Monteil was exactly what I had been looking for. So I stocked up on its lotion, perfume, and powder.

She also gave me samples of all the others I faintly liked and suggested I try them at home to be sure. And then while I was waiting for my fiancé to pick me up, I happened onto the men's cosmetic department and found several ideas for surprise gifts for him.

So it was really a productive day. But then, there's always a lot going on at Armstrong's even if you never get off the first floor to the other three above or their "Downstairs Store." They always have an agenda of events for the customer's enjoyment from style shows to registrations for free prizes.

The big event, now through Saturday, is the $8,000 display of Expo 67 from Montreal which includes a scale model of the exposition site and two hostesses from Quebec who explain all the activities of Expo. The features throughout the store have all the color of Canada itself and it would be well worth the time to stop in and see.

But, of course, what will lure me back to Armstrong's will be the cosmetics — a feminine weakness!

Luther Games Rained Out

Iowa's baseball doubleheader here Wednesday with Luther College was cancelled because of rain. The game will not be rescheduled.

A strong Bradley University team from Peoria, Ill., will challenge the Hawkeyes in three games here Friday and Saturday.

Bradley, with a 6-1 record, will play the Hawkeyes in a single game at 3:30 p.m. Friday and in a doubleheader at 1 p.m. Saturday. Among the Bradley victims have been Murray State and Southeast Missouri State.

It has been a close series with Bradley over the years. The Hawkeyes lead, 27 wins to Bradley's 26, with one tie. Bradley whipped the Hawks two of three times in 1964 and won a single game in 1965.

Helms Foundation Picks Williams For All-America

Sam Williams, Iowa basketball forward, has been named on the All-America college basketball squad for 1966-67 by the Helms Athletic Foundation of Los Angeles, Calif.

WILLIAMS

The Hawkeye star, Iowa's No. 1 scorer and third highest scorer in the Big 10, was one of 36 players so honored. The foundation prefers to recognize 36 players — 12 forwards, 12 centers and 12 guards — as those of equal All-America stature.

Williams was one of 10 Midwest players picked, as the Midwest led all other sections of the nation. The only other Big 10 athletes selected, however, were Tom Kondia, Minnesota center; and Jim Burns, Northwestern guard.

Earlier, Williams was picked unanimously on the AP and UPI all-conference teams. He has one more year of competition at Iowa.

Golf Times Necessary

Persons using the South Finkbine golf course are reminded that starting times are being assigned daily.

Many persons apparently have been unaware of this system and therefore have been disappointed at not being able to play.

Athletic Director Forest Evashevski said that starting times can be assigned one week in advance by calling 353-5744. The best times to play during the week are prior to noon.

Clay To Answer Draft Board Call For Mother's Sake

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — While heavyweight champion Cassius Clay was boarding a plane to leave here Wednesday, a newsman asked if he definitely will go into the Army April 28 as his draft board has ordered.

"Yes," he replied. "It would break my mother's heart if I didn't."

The proposed heavyweight title bout between Clay and Floyd Patterson will not take place at any site, Clay's manager announced Wednesday.

Herbert Muhammad, Clay's Black Muslim adviser, told the Associated Press that plans for the bout were dropped in the wake of refusals by the states of Nevada and Pennsylvania to accept the bout scheduled for April 25.

Pittsburgh, named as an alternate site, was eliminated by the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission Wednesday on order of Gov. Raymond P. Shafer.

Annual Ice Cream Eating Contest Set For Saturday In Field House

By JIM MARTZ Sports Editor

The Dolphin Fraternity is holding its 38th annual Ice Cream Eating Contest Saturday. And this year the winner gets a China Pig denoting his gastronomic achievement.

The contest starts at 3 p.m. at the Field House swimming pool. Any contestant "parking his cookies" is automatically disqualified.

The world's record is 10 pints (14 gallons), set in 1958 by Ronnie Johnson of St. Louis and Kim Austin of Honolulu.

Jim Riker of Boone has won the last three Dolphin contests. A year ago he gobbled up eight pints. Ralph Kryder of Pleasantville, N.Y., was second with six pints, Ike Heller of Skokie, Ill., third with five pints, and Jim Vavra of Cedar Rapids fourth with four pints.

Dennis Vokolek won last year's coaches' contest, eating five pints. Bob Allen was second with two pints and Dave Armbruster and Dale Holzaepfel each ate one pint.

The China pig trophy, which comes from Mexico, is being added this year as a traveling trophy with the winner's name each year to be inscribed.

The time limit has been changed from two hours to one hour, according to Irving B. Weber, sponsor of the event. Anyone who wants to try for the world's record will be allowed two hours.

OPENERS DRAW 271,369— NEW YORK (AP) — The 10 opening games of the major league season drew a total of 271,369 fans, including the 8,234 at Boston Wednesday for the opener that was postponed Tuesday.

The largest turnout of the three-day program was the 44,382 at Washington Monday.

SEVERAL IOWA DOLPHINS stage a "warm up" session for the 38th annual Dolphin Ice Cream Eating Contest to be held at 3 p.m. Saturday at the Field House swimming pool. The world record is 10 pints.

97 Candidates Turn Out For Illinois Football Drill

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — A huge turnout of 97 hopefuls brought smiles to new head Coach Jim Valek Wednesday as he opened spring football drills at scandal-stricken University of Illinois.

There was an atmosphere of high enthusiasm for a bright 1967 gridiron season in the Big 10.

It all but dispelled the gloom hanging over the Illini the last four months of trial and conviction for illegal financial aid which cost the jobs of three coaches, including football coach Pete Elliott.

Elliott's entire staff, except his No. 1 aide, Bill Taylor, remains under Valek, who returned to his alma mater after serving as Paul Dietzel's lieutenant at South Carolina.

Taylor resigned Tuesday without a hint of hard feelings and Valek Wednesday named 33-year-old Ellis Rainsberger to succeed him on the staff.

Valek opened 20 days of spring rehearsals with a rich inheritance from ace recruiter Elliott. There are 24 lettermen with regulars returning at all but five positions in the defensive and offensive units.

A wealth of sophomores-to-be back up this nucleus and all this is enough to make Valek take aim on bettering last year's over-all record of 4-6 and 4-3 in the Big 10.

Cubs Lose, 5-4

CHICAGO (AP) — A wild pitch by Bill Hands with the bases loaded in the 11th inning gave the Philadelphia Phils a 5-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs Wednesday.

The errant toss by Hands, fourth Cub pitcher, came with two out and scored Tony Taylor to break a 4-4 tie that existed from the seventh inning.

Minnesota Favored To Win 1967 Big 10 Baseball Title

CHICAGO — The oldest championship event in the Big 10's sports program, baseball, gets under way Friday for the 72nd season with Minnesota getting the nod as the favorite.

Ohio State, winner the past two seasons and defending NCAA kings, follow the Gophers in the sentiments of league coaches. Michigan and Michigan State are also strong challengers.

Minnesota coach Dick Siebert, now in his 20th season, has won the Big 10 championship five times in the last 11 seasons — 1956, 1958, 1959, 1960 and 1964 — and won the NCAA title in the Presidential election years of 1956, 1960 and 1964.

Ohio State's quest for a third straight title will be hampered by the loss of the All-America battery of pitcher Steve Arlin and catcher Chuck Brinkman. Brinkman graduated and Arlin signed a sizable bonus in the big leagues.

Michigan and Michigan State start things this weekend on the road against Indiana and Ohio State. The rest of the league gets under way the following weekend.

Minnesota brings the finest record into the first weekend of play, winning 15 of 19 games. Michigan has a healthy 11-4 mark and Northwestern, improving rapidly, has a 7-4 record. Iowa is 1-1 for the season following a 2-10 exhibition record.

A summary of each team's prospects:

MINNESOTA — Siebert looks at his charges with "a certain degree of optimism. But, I really don't know what I have. We are still untested as our opposition thus far has not been strong."

The team has good pitching strength and has been using eight pitchers each weekend in doubleheaders, splitting the duties to gain more work. Two starters return from 1966 — Jerry Wickman and Mike McNair — with three fine sophomores — Neil Weber, Jack Palmer and Jay Youngquist.

MICHIGAN — Listed as a rebuilding year with six of the top seven hitters graduated to siphoned off by the pros. There will be new faces in six positions, including three infield spots. Neither catcher has caught an inning in college before this season.

Although the pros lopped off Bob Reed, the Big 10's finest pitcher last season, five lettermen hurlers return. Coach Moby Benedict says: "Potentially, we have kids with ability, but they will make mistakes. Pitching will have to carry the burden this season."

NORTHWESTERN — With only three seniors on the squad, the Wildcats could be "the most improved team in the Big 10 without being a contender. If injury prone catcher Jim Henderson stays healthy to help a promising mound staff, the team could be Northwestern's best since its 1957 championship. Four solid starters in Roger Benko, Dick Nofke, Bob Shutts and Glenn Cermak.

Coach George McKinnon says: "If the all-sophomore infield holds up, our potentially strong pitching could make the team a factor in the Big 10 race."

WISCONSIN — With nine lettermen, the Badgers are strong down the middle. Pitching development has come along well. Speed is better and the infield defense is good. Center fielder Tom McCauley adds speed and tightens the defense.

The dean of Big 10 coaches, Arthur "Dynie" Mansfield, now in his 28th season, says: "The Badgers can be a sound ball club. Much depends on pitching. Our hitting should improve. We can be a strong challenger for a first division finish."

MICHIGAN STATE — Has only two upper-classmen in the regular field positions and only one regular pitcher from a year ago. Newcomers will have to carry the load, and there are some impressive ones. A potentially good hitting club with fine catching and good right-handed pitching depth. Good power in John Walters, Tom Binkowski, Bill Steckley and Tom Hummel.

Coach Danny Litwhiler says: "We can get better. We're extremely short on experience, but I look for the kids to improve a lot. I believe we have a very well-balanced league. The four-game weekend series arrangement will serve as a great equalizer."

OHIO STATE — Pitching is the best department, but both hitting and defense are down from last year, no long ball hitters. Solid hitting from Bo Rein and Jeff Morehead.

Coach Marty Karow says: "We are suffering behind the plate. We miss the great receiver, Chuck Brinkman. Had hoped to keep Rein in the outfield, but infield shortcomings forced his return to shortstop where he leads the team in hitting."

ILLINOIS — Could become a contender with a lineup filled with fine hitters. Pitching remains a question mark, but sophomore Rich Binder has been outstanding. This year's schedule will encourage a lot of juggling with pitchers.

Coach Lee Ellbracht says: "This looks like the best hitting Illinois team I've had in recent years. Our team speed is not as good as in many seasons and it may affect what we can do offensively. Several early injuries (none serious) have handicapped us."

PURDUE — A year ago Coach Joe Sexson had only two experienced outfielders and two experienced pitchers. The team gained experience and has only three new-comers on its roster in the regular field positions.

Pitching is stronger with Steve Krull posting a 1.35 ERA in the early games. Denny Brady, a jack of all trades, won his last game, 6-3, with 17 strike outs.

INDIANA — Pitching prospects excellent with virtually the entire staff returning. But Hoosiers must go with a completely new infield, posing something of a defensive problem. While hitting isn't lousy, speed is good in all positions. The pitchers, who accounted for 14 of last year's 17 wins, combined for a 3.00 ERA.

Coach Ernie Andres says: "We have got the most experience we have ever had in pitching and we've experienced behind the plate and in the outfield. While our infield has the ability, it's a question of experience and playing together, gaining confidence."

IOWA — If the hitting improves, the Hawkeyes could become a strong first division team. With some depth and definite quantity, there is a lack of experience with no senior pitcher as a starter. Good pitching staff; strong defensive outfit; and outfield speed and at third base.

Coach Dick Schultz says: "Defensively, we are solid. But a lack of consistent hitting in the early spring has been a disappointment."

Szabo Dedicated Distance Runner

By JOEL FABRIKANT Staff Writer

Steven Istvan Szabo doesn't have the most common name on this or any other campus. His habit of waking up at 6 a.m. just to run for miles and miles isn't commonplace either. But if Steve Szabo is uncommon, so is Iowa — uncommonly fortunate to have this intensely dedicated distance runner in its midst.

Steve was born in Hungary. He remembers the 1956 Hungarian Revolution vividly, though at 12 he was too young to participate. The uprising failed and Steve's family fled to refugee-haven Austria.

After four years in Austria, it was on to America and a new life. The Szabo family settled in Chicago and Steve was enrolled in Senn High School on the city's north side.

Impressed With Runner
One day, while walking through a neighborhood park, Steve came across a young man running past him. Steve soon had a lively discussion going with the other fellow, who told him about the opportunities that existed in the track world — chances for earning scholarships and meeting new friends. The young Szabo was impressed with what the man had to say. "If track is good for him, it's good for me," he thought.

If Szabo's life changed at that instant, there's a good reason. The man in the park who sold him on track was none other than Tom O'Hara, Loyola's fabulous Olympic miler.

His track career launched, Steve went on to set school records in the mile (4:15), two mile (9:20) and five mile cross-country (25:13). In 1964, he captured the junior 10,000 meter national championship.

University Impressive
Szabo did well in the state meets, too, although he didn't win any championships. As a junior, couldn't complain too much—the man who won that event was Iowa's Larry Wiczorek, currently the Big 10 cross-country and indoor mile champion.

STEVE SZABO Runs At 6 A.M.

On his choice of colleges, Szabo decided to make it Iowa because he was impressed with the University's history and physical education departments. He also saw track coach Francis Cretzmeyer as "his kind of coach" when he visited the campus. Szabo wants to eventually teach European history and coach.

Cretzmeyer has since put his charge to good use in distance running. Szabo has already run the mile in 4:13 and the two mile in 9:10.5. His greatest thrill so far came when the Hawkeyes won the Big 10 cross-country title last fall. He finished seventh in that meet.

Cross-Country Best
Szabo admits a preference of indoor running over outdoor. "There are no weather problems inside," he says. Yet, of all the running he's done at Iowa, he likes cross-country the best.

Iowa has only had one outdoor meet this year, an 86-60 loss to Arizona in Tucson. Szabo ran poorly in the meet's two mile event, but attributed his performance to the hot, dry air acting on his lungs.

In the way of personal goals, Szabo hopes to crack a 4:00 mile and a 9:00 two mile. He also expects the team as a whole to pick up on its indoor season pace when it finished third behind Wisconsin and Michigan State. He said, "We should be tough contenders, but we're hurting in some of the field events."

MONTEPELIER, Vt. — There is talk of reviving "sap beer," a potent brew known to Vermonters since Revolutionary days but in scarce supply since prohibition.

National Gym Meet Set For Field House

The best individual men gymnasts in the nation will be decided at Iowa April 28 and 29 when the Hawkeyes are host to the first annual United States Gymnastics Federation championships.

Iowa coach Sam Baillie said Wednesday that the entry list would include collegiate, high school stars and outstanding amateur competitors who have completed their college careers.

Preliminaries at 1:30 p.m. April 28 will qualify eight athletes for the finals at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. No team championship will be involved, Baillie said.

"We expect outstanding entrants from such universities as Southern Illinois, the 1966 and 1967 NCAA team champion; Michigan; Michigan State; Iowa State, Big Eight champion; Arizona; Colorado; Illinois; Oklahoma and many others," Baillie said.

Iowa, Big 10 team champion and third in the NCAA meet, will have most of its varsity athletes, plus the entire freshman squad. Among the Iowa standouts will be Bob Dickson, NCAA regional all-around champion; Keith McCannless, NCAA side horse winner; Ken Gordon and Marc Slotten, side horse stars who, like McCannless, were named on the All-America team.

Six events are on the program: long horse, floor exercise, side horse, horizontal bar, parallel bars and still rings. There will be no competition for all-around honors.

A special event will be the national trampoline challenge tournament, a double-elimination affair. Seven top performers will be picked Friday. These seven men, along with the USGF champion decided earlier at a meet in Tucson, Ariz., will compete in a double elimination tournament.

Maris Happy In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Roger Maris, who wore a New York Yankee uniform for seven seasons, relaxed after his National League debut with the St. Louis Cardinals and said, "It was nice to hear that applause from the fans . . . It's been a long time."

The one-time home run terror of the American League won a spot with the Cardinals Tuesday night as he took advantage of a San Francisco shift to right field by punching a double to short left field and getting a bunt single to the third-base side of the pitcher's mound.

Maris had two hits in five trips to the plate as the Cardinals, noted as an anemic hitting team in 1966, unleashed a 14-hit attack to smother the Giants and Juan Marichal in the season's opener, 6-0. Bob Gibson hurled a five-hitter for St. Louis.

Manager Red Schoendienst of the Cardinals said he told Maris in spring training to "bunt the ball because they're going to shift against you."

"It's tough to get hits, much less home runs," Maris said after Tuesday's game.

4-Day Human Relations Laboratory Slated

Applications are due Friday for a four-day human relations laboratory to be sponsored from April 29 to May 2 by the Student Leadership Training Program. The laboratory will be similar to one held in December in Boone in which 60 University students and several faculty members participated.

The program centers on the theory that learning to work in groups with individuals can be done most effectively by actual participation in and observation of the group process. Eleven persons, including a professional trainer, make up the group. The program is patterned after one developed at the National Training Laboratory in Bethel, Maine. To partially support the program, participants must pay a fee of $25. Applications are available at the Activities Center or from the director of student activities at the Union. Further information may be obtained from Jane Anton or Judy Lewis.

Gallup Cites 8-Year Drop In U.S. Church Attendance

National church attendance has declined during the past eight years with the sharpest loss registered among persons in their 20s, according to results of a leading public opinion poll. George Gallup, managing director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, announced the results in a report at the Religion in American Life Consultation held recently in Buck Hills Falls, Pa. "National church attendance from 1958 to today has declined 5 per cent," Gallup said. "Forty-nine per cent of adults in 1958 said they attended church in a typical week; the 1966 figure is 44 per cent."

Bly To Read Poetry Here

Pinter Plays Open Today

"The Dumbwaiter" and "A Slight Ache" - two one-act plays by Harold Pinter - open at 8 p.m. tonight in University Theatre.

Tickets are still available for the performance at the box office in the Union South Lobby from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. They are free to University students upon presentation of ID cards and registration certificates. General admission charge for the public is $1.50.

The plays will be performed nightly from April 13 to 15 and 17 to 22 in University Theatre.

HE COULDN'T CARE LESS ABOUT THE COST

To him, health, happiness, comfort, and "convenience" are the important things in life.

The cost is secondary - to his parents, too - when the expenditure provides such essential benefits.

That is why the typical family uses more than half again the amount of electricity it did ten years ago - and more gas, as well.

That is why gas and electric bills are higher now than in the past - even though the unit costs have remained low.

Most folks agree - gas and electricity are two of the outstanding values in today's household budget.

yours for better living

UI, City Fight Housing Bias

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last in a three-part series on foreign students.

By ELIZABETH HSUAN Staff Writer

Persons discriminated against in housing can file complaints to the University Committee on Human Rights or to the Iowa City Human Relations Commission.

James Spalding, associate professor of religion and chairman of the committee, said University policy was to bring together persons of many nations, races and creeds in common pursuit of its educational goals.

"At the committee's recommendation, the Registrar's Office has omitted the religion preference question from the application of admission," Spalding said. "The committee was established in January, 1963, when the University found it difficult for Negro students to find apartments or rooms."

Since then, the committee has received only a few complaints. Spalding said this was either because the discrimination was subtle, the victim did not know he was discriminated against or he did not know there was a University Committee on Human Rights.

He said the University was guided by principles which state that in no aspect of its programs should there be differences in the treatment of persons because of race, creed, color, or national origin and that equal opportunity and access to facilities would be available to all.

These principles are expected to be observed in the admission, housing and education of students, and in the employment of faculty and staff personnel. The University works with the community in furthering the principles.

He said the assignment of students who apply for quarters by the University was made on the basis of established assignment procedures, without discrimination.

Spalding said off-campus housing should rent to all students on the basis of their individual merit without discrimination.

Approval by the University of any new off-campus housing for single undergraduate students under 21 would be granted only if the householder agreed in writing to rent to all students without discrimination, he said.

The Office of Student Affairs lists available housing only if the owner or manager agrees in writing to accept student tenants on this basis.

If a student or staff member of the University thinks his application for rental in Iowa City or the Iowa City area has been denied because of discrimination, he has 60 days to make a complaint to the committee.

Spalding said that within two days after receiving the complaint, the chairman of the committee was to refer it to one of a panel of referees selected by the committee. Within one day after receiving the complaint, the referee notifies the householder of a time for a conference with the complainant and the referee.

Within three days after conclusion of the conference, the referee gives a written decision. If the complainant has standing which indicates that such discriminatory refusal to rent has occurred, the householder has two days after a receipt of a copy of the decision in which to mail to the chairman a request for a hearing before the committee to contest the decision.

The committee will determine whether there was discrimination and report to both parties within five days after the hearing. It will also state the action which will be recommended by the committee.

Philip G. Hubbard, dean of academic affairs, also a member of the committee, said the major working area of this committee was not limited to housing. It also helps minority groups get equal treatment in finding jobs and being served in restaurants.

The committee faculty members include James Spalding; Philip G. Hubbard; Donald Carr, assistant professor of Pine School; Lyle Shannon, professor of sociology and anthropology; and Paul M. Neuhauer, professor of law.

The alumni and community members are Alan Leff, William Nusser and Sam Saltzman. The student members are Fred Julander, L. Farnington, N. Mex.; Maureen Kirby, A2, Strawberry Point; Robert Mendelson, NASA trainee in physics, Iowa City; and Donald Johnson, A3, Iowa City.

IFC Smoker To Be Held At Hillcrest

Interfraternity Council (IFC) will hold a Rush Smoker from 1:30 to 3 p.m. April 23 in the Hillcrest Lounge.

All male students who are interested in the Greek system are invited to attend.

Two men from every fraternity will be present to answer questions and give information about their respective houses, according to Mitch D'Olier, A3, Chicago, vice president of IFC.

"We feel there has been a lack of communication between fraternities and the dormitories. This type of question and answer period should help to break some of the barriers," D'Olier said.

STOCK TRADING SLOW

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market failed to muster enough enthusiasm for a continued recovery Wednesday and the result was a feeble advance at the start and a mixed pattern at the close. Trading was slow.

Week-Long Spiritual Quest To Be Held At Colorado U.

University students will take part in a nation-wide conference of students who will spend a week together during "Ashram '67" at the University of Colorado in Boulder, Aug 27-Sept 2.

Sponsored annually by the Lutheran Student Association of America, "Ashram '67" is open to all students, Christian and non-Christian.

"Ashram" comes from the Hindi language and denotes a corporate spiritual quest. The week-long event will involve 300-500 college students and campus ministers who will spend the week considering the problems of war and peace and Christian concern for these in a world of conflict.

Joan Novak, G, Wilber, Neb., adviser to the campus Lutheran Student Association, who will participate, said that 12 persons from the University had indicated interest in attending. Registration forms for others who may be interested are available at Christus House at Church and Dubuque Streets, Miss Novak said.

The registration fee is $16 and room and board for the week, payable upon arrival, is $28. Transportation from Iowa City will be by car.

According to Miss Novak, a hostel plan has been developed to allow Ashram participants who will be traveling long distances to Boulder to spend nights "camping" in church halls, student centers and private homes, usually without charge. Descriptive lists of all hostels would be sent to registrants, Miss Novak said.

The Rev. Duane Addison, pastor at Christus House, has been named a seminar leader for the week-long Ashram.

Varied aspects of the war and peace theme to be considered by small study groups during the week will include the place of violence in the American character, the role of the military chaplain and a study of important Church statements relating to the question of war from the Middle Ages to the present.

A special tele-lecture from Washington, D.C., will bring a message of ideas for promoting peace to Ashram participants.

Highlanders Play Today

Some 25 members of the Scottish Highlanders, all-girl drum and bagpipe band, will perform at the Hotel Burlington in Burlington today.

The half-hour program will begin with a combined pipe and choral piece, "Scotland the Brave." Other choral pieces to be performed by the coeds, dressed in authentic Scottish costumes, will include "The Wee Cooper of Fyfe," "I Never Saw a Moor," and "The Heather on the Hill."

An exhibition of Scottish dancing will be given by Janice Herald, A3, Charlton, and drum major Barbara Brewer, A3, Clarinda, will give a short talk on the history and traditions of the Scottish Highlanders.

The group was formed in 1937 as an all-male ROTC military unit, but coeds took over the ranks in 1943 when the group was threatened with a wartime shortage of men.

Union Board Begins Year With Parley

Union Board set into motion its new year of programming at a Leadership Training Conference Sunday afternoon at the Union. Participating in the program were the new Union Board directors, secretaries and committee chairmen.

The purpose of the conference, according to Kenneth Padgham, L2, Evergreen Park, Ill., Union Board president, was to orient new members with the structure of Union Board and to make them feel that they are a part of the Board as a whole. The idea behind this is to build better communication and cooperation between the various areas, so that members will know about and take advantage of a large variety of Board programs.

In a speech delivered at the conference, Padgham called for "cooperation — not competition — with other campus organizations." He described Union Board as "a service organization designed to benefit the University community as a whole by providing a wide variety of programs which will appeal to divergent interests."

He explained that the purpose of the Board was to "provide programs, facilities and opportunities for group interaction; supplementing the University in providing for the educational, cultural, personal and social growth of the individual."

During an interview, Padgham called for expansion of the activities of the personnel, research and promotion-publicity areas. He stated that the problems which these areas must face were: strengthening the Board's internal structure, discovering what programs students are most interested in, and increasing student interest in existing programs.

"Suggestions are always welcome," Padgham stated. He announced that he would be at the Union Board office in the Activities Center every Monday from 1:30 until 2:30 p.m. to receive questions, suggestions and criticism pertaining to Union Board.

At the interview, Padgham released the names of the other officers and directors. They are: vice-president and personnel director, William Pfeiffer, G, Iowa City; secretary, Ardes Beisler, A3, Arlington Heights, Ill.; music, Sally Holm, A2, Coralville; dances and entertainment, Sharon Main, A3, Hinsdale, Ill.; forums and lectures, Stephen Mueller, B3, Saint Ansgar; hospitality, Diane Hawkinson, A2, Keokuk, Ill.; art, Mary Jill Wiley, A2, Cedar Rapids; promotion and publicity, Robert Wilshire, A3, Omaha, Neb.; literary, Susan Kostick, A2, Great Neck, N.Y.; movies, Marlys Balanoff, A3, Des Moines; games, Edward Kolkler, L2, Iowa City; research, David Duke, A4, Waterloo; and outings, Judith Burling, A3, Park Ridge, Ill.

MAX S. WORTMAN JR., associate professor of industrial relations, was elected president of the Midwest Division of the Academy of Management Saturday at the annual meeting at Northwestern University. For the past year Wortman has been president-elect of the regional organization, whose membership includes faculty members in management and industrial relations in a 10-state area.

4 Pharmacy Profs Attend Meeting

Four members of the College of Pharmacy are participating in the annual convention of the American Pharmaceutical Association and the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy in Las Vegas, Nev., this week.

Dean Louis C. Zopf will present a paper on pharmacy-veterinary medicine relations before the Academy of General Practice of Pharmacy.

Seymour M. Blaug, professor of pharmacy, will present a paper before the section on physical pharmacy of the Academy of Pharmaceutical Sciences, and David P. Carew, professor of pharmacy, will speak before the section of pharmacognosy and natural products of the Academy of Pharmaceutical Sciences.

William Tester, associate professor of pharmacy and director of pharmaceutical services, will serve as the chairman of the resolutions committee of the American Society of Hospital Pharmacists.

Members of the College of Pharmacy Unit Dose Study, William Tester, Jon Tanja, Gary Deener, and Mrs. Pearl Johnson, will have an exhibit and will show a film on Unit Dose Packaging, made by the University Motion Picture Center and the College of Pharmacy.

'DEMOCRACY' AND 'JUSTICE' MADRID, Spain (AP) — Police wounding riot clubs broke up two demonstrations by about 300 students in Madrid Tuesday. The students shouted "democracy, not dictatorship" and "justice for workers and students." The students from Madrid University were supporting 16 Barcelona students who face trial on charges of illegal political activity.

Hospital Tests Anti-Coagulant Enzyme

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth part in a series about heart research at the University.

By MARILYN OSWEILER
Staff Writer

Last October in University Hospital a 23 year-old man was recovering from corrective surgery performed 13 days earlier when a massive blood clot developed in his lung. He stopped breathing and his heart stopped beating. Death seemed imminent.

Emergency procedures were begun at once and he began to breathe again. Doctors massaged his heart until it resumed beating. Intravenous equipment was set up and soon a recently discovered drug was on its way into the patient's bloodstream.

Eight hours later the infusion was completed. The patient was alive, resting and breathing normally. The new drug had saved his life.

The drug is made from urokinase, an enzyme extracted from human urine, according to Dr. Kenneth L. Walgreen, assistant professor of medicine.

Enzyme Dissolves Clots
The enzyme, used in concentrated form, dissolves blood clots by reversing the complicated process which occurs when certain elements of the blood unite to form a clot.

It takes 100 gallons of urine to extract an average dose for infusion therapy.

Walgreen said that urokinase is in powdered form when it reaches the hospital. Before injection, it is dissolved with sterilized water.

He added that it is injected into the patient over an eight-hour interval. The amount and the effect of the drug is continuously monitored during its infusion.

Urokinase has been used three times at University Hospital to treat pulmonary embolism (blood clots in the lungs.) It has been successful each time, Walgreen said.

Clots Form In Leg
Clots are usually formed in veins in the legs. On occasion, the clots break loose. They are carried back into the heart and into the lungs, blocking the flow of blood there.

Walgreen said the coagulation laboratory in University Hospital had been doing research with urokinase for about nine months.

Before urokinase was available for dissolving blood clots, the only other method of treating the victim was to remove the clot surgically.

are being formed in the legs and surgical removal of all of them is impossible. In addition, the patients are usually acutely ill and often too weak to risk surgery.

Many Die After Surgery
Walgreen said that the results of a recent study published in a medical report showed that of those operated on for acute massive pulmonary clots, 57 per cent died following surgery.

"Treatment is markedly improved with urokinase therapy and frequently, the patients leave the hospital only days after treatment," said Walgreen.

Physicians in the Department of Internal Medicine in the coagulation lab are carrying on extensive research, attempting to better define the factors which affect both the formation and lysis (dissolving) of blood clots.

Doctors doing this research are Walgreen and William E. Connor, associate professor of internal medicine.

SPACE PROJECT—
TOKYO (AP)—Radio Moscow told Japanese listeners Tuesday night the Soviet Union expects to carry out "an important project" in space development this year. The Japanese - language broadcast quoted an instructor of Soviet cosmonauts as mentioning this in a speech on "space day."

Engle To Attend Assembly On East European Writing

Paul Engle, professor of English, of the Writers Workshop will attend an American Assembly on eastern Europe, sponsored by Columbia University at Harriman, N.Y., on April 26-29.

Leszek Elektrowicz, a Polish writer who is spending this academic year at the Workshop, is expected to accompany Engle. The assembly will include seminars and conferences attended by Ambassador Averell Harriman, government officials, and experts on eastern Europe.

Engle, who has visited Poland in the past few years, will discuss eastern European writing and his plans for bringing writers from that region to an International Writing Program he is establishing at the Workshop.

Elektorowicz is an editor with a leading Polish literary magazine, and has published fiction, three books of poems, and the only book of criticism in Polish of the recent American novel.

SOVIETS CALL MEETING—
MOSCOW (AP)—Leaders of most European Communist countries and parties in non-Communist nations will attend a meeting in Czechoslovakia April 24-27, informed sources said Tuesday. The Soviet-called meeting will criticize West German policy and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.
