

Council Approves Housing Agency, Issuing Of Bonds

The Iowa City council passed an ordinance Tuesday night establishing a low rent housing agency. The agency will investigate housing needs in Iowa City.

The council also fixed the date for the initiation of proceedings for the issuance of $1 million in water revenue bonds, granted permission to Sigma Chi to hold a parking lot dance on April 28 and appointed two members to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

The five-member housing agency "shall investigate and determine if any slum areas exist or other areas where there is unsafe, unsanitary or overcrowded housing conditions." The agency will report its findings to the city council.

Mayor William C. Hubbard said that he already had the names of 15 people suggested to him to serve on the agency.

The council set May 8 to begin the proceedings for the issuance of $1 million in water revenue bonds. This money will be used for improvements in the city water system. The needed improvements were determined by a 1964 survey.

Permission was granted to Sigma Chi to use the parking lot next to Varsity Cleaners on Washington Street for a dance on April 28. The dance will be part of the fraternity's annual Derby Days.

Rusk Offers Slowdown If Communists Agree

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk issued a new public peace appeal to North Vietnam Tuesday and offered more to scale down the war in Vietnam if the Communists "will take appropriate corresponding steps."

But Rusk himself told the opening session of a Southeast Asia Treaty Organization council meeting that the North Vietnamese have given curt refusal to every peace bid so far made, and U.S. officials state privately that they see no evidence now of any softening of Hanoi's part.

Rusk addressed the ceremonial opening of the 12th annual conference of SEATO foreign ministers shortly after the South Vietnam government announced in Saigon it would be prepared to pull back from the demilitarized zone if North Vietnam did likewise, as a step toward peace.

Rusk said that North Vietnam believes critical public opinion will cause the United States to abandon or weaken its support of South Vietnam.

"Any such supposition is a basic miscalculation which prolongs the war, thus adding to the casualties," he said Tuesday.

Rusk inserted in his prepared speech the new appeal for peace talks, saying, "Once again I urge Hanoi to make use of some machinery or some diplomatic process to engage in discussions that could lead to peace."

SEATO was organized in 1954 and Thailand's foreign minister, Thanat Khoman, said it failed to meet its first test in 1959 when Communist forces undertook to overrun much of Laos.

DEAN RUSK

Khoman also said his government's recent decision to allow its SEATO allies, particularly the United States, to use military installations in Thai territory was designed to give a meaning to the organization, or otherwise it would be reduced to a useless carcass.

The eight-nation alliance is holding its 12th annual meeting of foreign ministers. France, which is opposed to the U.S. role in the war in Southeast Asia, did not send any representative, boycotting the session.

Senate Calls For New Policies On Housing, Exams

By ELAINE SCHROEDER Staff Writer

The Student Senate met for more than three hours Tuesday night but was only able to vote on three of the ten bills and resolutions which were listed on its agenda.

Resolutions passed called for alteration of the University's policy on approved housing, exemption of second semester seniors from final examinations and establishment of co-educational dormitories.

Lee Breneman's resolution concerning approved housing, which was unanimously approved, would provide that any student, even if less than 21 years old, be allowed to live where he or she chooses — with parental consent.

Present University policy requires any student under the age of 21 to live only in housing which has been approved by University officials.

Breneman's resolution stated that this policy is "contrary to the nature of our national tradition."

Also unanimously passed by the senate was a resolution submitted by Sen. Ken Wessels which gave senate support to the Associated Residence Halls' proposal to convert Kate Baum to a men's dormitory and Rienow Hall to a women's dormitory, thereby establishing a system of co-ed dorms.

Wessels' proposal stated that "co-ed dorm systems generally increase student interest in inter-dorm athletics, government and education and social opportunities."

Faculty Council Appoints 3 Men For Barnett Case

Another step was taken in dismissal proceedings against Donald L. Barnett Tuesday when the University Faculty Council appointed a three-man committee to investigate whether proceedings should continue.

The Council acted in reply to a letter from Pres. Howard R. Bowen, which said, "Professor Barnett has waived the first several steps in dismissal proceedings. The next step is for me to request the University Faculty Council to appoint a committee of three to inquire quickly and informally into the affair and to decide whether in their opinion formal proceedings are justified."

The Council appointed an already existing ad hoc committee to serve as the investigating committee.

Members of the committee are Dan E. Branson, professor of civil engineering; Eugene Garber, assistant professor of English; and Donald B. Johnson, professor of political science.

Dismissal proceedings against Barnett, assistant professor of sociology and anthropology, were started after Barnett turned in "F" grades for all of his first semester students on March 10. The University said that such grades were "totally unacceptable," and moved for his dismissal on these grounds.

At the time he turned in failing grades for his first semester students, Barnett also turned in his resignation to be effective June 1, 1967.

The resignation was accepted, and dismissal procedures as outlined in the University Operational Manual were begun. Barnett, however, called the proceedings "fraudulent and malicious," and has refused to take any part in them.

The third resolution passed unanimously by the senate resolved that second semester seniors should be exempted from final examinations in any course in which they have an A or B.

The resolution, which was sponsored by Senators Carl Varner, Randy Swisher and Carl Stuart, would allow second semester seniors to have the option of taking final exams. It would also give a course instructor the option of requiring a senior to take a final exam. The instructors' decision would be final.

The senate tabled or referred to committee for further consideration resolutions on housing contract policies and the dismissal of senators.

The senate adjourned at 9:40 p.m. before it could consider resolutions concerning financial autonomy of student organizations, student organization accounts, and a bill calling for funds for the Midwest Non-Violence Convention. These were listed as old business on the senate agenda.

A resolution for a student cooperative bookstore and a bill calling for a student bill of rights were listed as new business, but the meeting was adjourned before they could be introduced.

Senators absent from the meeting without substitutes were Tom Stone and Glen Meredith. Senators Randy Swisher and Fred Wallace sent substitutes.

King Is Losing Power, Speaker Tells Panel

The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King has lost his leadership in the civil rights movement, a speaker contended Tuesday night at a civil rights panel discussion in the Union.

King has fallen from favor because "the non-violent approach is not palatable to Negroes and not effective either," Lena Baker, a former student, told a meeting of the Friends of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee.

"Something else has to be done," Miss Baker told about 50 persons at a meeting in the Union Lucas-Dodge Room.

Miss Baker said that she was not a follower of King. She said, "I strongly support Black Nationalism. As far as Black Nationalism is concerned, you know how King thinks. He addresses predominantly the white population. He hopes to persuade them to make changes. Black Nationalism directly involves people in making changes in their own lives."

Another panel member, Charles E. Darden, A.S. Waterloo, said that King based his program on a premise that didn't exist. He said that King's premise was that the white man was a Christian.

"He is talking to people who aren't really Christians, but who think they are," Darden said.

The discussion went on to the possibility of uniting the civil rights groups.

Miss Baker said that the movement would be more effective if there was unity. She was countered by James Rogers, G. St. Louis, Mo., panel discussion leader, who said organizations shouldn't be united and that it was impossible anyway.

Philip Jones, G. Chicago, spoke from the audience. He said that it would not be wise to unite the organizations. He said that the organizations should be permitted to work through different channels. He said, "We should utilize every facet of the revolution," and pointed out that each organization served a specific purpose.

Transit System Needs Reported To Council

A recommendation that the Iowa City transit system should be extended and improved was the conclusion of a study made by W. C. Gilman & Co., Inc., for the Iowa City Council.

The Cleveland, Ohio, transportation consultants suggested improvements in the transit system because it "contributes to the economic stability of the central area and serves the needs of the growing community and University."

The report suggested that a 60-day rush-hour trial service be started on two new routes, one to serve the southwestern part of the city and the other to serve Coralville.

The southwestern route would go west on Benton Street as far as Sunset Street. The report said that an "origin-destination survey conducted by the University in 1966 revealed that there are more University personnel living in this area than in any other part of the city not served by the bus company."

The report recommended that the Coralville route go as far as 14th Avenue.

"If a trial period of rush-hour service to Coralville were begun, an understanding with officials of that community should be formulated in order to insure a self-supporting operation," the report said.

An extension of the Rundell Street route was recommended. However, the report said, the extension should be delayed "because of the limited number of buses available for added service and new extensions."

The report also said that the establishment of a shuttle bus service to a proposed student parking lot east of the airport would "help alleviate the on-campus and on-street parking problem at a modest cost." The new lot is scheduled to be built this summer.

"For the present," the report said, "the existing 10-cent fare should be retained and, in the absence of specific data, the present subsidy should be continued." The city and University have agreed to pay the Iowa City Coach Company $5,000 a month for an indefinite period to cover a deficit reported at $55,000 per year.

The report recommended that a stronger bus replacement program be instituted to "maintain and possibly reduce the average age of the bus fleet and result in lower maintenance and operating costs." The 11 buses vary in age from three to 17 years, averaging 11.

The study of the Iowa City transit system was authorized last fall after the bus company said it would be forced to discontinue service if a subsidy were not established.

Former UI Dean Named To Head U. Of Missouri

A recent University administrator, John C. Weaver, was inaugurated Tuesday as the 14th president of the University of Missouri.

Weaver was vice president for Research and Dean of the Graduate College at the University from 1961 to June, 1964, when he became vice president of Academic Affairs at Ohio State University. He was named president of the University of Missouri in January, 1966, and took office last September.

As president of the four-campus, 40,000-student University of Missouri system, he succeeds a University alumnus, Elmer Ellis, who retired last year after serving 12 years.

Vatican Stand Is Firm On Birth Control Issue

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican sternly warned Roman Catholics Tuesday that they must still observe their church's teachings against artificial contraception.

The reaffirmation of the traditional stand appeared in a blunt editorial in the Vatican newspaper l'Osservatore Romano. There was speculation that Pope Paul VI himself had written the editorial or ordered it written.

The unsigned editorial declared that the Pope's encyclical "Populorum Progressio" — the development of peoples — issued last March 2 must not be misinterpreted as containing any changes on birth control. It said the encyclical's reference to the problem "must be read in the context of the teaching of the church."

While the editorial was essentially another restatement of the church's established position, its timing and length gave it special importance. It was the longest editorial yet on the developing birth control debate.

It was the first official comment to come from the Vatican since the weekend publication in an American Catholic weekly of the secret report from the Pope's birth control commission urging him to permit contraception.

Public disclosure of the report's contents upset Vatican officials. Many see it as an attempt to force the Pope before he was ready into making the statement on birth control that he had promised.

Pope Paul has also asserted that until any changes in the birth control rules are made the rules are not in doubt and Catholics must reject mechanical or chemical means of contraception. The only means of birth control permitted by the church are total abstinence or the rhythm method.

The editorial emphasized this again, saying:

"It is the duty of married couples to achieve control of themselves, of their dignity in what concerns the transmission of life. To rely on means contrary to this dignity means accepting a materialistic philosophy of man and life."

The editorial also attacked any suggestions that the encyclical's brief mention of birth control pointed toward a change on artificial contraception.

Carmichael's Aims Vary In Campus Speeches

NEW YORK (AP) — What are the aims of Stokely Carmichael, the black power advocate, and his Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee?

As gathered from a series of speeches Carmichael has been making on college campuses, the aims range from mass Negro resistance to the military draft to the introduction of Swahili as a foreign language in Negro schools.

Carmichael also urges Negro students to be proud that they are black.

"We must stand up and say 'our noses are wide, our lips are thick, our hair is nappy, we are black and beautiful,'" he told an audience at Texas Southern University in Houston.

At a University of Texas campus meeting in Austin, Carmichael said, "Hopefully, the full strength of black power will be felt in the national elections of 1972 — it's at least a five-year organization plan."

In a speech at Florida A. & M., Carmichael called on Negroes of military age to form a gigantic antidraft system.

"The first few Negroes who tell their draft boards, 'Hell no, we ain't going,' might wind up in jail," Carmichael said. "But we'd soon get it so Negroes wouldn't have to get drafted."

He counseled Negro students in several of his speeches that "if a white man hits you — break him... if a hunky tries to shoot you, kill him before God gets the news."

Speaking at a meeting at predominantly Negro Bethune-Cookman College in Daytona Beach, Carmichael asked: "Are you studying German? What good will that do you? Why not study Swahili: If you know Swahili, you can talk to your African brothers and the white men won't know what you are talking about."

Swahili is a language of the Bantu tribe and is commonly used in trade and government in East Africa and the Congo.

Carmichael also set forth his definition of black power: "The coming together of black people to fight for their freedom by whatever means necessary."

"It's not a question of civilization, baby," he said in a talk in Tallahassee, Fla. "It's a question of survival."

News in Brief

CHICAGO (AP) — Richard Speck, convicted killer of eight student nurses, said Tuesday he could have escaped from his cell at the Peoria County Courthouse.

IOWA CITY — A two-car accident on Highway 6 in front of Veterans Hospital Tuesday night resulted in both drivers being injured, according to Iowa City Police. Officers said Mrs. Dorothy L. Coon, 1409 Yewell St., had stopped on the highway to make a left-hand turn into the entrance of Veterans Hospital. Police said a second auto driven by Keith R. Honey, Route 1, Iowa City, collided with the rear of the Coon auto.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson took off for Washington Tuesday night, ending a long-weekend vacation at his Texas ranch following the hemisphere summit conference. He was accompanied by Mrs. Johnson.

Johnson's return to the capitol ends an 8-day absence from the White House.

Amish proposal is good

The proposals of a special study committee on the Amish school problem should be adopted.

The committee, which was appointed by Gov. Harold E. Hughes and includes Pres. Howard R. Bowen, said that the Amish school problem could be solved by exempting the schools from state educational standards.

During the last couple years Iowa has received nationwide publicity — most of it unwanted — in its attempts to get the Amish to conform to state education regulations. Present state law requires that all public and private schools meet certain standards and that teachers must be certified by the state. The Amish contend that these standards violate their religious freedom.

Last year, the governor found a temporary solution by having the Amish children attend their schools but under state certified teachers paid by the Danforth Foundation.

The study committee's report recommends that any recognized church or religious denomination established for 10 years could apply to the state superintendent of public instruction for exemption from state regulations. The exemption would last for two years and could be renewed. The committee also recommended that the state school superintendent have the power to test the adequacy of the Amish schools by testing the basic skills of the Amish children.

Some people contend that such an exemption would lead other religious groups to seek the same privileges. But it should be noted that the Amish are an unusual group in that their religion is based on a simple agrarian life basically unconcerned with modern day problems and conveniences.

The Amish hold to their religious convictions stubbornly and if the state infringes on those convictions we will see another series of arrests, cries of religious persecution and there will be more detrimental publicity.

As the committee stated, "There should still be a place in American life for nonconformity in educational approach based upon religious principles but . . . that nonconformity should not be extended to include total absence of educational preparedness for a useful adult life."

Speck appeal will be critical

In June of last year the Supreme Court ruled that Dr. Samuel Sheppard had been deprived of a fair trial because he was not protected from "massive, pervasive and prejudicial publicity that attended his prosecution."

The Cleveland newspapers had tried Sheppard before any judge or jury had been chosen. The Supreme Court drew up some specific guidelines for trial judges to follow to see that this did not happen again.

Now, the first real test of the guidelines will probably present itself in the murder trial of Richard F. Speck, found guilty last Saturday by a court in Peoria, Illinois, on a charge of murdering eight student nurses last July in Chicago.

Speck's attorney, Cook County Public Defender Gerald W. Getty, now plans to charge that public prejudice in Peoria made it impossible for Speck to have been given a fair trial.

Was the publicity Speck received presented in such a way that it prejudiced the jurors? Chicago's American referred to the murderer as a "mad killer," a "strangler," a "fiend," a "maniac slayer" and a "sub-animal." Most of these references were in huge, blaring, underlined headlines.

The Chicago Sun-Times carried an article by Jimmy Breslin of the New York Herald-Tribune with references to Speck. For example: "His world was whores and old men who were homosexuals." "With acne face and a bent mind, he is accused of crawling into the life that others lead and killing eight young student nurses with a knife and with his hands."

Enough? There is more: "He was stretched out on an uncovered mattress that smelled of other people. He watched the blood run out of the cuts he had made in his wrists. The blood seeped through the mattress and dripped onto a newspaper under the bed."

The Chicago Tribune ran a 5 x 7 1/2 inch picture of that bloody mattress.

True, he was being tried for a sensational crime. But that did not necessitate the sensationalizing of the news reports of the crime.

Was the publicity Speck received presented so that it would prejudice the jurors? Somebody is going to have to decide. First the Illinois Supreme Court will get the case, and then maybe the United States Supreme Court will have to face the case again. Whatever is decided is going to have great importance in police work, in law and in journalism.

Contraceptives Advocated

By ADELE BUTTERFIELD

Staff Writer
EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second part of a three-part series on a sex attitudes survey conducted recently by The Daily Iowan.

The majority of students polled recently by The Daily Iowan thought use of contraceptives should not be limited to married women. Of the students answering the questionnaire, 81.1 per cent advocated contraceptives for married women and 73.5 per cent for single women.

The reason most frequently cited for use of contraceptives among both married and unmarried women was to prevent the conception of "unwanted" children. Children might be unwanted, students said, for economic, health and social reasons and for purposes of population control.

Students viewed family planning as an essential ingredient for a happy marriage. "Family planning is important to marriage, especially for young couples so as to insure good economic support and security for the family. Sexual as well as other relations need a chance to develop fully and happily without worrying about a not-yet-wanted child," one coed said.

Another coed said, "It is essential that couples plan their families for both financial and marital reasons." "I feel children should be planned so that . . . babies will arrive in families where they are wanted and will be loved," a third student said.

The financial status of the family is an important factor in family planning. Spacing and the number of children is largely dependent upon the economic condition of the family.

"I do not think families should have more children than they can support. The whole family suffers," said one coed.

A male student agreed. "I believe that married people have a right to decide when they can afford children and when they are ready for them."

Two male undergraduates, one married and one single, summed up the question of family planning.

"Having a family is something that should be planned, not an accident," the married student said.

The single man commented, "I believe in planned parenthood, and the use of contraceptives is the most effective way to make your plans turn out as you expect them to."

Many students challenged the age-old belief that sexual intercourse is purely for the purpose of conceiving children.

"It seems infinitely healthier and more logical that children be conceived when desired and intercourse be realized as an act valid in itself, rather than a necessary means towards conception," a coed said.

A male student said, "It is obvious that most married couples do not wish to produce as many children as biologically possible. The use of contraceptives would seem to be the most efficacious and otherwise desirable way of preventing pregnancy."

"Using contraceptives gives the couple a sense of a freer sexual relationship, which I feel is necessary for a well-adjusted marriage," a married student stated.

A married graduate student said, "Any argument for contraceptives must, or will, somewhere include something about the feelings of the two people involved. Contraceptive devices allow for much more spontaneity in the relationship, and I do believe that adds to the ease of family living. (You never have to put your eager husband off because it's the middle of your 'month' and pregnancy is almost assured if you accede to his desires.)"

A coed was in favor of contraceptives "because if a couple doesn't want children, I don't think they should have to sacrifice their sexual relations."

"The danger of pregnancy hanging over the heads of the married couple seriously inhibits the enjoyment of sex," another married student said.

Contraceptives were given the yes vote in several instances for the safety of the mother. Sometimes the mother's life would be endangered by a pregnancy. In such cases, contraceptives were advisable, students said.

A married male student added to the health factor the consideration that "a baby that causes a hardship can often be an unwanted baby."

The population explosion was an important consideration for many students. A coed viewed the problem from the sociological standpoint. "The world population being as it is — I don't see where there should be any indecision," she said.

"For the first time we have a solution not only to personal 'population explosion' problems but also to the world-wide population explosion. The pill especially has given us the first chance to regulate the ever-growing crisis of too many people and not enough space to give to them," a male student said.

"Frankly, the population explosion . . . makes me think that family planning on a world wide basis is the only solution," a male graduate commented.

A married graduate favored use of contraceptives because she thought people today have not yet caught up with history.

"World wide concern over the increasingly-pressing problem of population explosion is an area where the discussion of artificial controls of conception is likely to be heard. This is the most practical and beneficial use of contraceptive devices."

"Deaths of children at birth are fractions of what they were 100 years ago, yet many European and American families continue to produce great numbers of children, theoretically hoping a few will survive to adulthood. But with better medical attention more are surviving, and it then becomes a question of affording to raise them. . . . Most long-range goals of young people about to embark on parenthood include somewhere providing for their children's world. . . . In addition, they want to be able to provide their children with as comfortable and smooth a childhood as possible."

Freedom from inhibitions and outside controls has become the battle cry of today's college student. This attitude was reflected in one graduate student's reply to the questionnaire. "I believe that women, married or unmarried, should be completely free to use whatever form of birth control, including abortion, they wish."

A married graduate thought "people should have some sense of controlling their own lives, including their family life." The psychological aspect was interestingly brought out by a coed who said, "If children will mentally upset the parents, I do not think the parents should undergo undue mental stress when they can avoid the stress by using contraceptives."

"On the other hand," a male student said, "I believe that in some cases it would probably be more harmful to the woman (to practice birth control). Giving birth is without doubt one of woman's greatest ways of expressing herself. One must realize that the giving of birth is also a psychological thing for her."

A coed voiced her objection to contraceptives on grounds of safety.

"The reason has nothing to do with morality. I only feel that many contraceptives, especially 'the pill,' are unproven and may be unsafe," she said.

A medical student objected because "some contraceptives such as medically proven foams and jellies are acceptable though not always effective. Pills and vaginal devices get the no vote. I believe mass use of them without full knowledge of possible carcinogenic (cancerous) and other deleterious effects is questionable."

A small number of students objected because their religious beliefs prohibit use of contraceptives.

"My religion forbids the use of contraceptives and I respect the reasoning which negates their use," one student said. "However, I hope that in the future more research will provide some natural (that is, something which would make the woman's menstrual cycle regular) reliable means to prevent conception when for reasons of health, economic status, marital strain, etc., a pregnancy would be harmful to the marriage."

Some of the confusion that exists today in the minds of many Catholics on the morality of birth control methods was reflected in one student's reply. To the question, "Are you in favor of married women using contraceptives to prevent pregnancy, he answered no.

"This is a terribly ambiguous position for me to take," he said. "I'm torn between the material advantages of using contraceptives and the official position of the Catholic Church. Strictly on the basis of moral interpretation, I am not in favor of any type of artificial means."

According to Catholic teaching, birth control is allowed for serious economic or health reasons. Catholics are permitted to use only the rhythm method to prevent pregnancy.

To the statement, "Are you in favor of single women using contraceptives to prevent pregnancy," 73.5 per cent of those polled answered yes. Many of the reasons given were the same as those given for favoring use of contraceptives among married women.

"If two people love one another enough, I can't think of any better way of expressing this love than through sexual intercourse. And since contraceptives prevent any unwanted pregnancies, I'm all for their use by single women," a male student said.

Some students who were not against premarital intercourse thought it should be restricted to engaged couples. A male student said, "I would say it is O.K. in a situation where the couple is planning to be engaged or married. Using pills or other contraceptives will merely help these people know each other better through sexual intercourse."

Most of the students in favor of single women using contraceptives thought that premarital sex would be engaged in whether or not birth control methods were available.

One coed stated, "If they are going to have premarital sex relationships, they can get birth control pills or a vaginal device. Therefore, I feel that it would just prevent the possibility of an unwanted child. The child is the one who suffers the most."

"People will have premarital sexual relations whether they have contraceptives or not and I can see no excuse for illegitimate children," another coed agreed.

Students who engage in premarital sex should assume responsibility for preventing conception, some students thought. A married graduate student added, "Why should a child that will be given away be brought into this world? Children are truly gifts of God and should be treated this way."

"If a woman is going to engage in sexual relations, she may as well prevent any future problems she may have. Better that she use contraceptives now than an overdose of sleeping pills later," a male student said.

Students were generally in favor of single women's use of contraceptives to prevent shotgun weddings, illegitimate children, abortion and social embarrassment.

A married graduate favored the availability of contraceptives "because to deny single women this right is to deny them the right to choose their own way of behaving. To deny them this is to automatically assume that single women are irresponsible or prone to 'latent promiscuity' — which is not only false but silly."

Of the students answering the questionnaire who were against single women's use of contraceptives, 83 per cent held their opinions because of moral or religious beliefs. "I think the argument that it's better to find out if you're compatible before marriage than after marriage is pure rationalization."

A married graduate succinctly stated his opinion that "Single women should not be worried about becoming pregnant."

"Sexual relations belong in married life only. Single women using contraceptives are destroying the moral character of our society," a single graduate student agreed.

One coed was against single women's engaging in premarital sex because "it would detract from the meaning of sexual relationship with the husband when married."

Whether students were for or against single women using contraceptives, the issue centered on the moral responsibility of the individual either to abstain from premarital intercourse or, if engaging in it, to prevent conception.

A married female graduate student concluded, "If any girl thinks sex is the thing for her, and is conscious of her position as unmarried, and doesn't want to stick her sexual partner with a family he may not want, and in general is concerned about the situation to do some thinking about it, then I say give her the opportunity to use contraceptives. But," she added, "let her ask for them."

Reader hits WSUI operations

To the Editor:

This year there has been some noise about the type of music played on WSUI. The students have wanted the station to play the top 40 tunes. The station in turn has called the top 40 tunes trash and said that they can be heard on any other station. WSUI has constantly said they are an honorable operation.

I know that the F.C.C. would very much like to make a trip to Iowa City after they have been notified of such actions by a radio station. Their only answer would be the somewhat unkind move of revoking WSUI's broadcasting license. Boy, that would be cruel, because now we would have no pseudo-educational station to save us from the trash music that is played by all the honest broadcasting stations.

You won't believe it

To the Editor:

Help us! The Mad Decorator is loose again in Currier Hall. Obviously believing in Dr. Samuel Johnson's theory that art should please by variety, the Mad Decorator has taken a sound idea and twisted it into an unnatural extreme. Our dining room has these wall surfaces (in one room):

1. yellow paint
2. wood paneling
3. simulated paneling (contact paper)
4. simulated brick (contact paper)
5. wallpaper: giant green and yellow nasturtiums
6. wallpaper: blue and aqua scenic (victorian buildings)

All this uncoordinated variety resembles nothing more than the delusions of a schizophrenic fancy. Anyone with a panoramic vision is overwhelmed and nauseated. The residents of Currier with a modicum of aesthetic sensibility will be continually affronted by this insane decor.

Everyone is invited to come take a look. Seeing is believing, but you won't believe it!

Frances Puhl Named Editor Of 1968 Hawkeye Yearbook

Frances Ann Puhl, A3, Mason City, was named editor of the 1968 Hawkeye student yearbook Tuesday.

The announcement was made by a representative of the Board of Student Publications, Inc., the student-faculty board which advises the Hawkeye and The Daily Iowan.

Business manager for the 1968 yearbook will be Steven W. Seymore, A3, Mason City.

PUHL SEYMORE

Miss Puhl has worked on the Hawkeye staff since her freshman year and is assistant editor of this year's edition.

As editor she will be in charge of everything that appears in the 1968 book.

When asked about her feelings toward the Hawkeye and her new position, Miss Puhl said, "I have really enjoyed working under June Hall this past year and expect the 1967 Hawkeye to be extremely fine. I hope the experience that I have gained on the yearbook staff will permit me to do as good a job next year."

June Hall, A4, Joplin, Mo., is the current editor of the Hawkeye.

Seymore, an economics major, will have the responsibility of selling the books themselves and space on the individual pages in the books. He succeeds Chester Paul Dagle, LI, Iowa City.

Sell Iowa, Summerwill Tells Club

For Iowa to continue to grow it must sell itself in the major industrial centers in both the United States and overseas, William W. Summerwill, president of Iowa State Bank & Trust, said Tuesday.

Summerwill spoke on "The Sell-Iowa Trade Missions Abroad" at the regular meeting of the Iowa City Kiwanis Club in the Jefferson Hotel.

"For the past three years Iowa merchants, bankers, government officials and other individuals have conducted promotional actions throughout the United States, Europe and the Far East," he said.

Several students said the legalization of abortion might lower the high divorce rate by reducing the number of persons forced into marriage by pregnancy.

The legalization might also provide an economic advantage for the state by reducing the number of unwed mothers and dependent children it must support, Miss Taylor said.

Several students said the legalization might eliminate illegal abortions performed by unprofessional persons by unhealthful methods and at unreasonably high costs.

Legal in Case Of Rape

Some students said that a woman who had been raped should be able to have her child aborted legally. Other students said that any child who was not wanted should not be brought into the world.

According to David Markham, A3, Iowa City, the attitude toward birth control in this country is the cause of much of the abortion problem. There needs to be a change in the viewpoint of the American people toward birth control and more adequate sex education in the junior and senior high schools, he said.

Miss Taylor called the American people hypocritical in their attitude toward birth control.

"We must be hypocrites if we hold this attitude against birth control and at the same time send birth control pills to countries such as India," she said.

Soundoff Debates Abortion

By FRAN PUHL Staff Writer

Abortion is moral and should be legalized in Iowa, according to some Soapbox Soundoff speakers. Other students at Tuesday's forum said abortion was immoral and should not be legalized.

Several speakers said abortion was immoral but that the state should not make laws prohibiting it.

Jean D. Taylor, A2, Ridgefield, N. J., led off Tuesday's Soundoff with a list of reasons why abortion should be legalized. She said the legalization of abortion might lower the high divorce rate by reducing the number of persons forced into marriage by pregnancy.

The discussion turned to the moral aspects of abortion when the Rev. Robert P. Stenger, O.P., visiting associate professor of religion, said he considered abortion the "taking of a human life."

Stenger said, "One right hasn't been mentioned — the right of the child."

Biologists will not state a certain time when an embryo or a fetus becomes a human being, Stenger said. The process is a gradual one from conception to adult growth, he explained.

Stenger said it was up to God, not to humans, to decide when a human life should be ended.

Rights Of Unborn

The Rev. William M. Weir, minister of the Unitarian Universalist Society of Iowa City, gave evidence that some measures are being taken to improve the needed sex education.

Moral Aspects Discussed

"The Iowa City Community schools are asking opinions about what kind of sex education should be used in the schools here," he said.

Weir urged the Soundoff audience to present to the Iowa City curriculum coordinator their opinions on what information should be included in the school courses.

Several students said they did not believe that the government should have the authority to legislate on such personal problems as abortion.

Stenger also mentioned the "rights of the unborn" under such laws as those concerned with inheritance.

Weir countered Stenger's remarks.

"The laws of the state do not call abortion murder," he said. "There is no presumption on the part of the law that a child will even be born alive."

Weir said that abortion might be necessary in many cases to avoid bringing a child into "a world where he is not wanted."

Lee M. Weingrad, G, Jamaica, N.Y., continued the discussion of whether an unborn child was a human being with an analogy between a fetus and a cancer. The fetus lives within the body of its mother, just as a cancerous growth might, he said.

But this does not mean that the welfare of the cancer should be considered over the welfare of the mother, or the welfare of a fetus over that of the mother, he said.

Weingrad said that the "rights" of the fetus were "the rights of something that can neither think nor reason."

STATION MISTRESSES BEGIN—MILAN, Italy (AP)—Seven railroad station mistresses started work this week to see if women can keep Italy's trains running on time. Chosen in a nationwide contest and all in their 20s, they will get a six-month trial in a rail system that has an enviable record for accuracy under masculine control.

The students are Peter D. Moscoso, G, New York; Steven Dow Mossman, A4, Cedar Rapids; and Constance Yoshimura, G, Kamrar.

They are now eligible to receive a $3,000 grant which will be awarded to two finalists in each of seven regions.

10-Day U.S. Visit Begins For Gen. Westmoreland

SAIGON (AP)—Gen. William C. Westmoreland left Tuesday for the United States to make his first major speech there since he assumed command of U.S. forces in Vietnam.

Westmoreland will address the annual luncheon of The Associated Press Monday in New York.

The four-star commander flew first to Clark Field near Manila to join his wife. They plan to leave Wednesday for Honolulu, where they will spend a day before proceeding to West Point. Westmoreland formerly was superintendent of the U.S. Military Academy.

Following his Monday address, Westmoreland will spend several days in conferences in Washington and visiting relatives. He expects to return to Saigon about April 30.

Since he became U.S. commander in Vietnam in June 1966, Westmoreland has made only one speaking appearance in the United States — an address last year in Honolulu. He also visited the mainland United States last year when his father died. At that time he met with President Johnson at the later's Texas ranch.

40th Mother's Day Weekend To Include Various Activities

Mothers will be honored at the University on Mother's Day Weekend, May 5-7.

The weekend has been an annual event at the University since 1928. It provides a pleasant and relaxing occasion for mothers to visit their children at the University.

The activities for the weekend are planned and scheduled by the Associated Women Students (AWS).

The Dance Theatre will present performances of "Vivachi!" at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday at Macbride Auditorium. Tickets will be on sale for $1 at the Women's Gym, Campus Record Shop and Whetstone Drug Co.

The University Choir will stage a concert for Mother's Day Weekend at 8 p.m. Friday at Gloria Dei Lutheran Church.

An honors convocation will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday, May 6, at Macbride Hall. All undergraduates showing high academic achievement will be honored at the convocation. Howard Hayden, visiting professor from Victoria University, Wellington, New Zealand, will be the speaker for the convocation.

The Mother's Day Luncheon will begin at 11:30 a.m. Saturday at the Union. The Susan Hancher Award will be presented during the program following the luncheon. Tickets for the luncheon are $2 and will be available from Friday, April 28 to Friday, May 5 at Campus Record Shop and Whetstone Drug.

Immediately after the luncheon, there will be various tours for the mothers. These will include tours of the Hospital School, College of Dentistry, College of Business Administration, Home Economics Department and a guided bus tour of the campus.

Mortar Board Tapping will take place at 3 p.m. Saturday at the west approach to the Old Capitol.

Art students will display their goods for sale at the Thieves Market from 3 to 6 p.m. in the Union Ballroom.

A concert by Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass will be the climax of the Mother's Day Weekend. The concert, sponsored by the Central Party Committee, will be at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Field House. Tickets go on sale May 28 at the University Box Office at the Union and at Campus Record Shop. Prices are $3 and $3.50.

The weekend will come to a close with a University Sing at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Union Main Lounge.

Throughout the weekend there will be a number of sports events for mothers, and also fathers who may have accompanied their wives. These include a tennis match with Purdue at 2 p.m. and a baseball game with Minnesota at 3:30 p.m. Friday.

On Saturday Iowa will face Northern Illinois and Drake in a track meet at 12:45 p.m. There will be a tennis match against the University of Illinois at 1 p.m. and a baseball game against Minnesota at 3 p.m.

Professor's Book Used On Book Week Poster

By CORNELIA LEHN Staff Writer

This week, National Week, has special significance for the University this year because a promotional poster for the week features a book written by a University professor and uses the book-jacket picture.

"Books and the Teen-Age Reader," by G. Robert Carlsen, head of the English Department at University High School, was published April 17 by Harper and Row to coincide with National Library Week. It was sponsored by the National Book Committee and was professionally endorsed by the American Library Association, the International Reading Association and the National Council of Teachers of English.

Search For Author

The National Book Committee was looking for an author to write a book that would be a guide for teachers, librarians and parents to books for the teen-ager. Carlsen's book, "Parent's Guide to Children's Reading," had been in the area of literature for the younger child.

When members of the National Book Committee heard Carlsen speak on literature for the adolescent at the national meeting of the American Library Association in St. Louis three years ago, they asked him to be that author.

"It was a welcome assignment," said Carlsen. "The study of adolescents and what they read and why has been the passion of my life."

His book lists 700 references to books for teen-agers.

Carlsen has taught a course in literature for adolescents for twenty years in half a dozen different universities. This is his ninth year at the University.

Some of the topics that "Books and the Teen-Age Reader" discusses are how to help the teen-ager discover the joys of reading, how the difference in sex affects reading, the sensible way to deal with trashy or "shocking" books, how to create the right atmosphere for reading in school and home, how to encourage the love of poetry, what books teen-agers should read before attending college and what reference books every family should own.

Report Theft Of Plaque

A metal plaque, honoring the memory of Miss Carrie Stanley, a former University instructor and Lone Tree Community School District teacher, has been stolen, according to the Campus Security Department. Miss Patricia Philpott, manager of Carrie Stanley Hall, reported Tuesday the plaque had been taken from the corridor near the dormitory entrance.

Security officials said four bolts used to hold the plaque had been removed. The Lone Tree School District recently presented the plaque to the University in memory of Miss Stanley.

HIGH PERFORMANCE

... MEANS THE KLH MODEL FIFTEEN

ONLY . . . $229⁹⁵

Every available advantage of solid state technology has been used to put unprecedented power and control flexibility into a minimum of space, and KLH's experience as a manufacturer of high-performance loudspeakers has been brought to bear on the design of this handsome unit.

The walnut case houses a Garrard changer with a four-pole motor and a special low-mass tone arm, a Pickering V-15 magnetic pickup with diamond stylus, and an all-transistor amplifier of unprecedented power in a portable phonograph. Inputs are included for other mono or stereo music sources to be played through the Model Fifteen, and stereo headphones can be substituted for the speakers. Sound can be channeled to a tape recorder through the speaker outputs. The amplifier whose miniaturized solid-state circuitry produces 15 watts music power (30 watts peak) is powerful enough to drive many full-size speaker systems. Completely transistorized, it is free of deterioration due to the heat of vacuum tubes. It draws very little current and needs no warmup.

The optional furniture accessories for the Model Fifteen include a choice of two covers: a smoked plastic cover ($9.95) and a walnut and smoked plexiglass cover ($29.95). Both covers are hinged, and attach easily to the walnut base of the Model Fifteen. Another accessory is a set of unobtrusive metal legs ($3.95) that convert the center section of the Model Fifteen to a chairside cabinet. This magnificent high performance stereo has to be seen to be appreciated.

Black Hawks Eliminated In Stanley Cup Semifinals

TORONTO (AP) — Brian Conacher's second goal broke a 1-1 tie in the third period and led the Toronto Maple Leafs to a 3-1 victory over Chicago Tuesday night, giving them this semifinal series for the Stanley Cup, four games to two.

The Leafs eliminated the Hawks, champions of the National Hockey League, and now face the Montreal Canadiens in Montreal beginning Thursday in a best-of-seven championship series.

Conacher, 25-year-old son of Canada's famed athlete Lionel Conacher, scored his tie breaker at 4:47 of the final period, and Pete Stelmowski added an insurance goal at 13:06.

Toronto jumped ahead at 5:06 of the first period when Frank Mahovlich fired a perfect pass to Conacher, who followed with a 25-foot shot.

Can beer be too cold?

Maybe we shouldn't care how cold people drink beer... just so they drink ours. (After all, we're in business!)

But we do care. We go to such fuss and expense brewing all that taste into Budweiser, we want our customers to get it all out. And this is a fact: chilling beer to near-freezing temperatures hides both taste and aroma. 40° is just right.

To make it easy for you, we've asked all the bartenders to serve Bud® at 40°. Also, every refrigerator is designed to cool Bud at 40°.

Of course, if you're on a picnic or something and the Bud's on ice and nobody brought a thermometer... oh, well. Things can't always be perfect.

Hawkeyes Batter Simpson

ANDREW "STONY" JACKSON of Iowa raps a single that drives in two runs and ties the score at 3-3 in the third inning of the first game here Tuesday against Simpson College. Iowa went on to win, 5-3 and 14-1.

By JOHN HARMON
Staff Writer

An awakened offense and a strong pitching led Iowa to a doubleheader sweep of Simpson College of Indianola, 5-3 and 14-1, Tuesday at Iowa field.

The victories boosted Iowa to 6-2-1 for the regular season and 6-12-1 overall. Simpson is 1-4.

In the opener, Iowa's Donn Haugen survived a rocky first inning to win his first game of the regular season.

Haugen faced two of the first three men he batted and gave up a run-scoring single to Jack Blake. With men on second and third, Gene Sturtz bounced to second scoring Jim Hamer, who had walked.

Blake also scored when Russ Sumka's throw home was wild, but Haugen settled down to strike out the next two batters.

Haugen walked two, struck out 14 and allowed only two hits in gaining the complete-game victory. The 14 strike outs are high for an Iowa pitcher this year in a seven inning game.

In the second inning Iowa loaded the bases with two out as Steve Hirko singled and John Blackman and Lee Endsley walked. A wild pitch scored Hirko and Andy Jackson's single to left drove in Blackman and Endsley to tie the score 3-3.

A squeeze bunt by Pat Prina gave Iowa the lead in the third inning. Gaylord McGrath and Hirko walked with one out and advanced a base on a passed ball. McGrath scored on Prina's bunt which turned into a double play when Hirko tried unsuccessfully to score.

Blackman scored Iowa's fifth run in the fourth inning when he walked, advanced to second on a balk by Jack Brady and came home on Endsley's ground rule double to left.

Cyclones Open Grid Drills

AMES (AP) — Iowa State Football Coach Clay Stapleton welcomed 74 candidates to the opening session of spring practice Tuesday.

For Stapleton it marks the beginning of the end of a 10-year coaching career at Iowa State. He will become athletic director July 1, and will give up his coaching duties at the end of the next season to devote full time to the athletic department.

The first few days of the 20-drill spring session will be devoted to fundamentals, Stapleton said.

Biggest basic change is expected to be in the Cyclones' defense. Stapleton, who abandoned the single wing in 1962 in favor of the wing-T, is now shelving a wide-tackle six defense. Instead, the Cyclones will convert to "monster defense" with a five-man line.

Stapleton said, "I think the greatest improvement will be on defense." The Cyclones yielded an average of 324 yards per game last fall.

Hitting Improves

The Hawkeye's stepped up their hitting production in the second game when they pashed two Simpson pitchers for 14 runs and 12 hits.

Simpson's defense collapsed in the nightcap as they committed six errors, two wild pitches, a passed ball and a balk.

Ben Banta went the route for Iowa, scattering five hits. He struck out nine and walked no one in posting his first win of the year.

Simpson's only run came in the third inning when Gary Naylor tripled to deep left and scored on an infield out. Shortstop Jim Hamer got three of the five Simpson hits.

Iowa scored in every inning but the third. Jackson singled with one out in the first and circled on a double steal. McGrath circled the bases on his single and two Simpson errors in the second.

Jackson, Endsley Star

Iowa scored twice in the fourth. Prina reached on a fielding error and scored on Bob Schneider's single. Banta's bunt and Endsley's single drove Schneider home.

Six more Hawkeyes scored in the fifth with the big blows being Endsley's bases loaded double

Hawk Runner To Compete In Marathon

Pete MacDonald, captain of Iowa's Big 10 cross-country champions, will compete in today's running of the annual Boston Marathon.

It will be the third time that the senior from Kaneohe, Hawaii, has competed in the famous race that attracts many of the top international distance runners. Last year, MacDonald finished 30th, out of over 400 who started the grueling 26-mile race.

The only other Big 10 runner competing will be Northwestern's John Duffield.

Japanese runners have dominated the meet the past few years.

REQUIEM FOR A SQUARE

You, like any other lovable, clean-living, freckle-faced American kid, want to be a BMOG. How can you make it? Well sir, there are several ways, none of which will work.

You're too puny to be an athlete, too lazy to be a valedictorian, and too hairy to run for Homecoming Queen.

As for becoming a best-dressed man, how are you going to buy clothes with a miser-for a father?

Are you licked then? Is there no way to make BMOG? Yes, there is! And you can do it! Do what? This: Become a hippie! Get cool! Get alienated! Have an Identity Crisis! Be one of the Others!

How? Well sir, to become a hippie, simply follow these five simple rules:

1. Read all of Tolkien in the original dwarf.
2. Have your Sophomore Slump in the freshman year.
3. Wear buttons that say things like this:
NATIONALIZE DAIRY QUEEN
ASTHMATICS, UNITE
LEGALIZE APPLE BUTTER
HANDS OFF AIR POLLUTION
4. Go steady with a girl who has long greasy hair, a guttar, enlarded pores, and thermal underwear.
5. Attend Happenings regularly.

This last item may require some explanation, for it is possible that Happenings haven't reached your campus yet. Be assured they will because Happenings are the biggest college craze since mononucleosis.

A Happening, in case you don't know, is the first formless art form. Things just happen. For example, eighty naked men come out and squirt each other with fire hoses containing tinted yogurt. Then eighty more naked men come out and light birthday candles in the navels of the first eighty men. Then one girl, clothed, comes out and pulls three thousand feet of sausage casing through her pierced ear. Then eighty more naked men come out and eat a station wagon.

There is, of course, a musical accompaniment to all these fun things. Usually it is "Begin the Beguine," played by 26 trench mortars, a drop forge, and a rooster.

There used to be, some years ago, still another requirement for becoming a hippie: a man had to have a beard. But no longer. Beards were worn in the past not so much as a protest, but because shaving was such a painful experience. Then along came Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades.

Today if you don't want to shave, well, that's your hangup, isn't it, baby? I mean when you've got a blade like Personna that tugs not neither does it scrape, what's your copout, man? I mean like get with it; you're living in the past. Shaving used to hurt, used to scratch, used to gouge, used to give you all kinds of static. But not since Personna. It's a gas, man. It's a doozy; it's mom's apple pie. You dig?

I mean, man, you still want a beard? Crazy! But you don't have to turn your face into a slum, do you? Shave around the bush, baby, neatly and nicely with Personna. I mean like Personna comes in double-edge style and Injector style too. I mean like in any way you try it, you gotta like like it.

Hey, man, like how about doubling your shaving cool? Like how about wilting those crazy whiskers with some Burma-Shave? Like regular or menthol? Like have you got a better friend than your kisser? Like treat it right, right? Ye-ye!

Probe Of Alleged Betting In College Football Delayed

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—The executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) said Tuesday the NCAA's investigation of an alleged college football betting scandal had been frustrated by a district attorney.

crushed a nationwide betting syndicate and that he had evidence that one of the leading coaches in the country had bet on his own team.

The NCAA official, Walter Byers, released to the Birmingham News his correspondence with William Cahn, district attorney of Nassau County, New York.

Cahn announced at Mineola, N.Y., on Feb. 10 that he had Cahn previously has said, in response to questions, that the coach denies any involvement, and that he expected his investigation to last upwards of a year.

All-America Star Put On Probation

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—A Boston municipal court judge has placed Providence College's All-America basketball player Jim Walker on six years probation after he pleaded guilty to a charge of fathering a child out of wedlock, it was confirmed Tuesday.

Walker was given the sentence by Judge Samuel E. Eisenstadt when he appeared in court on the charge last Tuesday.

Court officials said the paternity complaint was brought against Walker, 23, by a Roxbury, Mass., woman. He could not be reached for comment.

12 Iowans On Rosters Of Major League Teams

By JOHN HARMON Staff Writer

When Iowans start talking about baseball stars, Hall of Fame member and Van Meter, Iowa, native Bob Feller is probably the first to enter the minds of many.

But scanning this year's rosters one finds no fewer than 12 Iowans who are earning their meal tickets in major league baseball.

Although no super-stars will be found on the list, several Iowans are regulars and several hold key pitching spots.

The veterans of the Iowa major leaguers are Jack Hamilton of Morning Sun and Joe Hoerner of Dubuque.

At Home With Mets Hamilton played for Philadelphia and Detroit before finding a home last summer with the Mets, who gave him his first opportunity to pitch regularly since his Phillie days in 1962.

Control has been Hamilton's main nemesis. He led the league in walks in 1962 and had an unimpressive strikeout-walk record last year (93 strikeouts, 88 walks).

But Hamilton was one of only two Met regulars who allowed less than four runs per game last year. The 29-year-old right hander won six of the 57 games he pitched in 1967.

Ten years in the minors and a heart ailment couldn't stop Duquette's Hoerner from becoming one of baseball's best relievers in 1966. After changing his delivery to ease the pressure on a weak heart muscle, Hoerner, 31 and a southpaw, pitched two years in the Houston chain. St. Louis purchased him last year and he went on to win five, lose one and compile a 1.54 earned-run-average.

Top White Sox Catcher Duane Josephson from New Hampton carries impressive records into his first year with the and although his 11 triples led the American League last year. Another Sioux City second baseman is Dick Green of the Kansas City Athletics. Like Knoop, Green is a workhorse, playing in 130 games a year since 1964. Green is 26 and owns a .244 lifetime batting average.

Minor League Mark Impressive Dick Kenworthy, a long-time White Sox farmhand, finally made it to the parent club this year. Kenworthy is a 26-year-old second baseman from Red Oak. He had another impressive offensive year in the minors in 1966 as he hit .294 with 10 homers and 94 runs batted in. Kenworthy will be used as a utility infielder.

Several top flight relief pitchers can call Iowa their native state. Bob Locker is a strapping 29-year-old righthander from George who has been a mainstay in the White Sox bullpen for two years. Locker spent only three years in the minors before joining Chicago. Locker has a 14-10 lifetime record, a 2.81 earned-run-average and owns an impressive strikeout-walk ratio (138 strikeouts—53 walks).

Iowa City native Eddie Watt played for a world champion team in his first major league season. The 25-year-old Baltimore Oriole relief pitcher struck out 102 men in 146 innings last year. Appearing in 43 games, Watt won nine. Baltimore won the American League pennant by nine games.

Bob Lee at 6-3, 230-pounds, is one of the biggest major league players. Lee spent nine years in the minors before becoming the best reliever in California Angel history. He has appeared in 60 or more games in each of the last three years and has a lifetime earned run average of 1.99. The 30-year-old native of Ottumwa was traded to the Dodgers last winter.

Dennis Menke was born in Bancroft in 1940. Since 1963 he has been an Atlanta Brave regular. Although he is primarily a shortstop, Menke has played every infield position plus the outfield. He has hit 52 home runs in his career and owns a .249 lifetime batting average.

Switch-hitting Ken Henderson from Carroll is only 21 but has 74 big league games under his belt for the San Francisco Giants. In his only full season with an organized team — Phoenix last year — Henderson hit .276 with 13 homers and 66 runs batted in. He will be battling for the Giants right field position in 1967.

ARBITRATION DELAYED—

NEW YORK (AP)—Theodore Kheel, chairman of the special Sports Arbitration panel named to settle the NCAA-AAU dispute, said Tuesday the final hearing has been postponed until May 12.

The hearing had been scheduled this week. The board is attempting to resolve the feud between the AAU and NCAA over which should control amateur track and field and other sports in the United States.

Iowa Tornado Debris Found 110 Miles Away

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP)—Debris from the weekend tornado that hit Keosauqua, Iowa, is being found in western Illinois, 110 miles northeast of the ravaged community.

Maynard Palmer and Marvin Rursch, farmers whose land is 15 miles south of the Quad Cities, saw a piece of paper floating in the wind Monday.

They found it was a bill from the Keosauqua Municipal Utilities issued to John Stigelman of Keosauqua.

A farmer found a canceled check drawn by Delbert Scull of Keosauqua.

Prof Helps With Book

John C. McGalliard, professor of English, recently had a chapter included in a book titled, "Life and Thought in the Early Middle Ages."

The chapter, "Beowulf and Bede," studies the Old English epic poem "Beowulf" and Saint Bede's "An Ecclesiastical History of the English People" as parallel documents of Anglo-Saxon culture and civilization, said McGalliard.

The book consists of eight chapters, each dealing with some aspect of the book's general subject. Robert S. Hoyt of the University of Minnesota is editor of the book which was published by the University of Minnesota Press.

The book's chapters are: "The Barbarian Kings as Lawgivers and Judges," by Katherine Fischer Drew; "Of Towns and Trade," by Robert S. Lopez; "The Two Levels of Feudalism," by Joseph R. Strayer; "The Image of Christ in the Early Middle Ages," by Adolf Katzenellenbogen; "The Life of the Silent Majority," by Lynn White Jr.; "Viking — Tunit — Eskimo," by T.J. Oleson; and "The Church, Reform, and Renaissance in the Early Middle Ages," by Karl F. Morrison.

Choir From Rust To Give Concert

The Rust College Choir of Holly Springs, Miss., will return for its second spring concert at the University Monday. The concert part of the cultural exchange program of RILEEH (Rust, Iowa and LeMoyn for Expanding Educational Horizons), will begin at 8 p.m. in the Union Main Ballroom.

Tickets are now on sale at the University Box Office in the Union South Lobby open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Students may buy tickets for 50 cents and others may purchase tickets for $1.

The big three

Classic, without doubt. But the 3-button suit is big this year with our most discriminating customers for reasons that are strictly '67. The silhouette is truly new, slimmer, neater in detail. The shades for warm weather are cool, and the fabrics are hugely varied, including the breeze-weight dacron/wool shown here.

GEORGE ALEXANDER, CHICAGO

"This is the smoothest I can get my naturally curly hair. Gorgeous, isn't it?"

(This is how Georganne Alexander looked before using CURL FREE. And these are her words.) "Girls with straight hair tell me I'm lucky to have natural curl. They just don't know! I leave the house with smooth hair...and get back home looking like curlylocks. In the winter it snows and—instant ringlets. And summer humidity makes my hair frizz up and go wild.

"I saw an ad for CURL FREE in a magazine. It said, 'I was a curly-headed baby, but baby look at me now!' The results looked marvelous. I would like to try it."

GEORGEANNE ALEXANDER, CHICAGO

"Look what Curl Free did! So sleek—I can't believe it's me!"

"Oh...it's beautiful! I've always wanted straight hair. Now I've got it. And I did it myself with CURL FREE. Gee, I'm just like the ad: 'I was a curly-headed baby, but baby look at me now!'"—GEORGEANNE ALEXANDER.

Comb those natural curls right out of your hair with cool, creamy CURL FREE. Even if your hair is so tight and curly it puts up a real fight—it will surrender to CURL FREE. Just keep on using it and you'll see.
