Contraceptives Viewed As Uninfluential

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the last in a series of three articles on the subject of contraception, a subject surveyed and examined by The Daily Iowan's editorial board and staff in an effort to present a well-rounded and honest interpretation of the issue. The first two articles appeared in the Jan. 23 and 27 editions.)

Contraceptives can mean different things to different people, depending on their views and beliefs. Some people believe that contraception is a violation of natural law, while others believe that it is a necessary evil. Still others believe that contraception is a matter of personal choice.

A recent study showed that only about 20% of college students have ever used contraception. This is due in part to the fact that many students do not understand the importance of using contraception, and in part to the fact that many students do not have access to contraception.

However, the availability of contraception is increasing in many places. The U.S. government has recently announced that it will provide free contraception to low-income women through new programs. This is a step in the right direction, but more needs to be done to make contraception more available to everyone.

In conclusion, contraception is an important issue that needs to be discussed and debated. The more people understand about contraception, the better they can make informed decisions about their own lives.

Beer At Reservoir Cannot Be Banned

The only difference between the behavior of some students at the reservoir and that of the Corporation water facility was the beverage of choice.

According to Johnson County Director Beryl Schneider, alcohol is available almost at every point, but this regulation does not stop illegal property such as bottles. He also said, "I think it's all right, all right."

"All other laws and court regulations are enforced at the reservoir," said Schneider. "This is the job of the Corporation to police and the Highway Patrol. Decisions are made and the different areas are handled by the respective districts of the area."

"This Highway Patrol sometimes harass the men too much," he said. "But we pay so much in fines that it's better not to go near the reservoir."

The musician compared this to similar problems in other states, but the advent of a new law in Iowa that makes it illegal to use drugs in public does not appear to have had any impact on the illegal drug use at the reservoir. Schneider also said that alternatives, such as alcohol, will continue to be available for use.

Chase To Speak On Music History

Gilbert Chase, renowned in the music and cultural design of the world, will speak as "American's Musical History: A View from the Hill" at 3 p.m. Monday in the University of Iowa's Administration Building. The event is open to the public without charge.

Chase, a member of the University of Illinois Press, will discuss his book "American Music: A History," which has been translated into various languages, including French, Italian, Portuguese and Spanish.

"We're in the midst of a major shift in music history," he said. "There are a lot of forces at work that are changing the way we think about music.

"I'm looking forward to sharing some of these ideas with my audience here at the University of Iowa."

The event is co-sponsored by the University of Iowa's School of Music and the University of Iowa's Department of Music. For more information, please call (319) 335-3211.

Quartet Postpones Concert To Practice On Instruments

By RACHEL ROBERTS
Staff Writer

The Iowa String Quartet, scheduled to play in concert next week, has postponed its practice until later this month.

The quartet postponed their practice until after the final concert, but the quartet's practice is still scheduled for the same day.

"We want to make sure that our instruments are in good working order before we start our concerts," said first violinist, William H. Brown, a member of the University of Iowa's School of Music.

"The quartet is made up of graduate students in music, and they are responsible for the maintenance of their own instruments," he said. "We want to give them the chance to work on their instruments before we go on tour."

Justice To Hear Mock Dress Case

A sensational case involving serious accusations of misconduct in the campus community will be heard at 1:30 on Thursday by the University's disciplinary committee.

The case, which will be held in the University's disciplinary committee, involves a student who is accused of taking part in the mock dress case that took place last week.

The student is accused of playing the role of a defendant in the mock trial, which was held to investigate allegations of misconduct on campus.

The disciplinary committee is expected to hear testimony from witnesses and present evidence before making a decision on whether to impose sanctions on the student.

Editor To Lecture On Polish Poetry

By DIANE TINSLEY
Editor

The popularity of American literature is now of the concern of Poland's government, and literary conferences, such as those held at the Writers Workshop and the National Union of Polish Writers, are being planned. The Polish government is also hoping to increase the export of Polish literature and to promote the study of American literature.

The government is interested in the American literature for several reasons. First, the American literature is seen as a way to promote cultural exchange between the two countries. Second, the American literature is considered to be a valuable source of information about the American society and culture. Finally, the American literature is seen as a means to promote the Polish culture and to attract more attention to it.

This is why the government is planning to hold conferences where Polish writers and scholars can discuss the American literature. These conferences will be held in various cities in Poland and will be attended by both Polish and American writers and scholars.

The government is also planning to promote the study of American literature in Polish schools and universities. This will be done by introducing American literature courses in the curriculum and by organizing reading groups and discussion clubs.

Furthermore, the government is planning to publish more works of American literature in Polish. This will be done by translating the works into Polish and by publishing them in Polish-language newspapers and magazines.

As a result of these efforts, the government hopes to see an increase in the interest in American literature in Poland. This will not only promote the cultural exchange between the two countries but also contribute to the development of Polish literature.
Gl Barracks Provide Housing For Married

JUDGES NOTE: This is the final point on a Newport News story.

MICHAEL ROBERTS

Staff Writer

The barracks on the base have filled up with married couples and single people who are newly married. The Housing Office at the base has moved into a new building, which is located at the corner of South Park and Power Plant Road. The building is large and modern, with a lot of windows. People can be seen walking around the building, and some are sitting outside. The Housing Office has a sign that says "Housing for Married & Single," and people are checking in and out. The office is set up to handle the increased demand for housing.

In other barracks news, the officers are happy with the new location. They say it is much easier to get to the various buildings on base, and it is a lot more convenient. The officers also say that they are pleased with the new building, and they think it will be a good place for people to work.

The Housing Office has also announced that they are accepting applications for housing. People interested in applying can go to the office and fill out the necessary forms. The process is simple, and it is a great way to get the housing that you need.
