

U.S. To Remove 35,000 Troops From W. Germany

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will withdraw nearly 35,000 troops and almost 100 airplanes from West Germany next year, saving an estimated $100 million spent abroad, under the agreement reached last week among this country, Great Britain, and West Germany.

The agreement, announced yesterday, was reached after five months of negotiations on the crucial issue of keeping as many American troops in Germany as possible while cutting back on the drain of America's gold reserve.

According to the announcement Britain will withdraw about 5,000 soldiers and about 20 planes from West Germany.

President Johnson was deeply involved in the five-month-long negotiations, officials said.

The agreement was welcomed by Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., an advocate of substantial troop reductions in Europe, who described the pact as a sound foreign policy decision and an initial step in the adjustment of our NATO commitments.

Mansfield told the Senate he hopes the government will continue to explore the possibilities of further reductions at an appropriate time.

Sen. J.W. Fulbright, (D-Ark.) told newsmen the reduction is promising. He also favors substantial reductions.

The agreement, which now goes as a three-nation proposal to the Defense Planning Committee of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, is expected to end a period of uneasiness among the three allies which started in the summer of 1966.

That was the time West German government made clear it would not continue the practice of offsetting the cost of keeping Anglo-American troops on its soil by purchasing military hardware in the two countries.

U.S. officials stressed that the tense atmosphere in which the talks started last October gave way quickly to a friendly climate in which all three sides cooperated in seeking an answer to the ticklish problem which boils down to this:

Can the two "troop dispatching countries," the United States and Britain, ease their balance of payments problem without jeopardizing what the military calls the combat potential of the alliance?

Student Senate Declares Day Of Inquiry On Vietnam

By ELAINE SCHROEDER
Staff Writer

The Student Senate voted 24 to 2 Tuesday night to declare a Day of Inquiry to be held Wednesday, May 10, in cooperation with a National Day of Inquiry being held on more than 200 other campuses.

The Day of Inquiry is aimed at alleviating the "gross ignorance on campus concerning the issues involved in the war in Vietnam," according to the resolution.

This proposal was the only one on which the senate took a final vote during the three-hour meeting. Five resolutions which were scheduled for discussion and voting were referred to committee for further consideration. The Day of Inquiry resolution required a suspension of the rules for action to be taken.

The resolution, which was sponsored by Student Body Pres. John Pelton and past Student Body Pres. Tom Hanson, was amended to provide for a Student Senate representative to be sent to the National Student Anti-War Conference, May 13 and 14, in Chicago.

Suspension To Be Asked
In connection with the Day of Inquiry, the resolution provides for Pelton to ask for a suspension of classes at 2:30 p.m. on May 10.

Day of Inquiry activities are planned to include a campus wide teach-in on the east steps of Old Capitol and speeches from persons representing all aspects of opinion on the war.

The only opposition which was voiced against the bill came from Sen. Sue Mich-ich, who questioned the financial ability of the senate to send a representative to the Chicago conference.

Those bills and resolutions which had been scheduled for debate, but were tabled and sent to committee for consideration, asked for a student bill of rights, a cooperative bookstore, changes in the Code of Student Life, a change in procedure for the granting of charters to student organizations and the chartering of the Judo Club.

New Business Introduced
New business introduced to the senate included bills and resolutions concerning dormitory parking lots, the recognition of Town Men - Town Women as a residence governing body, the self-regulation of student affairs, the withdrawal of a student organization's charter and the chartering of the Campus Crusade for Christ.

Sen. Fred Wallace introduced three resolutions regarding arbitrary and unwarranted action on the part of the Office of Student Affairs, the advisory system in dormitories and the conduct of the University staff and their relation to the student body. All three resolutions were sent to committee for consideration.

The senate also voted to approve appointments of students to five student-faculty committees at the meeting.

Those senators absent from the meeting without substitutes were Nancy J. Spielman, Jane Synhorst, Glenn M. Meredith, Carl W. Stuart and Howard Treehuboff. Those senators sending substitutes were Lee L. Breneman, Larry Goetsch, Robert J. Griffin and Dennis M. Schuelke.

Pelton Condemns Procedure Used In Disciplinary Action

A letter condemning the recent disciplinary action taken against students involved in the April 7 disturbance in the area of the men's dormitories by the Office of Student Affairs was read to the Student Senate Tuesday night by Student Body Pres. John Pelton.

Pelton's letter states that the 25 students placed on dormitory probation and the 5 students placed on University probation have been denied "the right of the judicial process."

The past record of a student placed on dormitory probation bears heavily on decisions made about future punitive measures. They may include dismissal from the dormitory if a student behaves in such a way that he has to appear before a dormitory or University disciplinary body a second time.

If a student on University probation breaks an Iowa law, University regulation, or "engages in activities unbecoming to a student," his previous behavior will be taken into account before a decision about future University action is taken.

Withdrawal Asked
Pelton has asked that the charge of dormitory probation be withdrawn by Jerome Beckman, men's dormitory head adviser, and that they appear before their respective residence judicial body for a hearing and decision.

Pelton has also requested that the students charged with University probation be allowed to appeal to the University Disciplinary Committee for a hearing and judgment, and have final option to appeal, if necessary, to the Committee on Student Conduct, when that body is formed.

"I feel that students should have the right of judicial process, including initial hearing and judgment by their peer groups, and the right of appeal to higher judicial bodies, before final judgment and penalty be imposed," said Pelton.

Pelton stated that it appeared that proper judicial process had been circumvented in this disciplinary action.

Copies To Be Sent
Pelton said he would send copies of the letter to Beckman, Philip G. Hubbell, dean of academic affairs; M.L. Huit, dean of students; and Eric L. Morris, president of Associated Residence Halls.

Members of Associated Residence Halls (ARH) also concerned themselves Tuesday with action taken against the students.

In a meeting Tuesday night in the Union Kirkwood Room, ARH passed a resolution 7 to 3 that would prohibit University jurisdiction in dormitory disciplinary matters.

The resolution, introduced by Joseph Rosmann, G. Harlan, states: "It was moved that the probations be reviewed by the dormitory judicial systems and that in the future all similar situations be handled only by the dormitory judicial systems."

The resolution will be sent to the Office of Student Affairs.

Council Holds Hearing On Vacating 2 Streets

By LARRY STONE
Staff Writer

A public hearing was held by the Iowa city council Tuesday evening on two controversial proposals to vacate part of Park Place and part of Beldon Avenue. The proposals would prevent the streets being used as entrances to City Park.

Leonard E. Hunn, 306 Willis Dr., said that the property owners in the area "do not want to see Beldon Avenue become an entrance to the park." He also said that an engineer's report "about three years ago said that Beldon Avenue should never be developed as a street."

However, Hunn said that he "would be glad to see a walkway into the park." The council is also considering building a 10-foot wide walkway into the park at the end of Beldon Avenue.

Councilman James H. Nesmith said, "We are trying to prevent vehicles from being in the park."

Three property owners spoke against vacating Park Place.

The third public hearing concerned rezoning the airport property south of Highway 6 from residential to highway commercial use. Chris E. Schrock, chairman of the Airport Commission, spoke in favor of it.

The council also suspended the rules, and gave three readings, and then adopted an ordinance changing the procedure for taking bids and awarding contracts for public improvements.

Formerly the council held a public hearing, opened bids, the engineers examined the bids, and the contracts were awarded all on the same night.

Under the new ordinance, the bids will be opened on the Thursday before the council meeting, giving the city engineers the weekend to study the bids. The council will hear the engineers' reports and ask questions at the informal Monday meeting. They will award the contract at the regular council meeting on Tuesday night.

The council also approved Mayor William C. Hubbard's suggested appointments to the newly created Low Rent Housing Agency: the Rev. Robert Welsh, 2526 Mayfield Rd., chairman, one-year term; Mrs. Douglas Ehninger, 620 Holdt Ave., one-year term; and two-year terms — M. Joseph Brennan, University faculty housing consultant; Mrs. Oluf Davidson, 12 Bella Vista Pl.; and Phyllis D. Maloney, 422 Melrose Ct.

Rogow Says Psychiatrists Went For Johnson In 1964

By ROBERT ALLEN
Staff Writer

Psychiatrists and psychoanalysts went for Lyndon Baines Johnson like crazy in 1964.

Arnold A. Rogow said, in a Shambaugh Lecture Series speech Tuesday night, that he conducted a study, just before the presidential nomination, using a sample of 184 psychiatrists and psychoanalysts.

The study revealed that 91 per cent of the psychiatrists and psychoanalysts were for Johnson, and three per cent of them were for Barry Goldwater. Six per cent of them showed no preference.

Rogow, a professor of political science at the City College of the City University of New York, spoke in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol.

Speaking on the topic, "The Politics of Psychiatry," Rogow produced results from his study which he said showed that psychiatrists and psychoanalysts were politically Democratic and liberal.

Rogow compared the political preferences of psychiatrists and psychoanalysts in 1964 with those in 1960. In 1960, 68 per cent of them were for John F. Kennedy and 23 per cent were for Richard M. Nixon. Nine per cent showed no preference.

Rogow said that the behavior of the psychiatrists and psychoanalysts did not radically affect psychiatric therapy of patients. However, he said that a general influence in the situation did exist.

He said there was a broad move to a moderate point of view by patients of politically inclined psychiatrists. He said the patient "moves to a middle-of-the-road American liberalism."

He went on to say, "Extended psychotherapy works against extreme emotionalism and deep ideological orientation."

News In Brief

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — A band of young Negroes armed with loaded rifles, pistols and shotguns entered the Capitol Tuesday and barged into the assembly chamber during a debate. Police seized some of their weapons in a mild struggle.

LONDON — Prime Minister Harold Wilson announced Tuesday the long-expected British bid to join Europe's Common Market to make it an economic community of 300 million people capable of challenging the political and economic strength of the United States and the Soviet Union.

SAIGON — U.S. Marines claimed possession of the south ridge of Hill 881 Tuesday night and battled on to drive North Vietnamese regulars from other high ground overlooking enemy infiltration routes from Laos.

WASHINGTON — A women's civil rights organization told the federal government Tuesday that segregated help-wanted ads in newspapers are killing the desire of young girls to "be an astronaut, the President or even the Pope."

Spot Zoning Spurs Debate; Property Values Affected

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second part of a four-part series on zoning in Iowa City.)

By LOWELL FORTE
Staff Writer

There are grease spots. There are ink spots. And there are zone spots. There are products on the market that can get rid of the first two spots, but for the last one you're out of luck.

However, a spot zone isn't as easy to recognize as a spot of grease or ink. As Barry Lundberg, director of planning and urban renewal for Iowa City, puts it, "spot zoning connotes zoning a smaller parcel of land inside a larger parcel of land to a use not compatible with the larger parcel's use."

The vice of spot zoning, as one text book puts it, is that it "singles out for special treatment a lot or small area in a way that does not further a comprehensive plan."

However, this same book goes on to say that permitting a business in as small area within a residential zone may fall within the scope of a comprehensive plan. If it does it is not unlawful unless it accounts to unreasonable or arbitrary action.

Iowa City's comprehensive plan is almost non-existent. It is based primarily on the 1959 Bartholomew report and is "so far out of date it is no longer practical," says Kenneth Mulford, chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Mulford did not think spot zoning was prevalent in Iowa City. He said, "Under the ordinance, something like anything under two acres is considered spot zoning, unless the land is contiguous to a area already zoned according to the proposed rezone use."

Lundberg contends that "spot zoning is not necessarily bad." He said the area might already be changing to the use asked for in a rezoning request. This is why, he said, every rezoning request is carefully examined by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

If examination shows the rezoning would be a good thing, the request should be recommended, he said.

At times, any rezoning has a negative result as far as public relations are concerned, said Lundberg. People are sympathetic with others who think they have been wronged by a rezoning, he said.

He said people in residential areas are especially fearful of commercial zones. "They think it is an infringement upon the residential zone's integrity and always expect the worse," he said.

One large complain against so-called spot zoning is that it devalues property in the surrounding area. Mayor William Hubbard agrees with this premise but added, just by making Governor Street a one way street has no doubt affected the property values in that area. He said there was no way of knowing how much devaluation actually took place.

One Iowa City realtor said prospective buyers of a house listed for sale in University Heights and close to new apartments in the area had consistently complained about buying a house with apartment houses in plain view. The realtor used this as an example of how property value could be affected.

However, the same realtor said that a person living in or next to an area rezoned for commercial use could make a greater profit by selling his land for commercial use than he could if he had sold his house under a residential zone. Of course, this depends on the age and the value of the house, he said.

Political pressure put on the commission and council members along with a rezoning request?

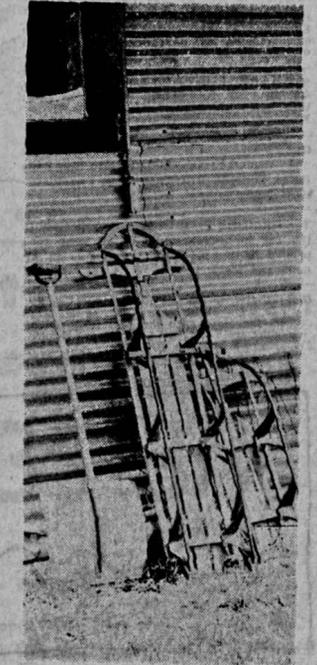

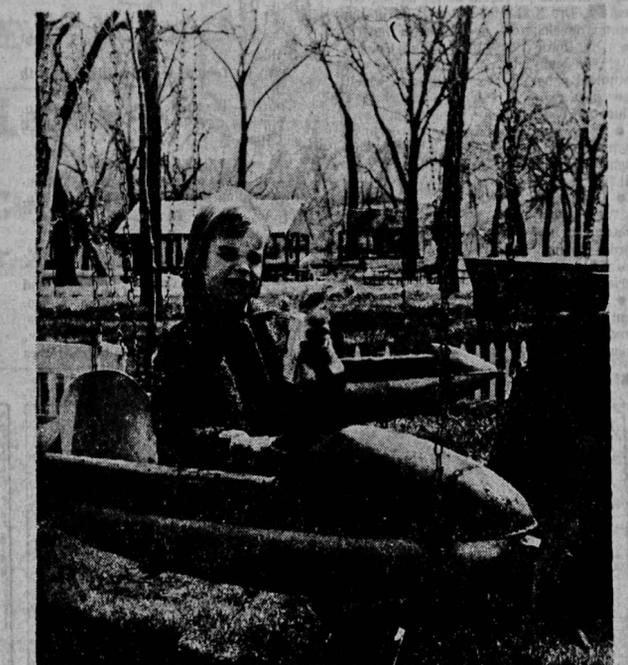

Lundberg draws the political line between the commission and the council. He said that just because the commission and the council disagreed sometimes, there was no need for deep concern. The council is not required by law to accept the commission's recommendations.

If Iowa City was like Marshalltown there would be cause for concern, he said. Marshalltown's city council, said Lundberg, turns over practically all their planning and zoning commission's recommendations.

Hubbard said the council "can not always be as objective" as the Planning and Zoning Commission. He said, "The Council should be more responsive to the people."

"The council goes along with the commission's recommendations about 90 per cent of the time. It usually has to rely on the commission's judgment."

The war of attrition

General William Westmoreland describes the Vietnam conflict as "a war of attrition." The alternative would be "a war of annihilation," which the general said had been "ruled out as a matter of policy." In the same way, President Johnson and Secretaries Rusk and McNamara talk of a "limited war" in Vietnam.

Although these phrases have considerable descriptive truth for the fleeting present, they contain a deception that hides reality. Keep up attrition long enough and eventually you annihilate. Keep escalating the war week after week, month after month, as the United States is doing, and there is no limit to the death and destruction . . .

The aim of present United States policies, however they are defined, is to advance toward total victory. If that victory can be achieved by a negotiation in which Hanoi surrenders, the solution will be through negotiation. If Hanoi goes on fighting, as Westmoreland expects it to, the victory would come through military action, with much of North Vietnam and some of South Vietnam turned into a wasteland.

The argument, presumably, is that every object — material or human — has a breaking point. The United States, as Westmoreland said, is "putting maximum pressure on the enemy anywhere and everywhere that we can." This is the philosophy . . . of making Hanoi "hurt," in the current lingo. But in the search for a breaking point, the victor can lose so much in a political, moral and even practical way that the victory becomes a sham.

It is undoubtedly correct to say — and Westmoreland is only the latest of many American leaders to point this out — that Hanoi must realize it can no longer defeat the Americans militarily. It does not follow that the Americans and their allies can defeat Hanoi and the Vietcong by the military measures now being applied, even if they are escalated indefinitely. As many of the most astute South Vietnamese leaders know, and some of them admit, the Vietcong could go on fighting guerrilla warfare for many years. If North Vietnam is not physically occupied, it can go on existing, however crippled it may be, and occupation would run imminent risk of intervention from the Communist Chinese or even the Soviet Union.

It is this complex of doubts and dangers in a long war with mounting American casualties and costs that is leading Republicans such as Senator Percy and Democrats such as Senators Fulbright and Robert Kennedy in the search for a way out before it is too late. The aim is not and never has been to "scuttle and run"; but the steady American expansion of the war has brought peace no nearer. Westmoreland concedes this.

Therefore, those who argue that the escalation should be stopped, that there should be a unilateral bombing pause over North Vietnam, that the wisest policy is to seek peace through political rather than military measures, and that every hint of an opening in Hanoi's declarations should be thoroughly pursued, are not being "unpatriotic." They are being logical.

The New York Times

Shirer accuses Johnson of double standard in Viet

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This article appeared first as a letter from William L. Shirer to The New York Times. Shirer is a former CBS newsmen and is the author of "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich.")

In his speech to the Tennessee Legislature President Johnson complained about the "moral double bookkeeping" of Americans who criticize our bombing of North Vietnam, accusing them of remaining silent about the Viet Cong atrocities while loudly protesting the slaughter of civilians by our bombing.

Is it not rather the President and our government which indulge in "moral double standards for conduct in world affairs — one for ourselves and quite another for others?"

It is all right, we hold, for us to send troops and guns to help one side in a civil war, but wrong for another country to do the same, though its intervention is far more feeble than our own.

We are punishing North Vietnam by bombing, the President said at Nashville, because "of her flagrant violations of the Geneva accords" (which we refused to sign). But Johnson is silent about our own violations of those accords, which forbade foreign intervention in Vietnam, and the violations by South Vietnam, under our pressure, including the refusal to carry out the Geneva stipulations for a plebiscite on reunification of the two Vietnams.

It was right to subject North Vietnam to bombing, the President has also said, because she sought to "subvert" South Vietnam and overthrow its government. But would we not have resented such punishment for ourselves when we in our turn "subverted" Guatemala and Iran and there succeeded in overthrowing governments which we did not approve?

We feel ourselves perfectly justified in regarding the Caribbean as our sphere of influence, but we oppose China taking a similar attitude toward the area near her borders.

Finally, we consider it right for us to bomb a country which never attacked us, never declared war on us, and on which we have never declared war — a point on which Mr. Johnson and Mr. Rusk are extremely silent.

As Athens, before the attack on Syracuse, as imperial Germany and imperial Japan before 1939, the United States, it seems to me, is today displaying the arrogance and the irresponsibility of power. We have held great power for so short a time and we have come so quickly to abuse it.

That we are following in the well-trod footsteps of history is small consolation.

Congress ponders credit on taxes for tuition, fees

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This article was submitted for publication by O. C. Carmichael Jr., president of Citizen's National Committee for Higher Education, Inc., South Bend, Ind.)

The Senate has approved by a 53-26 vote a plan to provide a federal income tax credit of up to $325 for tuition, books and fees paid by students in colleges, universities and other post-high school institutions. Final enactment of the plan probably will depend on the decisions made by a joint conference committee of the Senate and the House.

The tax credit plan was offered April 14 by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.) as an amendment to a House-passed bill which would restore the investment tax credit to businessmen.

Under the amendment as accepted by the Senate, the tuition and fee credit is 75 per cent of the first $200 paid, 25 per cent of the next $300 and 10 per cent of the next $1,000. The credit is subtracted from the income tax owed the government.

The credit is available to any person who pays the tuition. Thus, it would be available to working students and wives as well as to parents and other relatives. Parents with more than one child in college or graduate school may get a separate credit for each.

"Over two-thirds of the benefits of this amendment would go to families earning less than $10,000 a year," Ribicoff said.

A formula reduces the amount of the credit available to high bracket taxpayers.

Capitol observers said an important part in the final decision of the tuition tax credit plan would be played by Congressman Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark.), chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. So far, he has taken no public stand on the measure, which long has been opposed by the Johnson Administration.

In offering the tuition tax credit amendment, Sen. Ribicoff said there is an urgent need for tax relief for persons faced with the increasing costs of higher education.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) voted in favor of the tax credit amendment; Sen. Jack Miller (R-Iowa) voted against it.

Lyons' speech criticized

To the Editor:

I, for one, was very disappointed with Rev. Daniel Lyons' speech concerning the Vietnam war April 26. I don't think I've ever heard a more irresponsible speaker.

I had naively hoped to learn some new facts or reasons for either supporting or opposing U.S. intervention in Vietnam, but all I heard were glittering generalities, improper appeal to authority, false assumptions, name-calling and wild predictions. Far from winning converts to his position that we must force the V.C. to give up, Father Lyons only succeeded in angering at least half of his audience.

The main content of his speech was correctly and objectively reported in Thursday's Daily Iowan, but of course much of what he said was omitted by the reporter.

The basis for his statement "the people of South Vietnam are far more anti-Communist than we Americans are" is a survey which he himself is presently conducting among the clergy of South Vietnam. According to Father Lyons, the results of the survey (on which he got 10 per cent response) show that 85 per cent of the priests interviewed favored escalation of the war, and 50 per cent of them wanted to keep Red China out of the war.

The worst part of the evening was the question and answer session, in which he infuriated many of his questioners by continually interrupting them and belittling them. Most of these questioners were the same people who had carried on an intelligent, peaceful discussion on the same subject in a similar setting only one week earlier.

Though he purported to tell Christians why they should support the war, he made no reference to the Christians' basic text book, the Bible. He only spoke of church tradition. He emphasized the "fact" that all of today's theologians support a just war. When asked about the apparent pacifism of Jesus' command to "turn the other cheek," Father Lyons simply laughed this off by reminding us that Jesus also said, "Go and sin no more."

It was correctly reported in The Daily Iowan that Father Lyons stated that 50 to 60 thousand persons flee each month from Viet Cong-controlled areas to "free regions," but when he was asked about this figure after the speech, he admitted that he meant to say 6,000 and that these were civilians, not soldiers as he had led us to believe earlier.

I certainly hope that the Young Americans for Freedom are as disappointed as I am about their speaker's performance. I hope that they will exercise more care in selecting their next speaker. I would hate to think that the entire organization is as incapable of rational thought and discussion as Father Lyons.

Reader calls for objective reviews

To the Editor:

In the April 29 issue of The Daily Iowan, a concert review appeared which openly criticized the fraternity system. It is our contention that news articles of this type should remain completely impartial to subject matter not related to their general topic.

No one is impressed when a review is used as a crutch to express personal prejudices. Therefore, in the future, we suggest that writers such as Mr. Fensch limit themselves to subjects of which they have knowledge, even though this may seriously jeopardize their journalistic careers.

'The high cost of education'

Review not musical critique

To the Editor:

Hats off to Tom Frensch for his review on Trini Lopez. . . Dorothy Killgallen would be proud of him. Not only did he completely avoid objective musical criticism but he deftly inserted a brilliant expose of that ugly, hedonistic monster: Fraternity Row — a bunch of drunk, wall-throbbing, Trini Lopez listeners. What a sly fox! And that entire column on Lopez' association with Jack Ruby; how completely off the subject — simply superb. Again, the use of such historical data as Sen. McCarthy to complete the libelous inference. Academically ingenious!

The way Mr. Frensch adeptly got around any discussion of music and did not reveal any flaws in his own musical background only shows that he is an expert equivocator. I must admit the analogy to Ray Charles was a bit hard to grasp, but anybody who uses the blind bluesman in a review must really be "hip." I would certainly like to know more about this wonderful reviewer. His major? Is it paleontology or fingerprinting? Where does he plan to go with his journalistic ability? The National Enquirer? Sears and Roebuck?

Reader knocks adviser's methods

To the Editor:

Since I am one of the 25 students placed on probation because of the incident on the night of April 7, I read The Daily Iowan story with interest.

When I received my notice of dorm probation, I was neither shocked nor worried since I knew it was bound to come. What did bother me was that I was not brought before a dorm court or that I did not get a chance to meet my accuser.

I do not deny my involvement in the riot. I was there, but I do feel it should be pointed out that the person whom I disobeyed was not a dorm adviser but a "do good" resident who had no more business there than myself. If someone who was my equal can tell me to go home, I feel that people who are my equals should decide my punishment.

One other thing that points out the lack of investigation on the part of Mr. Beckman (residence halls adviser) is the fact that the letter I received from him, telling me of my punishment, contained my name twice, both times misspelled.

To be honest, I feel that the punishment is a little less severe than what I expected, should I have been found guilty of disobeying a dorm official, but I would have liked the chance to appear before some student organization before being sentenced.

700 Attend Ceremonies For Chapel

A capacity crowd of 700 persons attended the blessing and dedication ceremonies at 4 p.m. Tuesday in St. Thomas More Chapel.

About 75 members of the Davenport Diocese clergy participated in the ceremonies officiated by the most Reverend Gerald O'Keefe, bishop of the diocese.

Ceremonies began outdoors when the bishop blessed the foundations of the chapel. The congregation then formed a procession into the chapel for the blessing of the altar and interior of the chapel.

The Reverends J. W. McEleneey, pastor of the chapel, Clarence Stangorh, Newman chaplain, Joseph Barry, chaplain at the State Penitentiary in Fort Madison and former Newman chaplain here, and Robert Welch, professor of religion, assisted the bishop in the celebration of the Mass.

Edmund Dunn, 804 N. Dubuque, directed the choir and the congregation in the singing of the Mass. Accompaniment consisted of a trombone and three trumpet quartet, an organ, and a guitar.

Bishop O'Keefe said in his sermon that for centuries man had worshipped a god, and he had always had a sacred place reserved for beseeching and offering sacrifice to his God.

St. Thomas More was a 16th-century scholar who worked in the high point of English society. He died as a martyr rather than see the destruction of Christian unity.

"The Christian should be influenced by St. Thomas More's example of sanctity, service and love of law," the bishop said.

The bishop ended his sermon with a plea for unity.

"We should strive to be one in union with Christ and with all men who believe in Him," he said.

Theft, Destruction Of Auto Investigated By Sheriff

The theft and complete destruction early Tuesday morning of a $6,000 Corvette convertible belonging to Dale J. Beliveau, R.R. 4, is being investigated by Johnson County Sheriff's officers.

Beliveau, a sporting-goods sales clerk at Sears Roebuck and Co., said he left the keys in his car when he parked it in front of his apartment at 2:30 a.m.

Police said Beliveau reported the theft at about 5 a.m. They said the car was reported on fire about 5:05 a.m. one mile east of Highway 1 on Rapid Creek Road by an area resident returning from work.

The fiberglass convertible, which police said apparently had struck a bridge and then was driven down an embankment, was extinguished by the Solon Fire Department.

Coralville Police Chief Wayne J. Winter said the state fire marshal would help determine whether the fire was caused on started or had been deliberately started.

Tuesday night the Sheriff's Office said no clues or suspects had been found. Deputy Sheriff Ambrose J. Harney said there was nothing to go on, and that no driver had been located.

Beliveau said the car, purchased in February, contained a tape recorder, tapes, speakers and a jacket with a total value of about $170.

New Service Clubs Planned By Kiwanis

"We need more members," Lawrence B. DeWees, lieutenant-governor of Kiwanis Regional District, said Monday at the regular meeting of the Iowa City Kiwanis Club.

DeWees said, "No man should come to Kiwanis as a spectator. Each member must participate, or we will be stagnant. Each club needs support, especially of its members." This is important to remember in rostering new clubs such as is planned here," he said.

The Iowa City club is in the process of fostering three new service clubs in the area, Col. Brooks W. Booker, professor and head of Department of Aerospace Military Studies and president of the local club, said.

Booker said that the new clubs were not formed yet. One would be for the high school age group, one for college and the third would be a breakfast club for businessmen.

"The need for a second businessmen's club resulted because the present facilities for our meeting place are too small, plus the fact that noon is an inconvenient time for some people to come to the meetings," Booker said.

He said that there would be a meeting at 7 a.m. Thursday at Lassic's Red Barn to discuss the forming of these clubs.

The Thursday meeting will be the first meeting of the new breakfast club. The other two clubs are still in the planning stages.

Col. Cyrus R. Shockey, professor of military science, is in charge of the formation of the Key Club, which is the proposed service club for area high schools. He said that two of the area high schools, Regina and University High, had a policy not to permit outside organizations to form or sponsor organizations within the schools.

However, Iowa City High School does not have such a policy. He said that the proposal of forming a new club at City High had been presented to the school principal, Richard Taylor. The proposal is now under consideration.

Shockey said the purpose of the Key Club was to take charge of and originate projects that needed to be done in the community. He said that the club was not only to serve the school, but the whole community.

The Circle K Club, which is aimed at college students, has not been formed yet, according to Booker.

Marine Losses In Vietnam Are Heavier Than Army's

SAIGON — The loss to the Marines of nearly 100 dead and 276 wounded in a week's fighting around two jungled hilltops makes their casualties in the Vietnamese war high in comparison to Army casualties.

When Marines are hit by snipers or an entrenched enemy, their normal reaction is assault, which is charging hidden and dug-in enemy guns. And this is costly.

In the past 16 months the Marines suffered about 8 per cent killed and wounded, or one out of 34 men. During the same period the Army figures were 1.7 per cent, or one of every 57 men in Vietnam.

I one fight 300 Marines made two assaults up a half-mile high point where 37 men were killed and 87 were wounded. They had to abandon this attempt and turn the hill over to the artillery and fighter-bombers. When they next assaulted the hill the enemy had gone.

Various factors affect this picture in a minor way, but a major underlying cause is differing views of how to fight the war.

University Rules Hit At Soundoff

By FRAN PUHL Staff Writer

The topic was "Locus Parenti at the U of I," but much of the debate at Tuesday's Soapbox Soundoff centered on complaints against the Union Food Service and on a proposal to make Rienow Hall a women's dormitory and Kate Daum a men's dormitory.

In discussing locus parenti at Iowa, several students said the University made too many rules limiting actions that were approved in the students' homes.

The main problem with University rules is that they are inflexible, according to Jean D. Taylor, A3, Ridgefield, N.J.

Rules such as midnight hours for freshmen and sophomore women are reasonable for most freshmen and sophomore women most of the time, Miss Taylor said.

However, there are certain times when it might be appropriate for a girl to stay out past midnight, and the inflexible rules do not permit such exceptions, she said.

The only solution to such problems is to eliminate the rules, she said.

"The University Code of Student Life goes a little too far in almost every respect," she said.

In the debate of the Union Food Service that followed, numerous students attacked what they called a poor quality of food, unreasonable prices and unsanitary conditions in the River Room and Gold Feather Room cafeterias.

Douglas E. Brintnall, A3, Iowa City, said he had heard that the plastic utensils used in the Gold Feather cafeteria were washed and reused, and he questioned the legality of the practice.

Gary Musselman, night manager of the Union, said after Soundoff that the utensils were made of a special material that could withstand the steam sanitizing which the Union uses.

Miss Taylor said she had heard that the food was shipped to the Union hot, ready to serve, by trucks from about 70 miles from Iowa City. This might be one reason for the high cost of the food, she said.

According to Stephen R. Kenyon, Union catering manager, the food is not shipped prepared to the Union. The Union employs a large number of cooks who prepare the food in the Union kitchen, he said.

Miss Taylor suggested a boycott of the Union food services as an attempt to bring about changes in the cafeterias.

A boycott at San Francisco State College was 90 per cent effective in improving food conditions, according to an article in Moderator magazine, from which Janice J. Watje, A2, Buck Grove, read to the audience.

Douglas L. Elden, A2, Glen-coe, Ill., said he was opposed to a boycott.

"If you don't like the food, then don't eat there," he said.

Robert M. Allen, A2, Earlham, agreed that there was no need for a boycott.

"America was founded on free enterprise," he said. If a person can earn more money than another because he is smarter or works harder, he is entitled to do so, Allen said.

John Thomson, 422 Brown Street, said he did not think the food service was making as much money as several of the students had charged at Soundoff.

Allen said the "outrageous prices were understandable when the facts were considered.

He spoke of the large number of persons the food service employed and the cost of foods, overhead and fees that must be paid to the Union.

The Soundoff discussion took another change in topics when Carolyn L. Bohlen, A1, Keokuk, asked students their opinions of a proposal recently presented to dormitory students to turn Rienow hall into a women's dormitory and Kate Daum into a men's dormitory.

Miss Bohlen said she favored the changes and would like to live in Rienow. She said the change would be especially convenient for women nursing students and art students who had most of their classes on the west side of the river.

Having girls living in Rienow might cause a problem of policing the paths up the hill to Rienow for the girls' protection at night, Elden said.

Pulitzer Choice Defended

NEW YORK — A member of the Pulitzer Prize Board said Tuesday that "it has always held itself free to overrule juries and has frequently done so."

The board overruled by a reported 6-5 vote the recommendation that Harrison Salisbury of The New York Times receive the 1967 Pulitzer Prize for international reporting for his dispatches from North Vietnam.

Instead, the board selected R. John Hughes of the Christian Science Monitor for his coverage of the Indonesian crisis. Hughes had been second choice of the five-man jury panel, which had selected Salisbury 4-1.

Spotlight On Sports

By RON BLISS
Asst. Sports Editor

How long has it been since Iowa has won a national title? Too long as far as Iowa gymnastics Coach Sam Baillie is concerned. Before Baillie came to Iowa this year, Iowa had not won a Big 10 gymnastics title in 30 years. But after taking a look at his squad before the season began, he said he wouldn't be satisfied with anything less than a Big 10 championship. He got just that. And next year he is expecting even greater things.

"The NCAA title is our goal for next year," Baillie said Saturday night following the completion of the United States Gymnastics Federation individual championships in the Field House. "We only finished third in the NCAA meet this year, but next year we expect to have the strength and depth to take it all."

Baillie has plenty of reason for optimism, judging by the number of fine gymnasts he has returning and by the performances of a few of his freshmen in the USGF meet. Chuck England, a freshman from Whittier, Calif., placed second in two events — long horse and floor exercise, while Rich Scorza of Villa Park, Ill., placed third in the long horse and fourth in the horizontal bar. Mike Zepeda of Ottawa, Ill., and Jim Morlan of Harvey, Ill., also placed third and fourth respectively in the National Trampoline Challenge Tournament, which was held in conjunction with the USGF meet.

To go with this fine crop of freshmen, Baillie has the nucleus of the third best college gymnastics team in the nation returning. The only major losses by graduation will be Tom Goldsborough, Big 10 parallel bars champion; Ken Gordon, a third place finisher in the NCAA in side horse; Ian Heller, a standout in the long horse and parallel bars; and Don Price, a high bar specialist.

5 All-Americans Return

Baillie will have no less than five All-American performers returning next year, as well as several other gymnasts who are good enough to win national titles. The All-Americans are Keith McCannless and Marc Slotten, side horse; Neil Schmitt, horizontal bar; Bob Dickson, all-around; and Don Hatch, still rings.

Sophomore Terry Siorek may have been a sixth All-American had he not suffered pulled muscles in his right arm mid-way through his routine in the Big 10 championships.

"I had several of the judges tell me that Terry would have won the still rings title easily in the Big 10 meet if he hadn't pulled the muscle when he did," Baillie said, "and I'm sure he would have finished very high in the NCAA meet this year if he would have been able to compete."

Siorek, who had qualified first in the still rings in the Big 10 meet with a 9.5 in the preliminaries, was still unable to compete in the USGF meet here this past weekend. Baillie said doctors discovered some time after the Big 10 meet that Siorek had suffered a multiple muscle tear and had torn muscles underneath his arm, as well as in the bicep. The torn bicep muscles have healed, but Siorek is still bothered by the torn muscles under his arm, Baillie said. He is expected to be fully recovered by next year, however.

One of the things that kept Iowa from winning the NCAA title this year was a weakness in the trampoline event. Baillie expects Zepeda and Morlan to help cure this situation next year, however.

"With Morlan and Zepeda coming up to help Gil Williams, we expect about a 25 per cent improvement in the trampoline event next year," Baillie said. "That was the only event we didn't average over 9.0 in this year."

How strong will defending NCAA champion Southern Illinois be next year?

"They should be just about as strong as they are this year," said Baillie. "But we hope to be even stronger."

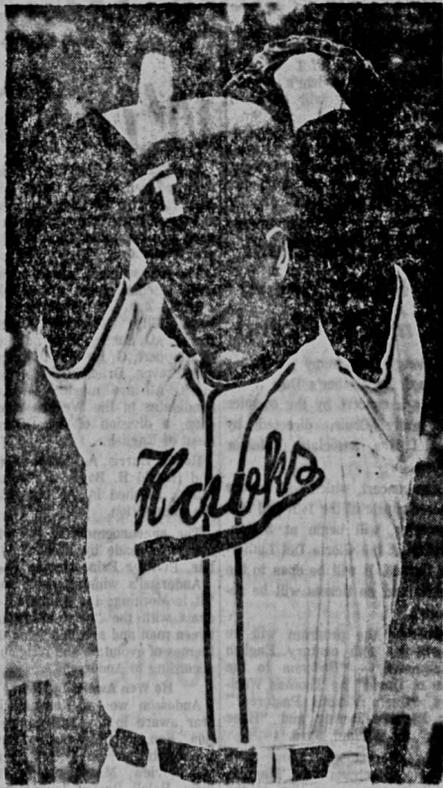

The USGF meet Saturday night was probably the finest gymnastics meet we have ever seen — even better than the Big 10 championship meet, which was held in the Iowa Field House in March. From watching the meet we came to the realization of just what a great spectator sport gymnastics can be and wondered why it has not been organized on a professional basis.

"It would be nice if professional teams could be organized," Coach Baillie said, "and I think it is something you'll see developing in the future. What I'd like to see is a league organized with teams representing such cities as Chicago, Denver, St. Louis and so on, just like they are organized in football and other sports."

Baillie said the initial step toward professionalizing gymnastics was taken last year when a professional trampoline tournament was held in Chicago. It would be nice to see it carried even further.

No Mistakes Allowed In Big 10, Koering Says

By DUANE CROCK
Staff Writer

"I've learned one thing since I started playing college baseball," Jim Koering said Saturday. "There is no room for mistakes."

Koering, a sophomore from Stanwood who pitched a one-hitter against Purdue Friday, was discussing his baseball career at Iowa.

"In high school you could get by with throwing a wrong pitch or making a poor decision, but down here it could ruin a whole game or lose you a position on the team," he said.

College Ball Different

Koering said that there was no comparison between college and high school baseball.

"For one thing, the competition to make the team is very rough. There are 12 pitchers fighting to get into the starting rotation of four," he said. "Also, you don't dare throw a high pitch or it will be hit. There is a lot you have to know. The pitching aspect which the coaches stress the most is control. They tell us to try to keep our pitches down around the knees and to avoid throwing around the waist or above." Koering said that sound defense is the best aspect of Iowa's baseball team. Hitting has been the weak point, he said.

"We should have a good chance to finish in the first division of the Big 10 if our hitting picks up," Koering said. "However, Minnesota, Michigan and Ohio State should stand the best chance of winning the conference title."

Koering, a 6-2, 215-pound righthander, is one of the Hawkeyes' top sophomores this season. In addition to his 1-hitter against Purdue, he shut out Bradley for 10 innings April 14 before giving way to a relief pitcher. The game ended in a scoreless tie when it was called by darkness in the 14th inning.

Through Tuesday he had allowed only two earned runs and 13 hits in 23 innings. His earned run average was a sparkling 0.78 — best on the team. He has appeared in three games, but has only one decision. His record is 1-0.

Iowa Spring Sports Teams Gird For Busy Weekend

University athletes usher in the first of May's busy weekends Friday and Saturday with six sports events, five of them at Iowa City.

The golf team is on the road. In baseball, Iowa meets "natural rival" Minnesota here in single games Friday at 3:30 p.m. and Saturday at 1 p.m., a departure from the usual 1967 Big 10 double-headers.

The track team has its only home meet — except for the Big 10 championships — a triangular with Drake and Northern Illinois. This marks the first use of the $50,000 new all-weather asphalt and rubber track.

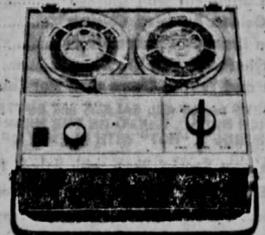

Big 10 opponents Purdue and Illinois face the tennis team. Iowa meets Purdue Friday at 2 p.m. and Illinois Saturday at 1 p.m. The Hawks are 2-3 in conference play and hope to move over the .500 mark with wins over the next two league opponents.

The Golfers compete in the Northern Intercollegiate tournament at Ann Arbor Friday and Saturday on the University of Michigan course.

The baseball team now stands 3-4 in the conference for seventh place. Hawks shut out Purdue 6-0, in the second game last Friday when sophomore Jim Koering pitched a 1-hitter; and defeated Illinois, 7-0, on a four-hit game by Tom Stack. Purdue had won the first game, 5-3; and Illinois had taken the first one, 3-2.

NCAA, AAU Make Progress, Agree On Several Key Points

NEW YORK (AP) — The four-man Sports Arbitration Board ended another two-day hearing into the long-standing AAU and NCAA dispute by announcing Tuesday that an agreement had been reached on a number of major points.

This included the reorganizing of the track and field committee into a working group with equal votes for the disputing parties, and an agreement on "event sanctioning."

The case of Jim Ryun's pending world record of 1:49.9 for the half-mile was tabled for the time being, however.

Theodore W. Kheel, the New York mediator who is chairman of the four-man board, said "this was the best meeting the group has had since I became chairman of the board 1 1/2 years ago."

The coordinating committee established for track and field was reorganized and a new committee was set up with equal votes for the Amateur Athletic Union; the National Collegiate Athletic Association; the U.S. Track and Field Federation, which is aligned with the NCAA, and the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, which usually sides with the AAU.

Kheel said this committee will resolve disputes in track and field at any level.

He said if the committee does not settle the dispute, then the four-man board will have the final word.

In addition to setting up this key committee, another major agreement was reached on the principle "event sanctioning."

This involves the case of a college meet where the sponsors want to include one or two open events. The sponsoring organization of the meet will have to apply to the AAU for the sanctioning of the open events only instead of for the entire meet. Kheel said the AAU had agreed to this.

Ryun ran his world record half mile at the USTFF meet in Terre Haute, Ind., last June. The record was not accepted by the International Amateur Athletic Federation, world governing body of the sport, because the AAU had not signed the application. The AAU had not certified the meet.

Navy Man Asks Permission From WBA To Fight Clay

HONG KONG (AP) — A former Navy officer from Kansas City said Tuesday he is going to make formal application to the World Boxing Association to fight Cassius Clay — despite the fact that he is almost twice as old as Clay and has never fought professionally.

Clay Asks Court To Prevent Arrest

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Cassius Clay asked the fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Tuesday to enjoin his draft board from declaring him a delinquent and instituting criminal action for his refusal to heed its call.

The brief motion asked that an injunction be issued pending formal appeal by the former world heavyweight boxing champion of the dismissal of his lawsuit in which he sought to remain exempt from criminal prosecution.

Clay's motion for an injunction arrived by mail at the Appeals Court here.

Court sources said the three-judge panel might rule on the motion by late today.

Grad Student's Novel Set To Be Published

A novel written by a graduate student at the Writers Workshop will be published this summer.

John Wideman, G. Pittsburgh, Pa., wrote the novel "A Glance Away," while he was studying in Oxford, England, from 1963 to 1966 under a Rhodes Scholarship.

The novel, Wideman said recently, is about a professor in England who tries to rehabilitate himself from drug addiction.

"Although they came from different cultural levels and backgrounds," he said, "their parallel efforts of 'raising' themselves made them able to communicate to each other at the end."

Harcourt Brace and World, Inc., publishing company, accepted his novel while he was writing it, and has paid him $1,000 in advance, Wideman said.

Studied in England
 After Wideman received his B.A. degree in English at the University of Pennsylvania in 1963, he went to New College, England. There he majored in 18th century English literature.

Among the more desirable aspects of the Oxford system, he said, is to have six weeks of vacation after each of the three eight-week studying periods.

Wideman spent most of his vacations travelling around Europe on his motorcycle.

"I have seen most of the countries in Western Europe," he said, "and I hope I can use this experience in my next novel."

Since he was away from the United States for three years, he said, studying in the Workshop is a "nice way" to get into the American literary mainstream.

"I want to see what the other writers are producing now," he said.

Wideman plans to go back to the University of Pennsylvania to teach creative writing in September.

Thieves Market Plans To Feature Artists At Work

Thieves Market will be held from 3 to 6 p.m. Saturday in the Union New Ballroom as part of the Mothers Day activities.

Included as a special feature will be an Artist at Work show with Francis Tapy, G. Omaha, Neb., and other artists showing pottery.

Thieves Market is a sale of amateur art. Pieces will include prints, oil paintings, pottery, jewelry and photographs. The prices of the works, ranging from less than $1 to over $150, are set by the individual artists. Each artist must pay a fee of one dollar to display his works, but all profit from the sale goes to the artists.

Tapy, head of the Potter's Guild, will be one of several potters showing pieces for the Artist at Work display. The bowls, covered dishes and teapots that they shape from wet clay will not be for sale.

Seventy-five to 100 artists are expected to display their work. Displays may be set upon a first-come-first-served basis starting at 1 p.m. Saturday. There is no limit to the number of items that may be displayed by each artist.

Sponsored by the Union Board, the show and sale are free to the general public. The $1 entry fee charged to the artist will be used to purchase a permanent art piece for the Union.

INCOMPLETE GRADES
 The deadline for make up of Incomplete (I) grades for currently enrolled students is May 24. Grades of I still remaining on a student's record after that date will be converted to failing grades. Students should contact the instructor for each course for which they have an I. Further information may be obtained at the Registrar's Office.

University Choir To Give Concert Mom's Weekend

Among the many activities planned for Mother's Day Weekend is a concert by the 60-voice University Choir, directed by Daniel Moe, associate professor of music.

The concert, which will feature sacred music of the 16th and 20th centuries, will begin at 8 p.m. Friday at the Gloria Dei Lutheran Church. It will be open to the public and no tickets will be required.

Opening the program will be works by 16th century English composers — "Hosanna to the Son of David" by Thomas Weelkes, "Quem Vidistis Pastores?" by Richard Dering and "Haec Dies" by William Byrd.

The concert will close with Claudio Monteverdi's "Magnificat," in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the Italian composer's birth. Featured soloists in the "Magnificat" will be sopranos Anna Tarzier, instructor in music, and Carolyn Peters, G. Wyaconda, Mo., with Gerard M. Krapf, associate professor of music, accompanying at the organ.

Modern works included in the Friday program will be "Psalm 150" by Jean Berger, "Ave Maria" by Kenneth Gaburo and "Cantata of Peace" by Darius Milhaud.

One of the youngest performing ensembles at the University, the choir was organized in 1961 by Moe. The group performs in several concerts annually, both alone and with other University music groups.

He Won Award in 1966

Anderson won a Kansas City Star award in the 1966 competition. Some of his poems have been published in Poetry, Hudson Review, Massachusetts Review, Beloit Poetry Journal and Midland II magazines.

He received a B.A. degree after majoring in English and education from Northeastern University, Boston, Mass., in 1964. He will teach an undergraduate poetry course here next year.

Browne's prize-winning entry was "Song Stanzas." He has just finished the text for a children's cantata called "How the Stars Were Made." Another poem, "The Delta," which is about Vietnam, is being scored for musical presentation in New York.

Browne received a B.A. degree after majoring in French and Swedish from Hull University in England. He studied a year at Oxford University, and traveled with a Shakespearean theatrical company in Israel.

Poems by Browne have been published by Poetry Review, Midland II, Ambient, the New Yorker and English Poetry magazines.

Love Poem Award Winner

Klappert's prize was awarded for "Poem for L.C.," a two-part love poem. "The first part," said Klappert, "deals with romantic love, and the second part attempts to destroy the first part by ripping apart its theories and techniques, thus destroying the relationships."

4 Workshop Poets Win $100 Awards

Four $100 prizes out of six awarded by Hallmark Cards Inc., as part of the fourth annual Kansas City Poetry Competition, have been won by students in the Writers Workshop.

The four winners, whose poems were selected from about 2,000 entries, are Jon Anderson, G. Iowa City; Michael Dennis Browne, G. Surrey, England; Peter Klappert, G. Rowayton, Conn.; and Steven Orlen, G. Holyoke, Mass. All are master's degree candidates in the Writers Workshop, a division of the Department of English.

Robert Harris, A4, Kansas City, and Harold H. Bond, G. Boston, Mass., finished in the top 10 in the competition.

The announcement of the winners was made by Richard Wilbur, Pulitzer Prize-winning poet. Anderson's winning poem was "It is Morning, the Animals." It deals with the "relationship between man and animals using the themes of evolution and religion," according to Anderson.

He Won Award in 1966
 Anderson won a Kansas City Star award in the 1966 competition. Some of his poems have been published in Poetry, Hudson Review, Massachusetts Review, Beloit Poetry Journal and Midland II magazines.

He received a B.A. degree after majoring in English and education from Northeastern University, Boston, Mass., in 1964. He will teach an undergraduate poetry course here next year.

Browne's prize-winning entry was "Song Stanzas." He has just finished the text for a children's cantata called "How the Stars Were Made." Another poem, "The Delta," which is about Vietnam, is being scored for musical presentation in New York.

Browne received a B.A. degree after majoring in French and Swedish from Hull University in England. He studied a year at Oxford University, and traveled with a Shakespearean theatrical company in Israel.

Poems by Browne have been published by Poetry Review, Midland II, Ambient, the New Yorker and English Poetry magazines.

Trump Quits ACT Position, Had Been President 5 Years

Paul L. Trump, president of the American College Testing Program, announced Tuesday that he will step down as ACT president as soon as the board of trustees appoints a successor.

Trump is in his fifth year as president of the testing program, which is based in Iowa City and will administer college admission exam to approximately 900,000 students during the current program year.

Before being named ACT president in 1962, Trump was professor of education, registrar and director of admissions for the University of Wisconsin.

Began in 1959
 Trump began involved with ACT in 1959 when he was one of the original state coordinators selected to serve on the board when ACT was founded that year.

"For personal reasons and in view of the long range challenges facing the program, I have asked the board to begin the process of seeking my successor as president," Trump said.

"The more than seven years I have served the program have been challenging and rewarding. I now take this action with mixed feelings."

Trump said that he felt the progress of ACT had been excellent and that its future was bright.

Confidence Expressed
 "I know ACT's role will continue to expand as it assists the nation's educational personnel in its quest for the right answers to the questions of our time," Trump said.

During Trump's administration, the number of ACT staff members has increased from 6 to 165 and the number of participating colleges and universities has increased from 651 to 1,363. The average annual growth in the number of students tested has been 30 per cent.

Commenting on Trump's announcement, Chairman of the Board E. M. Gerritz, dean of admissions and records at Kansas State University, expressed "deep regret and the great appreciation of the board in acknowledging the dedicated services of Dr. Trump."

WSUI Broadcasts Series Telling Of German Culture

A new series of programs is now under way on WSUI in cooperation with the University's Department of German. The title of the series is "Aspekte Deutscher Kultur," which means "Aspects of German Culture."

"In this series we are trying to include as many aspects of German culture as possible," said Wieland Raatz, G. Remscheid, Germany, director of the series.

"We want to reach the German-speaking people in the area with this program," he said.

Raatz said that WSUI also hoped to reach local colleges and high schools. He said that suggestions and contributions were welcome.

The series, which is broadcast at 9:30 a.m. each Saturday on WSUI, consists of aspects of German culture found locally and taped and recorded material.

This series will continue through the summer and next year and will have variations of poetry, music, interviews and German life in general.

5 Students Given 1-Day Jail Terms On Beer Charges

Five University students were sentenced to one day in the Johnson County Jail and two non-students were fined Monday night in Coralville Justice of the Peace Court for possession of beer as a minor.

Sentenced to jail were Katherine A. Grow, A1, Hudson; Kathleen E. Johnson, A1, Rockford, Ill.; Mary A. Murphy, A2, Ida Grove; Stuart H. Wolf, A1, Lincolnwood, Ill.; and Dennis J. Harris, A1, Highland Park, Ill.

Robert L. Kloppenburg and Richard Kloppenburg, both of Davenport, were fined $75. Robert Kloppenburg formerly was a University freshman.

The seven youths were arrested by Highway Patrol officers Saturday night at the Coralville Reservoir.

Honors Convocation To Recognize 1,800

The University will recognize the academic achievements of 1,800 undergraduates at the fifth annual Honors Convocation 10 a.m. Saturday in Macbride Auditorium.

According to Rhodes Dunlap, director of the Honors Department and professor of English, all students with a 3.00 average or better in any of the University's six undergraduate divisions have been invited to attend the convocation.

Dunlap said, "The object of the convocation is to recognize undergraduate achievement. This is the only time the entire University recognizes the achievements of the undergraduates."

All the names of the honored undergraduates will appear on the program, and individual awards will be presented to several especially outstanding students.

The Dean's Award will go to an outstanding freshman, sophomore and junior who were selected by instructors and a faculty committee.

Certificates of achievement will be presented to 25 outstanding seniors by Pres. Howard R. Bowen.

Steffi Beth Resnick, A4, Brooklyn, N.Y., will follow the awards presentation with a response on behalf of all the students present.

Howard Hayden, a visiting professor in comparative education from Victoria University in Wellington, New Zealand, will then speak on "Academic Values in Emerging Societies."

Tours Planned For Visitors On Mothers Day Weekend

Guided tours of the University campus are planned for visitors Saturday afternoon following the Mothers Day Weekend luncheon.

A 35-minute guided bus tour of the campus will begin at the east entrance of the Union. Visitors will tour the campus on both sides of the river and will see the dormitories, the Field House and stadium, the Medical and Law Buildings, the Art Building, the Theater, and liberal arts, education, science, music, business and dentistry buildings. Then they will return to the Union.

Those wishing to tour the Dentistry Building will meet at the Union terrace. Visitors will walk to the building where they will be shown the adult clinic and laboratory facilities for freshman and sophomore dental students, and the visual aid facilities used in teaching. They will also be shown the section for private practice and research in the building.

A brief talk will be given to inform the visitors about how patients enter the clinic and are transferred to the different areas, such as the adult clinic.

The tour of Phillips Hall, the new building of the College of Business, will depart from the Union terrace. There will be demonstrations of the new equipment and a short lecture on how it is used.

A bus will transport visitors from the east entrance of the Union to the Hospital School for Crippled Children. Here visitors will see the recreation facilities, classrooms, individual rooms and sunrooms.

The hospital requests that no one under 16 years of age enter the hospital. No one will be allowed to drive cars to the hospital.

Tours Planned For Visitors On Mothers Day Weekend

tal. Those wishing to take the tour must take the bus. The tour is limited to 35 people.

Those wishing to tour the Home Economics Department will meet at the Union terrace and walk to Macbride Hall. The visitors will be divided into five small groups to see the various specialized departments. Guides will tell the purpose and give a brief history of each department.

The groups will see the nutrition laboratory, the related arts room, the food research laboratory, clothing construction laboratory, tailoring and advanced clothing facilities, textiles laboratory, foods area and the family circle display.

GOP Senators Pledge Support To Viet Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans pledged their "wholehearted support" today to President Johnson in his conduct of the Vietnam war.

The Senate minority leader, Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, read reporters a statement he said represented a consensus of members in a closed session in which a staff report critical of Johnson's course was debated.

In the statement, which Dirksen said he personally drafted this morning before leaving Walter Reed Army Hospital, the Republicans said:

"Preserving wholly the right of full and fair inquiry and criticism, we reiterate wholehearted support of the commander in chief of the armed forces and reaffirm our position of standing foursquare behind him and our field, air and sea commanders in Southeast Asia, along with support of our superb fighting men in their fight to win over Communist aggression."

Army Interviews Begin Thursday

The U.S. Army Candidate Selection team will be available Thursday and Friday at the Business and Industrial Placement Office on the second floor in the Union to counsel and interview seniors on the opportunities available through the College Option Enlistment Program.

The total commitment for a man entering this program is two years and 10 months.

At the end of the 23 weeks training period, the officers are guaranteed their enlistment option which can be in the infantry, artillery, armor, engineering, transportation, quartermaster, signal ordinance or managerial executive positions.

Forger Receives Suspended Term

Rudolph H. Krotz, address unavailable, received a one-year suspended sentence Tuesday in Johnson County District Court.

Krotz was charged with forgery July 26, 1966. Judge Clair E. Hamilton suspended the sentence on the condition that Krotz abstain from all alcoholic beverages for one year.

Building Permits For 1st Quarter Of 1967 Decline

Building permits issued during the first three months of 1967 for new dwellings in Iowa City amounted to less than half the number issued during the first quarter of 1966, Warren J. Buchan, city building inspector announced Monday.

During the first quarter of 1966, building permits for $3.2 million of new dwellings were issued. However, during the first three months of 1967 permits for only $1.6 million were issued. Twenty-five residential permits were issued this April as compared with 40 in April, 1966.

However, permits for remodeling have increased substantially. Remodeling permits for 1967 total $1 million while permits issued during the first quarter of 1966 totaled only $360,090.

During April, 1967, permits were issued for 20 new single-family dwellings and five garages and carports, totaling an estimated $498,676.

Derby Winners Are Announced

Sigma Chi Derby Days drew to a close Saturday with the crowning of Jean E. Vanderploeg, A3, Ottumwa, as the 1947 Derby Days Queen.

Miss Vanderploeg was chosen from a field of 16 candidates who were nominated by their various housing units.

Gamma Phi Beta sorority won the All-Participation Trophy for the third year in a row and so will be allowed to keep the trophy permanently.

Second place went to Alpha Delta Pi, and Alpha Xi Delta won the third position.

Winning the Spirit Trophy was Alpha Delta Pi sorority. This trophy was awarded to the housing unit displaying the most enthusiasm throughout the week.

Second place went to Alpha Xi Delta, and the third award was won by Alpha Chi Omega.

Again this year as part of the Derby Days entertainment, three sky divers jumped and successfully landed within the designated area in City Park, where the days activities were held.

Sigma Chi fraternity sponsored the event, and Ted J. Boston, A4, Bettendorf, was chairman.

DINING-IN PLANNED—Billy Mitchell Squadron will hold its Dining-in at 6 p.m. tonight. Cadets are to meet outside the Cadet Wing Office. Dress is mess dress with white jacket or Class A with a white shirt and black bow tie.

UI Wins Penny Days Drive

"Penny Days," the annual charity fund drive which was held last Wednesday and Thursday, netted a total of $143.88 for Rust, Iowa and LeMoyné Expanding Educational Horizons (RILEEH).

The drive, which was initiated last year by Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, the present sponsor, matches a charity chosen by the University against one chosen by the city of Iowa City. Proceeds of both go to the one which receives the most money.

The University, which this year chose RILEEH as its charity, as it did last year, won the competition with $121.27 collected.

Iowa City's charity, the School Children's Aid Fund, collected $22.61.

RILEEH is a project in which the University is sponsoring two Southern Negro liberal arts colleges, Rust and LeMoyné, in their efforts to raise their standards and improve their facilities.

The University won the competition last year also, collecting more than $300.

Each year a different sorority is chosen to assist in the drive, and this year Pi Beta Phi was chosen.

Fellowship Given

Mrs. Howard Lee Harrod of Des Moines has been awarded a Danforth Graduate Fellowship for women which she will use for study toward a Ph.D. Degree in English at the University.

The 34 women in the United States who received the fellowships this year plan to become high school or college teachers. To be eligible for the awards, they must have bachelor's degrees, and must have experienced a break of at least three years in their academic or teaching careers.

Symphony Band To Give Concert

The 100-member University Symphony Band, which toured Europe and Russia last year under the sponsorship of the U.S. Department of State, will present its annual spring concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Union Main Lounge.

Free tickets are available at the Union Information Desk, Campus Record Shop, Eble Music Co. and West Music Co.

The band will feature three recent compositions: "Corn Festival Caprice" by Lee Eitzen, "Symphony for Band" by Robert Washburn, and "Emblems" by Aaron Copland. Frederick C. Ebbes, director of the band, will conduct the concert.

Eitzen wrote the "Caprice" as a fantasy on the "Corn Song"; "a potpourri of familiar jollities extracted from a fondly remembered tune," Eitzen said. He received his Ph.D. in 1960 at the University's School of Music.

With the assistance of a grant from the State University of New York Research Foundation, Washburn wrote "Symphony for Band" last summer. He is a member of the music theory department of State University of New York in Potsdam.

Copland based his "Emblems" on the 19th-century hymn tune "Amazing Grace" in 1963. He worked on a commission from the College Band Directors National Association.

The band will also play Dmitri Kabalevsky-Walter Beeler's "Colas Breugnon Overture," "Liturgical Music for Band, Op. 33" by Martin Mailman, Camille Saint-Saen-P. Egner's "The Bacchanale from 'Samson and Delilah,'" and "The Boys of the Old Brigade March" by W. Paris Chambers.

OUR POLICY

For years it was the policy of midwest stores to "wait and see" what the styles were in the fashion centers, then "buy safe" after the styles were established. In the Country Cobbler stores we guarantee that you will find the very latest styles, the same day they go on display in New York, Chicago, San Francisco, and the other major fashion centers of America.

Where else but at Country Cobbler the Shoe Store that dares to be different!

A: The BANDIT—in white, bone, multi-color
B: The SANDY—in bone, navy blue

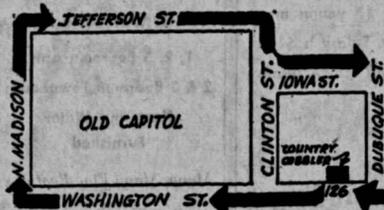

FREE!

With every purchase of women's shoes during our Grand Opening, we're giving away a pair of the stylish FISHERNET HOSE, in a color to match your shoes.

WIN A FREE PAIR OF SHOES!

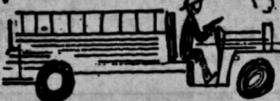

Our roving photographer has taken hundreds of snapshots of girls in the Iowa City area; find YOUR picture in our giant collage during our grand opening, and you win yourself a FREE pair of shoes! 111 (15 pair will be awarded.)

Teacher Says Rhodesia Is Modern David

The Rhodesian government of Ian Smith "stands as a dam against international socialism and truly represents the people," said Bruce Glen, a Clinton high school teacher, Monday night.

Glen spoke before a meeting of the Young Americans for Freedom (YAF) in the Union Purdue Room on the subject, "Rhodesia — A Modern David."

Glen said Rhodesia was a modern David because it had upset the "conspiracy" of international socialism — "a conspiracy to enslave you and I."

He said that the Ian Smith government was founded on the same spirit of freedom and independence that the United States was founded on during the American Revolution and, contrary to popular opinion, the Smith government "does represent the people of Rhodesia."

"In Rhodesia they are building a united multi-racial nation." He said that Rhodesia was not ruled by a ruthless white minority government as some believed, but by a government with considerable representation by black Rhodesians.

"In fact," said Glen, "more black Rhodesians sit in the Rhodesian Parliament than Negroes in the Congress of the United States."

Glen added that the Rhodesian Council of Chiefs, representing 84 per cent of black Rhodesians, has endorsed the Smith government.
