Border Tangle Brings 1st Deaths Of Crisis

JERUSALEM (AP) — An Israeli patrol battled a four-man Syrian squad on the border Friday, heightening war fever and bringing the first deaths since the onset of the Mideast crisis.

An Army spokesman in Tel Aviv said two Israelis and a Syrian were killed.

As news of this third border incident this week spread, Egypt warned the maritime nations it "will not permit any act of aggression against its territorial waters, and will take all measures necessary to secure its sovereignty."

This was Cairo's response to British and U.S. consultants on how to overcome Egypt's announced blockade of Israeli shipping in the Gulf of Agaba, in which lies Israel's port of Elath. Israel has warned it will not tolerate a blockade indefinitely.

There were these other developments Friday as diplomats attempted to prevent any more outbreaks of fighting.

Statement Readied

In Washington President Johnson and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson were reported working on a statement which, if accepted by other maritime nations, will be issued as a joint declaration on freedom of the seas as it applies in the crisis.

When and in what form the declaration will be made public and which and how many countries are ready to sign it, was not immediately clear.

In Paris President Charles de Gaulle made a pressing effort to water down the smoldering crisis.

This was said to be the main sense of a statement De Gaulle made to a meeting of the French cabinet, devoted in large part to the new flames of tension between Israel and the Arab states.

De Gaulle warned that any of the nations involved would have neither France's "approval nor support" if it started armed action.

De Gaulle also said France "considers that each of the states has the right to live."

At the U.N. pessimism mounted among diplomats over prospects for any kind of concrete action by the Security Council that would insure a breathing spell in the crisis.

U.S. sources said Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg was determined to press to a vote his resolution calling on all parties to heed Secretary-General U Thant's call for restraint, and let international diplomacy work out a peaceful solution.

The council is scheduled to meet again in an unusual Saturday session.

But there was no assurance that the U.S. resolution would win the required nine votes in the 15-nation council. Even if it did, it was regarded as almost certain to encounter a Soviet veto.

Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson of Canada, fresh from consultations with Wilson, announced in Ottawa that Canada would not join in the declaration but would await action by the U.N. Security Council.

Wilson flew from Ottawa to Washington and plunged into talks with Johnson on the crisis — triggered early this month by Syria's charge that Israel planned an invasion.

The border fighting broke out when an Israeli patrol intercepted four armed Syrians as they were returning to Syria, an Israeli army spokesman said.

The encounter was at Kfar Hanassi, site of a collective farm a little more than a half mile inside Israel and five miles north of the Sea of Galilee.

After an exchange of shots, the Syrians fled across the border leaving one dead, along with a submachine gun, two anti-personnel mines and ammunition, the spokesman reported. One Israeli soldier also was wounded. The spokesman said the Syrians were army regulars.

Only Thursday, guns along the Jordanian border opened up. Jordan said the guns were firing at an Israeli helicopter that flew over the Jordanian sector of Jerusalem. No casualties were reported.

Arab gunners and Israeli troops exchanged fire across the border of the Gaza Strip Monday, also without casualties. The Egyptian-administered Gaza Strip on the Mediterranean coast on Israel's southwest border is crowded with armed Palestine refugees.

Soviets Say U.S. Bombed A Ship Near N. Vietnam

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government charged that one of its ships was bombed Friday in a North Vietnamese port and declared it was "an act of banditry which may have far-reaching consequences."

The Russians said the 3,350-ton diesel ship Turkistan was bombed at Cam Pha, 44 miles north of the main port of Haiphong, and two crew members badly wounded. The ship was damaged, it added.

As released by Tass news agency, a note from Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to the U.S. embassy declared:

"In the event of a recurrence of such actions on the part of the U.S. armed forces the Soviet Union will be compelled to take appropriate measures to ensure the safety of its ships."

"The Soviet government makes a resolute protest to the government of the United States, which bears the entire responsibility for these provocative bandit actions by the American armed forces," the note continued.

"The Soviet government insists, firstly, on the strict punishment of those responsible for the attack on the Soviet ship, and secondly, awaits assurances that there will be no recurrence of actions like this in respect to Soviet ships."

Tass said the U.S. Embassy reported it would forward the protest immediately to Washington.

Marines, North Vietnamese Locked In Heavy Fighting On Coastal Plain

SAIGON (AP) — Several battalions of U.S. Marines and a Communist force estimated at 2,000 soldiers were reported locked in heavy fighting early today on a coastal plain near Tam Ky, 375 miles northeast of Saigon.

The U.S. Command said the Marines, backed by air strikes and artillery, were assaulting the Communist positions, described as well-prepared ones in rolling terrain.

Interim reports listed 117 North Vietnamese troops killed. There was no report on Marine casualties.

The fighting began shortly before noon Friday when Marines from the 5th Marine Regiment ran into the Communist force.

Jets Pound Yards

In the air war over North Vietnam, U.S. Air Force jets pounded railroad yards and sidings Friday 22 to 50 miles northwest of Hanoi. Other Air Force planes struck at surface-to-air missile sites and rocket launcher positions just north of the demilitarized zone.

The U.S. Command made no mention of any plane losses.

Carrier-based Navy fliers struck at truck convoys, truck parks, storage areas and a bridge in various locations around the city of Vinh.

Over South Vietnam, U.S. B52 bombers made two pre-dawn raids today. One was on a Communist tunnel and bunker complex in Binh Duong Province, 20 miles north of Saigon.

The second raid was on Communist base camps, training areas and fortified positions in Quang Ngai Province about 300 miles north of Saigon.

Victory Claimed

Government troops claimed victory over the Viet Cong's 808th Mobile Battalion in a fight Friday south of the demilitarized zone, where U.S. Marines bear the main burden of coping with Communist soldiers.

Spokesmen announced a task force of South Vietnamese paratroops, infantry and armor, with air and artillery backing, chopped up the crack 500-man enemy detachment and killed at least 150. There was no report on government casualties.

The action flared in brush country of the coastal plain less than five miles east of the U.S. Marine base at Dong Ha 12 miles below the DMZ. It is the southeastern anchor point of a hotspot sector that the Marines call Leatherneck Square.

A few miles away, U.S. jet planes and artillery blasted at the bunkers of North Vietnamese regulars holding a low ridge line in sawgrass between the two western bases of the square, Con Thien and Camp Carroll.

13 Marines Killed

Dug in so as to keep both bases under observation, the North Vietnamese had killed 13 Marines and wounded 63 of a Leatherneck force that attempted to dislodge them with a ground assault Thursday.

In the same area, two American mortar shells accidentally hit a Marine company position and wounded four Marines, the U.S. Command said. An investigation was under way.

Scattered clashes and Red mortar fire were reported in other areas below the zone, where the Communists have displayed every willingness to infiltrate fresh troops for their revived effort to take over the border province of Quang Tri.

Documents captured in the frustration of North Vietnam's 1966 invasion attempts showed the enemy aim was to use Quang Tri as a springboard for thrusts farther south.

American warplanes flew 460 sorties over South Vietnam Thursday, with 252 of these single combat flights in direct support of ground operations.

Bowen Favors Less Formalization, More Experimentation In Education

Pres. Howard R. Bowen declared himself in favor of a less formal, less structured higher education, in spontaneous remarks made at a social work conference Friday morning.

"We want to lead every student by the hand today and make sure that he succeeds," Bowen said in a panel discussion following a speech.

"We could experiment more if we were more willing to allow more students to fail," he said.

Bowen said that he was in favor of more experiments along the line of the traditional European system in which a student may plot his individual intellectual pursuits with relative freedom from compulsion.

He said that the "rigid apparatus" of the professional programs offered at the University and the pressure of grades and credits hindered the primary goal of higher education, which is the preparation of people who will educate themselves in the techniques of their trades.

Military Tribunal Convicts Doctor Of Refusing To Train Green Berets

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — A military tribunal Friday convicted Capt. Howard B. Levy of disobeying an order to train Green Beret medics and with promoting disloyalty among United States troops.

Levy, 30, a dermatologist from Brooklyn, N.Y., stood between two attorneys as the verdict was read after nearly six hours of deliberation by the 10-member court panel.

Levy's sentence will be decided Saturday. He could receive up to 11 years in prison on five charges.

After the verdict was announced, the court recessed until 8 a.m. Saturday.

Levy, a dark-haired man with black-rimmed glasses, clasped his hands behind his back as the verdict was read by Col. John S. Baskin, president of the court.

Levy displayed no emotion as he returned to his seat.

Sitting on a front row were Levy's parents. Mrs. Levy, a small, gray-haired woman, told a reporter: "Please don't ask me anything."

Levy left in a car with his attorney. The five charges of which he was convicted were:

• Willful disobedience to an order to set up and operate a training program for Special Forces aid men at his dermatology clinic at Ft. Jackson. This offense carries a maximum of five years.

• Making disloyal statements aimed at promoting disloyalty and disaffection among the troops. The prosecution charged that Levy said the United States was wrong in Vietnam; that he would refuse to serve there; and that Green Beret troops are "liars and thieves and killers of peasants and murders of women and children."

• Wrongfully and dishonorably making statements opposing the war and calling on Negro soldiers to refuse to go to Vietnam.

• Conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman in writing to a soldier in Vietnam and describing United States foreign policy as "as diabolical evil."

• Advising and attempting to cause insubordination, disloyalty and refusal of duty by the soldier who received the letter in September of 1965.

Partly cloudy and warmer today. Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday with chance of showers. Highs today around 80.

THE DEFENSE DEPARTMENT announced new streamlining of the Army National Guard and Army Reserve which would eliminate almost 1,300 units. The news was announced at a Pentagon conference Friday by (from left) Army Chief of Staff Gen. Harold Johnson, Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus Vance and Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor.

Pentagon To Streamline Reserve, National Guard

WASHINGTON (AP) — A total of 1,275 Army National Guard and Army Reserve units will be wiped out during the coming year under a drastic new reorganization announced Friday by the Defense Department.

The proposed reorganization affects a unit headquartered in Iowa City, Iowa.

Included in the units slated for elimination are 15 Army National Guard divisions which are now at about half strength and the last four brigades of the Army Reserve.

The rest of the units being discontinued in the shakeup starting late this summer are company-size elements.

As expected, the announcement sparked immediate criticism among some Congress members.

The Reserve Officers Association said the national executive committee will hold a special meeting Saturday to study the plan.

In addition to announcing the reorganization, Pentagon officials:

• Repeated that "we have no intention or plan at this time to call up any Reserves," either units or individuals.

• Disclosed that they are considering a change in policy under which draftees who have completed two years of active service may not be assigned to Reserve units for the remaining four years of their military obligations. However, they would be subject to summer training assignments.

• Acknowledged that they have finally given up their effort to merge the National Guard and the Reserves into a single back-up structure for the regular forces. Congress blocked this plan two years ago.

The reorganization, the third in six years, was described as aimed at bringing about a significant improvement in the "early deployment capability and combat readiness" of the Army's Reserve forces.

8 Divisions Planned
The net effect will be to produce eight National Guard combat divisions and 18 guard brigades with a deployment readiness goal of eight weeks from callup.

All infantry, armored, artillery and similar combat and combat-support elements will wind up under the National Guard, while supply, medical, engineer and other service-type units will be in the Reserves.

The National Guard will be assigned a strength of 400,000 compared with the currently authorized 418,500, and the Reserve will have 240,000 instead of the 260,000 now authorized.

Army reserve units to which some 1,800 Iowans belong would be eliminated under the reorganization.

Headquarters of the Iowa sector of the reserves said in Des Moines that the state has three battalions in the 205th Infantry Brigade, based in Minneapolis.

They are the 14th Artillery Battalion based in Council Bluffs and the 410th Infantry Battalion based in Iowa City.

The 410th Infantry Battalion, which includes the headquarters in Iowa City and rifle companies in Cedar Rapids, Waterloo and Davenport, has approximately 600 men.

The men train at home one weekend each month and attend camp for two weeks each summer, according to Lt. Col. George R. Dane, commanding officer.

NEWS IN BRIEF

CHICAGO (AP) — Richard Speck will be sentenced Monday in Peoria for murdering eight young nurses, Judge Herbert C. Paschen announced Friday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara is expected to appear Tuesday before the House Commerce Committee on legislation to halt a threatened rail strike, committee aides said Friday. The committee wants to question McNamara about the administration's rejection of union offers to move essential goods in case the six shopcraft unions strike the nation's railroads after June 19.

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Dr. Carl Coppolino was denied freedom on bail Friday. Coppolino, convicted of second-degree murder in the drug-death of his first wife, was to be returned to the state prison this morning to resume a life sentence.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission ordered Friday that radio and television stations broadcasting cigarette advertisements may be required to provide free time for anti-smoking programs. The ruling was based on the FCC's fairness doctrine, which requires that broadcasters make available a reasonable opportunity for conflicting points of view to be aired. It did not spell out how much time must be made available for anticigarette programming.

ISRAEL'S NEW defense minister, one-eyed Moshe Dayan, shares a light moment with another new member of the Israeli government, Manachem Begin in Tel Aviv Friday. Gen. Dayan was the hero of Israel's 1956 Sinai campaign against Egypt.

LBJ reads... Tolstoy?

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — It has been widely reported that President Johnson is very concerned about his inability to get through to many of the country's intellectuals.

Since the President wants to be loved by all people, he has been asking members of his immediate administration family what he can do to get the intellectuals on his side. He even had a luncheon last week for 16 of his own House intellectuals to discuss the problem.

The luncheon, was, of course, off the record, so an outsider can only use his own imagination as to what went on.

"Now gentlemen, Ah called you all together today to break bread with me and discuss a very pressing problem. How can we get the blankety-blank intellectuals in this country to see mah side of things?"

BUCHWALD

"Well, Mr. President, I think it's more a question of image than anything else. May I speak frankly?"

"Not too frankly, son."

"Intellectuals just don't believe anyone from Texas can communicate with them. They look down on you as a country boy who is more at home driving around his ranch at 90 miles an hour than he is reading the collected poems of T.S. Elliot."

"It was 85 miles an hour, and you know it."

"That isn't the point, Mr. President. The point is we've got to make you into an intellectual so that the intellectuals will consider you one of them."

"That's a hot one. How do you propose to do that?"

"Well, I thought we might get Joey Bishop or William S. White to reveal what you like to read at night before you go to sleep."

"What do Ah like to read at night before Ah go to sleep?"

"For a start, I thought we might say Plato, St. Thomas Aquinas, Shakespeare, Tolstoy, Kafka, Camus and the poems of Allen Ginsberg."

"They'll never believe it," the President said. "Mah daddy said you can fool some of the intellectuals all of the time and all of the intellectuals some of the time, but you can't fool all of the intellectuals all of the time."

"Well, what about this, Mr. President? Suppose we announce that as a hobby you've taken up writing poetry. We could release a poem every so often that you wrote in your spare time."

"It's not a bad idea, but who are we going to get to write the poems?"

"How about Robert Lowell?"

"Forget it. What other bright ideas do you people have?"

"I was thinking, Mr. President, that you might invite Leonard Bernstein instead of Martha Raye down for your next party. The intellectuals think a lot of Leonard Bernstein."

"Wal, Ah think a lot of Martha Raye. And besides, Leonard Bernstein can't sing 'Hello Dolly.'"

"You probably will think this is a little far out, Mr. President, but have you ever thought of growing a beard? Intellectuals trust anybody who has a beard."

"Lady Bird would never hear of it. And besides, Ah might antagonize the hawk vote."

"Sir, perhaps you could start buying up paintings by Jackson Pollack, Paul Klee and Andy Warhol."

"Why, that's the ugliest thing you've suggested so far."

"Mr. President, I think it's a mistake to try to woo the intellectuals. I believe you should just be yourself. After all, anyone can be an intellectual, but how many people can be President of the United States?"

"Now you're talking, Marvin. Have another helping of barbecued ribs."

Good questions to ponder about college opportunities

"If education is such a tremendous opportunity and so highly sought after in this country, why is it that most college students are so bored with their courses?"

A good question? We think so, and we think there are many other good questions which can be asked about the present educational system.

The following are questions the Mount Holyoke News reports raised at a United States Student Press Association conference last month at that college. They are just a sample of inquiries which run the spectrum of education.

"Why must students rely so heavily on grades and credits for their motivations? Shouldn't the reward come instead from the satisfaction of learning, of accomplishing something, of experiencing competence?"

"What are Phi Beta Kappa keys, dean's lists, and gold stars — other than keys, lists and stars?"

"Education should be prepared for active, creative, participation in our world. Why, then, does it involve primarily passive exercise?"

"I wonder how many classes would meet if the teacher didn't show up?"

"I keep hearing the real tragedy in American education is the student sitting in a classroom and staring out the window. What if we abolished the traditional classroom? Maybe there are better ways to learn."

"Just what is so sacred about credits and semesters and grades? Why can't a group of students meet with a teacher to study a topic of mutual interest for as many weeks or months as they felt were necessary?"

"Why do so many teachers find they must gear the material of their courses to things that can eventually be tested, so grades can be issued?"

"Why are most classrooms deadly silent? Certainly the teacher does not possess the absolute truth on everything. Isn't it possible that he just might be wrong and the students might be right? So why don't they disagree?"

Good questions to ponder.

'See ya next semester, Howie baby!'

Says 'Hurry Sundown' fails, as expected

By NICHOLAS MEYER

In real life people may do things for seemingly no reason at all. And we accept it. We accept it because we have to: someone just did such and such and we are confronted with the fact, like it, believe it, or not. But in imitations of life — the stage and movies, for instance — the reality which we must accept in our own lives paradoxically does not convince us. We demand to know why somebody does something. What makes him do it. This rule applies not only psychological dramas and novels, but to good melodramas, as well. When Hedda Gabler burns that book there is a reason. When Hamlet decides to kill Claudius there is a reason.

This simple rule of dramaturgical thumb is one that Otto Preminger has never grasped and most of his films are inferior as a result. The most spectacular explosions emerge as colorful and nothing more if we do not believe in and/or care about the characters connected with the explosion. His latest effort is an over-long and vulgar film entitled "Hurry Sundown." It is a plea for racial tolerance which is all to the good, but it suffers and fails because its characters and their actions insult the intelligence of an audience who among other things, demands to know the WHY.

Preminger is responsible for this failure in a rather complex way. He insists that he is giving us a "slice of life" happening, that what we are watching are real people confronted with important issues and problems in their personal lives. We are told that what we are about to see is not a tongue-in-cheek spoof, it is going to be the real thing. If that is true, then the people must act believably and the choice of incidents must be relevant to the story. But Preminger tries to combine his documented truths and painstaking recreation of an era with thousands of carefully gathered props (in this case, Georgia, 1946), with his own brand of sensationalism which is the cinematic counterpart of Harold Robbins. His idea is the same as Robbins': sex, sex and more sex, but like Robbins' books, Preminger's sex is so naive, so "rigged" to appeal to perverts that it is not only not pertinent, it doesn't convince.

An ex-saxophonist is trying to buy up a lot of valuable land to deliver as a package to a housing development company. A Negro and a white man decide to throw in together to save their respective property. There are plenty of complications including a crooked southern judge, a mentally retarded child, a bunch of Klansmen at the local hardware store. Some of it belongs in the story and some of it is silly because of its failure to advance the plot or the characters an iota. The saxophonist drives the judge's oh-so-innocent daughter to her bridal shower and on the way they get out of his car and make love — and they have, we learn, been doing it for years. We learn that the saxophonist is unfaithful to his wife, and we learn that the judge's daughter is a floozy, but since she has nothing whatever to do with the story Preminger says he is out to tell, and since the saxophonist's love life has likewise no bearing on the property battle (or even on the rest of his character — we could have predicted it) we can only laugh when the scene occurs and take Preminger less seriously than he says he wishes. Either he is a deliberate showman, who knows this isn't the way it really is and does it because it sells tickets, or he is really under the impression that this is part of his "slice of life."

This, like all of Preminger, comes off as a kind of spoof of location movies and a search for authenticity which surrenders to Hollywood the moment it is "necessary." Faye Dunaway — although she seems to be talented — in trying to appear as a poor Georgia farmer's wife feeding chickens in her simple, artless, grubby way, carries all the conviction of Marie Antoinette seated on her gold inlaid milking stool trying to be a "simple shepherdess." The movie comes off as fake in its depiction of the issues, naive in its representation of sex, and because of both of these shortcomings, condescending and patronizing, not only to the audience, but to the Negro people as well. Even if by some chance this is the way it REALLY is in life, we cannot accept it in the movies without seeing reasons for characters taking certain actions. Talk about "this land is good, it means something," and "don't you worry your pretty little head" just are not convincing anymore — if they ever were.

The only really remarkable thing in the film is Michael Caines' excellent southern accent, but once the novelty wears off, we feel cheated when his character goes no further than that of another Jonas Cord. (Parenthetically, it is impossible to believe that these actions occurred in 1946. 1966 would be more like it.)

Facts And Facets

CULLED By JOHN HARMON
Assistant Sports Editor

Iowa tennis fans could be in for an interesting year in 1968 if Coach Don Klotz's optimism is any indication of what the Hawks can do next year. With no seniors on this year's team, Klotz will be in charge of a club which believes it can beat everybody except possibly conference powers Michigan State and Northwestern.

KLOTZ

The tennis team, which includes sophomores Nathan Chapman, Allan Jones, Randy Murphy and Richard Stokstad and juniors Dale Le Provost and Richard Strauss, finished 5-11 this year and placed seventh in the Big 10 championships.

"We had a lot of bad luck with the weather," explained Klotz, "especially in late spring when we were unable to practice indoors. Our team did gain valuable experience this year and we should be in a good position to improve next year."

The team is usually able to practice on the Field House main floor when the weather is bad, but the concerts staged there this year made indoor practice nearly impossible. The best solution to the space problem? "We can just hope that the new athletic building will be completed sooner than anyone expected," said Klotz.

Another "minor" sport which could stage an upsurge next year is coach Robert Allen's swimming team. "We had a better dual meet than championship team this year," said Allen, whose team won half of its eight dual meets but finished eighth in the Big 10 relays and last in the Big 10 championships.

"We're in the heart of the recruiting season right now and we have hopes of getting someone to fill in our butterfly position." The Hawks will lose their top two "fly" men this year — captain Gilbert Hitchcock from Sunnyvale, Calif., and Paul Monohon from Bellevue, Wash., who are both seniors. The most outstanding freshman prospect is Rick Nestrud from Memphis, Tenn., "who should fill in the butterfly position" according to Allen.

Harrison Stepler, the 6-3 backcourt ace on the Moberly (Mo.) junior college championship team who had expressed interest in Iowa has signed a Michigan State tender, but Iowa coach Ralph Miller is optimistic about landing another J.C. phenom — Al Nuness of Fort Dodge Junior College. Nuness, a 6-3 junior college all-America with a 28-point scoring average impressed Miller as a "good offensive player." If he comes to Iowa, Nuness will be the last 1967 Hawkeye basketball recruit. High school stars Tom Miller of Lawrence, Kan., Omar Hazley of Kansas City, Mo., and Joe Miranda and George Conway of Miami, Fla. have already signed Iowa tenders. Big 10 schools are allotted six basketball scholarships.

When your school captures five Big 10 titles you could expect a little difficulty in naming a "coach of the year." If your school is Michigan State, with football teams like Duffy Daugherty's and basketball squads like John Bennington's, the problem becomes even greater.

The Spartan Varsity Club was faced with such a situation and their choice was wrestling coach Grady Peninger. The choice was hardly a surprise though, since Peninger's team not only won the Big 10 title but also was the 1967 NCAA wrestling champion.

Baseball fans probably remember Bob Fenwick, the spunky Minnesota shortstop who clobbered Hawkeye pitching in the two-game series here May 5-6. Fenwick and Gopher catcher Mike Sadek, both juniors, are labeled in The Minnesota Daily as "the top two Gopher baseball prospects for the major league draft in June."

Said Fenwick, a .344 hitter in Big 10 play: "I was drafted last year but I didn't get too good an offer. If I'm drafted this year and get a better offer, there's a good chance that I'll sign."

Yanks Lead British Meet; Hill Tops Memphis Open

FORMBY, England (AP) — Two youthful U.S. Walker Cup aces, Bob Dickson of Muskogee, Okla., and Ron Cerrudo of San Rafael, Calif., scored double victories Friday and set up an all-American final for the British Amateur Golf Championship.

They will clash over 36 holes today for the right to become the first U.S. winner since Richard Davies in 1962. The last time two Yanks met in the final was at Sandwich when Deane Beman, now a professional, defeated William Hyndmann III of Philadelphia.

Dickson, 23, who made his international golfing debut in the successful Walker Cup matches two weeks ago, is a heavy favorite for the title. Putting superbly, he has made a virtual runaway of most of his matches. MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Dave Hill, who won only $220 here in 1962, and gave it all to a destitute woman and his caddy, widened his lead at the midway point of the $100,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament Friday.

.151 Hitter Sparks Sox

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox seem to be doing it with mirrors have one of their best gimmicks in light-hitting but clutch-belted Ron Hansen.

The regular shortstop, once compared with Marty Marion of the high-flying Sox met the Kansas City A's Friday night.

Yet the Pale Horse owed 6 of their first 25 victories directly to the timely blasting of Hansen, who had an incredible 18 RBI for only 19 hits in 120 at bats.

"I'm certainly not proud of that batting average, but I've had real good fortune in connecting when men have been on base," said the 6-foot-3 Hansen, who has been battling serious back trouble in recent years.

Hansen, now in his fifth Sox season, has had two major operations on his back — one for removal of a disc and, last year, removal of a spine chip which benched him for all except the first 20 games.

In delivering the goods for the Sox this spring, Hansen has belted three homers, once with two men on and twice with one on, and clouted four doubles among his first 19 hits.

Damascus, Proud Clarion Favored In Belmont Stakes

NEW YORK (AP) — Favored Damascus and second-choice Proud Clarion, drilling on tracks some 150 miles part, drew words of approval from their trainers Friday and then, with eight other lightly regarded 3-year-olds, were entered for the 99th running of the $125,000-added Belmont Stakes at Aqueduct.

Damascus, winner of the Preakness and the 6-5 favorite to take the 1 1/4-mile third leg of the Triple Crown, breezed three-eighths of a mile in 37 3/5 seconds at Delaware Park in a final workout. Then trainer Frank Whiteley Jr., loaded the swift-striking colt on a van for the trip to Aqueduct with the laconic comment: "He is ready."

Clarion Ends Drills Proud Clarion, surprise winner of the Kentucky Derby but third in the Preakness after lagging in the early part of the race, put his final licks at Aqueduct as trainer Loyd "Boo" Gentry watched.

The star of John Galbreath's Darby Dan Farm clicked off three-eighths in 34 2-5 and went out the one-half mile in 48 2-5 seconds under a tight hold by exercise boy Terry Grogan. The time for the three-eighths compared to a 35 2-5 second clocking posted by Proud Clarion the day before his Derby triumph.

"He was feeling real sharp," said the obviously pleased Gentry.

Eight Others Enter Entry fees of $250 each also were paid for Canada's Cool Reception, owned by Mrs. W.J. Seitz and Mrs. Vincent Reid; Patrice Jacobs' Reason to Hail, Michael Phipps' Gentleman James, John M. Schiff's Blasting Charge, Edgar Zantker's Prinkipo, J.M. Roebing's Gaylor's Feather, Herbert Allen's Favorable Turn and Mrs. Jane Leven's Nehoc's Bullet.

An additional payment of $1,000 each is due 45 minutes before the 5:30 p.m. EDT, starting time Saturday. If the starting fee is paid by all of the 10, the Belmont will be worth $149,700 with the winner's share $105,950. Second place will be worth $25,000 with $12,500 for third and $6,250 for fourth.

CBS To Air Race Columbia Broadcasting System will televise the race from 4 to 4:45 p.m., with radio coverage down for 4 to 4:45.

The draw for post positions gave No. 1 to Damascus, who'll be ridden by Bill Shoemaker.

Proud Clarion, with Braulio Baeza replacing Bobby Ussery in the saddle, will leave from No. 4.

House Hacks At Tax Plan; Debt Bill Hung Up In Senate

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa House hacked away with such vigor Friday at a bill to change the method of assessing property for tax purposes that it wound up thoroughly confused.

After wading through a number of amendments, the House deferred the whole business until Monday so members could figure out how the bill now stands.

At the same time, a bill to regulate debt management companies was hung up in the Senate because of disagreement over fees the companies may charge.

Sen. Lee Gaudinier (D-Des Moines) said he wanted the bill drawn to give the debtor a fee reduction for paying off his contract ahead of schedule.

As passed by the House, and by a 47-7 Senate vote Friday, the measure set maximum fees at 12 1/2 per cent of the money paid in on the contract.

Bill Retained

A motion to reconsider kept the bill from returning to the House immediately for action on Senate amendments.

Debt management companies using the client's money agree to manage his debts and pay them off over a period of time. The companies now are virtually unregulated by Iowa law, and there have been complaints that some overcharge their clients.

The bill would have such companies licensed and regulated by the State Banking Department. Besides limiting their fees, it would require them to have a written contract with the debtor and post a bond to guarantee proper handling of his money.

The measure as passed by the Senate provided for assessing property at 27 per cent of its fair and reasonable market value.

Present law says property must be assessed at 60 per cent of actual value, which House members said currently is figured at about 45 per cent of market value.

The House defeated a proposal to give special treatment to agricultural property by taking into account its current use, productivity and earning capacity as well as market value in determining taxable value.

It adopted instead an amendment by Rep. Carroll Redfern (D-Donnellson) to change the assessment rate for all property from the present 60 per cent to 20 per cent of actual value.

The amendment would require the assessor to take into consideration the productive and earning capacity of the property — past, present and prospective — its fair and reasonable market value and "all other matters that affect the actual value of the property" in making the assessment on all real or personal property.

By a 38-0 vote, the Senate sent to Gov. Harold Hughes a bill repealing the 4 per cent ceiling on interest banks may pay on public funds held on time deposit.

Called "Milestone"

State Treasurer Paul Franzburg, who endorsed the measure, called it "a milestone" that could mean transfer of up to $60 million from investment in federal securities to deposit at a comparable interest rate in Iowa banks.

Franzburg set off a controversy two years ago when he took money out of banks and invested it in federal securities at more than 4 per cent interest.

He said Friday he will urge the three-member committee which sets the interest rate to act, once the ceiling is removed, to set the rate at 2 per cent less than the rate available through federal securities. The federal rate Friday was 3.87 per cent, he added.

Economic benefits to the state by keeping the money in Iowa would be expected to make up the fractional differences in interest rates, Franzburg said.

The measure also lets local governments invest their money in federal securities if they first offer the deposit to at least two banks and receive no acceptance.

ON HIS WAY back to prison is Billie Sol Estes. The Texas wheel-dealer pleaded no contest to a state swindling charge at a hearing in Tyler, Tex., Friday. He was sentenced to serve two to three years on the charge to run concurrently with a federal sentence he is now serving. — AP Wirephoto
