Israelis Claim Victory; Arabs 'Will Fight On'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli commanders claimed a shattering military victory over Egypt Wednesday in the three-day-old war and called Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser a paper tiger. Egypt, brushing off two United Nations calls for a cease-fire, vowed it "will fight on."

The Israelis triumphantly said their forces controlled a vast sweep of Arab territory from the Suez Canal and the Red Sea to the west bank of the Jordan River. They knocked out the Egyptian blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba by seizing the Sharm el Sheikh heights at the entrance to the Red Sea.

Both Old Jerusalem and Bethlehem, known as the birthplace of Jesus, were in Israeli hands, as was another Biblical city, Jericho.

As the Arab-Israeli conflict seemed all but over, there were these developments: In New York, the U.N. Security Council approved a Soviet resolution setting a 4 p.m. (E.D.T.) Wednesday deadline for the cease-fire call it had voted Tuesday night. Israel said it was willing, but put it up to the Arabs. Of these, only badly mauled Jordan indicated interest in stopping the fighting.

An Israeli U.N. delegation source said Wednesday night that Israeli troops had captured the eastern side of Ismailia, Egypt the midway point on the Suez Canal.

In Cairo, a senior Egyptian government official was asked for Egypt's reaction to the U.N. cease-fire demands. He said "Egypt will fight on." While admitting reverses in Sinai, Egyptian commentators claimed only the first line of their defense had been breached and the war had entered its second stage.

The Algerian radio said Egypt has still not committed the bulk of its troops and claimed that Arab nations are still far from throwing the full weight of their forces into battle.

Victory Proclaimed

Maj. Gen. Itzhak Rabin, Israeli chief of staff, declared in Tel Aviv: "The Egyptians are defeated. All their efforts are aimed at withdrawing behind the Suez Canal and we are taking care of that. The whole area is in our hands. The main effort of the Egyptians is to save themselves."

But in another statement, one-eyed Maj. Gen. Moshe Dayan, Israel's soldier-hero of 1956 and defense minister of 1967, told newsmen Israel was not interested in seizing the canal. He indicated Israel had achieved its primary war aim in opening the Gulf of Aqaba.

Fear gripped Cairo and some Egyptian troops were reported digging in along the valley of the Nile 40 miles west of the Suez Canal.

The arrival by trainload of Israeli prisoners of war Wednesday night gave the people of Cairo a boost to their sagging morale.

Dayan, victor against the Egyptians in the 1956 Suez war, told newsmen: "We could have got to Suez by now if we wanted to. It is not and was not our aim to get to the Suez Canal. Why go there, and get involved in something that is not our business?"

An Israeli army spokesman said earlier that Israeli troops had reached Romani, 20 miles from the canal. The army refused to go beyond that statement.

Egyptian Troops Praised

Calling Nasser a paper tiger, Dayan said, however, that Egyptian troops fought better this time than in 1956.

"As far as the war between Nasser and our forces is concerned, the tragedy — the tragi-comedy — is that in order to prove he is a paper tiger you have to go to war," Dayan said.

"Hussein — King Hussein of Jordan — would have been much better off if he had stayed away."

Rabin said the Arab air forces were wrecked within three hours Monday by strikes on 25 air bases in three countries — Egypt, Syria and Jordan.

Calling this "beyond my wildest dreams," Rabin said: "We made mincemeat of their air forces. We are now making mincemeat of everything on the ground."

Rabin thrust a dramatic announcement into the middle of his discourse by saying his forces had captured Bethlehem, 10 miles southwest of Jerusalem.

Jordan Seeks Cease-Fire

The Jordanian government announced its readiness for a cease-fire, then reported it was continuing to fight because of "Israeli aggression."

Egypt, Syria and Iraq announced they would fight on, ignoring the U.N. Security Council's request Tuesday for all sides to cease firing. Israel appeared to have all the strategic territory it wanted before agreeing to a cease-fire.

The U.N. request for an end to hostilities was echoed by Pope Paul VI in Vatican City. "Let combat be suspended," the Pope said.

The swift Israeli advances in Egypt's outstripped Israel's performances in the 1956 war, when it needed 100 hours to overrun the Sinai Peninsula.

Marines Clash With Red Troops; MIG Base Struck

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marines and North Vietnamese troops clashed Wednesday in a new flare-up of fighting near Khe Sanh in the northwestern corner of South Vietnam along the Laotian border.

U.S. headquarters said 63 North Vietnamese troops were killed and placed the Marine casualties at 18 killed and 27 wounded in a battle lasting two hours and 20 minutes.

Over North Vietnam, U.S. Navy jet bombers from the aircraft carriers Constellation and Enterprise attacked the MIG air base at Kep, 37 miles northeast of Hanoi on Wednesday. Pilots reported destroying one MIG and damaging four on the ground.

The fighting five miles west-northwest of Khe Sanh broke out when a company of the 26th Marine Regiment ran into what was believed to be two North Vietnamese companies — perhaps more than 200 men.

Armed helicopters, jets and artillery were called in, while a platoon of troops from another Marine company reinforced the embattled unit. The Communists broke contact a few hours before nightfall.

In the war's seventh raid on Kep airfield, one of four major MIG fields in the North, the Navy pilots flew through heavy anti-aircraft fire and reported silencing four MiG sites.

Flak Attack Storage Area

Other Navy fliers from the Enterprise attacked a surface-to-air missile storage area 50 miles southwest of Hanoi. Pilots claimed heavy destruction of the target.

In other air action, B52 bombers staged three raids against Communist positions in South Vietnam Wednesday night and this morning.

The ground skirmishes in the northern end of South Vietnam punctuated what had become a pronounced lull as the world's attention focused on Arab-Israeli hostilities in the Middle East.

U.S. officers volunteered no reason for the lapse in heavy action but denied it was due in any way to the Middle East war. It seemed neither side regarded this as a good time for any dramatic moves.

Daily communiques since Sunday have said: "No significant contact with the enemy was reported."

Although some of the 88 combat missions Tuesday over North Vietnam penetrated above the heavily defended area of Hanoi and Haiphong, the American jets were not challenged by the North Vietnamese air force. U.S. pilots concentrated on supply lines above the 17th Parallel and on the rail lines leading north from Hanoi. Two of these lines lead to Red China.

Funeral Services Set For Noehren

SPENCER — Services for Alfred W. Noehren, 56, former member and president of the Spencer City Council and president of the First Congregational Church, will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at the First Congregational Church.

The Rev. Mr. Gerald Hallauer will officiate. Burial will be at the Riverside Cemetery.

Mr. Noehren, who died Wednesday in University Hospitals, Iowa City, after a long illness, was a member of the Board of Regents from 1959 to 1965. During the last two years, he was president of the board.

A native of Fostoria in Clay County, he had attended the University. He operated a farm implement business in Spencer and later moved it to Carroll. He left the firm about two years ago to live in the Great Lakes area.

Mr. Noehren, a Democrat, had been a member of the Spencer City Council and was a director of the Northwest Savings & Loan Association of Spencer.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Dorothy Noehren; a son, William; a daughter, Nancy; and his mother, Mrs. W.C. Noehren of Spencer.

Funeral arrangements are being taken care of by Warner Funeral Home.

ISRAELI FOREIGN MINISTER Abba Eban turns toward Soviet Delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko (foreground) as he makes a point during the Security Council meeting at the United Nations. Fedorenko insisted Wednesday that Israel was the aggressor in the Mideastern war. Eban said the U.N.'s deadline for cease-fire, 4 p.m. Wednesday, was impossible to put into effect because of Egypt's continued silence of peace efforts. — AP Wirephoto

University To Honor 9 At Awards Ceremonies

The University will grant Distinguished Service Awards to nine leaders in education, the professions, and the arts at the 1967 Awards Luncheon on the campus Saturday.

The annual awards recognize outstanding contributions to the University, the State of Iowa and to many causes of human advancement.

The 1967 award winners are: Dr. Lois Austin of Pittsburgh, Pa., president of the National League for Nursing; Clifford H. Beem, former dean of Mason City Junior College and director of arts and sciences at North Iowa Area Community College; Arthur A. Collins of Cedar Rapids, president and chairman of the board of Collins Radio Company; Mr. and Mrs. Owen Elliott of Cedar Rapids, whose offered gift of art to the University stimulated development of the University's new center for the arts.

Dr. Laurence C. Jones, founder and president of Piney Woods Country Life

School in Mississippi; Kenneth P. MacDonald, editor and executive vice-president of the Des Moines Register and Tribune Company; C. Maxwell Stanley of Muscatine, president of the Stanley Engineering Company; and Dr. Theodore Willis of San Mateo, Calif., retired orthopedic surgeon and head of the department of orthopedic surgery at St. Luke's Hospital in Cleveland, Ohio.

Winners To Be Honored

The award winners will be honored by the University and the Alumni Association at the traditional awards luncheon the day after Commencement. Each will receive a Distinguished Service award medalion and citation.

Dr. Austin, a native of Hinsboro, Ill., is a 1931 nursing graduate of the University. During two terms as president of the National League for Nursing, she has been recognized for outstanding national service and leadership in the fields of nursing education and service.

Beem, a native of Pleasant Grove, received a B.A. degree from Drake University in 1924 and an M.A. from the University in 1931. A leader in the community college field, he was dean of the Boone junior college from 1945-47, and dean of the Mason City Junior College until 1966. During the period of his administration, the Mason City institution grew from some 200 local-area students to 1,285 students from throughout the state, and from other states and countries. It has achieved national recognition for the quality of its programs.

Collins founded the Collins Radio Company in 1931, and has stimulated and supervised its extensive growth in the fields of communication, computation and control systems. The Oklahoma native attended public schools in Cedar Rapids and has studied at Coe College, Amherst College in Massachusetts and the University. With some 12,000 employees, the Collins Radio Company's Cedar Rapids plant now ranks as Iowa's largest corporate employer in a single location.

Contribution Made

As lifetime collectors of paintings and other works of art, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott have made a major contribution to the art resources of the state of Iowa. Their offer of the gift of the extensive Elliott collections, if permanent facilities could be provided for their care, led to the campaign of the University Foundation to provide extensive new gallery facilities at the University. A new gallery of art, now under construction, was made possible by private gifts of more than $1 million.

Jones, a native of Marshalltown and a University graduate of 1907, has devoted his lifetime to broader opportunities for Negro youth in the South. His Mississippi school, founded in 1909, is nationally known, and Jones has become famous as "the little professor of Piney Woods."

MacDonald, a native of Jefferson, received the B.A. degree from the University in 1926. He joined the staff of the Des Moines Register & Tribune in the same year. He became editor of the newspapers in 1953, and has been executive vice-president and chief operating officer since 1962.

Stanley, a native of Corning, graduated in engineering at the University in 1926, and received an M.S. degree in 1932. His engineering company operates as a worldwide consulting firm. Two additional companies which he organized manufacture office and material handling equipment. He has been a member of the Executive Council of United World Federalists since 1947, and has served four terms as president of that organization for world peace through law.

Willis, an Iowa City native, received a B.S. degree from the University in 1908 and a medical degree in 1910. A student of the late Dr. Arthur Steindler, he practiced orthopedic surgery for 40 years, and has been active in research in bone structure at Stanford University since his retirement. In honor of his parents, he established a memorial fund at the University in 1960 to provide scholarships for Iowa medical students.

Iowa City, State Wring Themselves Out

Wednesday was a fine day for ducks and canoeists, but almost everyone else in a drenched Iowa City was having navigation problems.

More than five inches of rain fell here Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, causing widespread flooding, disrupted traffic and damage by lightning.

The rainfall — 5.05 inches — was the second heaviest rainfall ever recorded in Iowa City in a 24-hour period and the first rainfall of more than two inches since September 1965. Almost seven inches fell on July 14, 1962.

Only 1.15 inches of rain fell here last month, nearly three inches below an average May rainfall.

Scattered sections of Iowa were warned to be on the watch against tornadoes Wednesday night as another batch of thunderstorms moved across the state. Several twisters were sighted near Webster City, Blairsburg and Branden but there was no report that any touched ground.

The State Highway Department reported Wednesday afternoon that high water had closed U.S. 6 at the east edge of West Liberty and Iowa 22 Nichols both in Muscatine County. U.S. 6 west of West Liberty was open only to one way traffic.

Much of the damage and flooding in Iowa City was caused by the overflow of Ralston Creek. Streets reported blocked by the overflowing creek included Iowa Avenue, Washington Street and Burlington Street, all from Gilbert to Johnson streets.

A tornado struck a section of Ames about 10 p.m. Wednesday and first reports said several homes were destroyed or damaged.

The area hit was 24th Street east of Grand Avenue in the northern outskirts of the city.

Ames police said it was known that one house was demolished and at least four others were damaged. No injuries were reported police headquarters said.

First, Second, Third and Fourth avenues were also closed from Muscatine Avenue to Friendship Street.

The streets were closed for about four hours, according to police.

Several homes were also damaged by flooding. Police helped Mrs. M.D. Hopton of 730 Fourth Ave. and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yopp of 731 Second Ave. leave their homes for a short time Wednesday morning. Mrs. Hopton said that water was about eight inches deep in the first floor of her home.

Lightning knocked a chimney off Calvin Hall and damaged the U.S. Geological Survey Laboratory next door in the 100 block of West Jefferson Street.

The bolt tore a hole in the roof of an office used by H. Garland Hershey, state geologist and director of the Survey.

Automobile Damaged

Hershey's state-owned automobile, parked between the laboratory and Calvin Hall, was heavily damaged by falling brick. Brick was hurled as far as the roof of the Women's Gymnasium at the other end of the block.

Two homes were also damaged by lightning. The attic of the Lee Aeschliman residence, 2917 Stanford Ave., caught fire about 10:45 p.m. Tuesday after being struck by lightning.

Firemen were called to the home of Joseph Knoedel, 1622 Wilson St., after lightning followed power lines into the house and damaged a stereo record player.

Telephone service to about 500 Iowa City residents was interrupted by the rain and lightning. About 500 city and rural homes were also without electricity because of the storm.

RELUCTANT TO LEAVE, Mrs. M. D. Hopton, 78, of 730 Fourth Ave., is helped by Iowa City policemen who persuaded her to leave after overflow from Ralston Creek surrounded her home.

The flooding condition was created by over five inches of rain which fell between 10 p.m. Tuesday and 12 noon Wednesday. — Photo by Jon Jacobson

Meet the revolutionaries of Harbin

EDITOR'S NOTE — Wen Ke is a correspondent for China Features in Peking. He wrote this story soon after the revolutionary masses had seized power in the important northeast China city of Harbin.

One of my objects in coming to Harbin was to see some of the people who had been active in the great proletarian cultural revolution movement which culminated in the seizure of power by the revolutionary masses from a handful of party persons in authority taking the capitalist road in this city, the capital of Heilungkiang Province.

The first revolutionaries I talked to were four 20-year-old girl Red Guards at an engineering college. These first-year students had helped "spark" Harbin's cultural revolution by putting up their big-character poster on the front of the Pro-shop has risen from 170,000 to the present total of 225,000.

Workers whom I met commented: "There's no 'self' in that young man's head. He always puts the revolution before everything else."

Ho Kuo-hsiu confided to me: "I had been a bit proud and tended to look down on my work-mates, because I could complete the work of my shift in less than regular time. When my work-mates pointed out to me this weakness of mine, I studied Chairman Mao's works and corrected it."

This made the workers say that he was as bold in rebelling against his own mistakes as he had been in rebelling against the old directorate.

Another revolutionary I interviewed was Feng Tao, a 24-year-old girl cashier in a authority taking the capitalist road.

"Some royalists spat and swore at me, saying that I was a traitor rising up in rebellion against socialism," she said. "I told them: 'I'm not rebelling against socialism, but against those who are undermining it.'"

Two of the party persons in authority taking the capitalist road in the department-store were finally dismissed by the revolutionary workers. Feng Tao was elected a "people's servant" to lead a group of 25 girls selling knitwear and other goods. Led by her, the salesgirls are regularly studying Chairman Mao's works which are helping them to do their jobs truly in the service of the people — which in a shop means the customers.

Millions of young people just like the ones we are meeting here, who are armed with the thought of Mao Tse-tung and are brave enough to revolt against anything smacking of revisionism, have come to the fore during the cultural revolution. Their emergence has dashed the hopes first voiced by John Foster Dulles and now entertained by other day-dreamers in the West and by the modern revisionists, who have banked so much on China's third generation degenerating into revisionists and paving the way for "peaceful evolution" in China.

FENG TAO, the girl cashier who rebels not against socialism but against those who undermine it.

vincial Party Committee offices. Entitled "If The Provincial Party Committee Does Not Make Revolution, Dismiss It," the poster accused the handful of persons in authority on the committee for carrying out a bourgeois reactionary line and holding back the revolutionary masses during the cultural revolution.

It was the first to appear in public in Harbin, and it helped "light the revolutionary flames in the city," said Chang Yi-hsiung, the girl who drafted it. In its wake came tens of thousands of posters on the walls and shop windows all over Harbin.

Chang Yi-hsiung and her friends also went by train to Chungking and other cities to "spread the revolutionary flames."

When asked what they had learned during the cultural revolution, she replied: "In the past, we used to believe implicitly that what our teachers or superiors said or did was absolutely right. That's very dangerous because if a Khrushchev emerged we'd believe in him. Now, we use Chairman Mao's teaching to size-up everything we see or hear. If it doesn't match up with Mao Tse-tung's thoughts we rebel against it."

One of her friends interrupted: "We now know for ourselves that the masses are the real heroes in the making of world history just as Chairman Mao has said."

In the Harbin Bicycle Factory is a young lathe operator who is well-known for his "rebel spirit." Twenty-year-old Ho Kuo-hsiu has taken an active part in the cultural revolution. He and other workers seized power from the handful of party persons in the factory taking the capitalist road and ordered them to work on the factory floor.

"When we ordered them out of the office, they said what we were doing was illegal," he recalled. "I told them that the most important thing in a revolution was the seizure of power and that some day they'd realize I was doing right."

Following the seizure of power, the young man was elected to serve on a revolutionary committee that now runs one of the workshops in the bicycle factory. He boldly took up this responsible job and is doing it well. The monthly output of pedal bars and other bicycle parts in the work-

Harbin department-store. This girl, who previously had practically nothing to say, told me why she became so outspoken in the cultural revolution. She wrote one of the first big-character posters exposing the revisionist line followed by a few top people in the shop. At meetings, she was most courageous in criticizing them.

Mao Tse-Tung

"When my poster was almost half done," she recalled, "I stopped writing. I was afraid that the leadership would make things difficult for me in the future, if I put up such a poster."

"But then," she continued, "these words of Chairman Mao flashed into my mind: 'You should concern yourselves with affairs of state and carry through the great proletarian cultural revolution to the very end.' I said to myself: 'You must put into practice what Chairman Mao teaches. If you don't rebel now, our store will become a hot-bed for the restoration of capitalism.' This gave me courage and I finished writing the poster."

Her poster caused a big stir among the department-store workers. It drew the support of many of them and also the wrath of the "royalists" who were working to protect the handful of party people in UNIVERSITY STUDENTS writing big character posters.

Equal time for anti-smoking brings new commercials

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — The decision of the Federal Communications Commission to demand that any television or radio station advertising cigaret smoking give equal time to an anti-smoking forces has thrown the cigaret companies and the entire advertising world into a swivel. According to the FCC ruling, cigaret smoking is a controversial issue and therefore both sides must get equal time in making their cases.

It's not going to be very easy for the anti-cigarete forces to make their commercials as interesting as those of the cigaret companies, but they better begin soon.

I've got some ideas I'm willing to give them if they're interested.

The first commercial would show a cowboy riding through the hills and dales, with music in the background. Suddenly he comes to a valley and looks down. Scattered all over the valley are skeletons, each clutching a pack of cigaretes. The next thing heard over the screen is a voice saying, "This is Marlsmoker country. You get a lot to like with a Marlsmoker."

Another commercial could show a beautiful girl and a beautiful man sitting by a river bank. He takes out a cigaret and offers it to her. She says, "Did we come here to smoke or to kiss?" He throws the pack into the river and it floats downstream, thereby indicating that cigaret smoking and love don't go together.

The third commercial would show deep sea fishing on a beautiful yacht. After one man brings in a giant marlin, he turns to the other and says, "I sure could use a cigaret now."

The other man says, "Here, have a piece of gum instead."

The first puts the gum in his mouth. "Say, this gum sure tastes different from a cigaret."

"That," says the other man, "is because it's got natural mildness."

"Isn't that funny — I thought gum and cigaretes tasted exactly alike."

"That's because you've never chewed a cigaret."

A fourth commercial could pan in on one fellow beating up another. A third man comes on the scene and asks why the man is beating the other fellow up.

"Because he said he'd rather fight than switch."

The man on top turns toward the camera and says, "Anyone else I catch smoking gets a poke in the eye."

The final commercial would show a door-man helping a well-dressed man and woman out of a chauffeur-driven Rolls Royce in front of a fancy hotel. He says to the couple, "Show me a cigaret that's better than this and I'll eat my hat."

The camera comes in close on the wealthy man who looks exactly like Conrad Hilton. He says, "You know you're not allowed to smoke on the job. You're fired. And if you get your teeth anywhere near that hat, I'll have you arrested for destroying hotel property."

Organization sees need to bolster finances of governmental units

WASHINGTON — A program to bolster the financial capacity of state and local governments was recommended Wednesday by the Research and Policy Committee of the Committee for Economic Development (CED).

In a statement on national policy entitled "A Fiscal Program For A Balanced Federalism," the Research and policy committee proposes steps which states and localities can take to improve their revenue systems, considers the help which these governments should get from the national government, and recommends ways that such federal fiscal aid can be provided.

The focus of the statement is on the vital role of the states in preserving the balance in our federal system, and on fiscal relations between the states and the national government.

"The committee decided that a most urgent problem of fiscal federalism is to strengthen the financial capacity of the states, which in turn would strengthen their capacity to help their local governments," Emilio G. Collado, CED's research and policy committee chairman, wrote in a foreword to the report.

The statement makes these major recommendations:

- Since local governments cannot meet the full costs of public services from their own revenue sources, states should help equalize and improve the ability of their local units to pay for education and welfare through direct expenditures or grants-in-aid.

- State governments should improve the administration of the property tax — the source of nearly 90 per cent of local tax revenue — and take steps to make it more productive. States should also increase the relative importance of state sales and personal income taxes.

- A system of uniform regulations establishing equitable and clear limits of tax jurisdiction upon interstate businesses by individual states should be enacted by Congress if it cannot be assured by a compact of the states.

- The national government through Congress and the Bureau of the Budget, should establish procedures for a regular review of its grant-in-aid programs, in order to promote the efficient use of public funds and the beneficial participation in these programs by state and local governments.

- When the budgetary situation permits a reduction in federal taxes, it should be accomplished in part by giving individual taxpayers a partial credit against their federal personal income tax liability for state personal income tax payments.

The Committee for Economic Development is a nonprofit, nonpolitical research and educational organization of 200 business executives and educators who study major national and international economic problems, in order to determine policies that will promote high employment and stable economic growth.

The statement cites a number of changes on the domestic scene that have resulted in a shift of power in our federal system to the national government. For example, there has been a growing interdependence among individuals, local communities, and the various regions of the nation, the report points out. As a result, problems that were once regarded largely as local now are of national concern. In addition, the national government with its heavy reliance on income taxes has a tax system more responsive to economic growth and more easily administered than those of state and local governments.

The statement observes that the American federal system relies on an active and effective partnership among all levels of government — national, state, and local — and that the states have substantial powers and responsibilities under the Constitution that are vital to this system. In discussing the essential function of the states, the CED report points out that state governments together with their local units account for two-thirds of all general expenditures for civilian domestic public services, compared to the national government's one-third. State governments have wide legal authority to run their affairs and are responsible for the structure and quality of their local units, the study emphasizes.

"For many years, however, states and their local units of government have not been performing as effectively as they should. State and local governments are for the most part poorly equipped to cope with the problems of the last third of the twentieth century." The statement goes on to say that "demands for improved public services have accelerated beyond the apparent capacity and will of state governments to provide them effectively. As a result, the tendency has been for the national government, with its superior revenue resources, to assume more and more responsibility."

"The gap between state performance and responsibility could widen during the next decade as state and local governments grapple with increasing demands for better education, better housing, better transportation, and less air and water pollution," the CED statement says.

"If states are to perform more effectively, they must strengthen their capacity, and that of local governments, to raise the revenues needed to meet these demands."

At the same time, the report reaffirms the recommendations made in an earlier CED policy statement that states must take steps to modernize their local governments.

Reader comments on flags, WSUI

To the Editor:

A while back a professor by the name of Anthony Costantino wrote a letter asking why the same old particular flags are always flying over Old Capitol. I've been thinking about that. It's probably an old habit from the Old Frontier. European countries aren't nearly so promiscuous with their flags. But why, indeed, not have a little variety? Why not a different flag each week, say one for every nationality represented at the University; and when we got tired of that, we could fly one for every nationality not represented at the University. We could slip the U.N. flag in every now and then. Even better, for sky-gazers, would be to place another flag pole on top of the hospital tower, and string all the flags out at once, from one pole to the other. Hooryay for Anthony Costantino.

I would like to change the subject and say hooray for Alex Eftimoff and his Friday afternoons on WSUI — what a relief from so much stuff that mostly sounds like flat, colorless toothpicks talking, or soggy soda-straws, or crinkled old toy balloons. Alistaire Cooke once referred to the "hot-potato-in-the-mouth of BBC." WSUI too often sounds like cold-potato (mashed)-in-the-mouth! (Admittedly, this can be a relief from the snare-drums and hot-pepper of commercial radio). Alex is alive. He laughs real laughs. He's corny on purpose. He's fun. But last Friday he seemed subdued. Please Alex, don't give in to the proper-educational-radio-voice establishment!

Iowa 'Partners' Announce Extensive Plans For Increasing Effectiveness Of Program

Extensive plans for increasing the effectiveness of the program of the Iowa Partners of the Alliance in Yucatan were announced Wednesday by Kenneth Miller, chairman of the program.

An on-the-spot assessment of the proposed projects of the organization will be made this summer by representatives of the Partners, who will work in the area of Merida, Yucatan, Mexico, Miller said.

Mrs. R. William Westfall of Boone, a member of the Board of Directors and publicity chairman for the program, and Miss Kevin Reilly of Des Moines, will represent the Partners on assignments of two and three months.

Left June 1 They left June 1 after extensive briefings by the Iowa Board of Directors and representatives of the national organization, Miller said.

The partners of the Alliance was originated by the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID) to provide a means of direct contact between private organizations and individuals in this country and those of Latin America.

Although sponsored by the Federal Government and coordinated with the hemisphere's official Alliance for Progress, it is almost entirely a privately financed civil

Iowa To Host 7 Hawks To Compete In Major Track Meets

The University will host a national gymnastics clinic June 14 to 17, according to clinic directors Sam Baile and Dick Holzhaefer.

Gymnasts, coaches and physical education instructors are invited to attend the clinic which will be open to men and women of all age groups.

The basic aim of the clinic is to further knowledge of teachers and athletes. Classes will be held in all Olympic gymnastics events.

Other male members of the clinic staff, besides Baile and Holzhaefer, include Bill Meade, whose Southern Illinois team has won the NCAA title the past two years; Bill Holmes, a high school coach from Denver, Colo., and one of the best coaches in the high bar; and Herb Vogel, coach of Southern Illinois' national championship women's team.

Seven Iowa track men will travel to New Mexico and Utah this week for major national meets. The first meet will be Friday and Saturday at Albuquerque, N.M.

Coach Francis Cretzmeyer said Tuesday that the Hawkeyes, winners of the Big 10 and Central Collegiate team titles, would enter the U.S. Track and Field Federation championship meet at the University of New Mexico this weekend.

The Hawks then move to Provo, Utah, where they will compete in the annual National Collegiate championships at Brigham Young University June 15 to 17.

In the Federation meet, Iowa will enter the one mile relay, an event in which the team has a perfect outdoor record; Rollie Kitt will run the 3,000-meter steeplechase; Larry Wiczorek, the one mile runner; and Bill Burnette will pole vault.

A week later in Utah, Mike Mondane will also run the 440-yard dash; and Jon Reimer the 440-yard intermediate hurdles. Kitt, Wiczorek, and Burnette will compete in their respective events.

The mile relay team of Fred

Ferree, Carl Frazier, Mondane, and Reimer has a best time of 3:07.4 and in both meets will race against several teams which have run between 3:04 and 3:08. Coach Cretzmeyer believes that the quartet is capable of cutting its best time, since in several of the major races the outfit has not been hard-pressed throughout the entire race.

Mondane, who tied for fourth in the NCAA meet last year, twice has run the 440 in :46.4, among the best in the nation; and Reimer has :50.7 in the intermediate hurdles, ranking within the first four. Each man won the Big 10 and Central Collegiate titles.

Kitt, a sophomore, surprised by taking the Big 10 steeplechase, in the first time the event was contested in the conference meet. His time was 9:02.8 and in this race he sheared about 14 seconds off his previous best mark. He is capable now of hitting around 8:56 or perhaps better.

Wiczorek has a best outdoor time of 4:05.2 but must get down around 4:02 or so if he is to place well in the two meets. Jim Ryan, world's recordholder, will enter each race. Wiczorek was third to Ryan in the NCAA indoor title meet in March.

These meets end the 1967 competition of Hawkeyes. There is a possibility, however, that Iowans might qualify in the NCAA meet for the Pan American Games trials in Minneapolis July 15

Pension Dispute Settled By NBA

CHICAGO (AP) — National Basketball Association owners and the league's players association Wednesday agreed to a pension plan that will give a 10-year veteran a $600 per month return for life at the age of 65.

Players from the NBA's 12 clubs, headed by Oscar Robertson, star of the Cincinnati Royals and representative for all the players, met with club owners for approximately an hour and amicably settled the once-controversial pension plan.

Commissioner Walt Kennedy, who was awarded a five-year contract with a reported $10,000 salary increase to $60,000, said the plan affected all players on the list as of Feb. 2, 1967.

The prime action at the opening of the NBA's two-day annual meeting appeared to be a victory for the players who had threatened to strike the NBA playoffs last season unless pension demands were met.

Braves Rout L.A.

ATLANTA (AP) — Three-run homers by Rico Carty and Denis Menke highlighted a slugging outburst by Atlanta which swept the Braves to a 13-5 victory over Los Angeles Wednesday night.

Clete Boyer followed Carty's two-out blast in the third inning with his eighth homer of the season. Felipe Alou and Joe Torre doubled in a three-run first inning explosion, and Gary Geiger tripled in the six-run seventh before Menke's blast.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Manny Mota's two-run bloop single and Willie Stargell's homer backed up Tommy Sisk's five-hit pitching as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the New York Mets 3-0 Wednesday night.

Mota's single in the second drove in Jose Pagan, who had doubled, and Jerry May, who had singled. Stargell hit his 10th homer of the season and the 100th of his career in the sixth.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Rick Monday hit an inside-the-park homer with a man on, leading Kansas City to a 4-2 victory over Detroit and sending Tiger left-hander Mickey Lolich to his fifth straight defeat Wednesday night.

Yanks, Nats Split

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie Dave Baldwin shut off a late New York rally and saved Phil Ortega's victory as the Washington Senators defeated the Yankees 2-1 and gained a split of their twi-night doubleheader Wednesday.

The Yankees scored six runs in the first two innings of the opener — two of them on bases-loaded walks — and Fred Talbot's six-hitter beat the Senators 7-1.

Washington nicked veteran Bill Monbouquette, making his first start for the Yankees, for both their runs and Ortega made them stand 7-1 until the eighth when three straight singles brought on Baldwin. He retired Ruben Amaro for the third out.

WBA Searches For New Champ

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — When the World Boxing Association withdrew recognition of Cassius Clay as heavyweight champion in 1965, many boxing fans of the world were critical of the WBA.

Now that recognition has been withdrawn again from Clay, the WBA is faced with picking another champion and the method it uses may cause another controversy.

When Clay was stripped of his title last month for refusing to be inducted into the armed services, several groups suggested an eight-man tournament to choose a successor.

WBA rules, however, spell out a four-man elimination tournament for such situations.

That will be one of the problems confronting WBA officials Saturday when they hold a one-day executive session here and Bob Evans, WBA president, has adopted a "wait-and-see" attitude, pending a decision by the entire committee.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Willie McCovey smashed a three-run homer spilling a 15-strikeout performance by Cincinnati rookie Gary Nolan and then the San Francisco Giants pushed across a run in the ninth inning to beat the Reds 4-3 Wednesday night.

Nolan, a 19-year-old right-hander, fanned Willie Mays four times but McCovey's two-out shot in the eighth tied the score and knocked him out. The 15 strikeouts were high in the majors this season.

The Reds had jumped into a 3-0 lead against Juan Marichal in the sixth when Vada Pinson singled and Pete Rose homered. Singles by Deron Johnson and Tommy Helms sandwiched around an error by Mays which produced the third run.

Big 10 Names All-Star Team

CHICAGO (AP) — Third-place Minnesota landed three berths, one more than repeating champion Ohio State, on the 1967 All-Big 10 baseball team named by conference coaches Wednesday.

The All-Big 10 first team: First base, Dennis Zacho, Minnesota; second base, Ed Chartraw, Wisconsin; shortstop, Bob Fenwick, Minnesota; third base, Bill Steckley, Michigan State; outfield, Ray Shoup, Ohio State; outfield, Andy Fisher, Michigan; outfield, Jim Lee, Indiana; catcher, Mike Sader, Minnesota, and pitchers, John Poser, Wisconsin, and Joe Sadeifeld, Ohio State.

Baltimore Gets Top Prize In Majors' Secondary Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Baltimore grabbed off the prize plum in the secondary phase of baseball's free agent draft Wednesday when the Orioles chose John Michael Adamson, a 19-year-old right-handed pitcher from the University of Southern California as the No. 1 pick.

Adamson, originally selected by the Philadelphia Phillies, but unsigned, is a 6-foot-3 195-pound sophomore from San Diego, Calif., who rated at or near the top of the list on most of the 20 big league scouting reports.

Walter Shannon, director of scouting for the world champion Orioles, said Adamson was "a big strong fellow with great stuff who was considered an outstanding prospect." It was expected the Orioles would come up with a sizeable bonus to sign the pitcher.

The secondary phase of the draft followed the so-called regular phase in which a record 975 amateurs, mostly high school boys, were selected by the 20 teams and their minor league affiliates.

The previous high was 833, picked last June. Counting the 194 taken in the secondary phase, a total of 1,169 players was selected in the two-day session. In the regular phase the New

Yankees Choose

The Yankees, who took first baseman Ron Blomberg of Druid Hills High School of Atlanta as their No. 1 pick Tuesday, selected Donald Van Deuson, a 22-year-old shortstop from Concord College of Athens, W. Va. as the 975th and last.

The drafts give the clubs the rights to negotiate with the player until the next drafting period, probably in January. If a player does not sign he goes back into the pool.

Although collegians are exempt until they are graduated or reach the age of 21, collegians selected in earlier drafts and thus picked again in the secondary phase are eligible for signing.

Epstein Bumps Washington Vet Off Starting Spot

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Epstein, who had trouble with the real Boog Powell at Baltimore, suddenly has become Ken Harrelson's Boog Powell with Washington.

Epstein, the determined rookie first baseman who was ready to quit baseball rather than go the minors again, couldn't get into the Baltimore lineup because the Orioles already had a slugging first baseman in Powell, who last year socked 34 homers and drove in 109 runs.

Now, after the Orioles traded him to Washington, Epstein has bumped Harrelson from first base — and Harrelson doesn't see himself bumping Epstein back.

"It looks as if I've lost my job," said the five-year veteran, whom the Senators acquired from Kansas City last year. "It looks like he'll be the guy to play every day. All I can do now is wait and see what happens. But as the situation is now I hope I get traded."

What makes the situation even more frustrating for Harrelson is his determination to make it big this year after four seasons of mediocrity. Toward this end, the right-handed hitter put aside all of his other numerous interests — golf, pool, bowling, arm wrestling, brawling — so he could concentrate on baseball.

Harrelson makes it clear, however, that while he doesn't think the trade is good for him, he feels it is very good for the club.

"He's going to get the chance he wanted. I hope he has a heck of a year."

There is one thing, however, that rankles Harrelson. "Everyone talks about how young he is," the fading Senator said. "Heck, he's 24, and I'm only 25."

Ex-Sergeant Found Guilty

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — Herbert W. Breeckenhaupt, 24, a German-born Air Force staff sergeant, was sentenced Wednesday to 30 years in prison on charges of conspiring to provide U.S. defense secrets to the Soviet Union. The maximum sentence could have been death. The prison term was imposed in U.S. District Court by Judge Oren R. Lewis, before whom Breeckenhaupt was convicted last month. Breeckenhaupt was sentenced to 20 years on a charge of conspiring to transmit defense secrets—and 10 years for conspiring to obtain national defense information illegally. The terms are to run consecutively. Defense attorney Plate Cacheris contended the second count was a "lesser offense of the first charge," and challenged imposition of the second consecutive sentence on that charge. He already had served notice he would appeal the verdict.

Summer Schedules Exhausted

The Registrar's Office has announced that the Schedule of Courses booklets and catalogs for the summer session are no longer available for general distribution. An office spokesman said Wednesday that an unexpected demand for the booklets exhausted the supply of 13,000 about two weeks ago. He said that a number of booklets were being held back for students entering the University for the first time this summer. All departments have received copies of the booklets which should be readily available for student use, the spokesman said. Copies are also available for use in the Main Library and will be available at registration in the Field House next week.

Lasansky Speaks Of Dignity As Force For Man's Survival

"Dignity is not a symbol bestowed on man, nor does the word itself possess force. Man's dignity is a force and the only modus vivendi by which man and his history survive." The drawings are not intended to be realistic but to symbolize the effects of murder and bestiality on both the Nazi killers and their victims. Done over a period of five years, they were finished in 1966. Lasansky, 52, made the drawings not only to condemn the Nazis but to remind the younger generation of the brutality and evil of which man is capable. Lasansky was recently designated Virgil M. Hancher Professor of Art. He is also head of the University Printmaking Department. According to Kneeland McNulty of the Philadelphia Museum of Art, who arranged the tour, Lasansky "directs what is undoubtedly the most influential graphic arts workshop in the world." "As a teacher and practitioner of the art of the print," McNulty adds in the exhibition catalog, "his work is known and admired throughout the civilized world." Born in Argentina, Lasansky received a Guggenheim Fellowship to study in the United States in 1943. In 1945 he was chosen to establish a Graphic Arts Department at the University. Since then his works have been displayed in over 60 one-man exhibitions and are housed in 75 public collections in the United States and abroad. He is 73 and she is 67.

Student Awarded Summer Internship

Hiram D. Hoover, G. Iowa City, has been awarded an internship which will permit him to serve for eight weeks during the summer of this year as an educational consultant to the College of Dentistry. The award has been made under the auspices of the Division of Educational Research of the American Association of Dental Schools and is supported, in part, through a grant from the American Fund for Dental Education. Under the terms of the internship program, Hoover, who is doing graduate work in educational psychology, will go to Chicago June 12 to 14, for an orientation period. He and six other interns will hear experts present an orientation to the profession of dentistry and the special and unique problems of dental education. He will then return to Iowa City where he will be assigned to Dr. Donald J. Galagan, dean of the College of Dentistry, for additional orientation and consultation. During the eight-week internship, Hoover will work with the faculty, administration and students of the dental school in making observations, studies and suggestions related to the improvement of educational techniques in dentistry. Following the internship, he will return to Chicago for an additional meeting with his co-interns and the sponsors of the program to discuss his findings and to report on his experiences.

Instant Grading Hits UI

"Instant grading" has arrived at the University. Its inventor, or at least its initiator, is Donald K. Woolley, assistant professor of journalism and instructor of News Photography I. Since Woolley came to the University in 1962, he has gained a wide reputation for his unique final examinations. He upheld that reputation this semester. The multiple-choice answer sheet for Woolley's final May 31 were wrapped in Seran wrap and placed in the bottom of pink plastic miniature flower pots. Ice cream was placed over the answer sheet, and a decoration was placed on top. When the student finally reached the answer sheet, they discovered it was not the typical multiple-choice test. All the boxes on the answer sheet were already blackened. To indicate the correct answer, the students erased the corresponding box. When erased, a correct answer box revealed the letter "L." In this manner, each student knew immediately if he had correctly answered the question. Woolley said this method also gave the student an advantage in a series of questions, because if he missed the first one, he could keep erasing until he found the correct answer. He then had a better chance on the rest of the series. As soon as a student completed the final, he knew how many points he had earned. Woolley's students kept a running total of points throughout the semester.

Committee Cuts $4 Million From Budget For Welfare

DES MOINES (AP) — A bill to appropriate money to operate the State Department of Social Welfare and its public assistance programs in the next biennium was sent back to the House Appropriations Committee Wednesday, which promptly knocked $4 million a year out of it. The bill, as originally recommended by the Appropriations Committee, called for an appropriation of $33,895,000 a year, which was $45,000 more than Gov. Harold Hughes had recommended. There has been a strong drive, however, among legislators to reduce appropriations for various state departments in order to help provide more than $100 million annually for property tax relief. Rep. Leroy Miller (R-Shenandoah), chairman of the Social Welfare Appropriations Subcommittee, called for taking the $4 million out of the money allotted to such welfare programs as Aid to Dependent Children. He said both the state comptroller and persons in the Welfare Department had told him Iowa's standards under the Aid to Dependent Children are among the highest in the nation.

Chichester Hospitalized

PLYMOUTH, England (AP) — A spokesman at the Royal Naval Hospital said Wednesday 65-year-old Sir Francis Chichester, who returned May 28 from sailing alone around the world, will require at least a month's medical care for his bleeding duodenal ulcer. Chichester was admitted to the hospital Tuesday night and given a blood transfusion. The hospital said the yachtman's condition was satisfactory but he needs complete rest. Queen Elizabeth II postponed indefinitely a ceremony of knighthood for Chichester.

Legislative Unit To Press For Probe Of Liquor Board

DES MOINES (AP) — Republicans and Democrats on a joint legislative committee studying state department appropriations voted unanimously Wednesday to push for a two-year investigation of the Iowa Liquor Control Commission.

Backing of the investigation by members of both parties from both the House and Senate put considerable weight behind it for passage by the legislature itself.

Many lawmakers are upset because a recent audit of the commission enforcement division showed some Iowa bars are not paying all taxes due and allegedly are breaking liquor laws in other ways.

The state collects a 10 per cent tax on each drink sold across the bar, and this produces about $5 million in revenue annually.

Sen. Max Milo Mills (R-Marshalltown), author of the resolution calling for an investigation, told the committee:

"We're not on a witch hunt. We're not after any particular tomcat. The whole liquor situation just needs studying."

Mills added, "I am convinced we are losing a lot of money," because some bar owners are not remitting their full tax payments.

The resolution noted there has been no legislative study of effectiveness of the liquor-by-the-drink law since it was passed in 1963.

A committee made up of five senators and five representatives would be charged to "explore, investigate, study and analyze the conduct and policies of the Iowa Liquor Control Commission and all other matters relevant to the liquor laws of Iowa."

The committee would make recommendations to the governor and the next legislature. The resolution would appropriate $10,000 to pay cost of the investigation.

House Votes Down $29 Billion Asked For Higher Debt Ceiling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House rejected President Johnson's administration Wednesday night by refusing to increase the Treasury's borrowing authority by the requested $29 billion.

The 210-197 vote means administration forces will have to try again, with a lower figure, or the government will be unable to pay its bills next month.

The requested increase would have been the biggest single step-up since World War II and would have brought the national debt to $365 billion.

Unless Congress acts on a new increase by June 30, the debt limit automatically drops to $285 billion, well below the actual debt.

The vote saw a new combination of Republicans, conservative Democrats and some liberals apparently opposed to higher spending in Vietnam overcoming the administration forces.

Not a single Republican voted for the debt limit increase. Voting against it were 176 Republicans and 34 Democrats.

The Republicans had called for rejection of the proposed increase as a way to force Johnson to re-

Nazi Faces Extradition

BRASILIA (AP) — Brazil's Supreme Court voted unanimously Wednesday to extradite Franz Paul Stangl to West Germany for trial on crimes he is accused of committing while a Nazi prison camp commandant.

But the 13 judges who voted to honor West Germany's request attached two conditions: That a possible life prison sentence be commuted to a lesser sentence and that the Germans agree to extradite Stangl subsequently to Austria for trial there.

Brazilian authorities said Stangl would be turned over to Duesseldorf Civil Court on charges stemming from his command of the Treblinka death camp in Poland between August 1942 and August 1943 as well as 15 specific murder charges.

Stangl was reported to have been discovered after a former comrade reported his whereabouts to Simon Wiesenthal, head of the Jewish Documentation Center in Vienna.

She was a poet, short story writer, screen writer, drama critic and literary critic. And yet she probably was best known as the author of the witty couplet: "Men seldom make passes, at girls who wear glasses."

Once, reviewing a performance of Katherine Hepburn on Broadway, Miss Parker wrote: "She ran the gamut of emotions from A to B."

Alexander Woolcott once described Miss Parker, with her big brown eyes, and her hair in bangs, as "a blend of Little Nell and Lady Macbeth."

Retort Was Clever

To which she retorted: "Alec was wrong. I was neither as appealing as the one nor as smart as the other."

On her 70th birthday, Miss Parker said: "If I had any decency, I'd be dead. Most of my friends are."

Miss Parker's reputation as a caustic wit irked her at times

Author Dorothy Parker Dies; Was Caustic Humorist, Critic

NEW YORK (AP) — Dorothy Parker, the versatile writer and humorist, died Wednesday at the age of 74.

She achieved her aim in 1929 when she won the O. Henry short story award.

Born Dorothy Rothschild in West End, N.J., she was brought up in New York and educated in convent schools. Her father was Jewish and her mother was of Scottish descent.

She was married to Edwin Pond Parker II in 1917, just a few days before he sailed for France in World War I. They were divorced in 1928, but she retained his name as her pen name.

Remarried Ex-husband

In 1933, she married actor Alan Campbell, who abandoned the stage to become a successful writer and collaborator with her on several motion picture scenarios. They were divorced in 1947, but remarried in 1950. He died in 1963.

Miss Parker never had children.

Senate Takes Up School Aid Debate

DES MOINES (AP) — The Senate approved additional homestead exemption credit for the needy elderly in the first major amendment adopted Wednesday as it waded into a complex bill to increase state aid to schools.

Debate on the measure continues today.

Two scraps developed as the Senate took up the bill and both were settled by close margins.

A 33-26 vote approved an amendment by Sen. Lee Gaudinier (D-Des Moines) increasing homestead exemption for persons 65 or older, including renters and those who live in nursing homes, as well as those who own their own property.

By a 28-27 vote, the Senate adopted an amendment by Sen. John Kibbie (D-Emmetsburg) providing that pupils in both public and private schools will be counted in computing state aid. This meant rejection of an alternate amendment by Sen. Kenneth Nurse (D-Hartley) which would have counted only public school students.

Cut Avoided

The effect is to avoid a cut in a school district's aid simply because many of its children go to parochial and other private schools.

These amendments made changes in still another amendment, recommended by the Senate Education Committee as a substitute for the contents of a House-passed school aid bill — the so-called Petersen plan.

The committee amendment will be voted on after all proposed changes in it are acted upon.

Indications were the Senate eventually will adopt the substitute. If the House then refuses to go along — a strong possibility — the bill would go to a conference committee.

Named For Sponsor

The House-passed bill was named for its chief architect, Rep. Leroy Petersen (R-Grimet). It set out a complicated formula for distributing aid to schools, based in part on local school spending, tax rates and income taxes paid by the county's residents. It would have the state support an average of 41 per cent of local school costs, backers said.

The Senate committee version for distributing aid to school districts takes into account the proportion between the district's property values, number of students and per capita income and the proportion these bear to such statistics for the state as a whole.

It is designed so a district with low property values, low personal income and a relatively high number of students would get more aid than a district where the situation was reversed.

Across the state, average aid would be 30 to 35 per cent or more of local schools costs, depending upon how much money is made available for distribution.

Israel Claims Sinai Victory

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel proclaimed victory Wednesday night in the Sinai Peninsula campaign against Egypt, bellwether of the Arab nations in the 1967 Palestine war. On the western front, both Old Jerusalem and Bethlehem were reported in Israeli hands.

"The Egyptians are defeated," said Maj. Gen. Itzhak Rabin, the Israeli chief of staff. "All their efforts are aimed at withdrawing behind the Suez Canal and we are taking care of that. The whole area is in our hands. The main effort of the Egyptians is to save themselves."

In a terse but sweeping description of developments through the third day of the third Arab-Israeli war in 19 years, Rabin declared:

"Sinai Taken"

• Sinai, the Egyptian territory between Israel's Negev Desert and the Suez Canal, is taken.

• Most of the west bank of the Jordan River, Jordanian territory including Joshua's Jericho, is in Israeli hands.

• Relative to what was done, the number of Israeli casualties was "not great."

The general said his men had taken on Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Iraq, knocked out their air forces and overrun their armor and infantry.

"All this the armed forces of Israel did alone," he said.

The chief of staff turned over the briefing to Brig. Mordkhai Hod, commander of the air force, who announced 41 Arab planes destroyed — 41 of them Monday, 17 Tuesday and 14 more Wednesday.

Fear Grips Cairo As Israelis Near

CAIRO (AP)—Much of Cairo was gripped with fear as Egypt's forces started withdrawing before Israel's advance Wednesday night.

Troops dug in around the city's perimeter and at strong points on the Nile bridges. More were reported digging in along the Nile Valley, 40 miles west of the Suez Canal.

A crowd of several thousand Arabs, many of them close to hysteria, milled around Cairo's main railroad station when rumors swept the capital that a trainload of Israeli prisoners was on its way from the battlefield.

Foreign newsmen who went to the station were manhandled and refused admittance.

Egyptian soldiers, tired, bedraggled and unshaven, rolled into town from the front to be greeted by wildly cheering crowds. The troops were in battle dress and steel helmets and some of their trucks towed field kitchens.

Soldiers Greeted

Excited Arab youths clambered on their vehicles to hug and kiss and slap them on the back.

Other troops took up positions under the Nile bridges and along stretches of the river.

Rifle-toting Home Guards, some in civilian clothes, others in military uniform and steel helmets, patrolled the tense streets. Most shops remained open and there was a run on food supplies.

Scores of troops and mounted police stood guard over the padlocked U.S. and British embassies. Egypt now has no diplomatic relations with either country.

The entire city was blacked out and every glimmer of light was greeted by angry howls from people in the streets.

News Blared Out

Loudspeakers in public squares blared out news bulletins and anti-American invective. People in the city gathered in little knots along the streets to listen to transistor radios for latest bulletins about the battle zone.

Police guarded the entrance of a Cairo hotel where 62 Americans were interned. Departure details for them were not yet known. Cairo's International Airport was closed and shipping in and out of Alexandria, Egypt's port on the Mediterranean, was sparse.

Nevertheless, it was expected the Americans would be taken to the port by rail and evacuated soon.

Those interned include a number of teachers, oil men and a handful of tourists trapped in Cairo by the outbreak of war.

Senate OKs Johnson Plan On Stalling Railroad Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate committee action on the bill earlier this week.

Under Johnson's plan, the strike, suspended by congressional action twice before, would be blocked for another 90 days to permit intensive mediation efforts by a presidentially appointed five-member panel.

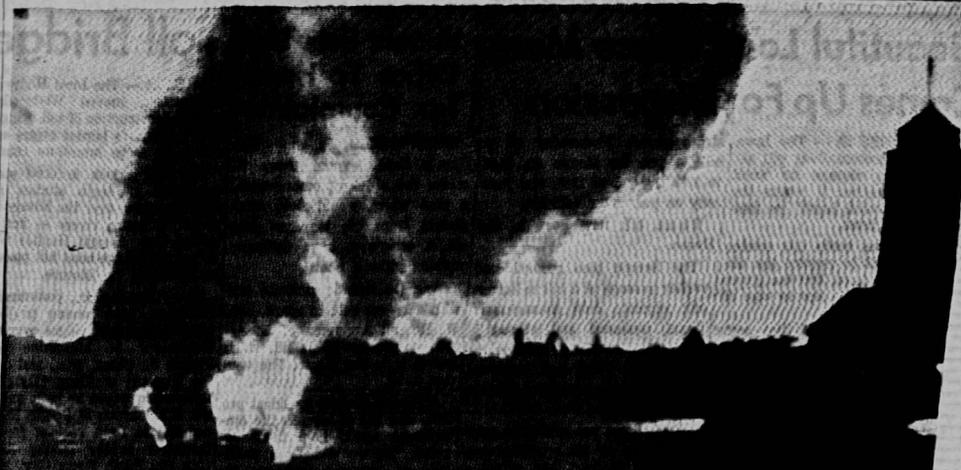

If no voluntary settlement resulted in that period, the board could impose its own settlement terms, which would continue in effect until Jan. 1, 1969, unless the parties reach agreement before that.

Yarborough, Kennedy and some other Democratic senators argued that the resolution submitted by Johnson is weighted on the side of management. Their proposals, they said, were aimed at putting equal pressure on both sides to reach a settlement.

The House Commerce Committee completed hearings on the President's proposal and scheduled closed discussions Thursday to start wrapping up its version.

The goal is to get the resolution to Johnson before the June 19 deadline, and congressional leaders assured him at the White House Wednesday they could do this.

The Senate passed the legislation 70 to 15 after knocking down solidly the persistent efforts by Sens. Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex.) and Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) to make the plan more acceptable to the six shop craft unions. They had lost out in committee action on the bill earlier this week.

6th Fleet Aircraft Carriers Mark Time In Mediterranean

ABOARD USS AMERICA (AP)—No planes with bombs have left the 6th Fleet aircraft carrier since word of the Mideast war reached here Monday morning, despite Arab charges of U.S. participation in the conflict.

A practice bombing exercise, directed against a small island near Crete in the eastern Mediterranean, was under way when the news arrived. Small A4 sub-sonic planes equipped with two 250-pound bombs flew out about mid-morning Monday and were back on deck shortly after noon. Later practice bombing missions were canceled. At the time the carrier was approximately 200 miles northwest of Cairo.

Newsmen have observed no activities which would indicate combat missions were afoot. Pilots scoffed at any suggestion that U.S. planes had been involved in the air war.

Statement Issued

An official Navy spokesman issued a statement to reporters saying: "No aircraft from 6th Fleet carriers have penetrated the air space of any North African or Middle East country."

None of the carrier's planes left Tuesday. An almost eerie calm settled over the America as the fleet stood vigil for any orders from Washington.

Wednesday morning officers said the America and her task group of about half a dozen destroyers and a cruiser generally were holding in an area about 75 miles southeast of Crete.

Missiles Loaded

The only sign of any possible offensive measures being taken was the loading of half a squadron of A4 Skyhawk attack planes with six 500-pound bombs or two air-to-surface Bullpup missiles.

On an alert status on deck are three Phantoms equipped with two heat-seeking Sidewinder missiles and two Sparrow homing missiles, both for air-to-air use.

The task group seemed to be marking time, sometimes shifting positions south of Crete merely to keep on the move.

Censorship placed over news copy leaving the carrier late Monday was lifted later.

Officers aboard the America were directed not to discuss specific locations or future deployments of the task force.

L'il Bill's Owner Dave Clark Is No Millionaire, But Busy

By DON WIRTH

L'il Bill's was empty and shaded lamps cast an eerie red glow on the wooden benches. The juke box, which usually blared forth the sounds of the Supremes or the Temptations, was silent. It was early afternoon. The action wouldn't start for another eight hours.

Dave Clark, 30, owner of the popular Iowa City night spot, played a pinball machine while he commented on running the tavern.

"I opened the place in May 1963 as a Gay Nineties, rinky-tink piano joint," Clark said. "It was originally a pizza parlor, but nothing much happened until the discotheque movement."

L'il Bill's has (or had) the stereotype of a hangout for the University's community of artists, writers and bohemians.

Patrons Diverse

"Most of these people reach us by way of a tavern around the corner," Clark said. "Actually, the crowd we draw today is a well-mixed group. You can find almost any type you're looking for — artists, athletes, Greeks, hippies. To me, that's the secret of running a tavern."

Clark said he had few real problems operating his tavern. Crowds are surprisingly orderly, especially when the mixture of types is considered. Upkeep is minimal.

Clark estimated that on an average Friday, with the afternoon and night crowds, he sells over 230 gallons of tap beer.

"When you see those lines of kids waiting to get in on a Friday or Saturday night, you might think that Dave Clark is a millionaire. But the only time I do any business is after 10 p.m. That's only three or four hours a day. It's kind of rugged sometimes," he said.

Six-Pack Sales

Commenting on the proposed Iowa legislation to prohibit the sale of cold sixpacks in grocery stores, Clark said, "If anything, the grocery stores should be made to sell beer at a competitive price. As it is now, they price it to sell groceries. Personally, I don't make too much on six-pack sales."

'Beautiful Land' Once More Comes Up For Discussion

DES MOINES — The Iowa House of Representatives will get a chance to change its mind again on whether it wants the words "Beautiful Land" on motor vehicle plates.

Both houses early this session passed a bill to require the slogan on 1968 tags, and the governor signed it into law to take effect July 1.

Then it developed that some of the tags already are being made without the slogan, and there is no room for the words on truck and motorcycle license plates.

The House then passed a bill to repeal the earlier act. Sen. Howard Reppert (D-Des Moines) chief backer of the slogan in the Senate, heads the Senate Steering Committee and was able to keep the House repealer from coming up for Senate debate.

Instead, Reppert won 38-22 Senate approval Wednesday of a bill to put the slogan on tags in 1969 instead of 1968, and then only on passenger vehicles.

That bill now goes to the House.

The Senate also reconsidered earlier passage of a bill to license and regulate debt management firms, amended and passed it 58-1. The measure returns to the House, which first approved it, for consideration of Senate amendments.

Such firms use a client's money to pay off his creditors over a period of time, and collect a fee for the service.

The bill would limit the fee to a maximum of 12½ per cent of the amount paid. There have been complaints that some firms charged up to 40 per cent.

Illinois Sets Up Office To Hear Tax Complaints

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — The Illinois Senate voted today to create the office of ombudsman, a post which would field complaints from the taxpayer who might otherwise have difficulty making himself heard.

Over Democratic protests and with only one vote to spare, Sen. W. Russell Arrington of Evans-ton won passage of his bill, which moves it to the House. The vote was 31-12.

Arrington, Senate president pro tem, told his colleagues the ombudsman would help them because "he would hear a multitude of requests that are received from your constituents."

Sen. Robert Cherry, (D-Chicago), objected to creation of the post on grounds it would mean additional expenditures of hard-pressed state funds.

Toll Bridges Planned

AMES — The Iowa Highway Commission moved Wednesday toward construction of toll bridges over the state's border rivers and asked for more interstate roads.

The commission ordered staff engineers to begin studies for new toll spans over the Mississippi and Missouri rivers — anticipating Gov. Harold Hughes will sign a toll bridge bond bill passed by the state Legislature.

Harry Bradley Jr., commission chairman, said among projects needed most are bridges over the Mississippi at Muscatine and Prairie du Chien, Wis., and over the Missouri at Sioux City. The latter span would be built only if the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads refuses an Iowa request for an interstate bridge linking Sioux City and South Sioux City, Neb.

"I can't see why we couldn't have as many as four or five of these bridge projects going at once," said Bradley.

The commission also asked the Bureau of Public Roads to allot

Iowa another 94.3 miles of interstate highway.

It would consist of 17.6 miles between Iowa City and Cedar Rapids, 8.8 miles for the Cedar Valley Expressway in Cedar Rapids, 65.5 miles between Cedar Rapids and Waterloo, and 2.4 miles for the Sioux City bridge over the Missouri.

Season Shortened For Deer Hunting

CEDAR RAPIDS — The Iowa Conservation Commission voted Wednesday to shorten the 1967 deer hunting season in part of the state where the animals are in short supply.

The commission cut the total number of deer hunting permits to be issued from 29,000 to 22,000.

Deer season in northeastern, east-central and northwestern Iowa was set for Dec. 2 and 3. The rest of the state may hunt one day after that.

Radical Changes Probable In Humiliated Arab Nations

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
An AP News Analysis
Israel's swift humiliation of the combined forces of Arabdom promises changes in the leadership of the Mideast and a heavy impact upon patterns of world power politics.

Neither Americans nor Russians could claim to have come out ahead, in Arab eyes, from this week's dramatic events, and the Mideast is likely to be on the verge of a period of internal uproar which could end Gamal Abdel Nasser's reign as the symbol of Arab aspirations.

Washington, Moscow, London and Paris all can be expected now to undertake searching reappraisals of their policies, taking into consideration prospective changes in the world picture after the Arab-Israeli war. The United States faces bitterness and hostility from Arab nations rich in oil and strategic waterways. The Arabs choose to believe that the United States and Britain helped the Israelis to humble Arab aims.

Soviets Face Trouble
The Russians, too, face trouble. So far as Egypt and Syria were concerned, Soviet arms, purchased at a severe strain on their economies, were cut to pieces by the Israelis. To the Arab way of thinking, the Russians probably will be judged to have let them down by withholding more direct support.

The Arabs seemed to try to lure Moscow into greater involvement. Some interpret the charge of U.S. and British air support for Israel as an indication of this. But Moscow heaved to a line of caution, falling even to report the Arab charge in its own press in 24 hours after the charge was voiced.

The Russians must feel more or less obliged now to make appropriate sounds, to condemn Israel as an "aggressor" and to make demands on behalf of the Arabs.

If any major nation emerged unscathed, it was France. But Arabs know that French popular sentiment and French-built planes were on Israel's side. They still harbor anger at France for its association with Britain and Israel in the Suez war of 1956. President Charles de Gaulle managed to steer clear of a French commitment this time. His stock now might rise among the Arabs.

Moscow Hedges Bets
Moscow seemed to find it expedient to hedge its bets. So long as the crisis did not erupt into war, Soviet policy could make gains with the Arabs. When war came and the Arabs started taking a drubbing, Moscow went along with a Security Council resolution calling for a cease-fire. At least for the moment Moscow dropped its insistence that positions of June 4, the eve of the war, be restored.

The Soviet Union had problems. It wanted to maintain foreign policy gains made in Europe in recent times. Involvement in the risk of a showdown with the Americans in the Mideast would, at the least, bring back the arctic temperatures of the cold war and set the Russians back in Europe.

The Kremlin may consider steering clear of its Arab proteges for a while, to let the dust settle. If this proves the case, Egypt's Nasser will be all the more weakened.

Whatever happens, radical changes seem likely in the Mideast itself. Not only Nasser, but other Arab leaders are in danger — notably young King Hussein of Jordan, the first to sue for a cease-fire.

New Mexico Pulls Guard Out Of Hunt

CANJILON, N.M. — The New Mexico National Guard pulled its troops out of the search Wednesday for an elusive band of defiant Spanish-Americans who shot up a county courthouse and wounded two officers this week.

About 25 state police officers remained in the northern New Mexico countryside, however, seeking to pin down the raiders. They were believed to have been members of an organization which laid claim to hundreds of thousands of acres of land in the Southwest under old Spanish land grants.

"I think the guard has outlived its usefulness there," said Republican Gov. David F. Cargo, 38, concerning the decision to withdraw nearly 400 National Guard troops from the Canjilon area.

"It's very difficult to find anybody in that large area," Cargo said.

The sparsely settled area, inhabited largely by Spanish-speaking persons, has been combed since more than 30 raiders swept down on the courthouse at Tierra Amarilla on Monday. Some of their compatriots were being arraigned on charges growing out of previous actions by the former Federal Alliance of Land Grants.

The two policemen were wounded critically and several other persons held hostage for a time during the ensuing shooting spree.

A main object of the search has been capture of Reis Lopez Tijerina, 40, of Albuquerque, founder and president of the alliance which disbanded recently under pressure from the U.S. government.

Free Action For Churches Called Vital

WAVERLY — Local congregations must retain freedom of action in any union of national Protestant churches, the president of the United Church of Christ said Wednesday.

The Rev. Dr. Ben M. Herbster spoke to some 400 pastors and laymen attending the fifth annual meeting of the church's Iowa conference at Wartburg College.

The Rev. Dr. Herbster, who has worked with a group considering union of 10 denominations, said 1971 is the earliest possible date a formal plan could be completed.

"Ecumenicity has little meaning unless it finds expression at a local level," he said. "In the end it is the commitment of local members to ecumenical action in the community that really counts."

The Rev. Dr. Herbster added the United Church of Christ conducts joint mission work with other denominations whenever possible.
