WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin will hold a historic summit meeting today in the small town of Glassboro, N.J., about halfway between New York and Washington.

The White House made the announcement Thursday night, ending a week of speculation and several days of behind-the-scenes negotiations between representatives of the two governments.

White House sources said Johnson and Kosygin would discuss substantive matters—that it would not be simply a courtesy meeting.

It is understood that Johnson plans to raise such issues as the Middle East, Southeast Asia and Vietnam, prospects for a nuclear nonproliferation treaty and a possible agreement with the Soviets to limit a race to ring the two nations with anti-ballistic missiles.

LBJ Invited Kosygin

Press secretary George Christian said Johnson invited Kosygin to meet with him at 11 a.m. (EDT) today at the home of Thomas Robinson, president of Glassboro State College. The school has an enrollment of about 5,000 and the community—located 15 miles south of Philadelphia—has a population of about 10,000.

The fact that Glassboro could be considered something of a midway point between New York and Washington apparently figured heavily in the success of efforts to get the two world leaders together. Originally Johnson had wanted to see Kosygin at the White House or nearby. The Soviet premier thought Johnson should visit him in New York.

Johnson and Kosygin are expected to be together for at least a couple of hours and have lunch together.

White House sources said final arrangements for the summit were concluded about 6 p.m. (EDT) Thursday. They said Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Kosygin laid the groundwork for the agreement at a meeting earlier in the day in New York.

Johnson To Fly

Kosygin plans to drive to Glassboro from New York. Johnson will fly to Philadelphia International Airport and, probably, proceed from there to Glassboro by helicopter.

Johnson is scheduled to address a Democratic fund-raising dinner in Los Angeles tonight. It was understood he most likely would return to Washington before proceeding to California.

Christian's announcement featured the fact that Johnson initiated the invitation to Kosygin and the latter accepted.

Apparently as a result of the Kosygin-Rusk talk, Johnson placed a call Thursday afternoon to Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey—seeking suggestions for a meeting site. Christian said Hughes made the Glassboro site available.

The meeting will be the first between the top U.S. and Soviet leaders since President John F. Kennedy and Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev met in Vienna in 1961.

All three television networks, NBC, CBS and ABC, said Thursday night they plan live coverage of Johnson's meeting today with Kosygin in Glassboro.

Electric Plant Hit By U.S. Bombers In North Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy bombers attacked the Nam Dinh electric power plant 46 miles south of Hanoi Thursday, and Thailand-based Air Force jets hit rail yards and bridges north of the Communist capital.

U.S. headquarters in Saigon reported the loss of one plane to enemy ground fire and said the pilot is missing. It was the 588th U.S. plane reported lost over North Vietnam.

Headquarters said the Navy Skyhawks from carriers in the Tonkin Gulf touched off a large secondary explosion and fire at the power plant with their 1,000- and 2,000-pound bombs. The Nam Dinh power plant produced about 7,500 kilowatts of electric power.

In Thursday's raids, North Vietnam claimed three American planes were shot down and "a number of pilots" captured.

There was a lull in the ground fighting in South Vietnam Thursday. The U.S. Command estimated that receding and infiltration last week increased the number of Communist troops in South Vietnam to 295,000, despite the reported death of 1,852 of the enemy in combat.

Based on reports of intelligence officers who expect the Red high command to try another offensive soon, this is a new high. It is a net increase of 1,000 over the last previous estimate of the strength of the Viet Cong and their North Vietnamese allies.

American deaths in the seven-day period that ended last Saturday midnight declined to 143, the lowest since 107 perished in action in the week of Feb. 5-11. But statistics from the treadmill of war showed 235 of the other allies were killed, 2 more than in the previous week.

Fresh field dispatches told of light and scattered fighting in the central coastal lowlands, where elements of two U.S. divisions reported they had killed 143 Communist troops in two battles Wednesday at a cost of 6 U.S. dead, 22 wounded and 4 missing.

The 3rd Brigade of the 25th Infantry Division and some companies of the 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division are working over familiar battlegrounds there in Quang Ngai and Binh Dinh provinces in search of Viet Cong units and North Vietnamese regulars.

The U.S. Command announced American casualties last week, in addition to the 143 killed, were 953 wounded and 16 missing or captured. That compared with 176 killed, 928 wounded and 15 missing in the previous week.

South Vietnam's armed forces reported 213 of its men killed, 556 wounded, and 14 missing, and the other allies reported 22 killed and 53 wounded.

The U.S. report of 1,852 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops killed compared with a listing of 1,152 in the week of June 4-10.

Police To Strengthen Traffic Enforcement

A suggestion by City Manager Frank R. Smiley that the city police tighten up on traffic law enforcement met with unanimous approval of the Iowa City council at an informal meeting Thursday.

The council also scheduled for July 18 a public hearing on leasing the old city landfill to the University on a 25 year basis for parking.

Alley parking and double parking violations were tagged by Smiley for immediate attention. He said that a number of those laws were not just traffic problems but also fire and safety hazards.

There will be no attempt to restrict loading operations in alleys and streets according to Smiley. He said the most parking violations occurred in downtown and University dorm areas.

The University plans to develop 500 parking spaces on the landfill by September if the lease is approved. Plans call for 1,200 spaces eventually.

The landfill is located south of the Iowa City Service Building on Hiway 151. The city manager said the University officials made it clear to the council that the usefulness of the lot would depend on a shuttle bus system provided by the city and the Iowa City Coach Company.

CEDAR RAPIDS DEATH SCENE — The body of Mrs. Charles Schwab of Belle Plaine was found in her car on a Benton County road near Keystone. Texas Man Held For Slaying Of 3 In Cedar Rapids

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — A man arrested here early Thursday in the killing of three persons and kidnaping of two girls was identified later as a convicted bank robber with a long criminal record.

Benton County Sheriff Harold Burch and the Iowa Bureau of Criminal Investigation said the man who gave the name of Joseph Robert Carter, 42, Beaumont, Tex., really was Hubert B. McClelland.

Police said he claimed to have killed six persons, but they were unable to verify this.

But for his arrest and court appearance Thursday, the defendant was listed by the name he first gave police.

Iowa City Police Search
Meanwhile, Iowa City police were alerted by Cedar Rapids Police Thursday night to search for a red 1967 El Camino Chevrolet with Texas license No. PXD-429.

The car is believed to have been abandoned in Iowa City by McClelland.

It is believed he may have abandoned the car in Iowa City, near either a filling station or what was described by police as a storage area.

McClelland, a balding and bespectacled man of medium build, was taken before Justice of the Peace Fay W. Hite in Vinson and charged with first degree murder in the death of Mrs. Charles Schwab, 42, Belle Plaine.

Justice Hite, after allowing the man a few moments to confer in private with two court-appointed attorneys, ordered him returned here to the Linn County jail without bond to await action of Benton County District Court.

The accused man said nothing in the brief hearing.

No charges have been filed in Tama County in the death of the other two victims — Leland Skoog, 55, rural Elberon, and his son, Garith, 24.

Authorities pieced together this account of the apparently senseless shootings and abductions:

Story Pieced Together

Mrs. Schwab, her 11-year-old daughter, Christine, and Christine's cousin, Julie Braksiek, 11, were approaching the Richard Braksiek home about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday to celebrate Braksiek's birthday anniversary when another car ran their vehicle off the road.

The woman, mother of six children, was shot to death on the spot, and the killer forced the two girls to get into his rented car. He wrecked the vehicle a short distance down the road, but none of the three was hurt.

Skoog and his son drove from their home nearby to see if they could help. The gunman forced them to drive him and the girls away from the scene. Mrs. Skoog started to walk up to them from her house, but her husband waved her away.

The killer forced young Skoog to remove his shirt and use it to tie his father's hands behind his back. Then the gunman made them drive in their car to a deserted farmhouse two miles southeast of Tama, where both men were shot to death from behind.

Girls Wait Outside
The two girls said the gunman told them to wait outside the farmhouse, police said, and they reported hearing two shots.

It was about 10:30 p.m. when a 17-year-old boy reported a motorist had rammed the rear of his car near Fairfax, southwest of Cedar Rapids, and fired a shot at him.

Linn County Deputy Sheriff William Serbousek spotted the Skoog car just outside the Cedar Rapids city limits and halted it. With McClelland standing meekly at gunpoint, the deputy found a .38 caliber Spanish automatic under the car seat.

"He told me if I'd give him a pack of cigarettes, he'd tell me something I wanted to know," said Serbousek. "After I gave him a cigarette, he told me to look in the trunk of the car."

"The girls were just laying there. They were pretty terrified, and they'd been crying."
Sobbed Christine Schwab:
"That man shot my mother."

Senate Moves Near Showdown On Dodd Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate rejected Thursday a second attempt to block the censure of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, then recessed in angry turmoil without acting on the misconduct charges against the Connecticut Democrat.

After two hours of confusion and parliamentary bickering, the Senate quit work amid shouts of protest. It will take up the Dodd case once more at noon today.

The sole vote during what was heralded as the climactic session of the eight-day debate turned down an amendment which would have sought only to reprimand, instead of censure, on the charge that Dodd used political money for his personal purposes.

That was proposed by Sen. John Tower (R-Tex.). It was rejected, 87-9. It was another indication, the second in two days, that the Senate is likely, in the end, to impose a judgment of censure.

The Tower move to ease Dodd's punishment paralleled the futile effort of Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) to diminish the penalty to a mere admonition.

That proposal was rejected Wednesday, 92-2. Dodd left the chamber on both votes, saying he did not wish to embarrass anyone.

Tower said his amendment would permit the Senate to express disapproval without invoking "one of the most severe penalties you can impose on a man," the censure of his colleagues.

The last-minute move was a surprise because Tower had not previously come to the defense of the embattled Dodd. While Long's move would have warned Dodd against future misconduct without condemning his past, Tower sought some measure of criticism for the Connecticut senator's financial conduct.

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.), chairman of the Senate ethics committee, said censure was the lightest sentence that panel could honestly recommend.

City Pool Plans May Be Altered; Cost Too High

Present plans for a city swimming pool may be discarded and a new consulting firm hired if several Iowa City councilmen have their way.

A majority of the council at an informal meeting Thursday appeared to be in favor of terminating the city's contract with R. H. Burke and Associates of Chicago, and hiring another consultant to design the Mercer Park pool. The action was caused by a $271,000 bid on the project estimated at $235,000 by Burke and Associates. The council had allocated only $200,000 for it.

City Manager Frank R. Smiley said the high estimate and high bid was due to the inclusion of a deck spill gutter, underwater lights and rounded corners.

Smiley said that the city ought to take part of the blame for the high bids and resulting problems because of the change in city government personnel in the past few months. He said the city manager, public works director and city engineer had all been replaced and Burke's designer was dealing with too many people.

Smiley further noted that there had been little consultation between city officials on suggestions made to Burke and Associates.

If the city were to dismiss Burke now, the consulting firm would receive 80 percent of its fee. This would amount to $13,000, of which $8,000 has been paid.

If the city asks for another design, Burke and Associates would consider it a new contract and would charge about $5,000, said Smiley. He said a new design would involve reducing the size and scope of the pool and bathhouse and excluding several alternates.

Mayor William C. Hubbard said a simplified version of the present plans was just as serviceable and adequate, but he favored discarding present plans and beginning again.

Peace In Mideast Linked To Vietnamese War's End

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Amid groping by U.N. diplomats for a compromise on assembly recommendations to Israel and the Arabs, France declared Thursday that as long as the war in Vietnam continues, there is no chance for real peace in the Mideast.

In a policy speech to the emergency special session of the 123-nation General Assembly, Maurice Couve de Murville, the French foreign minister, made plain that his country believed it was up to the United States to bring the Vietnamese conflict to an end.

U.S. diplomats were visibly annoyed over France's raising the Vietnam issue. Authoritative sources at the U.S. mission to the United Nations used the term "mere mischief" to describe the Frenchman's linking Vietnam and the Mideast.

No Public Reply

While Secretary of State Dean Rusk, currently heading the U.S. delegation to the assembly, had no public reply at this time, he recently made plain in Washington that he saw no connection between Vietnam and the Mideast situation.

And he ruled out trading off U.S. advantages in the Mideast for Communist concessions in Vietnam.

Latin American delegates were actively trying for a compromise between the Soviet resolution condemning Israel and the U.S. resolution asking direct Israeli-Arab negotiations.

There was some talk of an assembly recess after the end of the policy debate to allow a week or so for private negotiations.

Couve de Murville's speech followed the general outline of the statement by President Charles de Gaulle to his Cabinet in Paris Wednesday. But the foreign minister did not blame Israel for starting the war, as did his president.

No Chance Seen

Couve de Murville asserted: "So long as the war continues in Vietnam, there is no chance for peace in the Middle East."

He added that in the French view an end to the war would require "a courageous and fruitful decision by one great state," meaning the United States.

While France did not join the United States in opposing the Soviet request for convening the emergency assembly, the French foreign minister appeared skeptical of any solution stemming from the assembly debate.

He said that the assembly was not being asked to take decisions and in the Security Council to which it belongs."

He predicted that the crisis would return to the Security Council in the near future.

Couve de Murville also expressed pessimism over chances of direct talks between Israel and the Arabs.

NEWS IN BRIEF

SAIGON (AP) — A civilian cargo plane and a U.S. Air Force jet collided over the outskirts of Saigon Thursday night, killing all seven American crewmen aboard the cargo plane. The two-man crew of the Air Force jet, an RF4C Phantom used for reconnaissance, parachuted to safety. They suffered only minor injuries.

DAVENPORT (AP) — North Iowa Methodists adopted a statement on Iowa's right to work law, called for more Negro ministers and urged an end to housing discrimination during the final day of their annual meeting here Thursday.

DES MOINES (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee voted 23-8 Thursday to restore a cut of nearly $4 million the House made in Gov. Harold E. Hughes' recommended welfare appropriations. The governor had called for $33.9 million for various welfare programs, and the House reduced this to $29.9 million before passing the bill 91-13 on June 12.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, in an unexpected change of signals, postponed Thursday final action on an authorization of nearly $5 billion for the space agency.

Sorting Of Cards Delays Delivery Of DI To Homes

The Daily Iowan will begin delivery to off-campus residences Tuesday.

The length of time needed to make delivery route sheets is the reason for the delay in distribution, said T.E. Lyon, circulation manager and Ron Dunsmore, advertising director.

The Daily Iowan receives a computer card for each student registered. The 8,000 cards are sorted by hand into the 53 route areas.

The cards are fed into a computer which types out the route lists. The circulation manager then checks for duplicate addresses on the lists.

An orientation meeting for carriers is the next step in the distribution process. The carriers are given the lists to use in contacting the customer about where he would like the paper put and how many people reside at the home. The carrier also leaves a card with his name and phone number for use if the customer has any problems with delivery.

Costs Of Land, Labor Affect Southwest Park

By SUE BOUDINOT

Increasing costs of land and construction in Iowa City have special consequence for the Iowa City Park and Recreation Commission.

Ed Bailey, director of the commission, said Thursday increasing costs have affected the planning of Southwest Park, a small area near Leroy S. Mercer Park and now under construction by the commission.

In 1965, a general bond issue was passed totaling $650,000. Four hundred and fifty thousand dollars was allocated for general park construction in the Mercer Park area, and $200,000 was designated for a swimming pool and bath house at the same location.

Now there are not enough funds to proceed with plans for the park.

"It's not anyone's fault," Bailey said. "The park was included in the original land acquisition program but costs got out of hand," he explained.

Grant Requested

Bailey said the commission has applied for a federal grant of $79,000, which, if received, would finance the construction of the park. The commission will know within a few weeks whether they will receive federal assistance.

"The estimates for the general park area were made in 1965, and the total cost figure was not realistically drawn," Bailey said. Land costs, for example, are often more than expected due to the appraisal system used by the commission.

When the commission wishes to buy a piece of land, it must obtain an estimate of the value from two appraisers. The higher appraisal is used as a starting point for negotiations with the land owner.

"Therefore, the actual price paid for the land can be much higher than the original estimate, and such was the case of the Mercer park area," the director said.

Few Figures Available

Since the reorganization of the Park Commission in 1965, there have been few reliable figures on which to base yearly budgets.

"My goal now," Bailey said, "is to reorganize the park budget along realistic lines which will allow for capital improvement, equipment repair and replacement and land acquisition."

The proposed budget for 1968, subject to the approval of the Iowa City council, is $200,000.

"We feel morally obligated to do something with Southwest Park as soon as we can, and we will try conscientiously to follow the bond issue format, but we had a financial and time-lapse problem," Bailey said.

FCC OKs ABC-ITT Merger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission approved Thursday the biggest merger in broadcasting history, permitting International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. to take over American Broadcasting Companies, Inc.

FCC approval was by a 4-3 vote, the same lineup as when the commission approved the $2.8-billion merger the first time, last Dec. 21. The commission acted then after a limited hearing which the Justice Department contended did not take up possible antitrust aspects of the merger.

The FCC delayed the merger early this year to give the Justice Department an opportunity to present its case in opposition.

There was no immediate indication whether the department will appeal the FCC decision in the courts.

The merger requires FCC approval because the broadcasting network owns radio and television stations subject to FCC control.

In a 41-page opinion the FCC said the merger will aid ABC considerably by putting the wealth of ITT at the network's disposal.

"We have found that ABC will be significantly aided by having ITT's financial strength back of it, both in its competition with its network rivals and in its efforts to better serve the public interest through entertainment innovations, news and public affairs expansion," the commission said.

Leonard H. Goldenson, president of ABC, said consummation of the merger will enable the network to carry out extensive expansion plans, especially toward full-color production. He also listed the addition of more UHF television station affiliations and purchases.

Tax Rebuff Won't Hurt Image, Romney Says

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan Gov. George Romney, rebuffed in attempts to get an income tax through the Republican-dominated legislature, doesn't believe his national image will be tarnished if he fails to achieve tax reform.

Romney is regarded as a frontrunner among possible candidates for the GOP presidential nomination next year.

Although both houses of the legislature are Republican-controlled, Romney's fiscal reform proposals have failed so far to get a stamp of approval in the House. Not a single Democratic representative voted for the Romney program, and six Republicans voted against it.

Another facet (toothpaste) of our mass society really isn't so bad

One of the most amazing facets of our mass society is that of the mass promotional campaign. It's not unusual for an advertiser to spend more than $50,000 to buy a single minute of national television network time. A full-color advertisement in Look or Life magazine can run as high as $150,000.

But I looked with even more amazement recently at a news release reporting a colossal sampling program to promote a new toothpaste. Ultimately, more than 40,000,000 tubes of toothpaste will be distributed to American households. This amounts to more than 4,000 tons of toothpaste.

At the retail price to consumers, the company's product investment alone represents $26,000,000. Postage to get this toothpaste to 8 out of 10 homes in the country, of course, amounts to much additional money.

In addition, each tube of toothpaste has with it a coupon worth 10 cents on a future purchase of the product.

The results so far from the promotion have been good, according to the company. The firm's officials say that this promotional campaign is the largest of its kind ever undertaken. And they say that the response to it has been "fantastic."

What's the purpose for a company spending so much money to promote a new product? The firm involved here makes other toothpastes and, if its new product is a success, it stands to lose some sales of its other brands. The company has set a goal for its promotion. It is to garner a $30,000,000 to $35,000,000 share of the total annual dentifrice market with the new product in the first year.

Opponents of big business and mass advertising are quick to point out in situations like this that it is the consumer who eventually pays for all the "free" toothpaste and the rest of the promotion. This is true. And it is unfortunate that the consumer does so largely without having anything to say about it.

But there is another way to look at such a promotion. The irrational aspects of "selling" the consumer are largely ignored by a massive free distribution campaign. The product is allowed to sell itself.

Indeed the very fact that a company chooses to use this type of campaign to promote a new product indicates that there must be something good about the product. It must be better than other products on the market. It must be an advance in quality.

If the product is not better than the ones that the consumers have been using, there would be no reason for the consumer to change to the new product. The money spent on the promotion would be wasted entirely — when a well-planned promotion using emotional methods via the mass media is almost certain to have some success.

So the fact that the promotion is in this case massive and expensive to the consumer, as are all comparable promotions, there is evidence that the consumer might be getting something for his money.

If the consumer is getting a good buy, if he is learning about something that will make life more pleasant for him, the promotion is desirable. And another of the massive facets of our mass society is not really so bad after all.

'Major Dundee' makes you feel

By NICHOLAS MEYER

If you like westerns and appreciate good ones, you will enjoy a film called "Major Dundee." It is a bit over-long, and it has a tendency to skim over some of its more interesting subject matter, but on the whole, it is an absorbing and exciting movie, made with professional panache and some moments of genuine inspiration.

"Major Dundee" is a film about a lonely, misfit army officer of heroic proportions, a friendless, ruthless man who keeps reassuring himself of his aliveness by chasing things. He must forever keep searching for an elusive honor. Although he talks with wistfulness about the end of the civil war, and an end of fighting, one of the characters observes: "For you, Major, there will always be a war." One senses he realizes this is true; that in fact, he carries a little private war around with him wherever he goes.

For once Charlton Heston is perfect. He portrays the iron-willed man, unable to get at the source of his trouble, but choosing instead to externalize it (against all military sense and orders) in pursuing a tribe of marauding Apaches across the Rio Grande into French-held Mexico. Ostensibly he does this to rescue three children the Indians have kidnapped in a recent massacre, but as the children are recovered fairly early, the chase takes on something of Ahab's monomania for Moby Dick. Not only is the crossing of the U.S.-Mexican border strictly illegal (to say nothing of fighting and killing French soldiers who — quite rightfully — object to the presence of American cavalry invading their soil), but he shanghai's a crew of Confederate prisoners (his real job is guarding them — a punitive gesture we are given to understand, from his superiors for trying to win the battle of Gettysburg single-handed), into helping him on this madcap wild goose chase.

The film is episodic in nature, as Dundee overcomes one obstacle after another in his fanatic pursuit. Not the least of the difficulties is the Confederate officer he has chosen as his second in command (Richard Harris), who vows to kill him as soon as they have settled with the Indians. Harris may be a more disreputable character (he was thrown out of the Union army and served the South), but at least he knows exactly what he is and what he stands for — a triple man, he calls himself. Dundee's trouble is deeper, but the two men join forces in an uneasy alliance and the conflict between these two opposite natures is genuine for a change, instead of being inserted to keep things going.

Jim Hutton is amusing and believable as an artillery officer with no imagination, and Michael Anderson Jr. links the entire film together as the young bugler who keeps a diary which serves as narration. James Coburn is effective, but occasionally overacts in what is otherwise a nice character role.

The elements which make up "Major Dundee" have been done over and over again, and there is nothing especially new in the film. It could still be reduced to "cowboys and Indians," but it has been intelligently done, thanks to the script by Harry Julian Fink, Oscar Saul and Sam Penkinpah, who also directed in a brisk and efficient style. The action sequences are exceptional. The only thing which seems dragged in by the hair is Santa Berge, for a little love interest.

"Major Dundee" is an enjoyable and interesting film. Sometimes it even makes you think, which is all to the good, and it definitely makes you feel.

Playing with it is an entertaining and occasionally witty film called "Blindfold," which I reviewed last year when it was first here.

'Out, damned spot!'

The Soviets really helped Israel

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — There has been some confusion as to how much aid the Soviet Union gave the Arab nations during the recent unpleasantness in the Middle East. What nobody knows is that the Soviets' real intention was to help Israel. But they had to do it in such a way that neither the Arab countries nor the West would find out about it.

It seems the Soviet Union has been trying to increase its arms business to compete with the United States and Great Britain. One of the most likely prospects was Israel, who was finding it hard to get military equipment from the West. The Soviets said they would give Israel everything she wanted, but it would have to be done in such a way that it wouldn't anger the Arab countries or even some Communist-leaning states.

Israel said she was interested, but didn't want to do anything to anger the United States, Great Britain and France.

Encouraged by what could turn out to be a very good customer, the Soviet Union proceeded to devise a way of getting Russian arms into the hands of the well-equipped Israeli army. The big question was, "How?"

Then someone in the Politburo (the Soviets refuse to say who) got a brilliant idea. He told the Israeli diplomats, "We naturally cannot sell you the weapons directly, but why don't we give them to the United Arab Republic and then you can get our weapons from them?"

The Israelis pointed out that the United Arab Republic might be reluctant to give the Israelis any of their Soviet weapons. The Soviets told them not to worry about it. "Just give us a list of what you need," they said.

The Israelis, trusting implicitly in the good faith of the Soviet Union, handed in a list including tanks, guns, armored cars, jeeps, small arms and, surprisingly enough, six or seven Soviet ground-to-air missiles.

A year later the Soviets told the Israelis that their order was ready and would be delivered in a month.

The Israelis were puzzled, but decided to wait and see what would happen. Sure enough, in May, Gamal Abdel Nasser closed the Gulf of Aqaba and moved seven divisions of his troops and armor into the Sinai desert.

At the same time the Soviet Union accused Israel of being an "aggressor," which was the code name for "customer."

On June 5 the Israelis went to collect their equipment in the Sinai desert, where it was conveniently left by Egyptian troops, many of whom didn't even wait to be tipped for delivering it. The tanks, personnel carriers, guns and even missiles were brand new. A few were damaged in transit, but by and large the Russians had made everything available as ordered.

Some Soviet items accidentally left off the list were delivered to the Israelis, via Syria, a few days later.

All in all it was quite a coup for the Soviet Union. In one of the great business deals of our time, the Soviets managed to collect twice for the same equipment, first from the Arabs and then from the Israelis.

As a follow-up it has been reported that the Soviets are sending in new arms and equipment to the United Arab Republic. What nobody knows is that all they're doing is filling another Israeli order for equipment. One Soviet diplomat told me, "By supplying the Arabs with arms, Israel has turned out to be the best customer we've got."

Reader applauds welfare editorial, makes prediction

To the Editor:

I would like to take this moment to applaud the courageous and informative editorial on welfare budget cuts, written by The Daily Iowan news editor, Gordon Young.

For not only in Iowa — but across the nation — we have recently witnessed concerted efforts by elected state and national political charlatans and unprincipled politicians (parading as "responsible conservatives") to eliminate or seriously hamper implementation of necessary social legislation aimed at eradicating or combating some of our crippling urban problems.

This irresponsible congressional maneuvering by both "special-interests" Republicans and deadwood Dixiecrats has had a particularly damaging effect on the (so-called) Negro ghettos.

Thus, as a resident of one of these "economically depressed" black communities I can predict with certainty — yet deepest sorrow — that the "long, hot summer" will extend well into fall.

And as "non-involved" citizens, each of us can be held responsible for the chaos and anarchy that results.

Thank you, Mr. Young.

TV commercials geared to dogs are coming

RADNOR, Pa. — Television commercials created to appeal to dogs may soon be part of the American television scene, TV Guide magazine reported recently.

The magazine said that Ira Kamen, a New York communications engineer, had created a unit "which synthesizes and electronically reproduces the essential tones and harmonics of a dog whistle. A couple of blasts on this hi-Fido at the beginning of a commercial can start a sizeable percentage of the pooch population yapping and jumping from Coast to Coast."

Kamen, a co-designer of the Distant Early Warning system (DEWline) to alert North America against air attack, originally conceived the idea as a joke on his dog. When word of his invention became known, Kamen found several advertising agencies and public relations firms interested in it.

The inventor conducted tests with 32 dogs of various ages and breeds and from families of varied incomes. His demographic study of dogs showed that most responded to the unique sound.

"But beware of the wealthy pet who comes in a chauffeur-driven Cadillac wearing a diamond collar," Kamen said. "You get this certain type of dog who considers himself so elite that he'll never condescend to pay attention to anything. This is the spoiled dog, the one who has to have a sitter when his master and mistress go out. This type of dog simply won't react at all," he continued.

Knowledge Of People Seen As Low-Rent Housing Key

The key to a successful low-rent housing development is knowing the attitudes of the people to be served, according to Mable I. Edwards, University research associate for the Institute of Gerontology.

Miss Edwards spoke during the regular meeting of the Iowa City Low Rent Housing Agency Thursday afternoon.

"You must survey the people who are potential residents of such housing," she told agency members.

"The program will fail if this group does not get what it wants."

Need Housing For Elderly

Miss Edwards presented age projection statistics for Johnson County, and explained that the figures gave an idea of the need for low rent housing for elderly persons in Johnson County.

She also cited various examples of low rent housing developments in other communities.

"Lancaster, Pa., is a good example of a successful program," she said, "and it is much like Iowa City. Its population is about 63,000 and it has a college."

This city solicited aid from the Housing and Urban Development Commission (HUD) and created a local Low Rent Housing and Development Commission, Miss Edwards explained.

"One of the keys to winning public approval," she said, "was a three-day open forum entitled 'Lancaster Looks Ahead.'"

According to the research associate, this forum educated Lancaster citizens and rallied their support.

Federal Aid Not Only Answer

Miss Edwards emphasized that federal aid was not the only answer to a low-rent project.

"About 50 per cent of such developments are church sponsored," she said. "Aid also can come from sources like labor unions and charitable groups."

She said, however, that the greatest source of support in Iowa City was interested and responsible businessmen.

The gerontologist also explained some major problems of a low-rent project. The location or building site is a great hurdle, she said.

"Property costs can become quite high the closer land is to a business district."

Other problems, she said, include planning and zoning ordinances, physical design and administration.

"The greatest problem," she said, "is the need for effective communication."

"Let the public know what you are doing, establish good relations with the press and know what the public is thinking."

University Groups Travel To Europe

Sixty-two persons left New York City within the last week on two group flights to Europe sponsored by Travel Unlimited, a service of the Union.

All of the travelers are University students, faculty or staff members or members of their immediate families. Of the 52 students in the two groups, 13 were awarded degrees at the University's June 9 Commencement.

Among the travelers are seven married couples, including the parents of a University student graduated in June. Several of the group will visit relatives in European countries. Others will study at European universities, and a few will hold summer jobs abroad.

The first group flight left New York City for Paris June 15 and will return from Paris Aug. 17, while the second group flew to Paris Monday and will return Sept. 7.

The flights were sponsored by Travel Unlimited to encourage travel and study abroad by University students and staff. Meacham Travel Service of Iowa City handled financial arrangements.

In addition to the round trip to Paris, the group flights include optional air transportation to London and Amsterdam. Those in the groups have made their own arrangements for other travel on the continent.

President Pleased With Grandson

AUSTIN (AP) — President Johnson was reported Thursday to be so pleased that daughter Luci provided him with a grandson that he is willing to start him off as a rancher.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson gave out that word in a parking lot interview outside Seton Hospital where Luci Johnson Nugent gave birth Wednesday to the first family's first grandchild, described as having "a lusty cry like any healthy baby."

Patrick Lyndon Nugent was said to have lost five ounces of his birth weight of eight pounds ten ounces, as the doctors say often happens. Luci was reported to have given him his first bottle of a solution of sugar and water. The 19-year-old mother was also reported to have walked around her hospital room.

Asked who the baby is said to look like, Mrs. Johnson said, "Not a soul has said he looks like Lyndon." She suggested the baby looks more like his father, Patrick J. Nugent, because "what little hair he has is blond fuzz."

DI Carrier Gets Award For Service

A $25 U.S. Savings Bond was awarded Arnold Moore, son of Mrs. Virginia Moore, Coralville, for being "Daily Iowan Carrier of the Semester."

Arnold was chosen from among five boys who had been "Carriers of the Month" during the last semester. The major basis for this title is to have no complaints from people on delivery routes for the longest time, according to T. E. Lyon, The Daily Iowan circulation manager.

The bond was presented at the end of an afternoon of horseback riding, swimming and playing baseball Thursday at Macbride State Park. Thirty-four carriers attended.

A lost shoe on a sliding saddle highlighted an hour horseback ride starting from Sugarbottom Stables. It was the first time on a horse for seven of the carriers.

Then the paper boys — seven of whom are girls — went to Lake Macbride where they swam, played ball and had a picnic dinner.

Magic, Judo To Highlight Family Night

A magic show and a judo exhibition will highlight Family Night activities at the Union tonight.

Bill Alley, A4, Iowa City, will present his magic show at 7 p.m. in the Ballroom. Alley is a recreation major at the University, and he has in part put himself through school by his amateur magic acts.

Members of the Muscatine Judo Club, directed by Harrison Terry, will demonstrate various judo tactics at 8 p.m. This club, which was organized three years ago, tours the state trying to start new judo clubs.

Family Night activities will also include a movie, "When Comedy Was King." Tickets, which cost 25 cents, may be purchased at the door of the Union Illinois Room for the 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. showings of the film.

Such programs were planned to involve the whole family in Union activities and use of Union facilities, said Dave Bartlett, Union program adviser.

Turner Says Hughes Tied On Safety Act

DES MOINES (AP) — It would be unconstitutional to give the governor free rein to implement in Iowa the federal Highway Safety Act of 1966, Atty. Gen. Richard Turner said Thursday.

Bills have been introduced in both houses of the legislature which would authorize the governor to accept federal funds and do all things necessary "to secure the full benefits available to this state" under the federal act.

In an opinion requested by Rep. Edgar Holden (R-Davenport) Turner held neither the bills introduced in the legislature nor the federal act itself contained sufficient guidelines to make the bills constitutional.

He said the legislature could adopt by reference certain federal statutes and rules as part of the state law.

But in this case, the opinion said, the federal secretary of transportation has not as yet reported to Congress the standards to be applied in carrying out the federal act.

Turner said the provision that the governor may contract and to all other things necessary to secure benefits available to Iowa under the federal act would be an unconstitutional delegation of legislative power.

Scarf To Attend Defense Parley

The University Graduate College's associate dean and his wife have been invited by the British Foreign Office to attend an international conference on "Economic and Political Aspects of Western Defense" at Wilton Park, England, July 16-29.

Alvin H. Scarf, who spent some time in Africa working for United Nations agencies before joining the University administration, said the conference would comprise off-the-record discussions with British officials and others.

His wife, Marilee, is a counselor at University High School and is spending the early summer at Cambridge University doing research on British adolescents and secondary education.

The musical play, to be performed Nov. 7 to 12, will be directed by Jay Melrose, associate professor of speech pathology at the University. Parts are available for singers, dancers and actors of all ages.

3 Youths Nabbed After Chase

An alert citizen, fast police work and an 18-mile chase led to the arrest of three youths charged with breaking and entering Bud's DX service station, at North Dodge and East Church streets.

The youths were also charged with stealing two cars.

Iowa City police said the youths broke a pane of glass on one of the overhead garage doors and one of them entered the station.

As Patrolman Kenneth Brown approached the scene in a patrol car, the three youths fled in a red and white 1956 Chevrolet, which they abandoned on the corner of Van Buren Street and Fairchild Street.

The youths were later reported by Coralville Patrolman Edward Sider, going north in a 1959 blue Chevrolet on Highway 218.

The youths were pursued and captured on Highway 218, near the airport road, by a force of Iowa City, Coralville and Cedar Rapids policemen.

FELIPE ALOU, Atlanta Braves left fielder, makes a head long dive into third base as the Giants' Jim Ray Hart dives for the ball. Alou stole the base in the fourth inning of the second game at Candlestick Park Thursday. The Braves swept a doubleheader from San Francisco 2-1 and 6-4.

Atlanta Pro Tops Golfers At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—Rangy Wayne Yates, an unheralded pro from Atlanta, shot a solid four-under-par 66 Thursday to hold the first-round lead in the Cleveland Open Golf Tournament.

The 25-year-old Yates, just into his second year as a tour regular, held a one-stroke advantage over Arnold Palmer, veteran Dan Sikes and youthful Dick Lotz.

Veteran Dow Finsterwald, the former Athens, Ohio, player who won the PGA in 1958, made the best run at the leader. He was four-under going into the final two holes on the 6,611-yard layout where par is 70 but suffered bogeys on both holes and closed with a 68.

Palmer, the millionaire golfer who finished second last week in the U.S. Open, played methodically with 15 pars and three birds.

Bracketed at 68 along with Finsterwald were Bob Stanton, Lionel Hebert, Raymond Floyd, Gordon Dickinson, Bob Charles and Ken Venturi.

Newly crowned U.S. open king Jack Nicklaus shot 72.

Reserve Role Tough For Cardinal Veteran

LOS ANGELES (AP)—After 11 years in the majors, Ed Bressoud, the quiet man on the St. Louis Cardinals, sits on the bench and waits for a chance to play.

Bressoud, ex-New York and San Francisco Giant, Houston Astro, Boston Red Sox and New York Met, has one of the hardest jobs in baseball. He must help his team win a pennant as a part-time player.

"I have no illusions about my job," Bressoud said Thursday while waiting for his turn in the batting cage before the regulars hit. "I have to pick up when somebody gets tired or injured. Or pinch-hit in a key situation."

"You have to face the truth. That's why I'm here."

Bressoud came to the Cardinals from the Mets along with a minor leaguer for Jerry Buchek in a trade last spring.

"But I'd be lying if I said I didn't want to be playing regularly," he said as he watched the other reserves bat. "If you can sit on the bench and you don't want more, then you have no ambition."

He first came up to the majors for part of the 1956 season with the Giants. But he had his best years with the Red Sox. He had 20 home runs in 1963. In 1964 he hit .293 with 15 home runs.

Frazier, Bradley Promise To Make Knicks Better Yet

NEW YORK (AP)—"We've got the best player in college ball last year," said Coach Dick McGuire happily Thursday when Walt Frazier of Southern Illinois signed to play with the New York Knicks of the National Basketball Association.

"Frazier and Bill Bradley will keep the front guys happy," said McGuire. "They'll hit the free man."

McGuire is a man of very few words. To say as many as he did about Frazier indicates how highly he regards the Little All-American and spark of the national small-college champion Salukis.

Frazier came to Madison Square Garden for the signing ceremony. While General Manager Ed Donovan did not disclose contract terms, it was believed the 22-year-old, 6-foot-4 guard signed a three-year pact calling for a total of about $90,000.

Bradley, a Princeton All-American and Rhodes Scholar, was signed recently by the Knicks for an estimated $500,000 for four years.

For years the Knicks have been looking for a take-charge guy. Now they appear to have two in the 6-foot-5 Bradley and Frazier. The Knicks got a good look at Frazier last March when he led the Salukis to the NIT title and was named the Most Valuable Player.

Frazier said he was offered more money by the Denver team in the rival American Basketball Association. "But I picked the Knicks because of the stability of the NBA, because they have better players and because I want to play in New York," said Frazier.

He has another year of college eligibility but was available for the draft because his class has graduated.

He said he might have played another year of college ball but was afraid that if he did that he wouldn't have been able to play for New York. Under NBA rules, if he had played another year with Southern Illinois he would have been put back into the draft pool next year.

With Frazier and Bradley set for the backcourt, McGuire said Cazzie Russell, the former Michigan All-American, and Dick Van Arsdale, probably will work full time as forwards.

Schedule Full, No AFL Play For Packers

NEW YORK (AP)—Green Bay will pass up American Football League competition in the 16-game pre-season schedule announced Thursday by the two pro leagues but the Kansas City Chiefs, the Packers' beaten foes in the Super Bowl, will play two National Football League teams before the season opens.

Coach Hank Stram's Chiefs, the defending AFL champions, will play the Chicago Bears at home Aug. 23 and invade Los Angeles to play the Rams Sept. 1.

Green Bay, New York, Cleveland and St. Louis were unable to fit AFL teams into their pre-season schedules this year but each AFL team will play at least one NFL rival.

Under the terms of the merger agreement, each AFL team was guaranteed at least one pre-season game with an NFL rival in 1967. They expect to play regular season games in 1970.

San Francisco and Oakland, two bitter rivals in the days of feuding between the leagues, will play Sept. 3 at Oakland.

One of the highlights of the NFL's record 51-game pre-season schedule will be a Green Bay-Dallas rematch in the Cotton Bowl, Aug. 28. It will be the only meeting of the 1966 title opponents unless they meet in the 1967 playoffs. The Packers will play the College All-Stars at Chicago, Aug. 4.

'66ERS BUSY—
Iowa City's '66ers play four baseball games this weekend in the newly formed Hawkeye College League.

The team travels to Davenport for a game tonight, then faces Muscatine here Saturday. Saturday's game will start at 6:30 p.m. The '66ers return to Davenport for two games Sunday.

Atlanta Whips Giants Twice

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Hank Aaron's two-run homer in the eighth inning of the nightcap and run-scoring double in the opener helped Atlanta to a doubleheader sweep over San Francisco Thursday, the Braves winning 2-1 and 6-4.

With the score tied 4-4 in the second game, Aaron hit his 18th homer of the season, scoring behind Tito Francona, who had forced Felipe Alou on base with a walk. Frank Linzy, 3-4, was the victim in relief while Brave reliever Claude Raymond, 2-5, took the victory.

The Giants had tied the game in the eighth inning on Ollie Brown's run-scoring double, his second run batted in of the game. Then after Jack Hiatt walked, Willie Mays pinch hit and grounded into a double play.
