Biopsy May Get Unkindest Cut

By BARBARA ANNIS

Officials of the College of Medicine are seeking legal advice on how to stop further publication of Biopsy, a magazine published anonymously by members of the medical school senior class.

"In general, the faculty is disgusted with this magazine and many of the students are also," said Dr. Daniel B. Stone, associate dean of medicine. State Senator Joseph Flatt (R-Winter) recently wrote a letter to Dr. Robert C. Hardin, dean of the College of Medicine, asking him to use his influence to have publication of Biopsy stopped.

"Biopsy has the same stature as any anonymous publication: none," said Hardin. "I am rather puzzled by it — it's a strange reaction for students to have."

"Sen. Flatt said that Dean Hardin should do something about Biopsy," one medical student said. "Well, Dean Hardin would probably love to do something about Biopsy, but what can he do? He doesn't even know who writes it or publishes it."

Another medical student said that the magazine would probably not be published any more if Hardin asked that publication be stopped, but the dean probably wouldn't ask unless a lot of pressure was put on him from higher officials.

Most of the controversy has been caused because the magazine was sold to the general public, according to one medical student.

"Nobody Understands"

"Nobody outside the College of Medicine really understands what Biopsy is about," the student said. "Most of the medical students agree that it shouldn't be sold on the campus. The magazine has a worthwhile purpose as long as it is contained within the medical school, but only those concerned should have access to it."

The main purpose of Biopsy is supposed to be to express constructive criticism of the College of Medicine instructors and courses, according to one medical student.

Another med student said that the money from the sale of Biopsy was used to help pay for the senior class banquet. "It's sort of a going away present from the senior class," he said.

The magazine has been published for many years, but many med students felt that the magazine had gone overboard this year.

"This year it was the worst it's ever been," said one medical student. "It was not pornographic last year, or at least it wasn't nearly as bad."

Another medical student couldn't see what all the fuss was about. "Biopsy is just like most dirty jokes — everybody gets a kick out of them, but they always say they're terrible afterwards. It's not so bad when you're used to that kind of stuff."

Many medical students said they were against the magazine because they thought it gave the medical college a bad name. One student emphasized that the magazine did not represent either the College of Medicine or the senior class.

"Only a few individuals are responsible for the magazine," he said.

Improvement Sought

A doctor on the medical staff said he thought most doctors were not in favor of having the magazine suppressed, but that they would like to see it improved in quality.

"I think it's all right for students to express their ideas, but they could do it in a cleaner way," he said.

Another medical student explained that any student in the College of Medicine could submit articles. A few editors organized Biopsy, but it was mostly the work of senior students.

"Probably most of the doctors just ignore it or only thumb through it," one medical student said.

Many medical students thought the only way the magazine could be suppressed legally was through charges of libel or pornography, because it was not backed by any particular group.

Freeman Surveys Poverty Program In Southern Iowa

OTTUMWA — Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman said Monday he was impressed with efforts of 10 south-central Iowa counties to improve rural living standards.

Freeman made the assessment as he left Ottumwa after a rapid seven-hour tour with more than two dozen other Washington officials and newsmen.

The regional association, known as TENCO, has made a good start battling rural poverty, said the secretary, but the job is far from done.

Asked if he felt efforts of the various federal, state and local agencies have really helped raise living standards in the area, Freeman replied:

"There's no question about it after what we've seen today. We need now to get a long-term plan, looking at all resources, to come up with a common program for a long period covering all the aspects — health, education, agriculture, industry and all the rest."

Freeman stopped short, however, of recommending that any single agency take over the entire rural anti-poverty program.

The secretary kept his hosts and companions hopping all day by firing a barrage of questions about various government programs, how they are working, what good they are doing and where they can be improved.

His visit opened in the airport terminal building here with several officials briefing Freeman and his party about TENCO — a group formed in 1961 to improve the economy of Appanoose, Davis, Keokuk, Lucas, Mahaska, Marion, Monroe, Van Buren, Wapello and Wayne counties.

The group visited the Area 15 vocational-technical school at the airport and ate lunch in the school's cafeteria before leaving in two air conditioned buses for a tour of the countryside.

Freeman said after a meeting in Centerville that he was "very impressed" with the story told by Wilson Ervin, Centerville banker, about how the community has snapped back in the last few years from a severe economic slump.

Home Delivery Of DI Resumed

It's nice to be back, world. If you found this newspaper outside your door this morning, you already know The Daily Iowan resumed delivery to off-campus residences today.

The delay in delivery was due to the time needed to make delivery route sheets for the summer session, according to T. E. Lyon, Daily Iowan circulation manager.

The Daily Iowan received a computer card for each student registered. After the 8,000 cards were sorted by hand into the 53 route areas, a computer typed out the route lists.

Kosygin, Castro To Confer; Visit Surprise To Cuba

HAVANA — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin flew to Cuba Monday for talks with Prime Minister Fidel Castro on problems of the Western Hemisphere's only Communist nation.

Castro was at the airport, but there was no crowd or fanfare as Kosygin arrived from a nine-day visit to the United States where he championed the Arab cause at the United Nations and met twice with President Johnson in summit sessions at Glassboro, N.J.

The visit to Cuba is the first for a Soviet premier and it was a surprise for most Cubans. There had been no announcement of his coming.

After posing for photographs, Castro and Kosygin got into a black sedan and drove off.

Other Officials

Among officials welcoming Kosygin were Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos, Foreign Minister Raul Roa and members of the Central Committee of the Cuban Communist party. Communist bloc diplomats were also on hand.

Cuban officials declined to say how long Kosygin would remain.

Foreign Ministry officials said they had no information on where Kosygin and Castro would confer or what they would talk about. It seemed probable that differences of opinion on Vietnam and the Mideast would be among the topics.

Castro's government has criticized Soviet handling of the Mideastern crisis.

Historic U.S. Visit

The Soviet premier blazed a new diplomatic trail for himself in the aftermath of his historic nine-day visit to the United States, during which he met twice with President Johnson.

"Everything we have done here was in the name of peace," Kosygin declared just before his white Ilyushin turboprop airliner soared out of Kennedy Airport and headed south.

In visiting Havana, Kosygin became the first Soviet premier ever to set foot in the homeland of Prime Minister Fidel Castro. The highest ranking Russian to visit the island previously was Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, who went to Cuba in 1962.

LBJ Briefs Leaders

President Johnson, meanwhile, briefed congressional leaders of both parties on his summit meeting with Kosygin.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana told reporters that a suggestion was made by Johnson that it would be a good idea if they had other meetings but a reply was not forthcoming from Kosygin.

Parsons Ousts President, Seeks Court Injunction

CHICAGO — Officials of Parsons College announced Monday that Millard G. Roberts has been removed as president and that a federal court order will be sought to regain accreditation by the North Central Association of Colleges.

The Executive Committee of the college's Board of Trustees unanimously elected William B. Munson as acting president pending selection of a permanent president. Munson is vice president of academic affairs.

William H. Miller, a trustee and member of the Executive Committee, announced the action after a day-long meeting of the committee in Chicago.

The committee met after the North Central Association on Saturday denied Parsons' appeal from the association's April 6 revocation of the Fairfield, Iowa, school's accreditation.

Court Order Asked

"The committee expresses sincere hope that by this action a federal court staying order would be helpful in giving the new administration time to reestablish its relationship with the North Central Association," the executive committee said in a statement.

The North Central Association refused to disclose the reason for its April 6 action, but Parsons officials said it was based on allegations of financial mismanagement, poor building maintenance, limited curriculum and overcrowded classes.

Inaccuracy Seen

The Parsons appeal contended association examiners were inaccurate and biased, and that their report "was predicated on hearsay, . . . improperly interpreted financial data . . . and erroneous conclusions."

The committee said the Federal Court in Chicago would be asked to stay the action of the association in removing Parsons College from the accredited rolls of the Association.

Roberts, who was not available for comment, was also removed as a trustee.

Parsons was established 90 years ago. In the last decade, the college has increased its enrollment from some 200 to 5,000 students. Plagued with debt in 1955, Parsons now has one of the highest paid faculties in the United States.

Stanley To Seek GOP Nomination For U.S. Senate

DES MOINES — State Sen. David M. Stanley (R-Muscatine) announced Monday that he will run for U.S. senator in 1968.

"This decision is firm and final," Stanley told a news conference. "It will not be changed by any decision of any possible candidate in either party."

The Senate seat is now held by Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, also a Republican, who has not announced whether he will seek re-election. Hickenlooper will be 72 in 1968. Stanley will be 40.

"A senator should be a man of action, not merely words. He must help eliminate the stench of corruption that hangs over Washington. He should keep in touch with the people of Iowa and be in Iowa most of the time when the Senate is not in session," Stanley said. "The fence-sitting double-talking politician is dying out because the voters will no longer tolerate him, and I say good riddance."

"I deliberately make this announcement earlier than any other Iowa candidate in the last 20 years. We will work longer, meet more citizens directly, organize more intensively and enlist more volunteer workers than in any previous Iowa campaign."

After serving three terms in the Iowa House of Representatives, Stanley was elected to the Iowa Senate in 1964, scoring a 60 per cent majority in the face of the 1964 Democrat landslide.

Born in Dubuque, he has lived in Muscatine since 1932. He ranked first among 1953 graduates of the University of Iowa College of Law. He was in the Air Force in 1954-56, and claims to have been active politically since campaigning for the 1940 Republican ticket at age 12.

Hussein Asserts Peace Hinges On Withdrawal

UNITED NATIONS — King Hussein of Jordan, his country reeling under the impact of Israel's military blitz, said Monday that only a return of Arab territory will keep the Mideast from being engulfed in hostilities for years to come.

The handsome monarch, 32, addressed the emergency session of the 122-nation General Assembly. Earlier he had heard Albania denounce Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin as a traitor to the Arab people.

Albania is regarded as the voice of non-member Red China in the U.N. and Peking accuses Moscow of letting the Arabs down in the Mideastern crisis.

Nesti Nase, the Albanian foreign minister, accused Kosygin of hatching a plot with President Johnson aimed at world domination.

"Plot" Denounced

"Down with the Kosygin-Johnson plot," cried Nase, who spoke as Kosygin left New York for Havana at the end of a nine-day visit that included a two-session summit meeting with Johnson at Glassboro, N.J.

Hussein delivered an emotional appeal for condemnation of Israel by the United Nations and a demand for return of land seized in Jordan, Syria and Egypt.

He was given an almost solid minute of thunderous applause by Communist, Arab and many Asian-African delegates. The United States, Britain and Israel did not applaud.

Speaking in English the king conceded his army was no match for Israel's armed forces. Hussein got his military training at Sandhurst, the British equivalent of West Point.

Attacks Compared

He declared the Israeli attack on the Arab states could be compared with the sneak attack by the Japanese on Pearl Harbor.

"That Jordan was unable to cope with it is a fact that I will regret all of my life," he said.

Speaking in reply of Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban declared it was Jordan which struck the first blow and converted the old city of Jerusalem into a battlefield.

"Jordan had squandered an opportunity for peace," he said. "It gambled with destiny and incurred the full responsibility of unprovoked war. The tragic sequel is well known."

Aide To Garrison

NEW ORLEANS — Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's chief investigator quit Garrison's controversial Kennedy assassination probe Monday after being barred from his boss's office.

William H. Gurvich told newsmen he thought Garrison should drop a murder conspiracy charge against Clay L. Shaw, the only person arrested to date in the nine-month-old investigation into President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

Garrison said in a statement that Gurvich had never been his chief investigator and "has had no connection whatsoever with the staff for at least six weeks. I do not see how he can 'resign' when he has ceased to be a part of the investigation for so long."

NBC Documentary

He accused Gurvich of meeting with representatives of the National Broadcasting Co. while still working on the case. NBC last week produce a documentary on the probe that was critical of Garrison's tactics.

On his arrival at the district attorney's office, Gurvich told newsmen he intended to urge Garrison to re-evaluate the investigation. Over the weekend, Gurvich had said in New York he had grave misgivings about the inquiry.

On seeking to pass the guard rail leading directly to Garrison's office, Gurvich was blocked by Louis W. Ivon, an investigator in the district attorney's office.

No Admittance

"Have I been fired?" asked Gurvich. "I don't know anything about that," Ivon replied.

"May I come in?" demanded Gurvich. "No, you can't," Ivon responded. "The boss wanted you to wait outside."

At that point, James Aleock, an assistant district attorney, appeared and conducted Gurvich to a back office. Fifteen minutes later, Gurvich re-appeared and announced he was through waiting to see Garrison.

"I don't wait for anyone longer than a half hour," he said.

Later Garrison released a lengthy statement in which he said Gurvich's actions represented "the latest move from the eastern headquarters of the establishment to attempt to discredit our investigation. . . ."

North Viet Guns Hit Marine Posts Just Below DMZ

See Related Story Page 5.

SAIGON — North Vietnamese gunners unlimbered a series of rocket, mortar and artillery attacks Monday night and today against three forward U.S. bases just below the demilitarized zone.

U.S. military spokesmen reported five American Marines and one Vietnamese militiaman were killed and 100 Marines were wounded in the string of barrages in the northern end of the country.

U.S. headquarters in Saigon said the Communists inflicted the heaviest casualties in a mortar barrage early today on a forward Marine position five miles northwest of Khe Sanh near the Laotian border.

In this barrage, four Marines were killed and 83 more were wounded, headquarters said. One Vietnamese civilian irregular militiaman also was killed in this attack.

Reports from the field had placed this heavy mortar attack at the nearby U.S. Army Special Forces camp at Lang Vei. But the U.S. Command said later the Marine forward position bore the brunt of the attack and that the Special Forces camp received only four rounds of enemy fire close to its defensive perimeter.

The U.S. Command said there were no casualties or any damage to the Special Forces camp.

In a simultaneous attack early today, the Communists shelled a U.S. Marine artillery base and airstrip also in the northwest corner of the Laos frontier. U.S. spokesmen said one Marine was killed and nine were wounded.

U.S. spokesmen also reported that the forward U.S. artillery outpost at Gio Linh was shelled by two Communist artillery barrages Monday and that eight U.S. Marines were wounded. The outpost is about a mile south of the demilitarized zone.

House Cuts Student Funds

DES MOINES — While legislative leaders were hassling over money matters, the Iowa House got into a scrap of its own Monday over state scholarships for college students.

It refused to accept a Senate-passed bill to provide $500,000 to continue through the next biennium a scholarship program started by the 1965 legislature.

Instead, the House passed 90-8 a bill of its own limiting the appropriation to $250,000 for the next two years and restricting the scholarship grants to freshmen. The bill now goes to the Senate.

News In Brief

OAKLAND — A weary James Meredith trudged to the northern fringe of this tiny Mississippi town before dusk Monday with the announcement he plans a series of political meetings along the highway march route.

AUSTIN — President Johnson's grandson, blue-eyed, round-faced Patrick Lyndon Nugent, went home from the hospital Monday with his parents, who said they hope he will grow up in a peaceful world. See Photo, Page 6.

Another measure, to appropriate $1 million a year for student loans in the next biennium, sailed through 108-0 as the Senate passed it. The bill now goes to the governor.

The action took place as both Democratic and Republican leaders of the House were in a closed-door conference with Gov. Harold E. Hughes trying to work out some kind of revenue and property tax relief package acceptable to all.

Rep. James Klein (R-Lake Mills) tried to substitute the Senate's scholarship bill for the House measure.

When Is 2-Piece Suit Not A Bikini?

By THOMAS RAFTERY

A bikini is a two-piece bathing suit. A two-piece bathing suit is not necessarily a bikini.

A two-piece bathing suit is acceptable at City Park pool.

A bikini is not. The ban on bikini bathing suits in the City Park pool reflects community standards, Robert Lee, superintendent of the city Recreation Department said Monday.

The rule on bathing suits at Seville Apartments, 800 W. Benton, Dan Wahl, resident manager said, is "just wear one."

At the Women's Gymnasium, there is no choice. Everyone is issued a one-piece "tank" suit. However, individual tastes are permitted in bathing caps. Swimmers supply their own.

At the Field House swimming pool, there is a ban on girls, however attired, except during recreation periods.

Lee said the ban on bikinis, which is a recreation department rule, has been in effect at the City Park pool for the 16 years he has worked for the department.

Lee said that bikinis were hard to define. "While the bikini is a two-piece suit, not all two-piece bathing suits are banned. Hip huggers are not banned."

What is banned, he said, is a bathing suit that overexposes. "It is up to the pool manager to decide when a bathing suit exposes too much," he said.

Lee said he did not know whether bikinis will ever be acceptable at the City Park pool. "This depends on what is acceptable to the community."

At the City Park pool, Garl McLaughlin, pool manager, said that any person wearing a swimming suit that he judged to be too brief, whether it was worn by man or a woman, would not be allowed in the pool.

McLaughlin, who has been pool manager for six years, said that a few years ago he might have banned hip hugger bathing suits, although they were now acceptable.

He said that in six years he has asked two people to leave the pool because of swimming suits he judged to be too brief.

FACED WITH A DECISION, Garl McLaughlin, 29, Iowa City Municipal Pool employee had to decide Monday whether or not the swimming suit worn by Daily Iowan reporter Jan Teague, and

A2, Olewin, was against the rules. After some quick thinking he decided to call a bikini "anything that ties on the sides" and let her go for a swim. — Photo by Jon Jacobson

Kosygin-Johnson talks were significant, worthwhile, but who had hard line?

It's hard to find any concrete results from Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin's meetings with President Johnson. The positions of the two nations on the major issues of Vietnam and the Mideast are still essentially the same.

Yet it wouldn't be fair to say that nothing was accomplished during the meetings. The two world leaders apparently found the talks worthwhile because they weren't satisfied with just the first session on Friday. Also both sessions lasted a substantial period of time.

In addition, and probably more important, the American people, via the live television coverage of the meetings, saw Premier Kosygin as a friendly man, sincere in his statements about world peace.

And Premier Kosygin saw the American people at Glassboro and at Niagara Falls on Saturday as very friendly to him and the nation he represents. The cheers that greeted him could not help but to have impressed him.

Although such intangible gains are not as important as an agreement between the two countries on Vietnam or the Mideast would have been, they are significant and worthwhile.

The experts tell us that Premier Kosygin presented a "hard line" approach at his news conference Sunday evening. He talked as he had been talking about Vietnam and the Mideast before meeting the President. In other words, he changed his positions on the issues the same as President Johnson did — not at all. Why wasn't President Johnson's approach called "hard line," too?

Sergeant Pepper raises a smile

By JOHN HARMON
Asst. Sports Editor

Like them or not, the mustachioed Beatles' Lonely Hearts Club Band has made its appearance in the windows of record shops throughout America.

Sergeant Pepper, as promised by group leader John Lennon was to be full of "aleatory," or chance music. But it seems the only chance the group took was whether anyone would know who Benny Shears, Sergeant Pepper or the Hendersons of "For the Benefit of Mr. Kite" were.

Cuts off the "Revolver" album such as "Tomorrow Never Knows," and "She Said, She Said," or perhaps "Strawberry Fields" seem much more "aleatory" than anything on the moody, but highly listenable Sergeant Pepper record.

Before delving into the disc, however, the listener can get an idea of the Beatles' new sound from the album's jacket — a conglomeration of Mae West, Fatty Arbuckle, Stan Laurel, Marilyn Monroe, Tom Mix, Bobby Dylan and what have you peering over the Beatles' shoulders, who, in turn, are longingly glancing at a grave-like scene featuring none other than Sergeant Pepper.

Sergeant Pepper's band brings yet another phase of the Beatle sound to the ears of America — a phase that includes everything but the kitchen sink in "She's Leaving Home."

Ringo needs "A Little Help From His Friends" before delving into a love ode, which he warns the listeners "he may sing out of key." Nevertheless, Starkey does a credible job on the song, and he does receive some strong support in the form of his friends J. Lennon and P. McCartney, who sing a capable backup.

You can chalk up another A-plus for McCartney and his "She's Leaving Home" effort. Accompanied by a harp and a string quartet, McCartney explains how a young girl becomes an "Eleanor Rigby."

But McCartney's top try in the album has to be "When I'm 64," if only because its a tune mom and dad would drool over, i.e. a Rudy Vallee-type song, which like Yellow Submarine, everyone would swear they heard before, but haven't.

Of course, George Harrison has to display the tips he picked up from world-famous sitarist, Ravi Shankar. Harrison not only does this in "Within You, Without

You," but also has some words of wisdom such as, "When you see beyond yourself, then you may find peace of mind is waiting there," or "The time may come when you see that we're all one," or, more bluntly, "With our love, we can save the world, if they only knew."

A song most appropriate for Iowa Citizens would be "Lovely Rita, Meter Maid," a song about that gal you see "standing by the parking meter . . . filling in a ticket in a little white book . . . with a bag across her shoulder" which makes her "look a little like a military man." Unlike McCartney, most Iowa City folk can do without meter maids.

Lennon also has some female problems — with Lucy, a girl who not only has kaleidoscope eyes, but also is in the sky . . . with diamonds. The song begins with the gentle strains of a harpsichord and some opaque lyrics of Lennon, but ends with the Liverpool Four blasting away in a brass, but effective manner.

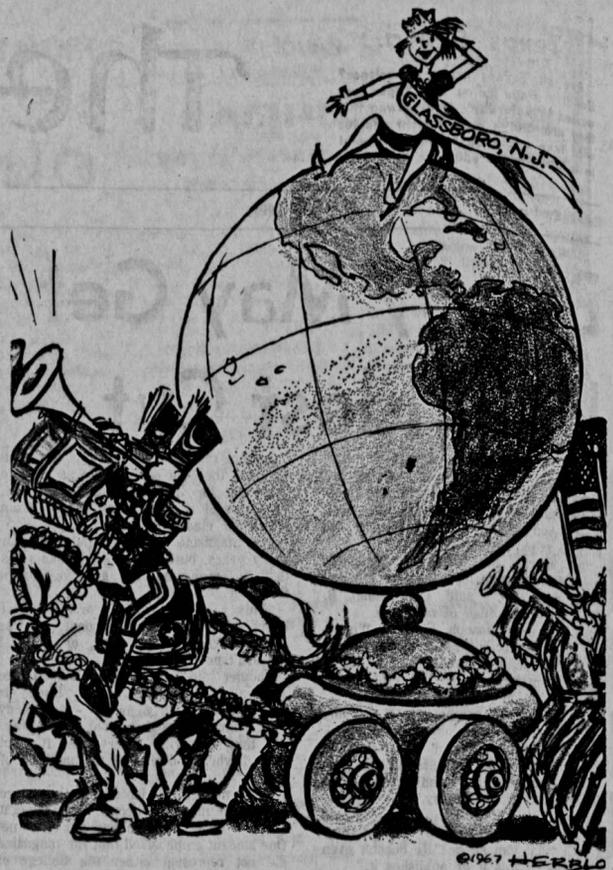

Lennon's "Good Morning" takes one back about 15 years to the sounds of Chuck Berry, Larry Williams and Budie Holly because the song is loaded with the harsh brass sounds, an extra-hard drum beat and sporadic outbursts by Harrison on the lead guitar. But Lennon has always been the rock fan, as evidenced by such songs as "Bad Boy," "Dizzy Miss Lizzy," or "Slow Down," which Lennon sang, but the Beatles did not write.

McCartney and Starr team up for very intriguing percussion sounds on the bass guitar and drums, in "It's Getting Better," "Filling The Cracks In The Wall," and "For the Benefit of Mr. Kite," which incidentally is Lennon's latest novelty sound, along the lines of "Strawberry Fields," although the lyrics aren't quite so pungent.

For an encore, Sergeant Pepper's band offers "A Day In A Life," which mixes some satirical lyrics with a lingering beat and some psychedelic sounds — Liverpool style — to end the Beatles' 13th (condolences to non-Beatle people) LP.

Probably one of the most pleasant innovations introduced in the album was the element of transition between songs. Instead of dropping you off the table at the end of each song, the Beatles let you drift from one melody into the next.

Sergeant Pepper's crew plainly states in its title tune that its show is "guaranteed to raise a smile." It does.

'I was just sitting there with the pots and pans when the telephone rang and a voice said, 'Congratulations, you've been selected . . .'

Couple discusses Texas; offers own statistics

To The Editor:

Certainly we are not proud of Texas' association with the number of violent deaths in recent years; however, Mr. Yager seems to have been carried away with proving his point (in Saturday's Daily Iowan). Many of the principal subjects connected with these deaths were not native Texans. In fact, it is rather difficult to say a drifter is a native of any state.

The reference to murder records was most impressive; however, we have tried our hand at choosing cities to compare with the four largest Texas municipalities:

Houston	940,000	139
Dallas	680,000	116
San Antonio	590,000	53
Fort Worth	360,000	57
Washington	764,000	148
St. Louis	750,000	138
New Orleans	627,000	87
Newark	405,000	68

Texans to whom all of these adjectives apply. And there are millions, to whom you could justly apply none of them. But you cannot get outsiders to believe this.

Phelan's article is intended to generate a re-examination of Texas, where you have to stop awhile to know the special smell of smoking firewood, the elegance and assurance of wild animals, the qualities of cattle, sheep and goats, and the really stupendous spectacles of changing Texas weather. You also have to know the feeling that the people have about the earth and about what it does for them.

Texas is changeless and seasonless and it graciously holds open its arms to all who venture there with open minds.

Hold on Charles . . . LBJ's on the phone

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — President Charles de Gaulle is a stickler for prestige, and as soon as President Johnson let it be known that he was on the hot line to Premier Kosygin during the Israeli-Arab war, De Gaulle also revealed that he was in touch with Premier Kosygin on his hot line to the Kremlin.

While we know some of what went on between President Johnson and Premier Kosygin on their hot line, no one knew what De Gaulle and Kosygin talked about — until now.

"Hello, Premier Kosygin. This is President De Gaulle."

"Yes, President De Gaulle. How are you?"

"I just wanted you to know . . ."

"Would you hold on just a minute, comrade president? I have President Johnson on the other line."

Fifteen minutes later De Gaulle angrily called again.

A secretary answered. "I'm sorry. Premier Kosygin is talking long distance. Can he call you back?"

"Can't I hold on?"

"I'm afraid he may be on for some time. Just leave your number, and I'm sure he'll get back to you."

A day later President De Gaulle called again.

Spanish Prof Thinks Chats Aid Teaching

Students learn much more from informal conversations with their professors than from regular classes, says Ricardo Gullon, visiting professor of Spanish.

And professors learn much more from students than the students from the professors, he adds.

Gullon said contact with youth is a never-ending lesson.

Gullon has been professor of Spanish literature at the University of Texas since 1960. This summer he is teaching two courses in the Department of Romance Languages, Galdos and Realism and Contemporary Poetry of the Hispanic World.

According to Gullon, the Spanish professors' tradition of informal chats with the students held in cafes after class is a sort of non-credit seminar attended by students who are really interested in learning.

Gullon is a literary and art critic. He has published 20 books and 300 essays and articles. Two of his books deal with the Spanish poet Juan Ramon Jimenez, 1956 Nobel laureate. Gullon worked with Jimenez in the University of Puerto Rico from 1953 to 1955.

Gullon, 58, studied in Spain and in France. He has also lived in England. His studies on the "Modernista" movement are well known. For the past two decades he has been working on a book on this literary movement.

Bicycle Riders Pose Hazard To Traffic Safety, Police Say

Each of the 14,000 bicycle owners in Iowa City is a potential hazard to traffic safety, according to Emmett E. Evans, Iowa City assistant police chief.

"The single cause of most bicycle accidents is inattention of the rider," Evans said. "Bicycle riders should abide by all motor laws, such as stopping at stop signs, obeying traffic signals and signaling for a turn. But the fact is, they don't pay attention to what they're doing."

When a license applicant registers a bicycle at the Iowa City Fire Department, he receives a list of bike regulations and safety tips. He is told to read and follow the tips which include keeping to the far right on city streets; riding in a single file; never hitching onto other vehicles; never carrying other riders; watching for stones, manhole covers and ruts in the street; slowing down at street intersections and giving pedestrians the right of way.

Before a bicycle owner can purchase a license, his vehicle must meet certain requirements as stated in the Iowa City Bicycle Ordinance.

If a bicycle owner violates any of the traffic rules, or his bicycle does not meet safety specifications, he may be fined up to $100, and his bicycle may be impounded from one to 30 days.

AEC Conducts Low-Yield Test

LAS VEGAS (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission conducted a low-yield nuclear test underground Monday at its Nevada test site northwest of Las Vegas.

The device, with energy equivalent to not more than 20,000 tons of TNT, was set off in a tunnel in the Yucca Basin. The device was 1,235 feet from the nearest surface point.

Ring Theft Report Probed By Police

Police were investigating a report of the theft of a $135 wedding ring Monday evening from Hand's Jewelry Store, 109 E. Washington St.

Sales girls at the store said the ring was taken at about 7:30 p.m. while they were waiting on other customers.

Police were questioning three men in connection with the theft.

Institute Begins On Economics

The Bureau of Business and Economic Research of the College of Business Administration began Monday a six-week Summer Institute in Economics for secondary school teachers of courses in problems of American democracy, extending to Aug. 4.

The program, supported by the U.S. Office of Education, is authorized under the National Defense Education Act.

The program of the institute is designed to provide teachers with help in improving their competency to teach economics.

The Institute staff from the University consists of the director, Paul R. Olson, professor of economics; Donald G. Davison, research associate in the Bureau of Business and Economic Research; and John H. Haefner, professor and head of social studies education at University High School.

A total of 36 teachers from all regions of the United States are participating in the sessions being conducted in Phillips Hall.

Jet Crashes On Runway

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A United Air Lines prop-jet plane carrying 33 persons crashed on takeoff at Kent County Airport here Monday. One person was injured and air traffic tied up for four hours.

Fire broke out in the baggage bin of the four-engine Viscount but was quickly extinguished.

The plane, with 30 passengers and a crew of three, skidded to a halt midway down the 6,600-foot runway.

Mrs. William L. Taggart Jr., 53, of Grand Rapids, was injured as she left the plane by an emergency chute at the rear.

print information considered prejudicial to a case.

A committee of the American Bar Association tentatively recommended last year that contempt of court proceedings to be taken against journalists, policemen and lawyers who inflame the public before or during a trial, Carlson said.

He added that guidelines suggested in 1965 by Nicholas Katzenbach, who was then attorney-general, favored reporting the name and identification of the accused, the charge, the name of the arresting agency and a photo.

Katzenbach opposed press reports of confessions, statements by witnesses and opinions of influential people in the community about the guilt or innocence of the accused, he said.

2 City Cops Attend Class

Two Iowa City policemen, Patrolmen Donald L. Weymeyer and Ronald L. Evans, are attending a peace officers short course this week at the Union.

The course, arranged by the University Bureau of Police Science, deals with interrogation, lie detection, laboratory aids and investigative procedures in homicide, arson and burglary.

The course is sponsored by the Iowa Department of Public Safety, the Iowa Attorney General, the Iowa State Sheriff's Association, the Iowa Association of Chiefs of Police and Peace Officers and the Iowa State Police-men Association.

Press Grievance Unit Needed For Fair Trials, Carlson Says

A "grievance commission" within the newspaper profession would be the best solution to the free press versus fair trial question, a University law professor said Monday.

Ronald L. Carlson, assistant professor of law, told the 10th annual "Newspaper in the Classroom" Workshop that a code of conduct "with teeth in it" would help self-policing by the press to prevent sensational news coverage prejudicial to a fair trial for the accused.

This would be a compromise between leaving fair coverage up to the individual newspaper, which "perhaps has not always done the job," said Carlson, and the British system which calls for jail sentences for editors who

Revised Judicial Committee May Soon Include Students

For the first time in the history of the University, students may soon be able to pass judgment on their fellow students in disciplinary matters.

A proposed structure for a revised judicial committee was made by Albert B. Hood, professor of education and chairman of an ad hoc committee.

The former Committee on Student Discipline, previously composed of faculty members only, has been revised to include five students. Its title has been changed to the Committee on Student Conduct.

The revised committee would consist of six faculty members nominated by the Faculty Senate and five students nominated by the Student Senate. All committee members must be appointed by the University president.

"It is hoped that the revised committee will make students more directly responsible to their peers," Robert Hubbell, UI Has Liberalized Policies

"The University has been liberalizing many of its policies in favor of the students because students have shown their ability to be dependable," he said.

According to the revised policy, the Committee on Student Conduct would have jurisdiction over cases referred to it by campus disciplinary agencies.

These lower courts are established in the dormitories, Greek governmental organizations and the Office of Student Affairs.

A student who is not happy with a lower court decision may appeal to the Committee for a new hearing, Hubbell said. He must file a written statement of appeal with the chairman of the Committee on Student Conduct.

This statement, which must be filed no later than one week after the action under appeal has been taken, would be read by a seven-member board.

According to the new policy, if three of the members agreed that the case should be considered, the committee would grant a hearing.

Students may appeal from decisions made by the Office of Student Affairs, Traffic Court, Associated Women Students Court or dormitory courts, according to Dr. George N. Bedell, professor of internal medicine and chairman of the revised Committee on Student Conduct.

The Committee on Student Discipline met only twice last year, Hubbell said. The cases involved an appeal concerning suspension from the University and one about disciplinary probation.

"I am really surprised at the limited amount of trouble students get themselves into," Hubbell said.

"The students handle themselves better and are more responsible for a group of 18,000 than their counterpart of adults would be."

Most Cases In Lower Courts

The courts are capable of handling most of the cases and deciding on punishment he said.

The Committee on Student Conduct tries to be as impartial as possible, said Philip G. Hubbard, dean of academic affairs. In addition to defending himself, the student may present witnesses to testify in his behalf.

After the committee has heard the case and made a decision, Hubbard said, the student has one final appeal left — the president of the University.

Members of the revised Committee on Student Conduct are: Dr. Kenneth A. Hubbell, assistant professor of internal medicine; James F. Curtis, professor and head of the Department of Speech Pathology; James E. Meeks, assistant professor of law; Miss Cleo Martin, instructor in rhetoric; Wayne L. Paulson, assistant professor of civil engineering; and Bedell.

Also William Smith, A3, Westchester, Ill.; Bryan Hall, L2, Des Moines, Phil Hubbard, A2, Iowa City, Jean Heeren, A3, Geneseo, Ill. and William Newbrough, A4, Des Moines.

Jaycees Choose Wortman Outstanding Young Man

Yank Makes History In Wimbledon Match

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Charlie Pasarell, a 23-year-old American, made history at the Wimbledon Lawn Tennis Championships Monday by eliminating defending champion Manuel Santana of Spain on the opening day.

This is the first time that a defending titleholder ever had been beaten in the first round of this unofficial world championship tournament.

Pasarell, from Puerto Rico, pulled off the major upset only a little more than a week after United States lawn tennis had suffered its biggest reversal in years by being beaten by Ecuador in the Davis Cup.

Pasarell defeated the smiling Spaniard 10-8, 6-3, 2-6, 8-6. Santana was the second unofficial favorite behind Roy Emerson of Australia and the top seed for the championship. Emerson is seeded second.

Pasarell is unseeded. This is his fifth Wimbledon, and so far he has never progressed beyond the third round.

"This is the first time I've had an opportunity to come in advance of Wimbledon and practice on grass," Pasarell explained.

"Santana does not have any real weaknesses, and I decided I should just go out there and serve and volley the best I could.

Wasn't Confident

"But I wasn't ever truly confident until I was leading 40-0 with my service to come near the end of the match."

Emerson, winner of the title two times in the last three years, advanced into the second round by defeating Keith Carpenter of Canada 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

Tony Roche, another seed from Australia, went forward into the second round, with a 4-6, 6-1, 6-2, 8-6 victory over Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia. Cliff Drysdale, South Africa, defeated Stanely Matthews, the son of England's famous soccer player, 8-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Cliff Richey of Dallas, Tex., whipped Ronald Barnes of Brazil 6-2, 6-4, 6-2 and Clark Graebner of Beachwood, Ohio, turned back Nikola Spear, Yugoslavia, 6-3, 6-1, 6-1.

Rookie Paces Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Rookie Jim Cosman, just called up from Tulsa, combined with Nelson Briles on a four-hitter and singled home the decisive run, leading the St. Louis Cardinals to a 3-1 victory over San Francisco Monday night.

Cosman, a big right-hander brought up when Ray Washburn was placed on the disabled list last week, singled in the Cardinals' second run in the second inning with his first major league hit.

Tim McCarver opened the inning with a double off Gaylord Perry. Ed Spiezio singled and Julian Javier hit a sacrifice fly. Spiezio took second on an infield out and scored on Cosman's single for a 2-0 lead.

Yankees Win, 5-2

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Tom Tresh drove in two runs with a homer and single, leading the New York Yankees to a 5-2 victory over Kansas City Monday night that ran their winning string to four games.

Right-hander Fred Talbot, traded from the A's to the Yankees last season, pitched 6-1/3 scoreless innings and gained his fourth victory in seven decisions. Bill Moubouquette, Hal Reniff and Thad Tillotson finished up.

Tresh's eighth homer, a 400-foot drive over the left field fence with one out in the seventh, gave New York a 1-0 edge against A's starter Paul Lindblad.

The Yankees added two runs in the eighth on Horace Clarke's infield hit, a sacrifice, a walk and singles by Joe Peppitone and Tresh. Clarke's single and Bill Robinson's double drove in two more runs in the ninth.

Cubs Club Phils

CHICAGO (AP)—Successive home runs by Billy Williams and Ron Santo in the first inning fired the Chicago Cubs to a 4-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Monday, extending their winning streak to seven games—longest since 1954.

Rookie Rich Nye, 6-3, yielded only three hits but issued four walks and a wild pitch that finally caused his exit in the sixth inning. Cal Koonce and Chuck Hartenstein finished up.

Meanwhile, the Cubs knocked out Turk Farrell, 6-3, in a three-run first inning.

The Cubs added another run in the fourth on a pair of errors.

Mets Trip Pirates

NEW YORK (AP)—Pinch hitter Ed Charles lined a run-scoring single in the ninth inning, breaking a tie and bringing the New York Mets from behind to a 3-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Monday night.

Charles' hit came with one out off Elroy Face after Jerry Buchek singled and John Sullivan singled him to third.

The Mets had tied the game in the eighth off Steve Blass, who had entered the inning with a five hitter and a 2-0 lead.

With two out, Cleon Jones singled and Ken Boyer lined his first homer of the season into the left field seats.

The Pirates had taken a 2-0 lead against Bob Shaw. Matty Alou opened the fourth with a single and later scored on Roberto Clemente's single and Bill Mazeroski led off the seventh with his fourth homer.

L.A. Whips Reds

CINCINNATI (AP)—Claude Osteen's five-hit pitching sparked the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 3-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Monday night.

The victory was the third in a row for the Dodgers and the sixth time in a row Osteen has beaten the faltering, injury-plagued Reds.

Both sides missed scoring opportunities in the first two innings before Wes Parker drew a walk to lead off the Dodgers' third. One out later, he scored on Willie Davis' triple and Ron Fairly followed with a sacrifice fly, scoring Davis.

Ron Hunt hit his third home run in the ninth.

The defeat left the second-place Reds a single percentage point ahead of the surging Chicago Cubs.

Chisox Edge Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP)—Ken Berry slashed a two-run single into left field with two out in the ninth inning, lifting the Chicago White Sox to a 5-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Monday night.

Berry's hit came off loser Stu Miller, who had relieved Eddie Watt after Tom McCraw opened the inning with a hit.

Pete Ward beat out a single and Gerry McNertney sacrificed. Wayne Causey, batting for winner Don Locker, was walked intentionally, but Jim King hit into a forceout at the plate before Berry connected.

Landmark Tax Case Looms As Wills Challenges Decision

NEW YORK (AP)—The Hickok Manufacturing Co. joined forces with Pittsburgh third baseman Maury Wills Monday to fight a court ruling that could mean all athletes would be required to pay income tax on all trophies and medals they receive.

MAURY WILLS abide by the law, he must report it as income. The decision of Tax Court Judge William M. Fay will be

The U.S. Tax Court held June 14 that Wills must pay tax on the gold and diamond Hickok belt he was awarded as the outstanding professional athlete of 1962, a trophy variously valued at from $6,000 to $10,000. Wills received the award while he was with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"Results Obvious"

"The results of this are obvious," said Ray Hickok, president of the firm, at a press conference. "It doesn't really make any difference if the award is a $5 award or a $100,000 award—whether it's a student athlete, amateur athlete or the greatest professional athlete, as far as we can determine, any award must be considered as income, and if the recipient is going to appealed by Wills and Hickok to the circuit court of appeals in Spokane, Wash.

Battle Cry Sounded

"This is a battle for all sports achievement," said Wills. Judge Fay in his decision had declared:

"Being large and cumbersome, made out of gold and studded with gems... it has a purpose that is honorary and decorative. Despite our solicitude... we do not believe that the fair market value of the Hickok belt is excludable from the gross income. The law, as it stands, does not make exceptions for sentiment or pride."

The present income tax law exempts awards—such as the Pulitzer Prize—from tax in the fields of religion, science, arts, education and civic affairs.

The Hickok Award is made annually on the basis of a vote of sports writers and sportscasters. It was won last year by Frank Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles.

800 Babe Ruth Homers? Slugger's Wife Thinks So

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Babe Ruth would have hit 800 or more home runs if he'd been playing the outfield regularly instead of pitching the first six years of his major league career, says his widow, Mrs. Claire Ruth.

His lifetime record was 714. And his one-season record of 60 would have been greater if he had played a 162-game schedule, as the big leaguers do now, she said Monday at a news conference. The season then was 154 games.

She doesn't accept Roger Maris' 61 homers as a record—"and Roger doesn't either"—because he used a 162-game season. Maris hit his 61 with the New York Yankees, the team Ruth made famous.

Will Babe's 714 be broken? "Nothing's impossible," Mrs. Ruth replied, but she doesn't expect the San Francisco Giants' Willie Mays, now with 553, or New York Yankees' Mickey Mantle, 510, to do it.

Mays at 36 and Mantle with crippling injuries presumably won't play enough games.

Sailors Lured By New Club

By DONNA ENSLOW

Sailing instruction, spiced with the thrill of intercollegiate boat racing, are just two reasons why aspiring sailors will be interested in the University's Sailing Club.

The club, open to students and faculty alike, is one of the youngest and fastest-growing organizations on campus. It was founded in 1965, due mainly to the efforts of Mike Touch, A4, Springfield, Ill.

George Zerwas, A4, Iowa City, this year's club president (commandore), expects present membership to grow by about 75 or 100 members this summer, twice as many as last year.

The club membership fee is $10 per semester. New members may attend classes in order to learn about the component parts of a boat and its uses.

Test Given

After passing a written test, the new member becomes a crewman and may race in any regatta the club attends along with a skipper.

After a crew member shows he can handle a sailboat well enough, and knows the rules of sailing, he is promoted to skipper classification and may take a sailboat out alone, race as a skipper and instruct novices. Classes in racing tactics are also held for advanced crewmen and skippers.

The Sailing Club has a boat-house on the Lake Macbride Field Campus and 12 fiber glass sailboats that may be used at any time by members, as long as a skipper is along.

Club Competes

The club competes in regattas. Every spring, it hosts the Davis Invitational Regatta, to which schools in the Midwest Collegiate Sailing Association (MCSA) are invited.

Nation's Top Women Golfers Face Tough Test This Week

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—The nation's finest feminine golfers wage a four-day war in the USGA Women's Open starting Thursday, but Herman Peery thinks he knows one winner in advance—the Cascades course.

Peery has been professional at the mountainous, par 71 Cascades for a decade, and in all that time has seen few golfers bring it to its knees consistently. He's fairly sure it will withstand this week's assault.

"If somebody shoots even par, I don't see how they can lose," says Peery. "I've got a feeling, if the weather stays wet, that a 287 or 288 will be plenty good to win. Maybe something lower, if the weather dries."

For the $25,000 Open, which has attracted a field of 56 professionals and 43 amateurs, the Cascades will play at 6,191 yards and par 36-35. That's about as it was for last year's Curtis Cup matches, when both the victorious Americans and the British women amateurs found it par unassailable.

Among the contestants are nine women who together have won the title 16 times.

Betsy Rawls and Mickey Wright each has taken the championship four times; Louise Suggs has won twice and five times has been runner-up. Other former champions in the field are Carol Mann, Mrs. Murl Lindstrom, Mary Mills, Patty Berg, Mrs. Kathy Cornelius and Sandra Spuzich. All are pros.

Miss Spuzich won last year at Chaska, Mich., with a 297—one ahead of Miss Mann.

William R. Reed, Big 10 commissioner and president of the CCA, announced through his New York public relations chairman, George Shiebler, the meetings would convene Saturday and continue through July 5.

NEW YORK (AP)—

Oscar Bonavena, the South American heavyweight champion from Argentina, informed his New York manager Monday that he would not fight Karl Mildenerger, the European champion, in Germany.

Mildenerger announced last week that he had agreed to meet Bonavena in Germany at a site and date to be announced later.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—

The board of directors of the U.S. Auto Club okayed a new formula for gas-turbine agencies competing in USAC-sanctioned events Monday.

The new formula, which becomes effective Jan. 1, 1968, cuts the annulus inlet area to 15 square inches, with no power augmentation. The change would tone down the output of the controversial Pratt & Whitney turbine car that almost won this year's Indianapolis 500-mile race.

HENDERSON, Ky. (AP)—

The search for an Illinois trotting track executive and his wife ended Monday in a cornfield where the wreckage of their plane was spotted by a passing oil worker.

The victims were identified as Don Hayes, 55, president of the Du Quoin State Fair, and his wife, Ruby, 52.

Dickinson's tour total of official and unofficial winnings rose to $48,810, putting him 10th in money standings.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—

Harold Lucas, a former 300-pound Michigan State football player who turned his back on professional football after the St. Louis Cardinals placed him on a strict diet, has decided he would like to play again.

Lucas, once the Cardinals' No. 2 draft choice, left the football training camp last summer after a week of nothing but one-half grapefruit for breakfast every morning.

Cardinal officials said they had been talking to Lucas' lawyer but declined to say if he would be on hand when the team begins drills July 12 at Lake Forest, Ill.

MAO BADGES TRACED—LUSAKA, Zambia (AP)—Police are investigating the appearance in Zambia of thousands of badges bearing a portrait of Red China's Chairman Mao Tse-tung. Some have been traced as handouts from the Chinese Embassy here, but most were reported coming from Peking's mission to the Zambia Trade Fair.

Officials Ask If Plane Losses Justify Extensive Viet Air War

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials have conflicting views over whether the broadened sweep of the air war in face of stiffening North Vietnam defenses is bringing results worth heavier U.S. plane losses.

Some officials say it might be better to limit the bombing primarily to supply routes which run south through the narrow neck of North Vietnam and reduce the strikes against heavily defended areas of Hanoi and Haiphong.

Those opposing such a slowdown argue that this would open the door further to send in supplies and equipment to Communist troops in South Vietnam. They say these must be interdicted also at the top of the funnel.

Aircraft Guns
Besides, these officials contend the North Vietnamese have been bringing in many more anti-aircraft guns into the 150-mile long North Vietnamese panhandle and concentrating bombing there would not cut down on U.S. plane losses.

The conflicting views are held both by military officials and civilians. Some of those who oppose a cutback favor further intensification.

But it is known that the Joint Chiefs of Staff unanimously and vigorously opposes any easing off. As a result the Navy and Air Force were authorized last Feb. 22 to attack what one military official called "more lucrative targets" of industrial and economic types.

Untouched Targets
Few major targets are now left untouched, most notably Haiphong harbor and three MIG fields in the Hanoi-Haiphong area.

But many bombed facilities have been rebuilt enough for at least limited use, so U.S. raiders have to hit them again and again.

Between them, the Navy and Air Force have been conducting more than 800 missions weekly against North Vietnam, or more than 2,400 sorties. A sortie is a flight by a single plane.

Although the heaviest concentration of Communist anti-aircraft is around Hanoi and Haiphong, informants say there has been a considerable reinforcement in the panhandle.

The lowest estimate is about 8,000 anti-aircraft guns in North Vietnam, an increase of about a thousand since early spring.

A total of 589 U.S. planes have been lost over North Vietnam, 139 since the first of the year.

Most of them have been victims of 37mm, 57mm and 100mm anti-aircraft guns. MIGs are credited with having shot down 20 U.S. planes, plus two probable kills.

AMA Head Gives View Of Medicare

DALLAS (AP)—The new president of the American Medical Association said Monday that the organization recognizes Medicare "but does not support or endorse it."

Dr. Mildred O. Rouse of Dallas said Medicare "will stand or fall on its own merits or demerits, while the physicians of this country continue to give the very best medical care to all citizens, including the elderly."

He issued a brief statement in response to charges by three national medical organizations that the AMA's opposition to Medicare shows more regard for business than the principles of the Hippocratic Oath.

The charges were made by Dr. Quentin D. Young, chairman of the Medical Committee for Human Rights, Dr. John L. S. Holloman Jr., president of the National Medical Association, and Dr. Lyt I. Gardner, chairman of the Physicians Forum.

Egypt's Cotton, Bulwark Of Economy, Threatened By Leafworm Infestation

CAIRO (AP)—Disaster threatening Egypt's cotton—the most important factor in the economy—sent the nation into a virtual state of emergency Monday.

Less than three weeks after the Mideastern war ended in a military debacle, Egypt was fighting an uphill battle against large-scale leafworm infestation of its vital cotton. A European expert said the pest was advancing across Egypt's fields at lightning speed.

Authorities reported a country-wide check had established that fields were stricken by the worst cotton leafworm invasion in 15 years. At the same time, they admitted their stocks of insecticide were practically exhausted.

The threat to the cotton crop came at a time when the country's economy was already reeling under other serious blows. With the closing of the Suez Canal and the slump in foreign tourism, cotton is the last source of hard currency.

Sayed Marei, newly appointed minister of agriculture, announced his office was working around the clock to coordinate the fight against the pest.

Armies of children were roaming the fields to remove the worms' egg clusters by hand from the plants. European sources said they were trailing badly in their efforts in many areas, but Egyptian newspapers said the hand-picking campaign was successful.

Twenty farmers were stripped of their plots by authorities, who charged them with negligence in combating the leafworm. The plots had been given to them under the land-reform program. Authorities warned growers that there would be more expropriations unless they cooperated fully in the fight against the pest.

During the next two critical months, the fight will have to rely almost entirely on handpicking with insecticides to be applied only in the most extreme cases.

The insecticides are mostly imported against hard currency from Western countries. West Germany is a major supplier and is one of the countries against which the Arab states are, considering a total boycott.

Considered by many to be the Japanese film masterpiece, "Seven Samurai" is a raging, sensuous epic, proclaimed as the perfect example of what a Hollywood western should be. "Seven Samurai" directed by the famed Japanese director, Akira Kurosawa is the story of the defense of a 16th century village by seven recruited, professional soldiers. They organize the villagers and succeed in completely wiping out the attacking bandits. As in his other films, Kurosawa has woven an exciting plot that gives all its characters an intensely distinctive personality.

King Gets Estate Of Dorothy Parker
NEW YORK (AP)—Poet-satirist Dorothy Parker left the bulk of her estate to the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, it was disclosed Monday.
Miss Parker's will filed in Surrogate's Court Monday named King as the beneficiary of cash, negotiable securities, and the income from a trust fund derived from copyrights, royalties and contract rights on her writings.
King is to get the income from the trust fund in semiannual payments during his lifetime.
Upon his death, the principal of the trust will go outright to the NAACP.
Miss Parker, noted for her light, acridly humorous verse, also was a short story writer and critic. She died June 7 at the age of 73.

AMA Head Gives View Of Medicare
DALLAS (AP)—The new president of the American Medical Association said Monday that the organization recognizes Medicare "but does not support or endorse it."
Dr. Mildred O. Rouse of Dallas said Medicare "will stand or fall on its own merits or demerits, while the physicians of this country continue to give the very best medical care to all citizens, including the elderly."
He issued a brief statement in response to charges by three national medical organizations that the AMA's opposition to Medicare shows more regard for business than the principles of the Hippocratic Oath.
The charges were made by Dr. Quentin D. Young, chairman of the Medical Committee for Human Rights, Dr. John L. S. Holloman Jr., president of the National Medical Association, and Dr. Lyt I. Gardner, chairman of the Physicians Forum.

UI Influenced Move By Smiley To City

"The University was a major factor in my considering and accepting the city manager's job in Iowa City," Frank R. Smiley said in an interview recently. City manager since February, Smiley observed that "a university town made for a much more diversified and interesting community."

"I had a touch of the university atmosphere in Springfield," he said, "which was just a few miles from Eugene where the University of Oregon is located."

Smiley came to Iowa City in February after spending seven years as city manager of Springfield, Ore.

A university atmosphere, especially that of a Big 10 university, offers a challenge because one must not only consider the native residents, but also university personnel and students from many states and countries, according to the city manager.

Iowa City Growth
"Iowa City is growing," Smiley said, "but not at the rate cities in California and Oregon are."

One can keep track of the city and its development more easily."

He considers his first job the improvement of the caliber and extent of basic services like water, garbage collection and police and fire protection.

"It was obvious to me when I arrived in Iowa City," he mused, "that somebody just hadn't cared about a lot of things in this town."

He cited garbage collection methods as an example of this neglect.

Next to improving basic services, Smiley hopes to develop civic pride in city officials and citizens. He says he thinks that employees of Iowa City need more motivation and incentive to become more concerned about the appearance, development and image of the city.

4 Americans Get Red Hats As Pope Pleds For Peace

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI made cardinals of four American prelates and 23 others Monday in a consistory bringing Roman Catholicism's church princes to a record 118.

In his consistory speech, the pontiff lamented the Vietnamese and Mideastern wars, called for internationalization of Jerusalem through a "guaranteed statute," and for a just solution to the Palestinian refugee problem.

The Pope addressed 35 senior cardinals in the Vatican's Consistorial Hall while the new cardinals waited with almost 4,000 relatives and friends in a concert auditorium six blocks away for formal word of their elevation.

Raised to the College of Cardinals were Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle of Washington, D.C., John Cardinal Krol of Philadelphia, John Cardinal Cody of Chicago, and Vatican-based Francis Cardinal Brennan, a native of Pennsylvania.

Ritter Also Named
There would have been nine U.S. cardinals, but Joseph Elmer Cardinal Ritter of St. Louis died June 10, after the Pope had named his new choices.

The senior American cardinals are Francis Spellman of New York, James McIntyre of Los Angeles, Richard Cushing of Boston, and Lawrence Shehan of Baltimore.

Biglietti, or written notices, of their elevation were brought to the new cardinals by Vatican Secretary of State Amleto Cardinal Cicognani. He left the closed consistory, a few minutes after it had begun, to carry the word.

At past consistories, including the first and only other consistory of Pope Paul in February, 1965, a Vatican emissary of lower rank made the rounds to each cardinal in a separate hall instead of all under one roof.

The Pope spoke in the closed consistory of war and peace and Catholicism's difficulties under Communist regimes.

Appeals Renewed
He said he was renewing his appeals for Middle East peace just as he had stepped up his initiatives for a Vietnam settlement.

The Pope declared the Arab-Israeli war had made clear "the overly precarious and inadequate situation of the holy places" in Jerusalem and made "an equitable and generous solution" of the refugee problem necessary.

He said his efforts and appeals of early June to spare the Middle Eastern people "the ruin and tribulation of the war" had been in vain.

He added: "The Holy City of Jerusalem must be for always what it represents a city of God, a free oasis of peace and prayer, a place of encounter, of elevation and concord for all, with its own internationally guaranteed statute."

Kosygin's Cuban Trip Seen As Attempt To Quiet Castro

By BEN F. MEYER
An AP News Analysis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin's trip to Cuba is interpreted by experts here as an effort to persuade Fidel Castro to tread a little lighter in two important areas.

On one hand, Cuba's Communist regime faces probable condemnation by the Organization of American States for sending a small invasion force, headed by Cuban military men, into Venezuela. The OAS has a five-man mission in Venezuela investigating the venture.

FIDEL CASTRO Meets Kosygin

Moscow-Havana Relations Poor
On the other hand, Kosygin's visit comes during a low ebb in Moscow-Havana relations. Castro appears to delight in boxing the ears of the Russians—his economic and political mainstay — for Moscow's efforts at more peaceful relations with Latin America.

Castro has differed sharply and publicly with Moscow's quiet approach to Communist revolution. Castro advocates more violent methods: guns, political subversion and guerrilla attack.

Stop Criticizing, Fidel
Kosygin may well suggest that Castro quit criticizing Moscow in public.

Coinciding with Kosygin's visit, the Cuban ambassador in Moscow was summoned Monday to the offices of Leonid I. Brezhnev, secretary general of the Soviet Communist party.

An official announcement said it was "a cordial conversation," a phrase that sometimes means something quite different. But the Soviet Union may find it difficult to cool Castro. Anastas Mikoyan, then Soviet first deputy premier, spent frustrating days in Cuba after the October, 1962, missile crisis while his wife was dying at home, trying to persuade Castro to carry out the agreement to allow international inspection of missile sites. He failed.

Moscow has invested too much money, war material and prestige in Cuba to pull out easily, and Castro often has said flatly he will not take orders from Moscow.

Reagan 'Hot Property,' GOP Governor Asserts

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (AP) — Oregon Gov. Tom McCall told liberal and moderate Republicans Monday that California's Ronald Reagan is "about the hottest piece of political property" in the nation and could be on the march toward the 1968 Republican presidential nomination.

Reagan, the favorite of some Republican conservatives, insisted he would not be a candidate but indicated he would not spurn a GOP draft.

Reagan said it was too early to talk about a 1968 choice: "I am not backing anyone."

"The convention may be in the process of being locked up against the moderates," McCall told a news conference. He would not say who the beneficiary would be.

He Favors Rockefeller
The lanky Oregon governor said he still considered New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller the best man the party could enter in the 1968 presidential race.

"I've been a Rockefeller man all along," he said. "I still think he's the best qualified."

Rockefeller insists he will not run and has urged moderate Republicans to unite behind Michigan Gov. George Romney.

While McCall said he advocated moderate unity and an early start on the task of building convention delegate strength, he did not talk in terms of a Romney commitment.

He did say that conservative-oriented Republicans apparently were at work seeking to round up convention support for former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"I'm not convinced there is a roundup of delegates going on the side of the moderates," McCall complained.

There was another sign of GOP conservative activity at the Western Governors Conference, too. F. Clifton White, who managed the movement to draft conservative Barry Goldwater for the Republican nomination in 1964, was in town, his mission undisclosed.

He said he was only keeping in touch.

Reagan returned to California Monday because of legislative business.

McCall said of Reagan: "He has more going for him than any political figure in the United States today. He is probably the best drawing card either party has."

Will that standing thrust him into presidential candidacy?

"This is a terribly heady diet he is getting," McCall said.

But he added Reagan should not run, that he needed more training in government.

Hearing Set For Leasing Old Landfill

A resolution setting a July 18 public hearing on leasing the old city landfill to the University for parking was passed by the Iowa City council Monday afternoon.

The University plans to develop the landfill south of the Iowa City Service Building on Highway 6 for parking if the lease is approved.

City Manager Frank R. Smiley also announced that a consultant of R.H. Burke and Associates of Chicago will confer with the council on the Mercer Park swimming pool plans at 4 p.m. Friday.

Four of the five councilmen at an informal meeting Thursday appeared in favor of terminating the city's contract with Burke and Associates and hiring another designer.

Smiley said Thursday that the present impasse arose because a low bid of $271,000 was received on the project estimated at $235,000 by Burke and Associates.

The council had allocated only $200,000 for the pool.

Smiley also said the city was partially at fault because of personnel changes in the city government which made communication between the consultant and city officials difficult.
