tions to the closing from the Iowa State Highway Commission and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene T. Larew, 207 Black Springs Circle. The regents decided to close the street anyway, to make room for the proposed Basic Sciences Building.

Newton Road Closing OK'd By Regents After Hearing

The State Board of Regents voted Friday to close Newton Road despite objections from the Iowa State Highway Commission and some Iowa City citizens.

The board, meeting in Old Capitol, approved unanimously a resolution that would allow the proposed Basic Sciences Building to be built in such a way as to block Newton Road just west of Iowa Avenue.

Merritt C. Ludwig, the University's planning and development director, outlined the University's plans for closing the road at a public hearing before the board voted on the matter. He said that traffic would initially be allowed to use Glenview Avenue, a route behind Children's Hospital, detouring the Newton Road traffic around the building site. But eventually, Ludwig said, the street would be closed entirely.

No one but Ludwig appeared in support of the closing.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene T. Larew, 207 Black Springs Circle, objected to the closing of the street. The Larews, represented at the hearing by their attorney, Robert N. Downer, said they used the Wolff Avenue viaduct and Newton Road to get to eastern sections of Iowa City.

Downer said that other available routes — Riverside Drive or Rocky Shore Drive — were inconvenient because of the narrow streets that connected the residential area with them. He also cited the danger of the intersections of both alternate routes with Highway 6 and 218.

A traffic study conducted by Iowa City in 1964 showed 10,952 cars each day on sections of Newton Road, according to Downer. Furthermore, he said, traffic counts during 1966 showed an increase of traffic on the street from 1964.

The use of Newton Road by fire equipment was also called by Downer a reason for keeping the street open. He told the regents that his clients realized that the University was not responsible for most of the traffic on Newton Road but that it was unrealistic to expect the alternate routes to carry the Newton Road traffic.

Some Inconvenience
Ludwig admitted that some inconvenience would be caused by the closing of the street. However, he said he thought residents would find alternate routes without too much difficulty.

He said Iowa City was planning to build a west side fire station in the near future which would eliminate the problem of fire equipment mobility.

He also said that the danger of the intersection at Rocky Shore Drive and Highways 6 and 218 would be decreased in the future when the city installs traffic signals.

Robert C. Henely, district urban engineer for the highway commission, said the commission generally agreed with the moving of traffic around the University campus instead of through it.

But he said that the commission opposed closing Newton Road because of the overloading of other streets by the diverted traffic.

Ludwig described University plans to build a road running from Highway 6 and 218 near Rocky Shore Drive along the Rock Island railroad tracks to Melrose Avenue.

Melrose Avenue Bridge

He said that Iowa City was planning to build a Melrose Avenue bridge across the Iowa River and that with the proposed new road, Melrose Avenue would be able to carry much of the traffic Newton Road is now carrying.

A $28 to $30 million expansion of the health sciences campus is planned in the next 10 years. Ludwig said that in order to accommodate this kind of expansion it was necessary either to relocate major elements at a peripheral site such as Oakdale or to make very intensive use of land in the west campus area.

He said careful use of the west campus was preferable because it would allow all of the health science elements to be together as well as close to the rest of the University's academic facilities.

The Basic Sciences Building, which will cost $11,416,000, will be one of the largest buildings on campus. A portion of it will cover Newton Road in front of Children's Hospital.

Mideast Showdown Put Off

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Rival compromise resolutions seeking withdrawal of Israeli troops from Arab territory confronted delegates to the U.N. General Assembly on Friday, but a showdown was put off until Monday.

Some veteran diplomats have privately expressed doubt that any pending proposal will receive the necessary two-thirds majority.

Such a stalemate would throw the whole question back into the 15-nation Security Council which already had made an unsuccessful attempt to resolve the problems left by the six-day war between Israel and her Arab neighbors.

With support of the United States, 18 Latin-American countries submitted the newest resolution, setting no time limit for an Israeli withdrawal. It called for an end to the state of belligerency by all sides and a resort to peaceful settlement of all disputes.

Abdul Rahman Pazhwak of Afghanistan, the assembly president, proposed Monday morning for the vote, and there was no objection.

The meeting was adjourned until Monday morning.

In view of the Latin-American proposal, Denmark and other countries dropped plans to submit their own compromise resolution.

The so-called nonaligned countries recast their 16-nation resolution in an effort to win wider support. But they retained their demand for immediate troop withdrawal, and made it a prerequisite to any later consideration of a peaceful solution to the Middle East problems.

One side effect of the situation was a deeper rift in U.S.-French relations. Diplomatic sources said France received instructions to vote for the nonaligned resolution and to persuade others to do likewise.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko showed up for the afternoon session of the assembly. He told reporters the non-aligned resolution was a good one.

The Israelis remained steadfast in their opposition to the nonaligned resolution despite the changes. They were inclined to look with more favor on the Latin-American proposal, but there was no official Israeli comment.

At the end of the second week of the emergency special session the general debate was over, and the delegates turned to consideration of resolutions. Soviet-Arab demands for condemnation of Israel faded away.

A two-thirds majority is required for approval of a resolution, and backers of both rival proposals claimed they had enough votes.

man Wednesday said the summit resulted in no settlement and only made disagreement more evident.

From the beginning of the Mideast crisis, De Gaulle has sought to get the Big Four — the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France — to concert views on a settlement. He has not succeeded in shaping any Big Four plan of even getting representatives of the four together.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A four-year draft extension was signed into law Friday by President Johnson. Its major change is virtually automatic deferment for college students.

But he did not put into effect an emphasis upon induction of 19-year-olds. There had been indications such a change would be made.

The President, by executive order, did include standby authority for calling the younger age group first but officials said a change is not expected during the next 12 months.

"We do not anticipate that a change will be needed during the next year," Thomas D. Morris, assistant secretary of defense, told reporters.

Older men in the 19-26 group have been drafted first in the past but this pool has dwindled to the point that younger eligibles now meet most monthly quotas. Morris said the median age now is between 20 and 21 years.

"We want to stabilize this between 19 and 21," Morris said.

Johnson signed the bill in Texas where he is spending the Independence Day weekend. Aside from the broadened student deferment, it carries most of the provisions of the law which would have expired at midnight Friday night.

Johnson's executive order revises the basis for undergraduate college deferments, restricts deferments for graduate students and sharply limits the "pyramiding" of deferments.

Under the new law, any undergraduate college student who requests one would be entitled to a deferment to continue his courses. He no longer would have to stay in the upper half of his class to hold his deferment. He needs only to meet normal scholastic and other standards of the school.

Ky Accepts No. 2 Spot On Viet Military Ticket

SAIGON (AP) — A military presidential ticket headed by Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky in the No. 2 spot, emerged from political infighting here Friday. A consolidation of rival candidacies, it looks like a winner.

With unified backing of the 600,000-man armed forces, which control communications and the bulk of South Vietnam's transport facilities, Thieu and Ky seem certain to outdistance civilian candidates in the election Sept. 3. That election is intended to restore civilian government.

Political realities here require a political contented military, and the surest way to keep the military contented would be to elect a general to the all-powerful post of president. The general would then have to leave the armed forces officially.

The new constitution requires that all military officers running for political jobs must obtain leaves of absence for the summer campaign.

The race took on new meaning as Ky, who announced his candidacy for president May 12, bowed out under pressure within the Armed Forces Council on behalf of Thieu, who announced his candidacy June 14. The council applauded.

"Everyone was surprised, including the participants," a high U.S. official said.

A Vietnamese government source said Ky, in withdrawing and agreeing to run for vice president, was making a patriotic sacrifice to avoid splitting the armed forces.

But it was apparent that the premier, riding high with a month's head start on Thieu, had lost so much support among the 50 or so ruling generals that he had to take a back seat.

The importance of the military backing stems from the fact that, with about a dozen entries, the ticket with the most votes will win, regardless of whether it gets a majority. No other candidates have a bloc so large as the 600,000 that presumably will be solidly behind Thieu and Ky.

The servicemen represent more than 10 per cent of South Vietnam's estimated 5.2 million voters.

Kremlin Protests Reported Strike On Soviet Ship

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. warplanes may have bombed a Soviet cargo ship in Haiphong harbor while attacking nearby North Vietnamese antiaircraft positions, the Pentagon said Friday.

The incident — the second in less than a month — drew a "resolute protest" from Moscow and a Soviet demand for "strict punishment of the guilty."

"Although pilots are under instructions to avoid Soviet shipping," the Defense Department said, "it is possible that certain of the ordnance directed at the antiaircraft site fell on the ship."

It said the air defense installation under attack was about 500 yards from the ship.

The Pentagon ordered an investigation. It avoided any flat statements that might boomerang, as happened June 18 when it had to eat a denial that Americans planes had struck another Soviet freighter at a small port northeast of Haiphong. Moscow reported one killed and several wounded in this episode.

The Soviet government identified the ship involved in the latest incident as the Mikhail Frunze. It said the merchantman was damaged but made no mention of any death or injuries to Soviet crewmen aboard. The Russians reported the ship struck June 29 by an antipersonnel bomb of the type often used against antiaircraft batteries.

Legislature Advances Toward Adjournment

DES MOINES (AP) — The State Legislature pushed toward final adjournment Friday night but it was certain that the record breaking 1967 session would not end before today.

Both houses had recessed by 9:30 p.m.

Action had been completed on the $121 million tax bill but Majority Leader Andrew Frommelt (D-Dubuque) said the Senate will not dispose of the massive school aid-property tax relief bill until today's session.

The Senate had refused to act on this important measure until the House approved a Senate-passed companion bill to require the assessment of all property in the state at 27 per cent of its fair market value.

The House passed the assessment bill 87-17 Friday night but not in time to clear the way for adjournment.

Also blocking the end of the session were major appropriations bills for state spending during the fiscal biennium which begins today.

A disagreement over a proposal in the State Board of Regents appropriation bill earmarking $750,000 to start planning for a new four-year college in western Iowa was partly responsible for delaying final action on that measure.

The House had voted the $750,000 but the Senate knocked it out. The House also had allotted $40 million during the biennium for major construction at Regents institutions and the Senate cut the amount to $30 million.

A conference committee of both houses worked during the day to settle the differences but reported Friday night it could not agree.

This necessitated the appointment of a new conference committee on the board expenditures.

The board has taken a dim view of starting a new college. The Senate, by removing the earmarking fund for it, proposed to leave the matter to the regents.

Soviet Premier Visits De Gaulle For 2nd Time

PARIS (AP) — With their views on the Mideast crisis now strikingly similar, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Charles de Gaulle are meeting today for the second time in 16 days.

Since the Soviet premier stopped here June 16 on his way to the United Nations and talks with President Johnson, De Gaulle has put aside his middle-road stand.

To the cheers of the French Communist party and the consternation of some of his most faithful followers, De Gaulle publicly accused Israel of firing the first shots in the June war with the Arabs. He also repeatedly reminded Israel that France does not recognize any claim to Egyptian, Jordanian and Syrian territory occupied by Israeli forces.

De Gaulle's present posture on the Mideast can only improve the already cordial atmosphere between him and his guest when they sit down at Elysee Palace as Kosygin stops off on his way home from talks in Havana with Prime Minister Fidel Castro. But whether they will be able to do anything to push the Mideast impasse off dead-center seems doubtful.

Kosygin will be in position to give De Gaulle details of how Johnson views the Middle East and other world crisis spots, following their two-day summit at "Hollybush" in Glassboro, N.J.

Without waiting for such an account, the French government already has written off Glassboro as an exercise of little or no value. A statement by a Cabinet spokes-

Jetliner Crashes Into Harbor In Rain Squall; 56 Survive

HONG KONG (AP) — A Thai jetliner carrying 58 American tourists plunged into Hong Kong harbor Friday as it tried to land in fog and a rain squall. Of 80 aboard, 21 are known dead, 3 are missing and 56 survived.

Sixteen Americans were unaccounted for. The torn wreckage of the jet, with 14 bodies trapped inside, was lifted from the bottom of the harbor early today. The tail of the twin-jet Caravelle was torn off — providing a gaping escape hatch for the survivors.

Thai International Airways said 58 Americans were among the 73 passengers aboard the Caravelle, which carried a crew of seven. Queen Elizabeth Hospital issued a list of the 56 known survivors and it included only 42 Americans.

Among the Americans were 34 from Sacramento, Calif., many of them teachers at Sacramento State College. They boarded the plane in Taipei, Formosa, along with seven other Americans. The Californians were bound for Hong Kong on a summer travel-study trip to Asia.

H. J. McCormick, an official of the college, said in Sacramento he had been informed 7 of the 34 were missing. The information came from Charles Hume, a faculty member and leader of the study tour, who cabled him: "Tragedy struck State College travel group. Tentatively seven missing."

City Council Hires Firm To Redesign Pool At Mercer Park; Bid Too High

A proposal to redesign the Mercer Park pool was voted by the Iowa City council Friday.

J. L. Donoghue, president of R. H. Burke and Associates of Chicago, appeared before the council to explain his firm's estimate of $235,000 on a project that has been bid at $271,000. The city had allocated $200,000 for the pool.

Donoghue said the lack of communication between city officials and his firm resulted in no clear directions for designing the pool.

Mayor William C. Hubbard countered that the firm had not kept within the budgeted $200,000. Councilman Jim H. Nesmith supported the mayor, saying Burke and Associates had not kept the city informed of changes in the plans and increased prices of materials.

Donoghue said the high bid was due to inflation and a lack of competition in the bidding. There was only one bidder.

Donoghue said quality or size would have to be cut to stay within the $200,000 allocation.

Rounded corners on the pool, tile in the showers, the steel roof, Duroflex diving boards, chrome plated pipes, automatic shower controls, underwater lights, extra toilets, the snack bar and the wading pool could be dropped from the plans, according to Donoghue.

Councilman Richard C. Burger said he would like to see all the original features incorporated into the pool and moved that the pool be redesigned on a smaller scale. He proposed that the firm include as alternates the original size pool, heat in the bath house, the snack bar, toilets outside the pool, storage space, underwater lights and walks outside the pool area.

Burger also moved that separate bids for the pool and the bathhouse be taken and that Burke and Associates have the mechanical and electrical work sealed by Burke's consultants.

The council approved the proposal and hired Burke and Associates to redesign the pool in time for a new bidding in about six weeks.

LA police actions unjustified

Surprisingly little news coverage has been given to a situation that should concern us all greatly. This was the brutality of Los Angeles policemen last Friday night as they were dispersing a group of anti-Vietnam war demonstrators who were picketing during President Johnson's visit there.

Television news film clearly showed demonstrators offering no resistance but being clubbed by police — usually several policemen. Often the soundtrack of the film contained cries of demonstrators begging for help and asking the police to discontinue the physical attacks.

Obviously there was no way for television viewers to know what these demonstrators had done to provoke the police attacks. Nevertheless, persistent police violence after individuals have submitted to arrest or show no signs of physical rebellion can not be justified.

The apparent fact that the demonstrators were illegally assembled, likewise, does not justify the use of such physical force by police. The police should not be the ones to administer punishment even when guilt is obvious.

The actions of the police in Los Angeles Friday night seemed sadistically brutal even to an observer, like myself, who has seen the unnecessarily violent methods that some police use when arresting individuals. Seeing such brutality as there was in Los Angeles makes it easier to understand why there have been claims that the Los Angeles police figured importantly in the causes of the Watts riots there.

Considering that the television newsfilm didn't tell the entire story, that the demonstrators probably were guilty of unlawful assembly and that some of the demonstrators may have even resisted arrest, there still is no excuse for continued police clubbing of men who have surrendered.

Why classes this Monday?

I have a very simple question which comes up nearly every time there is a national holiday on a Tuesday.

Why are we having classes this Monday?

It doesn't seem like too much to ask the administration to give us an extra day of vacation over the July 4 weekend and tuck on that lost day at the end of the session. More than likely there would be no objections on the part of most students and instructors. Maybe even some of the administration would like to have a four-day weekend rather than a two-day weekend followed by one day of classes and then another day off.

For many, the Fourth of July is a time for family reunions, but this year there will be a number of students who will be unable to attend them.

Some instructors don't plan to hold classes on Monday and this makes it very tempting for a student to elect his other class or classes which are scheduled to meet as usual.

The same situation would — and often does — exist when a holiday falls on Thursday. We get Thursday off but have to be back in class on Friday and then get the usual weekend break.

What do you say, administration, can't you set up the schedule differently in the future? You'd make a lot of people happy.

Campus recruiting called ridiculous

CHICAGO — Top mercenaries of American industry are waging a relentless year-round, no-holds-barred recruiting war for talent on college campuses in what could go down as one of the most ridiculous, wasteful chapters in U.S. industrial history.

The author of that statement, Lon D. Barton of Cadillac Associates, is even more emphatic in his condemnation of it, when he says that it must be stopped and a permanent peace negotiated or U.S. corporations can face the prospect of personnel chaos.

"It really isn't funny, and I guess what is equally disgusting to me in this whole silly business is that the pawns in it, the students, simply aren't worth all the shouting. While they may be in the upper percentiles of their class, they have also been wined and dined to the point where their ego is so overpowering that it takes three to five years of knocking around in actual training before they are useful to a corporation. By that time they have left the training program for which the firm has spent thousands of dollars and the investment has become a total loss. The economics of it would baffle even a government expert," Barton said.

Working as they do with upper and middle management the Barton organization and another Chicago firm, Drake and Associates, don't have to compete in this area though many June graduates are convinced they could fill those jobs at the top. The more than 100 Barton counsellors are concerned with one of the side effects of this campus warfare. Over the past three to five years the bidding for these young minds has become so intense and so insane that the average offers have escalated at least five per cent a year, whereas job offers for men with experience have not.

"In terms of your worth in the executive market today this means that the man who graduated from the knowledge factories three years ago may well be making less, seldom more than the June graduate who joins him this year. There isn't a male alive who wouldn't revolt at this kind of treatment. Experienced men are taking a hard look at their present jobs and leaving. I suppose we should be glad at the tremendous turnover that is taking place but we can't be. We feel it is a tragic waste of valuable manpower," Barton said.

Barton has only to look at the hundreds of executive job offers in his offices to verify this point. The job orders are there, but they are several laps behind what industry is offering June graduates in its mad pursuit of the 'mod.'

"Honestly, the salaries they are offering for these talented men are ridiculous, yet we see constant evidence of the dizzying heights they are willing to go to lure 'class of 67' men to their plants," Barton said.

Evidence? June business administration M.A. graduates from Northwestern University were asking and receiving offers of $11,000 with no previous work experience.

A girl, 22, chemistry graduate with a B.S. degree from the University of Michigan rejected six offers to work for $8,500 with no previous work experience.

An L.L.B. and B.A. in business administration graduate in Minneapolis accepted a job as a tax researcher at $13,000 with no previous work experience.

A Purdue Ph.D. candidate completing his thesis rejected a $14,000 offer in operations research as too low. He had no previous work experience.

A Chemistry Ph.D. candidate with six months work yet on his degree has already indicated to a Cadillac counsellor that he would accept no offers under $18,000.

Oddly enough it is a war with no real villains. Leading corporations station recruiters at campuses now on a full-time basis in a desperate effort to keep their training programs going and to meet their competition. If they expect to compete for government work they are required to stock a number of Ph.D. bodies.

You can't blame the students who have been under tremendous academic pressure since they entered high school to get high grades, get in the right school and then take advantage of the salary and prestige that the training allows. Many of them have contributed summers of earning power to finance their own education. Their mood is to sell now to the highest bidder and the blandishments offered them would turn even the coolest head.

Barton's counsellors find that even institutions for higher learning are competing for these men now through the government's liberal policy of research grants and, in this case, there are many fringes worth more than money.

The war must be halted or the salaries will be escalated even beyond that which the cost-plus corporations can afford and experienced men create more movement than there is now. It is pointless for them to stay on in a job where their true worth is not recognized.

The war must be halted. A few far-sighted corporations are recognizing the tremendous economic waste involved in this warfare and abandoning campus recruiting altogether.

"Colleges and universities must encourage this. They must electrify their walls and bar permanently all such recruiting. There is far too much double talk at the academic level. On the one hand we hear what a terribly disrupting influence this recruiting is on academic standards and routine yet, perhaps influenced somewhat by liberal grants or contributions to the alumni funds, the schools have been very slow in implementing their fears. They could stop it over night if they established stringent enough rules and this they must do," Barton concluded.

'I don't even believe in one-senator, one-vote'

WEEKEND WANDERINGS

By SUE RICKEL

"All I could see from where I perched Was slime and mud and grass besmirched, And you will puke when you have seen The footbridge painted poison green."

"Sound good for a start?" asked Ichthus. "It's called 'Senescence,' an ode to the university of Iowa," he smirked. "Get it? 'Senescence,' pronounced to rhyme with Renaissance."

"Well, I don't know," I said. "Isn't 'puke' a little too strong a word for an ode?"

"Look at the monstrosity again," Ichthus said dryly. I looked out the large window of the New River Room. The gangrenous color seemed to be spreading from the Art Building, via the bridge, to contaminate our side of the river.

"Maybe you could use 'barf' for a substitute — or regurgitate."

"One can see," Ichthus said gelidly, "that you know nothing about poetry. Puke is alliterative with perched, the two you's, painted and poison. Barf is alliterative only with besmirched and has wrong connotations. Regurgitate would wreck my meter."

Ichthus was right. I know nothing about poetry. I followed Ichthus out through the handy dandy, speedy, check-out counter, where I was stopped and carded. Given clearance, was eyed suspiciously by three pouter-gibbon dowagers, twig-legged and boozym.

"The new pecking order," I grumbled to Ichthus. "Middle-aged teachers on sabbaticals, in clusters, with six eyes apiece, impaling me and my short-shorts, Modene and her mini-skirts, with minatory stares."

We entered the first floor ballroom, the psychedelic carpet swirling below us with its wild blues, turquoises, swish, swish.

We sat down at the piano and Ichthus started playing a Bach prelude. He has a wonderful touch on the piano, Ichthus does, that's one thing he's really mastered. The pouter-pigeons became phoenixes, peacocks with tail feathers of flowers.

"I don't know how much later it was, but Ichthus was being cuffed on the shoulder. "I said, you must stop playing the piano!"

"What do you mean, stop playing the piano?" said Ichthus, contentiously. We looked up at a funny little man, all pink and glossy.

Our leucodermic friend quivered and said in a real tiny voice: "You might break it."

"I might break it!" bellowed Ichthus, rising abruptly. "I've had eight years of piano training and the thing's out of tune, anyway." Ichthus sat down again, starting into a Beethoven sonatina.

"Quit it, or we'll throw you out!" A new voice, belonging to Pinky's henchman, a huge surly janitor in puce-colored grubbies.

"There's a rule against students playing Union pianos," Pinky added.

Furious, Ichthus grabbed my arm, heading towards the back door. "Doing them a favor to play on my crummy piano."

"Hey, you can't go out that way!" squealed Pinky.

"Probably have the cruddy door locked," muttered Ichthus. He started pushing at the door with all his strength.

"No, Ichthus, stop!" I said. "The stairs are all gone. It's just a sheer drop." Sure enough, a demolition crew had torn away the stairs — the foundations for a new addition were being set up.

"I didn't want to go out that way, anyhow," said Ichthus. "Just have to look at the grass torn up to make a walk that nobody wanted and a pretty bridge painted slimy green."

"A new addition," I moaned. "No more stairs. That means we won't have a Sun Porch or poetry readings looking out on the river, ever again."

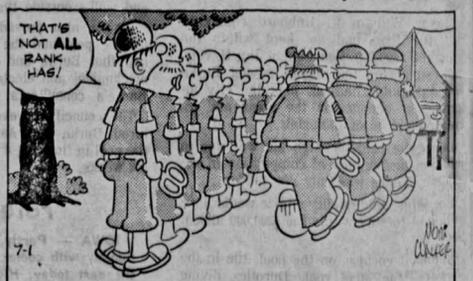

"Senescence, see what I mean? Senescence," said Ichthus, and slowly we opened the doors and left the Union, the front and only way.

Haugen Shackles Muscatine With Shutout Performance

By GEORGE KAMPLING
Special For The Iowan

Donn Haugen fired a three-hit shutout here Friday, as the Iowa City '66ers defeated Muscatine 4-0, in the Hawkeye College Conference.

The win, Haugen's third without a loss, evened Iowa City's record at 4-4 for the season, and dropped Muscatine, league leaders going into Friday's game, to a 4-3 mark.

Catcher Joe Bulgua led Iowa City at the plate with a pair of singles in three trips to the plate as the '66ers picked up seven hits off Muscatine's Rick Iverson, now 0-3.

Mike Wymore, '66er first baseman, led off the second inning with a walk, moved to second on Steve Hirko's sacrifice, went to third on a wild pitch, and scored the first run on a single to center by Haugen.

A walk, fielder's choice, and three straight singles by Bob Perkins, Bulgua, and Gerry Bruchas gave Iowa City two more runs in the fifth.

Iowa City scored its final run in the sixth when Wymore singled to center, stole second, went to third on a fielder's choice and scored on a squeeze bunt laid down by Haugen who walked to the dugout instead of running it out.

The '66ers play host to Milan in a doubleheader here Sunday afternoon at 1:30 on the Hawkeye diamond.

Iowa Sports Arena Gets Regents' OK

By BILL NEWBROUGH
Editor

The first stage of a long-range plan to provide the University with more area for recreation, intramural sports, physical education and intercollegiate athletics was approved by the State Board of Regents Friday.

The board, meeting in Old Capitol, gave approval of preliminary plans for the first stage, a block-long sports and recreation building. The building is to be located near the northwest corner of the Iowa football stadium. The construction is expected to cost about $1.6 million.

The total program of new construction and remodeling in the proposed that the recreational and physical education facilities be provided by remodeling and enlarging the Field House. However, officials have now decided that approximately doubling the size of the Field House when it is in the area on which a proposed major addition to the General Hospital would be undesirable.

University officials also felt that the staging of construction in order to spread costs over a period of time would be better than a single major project. Such spreading of costs would not be possible if the original plan had been followed because of the interruption of programs national facilities during a period of large enrollment increases.

Regent Melvin H. Wolf, Waterloo, questioned the plans. He said he thought projects such as a $500,000 swimming pool seemed hard to justify for an institution that was trying to cut spending. Wolf did vote for approving the preliminary plans for the sports building, however.

Borrowing Capacity Sufficient
The sports building will be used for physical education classes, student recreation programs and intercollegiate athletics. The 186-by-360-foot building is designed with a large main floor of asphaltic base. Up to six tennis courts, or as many as 10

IOWA'S PROPOSED ATHLETIC COMPLEX

Field House-stadium area of the campus is designed to take place in stages over a period of years. It is planned to serve 25,000 students.

Included in the long-range plan besides the sports building are extensive remodeling of the Field House, a recreational swimming pool and a new arena for large public events and intercollegiate athletics. The total cost of the project is estimated at $8 to $10 million.

Federal Funds Expected
Most of the money is to come from two student fees that total $15 a semester. These fees are already being paid by students. University officials expect that matching funds from the federal government will be available for some phases of the project.

The University had originally necessary. The only preliminary plans presented to the regents Friday were for the sports and recreation building. However, other stages of the plan would include conversion of the Field House-Armory to primarily a recreational and physical education facility.

Officials To Consider Pool
Regent Mrs. Joseph F. Rosenfield, Des Moines, urged University officials to consider putting the recreational swimming pool on the east side of the river. University officials assured her they would consider it.

University Pres. Howard R. Bowen told the regents that the program was necessary in order to provide facilities for recreation during the long Iowa winters. He said that little had been done to provide additional recrebasketball courts, or a one-eighth mile track or 18 volleyball courts could be placed on the floor. Archery, golf and baseball are other activities that could be played on the main floor.

The lower level of the building, to be about half as large in area as the main floor, will be used for lockers, showers and storage. There will be an observation deck at one end of the building. Up to 1,000 people could be seated there. Bleacher seating for 1,600 people could be provided on the main floor.

University officials estimate that a present borrowing capacity of $6.2 million is sufficient to carry out all parts of the total program except the proposed arena. This facility, with seating for up to 15,000 people, would have to be financed in other ways.

1 Yank Left At Wimbledon
WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — John Newcombe, third seeded Australian, knocked out Clark Graebner in three straight sets Friday and left Charlie Pasarell as the sole American survivor in the men's singles at the Wimbledon Lawn Tennis Championships.

Graebner, 23-year-old from Beachwood, Ohio, saved 16 set points in the first set against Newcombe in a teeth-gritting effort to keep the match alive.

Finally the young American went down 17-15 in that vital first set and then all the steam left him in the blistering heat of No. 1 court. He dropped the next two sets, and Newcombe won 17-15, 6-3, 6-4.

Pasarell, 23-year-old former ball boy from Santurce, Puerto Rico, plays Tomas Koch of Brazil in Saturday's round of 16.

Six American girls are through to the round of 16, and Billie Jean King, the defending champion, still looked a safe bet to retain her title — though she has played only once to reach the fourth round.

Wall Takes Lead In Canadian Open

MONTREAL (AP) — Steady Art Wall carefully carved out a one-under-par 70 Friday and took the second-round lead in the $200,000 Canadian Open Golf Championship while the new breed that dominated the first-day activity fired and fell back.

Wall, a greying veteran from Pocono Manor, Pa., had a 137 for two trips over the compact, 6,600-yard, par 71 Montreal Municipal course and enjoyed a two-stroke lead over Billy Casper and Dale Douglass.

Casper, two-time U.S. Open champion, had a one-under 70, and Douglass had one of the day's best rounds, a four-under 67 with seven birdies and three bogeys.

Young Laurie Hammer, the 24-year-old who held the first-round lead, went to a 74 for 140. He was tied at that figure with Steve Reid, who had a 73 after an opening 67; Gardner Dickinson, 72; Australian veteran Kel Nagle, a former British Open champ, who had a two-under 69, and Argentina veteran Roberto Devicenzo, 71.

Don January, with a par 71, and Jack Nicklaus, 72, were tied at 141. Arnold Palmer, who came in with a 70, was one of a large group at 142.

Catherine Lacoste Tops Ladies' Golf

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Catherine Lacoste, a captivating 22-year-old amateur from Paris, shamed America's finest lady pros with a one-under-par 70 Friday that shot her into a five-stroke lead after 36 holes in the National Women's Open Golf Championship.

Now the tomboyish French girl with the inoffensive cocky air is going for three other marks in the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday. If she maintains the pace, she can become the youngest player ever to win the tournament, the first amateur and the first foreigner.

New Water Mark Set In Alabama
GUNTERSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — After several frustrating attempts, Lee Taylor Jr. broke the world's water speed record Friday.
Taylor's average for two runs over the mile course on Lake Guntersville was 282.2 miles per hour.
The record had been held by the late Donald Campbell at 277.33 m.p.h.
The record fell on Taylor's second attempt Friday.
Earlier in the day, he had throttled the 2½-ton jet boat to 299.181 miles per hour going north but his return speed of only 250.726 kept his average below Campbell's mark.
The 299 was the quickest any man has ever traveled the mile over water, although Campbell was being clocked at 320 m.p.h. when his boat blew up and he was killed several months ago.
This was the final day of a current sanction by the American Power Boat Association for the Downey, Calif., racer to try for the record.

Mantle Named To All-Stars; Robbie May Miss 2 Weeks
BOSTON (AP) — Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankees' aging but still dangerous slugger, heads a list of nine additional players named Friday to the American League All-Star team.
Mantle, who has appeared in 14 All-Star games and has been named to three other All-Star squads, was joined by first baseman Don Mincher and shortstop Jim Fregosi of California, second baseman Dick McAuliffe of Detroit, third baseman Max Alvis of Cleveland, catchers Paul Casanova of Washington and Andy Etchebarren of Baltimore, and outfielders Tommie Agee of Chicago and Tony Conigliaro of Boston.
Tony Oliva of Minnesota will replace Al Kaline of Detroit, who led the voting but will have to miss the game due to a broken bone in his hand.
BALTIMORE (AP) — It could be two days to two weeks or even longer before slugger Frank Robinson returns to action for the Baltimore Orioles, the team physician said Friday.
Robinson suffered a brain concussion in a collision with Al Weis of the Chicago White Sox Tuesday night.
Dr. Leonard Wallenstein said that Robinson is "certainly in no condition to go up to the plate now because he's seeing double with one eye. The best thing for him now is rest."
A slow recovery from the concussion could hurt Robinson's bid for a second straight Triple Crown.
He still led the American League in batting with an average of .337 and in run batted in with

LARSEN CALLED UP—
CHICAGO (AP) — Don Larsen, who pitched his name into baseball history books with a perfect World Series performance in 1956, has been purchased by the Chicago Cubs, from their Dallas-Fort Worth farm team.
Larsen, 38, joined Dallas-Fort Worth May 23 and compiled a 2-2 record in 12 games, giving up 16 hits and only five earned runs. He posted an outstanding earned run average of 1.57 and had five saves.
BROWN INJURED—
DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers Friday placed Gates Brown on the disabled list and purchased outfielder Lenny Green from Toledo to replace him.
Brown injured his left wrist when he crashed into the fence in the Tigers' 5-3 loss to Cleveland Thursday.
WIND STOPS TWIN GAME—
ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Friday night's baseball game between the Washington Senators and Minnesota Twins was postponed after a wind and rain storm apparently ripped off a small section of the roof at Metropolitan Stadium and sent fans into a near state of panic.
Time was called as a driving rain that reduced visibility to 100 feet sent the estimated 15,000 spectators racing for cover, fearing a tornado was about to strike.

Moeller Starts New Career Today

Iowa journalist and educator Leslie G. Moeller will begin a new career today.

With his resignation as director of the School of Journalism effective today, he will become a full-time professor. Moeller's successor is Malcolm MacLean, holder of the Gallup Chair of Communications Research.

After 20 years — to the day — as director, Moeller plans to get into a new area of teaching, providing additional preparation of Ph.D. degree candidates for work in professional journalism teaching. He will begin research in the area by examining journalism education's general philosophy and trends, as well as new trends in higher education.

Moeller's research will include a study of the present supply of, and demand for, professional journalism educators, and an attempt to match probable supply with areas, such as advertising, public relations and newspaper journalism, which need teachers.

Already, some 80 per cent of the persons who have earned Ph.D. degrees in mass communications at the University are engaged in teaching and research in colleges and universities, according to Moeller.

Graduate Student Wins Ford Grant

Mrs. Eleanor M. Birch, G. Iowa City, has been awarded a Ford Foundation grant that will enable her to write her doctoral dissertation in economics during the 1967-68 academic year.

The fellowship provides a basic stipend of $2,500 plus allowances for dependents, tuition and research expenses.

"Permanent Demand in Investment Theory" is the tentative title of Mrs. Birch's dissertation.

Mrs. Birch came to the University in 1964, when her husband, John J. Birch, joined the faculty as professor of mathematical statistics. He now has a joint appointment in the College of Medicine.

Chinese Embargo Hurts Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP) — Red China's four-day embargo on all food shipments to Hong Kong entered its second day today and some prices in the colony have doubled.

Sabotage and attacks on public transportation continued, as local Communists stepped up their anti-British protests by trying to cripple Hong Kong with a general strike.

Autopsy Ordered In Death At Pool

An autopsy has been ordered to determine the cause of death of 10-year-old Mark Allen, who died after being pulled from City Park swimming pool about 9:30 Friday morning.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Allen, Route 1, Oxford.

Young Allen, a member of a beginning swimming class, had been practicing strokes in the pool's shallow end, according to city recreation officials. When he appeared to be having difficulty, he was pulled to the side by a water safety aide, Debbie Rollins, 15, 103 Grove St. He then lost consciousness.

Oxygen was administered by the Fire Department rescue squad; Dr. George D. Callahan, county medical examiner, pronounced the boy dead. The body was taken to Mercy Hospital where the autopsy will be performed.

CORRECTION

Student parking permits will be raised from $40 to $45 for the next academic year, not the next calendar year as stated in The Daily Iowan Friday. There will be an extra $10 fee for summer parking, according to John D. Dooley, director of parking lot operations.

Dooley also reminds students that the fine is now $25 for failing to register a car on campus.

Educational TV Sent To Hughes

DES MOINES (AP) — A start on a state communications system including an educational television network was authorized under a bill sent to the governor by a 42-8 Senate vote Friday.

The Senate had passed the measure earlier and sent it to the House while another bill carrying the $3 million appropriation recommended by Gov. Harold Hughes waited in the wings.

The House didn't wait but added a $500,000 appropriation to the bill and sent it back. The Senate accepted the amendment.

Hargitay Was Still Husband Of Film Star, Judge Rules

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The body of actress Jayne Mansfield was released Friday to Hollywood musician Mickey Hargitay after a brief legal fight.

Judge Bernard J. Bagert ruled that Hargitay was still the legal husband of the actress when she was killed in a highway traffic crash here Thursday.

Thus ended 34 hours of controversy over who would take Miss Mansfield to her final resting place — Hargitay or movie director Matt Cimber, the man the world believed to be her latest husband.

Hargitay said funeral plans were incomplete. Earlier, he said the ceremony would be private but declined to elaborate.

The judge's ruling rejected the claim by Cimber, father of Miss Mansfield's one-year-old son, Antonio. Cimber and the beautiful, busty blonde actress were estranged.

Both Cimber and Hargitay arrived here Thursday, flying in after the crash which killed Miss Mansfield; her latest romantic interest, lawyer Samuel Brody, 48, of Los Angeles; and their driver, Ronnie Harrison, 20, of Mississippi City, Miss.
