Assembly Agrees To 1-Week Break For Private Talks

UNITED NATIONS — The General Assembly voted today to adjourn the session and have a 1-week recess to enable the delegates from 150 nations to arrive in New York to help other states to agree on ways of reducing the number of weapons. According to a plan announced today, the delegates from 150 nations would arrive in New York to help with the reduction of weapons.

The General Assembly adjourned for the recess and is expected to reconvene on January 21, 1974. The recess was scheduled for one week to allow the delegates to arrive in New York and to enable the states to agree on ways of reducing the number of weapons.

Attention should be given to Galbraith's ideas

Economist John Kenneth Galbraith has come up with a plan that he believes would dethrone the Vietnam war. It deserves some serious consideration by the makers of United States foreign policy

Galbraith, a former ambassador to India and author of a number of books on economics at Harvard, has been a firefighter in recent years in the purser Vietnam policy by the administration.

The giving of large areas of South Vietnam such as the Mekong Delta, which have long been under Viet-con control. This would be a step, not only for the service men, but also for the civilians, towards a viable government in South Vietnam. This, Galbraith says, would put an end to "the mess of death and violent acts which have plagued the war from the beginning." The plan would mean a complete withdrawal from South Vietnam of all American ground forces. It would mean that the American troops would no longer be engaged in direct combat with the Vietcong forces in Vietnam.

Galbraith's plan implies that there

The disengagement of American forces from the area would be

The plan is obviously a comproissue on the ground. And because of this, the plan for American forces in Vietnam makes more sense this

But if the Vietnamese situation

mandates an element of Galbraith's plan, it would be entirely unilateral. No counteraction by the Vietnamese is warranted.

Doctor Says HOPE Helps ople To Help Themselves

BARBARA ANNIS, Burlington nurse, adds this week to a long list of cases in which HOPE, helping hand of hope, has brought success in solving a conflict. HOPE, which stands for Hoisting Organizations of People Everywhere, is a "people-helping-people" program that is helping people everywhere, and the Burlington chapter of HOPE is in process of expanding its services.

Annis, who has been a registered nurse for 11 years, began her work in the HOPE program six months ago. She is trying to help people find a solution to a problem that they feel is too difficult for them to handle alone.

Annis said that when she first began working with HOPE, she was surprised at how many people were willing to listen and help. She said that she has helped people work through a variety of problems, including family disputes, personal conflicts, and even medical issues.

Annis is careful to explain that HOPE is not a counseling service, but rather a support system that helps people find the resources they need to solve their own problems. She said that she works with other nurses, doctors, and social workers to provide the best possible care.

Annis said that she believes that HOPE can be a powerful tool in helping people overcome their problems. She said that she has seen many people find the strength they need to face their challenges and move forward.

Annis said that she is always looking for new ways to expand the services of HOPE. She said that she would like to see the program become more accessible to people who might not otherwise know about it.

She said that she is grateful for the support of her community in making this program a success. She said that she looks forward to continuing to help people find the solutions they need.

Detroit, Mich. — A published report that the Detroit Lions' legal problems were behind them was misleading. The Detroit News reported the Lions' woes were over last week in an article that appeared to be premature. The report was inaccurate. The Lions are still involved in legal disputes.

The Lions are currently embroiled in a lawsuit with the city of Detroit over a lease for Tiger Stadium, the home of the Detroit Tigers. The city is seeking to terminate the lease, which runs through 2024, and the Lions are fighting to keep the stadium. The case is set for trial in late 2022.

In addition, the Lions are facing a lawsuit over their efforts to build a new stadium in downtown Detroit. The city council approved a plan for the stadium in May 2021, but lawsuits have been filed against the city and the Lions by concerned residents and businesses.

The Lions are also facing legal challenges related to their lease for the Silverdome, the former home of the Detroit Devotees and Detroit Stags. The city of Pontiac, which owns the stadium, has filed a lawsuit seeking to terminate the lease and remove the Lions from the facility.

It is unclear when the legal issues will be resolved, and the Lions may be forced to continue playing at Ford Field until a new stadium is completed.

The Lions are hoping to move into a new stadium in downtown Detroit by 2025. The team is working with the city to secure financing for the project, and a new agreement is expected to be signed soon.

In the meantime, the Lions will continue to play at Ford Field, which was opened in 1929 and has a seating capacity of 61,000.

The team is also facing financial challenges, and they have been forced to cut rosters and reduce their salary cap. The Lions have the second-lowest payroll in the NFL, and they have been unable to sign top free agents in recent years.

Despite these challenges, the Lions are hoping to return to the playoffs in the next few years. The team has a young roster and is building for the future, with a focus on developing young talent and drafting key positions.

The Union listed five strengthes, which the gets of its proposed rule are:

1. Marketing and advertising for headache as all other competing products.
2. Advertising for headache pain relievers. Failure to state, warn or instruct in the labeling of analgesic products the effects of the drug, its purpose, directions for use of the product, and the conditions for which it is prescribed.
3. Allegations that the product will relieve headaches and other symptoms.
4. Allegations that the product will prevent or cure headaches.

The Hawk's Club Form Liaison For Medical Staff, Students

By BARBARA ANNIS

An educational evaluation council is being formed this year at the suggestion of the Iowa City Alumni Education Committee.

The organization was started last year in order to provide a means for students and faculty to express their views about the curricular and extra-curricular education at the University.

The idea of this type of evaluation program had been discussed in the past by the Alumni Education Committee, but the student members had always been missing from the application of the program.

This time, instead of having the evaluation committee made up of students, the student members are trying to form a parallel committee of their own, to have their views heard and to work hand-in-hand with the faculty members.

The committee made up of student members is expected to explore all aspects of the education program, with representatives from each college and department.

The students have been encouraged to express their views and to participate in the evaluation process, with the goal of improving the educational program for the benefit of all students.

The Hawk's Club in Iowa City is the key to what we have to do in the future — to make this University a world-class institution," said Dr. Daniel C. Morrison, president of the College of Medicine and a member of the Iowa City Alumni Education Committee.

In evaluating and trying to improve the teaching program, the committee, known as the Hawk's Club, and the faculty must necessarily be on the same page in order to be successful.

The Hawk's Club and the faculty members are trying to get as close as possible to the students, in order to understand their needs and concerns.

We hope to improve the teaching program and to the best of our ability. We have always been interested in making the University a world-class institution, and we have been very productive," said Dr. Morrison.

The faculty committee asked us to provide them with an opportunity to hear and discuss the student views. We believe that the Hawk's Club provides the students with an opportunity to express their views and to be heard.

The committee will work closely with the faculty committee, and we are looking forward to working with them to improve our educational program.

The Hawk's Club has been a great success, and we have a great deal of confidence in them. We have been working closely with them, and we have been very productive," said Dr. Morrison.

The Hawk's Club is a parallel organization, and we are hoping to work closely with them in order to improve our educational program.

The Hawk's Club was formed as a result of the student request for more involvement in the evaluation process, and we are looking forward to working with them in order to improve our educational program.

The Hawk's Club has been a great success, and we have a great deal of confidence in them.

Mrs. Bowen Keeps Busy As Hostess

BY JAN TEAGUE

Mrs. Bowen has a coffee bar every noon after class in the main hall. She usually plans different refreshments every half hour. The half hour times are as follows: 7:30 a.m., 8:30 a.m., 9:30 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 11:30 a.m., 12:30 p.m., 1:30 p.m., 2:30 p.m., 3:30 p.m. Mrs. Bowen said that being a nurse allows her to share in the care of patients. She also enjoys interacting with the students and providing them with refreshments. Mrs. Bowen said, "I enjoy seeing the students happy and content. It makes me feel good to see them enjoying themselves." Mrs. Bowen has been a nurse for over 20 years and has been teaching at the university for 10 years. She said that she enjoys being part of the university community and helping to create a welcoming environment for students.

Sugar Content in Cigarettes Is Risky Researchers Report

The 7-8% test of a cigarette brand shows, by the way, that it is the same sugar content as is in the sauce or of the peanut butter.
