

45,000 GIs Slated For War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced Thursday new troop authorizations, which will swell the U.S. commitment in the Vietnamese war to at least 525,000 men by next July.

In his tax message Johnson said that on the basis of recommendations from top defense and military leaders he has concluded "that I should authorize an increase of at least 45,000 in the number of men to be sent to Vietnam this fiscal year." Talking to newsmen, he put the increase at 45,000 to 50,000.

Pentagon spokesmen said this will be over and above the presently authorized 480,000-man level expected to be reached about October.

Sources said most, if not all, the additional 45,000 or so will be Army troops and some might be assigned to reinforce Marines battling North Vietnamese regulars along Vietnam's demilitarized zone.

Currently, according to figures revised Thursday, there are 454,000 men in Vietnam, down from a 464,000 total which was being used by the Pentagon on July 1 and a 461,000 total that was posted at the time Johnson spoke.

Officials said the reduction is a statistical matter and does not "represent a drop in actual operational strength."

Rather, it was explained, the reduction reflects the number of transients — departing troops and their coming replacements — who are in the manpower pipeline at any one time. These are no longer being counted as part of the in-country force.

"This nation," Johnson said in disclosing the troop increase, "has taken a solemn pledge — that its sons and brothers engaged in the conflict there shall never lack all the help, all the arms and all the equipment essential for their mission and for their very lives."

"America must — and will — honor that pledge."

The additional forces mean higher war costs, and Johnson warned that Vietnam spending "may exceed our earlier estimates." He said that based on present plans defense expenditures in fiscal 1968, which ends next June 30, might top the authorized budget "by up to $4 billion."

To help offset this increase, Johnson said he has asked Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara "to conduct a searching review of all defense expenditures" and postpone any spending "not now essential for national security."

Military men had hoped to get immediate approval for an additional 70,000 men. Specifically what Westmoreland sought from Johnson has not been disclosed but sources said he is understood to have expressed a need for additional units which would have raised the U.S. force to around 550,000 men by mid-1968.

Some officers took consolation that Johnson used the phrase "at least 45,000,"

Johnson Asks Surcharge Of 10 Per Cent On Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson called on Congress Thursday to enact promptly a 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes, partly to pay for a new troop buildup in Vietnam. The President told a news conference he has authorized an increase in Vietnam troop strength of from 45,000 to 50,000 additional men which would raise the number of personnel scheduled for Vietnam duty to 525,000 by June 30.

In submitting his tax plan in a special message, Johnson promised to hold down spending as much as possible and he asked Congress to do the same.

With increased taxes and reins on spending, he said, the budget deficit for the fiscal year which ends next June 30 can be held to between $14 billion and $18 billion. Otherwise, he added, the deficit could go as high as $29 billion.

Johnson said a mid-year review of his budget shows defense spending will rise an additional $4 billion above the approximate $75 billion projected in January.

Oct. 1 Proposed

In describing his message as a "financial plan for America's continued economic well-being," Johnson proposed that the surcharge on individuals take effect on Oct. 1 while that on corporations be made retroactive to July 1.

Johnson called the surcharge temporary and said it would expire on June 30, 1969, "or continue for so long as the unusual expenditures associated with our efforts in Vietnam require higher revenues."

He refrained from labeling the surcharge a "war tax," however, and said it is designed also to stem inflationary pressure, hold down interest rates and keep "Great Society" programs moving in view of recent racial disturbances and safeguard prosperity.

Johnson last January proposed a 6 per cent surcharge to take effect last July 1 but administration leaders have repeatedly indicated the rate could go higher.

There had been speculation in recent weeks of a surcharge as high as 10 per cent.

Under the surcharge, a person would add 10 per cent to his present tax bill.

Example Given

For example, an average family of four with an income of $10,000 pays about $1,100 in federal taxes under present rates. Under the surcharge the family's tax bill would increase by $110 over the course of a year.

Johnson said such a family would pay about $9.25 extra tax monthly.

The 16 million taxpayers in the lowest income brackets would be exempt from the surcharge.

Persons who pay no federal income taxes would also be unaffected.

A married couple with two children, for example, with an income of less than $5,000, yearly would pay no extra taxes under the plan. Neither would a single person with an income under $1,900 or a married couple with $3,600 a year income.

The surcharge on both individuals and corporations would raise $6.3 billion during the current fiscal year and more the following year when its full impact would be felt.

Officials noted that since the surcharge on individuals would be effective only for the last three months of this year, it would actually increase 1967 tax bills over-all by only 2½ per cent.

Postponement Asked

In addition to the surcharge, Johnson proposed postponement of the excise tax reductions scheduled for early next year on automobiles and telephone service and renewed his appeal for a speed-up in corporate tax collections.

The entire tax package, Johnson said, would increase revenues by $7.4 billion during the current fiscal year.

The burden for three of every four American families, he added, would be between a few cents and $9 a month.

"That is a small burden, a small inconvenience compared to what is borne by our men in arms who put their lives on the line in Vietnam," he said.

The House Ways and Means Committee scheduled a hearing on the plan for Aug. 14 but chairman Wilbur D. Mills, (D-Ark.) remained noncommittal. "I'm uncommitted," Mills said. "Committed to no-one, one way or the other."

Violence Erupts Throughout China; Civil War Feared

TOKYO (AP) — New and widespread violence has erupted in many parts of China in a continuing tense struggle for power, reports from the mainland indicated Thursday, and a Moscow report said the sprawling nation of 700 million was headed for civil war.

Travelers from China were quoted in Hong Kong as reporting bloody fighting between more than 20,000 supporters and foes of Mao Tse-tung in Hunan, Chairman Mao's native province.

In the long uneasy, populous south China province of Kwang-tung, numerous disorders and pitched battles were reported to have been breaking out sporadically, and reports reaching Tokyo said the People's Liberation Army had taken over there long ago because of what Premier Chou En-lai described as "the extreme urgency of the situation."

Commander Fired

In turbulent Wuhan, the big triple city in Hupeh Province and economic heart of China, a Japanese report from Peking said that Chen Tsai-tao, rebellious commander of an army brigade, had been fired after a bloody outbreak led by dissident army men.

A Tass news agency dispatch in Moscow, attributing its information to unnamed sources, said "witnesses arriving from China report that the situation in central and south China increasingly resembles a civil war."

"There are thousands of killed and wounded," it said. "Helicopters are dropping leaflets, urging a stop to the bloodshed. Hungry peasants are looting food stores. Continued clashes are reported between Mao Tse-tung's supporters and anti-Maoists and also among servicemen."

Fighting Reported

The Hong Kong reports on the violence in Mao's home province of Hunan said both sides fought with sharpened wooden or steel rods and added that occasional shots were heard.

One informant said the clash had been "going on for seven days and has greatly affected train traffic between Canton and Hankow."

There also were reports in Hong Kong that anti-Maoists railroad workers had repeatedly sabotaged the line between the British colony and Canton, and Hong Kong officials said a sharp drop in the number of trains from Red China had been observed.

Nashville School Denies Charges Of Urging Hate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police Capt. John A. Sorace of Nashville, Tenn., testified Thursday that the Office of Economic Opportunity is subsidizing a school that teaches Negro children to hate white people.

Challenged by the agency, which operates the federal anti-poverty program, Sorace renewed his sworn testimony. He would not reveal publicly the source of his information about a so-called Liberation school in Nashville.

"Is it a Black Power school, is that what it is?" asked Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.).

"There are certainly Black Power individuals who are teaching," Sorace told the Senate Judiciary Committee at a hearing on anti-riot legislation.

"Our information tells us that they teach hate of the white people," said Police Lt. Robert Hill, a Negro, "and after classes start at this school no white man is allowed to enter the door."

Sorace said $7,700 in federal funds went to an operation called the North Nashville Student Summer Project, that a man named Fred Brooks is director of the project, and that Brooks is Nashville chairman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee.

He accused SNCC leaders of igniting racial violence which hit Nashville last April.

Sorace said the grant to the project was made within the past two weeks.

In Nashville, Brooks said Sorace's testimony was a matter of interpretation and "he's entitled to his interpretation."

"We teach the historical fact that whites came to Africa and viciously enslaved many of the great African people. If history of their past leads them to hate white people, that's not our responsibility."

Business Split On Tax

NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson's proposal for a 10 per cent surcharge on corporate and personal income taxes brought cheers from some and expressions of dismay from others in the business world Thursday.

Some bankers applauded. Businessmen envisioned a tighter profits squeeze. Others called for cuts in non-defense spending.

"I think it's very much in order," said George A. Murphy, chairman of Irving Trust Co. in New York.

"There are times in the nation's history when developments call for action which involve hard and unwelcome decisions. This is one of those times. We have a war to finance."

Rudolph A. Peterson, president of the Bank of America, the nation's largest bank, said: "We believe the increase is necessary. We applaud the President's determination to tie the surtax directly to Vietnam, and by virtue of time limitation, his tacit acceptance that the long-term interest of the economy will be best served by lower taxes."

The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said it regretted the necessity for extending the telephone excise tax and "looks forward to its complete elimination in 1970."

Chairman Edmund F. Martin of Bethlehem Steel said: "At a period when the economy may actually be softening, we feel a tax increase would worsen the situation. A more effective measure, we think, would be a reduction in government spending. If an additional tax is imposed, we feel it should be applied to individuals and corporations at the same time."

President Gabriel Hauge of Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. in New York said: "It should be plain as day by now that we cannot fight a sizable war in Vietnam and indulge in an easygoing fiscal policy at the same time. A prompt tax increase is clearly needed over and above whatever help the budget can get from rigorous economics in low priority expenditures."

Summer Students Prefer To Live 'Independently'

By JAN TEAGUE

"I wanted to decide my own hours."

"I didn't want supervision."

"I wanted to have parties."

These are just a few of the reasons students give for deciding to live in unapproved housing during the summer session.

The students interviewed are enjoying their summer freedom at a risk to their University career, however, because all of them are under 21.

The Student Code says that a student must be at least 21 or turn 21 during the semester he lives in unapproved housing. Housing which is not inspected by the University and does not have a supervisor living in the same building, is considered unapproved housing.

If a student is caught falsifying his address, the University will cancel his registration, according to the Student Code.

The student must then meet with the Dean of Students to apply for readmission to the University, according to Kenneth E. Cook, off-campus housing adviser.

Fee Required

If a student is readmitted to the University, he has to pay a reinstatement fee and is usually placed on disciplinary probation, Cook said this week.

"I know that a few students live off-campus illegally every year because we always catch some of them," Cook said.

Although the Office of Student Affairs does not run an investigation service, he said, it is alert to any attempt on the part of students to live off-campus without authorization.

The most frequent way the guilty student is discovered is through phone calls made by one-time friends of the student, Cook said.

The Office of Student Affairs has a list of all approved housing, and checks these addresses with the ones students give when they register.

In order to get around this check, Cook said, a student must give a false address at registration.

Several methods are used by students to avoid the unapproved housing rule, he said.

Many Methods Used

One of the common ways is to give an out-of-town address at registration to indicate that the student is a commuter, he said.

The areas around Iowa City that receive mail through the Iowa City postal system are considered a part of Iowa City for housing purposes, Cook said.

Any student who lives outside this area can live in any type of housing he wishes, he said.

Most of the students living in unapproved housing during the summer session who were interviewed for this article, were not aware of the penalty for falsifying an address.

None of them seemed concerned when informed that they could be dismissed from the University.

"I know I can get away with using a Cedar Rapids commuting address," a 20-year-old coed said.

The commuting address from Cedar Rapids, Davenport or other near-by towns seems to be the most popular method of getting around the University regulation.

Advantages Cited

Every student agreed there were many advantages to living in an unapproved apartment.

"I can eat and drink whatever and whenever I want," a 20-year-old student said.

The coeds interviewed said that being able to entertain a date in their apartment was what they liked most about living in unapproved housing. They also said they liked cooking for themselves.

The only disadvantages they mentioned were carrying out the garbage, doing dishes and cleaning.

"If you ignore these few disadvantages, off-campus living is really great," another student said.

Those students interviewed said they thought the Student Code should be changed to allow students to live wherever they wished during the summer session.

Rule Criticized

"If I were working in Iowa City and not attending school, I could live anywhere," one coed said. "Why do I have to live where the University tells me when I am taking just four hours of classes in addition to working?"

Cook said that students who did not want to live in the dormitory and were not 21 could live in University approved housing off campus.

About 250 approved locations in Iowa City are available in the summer to students, he said. Most of them are sleeping rooms. About a third of them provide kitchen privileges.

These places must meet University health and safety standards, Cook said. The University requires that a person approved by the University must live in the house as a supervisor.

Cook said the owner of the house must agree to enforce all University regulations, rent to either men or women, but not both in the same semester and show no discrimination in selecting renters.

Stalin's Death Reported As 'Agonizing, Ghastly'

LONDON (AP) — Joseph Stalin's daughter, Svetlana, disclosed in memoirs published here Thursday that the Soviet dictator choked to death for 12 hours, his face turning black in agony.

She sat by her father's bed in March 1953, "for those three terrible days it took him to die."

She said frantic efforts were made to save him — leeches put on his head and neck, cardiograms, X-rays and continuous injections.

It was, she wrote, a "ghastly death." Slowly asphyxiated throughout the last 12 hours, Stalin's face turned black, became unrecognizable and in terrible agony he choked to death.

She implied that her father hastened his own death. He believed there was a doctors' plot against him and permitted no physicians in his Kremlin home for several months before he died.

He took pills and iodide from time to time, and the day before suffering a cerebral hemorrhage, he took a steam bath, something Svetlana says a doctor would never have permitted.

She said her heart was bursting with grief and love for her father — "I felt I had been a good-for-nothing daughter and had in no way helped this lonely soul, this old and sick man who was rejected and alone on his Olympus."

This is recounted by Olga Franklin, Russian-language expert of the Daily Mail-Evening News, in reviewing her book, "Twenty Letters to a Friend." It was published here in Russian by Hutchinson's at $7 a copy.

In the book, Stalin's daughter depicted her father as a man awful in his cruelty — but a man who did not know how to kill.

Columbus would roll over in his grave if he knew how things turned out

Yesterday was an anniversary which few people know about. It was exactly 475 years ago yesterday that Christopher Columbus set sail on his fateful voyage which ended in the discovery of America. As everyone remembers, Christopher wasn't looking for America but was looking for a shortcut to the riches of the East. He happened upon America by mistake. If he could see today the land he discovered so many years ago he would surely roll over in his grave.

In the time of his discovery, America was a wild land occupied by a few Indians, wild turkey, buffalo and trees and prairie — miles and miles of trees and prairie and mountains.

It was basically a peaceful land. Oh, there were a few squabbles among the Indians once in a while. But for the most part, everyone went about his own business keeping his tepee in shape and making sure there was enough venison, wild berries and other goodies for the supper table.

The women kept busy making necklaces and bracelets of beads and keeping the mocassins and other wearing apparel in repair.

The children were nearly always happy. They had the wide open spaces for their playgrounds. They played in the woods and the meadows in the fresh air under a beautiful clear sky. It's hard to say exactly they played — it couldn't have been cowboys and Indians because the cowboy hadn't yet been invented.

But, as soon as Christopher and his crew and those who followed jumped off onto the new land things began to change. The strangers from across the sea began tearing down the Indians' forests. They began killing the Indians' turkeys and deer and buffalo. They began taking the Indians' land and started plying them with fire water. The Indians naturally became upset and tried to protect themselves and their belongings. But the aliens persisted.

Soon there were more aliens than Indians. The Indian hunting grounds became the white man's villages and ranches. The Indian trails became the white man's steel right-of-way and super highways. The Indians were herded together and placed on reservations as the affluent new owners took over. The new owners used the original Americans as their helpers in the kitchens, in the fields and in the factories. Soon, the supply was running out so the settlers started to import their helpers from the Dark Continent.

The new country grew and prospered. The richer some of the people became, the greedier they became. They employed more and more helpers and they bought and sold and bred them to do their dirty work for them.

Just as the Indians were cast off along the wayside, some of the new helpers were cast off. The country became torn by hatred and strife. The country took sides and battle ensued. For awhile, it looked as if some of the problems would be solved but things really didn't turn out that way.

The greedy continued to prosper. The helpers continued to be exploited. The country grew strong and large and wealthy. It was able to send its own citizens, the sons of its founders and its founder's helpers, to aid the more unfortunate people around the great round world. They were sent to Europe, to Africa, to Asia and to the waters around them.

While they were fighting, advising and building in far away lands, some of their friends and families at home were unable to eat where they wished, or go to school where they wished. The tension grew and grew and finally and inevitably the years of oppression, exploitation and alienation exploded as violently as many of the conflicts in other lands about which the country was so concerned.

Now the boys have been brought in to do battle and use violence and force to bring an end to a situation which has been simmering for generations.

Yesterday was a solemn and momentous anniversary. How peaceful it could have been if Christopher Columbus had never heard of the Nina, the Pinta and the Santa Maria.

Reagan seen as likely to vote for Nixon in '68

By RICK GARR
For The Daily Iowan

Although liberal Eastern Republicans sneer at the mention of his name as a possible '68 presidential candidate, California Governor Ronald Reagan should not be completely counted out of the running yet.

A very telegenic political performer, the former actor has, however, many substantial barriers to overcome before his name on the ballot will have any air of legitimacy.

A one-time Democrat, Ronnie Reagan fell under the influence of the John Birch Society, a volatile group on the coast, and if some of his remarks have a ring of the Goldwater echo (choice?) it is not by accident.

RONALD REAGAN
How Long Is His Memory?

If he is cast in Goldwater's image, and if he seriously believes all those untimely conservative dogmas, how did Reagan the amateur come from nowhere to defeat solid Pat Brown?

Mostly, it was the result of lots of money and a tremendous public relations job by the reknowned California firm of Spencer and Roberts.

By spending about 10 times as much as Brown did in the race, Reagan's wealthy Birchite backers gave him all he needed to hit Brown where it hurt the most: his image.

Spencer-Roberts softpedaled all the Barryisms of the Reagan philosophy and emphasized all the numerous handicaps of the Brown Administration. Thus, capitalizing on the white backlash, the Democrats' disillusionment with Brown and the use of his famous TV face, Reagan won by about a million votes.

In the past few weeks one has heard all the items that "Reagan is the hottest property in the Republican party today." Granted that most of this was done by the press to fill the vacuum of the Romney fizzle, Reagan does have some assets.

For example, he is popular with the West Coast young voters because of his belief that the draft should be replaced by a volunteer, well-paid professional army.

And, blue-collar workers and farmers rally to his cries against riots, welfare, civil rights and hippies. But, he has damaging beliefs in the realm of foreign policy.

If Reagan were nominated next year it would be a virtual certainty that the Democrats would hang the same nuclear disaster tag on his neck that they so masterfully hung on Barry's.

Reagan said in the gubernatorial race that we could "pave the whole country" of Vietnam and "turn it into a parking lot and get the boys home by Christmas." This is obvious; the fact is, however, that in so doing we might possibly have a big Soviet-made parking lot of our own where New York City used to be, a consideration right-wingers won't listen to.

Speaking about Vietnam last month, Reagan also said that we should begin threatening Hanoi with the use of nuclear bombs.

"The last person in the world who should know that we wouldn't use them is the enemy," he said. "He should go to bed every night afraid that we might."

If Reagan made these remarks while running for the Presidency, he would be accused, like Barry, of using nuclear blackmail and of being a warmonger. And, the Democrats would paint him as another right-wing rocket-rattler and his campaign would drift away down the primrose path of Goldwaterism.

As the GOP candidate in '68, Reagan would probably carry the South the way Barry did. He could not be expected to get many Negro votes unless the issues of open housing and street riots disappear in the next few months.

"You cannot benefit one person by taking away the freedoms of others," Ronnie said. "I believe that the right to dispose of and control one's own property is a basic human right, and as governor I will fight to uphold that right."

His recent simplistic analysis of the riots in the cities did not raise his standing with intellectuals or problem-solvers, but it should gain increased support from the George Wallace voters who want simple solutions for complex problems.

The prophets of the 1950's used to say that within a decade television would mature as a medium and have such a profound effect upon political campaigns that the future leaders would be all image and no substance.

Many say that Reagan is the fulfillment of this prophecy, but he must have some substance because he is a legitimate political force to consider.

Reagan's only hope, being a "non-candidate," for the nomination is a deadlocked convention between Nixon and Romney (which seems unlikely). Reagan's 86 California delegates would be a major influence in any backroom tie-breaking negotiations.

And, it is not impossible that he could put together as many as 300 or 400 votes if Nixon falters or the convention is knotted between other candidates.

Both Nixon and Romney realize this possibility, and both have made overtures for Reagan support and thus to nullify his potential wrecking ability.

Nixon conferred with Ronnie last week in a private session, and he probably sought the California governor's pledge not to start a party-rending run for it. As the favorite-son leader of the California delegation, Reagan hopes to avoid such a split, and this works well with the Nixon strategy.

Romney planners, however, know (as does Nixon) that any votes Reagan may get would all be at Nixon's expense. So, the George boys talk openly of a Romney-Reagan ticket in '68.

It is extremely improbable that Reagan will make any move for the nomination or a spot on anyone's ticket. He understands well what happened to Barry when his conservative dreams were shattered in a hasty and ill-planned campaign.

The best prediction one could make at this point about Reagan's role in the '68 GOP convention would be: he votes joyously with the other 85 to nominate Nixon, winner of most of the primaries. Reagan should not be a candidate for the Presidency unless the Republican party has a memory as short as that of its mascot.

Kiberez De Gaulle or: how was your visit?

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — President Charles de Gaulle has just completed one of the most successful good-will visits in the last 100 years. His trip to Canada has been the talk of diplomatic circles on five continents and every country is vying for the president of France to honor them with a visit soon.

But President De Gaulle is exhausted after making so many friends in Canada and is taking it easy for the moment, catching up on his mail and attending to the social amenities for which he is famous.

"Did I ever get a thank-you note from Prime Minister Lester Pearson?" De Gaulle asked his secretary the other day.

"No, Monsieur le President, there is nothing from Monsieur Pearson."

"That's strange," De Gaulle said. "You would think the least he would do is thank me for visiting his country."

"Perhaps he is waiting for you, Monsieur le President, to thank him for his hospitality during your visit."

"Alors," said the president angrily. "The president of France cannot send the prime minister of a province of France a thank-you note. It would be like thanking the mayor of Burgundy for letting me visit his wine cellar."

"This is true. But the Canadians are strange people, Monsieur. Some of them do not even recognize that Canada is historically and culturally part of France."

"Not even after my visit?"

"It's true that you did much to clear

BUCHWALD has become so the air, but you still have pockets of resistance in Canada, particularly in the higher positions in government."

"They are so shortsighted," De Gaulle said. "What has been the press reaction to my trip?"

"Wonderful, Monsieur le President. It was described on French national television as a 'veritable triumph.' The French national radio called it 'a voyage that will long be remembered,' and the French Minister of Information has said he can't remember when a head of state left such a mark on a country as you left on Canada."

"What about the newspapers?"

"They lied as usual."

"Oh, well, it doesn't matter. History will show I was right. Where do you think we ought to go next?"

"It's hard to say, Monsieur le President. You have received so many invitations since your trip to Canada. Pakistan wants you to visit India, Israel wants you to visit Egypt, the United States wants you to visit the Soviet Union, and the Soviet Union wants you to visit Red China."

"They seem to forget I'm only human."

"It is very hard for them to remember," the secretary agreed.

"Did the Canadians receive my gift?"

"Our ambassador to Ottawa reports the Canadian government was overwhelmed by it. He said the bronze statue of you, with the words 'Liberez Quebec' on the tri-color banner you are holding, brought tears to their eyes. Because of what you've done for Canada, they want to put it somewhere near Expo 67."

"Near Expo 67?"

"Yes, the last place mentioned was the bottom of the St. Lawrence River."

Sister praises riot editorials

To the Editor:
I have not agreed with all the editorials in The Daily Iowan this summer, but I have appreciated their apparent honesty and generally good writing. The one on race riots Wednesday may not be the editor's best as far as style is concerned, but with the article from Rust College which it prefaced it deserves to be copied in every newspaper in our country because of its message. How long shall we continue to ignore voices like those of Robert Caspers and Bill Newbrough when they speak to us of race relationships and the anguish of ghetto living?

Student From Peru Thinks About Home

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lina Alberti, a native of Lima, Peru, will receive a M.A. in journalism at Commencement, Aug. 9, and shortly afterwards will leave Iowa City, where she has lived and studied for a year, on her way home. Miss Alberti, who is a Daily Iowan staff writer, here presents some of the feelings that run through the mind of a foreign student as her "expatriate" years come to an end.

By LINA ALBERTI

How much does a country change in 30 months? I wonder, because I will be flying 4,000 miles back home to Peru in a week's time, after a fascinating two-and-one-half-year experi-

Stanley Says Europe's Fate In U.S. Hands

"The United States and its European allies must keep enough military strength in Europe to maintain the balance of power," State Sen. David M. Stanley told the Iowa City Rotary Club Thursday.

Stanley, an unofficial Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, returned Monday after a three-week visit in Europe.

"Many European leaders fear that unilateral reductions of armed forces by the United States and its allies may threaten peace and stability in Europe," Stanley said.

"Most Europeans no longer fear a Russian military invasion," he said, "but weakness on our side could tempt the Russians to take risks in Berlin or the Middle East which might lead to war."

"If North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces are reduced, there should be a reciprocal cut in Soviet forces in Eastern Europe. As one thoughtful leader of a small European country told me, if we reduce our armed forces unilaterally, we give away our bargaining power."

Stanley said that relations between Eastern and Western Europe were improving as the East European nations gradually pulled away from Russian control, but Europeans warned that a major reduction of U.S. forces in Europe would hurt their efforts by creating more tension.

Stanley called for a halt to the reduction of U.S. arms and troop commitments in Europe.

ence in Europe and the United States. And what about friends? What will it be like to live again with my family in the rather closed society where I grew up? And how well will the education I have attained in foreign countries serve me in a job I have yet to apply for?

These and many other questions pop into my mind as I try to visualize the changes I will have to cope with very soon.

It is really exciting trying to imagine how my hometown, Lima, has grown during my absence. I have heard of its growth through Peruvian newspapers and magazines.

But there was an earthquake in Lima last October — 100 people were killed; whole sections of the city were devastated and a reconstruction program is under way.

Looks Forward To Family
Of course, seeing my family and my friends is what I am looking forward to the most. But there are so many other things that I have missed and I have dreamt of, silly things, unimportant things, that make up every day's life, that make the difference.

For instance, food. Would you believe me if I tell you that Peruvian food is unique, delicious, exquisite? Although I have learned to like American food, I am looking forward very much to our spicy native food.

And finally I can speak Spanish all the time and be sure I'm getting my message across. Since I left home in January, 1965, I have struggled with English, French and Italian. And even my high-school German was of help occasionally.

But in Peru the "language barrier" will disappear. Thank heaven. That has been one of my biggest difficulties here.

I also look forward to my new neighborhood. My family moved four months ago to an apartment house that overlooks the Pacific Ocean. They tell me it is beautiful but I suppose I will miss my old neighborhood, where I had lived since I was four years old.

Came To Iowa City Last Fall
There are, certainly, more serious aspects that worry me. Since I came to Iowa City last September, I have grown accustomed to the American way of life. But to what extent? For one thing, I know that I will resent the misery of the slums that surround Lima, an extreme kind of poverty Iowa City is not aware of.

I imagine that it will be difficult, at the very beginning, to comprehend what Peruvians mean, when they speak, what their problems and aspirations are now.

Traveling gives you a broader outlook of the world and it changes your points of reference.

Peru was a very conservative, parochial place when I left.

As for my profession, there are very few Peruvians who hold M.A. degrees in journalism. In fact, about 50 per cent of our population is illiterate. Although the government is trying to promote education, this is a big problem that cannot be solved in a short time.

I hope to work in Lima either for a newspaper or for a government information office.

I am thrilled with the idea of applying my new skills in Peru, as my tiny contribution toward its development.

One thing I am sure of: I won't be able to wear shorts on my new job, as I do at The Daily Iowan.

Party Heads See '68 Issue To Be Taxes

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa's Republican and Democratic state chairmen agreed Thursday that taxes will be the top state issue in the 1968 elections.

Democratic State Chairman Clark Rasmussen and Republican State Chairman Robert Ray also agreed, however, that national problems may overshadow state issues next year.

The two appeared on a panel at Drake University's Institute in State and Local Government. Ray said the Republican's best issue will be "Lyndon Baines Johnson himself."

Rasmussen replied that he thought the President will help Iowa Democrats. He added that racial riots in major cities and the Vietnam war were "silent issues" but that "the solutions to them are partisan political issues."

The two chairmen agreed that the $102 million tax increase bill passed by the legislature to provide money to relieve local property taxes will come under fire because it increased taxes and because of the secrecy in which it was drafted.

Ray said the bill was "hatched in secrecy in the office of Democratic Gov. Harold Hughes" after the Democratic-controlled Senate refused to consider another tax measure approved by the Republican-dominated House.

Rasmussen replied that the measure is "a good tax bill." On the secrecy issue, he said, "We'll just have to point out that Republicans also took part in the talks in Hughes' office and agreed to the secrecy until the bill was up for debate."

Theater Fires Pose Threat To Viewers

By ALBERT O. GRENDLER
"In case of fire I'm supposed to take the money across the street first."

"In case of fire I'm supposed to take this fire extinguisher and... Oh, I can't get it out of here."

"Let's see... where is that fire extinguisher?"

These comments were given by local movie theater employees Thursday when asked their instructions in case of fire.

Another employe said he could operate an extinguisher if he read the instructions first.

Two downtown theaters provide ready access to alleys from exits near the movie screens. Alley exits from the other two theaters were less accessible.

For example, one exit (although it fulfills the four feet wide requirement for all horizontal passageways) is cluttered with a lean-to (which appears to be a fire hazard itself), refuse cans and other debris.

Another alley exit passageway with deep runs might be dangerous at night for excited patrons.

Fire Chief Comments
Fire Chief Dean Bebee said Thursday that theaters are inspected extensively four times a year when the buildings were empty. Each theater is also checked on weekends when it is occupied.

The screen at the Iowa Theatre was damaged by fire July 27. The theater was unoccupied at the time.

A few other employees said they would be able to operate fire fighting equipment in the theaters, but their first job was to get people out of the theaters in case of fire.

Bebee said the primary reason for the weekend inspection was to check the size of crowds.

"If you don't check, they pack them in too full," he said. Bebee said that recommendations were made for correction of any violations of fire prevention rules.

"Most of the time the proprietors comply. If they don't, we insist. Further non-compliance is referred to the State Fire Marshal," Bebee said.

Tags Kept On Theaters
Bebee said each theater had a page in an inspection book which carried a running account of deficiencies.

"For something like the panic hardware being out of adjustment, we file a special report," he said.

Bebee said the department checked on their recommendations within a few days.

The Fire Department is to adopt the Fire Prevention Code recommended by the American Insurance Association this year, according to Bebee.

"At present we're operating with a code that is so old it requires hatches to be available for fire fighting," Bebee said.

Chief Works With Owners
The chief said he got more cooperation and compliance on fire prevention standards by patience and consideration of the theater owners' problems.

"You work with them," he said. "You don't try to put a man out of business."

The Fire Prevention Code recommended by the American Insurance Association calls for a chart showing the capacity and location of exits to be posted in a prominent place in the theater. It requires regular employees to be properly trained in the use of fire equipment.

The Code lists various kinds of fire prevention equipment which should be available in places of assembly.

Other recommendations of the code deal with minimum width of aisles, non-flammable screens and requirements for projection booths.

Summer Grades Ready Aug. 22

Grade reports for the eight-week summer session will be available Aug. 22, in B1 University Hall, the Office of the Registrar said Thursday.

The reports may be picked up from 8:30 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Grades not picked up on this day will be mailed to the students' home addresses.

Students wishing to have their grades mailed to another address may leave a stamped, self-addressed envelope in the Office of the Registrar.

Hubbard Speaks On Rust Progress

Philip G. Hubbard, dean of academic affairs, spoke on the progress made by Rust College, Holly Springs, Miss., at the summer initiation banquet of Pi Lambda Theta, women's honorary education fraternity, Thursday night.

According to Hubbard, Rust, a Negro college, should receive accreditation in the near future.

"It's been a boot strap operation to raise Rust's standards," Hubbard said.

Sixteen Rust College students will attend classes here this fall and five instructors from the University will teach at Rust as part of an exchange program.

Electrical System To Be Reinforced

A new electrical transformer that will make much larger blocks of emergency power available in Iowa is being installed at the Iowa-Illinois Electric Co. Hills substation, eight miles south of Iowa City.

The 640,000 pound transformer, which cost $500,000, is part of a new interconnecting transmission between St. Louis and Minneapolis.

"This 345,000 volt line will be a major factor in firming up the power supply throughout the entire Midwest," B. M. Hetherington, Iowa-Illinois vice president in charge of operation for the utility, said Tuesday.

Latin Reds Share Anti-U.S. Feeling

HAVANA (AP) — A common hostility toward the United States is expected to bring the Latin American Conference on revolution into at least an appearance of accord behind Communist Cuba's line that armed rebellion is the way to bring social change.

Delegates of 27 members of the conference, the Latin American Organization of Solidarity, were in secret sessions Thursday, trying to resolve splits that appeared during open sessions when some delegates defended more moderate means of struggle.

Sheriff Probes Youth's Flight From Hospital

A 17-year-old youth has escaped from the supervision of the University Psychopathic Hospital twice in less than 24 hours.

Johnson County Sheriff Maynard E. Schneider has asked Deputy Gene Shepard to investigate.

The youth's second escape occurred Thursday morning. He allegedly stole a car in Iowa City but was later picked up in Muscatine after being involved in an auto accident, county officials said.

The youth first escaped from supervision Wednesday night on a camping trip with a group of patients. The group was at the Sugar Bottom camping area at the Coralville Reservoir, north of Iowa City.

A patient reported to Psychopathic Hospital officials supervising the camping trip that the youth had drowned.

The Hospital officials called the sheriff's office. Coast Guard Auxiliary members and conservation officers to help.

Meanwhile, the youth apparently had doubled back. He was found in the camping area.

The Sheriff's Office is also investigating why the patients were camped near a popular public camping area rather than on University property further down the shore.

Auto Workers Get GM's 1st Proposal

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. challenged the United Auto Workers Union Thursday in the latter's stand against any tampering with their cost-of-living formula in current new contract negotiations.

"This 345,000 volt line will be a major factor in firming up the power supply throughout the entire Midwest," B. M. Hetherington, Iowa-Illinois vice president in charge of operation for the utility, said Tuesday.

Peace Calls Begin Viet Electioneering

SAIGON (AP) — Two civilians teamed in South Vietnam's presidential race called Thursday for peace negotiations with the Communists "at all levels, including the National Liberation Front" of the Viet Cong.

This controversial proposal marked the official opening of the campaign for votes in the national election Sept. 3.

By injecting the issue of negotiations with the Viet Cong into the campaign, Phan Khac Suu and his running mate, Phan Quang Dan, put themselves in direct opposition to the stand taken by the Military ticket considered to be the best bet to win — Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

Since the legislative assembly eliminated a ticket headed by peace candidate Au Truong Thanh two weeks ago, it had been believed that peace, especially peace by negotiation with the Viet Cong, was a dead issue.

Cease-Fire Proposed
Another ticket, headed by lawyer Truong Dinh Dzu, declared it was determined to stop the war. It proposed a cease-fire, a halt in the bombing of the North and a second Geneva conference.

Some of the other 11 presidential candidates also called for peace, but "not at any price." Most of them indicated they considered negotiations with the Viet Cong would be too high a price.

As before the campaign, the ticket of former Premier Tran Van Huong and Mai Tho Truyen offered a platform of stolid non-controversy. The Huong-Truyen ticket, considered by observers to be the leading civilian state, presented a platform that differed only slightly from that offered by the military ticket of Thieu and Ky.

One note of possible difference was contained in a report by a Saigon news agency, Tin Viet, that Huong had decided to name Au Truong Thanh, the former peace candidate, as his economics minister in the event he won. Thanh served at one time as Ky's economics minister.

Thieu, Ky still ahead the fact remained that and Ky are still the front runners in the Sept. 3 election.

Mine Accident Seen Caused By 'Bungling'

LONDON (AP) — A special tribunal Thursday blamed bungling and ineptitude and gong-bong by the National Coal Board, and lesser mining officials, for the disaster that killed 116 children and 28 adults in the Welsh village of Aberfan 41 weeks ago.

The Ministry of Power gave Lord Robens, chairman of the board, four weeks to answer the charges and also to remedy the shortcomings.

This tough order was given to Lord Robens in a 65-minute meeting with Power Minister Richard Marsh.

It followed quickly the publication of a 70,000-word finding by the three-man judicial commission headed by Lord Justice Edmund Davies, the son of a Welsh miner.

College Stars Ready For Packer Clash

CHICAGO (AP) — The College All-Stars went through a final workout Thursday for their meeting tonight with the Green Bay Packers in Soldier Field.

"There is nothing more for us to do but wait," said Head Coach Johnny Sauer.

"I'm satisfied that we have remained on schedule and have put in everything we had planned. I don't believe I'd do anything differently if we could start over."

Sauer was satisfied with the training of the All-Stars who are being touted as the best group of players ever put together for the mid-summer gridiron classic.

in three weeks and their forte this year could be defense.

Headed by Bubba Smith of Michigan State, the Stars have a front four which will try to zero in on Packer quarterback Bart Starr.

Sauer, however, has said he will stick with the quarterback who moves the team the best.

Both Griese and Spurrier have been impressive in training and both did an excellent job in last week's scrimmage against the Chicago Bears when the Stars gained a total of 400 yards.

Grabowski May Miss Star Game

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Green Bay Packer fullback Jim Grabowski is supposed to be playing football in Chicago's Soldier Field tonight. But more likely he will be soldiering in Milwaukee instead.

Grabowski's double life — Guardsman and fullback — found him wearing a different type of helmet early Thursday. He was stationed on a deserted street in the Negro district, helping police and fellow National Guardsmen enforce a city-wide curfew to quell racial disturbances.

There seemed little chance that the guardsmen — here from throughout the state — would be sent home in time for Grabowski to switch helmets for the National Football League champion Packers' exhibition game against the College All-Stars.

Yankee Vet Gets Traded To Red Sox

NEW YORK (AP) — Elston Howard, the next-to-last playing survivor of Casey Stengel's highly-successful regime as manager of the New York Yankees, was traded to Boston Thursday in a move that could lift the Red Sox to their first American League pennant victory in 21 years.

In exchange for the 38-year-old Howard, winner of the circuit's Most Valuable Player award in 1963, the Yankees will receive cash representing the $20,000 waiver price and two young players to be disclosed after the completion of the season.

HOWARD

Howard, still a fine fielder and an occasional timely hitter at a position where good hit-good field players are at a premium, said he was very shocked when the trade was revealed to him by Manager Ralph Houk.

He weighed retirement from the game for several hours while trying to decide whether or not to report to the Red Sox, second to the Chicago White Sox in a tight AL race.

"I talked it over with my wife, my business associates and Tom Yawkey before deciding to go to Boston," said Howard. Yawkey is the Red Sox' owner.

"I'm glad that the Red Sox want me, and I'm going to try and help them as much as I can. I think I can do it."

With Jake Gibbs doing most of the catching, Howard saw only limited service with the Yanks this year, his 13th since moving up to the majors in 1955 and becoming the first Negro ever to wear a Yankee uniform in regular season. His 1967 batting average is .197 accompanied by three homers and 17 runs batted in.

Howard, whose estimated 1967 salary is $50,000, had his best big league season in 1961 when he hit .348 and hammered 21 homers in 129 games. Two years later — his MVP campaign — he had 28 homers, 85 RBI and a .287 average.

A.L. Owners Approve Divisional Breakdown

CHICAGO (AP) — American League owners voted unanimously Thursday night for eastern and western divisional breakdowns in baseball but National League owners asked for more time to study the proposal.

Club owners met with baseball Commissioner William Eckert for more than two hours in a joint meeting of the two leagues after each league had conducted separate meetings.

Joe Cronin, president of the American League, said the plan would call for the winners of each of the five-team divisions to meet in a best 3-of-5 playoff for the right to represent the American League in the World Series.

Warren Giles, president of the National League, said the main objection to the plan was it was not presented in time to give the National League time to study it.

3 Young Golfers Top Western Open

CHICAGO (AP) — Labron Harris and a pair of foreign stars, Bob Stanton of Sydney, Australia, and Bob Verwey of Johannesburg, South Africa, wheeled into the first round lead of the $102,000 Western Open Thursday with five-under-par 66.

In all, 29 players ripped the standard 36-35-71 for the rolling, tree-lined 6,867-yard Beverly Course.

All three frontrunners, in their middle 20's, have yet to win a tournament on the PGA tour.

A stroke behind at 33-34-67 was Steve Oppermann of Daly City, Calif., also seeking his first PGA tour victory.

Sharing 68 were Julius Boros, firing three straight birdies starting with the 12th, and PGA champion Don January with birdies on two of the last three holes.

The 69 shooters included amateur Marty Fleckman, who led after the first and third rounds of the recent National Open, John Schlee, George Archer, Randy Glover, Doug Sanders, Johnny Pott, Romero Blancas and Miller Barber. Barber added the 125-yard Arnold Palmer took a two-stroke penalty when he lost a ball in a giant oak tree on the 18th fairway and finished with a double-bogey 7 for a 72.

'66ers Belt Muscatine

Defending champion Billy Casper, on a streak of erratic chipping and putting, had 74. National Open winner Jack Nicklaus bogied the last three holes for a 72.

Donn Haugen hurled four hit ball to pace the Iowa City '66ers on an 11-2 victory over Muscatine in a Hawkeye College League game here Thursday night.

The victory pushes the '66ers season record to 17-9 and 17-7 in the conference.

Joe Baigua's three hits, Gerry Bruchas' two and Bob Perkins' two doubles lead the Iowa City offense against starting and losing pitcher Joe Ibersen. The '66ers had a total of 12 hits.

Haugen struck out 7 in the game which was halted after six innings because of darkness. The victory was Haugen's eighth against two losses.

The '66ers were shut out, 5-0, by Parsons College's ace pitcher Charlie Williams who recorded his 15th consecutive win. Wednesday, Tom Staack allowed only two earned runs in the non-league contest.
