President Signs Into Law Cold War-Vietnam GI Bill

WASHINGTON — President Johnson signed into law Thursday a bill giving 2 million veterans of "cold war" wars the same and more than the men in the Vietnam war.

The 20-year-old bill, which provides health, educational and vocational training, was passed by the House and Senate in separate sessions.

The first-year cost is estimated at $7.5 billion.

One doesn't even look at an ugly woman

In 1967, the movie 'In the Heat of the Night' starring Sidney Poitier as an attractive and talented police detective was released, and it was a huge hit. The movie was a groundbreaking film in terms of race relations in the United States, and it helped to change the way people viewed race and discrimination.

The movie was set in a small town in Mississippi, where the main character, Detective Tibbs, is called to investigate a murder. The townspeople are all white and they are not used to having an African American police officer in their midst. Despite the resistance and hostility from the locals, Tibbs is determined to solve the case.

Throughout the movie, we see the conflict between the white and black communities, as well as the individual struggles of the characters. Tibbs is a complex and multi-dimensional character, and his relationship with the townspeople is a major part of the story. The movie was a critical and commercial success, and it helped to bring attention to issues of race and discrimination in the United States.

In the years since the release of 'In the Heat of the Night', the issue of race continues to be a major topic. While progress has been made in terms of equality and diversity, there is still much work to be done. Movies like 'In the Heat of the Night' serve as important reminders of the struggles that have been faced, and the progress that has been made.
Pediatrics Professor Named To New Endowed UI Chair

Dr. Jack F. White, professor of pediatrics at the University of Iowa College of Medicine, has been appointed to the position of director of pediatrics at the Hospital of the University of Iowa and professor of pediatrics at the UI College of Medicine. Dr. White has been a member of the UI faculty since 1963 and has served as chief of the department of pediatrics since 1970.

The appointment comes as the result of a national search conducted by a committee of the Department of Pediatrics at the University of Iowa College of Medicine. The committee was chaired by Dr. Robert J. O'Haire, professor of pediatrics at the University of Iowa College of Medicine.

Dr. White received his medical degree from the University of Michigan in 1960 and completed his residency training in pediatrics at the University of Colorado in 1962. He has been a member of the UI faculty since 1963 and has served as chief of the department of pediatrics since 1970.

The new endowed chair, the W.R. Ralston Chair of Pediatrics, was established with a gift of $3 million from the Ralston Purina Company. The chair is intended to support research and teaching in the field of pediatrics and to provide a teaching and research facility for the department of pediatrics.

University Gets Gifts, Grants Totaling $3.6 Million In July

Gifts and grants totaling $3.6 million were received by the University of Iowa in July. Of this amount, $2 million came from private sources and $1.6 million from federal agencies.

The gifts and grants received were made possible in part by the efforts of the University's Development Office, which is responsible for seeking and securing contributions from a variety of sources.

The following is a list of gifts and grants received in July:

- $1 million from the State of Iowa for the renovation of the old College of Medicine building.
- $500,000 from the National Science Foundation for research in the field of nuclear physics.
- $200,000 from the Ford Foundation for the development of a new campus in the Midwest.
- $150,000 from the Fulbright Program for the study of foreign languages.
- $100,000 from the National Institutes of Health for research in the field of cancer.

The University's Development Office is responsible for seeking and securing contributions from a variety of sources, including private individuals, corporations, and foundations, as well as federal agencies and educational institutions.

Jefferson, A Landmark, Closes Doors

Jefferson, a landmark building on the UI campus, will be closed to the public on July 15. The building was originally constructed in 1851 as a dormitory for men.

The building was closed to the public in 1970 following a series of accidents. The closure was announced by the University's vice president for academic affairs.

The building will be used for storage and will be demolished in the near future.

Buy Bonds where you work. He does.

The UI Development Office is pleased to announce that the University of Iowa has been awarded a five-year, $5 million grant from the National Institutes of Health to support research in the field of cancer.

The grant will be used to support research in the field of cancer, with a particular focus on the study of the molecular mechanisms that underlie cancer development.

The grant is the largest single award ever received by the University of Iowa and is expected to have a significant impact on the University's ability to conduct research in the field of cancer.
