A Cedar Rapids area man was charged with murder Tuesday evening in connection with the death of his estranged wife. He is Wesley Gatewood, 45, Rural Route 1, Palo.

The body of his estranged wife, Ruby Gatewood, 37, of near Cedar Rapids, was found about 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in a parked car at a camping area on Lake Macbride by a conservation officer, Roger J. Ruchta.

According to Johnson County authorities, Gatewood was found in the lake nearby, apparently not swimming. Ruchta convinced Gatewood to come to shore.

Mrs. Gatewood was shot twice just below the left breast. Sheriff's officers said bullets apparently came from a .22 caliber pearl-handled revolver that was found nearby. Her body was on the floor of the back seat of a 1967 Plymouth.

The murder charge against Gatewood was filed by Johnson County Sheriff Maynard E. Schneider and Johnson County Atty. Robert W. Jansen. They said evidence was found at the scene incriminating Gatewood, but declined to elaborate.

Gatewood was scheduled to be arraigned at 8:30 a.m. today in Iowa City Police Court.

The Iowa Bureau of Criminal Investigation has been called in by local officials to assist in the investigation.

Broadcast Union, NBC In Accord On New Contract

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — A broadcast union and the National Broadcasting Co., announced Tuesday they had reached a contract agreement averting a threatened strike against the network by technicians.

A spokesman for the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians, AFL-CIO, announced the settlement in Miami Beach and NBC issued its statement in New York.

The union also said, "There is no settlement reported between NABET and ABC and negotiations are at a critical stage. An announcement is expected later this evening."

Announcement of the settlement with NBC was termed by NABET an "agreement in principle subject to reduction to contract language."

The tentative NBC contract was said to cover a three-year period and to be retroactive to the expiration of NABET's old contract five months ago.

Some 3,000 network employees waited in five cities on outcome of the talks to decide if they would pick up paychecks or picket signs.

Strike Call Delayed

A scheduled 2 p.m. (EDT) strike announcement by officials of the union was delayed by a call to the conference table by federal mediators.

Tim O'Sullivan, NABET West Coast regional director, announced the postponement of the strike call at Miami Beach and said, "The talks are still continuing, but locals have been told to stand by."

A strike would have affected all live programming on both networks. CBS was not affected.

O'Sullivan said negotiators had been deadlocked over three issues, wages and hours, grievance machinery and utilization of manpower in producing color television shows.

O'Sullivan of Los Angeles, said NABET had demanded a four-day work week and pay raised for the bulk of its membership from $218 to $300 a week. He said grievance machinery in the contract which expired Aug. 31 was "outdated and badly in need of overhaul."

"We've had a great deal of difficulty in enforcing grievances. We have about 500 that are currently unsettled," he said.

Four-Day Week Sought

The four-day week apparently was one issue the union has been willing to bend on during the last four days of haggling. "We told them we would accept another arrangement," O'Sullivan said.

The alternative offered was a five-day week of 36 hours.

Fighting Renews; Marines Pursue Northern Troops

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marines pursued perhaps 1,000 North Vietnamese in the far north Tuesday after the bloodiest battle in two months. The fighting flared Monday and elsewhere in South Vietnam and in all 262 enemy troops and 63 Americans were killed, the U.S. Command reported.

U.S. planes in attack on North Vietnam Monday reported knocking out two spans of an important 490-foot bridge three miles from the center of Haiphong, the North's most important port. The bridge had previously been placed out of bounds to U.S. pilots.

Hanoi radio said three planes were shot

Thieu Expected To Seek Talks

SAIGON (AP) — President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu may within several weeks fulfill a campaign pledge to try to lure North Vietnam into peace talks with an offer of a bombing pause, informed sources said Tuesday.

But there are no indications that officials in Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital, will accept such an overture. North Vietnam has rejected such U.S. offers in the past, and it has had no hint but harsh things to say about Sunday's election.

Radio Hanoi's latest blast was a declaration Tuesday that the victory of Chief of State Thieu and his vice-presidential running mate, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, was won "by phony votes and ghost voters."

One factor that may force Thieu to bid for peace, election analysts say, is the strong showing of the most outspoken peace candidate, lawyer Truong Dinh Dzu.

Thieu said he would ask the United States to stop bombing for a week or more if an indication were received from Hanoi that such a pause might lead to some form of talks between North and South Vietnam.

down in the raid on Haiphong but this was denied by U.S. Command. It said an Air Force Phantom was downed in the panhandle south of Haiphong and the two crewmen were missing. It was the 673rd U.S. plane announced as shot down over the North.

Marines, Reds Battle

By far the heaviest fighting of the previous 24 hours was between Marines and North Vietnamese regulars in the Que-Son Valley about 30 miles south of the big Leatherneck base at Da Nang.

At least 160 North Vietnamese were killed and 23 captured before the enemy began a retreat out of the valley over hills to the west. The Marines lost 54 killed and 84 wounded.

Associated Press correspondent John Lenge reported the battle raged over 1,000 yards of rice paddies, trees and a low hill on the west, often at hand grenade distance.

The North Vietnamese were well dug in but retreated from one trench to another under the steady pounding of artillery and air blows and attacks by Marines aground.

Reds Make Stand

The North Vietnamese made a stand on Hill 63, a wooded knoll rising 210 feet above the valley. The Marines pushed up the hill from the northeast and northwest in the face of mortar and heavy machine-gun fire and seized the summit.

The North Vietnamese withdrew from the hill and during the night escaped to the nearby hills with Marine patrols in pursuit.

Another fight broke out near Con Thien, a Marine outpost near the demilitarized zone separating North and South Vietnam. The outpost had come under heavy artillery fire from the zone and B52 bombers rained down bombs on enemy positions.

The fighting broke out about a mile southwest of Con Thien, where 37 enemy troops and five Marines were reported killed.

No Pencils, No Books; Teachers Play Truant

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Teachers' strikes — real and threatened — are disrupting the annual back-to-school ritual in big cities and smaller communities across the United States.

In many places parents were preparing their children with clothes and school supplies for opening day while the teachers negotiated with school boards and vowed that classrooms would be teacherless unless salary demands were met.

Strikes and boycotts were in progress in some communities and the giant school systems of Detroit and New York City were threatened with educational breakdowns.

Teachers in 27 school districts in Michigan refused to go to work Tuesday, Lt. Gov. William Milliken reported. Last-minute negotiations brought contract settlement in other Michigan districts but Milliken said 51 districts had failed to reach contract agreements.

Boycott Enters 2nd Week

In East St. Louis, Ill., a teacher boycott idling 24,000 pupils entered its second week Tuesday, with only some 300 of 920 teachers reporting for work. The teachers want to increase the starting wage of $6,250 annually by $150 and add increases to higher salary steps.

In Detroit, with 11,000 teachers and 300,000 pupils, the Board of Education and the Federation of Teachers agreed to delay the opening of school from today to Thursday as negotiations continued.

Detroit's school system is in "serious trouble," Milliken said as he reported that "there is no sign of a settlement."

Detroit teachers were voting Tuesday on the board's latest offer of a $600 raise. The union has been seeking a $1,200 raise. Minimum salaries currently are $5,600 a year.

Talks Deadlocked

In New York City, deadlocked contract talks were set to reopen, officials announced. Teachers have threatened mass resignations on Monday, opening day for the schools. A walk-out could affect some 45,000 teachers and 1,100,000 pupils.

New York City teachers are demanding a stronger hand in educational policy as well as higher salaries. Albert Shanker, president of the United Federation of Teachers in New York City, warned that a work stoppage could "last a month or more."

Groppi Stages Sit-In

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Milwaukee's marching civil rights demonstrators, who have logged some 90 foot-wearing miles during the last four days in their campaign for an open housing bill, took to the street again Tuesday with an initial hike to City Hall.

There the Rev. James Groppi, white adviser to the NAACP Youth Council that is spearheading the walks, told about 100 youngsters making up the day's advance party:

"We don't want any committees, we don't want any discussions, we don't want any delays. We want that bill signed."

Thus far, the Common Council has rejected — each time by an 18-1 vote — four city open occupancy measures offered by Mrs. Vel Phillips, only Negro member of the council.

The city attorney's office previously advised the aldermen that a state fair housing law now in force took precedence over any city ordinance. The demonstrators trooped into the council chambers and remained quietly until it became apparent that aldermen would refuse to permit reintroduction of Mrs. Phillips' measure.

But when the council, in a series of 18-1 votes, approved a proclamation in which Mayor Henry Maier had temporarily banned night-time marches last week, the demonstrators jeered, then marched out of the room, chanting slogans.

Before the council's scheduled Tuesday meeting, 13 of the Negroes took part in what Groppi called a sit-in at the second floor office of Alderman Francis Dineen, whose First Ward includes about 40 per cent Negroes, to protest his votes against the city bills.

Dineen stayed in his inner office but told newsmen that there were no housing problems in his ward — "if you have an adequate down payment and pay six per cent interest you can live anywhere."

The alderman said he would support a countywide open occupancy bill, which would include most of Milwaukee's 20 largely-white suburbs.

Czech Airliner Crashes; 34 Die

GANDER, Nfld. (AP) — A Soviet-built Czech airliner bound for Cuba climbed 200 feet after take-off from Gander Tuesday then plunged suddenly to the earth, slicing a half-mile long trough in a muddy field and killing 34 of the 69 persons aboard.

The turboprop Ilyushin 18 burst into a ball of flame just before or after impact, strewn torn metal and bodies over a wooded area. In the wreckage, searchers found Spanish-language literature featuring pictures of Mao Tse-tung and other Chinese leaders.

Doctors in a small hospital here treated some of the 35 survivors, all identified as Poles, Czechs and Cubans.

Fourteen critically burned passengers were flown for special treatment to Halifax where a kidney machine was available.

U.S. Navy aircraft flew emergency blood supplies to this edge of the Atlantic refueling station from the naval base at Argentina, Nfld.

The crash took the lives of the pilot, a Capt. Bucovsky, copilot and two other persons in the eight-man crew. The engineer, radio officer and two stewardesses survived.

CHANGING THEIR TACTICS, Milwaukee's civil rights marchers sat in on a Common Council meeting in city hall Tuesday. The Rev. James Groppi led his marchers on a walk from their church headquarters in the city's Negro-populated Inner Core to the downtown city hall gathering. The marchers have logged some 90 miles in the last four days in their campaign for an open housing bill.

U.S. Trying To Build 'Clean' Hydrogen Bomb

EDITOR'S NOTE — This month marks the 25th anniversary of the beginning of the race for the atomic bomb at a secret place in the Tennessee hills known as Oak Ridge. In the following story, the Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department assess America's present nuclear arms posture.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is trying to develop pure fusion weapons — that is, hydrogen bombs and missiles that would not require an A-bomb trigger and would therefore be free of radioactive fallout.

The nation's nuclear weaponers are also still trying to develop the fearsome "neutron bomb," which has been described as a kind of death-ray weapon.

This was related Tuesday by the Atomic Energy Commission in an unusually frank discussion of American nuclear weapons posture given in response to questions submitted by the Associated Press.

The answers to the queries — in which the Defense Department collaborated with the AEC — also brought out that:

• The United States has a powerful and versatile stockpile of tens of thousands of individual nuclear weapons.

• The stockpile includes such novel things as nuclear anti-submarine rockets, torpedoes and depth charges — weapons that have been hinted at, but previously have had no official mention.

• The United States still holds an overall lead in nuclear weapons over the Soviet Union.

• Red China apparently has a "rational, well-organized" nuclear weapons development program — and conceivably could launch an intercontinental ballistic missile test vehicle before the end of this year.

The questions and answers:

Q. Can you give even a general idea of the number of nuclear weapons — both thermonuclear and nonthermonuclear — in the American stockpile?

A. Our weapons stockpile consists of tens of thousands of nuclear weapons.

Q. What can you say as to their range of explosives yield as regards kilotonnage and/or megatonnage?

A. Yields range from subkilotons to megatons.

Q. A kiloton is the explosive equivalent of 1,000 tons of TNT; A megaton is equal to 1 million tons.

Q. What can you say as to their variety — i.e. in addition to bombs and missiles? For example, do we have nuclear artillery shells; nuclear-tipped torpedoes; nuclear-equipped small arms; nuclear depth charges; nuclear-tipped rockets, as distinguished from intermediate and long-range missiles; nuclear land-mines? Or, anything else not listed?

A. The United States has artillery-fired atomic projectiles, atomic demolition munitions, antisubmarine rockets, torpedoes, depth charges, strategic and tactical missiles, and bombs.

Q. What progress is being made on "advanced concepts" of nuclear arms — such as the so-called "neutron bomb"?

A. The AEC is conducting research on enhanced radiation weapons (neutron bombs). Such a device would be very "clean." The term "very clean" would mean a device in which only a small amount of the energy released would come from fission. The blast effect would be very small but the radiation effect from neutrons would be predominant. The AEC also is conducting research on pure fusion weapons. The status of programs for developing such weapons is classified.

Q. What's the American nuclear arms posture in comparison with that of the Russians? AEC Chairman Glenn Seaborg was quoted as long ago as October, 1961, as saying he had the impression that the United States was in the lead "in the aggregate."

A. The situation is still very much the same today. In aggregate — that is, overall — the United States still leads the Soviet Union. This is of course a very complex and complicated matter and any detailed comparison would be difficult and not necessarily very meaningful.

For several decades the U.S. has maintained this nuclear weapons superiority. The maintenance of this superiority does not depend on ever increasing numbers of weapons, or increasing stockpile yield, but on continued improvements in weapons' effectiveness.

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara on Jan. 23, 1967, before a joint session of the Senate Armed Services Committee and the Senate Subcommittee on Defense Department appropriations said:

"As of now, we have more than three times the number of intercontinental ballistic missiles (i.e. ICBMs and SLBMs) than the Soviets have. Even by the early 1970s, we still expect to have a significant lead over the Soviet Union in terms of numbers and a very substantial superiority in terms of over-all combat effectiveness."

A "SLBM" is a sea-launched ballistic missile.

Q. What's the AEC's rating of the achieved, and potential, strength of Red China in the nuclear weapons field?

The joint Senate-House Atomic Committee, in its recent appraisal, said Red China could be capable of launching a hydrogen-missile attack on the United States before the mid-1970s, conceivably as early as 1970-1971.

This appears to be a more ominous outlook than that of Secretary McNamara who has estimated Red China would not be able to threaten this country with a significant number of ICBMs before the mid-1970s.

How does the AEC feel about it, since the AEC, with its expertise in fissionable materials production and fabrication of them into weapons components, might be in the best position to make such an assessment?

A. The Chinese nuclear tests to date indicate a rational, well organized nuclear weapons development program. It must be concluded that they have capable nuclear weapons designers, and the technology is therefore available to carry out government policies in designing and testing nuclear warheads.

The conclusions of the joint Committee on Atomic Energy on a timetable for development of a Red Chinese nuclear weapons system are consistent with the Jan. 23, 1967, statement of Secretary McNamara:

"With regard to an ICBM, we believe that the Red Chinese nuclear weapons and ballistic missile development programs are being pursued with high priority. On the basis of recent evidence, it appears possible that they may conduct either a space or a long-range ballistic missile launching before the end of 1967. However, it appears unlikely that the Chinese could deploy a significant number of ICBMs before the mid-1970s, or that those ICBMs would have great reliability, speed or response, or substantial protection against attack."

A launch of an ICBM test vehicle by China this year would be necessary if they are to meet the most rapid development schedules considered possible by both the committee and the Defense Department.

After China's first ICBM is test-fired, there will be a period of testing and missile improvement. If the Chinese then achieve a first operational ICBM capability in the 1970-1972 period, it is possible they will have a significant deployment in the mid-1970s.

Schmidhauser asks Johnson to reconsider tax surcharge

Jets seen as means to peace

In these days of increasing inflation and soaring costs, commodities and services that have chalked up price declines are rare indeed. If you were asked to name a price that had dropped nearly 40 per cent in 20 years, it is likely that you would give a decisive snort and say that no such thing exists. But, you would be wrong. The pioneer overseas airline, which recently completed its 10,000th round-the-world flight, charges 38 per cent less today than when this service was initiated in 1947.

It is cheering to note that while the world generally has been living in a period of strife and war, or near war, certain fundamental shifts in international relationships have been taking place that augur well for the future.

Much has been heard of the people-to-people programs of government and industries. These programs have been sponsored and encouraged in the hope of developing commercial ties and understanding between nations. Such efforts would have been mere gestures a few years ago, but the jet aircraft has made the people-to-people concept a vital reality. It is the 575-mile-an-hour jet's speed, for example, that today enables leaders of governments to be in cabinet meetings more than 6,000 miles from New York one day then appear the next day before the United Nations to participate in delicate diplomatic debate aimed at maintaining world peace.

If the cataclysm of total war can be staved off a few more years, the jet airplane may well become one of the mightiest practical implements of peace that has so far been developed. In time, it may shrink the world to a community of nations that will make armed conflict an anachronism of the Stone Age.

Columnist offers ideas on how to hold hearings

WASHINGTON — Many people are under the impression that congressional committee hearings are held to get information on which our legislators can act in passing laws. This, of course, is ridiculous.

Most congressional committee chairmen, both in the Senate and the House, make up their minds before they hold a hearing and then select witnesses who will agree with them. Occasionally a witness may testify in opposition to the wishes of the chairman and then he's in for a rough time.

But by and large, witnesses don't have to do much testifying because the senators and congressmen not only ask the questions but give the answers as well. This is how it goes.

"Now, Mr. Pipkin, isn't it true that the more money we put into termite control, the more termites show up?"

"Yes, senator."

"And isn't it true that government funds set aside for termites have been spent on other wood-boring pests that have nothing to do with the termite family?"

"That's correct."

"And isn't it further true that our federal termite control program has encouraged termite exterminators to raise their fees, so, in effect, the more termites they can dig up, the more work they can get?"

"I would say that, senator."

"So in your candid opinion the administration has made a mess of our termite control program and millions of dollars of the taxpayer's money have been wasted on a worthless, needless and unproductive program that never should have been started in the first place?"

"Uh huh."

"Now, Mr. Pipkin, as an expert on termite control, is it not your feeling that the best way to attack termites is through strong measures on a local level, without interference from Washington bureaucrats who wouldn't know a termite if they saw one?"

"Yup."

"Before dismissing you, Mr. Pipkin, I would like to say as chairman of this committee I have never seen a more forthright witness. You have contributed to the enlightenment of these hearings, and I would like to thank you for your able and knowledgeable testimony."

"Thank you."

"Mr. Chairman," one of the other senators says, "I would like to call a witness in favor of the federal termite control program, Mr. Arnaud Carter."

The chairman says, "We don't have much time. All right, Carter, sit down, but make it short."

"I would like to read a statement."

"We're not interested in your statements. Say what you have to say."

"Well, in regard to termites..."

"If you don't mind, Carter, just answer yes or no."

"Yes or no what?"

"Are you holding this committee in contempt?"

"No, I'm just trying to testify in favor of a strong federal termite control bill."

"Well, get on with it then."

"In the housing industry alone."

"Let's not go into the housing industry. Just stick with the facts."

"You won't let me."

"Carter, my committee is willing to listen to anybody, but if you don't have anything new to say, there is no reason to sit there and waste our time. This hearing is adjourned."

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the text of a letter from John R. Schmidhauser, professor of political science, to President Johnson. Schmidhauser represented the First District of Iowa in the 89th Congress.

Dear President Johnson:

I should like to respectfully recommend a thorough reconsideration of the proposed 10 per cent tax surcharge which was recently proposed by the Council of Economic Advisors. A tax increase would be totally unnecessary if special exemptions and privileges were eliminated. As a member of the 89th Congress, representing the First District of Iowa, I conducted an investigation into the status of tax privileges. I presented the results in the form of legislation and in testimony before the House Ways and Means Committee. Let us return the Democratic Party to its fundamental Jeffersonian privileges — as the party truly dedicated to eliminating unjustified special privilege. My four point proposal is as follows:

- Reject the proposal for a 10 per cent tax surcharge or increase.
  - Put the full weight of your administration behind a comprehensive tax reform bill which, on the basis of the proposals by Senator Paul Douglas and myself, would bring in more than $40 billion in revenues normally lost through unjustified exemptions by eliminating those tax loopholes.
  - Increase personal deductions for our working people from the present $600 to $1,000 per person.
  - Eliminate all non-essential spending.
- The results of such actions would not only enable our nation to meet its current needs but would bring in enough additional revenue without raising taxes on our working people to make it possible to begin systematically paying off the national debt.

Mr. President, I would urge that this reorientation of fiscal policy be undertaken immediately. Public understanding of the inequities in our present tax structure has increased year by year. I myself felt an obligation as a member of Congress to acquaint the citizens of my district with facts on them. A failure to correct them will, in my estimation, justifiably arouse a taxpayers' revolt.

Currently the greatest roadblocks to the accomplishment of this goal are those created first by the Dixiecrat-Republican coalition's defeat of the procedural reforms which we adopted in the 89th Congress, notably the elimination of the 21 day rule; and secondly, the action taken by House Republicans in filling a key vacancy on the House Ways and Means Committee with Republican Congressman George Bush, a millionaire oil magnate. The present Republican incumbent in the First District of Iowa has a personal responsibility for these negative actions since he supported both of them enthusiastically.

I urgently and respectfully request that you put the full weight of this Democratic administration behind the cause of a thorough going tax reform. This reorientation to the great Jeffersonian principle of fair play is not only good politics but most importantly is sound government.

Respectfully,
John R. Schmidhauser

Alumna says pill controversy got attention

To the Editor:

I was interested to find the mention of a letter to the editor in The Daily Iowan in yesterday's New York Daily News. It's good to know that the letters to the editor are as stimulating now as they were when I was graduated in 1965.

Perhaps by this time the matter has been thoroughly rehearsed but I must add my opinion.

Before I was married the first time, in 1961, I went to Student Health for advice, and was referred to the clinic at University Hospitals, where I suspect any person, married or otherwise, could to this day receive contraceptive information and prescriptions.

Three years later, as a graduate student with a small child, I was given a prescription for "the pill" from a doctor at Student Health, as were several others. At that time, as now, it was not generally done. I believe they only gave such prescriptions to women who already had children. In that, as in any other problem I took to Student Health, I found the doctors there reasonable and understanding.

In a small, midwestern town, a student health service understandably would be cautious about prescriptions for contraceptives, even though it served a large, cosmopolitan university. There always are other sources; a student needn't suffer from the unwanted pregnancies or abortions which concerned Mr. Whitaker. After all, one wouldn't see a doctor at Student Health about an abortion either, and sexual activity without marriage is still, in my memory serves me, illegal in Iowa.

It's wonderful to see a controversy in the DI receive notice in a New York newspaper. I recall reading letters to the editor with only slightly less pleasure than I remember the experience of working for the DI. I never shall forget that newsroom.

In closing, may I say: long live The Daily Iowan. Long live Student Health. Long live controversy.

'In This Time Of Crisis You're Going To Have To Pull A Little Harder'

Hughes defends advertising tax

DES MOINES — Iowa's new tax bill was defended Tuesday by Gov. Harold Hughes, who charged that some news accounts of the measure were biased.

Hughes told the Iowa Federation of Labor Friday that any tax measure which raises taxes on newspapers was not likely to get good press.

The governor, asked to expand on that statement, said the bill, product of a Senate-House conference committee, had been debated many times, including the provision extending the sales tax to services.

He said, however, that news media did not report thoroughly the bill's progress through the legislature.

He added that newspapers that believe there was insufficient study of the service tax should say so specifically instead of being critical of the entire measure.

Council in Des Moines debates what is topless

DES MOINES — The City Council wants to uncover topless dancers in Des Moines. That is, councilmen want to know if any such dancing is going on.

First, however, they have to decide what is and what isn't topless.

A long discussion was triggered Tuesday after Councilman Jens Grothe objected to advertising of topless dancing in the city. Grothe said he understood go-go girls in topless dresses or uniforms were being billed.

"They are not topless," replied City Manager Tom Chenoweth.

"Are they near topless?" asked Grothe.

"No more than they have been in the past," Chenoweth replied.

The city manager said the dancers wear what was called a "stripper's brassiere" and what were called "pasties."

"For all practical purposes, they're naked above the waist," said Grothe.

"No, not for practical purposes," answered Lt. Scott Crowley of the vice squad.

Crowley said his men made regular checks of the dancers. But the council ordered Chenoweth to investigate and make a full report anyway.

British housewife's painting wins prize despite 'technique'

LONDON — A housewife who admits she knows nothing about abstract art Tuesday won an award for the best abstract painting of 1967.

After being congratulated by Mrs. Harold Wilson, wife of the British prime minister, Brenda Jeanes said in an interview: "I've dabbled with paints, but I can honestly say this is the first time I ever tried to do an abstract."

What was her technique?

"Well," she laughed, "I started in the upper left-hand corner and just painted down and across."

Why?

"Because that way the paint doesn't smudge."

Her winning award was called "Road of Infinity."

Congressman hits Farm Bureau

WASHINGTON — Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick (D-N.Y.) accused the American Farm Bureau Federation Tuesday of deliberate deception.

Resnick noted that the Farm Bureau announced last Thursday it was renewing a request that the House Agriculture Committee investigate the activities of the bureau and other major farm groups.

Resnick, a member of the committee, has been conducting his own self-financed inquiry into Farm Bureau affairs. He took that course after the committee voted, 27-1, to disassociate itself from his inquiry.

Resnick contends the government should withdraw the bureau's tax exempt status on the ground it gives the bureau an unfair competitive advantage.

The New Yorker, in a letter to Charles Shuman, president of the bureau, said he had assumed the organization had renewed its request in a letter to the committee.

But the committee advised him, he said, it had received no such letter.

Resnick said he subsequently was informed by Roger Fleming, the bureau's secretary-treasurer and head of its Washington office, that no such letter was sent nor was it intended that one would be.

Resnick quoted Fleming as saying the renewal request was merely a reference to a letter sent to the committee two months ago.

Diplomats doubt change in U.N.-RedChina issue

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS — The annual campaign to seat Communist China in the United Nations has not even started yet and its failure is being predicted already.

Communist sources said Secretary-General U Thant would get a request from some nonaligned and Communist countries this week that the General Assembly convening Sept. 19 should take up an item titled "Restoration of the Lawful Rights of the People's Republic of China in the United Nations."

Debate on that subject in recent years has always ended with the defeat of a resolution aimed to recognize Peking representatives as "the only lawful representatives of China to the United Nations" and to oust the Chinese Nationalists from all U.N. bodies.

Diplomats Predict Similarity

Pro-Nationalist diplomats forecast that it would be voted down by about the same margin as last year.

The margin against the resolution at that time was 57-46, with seven abstentions. That was much better for the Nationalist side than the year before, when a similar resolution failed on a 47-17 tie, with 20 abstentions. The assembly has ruled that a two-thirds vote is needed to make a change.

The United States, a strong supporter of Nationalist China, has angered the Arabs by taking what the Arabs said was pro-Israeli stand during and after the Israeli-Arab war of last June. Communist China itself has shocked friends and enemies alike with the riots of Mao Tse-tung's Red Guards inside China and out. But indications are that neither factor will count for much in the voting here.

One Western diplomat said there had been reports that, to spite the United States, some Arab countries would switch from abstaining to voting for Communist China, but these had been disproved.

Another pro-Nationalist source remarked that the Chinese Reds' backers seemed to stick by them no matter what they did.

He said, "India has been in trouble with the Chinese Communists for years and she still keeps working for them."

Voting Analyzed

Analysis shows that how a country votes on the China-seating issue depends not so much on how Peking behaves as on which Chinese government it recognizes, which is the more persuasive in lobbying for its vote and what its traditional position is on the issue.

The Communist sources said Algeria and Cambodia recently drafted a memorandum to explain the case for seating Communist China and circulated it for the approval of the other seven countries that put the question before the 1966 assembly — Albania, the Congo Brazzaville, Cuba, Guinea, Mali Romania and Syria.

They said these other countries since had been waiting for their governments' instructions on whether to join in the request again this year. The informants expected that all or nearly all of them would do so.

Communist China sometimes alleges that the United Nations is merely an instrument for U.S.-Soviet collaboration against the world revolutionary movement. But the fact that her friends keep trying to get her seated here would seem to indicate that U.N. ambitions are not entirely excluded from Mao's thoughts.

Alcoholism Parley Opens Here Today

Two leaders in treatment programs for alcoholics, George C. Dimas of Portland, Ore., and Clyde W. Gooderham of Salt Lake City, will be guest speakers at an Iowa Alcoholism Institute to be held today through Friday at the Union.

Dimas, a former president of the North American Association of Alcoholism Programs, has served on the faculties of schools of alcohol studies in eight states. He is now director of the Alcohol Studies and Rehabilitation Section of the Oregon Mental Health Division.

Gooderham is executive director of the Utah State Board on Alcoholism. He has served as treasurer and as a member of the board of directors of the North American Association of Alcoholism Programs. In 1959, he received the Utah State Medical Association award of merit for outstanding contributions to medicine in the field of alcoholism.

Westbound Train Gets New Time

A change in the schedule for Iowa City's lone westbound passenger train will become effective Sunday, B. D. Nichols, local Rock Island Railroad agent said Tuesday.

The train, which originates in Chicago, will arrive in Iowa City at 1:42 p.m. daily instead of 5:40 p.m. It will arrive in Des Moines at 4:30 p.m. and in Omaha at 8 p.m.

The schedule for eastbound trains remains unchanged.

Court To Probe Renewal Plans

An Iowa Supreme Court hearing on whether to delay legal steps in Iowa City's urban renewal program was scheduled for 9 a.m. today in Des Moines.

The hearing was requested Tuesday by seven local businessmen who seek to postpone a scheduled public hearing on Iowa City's proposed $16 million downtown urban renewal program.

The businessmen asked that the hearing be put off until the state Supreme Court hands down a decision on whether to force the city to release appraisal figures on property which is scheduled for purchase under the renewal plan.

The businessmen who sought the delay are Henry Linder, Dale Erickson, George Nagle Jr., Robert J. Connell, Richard T. Feddersen, Frank Vogel and Roy Ewers.

The public hearing had been set for 7:30 p.m. Sept. 12 at the City High School auditorium.

99 UI Students Appointed As Residence Hall Advisers

Ninety-nine students have been appointed residence hall advisers for the 1967-1968 academic year. Each residence hall advisory staff includes a head resident and several student resident advisers.

Head residents in the women's halls are full-time University employees who may be taking graduate courses. The women's halls also employ part-time qualified nurses. Advisory staffs in the men's halls include activities advisers and intramural coordinators.

The 99 newly appointed advisers will begin a four-day workshop Sept. 13. Their duties, include helping students adjust to university and dormitory life, acquainting them with regulations and promoting student government and other activities.

Some 5,500 students are expected to live in University residence halls this year.

The adviser training sessions will be directed by Richard M. Trumpe, associate dean of students, and residence hall coordinators Barbara Cochran and William Arbes.

SCHOOL UNIT TO MEET

The University Parents Cooperative Pre-School Council will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday at 212 Myrtle Ave. Members will discuss the pre-school's opening, set for Sept. 25.

HAVE YOU WRITTEN A BOOK?

The executive director of a well-known New York publishing firm will be in Iowa City in early October. He will be interviewing local authors in a quest for finished manuscripts suitable for book publication. All subjects will be considered, including fiction and non-fiction, poetry, juveniles, religious books, etc.

If you have completed a book-length manuscript (or nearly so) on any subject, and would like a professional appraisal (without cost or obligation), please write immediately describing your work and stating which part of the day (a.m. or p.m.) you would prefer for an appointment. You will promptly receive a confirmation for a definite time and place.

Authors with completed manuscripts unable to appear may send them directly to us for a free reading and evaluation. We will also be glad to hear from those whose literary works are still in progress. Please address:

News Coverage Of Riots Getting Once-Over-Lightly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department's Community Relations Service is studying reports of news coverage of the summer riots in Detroit, Newark, N.J., and Buffalo, N.Y. a spokesman said Tuesday.

He said the reports were prepared to help the service determine whether coverage of the riots by newspapers, radio and television affected the courses of the disturbances and whether the news media have any impact on race relations and racial tensions.

The Community Relations Service was created by the Civil Rights Act of 1964 to help communities and their people cope with disputes and difficulties arising from racial discrimination.

The material in the reports was obtained by community relations personnel sent specifically for that purpose to the riot scenes. In most cases news personnel helped them obtain the material. Detroit and Newark are expected to provide officials with an opportunity to find out if voluntary withholding of immediate riots news by the media — especially radio and television — affected the riots.

In Detroit, although the riot broke out early Sunday morning, July 23, radio and television stations are said to have voluntarily withheld reports of it until Sunday afternoon.

In the case of Newark, where riots began earlier in July, radio and television stations in the New York metropolitan area are said to have carried full reports on the riot almost from its inception.

Earlier this year, representatives of the Community Relations Service appeared at 16 regional meetings of municipal officials. The object, an official said, "was to see whether it would be useful to develop some sort of set of procedures in case they have these racial situations."

These plans would be similar to one in effect at Omaha, Neb.

It provides for a moratorium on news of racial disturbances to give police a chance to gain control of the situation before it is given wide publicity. The purpose is to keep the curious and potential troublemakers away from the scene.

Schools In Again, So Drive Carefully

Police Chief Patrick J. McCarny Tuesday warned motorists to use care now that Iowa City's public and parochial schools have reopened.

"Motorists should use much extra caution, especially when driving in or near school zones," McCarny said.

Enrollment Tuesday was listed at 7,182 in the public schools, up 5.5 per cent from the first day of classes last year. The figure does not include kindergarten pupils.

This is what Blue Cross and Blue Shield are all about.

Here we stand, ready to pay hospital and doctor care benefits for 800 thousand Iowans. Taking in and paying out some 50 million dollars a year.

Helping hospitals with their planning. Working with doctors and public health organizations. Doing research, compiling statistics, running down facts on computers and employing more than 600 full time people.

Yet, we don't make a penny of profit. Why?

What's our angle?

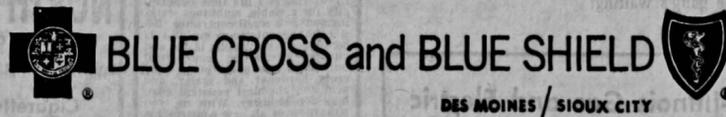

What are we after?

Would you believe that our purpose is simply to help people pay hospital and doctor bills? And that we don't believe a company should profit from that?

At Blue Cross and Blue Shield, the only thing up our sleeve is our arm with a helping hand at the end of it. We're just helping 800 thousand Iowans put money into a kitty for those of us who get sick.

And that's our angle. We hope you like it.

Because there's about a one in three chance you're in on it.

Bosox Batter Nats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski blasted his way out of a batting slump with his 37th and 38th home runs of the season Tuesday night as the Boston Red Sox battered Washington 8-2.

Yastrzemski, who singled in his first time at bat, capped a six-run Boston fourth with a three-run homer and then added a bases-empty shot in the seventh. Both homers sailed into the Red Sox bullpen.

Angels Sweep

ANAHEIM (AP) — Bubba Morton drove in eight runs, four in each game Tuesday as the California Angels swept a doubleheader from Baltimore, 7-2 and 11-4.

The sweep gave the Angels seven victories in their last eight games.

Bases-empty homers by Rick

Sox Walk Home

NEW YORK (AP) — A bases-loaded walk to Smoky Burgess forced in the tie-breaking run in the third inning and Steve Jones and Bob Locker protected the edge with seven innings of scoreless relief, carrying the Chicago White Sox to a 5-3 victory over the New York Yankees Tuesday.

Richard and rookie Leo Rodriguez and a pair of two-run doubles by Morton helped left-hander Clyde Wright, 4-3, win the opener for the Angels. Wright hurled a four-hitter. Brooks Robinson drove in both Baltimore runs, one of them with his 15th homer of the season.

The Angels won the nightcap after forging an 8-0 lead in the first five innings against John Buzhardt, 3-10, and Wallyunker. Both homers sailed into the Red Sox bullpen.

Ticket Policy Announced

Students have been reminded that they must pick up their own season tickets. After the first game (Sept. 23, against Texas Christian) students who are on the individual game program may pick up more than one ticket.

The priority system based upon ID numbers will not be in effect for the first game as tickets should purchase their tickets for it as soon as possible. The tickets will be distributed on a first come first served basis.

Podolak No. 1 At Punt Post

Iowa worked on its kicking game Tuesday and junior quarterback Ed Podolak moved into the top spot among the team's punters.

"Podolak seems to be our No. 1 punter at this stage," said Head Coach Ray Nagel, who was also impressed with Podolak's passing.

"He's been real sharp in the early practices," said Nagel. Other players in the running at the punting position are sophomores Bob Gruver, a linebacker from Alton, Ill. and Dean Schuessler, a center from Lone Tree.

Nagel was also impressed with the work of junior end Al Bream. "He's showed good improvement in his pass catching since last spring," said Nagel.

The Hawks also drilled on both offensive and defensive fundamentals. The last 30 minutes of practice was devoted to a dummy scrimmage by the offensive unit.

Aussies End U.S. Hopes At Wimbledon

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Wimbledon titleholder John Newcombe of Australia and Bob Hewitt, an Australian exile now living in South Africa, eliminated two of the United States' Davis Cup aces in marathon third-round matches Tuesday and opened the gates for another foreign landslide in the national tennis championships.

The top-seeded Newcombe, his cannonball service crackling, had the fight of his life with 20-year-old Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., but bulled his way through 13-11, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

It was a titanic performance for the intense young Texan regarded as principally a clay court player. He had set point against Newcombe in the 20th game of the back-breaking and crucial first set and he never gave up, breaking the Australian at love in clinching the third set.

Hewitt, a balding veteran of the world tennis beat, had to rally twice and fight off three match points in winning a three-hour struggle.

NL Refugee Proves Elite In New Circuit

NEW YORK (AP) — It's a good thing for the American League that Baltimore obtained Frank Robinson from the National League's Cincinnati Reds two years ago.

If the Orioles hadn't, what would the AL have done for 300 hitters?

Robinson led the AL with a .316 average last season when the circuit tied a 61-year-old big league record by producing only two .300 batsmen. Minnesota's Tony Oliva was the 1966 runner-up with .307.

This year, there are only three players over .300. Robinson is hitting .324. Boston's Carl Yastrzemski, .309, and George Scott, .301. The averages include Monday's games.

And the way they've been slumping, at least one of the top three figures to drop into the .290s. Robinson lost nine points with a 9-for-38 performance in last week's games. Yastrzemski also slipped nine points by collecting only seven hits in 36 tries while Scott lost five points with nine safeties in 37 attempts.

Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric

Supplied by Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America

Join the "go-go-with-gas gang" and enjoy programmed cooking with an automatic gas range. The burner-with-a-brain will keep your pots and pans from scorching or boiling over.

You're free to go wherever you like, because pre-set controls will start the oven and cook your food, then automatically hold the food at serving temperature.

Modern features and low-cost, old-fashioned economy are why more than 37 million homemakers prefer cooking with gas.

Ask your gas appliance dealer to show you the advantages of owning an automatic gas range.

Hurry, the gang's waiting!
