G.O.P. Eyes 'Peace' Drive

SEN. MARGARET CHASE SMITH

OJD Nixon has Lead In Shadow Derby

WASHINGTON as - The hard-core Repubclicans, who were keyplayers in the Senate's defeating of the Democrats' peace move, now say they want to move toward a more moderate policy for Vietnam.

"We have had a Democratic brainwash," said Sen.

George Romney of Michigan, who helped to encourage the Senate to vote down President

Johnson's April 28 call for a cease-fire. "We have been taken in by too many people this year."

Campaign aides to Nixon, who is running for the presidential nomination, said he would continue to

press for negotiations

in Vietnam, but in a more open and moderate manner.

"There are no

secretaries of state

here anymore," aides said. "We're going to be more open and transparent, to try to show the American people that we're trustworthy with the peace

issue."

"We're going to try to be open with the American people to try to show how to get out of this thing, how to get out of the war,"

said Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who is running for the Repub-clican nomination.

Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, another possible presidential bidder, also said that he would continue to

press for negotiations.

"We're not going to throw our hands up and say, 'We can't negotiate,'

" he said.

"We must find a way out of this thing, and if we don't find one soon, we're going to be in a great deal of trouble."

Sen. John Stennis of

Mississippi, who is running for re-election, said he would continue to press for a cease-fire in Vietnam.

"I have not said I'm against a cease-fire,"

he said.

"But I do want to try to get out of this, and I think the only way to do that is to press for a cease-fire."

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of

New York, another possible presidential candidate, also said he would continue to press for negotiations.

"We are not going to keep silent about the interior peace move,"

he said.

"We must do more in the way of a cease-fire, and we must do more in the way of negotiating, and we must do it in the next few months."

Detroit's Long 'Recess' Could Rally Auto Strike

DETROIT -- The incendiary Mary Motgomery, who was the only woman to vote for the PACE strike at the United Automobile Workers, is asking all her colleagues to hold on until the strike is over.

"If we hold on we can make this successful," she said. "We've got to hold on until the strike is over."

Urban areas need renewal

On a vacation trip to four Midwestern cities recently, I was again amazed at the speed with which certain parts of these cities are being transformed. New buildings are rising, traffic jams are easing, and there seems to be a real interest in improving the quality of life for the people who live in these cities. However, there are still many areas that need to be renewed.

In Minneapolis, for example, there is a new emphasis on urban renewal. The city is planning to build a new downtown area with office buildings, hotels, and shops. The plan includes the demolition of some old buildings and the construction of new ones.

In St. Louis, an excellent example of urban renewal can be seen in the CWE (Central West End) area. This area has been transformed from a run-down neighborhood to a lively, attractive area with new stores, restaurants, and parks. The CWE is a great example of what can be done with a little planning and effort.

Regional offices a good idea

What may be the first step in a long process of creating a unified government for the Midwest is the creation of regional offices for the states. This idea was suggested by a group of midwestern governors at a recent meeting in Des Moines.

The idea is to have regional offices that would coordinate the efforts of the states on a wide range of issues such as transportation, environment, and economic development. The regional offices would also be responsible for the construction of new roads and highways.

The proposal has already been approved by the governors of this region and the next step is to have the states agree to the plan. If this plan is successful, it could be expanded to other parts of the country.

Can Mao pick his own successor?

By RICK GARD

For The Daily Ioan

A major factor in the factional struggles of China is the question of who will succeed the late Chairman Mao Tse-Tung. This question has been a source of tension in China for many years. The current leader, Jiang Zemin, is not widely regarded as a reformer and his policies are not popular with many Chinese.

Many believe that Mao's successor must be someone who can unite the country and bring about economic reform. However, there is no clear favorite for the position. The current leader, Jiang Zemin, is not widely regarded as a reformer and his policies are not popular with many Chinese.

Perhaps the greatest public concern is the question of who will lead China in the future. The country is on the verge of a major economic transition, and the future of the country hangs in the balance.

There are several potential successors, including the current leader, Jiang Zemin, and a number of other politicians. However, it is unclear who will be chosen and what policies they will implement.

The issue of who will succeed Mao is critical to the future of China. The country is on the verge of a major economic transition, and the future of the country hangs in the balance. It is unclear who will be chosen and what policies they will implement.
Hughes Urges Government To Face Up To Alcoholism

By Gordon Young

Gov. Harold E. Hughes, of Texas, today described the problem of alcoholism as "the number one health problem" in the state. The problem is growing, he said, and is "a major economic problem." He said that the problem is not confined to the poor, but affects "every social stratum and racial group." He also said that the problem is "a matter of public health and welfare" and that "every citizen is concerned with it." He urged the government to take action to combat the problem.

5 Vie In Board Vote

Voices in the Iowa City school district will not pass upon the issue of special legislative session Yel. The Iowa City school board will meet on Thursday, Oct. 26, to discuss the issue. The board will vote on whether to approve or reject the proposal for a special legislative session. The Iowa City school board is responsible for making decisions about the special legislative session. The board consists of five members, each of whom represents a different part of the city.

Tax Law Snafus May Force Special Legislative Session

The Iowa City school board is considering the possibility of a special legislative session to address tax law snafus. The board is concerned that the current tax law may be inadequate to meet the needs of the school district. The board is also concerned that the current tax law may be subject to legal challenges. The board is considering a special legislative session to address these concerns.

Riots To Be Discussed

A meeting to discuss the riots in the city's downtown area will be held on Friday, Oct. 27, at 7 p.m. The meeting will be held at the Iowa City Public Library. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the riots and to develop a plan to address the problem.

Mental Retardation Never Kills Anyone

It's not a killer like heart disease or cancer. Yet, no treatment is more wasteful than mental retardation.

Think of the babies doomed from birth to live out their years uselessly . . . the children who never have a chance to learn what they are capable of learning . . . the retarded adults, trained to work, but refused jobs.

What a waste! What a loss!

Can we change this? How?

Start by finding out what your community or state is doing to salvage many of these lives.

Are programs for prevention, rehabilitation, recreation, vocational training? Are they directed by teachers and others who really understand the retarded and how the best can be helped?

Remember, fully 60 percent of the retarded could become productive citizens—if given the special help they need and deserve.

Don't wait for the other fellow to take the lead. Use your own influence, or that of a group to which you belong, to assure the retarded their rights as fellow human beings and fellow citizens.

Rebuilding Oilers Face Tough Chiefs

HOUSTON, Texas (AP) — A big share of the Crown, the Oilers’ new coach, has been preaching patience and humility this season. The Oilers finished last year with a record of 3-13, but the new coach, who has been with the team for several years, is hoping to turn things around this season.

"We’re looking for improvement," said Crown. "We have some good players, but we need to work on our defense and special teams. We’re trying to build something special here."
