Regents Refuse To Censure Coach

COUNCIL BLUFFS — The Board of Regents refused Thursday to tell Iowa State wrestling Coach Harold Nichols to sell sporting goods.

The Iowa Sporting Goods Distributors Association charged, and Nichols denied through his attorneys, that the coach takes unfair advantage of his title and the school's prestige in competing with them. The board adopted unanimously a motion by Regent Thomas Loudon of Keokuk which said, "If Coach Harold Nichols has in any way been utilizing his position, title or university facilities in connection with or promotion of his private business ventures, he must cease and desist immediately."

Regent William B. Quarton, Cedar Rapids, then moved that the board instruct Nichols to stop promoting or selling wrestling equipment to Iowa buyers. But the motion failed 6-3.

Regents Loudon, Jonathan Richards of Red Oak, Casey Loss of Alzona, Ralph Wallace of Mason City, Ned Perrin of Mapleton and Pres. Stanley Redeker of Boone combined to kill it.

Dealers Complained

Attorney Tom Dailey of Burlington, spokesman for the sporting goods dealers, said they complained years ago about Nichols' sale of wrestling equipment and, in 1961 ISU Athletic Director Gordon Chalmers wrote that "as of the first of September he (Nichols) is no longer in the sporting goods business."

Dailey showed the board a sales letter from Nichols last April in which the coach said he had sold more than 70 wrestling mats in the past eight years.

This, Dailey said, was more than $1 million in gross business.

Nichols never addressed the board directly. His attorneys did not deny that he is in the business; they said he and his wife had formed a corporation and no longer will use the coach's name in sales promotion.

Nichols declined to comment on his alleged agreement with Chalmers not to sell sporting goods on the ground that Chalmers was not at the meeting.

Nichols' attorney said university employees should use their own time as they like if there is no conflict with their work, no use of their position to promote their business and no interference with their work.

No Conflict Seen

"As I view it, there is a conflict of interest on all three points in Nichols' case," said Quarton.

Nichols wrestling squads have won 156 matches, lost 22 and tied 7 since he took over in 1953. They won the NCAA title in 1965.

Earlier, the board decided to move quicker toward setting up a new university in western Iowa by ordering a limited study of the proposal rather than a full-blown survey taking in all the needs of higher education.

Quarton, Richard and Wallace warned that the board should not act until its questions about the new school had been answered in full.

But Regent Melvin Wolf of Waterloo, referring to the Legislature as "that big school board in the sky," said they had their instructions.

The 1967 Legislature directed the creation of the new university over the objections of a majority of regents.

The study would cover such matters as what programs should be offered, how many students it should expect to serve, what the cost would be and the effect on existing state schools.

Regent Ned Perrin of Mapleton, one of those seeking action, suggested that the board hire a consulting firm at its October meeting.

Architect Change Eyed

Later the regents indicated they may change architects for an Iowa State University fieldhouse in an effort to get construction bids within available funds.

Fieldhouse bids opened last week totaled twice the $6 million estimated for the project.

Robert Parks, president of the university, recommended that the board reject the bids. They totaled nearly $12 million and the board threw them out.

Parks said architects Crites and McConnell of Cedar Rapids "are checking with the contractors to see what the trouble was, and this probably will mean serious redesigning."

Wolf asked whether the school might want to change architects. Parks said it might.

The 14,000-seat fieldhouse is to be financed from contributions and student fees. It is part of a cultural complex under construction at Iowa State.

The board voted to permit Iowa State to drop one of its two summer sessions next year. University officials had reported little student interest in the second, 11-week term.

The first eight weeks will be retained and Northern Iowa and the University of Iowa will continue with two terms of eight weeks' duration.

Johnson Brands Violence Leaders As 'Vulgar Men'

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Leaders of violence in the nation's cities were lashed by President Johnson Thursday as wretched vulgar men who posed as spokesmen for the underprivileged and capitalized on the real grievances of the suffering people.

Johnson flew to Kansas City to speak to a meeting of several hundred police chiefs and challenge them to redeem the faith of the poor in the law.

He also worked in a brief, private meeting with former President Harry S. Truman.

"What America needs is not more hand-wringing about crime in the streets," Johnson told the International Association of

PRESIDENT JOHNSON Addressing Police Association

Chiefs of Police, "America needs a policy for action against crime in the streets." The police chiefs broke into the President's speech with hearty applause when he asserted:

"Much can explain — but nothing can justify — the riots of 1967." Johnson declared one way to redeem faith in the law among the urban poor is to "make certain that law enforcement is fair and effective — that protection is afforded every family, no matter where they live — that justice is swift and blind to religion, color and status."

The President urged the police chiefs to support congressional action on the administration's proposed Safe Streets and Crime Control Act. He described the measure as a tool for crime research, raising police salaries and providing better training.

Johnson emphasized the federal government is not trying to take over local law enforcement functions.

Hurricane Buelah Heading For Gulf

MIAMI — Hurricane Buelah drew renewed fury from the warm waters of the Caribbean Sea Thursday and veered more to northward on a course that could take her into the broad Gulf of Mexico.

More than 1,000 miles to the north, Hurricanes Chloe and Doria remained almost stationary, churning a vast area of Atlantic waters. They had drawn close enough together that each could soon begin to affect the movements of the other.

Buelah, demoted to a tropical storm after killing at least 18 persons in the eastern Caribbean, cranked up again to 90 mile an hour hurricane force at the western end of the sea.

Conditions were favorable for further intensification and Robert H. Simpson, director-designate of the National Hurricane Center, declared that Buelah "is going to become a massive storm before we are through with her."

She was a small but tightly-wound hurricane when she tangled with the mountains of Haiti. Now she was growing in size as well as windpower and her gales covered a large portion of the western Caribbean.

1 Killed In Accident Late Thursday Night

At least one person was killed just before 11:30 p.m. Thursday in a motor vehicle accident in the southern part of Iowa City. The accident occurred at Keokuk Street and the Highway 6 Bypass.

One person was dead at the scene. A Johnson County ambulance attendant said the one person taken to University Hospital was in critical condition.

No names of the drivers or further details were available late Thursday night from officers.

Soviets, Chinese Seen Expanding Nuclear Arsenal; U.S. Still Ahead

LONDON — The Soviet Union nearly doubled its arsenal of long-range missiles this year and China has stockpiled probably 30 relatively small atomic bombs, the authoritative Institute for Strategic Studies said Thursday.

It also reported that around Moscow the Russians had installed some antiballistic missiles with a nuclear warhead that would permit limited protection against U.S. missiles. The missiles name is Galosh.

The accelerated Soviet missile program will cut U.S. superiority even further in 1968, the institute predicted in its annual appraisal of the world's principal armed forces. It found U.S. missile superiority reduced from nearly four to one to less than three to one.

The institute was founded in 1958 as an international center for research on defense, world security and disarmament problems. It is a private organization with an international council from 13 countries and gathers its information from private and governmental sources and its own staff.

Despite political unrest, the report on China said, "The Chinese advanced weapons program has made steady progress."

Chinese Skill Cited

China's test of an H-bomb June 17, less than 2½ years after its first A-bomb test, "testifies to the skill of Chinese nuclear physicists and engineers."

There is as yet no indication the Chinese nuclear program is operational but "all indications are that China intends to base her delivery system on missiles."

The report said, however, that Peking's armed forces "have lost more than they gained" in the two-year power struggle among the top men of the nation.

"As a result of Mao Tse-tung's destruction of the party apparatus and Red Guard interference with the working of the administrative structure, the People's Liberation Army remains the only organized body in the country capable of transmitting and implementing the orders of the Maoist group in Peking," the report said.

This has "led to overextension of military effort, interference with training schedules, and a probable reduction in combat effectiveness," the institute said. Successive purges have discarded some top officers, especially in the air force.

The report said the Soviet Union has deployed the Galosh "in limited numbers around Moscow. It is multistage, solid-fuel antiballistic missile killer."

Several Hundred Mile Range

Galosh is believed to have a range of several hundred miles and to carry a nuclear warhead in the one to two megaton range, the equivalent of two million tons of TNT.

"It is therefore suitable for interception at high altitude and for area defense," the institute said. "This feature and the nature of the radar associated with it suggest that its function is the defense of the northwestern U.S.S.R., which contains a high proportion of Soviet industrial capacity and many of its major cities. As at present deployed it provides a limited defense against minuteman firings from North America or Polaris missiles from the Arctic Ocean."

"Reports of ABM antiballistic missiles and radar-site construction in southern U.S.S.R. and in the Ural Mountains would be consistent with extension of the system to provide some degree of all-round protection, especially against Polaris from the Mediterranean or missiles from China, but such reports are as yet unconfirmed from official sources."

The report said Soviet nuclear warheads generally have a bigger bang than the Americans but the U.S. missiles with smaller warheads have "greater potential accuracy in delivery."

The institute noted "a marked increase" in the size of the U.S. armed forces during the year to become the largest in the world. It set American regular military personnel at 3,400,000, the Soviet Union at 3,220,000, and Red China at 2,700,000.

Nixon Urges U.S. To Build Antimissile Missile System

NEW YORK — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon urged Thursday that the United States "go ahead at all costs" to build an antimissile missile system to counter what he called the growing Soviet ballistic strength and a possible threat from China.

He said in an interview that the Soviet Union is rapidly closing the missile gap and some intelligence sources have told him it is already ahead in warhead megatonnage, that is explosive power.

The Soviets, he said, have pushed ahead with construction of an antimissile missile system, although the United States, he claimed, still maintains a 2-1 lead in the number of operational missiles.

Nixon recalled that the late John F. Kennedy successfully used claims of missile gap against him in their race for the presidency and commented:

"This 1960 issue can now be turned on the administration: It's a deadly boomerang."

"We can't risk the Soviet Union gaining parity or superiority," he added, "since parity would be the same as superiority for they'd have the advantage of striking first."

Nixon, a leading contender for the 1968 Republican nomination, said, "We must never be in a position where we, who are for peace, are not ahead of the Soviet Union whose only goal is victory. I would not want to see another Cuba or Middle East crisis with the Soviet Union superior. Therefore, the United States must go ahead at all costs to build an antimissile system until there is a satisfactory agreement."

Nixon noted that many experts argue that a U.S. antimissile system and a Soviet system would merely be an expensive way of balancing each other out.

But, he said, even if this proved true there would still remain the problem of China, which already has nuclear arms and is developing intercontinental ballistic missiles.

City Employees Accept Des Moines Pay Offer

DES MOINES — Representatives of striking Des Moines city employees Thursday night accepted a City Council compromise wage proposal — apparently ending an eight-day work stoppage.

The council's proposal included an across-the-board $300 pay raise next year and designation of an additional one-day holiday.

John Connors, spokesman for the employees, said workers would return to their jobs Friday, restoring municipal services which had been interrupted by the wage dispute.

The employees' latest demand had been for a $360 pay hike, but Connors said the council's $300 offer, made Thursday afternoon was considered a major concession.

About 700 employees refused to go to work last Thursday after the council said it would not budge from its offer of a $260 pay increase.

The work stoppage widened Wednesday when 154 civil service workers left their desks.

Chinese Newspaper Urges 'Mighty Army' For Mao

TOKYO — China's official People's Daily declared Thursday it would be necessary "to move a mighty army into action" to gain victory over President Liu Shao-chi and his supporters.

The newspaper did not say whether this meant military force against the supporters of Liu, who have held out in most parts of the country through more than a year of the power struggle.

Probably, it meant an army of supporters of party Chairman Mao Tse-tung, for the newspapers emphasized the need to "vigorously promote the revolutionary great alliance."

The loyalty of the army is in doubt. The army in various parts of the country is reported split over whether to support Mao, his foes or to remain neutral.

Earlier in the day, Shanghai radio in a Chinese-language broadcast designed for home consumption demanded an end to what it called spreading anarchy in the army.

This indicated serious army defection in Shanghai, the largest port in China, where the Maoists claim to be in control.

Defense Minister Lin Biao, as Mao's heir apparent, is in theoretical control of the army, but he has had his troubles with military leaders, even in Peking.

Some military leaders were missing when Peking celebrated the army's 40th anniversary Aug. 1. Radio Peking announced the start of a campaign Aug. 24 to wipe out the "bourgeois military line" in the army staff.

By official count, Mao's revolutionary alliance, a combine of army men, party workers and local Maoists revolutionaries, have claimed absolute control in only four of China's 26 provinces and autonomous regions. These are Heilungkiang in Manchuria, Shantung in each China, Shansi in the north and Kweichow in the west. This indicates a reluctance on the part of army leaders to take sides in the power struggle.

Partial control is claimed in eight other provinces.

Radio Peking broadcast the People's Daily article, which called for mass struggle "against the handful of persons in authority, headed by China's Khrushchev (Liu), taking the capitalist road."

"In order to achieve these objectives," the article went on, "it is necessary to organize millions upon millions of the masses and to move a mighty army into action to bring about and strengthen the revolutionary great alliance."

The newspaper conceded splits exist among Maoists themselves and called on the factions to patch up their differences. It blamed the splits on Liu's followers who have "hoodwinked, misled and manipulated" Maoist organizations.

From Hong Kong came reports that army units loyal to Mao were trying to get trains running again after serious disruptions caused by fighting between rival factions.

Pentagon Lets Hanoi Know Port Of Haiphong Off Limits

An AP News Analysis By BOB HORTON

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon, in its eagerness to show that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was not overruled in recent war decisions, has given North Vietnam official word that port facilities of Haiphong are safe from attack at present.

This unusual tipoff on administration thinking followed this week's U.S. raids on the port of Cam Pha and near Haiphong's vital docking facilities.

McNamara only days before had briefed Congress rather elaborately on why North Vietnam's ports need not be struck, saying the Communists would find other ways to get arms southward.

When Cam Pha was hit Monday and Haiphong Tuesday, the immediate assumption arose: President Johnson is paying less attention to McNamara at the moment while favoring the hard-line approach of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who wanted these targets hit.

Casualties Hit 2-Month Peak For U.S., Reds

SAIGON — The fierce tempo of battle in the northern war zone was reflected Thursday in a U.S. Command report that Americans and Communist casualties last week climbed to the highest peak in two months.

By South Vietnamese government account, civilian victims of Communist terror last week reached the highest level since officials began compiling the figures last October.

Nearly two-thirds of 242 U.S. troops killed were Marines, who bear the brunt of fighting North Vietnamese all the way from the demilitarized zone dividing Vietnam to Tam Ky, 150 miles south.

But the Leathernecks took a heavy toll, and Communist casualties for the week ended Saturday rose to 2,103 killed. About a third of these were killed by the Marines. Other U.S. casualties were 1,490 wounded and seven missing.

Fighting died down in the northern zone Thursday but air blows rained down on the DMZ, through which the North Vietnamese funnel troops and supplies in an effort to knock the Marines out of the path of an enemy drive southward.

Eight-engine B52 bombers blasted the zone itself in two raids and a third was directed at enemy positions in North Vietnam three miles north of the zone.

The Communists are believed trying to install Soviet SAM missiles just to the north to halt the B52 havoc in the zone. The Stratofortresses struck at suspected hidden missile sites. In all, the B52s unloaded 450,000 pounds of bombs.

The Communists installed the SAMs, which can reach to 70,000 feet and knock down the high-altitude B52s, near the zone earlier this year. All B52 flights over the zone were suspended from May 12 to July 12 until air officers were satisfied that tactical fighter-bombers had knocked out the missile sites.

No heavy fighting was reported anywhere in the five provinces that make up the northern war zone. Near Tam Ky, a Marine platoon ran into a Communist force and reported killing 15 enemy troops in close fighting. The Marines had 10 wounded.

By ART BUCHWALD
WASHINGTON — It is not being publicized at the moment, but Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara will soon announce a plan to build a "wall" around Gov. George Romney.

McNamara hopes the new barrier, which will consist of concrete ditches, barbed wire stories and electronic monitoring devices, will slow down Romney's attacks on the Johnson Administration's Vietnam policies.

An Administration spokesman told me, "Romney has been laying down a barrage of false charges against the President and the secretary of defense, and he's been infiltrating the American electorate. We have no choice but to fire back."

"What about Romney's charges that he was brainwashed in Vietnam?"
"Everyone knows that it is a violation of the Geneva Conventions to brainwash a governor of the United States. All we've ever asked of a politician who visited Vietnam was his name, his rank and his serial number."

"But Romney said that he was brainwashed in Saigon two years ago by some very experienced people."

"That's just Republican propaganda. We're willing to open our briefings to the International Red Cross at any time to prove that we treat Republican presidential candidates humanely and in accordance with the articles of war."

"Is it not possible that an overzealous interrogator in Saigon might use methods that the White House does not know about or approve of?"

"There is that possibility, but we've investigated the Romney case thoroughly and both Gen. Westmoreland and former Ambassador Lodge swear they never laid a finger on him."

"But aren't there more subtle ways of brainwashing somebody without touching him?"
"I suppose so. But the Johnson Administration would never stoop to any of these. If we can't win over the opposition with the truth, then we feel we should resign."
"It's good to hear you say that," I said.
"Don't forget," the Administration spokesman continued, "both President Johnson and Secretary McNamara have to shave every morning, and they could never look into a mirror and face themselves if they believed someone on their staff had lied to George Romney."

"I never thought of it that way," I admitted.

"Besides, we're trying to set an example for the people of South Vietnam; and if they caught us telling untruths to our own people, it would give them bad habits."

"That makes sense," I said.
"It will be a sorry day in American history if this Administration resorts to falsehoods to get its story across about Vietnam."

"I think I'm going to cry," I said.

"I must admit that we've been tempted at times," he continued. "But then we thought of the millions and millions of little George Romneys throughout this country who believe in us and in what we are doing, and we decided that no matter what the cost we would stick to the truth."

"What you have just said should be put to music."

"You can't imagine how it hurts the President when somebody like the governor of Michigan, and a Republican to boot, gets on television and says he has been brainwashed. It isn't the personal damage that worries him, nor is it the attack on his veracity. What bothers the President more than anything is that George Romney would introduce politics into a presidential campaign."

Fowler advocates international money

WASHINGTON — Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler said Thursday a plan to create new international money would assure healthy, economic growth in the non-Communist world and help avoid financial problems similar to those of the 1930s.

In testimony before a Senate-House economic subcommittee, Fowler again called the agreement reached at London more than two weeks ago a breakthrough in the way the world does business.

"It will promote the interests and welfare of all members of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) who together make up a very large part of the world community," Fowler testified.

The 106-nation IMF is to act on the plan at its meeting in Rio de Janeiro beginning Sept. 25.

Fowler has said ratification virtually is assured since the 10 industrial nations which drafted the outline control 56 percent of the IMF's weighted vote. A simple majority is needed for ratification.

The plan calls for creation of new money — called a special drawing right in the IMF — when and as it is needed to supplement gold and dollars. The new money would never be seen by the man in the street but would be used by central banks to settle accounts among countries.

Attorney General reviews crime solutions

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the address given by Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark to the International Association of Chiefs of Police in Kansas City Monday.

By RAMSEY CLARK
Attorney General of the United States

The American people are deeply concerned about the immense and increasing crime in their midst. Well, we should be. More than three million serious crimes were reported in 1966; perhaps as many as 10 million were unreported. Crime threatens our lives and property, our character and institutions, our hopes for ourselves and our children; the American dream itself. Crime is intolerable in a society that would be great.

Law is the basis of civilization. The violation of law is an attack on the foundation of society. No people can take pride in themselves or their accomplishments where crime is rampant. None who care can fail to be deeply concerned.

Our challenge is to translate concern into action. The time is ripe; the occasion is steady with opportunity. A fixed goal, a steady purpose, and a relentless effort will bring a safer tomorrow.

The consequences of missing this opportunity are incalculable. Our times are particular. History has witnessed nothing comparable. Change, vast and swift, is the fundamental fact of the day. In two-thirds of a century our population has increased by more than 250 per cent. We have built highways and placed more autos on them than we had people in 1900. And we've piled more autos in junk yards than remain on the road. We have urbanized. Three-fourths are now urban. Ninety-two per cent of the 100 million people added to our population between 1900 and 1960 are city and suburban dwellers. But to show the trend, between 1950 and 1960 cities absorbed more than 100 per cent of our growth. Rural America lost population.

In 67 years, science has brought to our daily lives phenomena undreamed of in 1900 and immeasurable in meaning to today. Television and jet transports illustrate.

But if we have witnessed this much this first two-thirds, the final third will witness more. We will add more American citizens in the final third of the 20th Century, 140 million, than were added in the first two-thirds, 120 million. Science will bring to our daily lives developments far transcending what we now know and have.

Public safety is the first purpose of government. Police are the first team in government charged with responsibility for the safety of our citizens. If police are to meet the challenge of crime they must be professionals of the highest skills and standards with the full support of the people.

To attain the level of professionalism essential to our liberty as well as our safety is no small or easy task. The needs are comparatively clear. Fulfilling them is the hard part.

High standards for police in educational attainment, personal character and level of performance are a first priority. Improved salaries are required to meet such standards. Intensive, continuing training, constantly refined, for all personnel is indispensable. Sound jurisdictional organization geared to today and tomorrow with highly efficient internal management are needed throughout 40,000 existing police jurisdictions. Increased effort to prevent crime before it occurs by simple precautions such as locking cars and using scientific techniques of lighting and securing can aid police significantly. Improved methods of collecting, organizing and the swift distribution of facts relevant to crime detection and apprehension can make a major difference. Automatic data processing and computer capabilities are compelled by the times. A major milestone in law enforcement was marked in January of this year when the FBI commenced operations of the National Crime Information Center.

Intensive scientific research in all areas of police and criminal justice activity is of the greatest importance.

Full coordination and cooperation between police jurisdictions and among police, prosecutors, courts and corrections agencies is necessary for the success of each. The effectiveness of any law enforcement agency is limited by the effectiveness of those with which it must work. A good city police department can be seriously handicapped by a bad sheriff's office or a bad police department in a neighboring city. The FBI can do little about organized crime in an area where local law enforcement is bad.

If prosecutors, or courts, or corrections efforts are inefficient or ineffective, police work suffers, just as prosecution will fail where police work is poor. Prosecution will be a small deterrent where great delays are caused by congested court calendars. All fail if prisons release persons bent on further crime having failed at rehabilitation.

Criminal justice is a single process involving law enforcement, prosecution, courts and prisons of all jurisdictions.

Finally, law enforcement must be elevated to a profession of highest respect, among all of our people. Police community relations which is a part of this task is perhaps the most difficult and important police issue of the next decade. Clearly every police department must address itself to the issue. Chief Tom Cahill has told us "that the desired relationship between the police and the public can only be obtained by a deliberate and calculated effort. It cannot be expected to develop by chance or random."

Respect for law and respect for law enforcement go hand in hand. There will be no respect for law until there is a respect for the rights of others in the hearts of the people. In the meantime, the police will be at the eye of the storm; a subject of intense controversy, not because they are responsible for the conditions with which they deal but, because, like the mountain, they are there. Like the mountain, they must be unmoved by the storm.

The federal government has made major strides toward excellence in criminal justice in the past several years. We are committed to the pre-eminence of local law enforcement. Effectiveness and efficiency in crime control depend on excellence in local law enforcement. So does our liberty. America must never have a national police, or police states in a union of states.

On this premise, President Johnson has presented a national strategy to control crime. For three consecutive years he has submitted messages on crime to the Congress, each developing on its predecessors.

Appointment in 1965 of the National Crime Commission and a local commission for the District of Columbia resulted in the most comprehensive studies of crime and its causes and cures ever undertaken.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Act of 1965, two years old this month, began federal aid to local law enforcement, providing valuable assistance in demonstration programs, training and research as well as experience for the Safe Streets and Crime Control Act of 1967. To date 266 grants have been made affecting directly or potentially every criminal justice agency in America.

An illustration of the projects sponsored is approval of $252,000 last Friday to permit many more small police departments to utilize the sight-sound training program. This program provides participants film strips and supplementary printed material on basic police training subjects such as arrests, searches, investigations and crime scene procedures. Major legislative proposals and activities in areas such as organized crime, drug control, criminal law revision, corrections reform, firearms control, riot control, and police community relations have been advanced under President Johnson's leadership.

The Safe Streets and Crime Control Act is the heart of the national strategy against crime. It recognizes as the basic need the devotion of more resources to control crime. A nation that spends $12.7 billion a year for liquor and $8.8 billion for tobacco, spends only $2.8 billion for all police, local, state and federal, and only $4.2 billion for all criminal justice: police, prosecution, courts and corrections — federal, state and local.

The Crime Control Act seeks to guide increased investment for the public safety. It seeks to do so efficiently and effectively. As presented to the Congress by President Johnson, it offers the potential for tripling the rate of increased expenditures for police and all other criminal justice agencies from an average annual rate of five percent to more than 15 percent. This can be done by the expenditure of $300 million federal dollars on a matching fund basis next year. If that rate of increase were maintained for several years, the potential for improvement would be immense. That it is needed seems indisputable. We are most anxious for the Congress to act so we can begin.

The House of Representatives has passed the bill and it is now pending before the Senate Judiciary Committee where many of you have testified.

One amendment in the House of Representatives is of critical importance. The original bill contemplated grants directly to local governments. The amendment grants the funds to state governments for distribution.

In March 1966, President Johnson asked the Department of Justice to work with the 50 states to establish statewide committees on law enforcement and criminal justice. This seems essential to sound, coordinated planning though not necessary to act on grant programs. Eighteen months later only half the states have indicated an interest in establishing such committees and providing state leadership for criminal justice planning. Of that half many have made no beginning.

To cause federal funds to be granted in block to states will undercut any change for national strategy. Major cities a continent apart have more in common with each other than with adjacent rural counties. Delay, confusion and waste will result since most state governments have neither the experience nor the administrative machinery to deal meaningfully with plans for local police departments. Statutory, perhaps constitutional, authorization would often be required. The difficulties of establishing and operating 50 separate grant making agencies and programs at state levels is enormous and undesirable, for many reasons.

We stand on the threshold of great change and opportunity for reform and excellence. The American people must understand that no profession in our troubled times is more important to the common welfare than the police. Riots and rising crime must be met with professional local law enforcement of the highest quality. Be assured of the ardent desire of the federal government to build local law enforcement — to help create new levels of excellence in police science and performance.

Hawks' Scrimmage Impresses Nagel

The heavy contact portion of Iowa's fall football practice concluded Friday with a scrimmage which Head Coach Ray Nagel was very pleased with.

"It was one of the hardest hitting scrimmages I've ever seen," said Nagel, whose offensive units scored 28 points. Nagel, however, he went down in the second half and looked real good."

Fullbacks Cory Patterson and Tim Sullivan totaled 87 yards, Patterson gaining 41 yards in nine attempts and Sullivan 46 in 8. Patterson scored one of the four touchdowns on a 1-yard run. Nagel was impressed with the was particularly impressed with the defense.

"There was a lot of good swatting in the line," Nagel said. "There were not too many long breakthroughs and there was a very good goal line stance."

The only long gain through the first and second string defensive units was by sophomore halfback Pat Dunningan who scampered 70 yards for a touchdown. Dunningan gained 79 yards in five carries, which was tops for the day.

McKinnie Breaks Lose

Si McKinnie broke loose in the second portion of the scrimmage to gain 75 yards in 15 attempts, including a 2-yard touchdown plunge. Commenting on McKinnie's running, Nagel said, "Silas was running a little high in the beginning of the scrimmage but running of Sullivan a sophomore. "Sullivan has a real good knack," said Nagel, adding that the rookie back was "kind of a slider."

Podolak Hits Cries

The Hawks scored once from the air when Ed Podolak threw 14 yards to wingback Barry Cries for a touchdown. Podolak also ran a 2-point conversion after the touchdown pass.

Podolak's total offensive contribution was 134 yards; he connected on 7 of 15 passes for 102 yards and gained 32 yards in 5 carries on the ground.

Placekicker Bob Anderson had an off day, missing one of three extra point attempts and having a field goal attempt blocked by end Pete Paquette.

The Hawks will begin preparation for the Texas Christian game with once-a-day drills scheduled until the Sept. 23 season opener.

Big Games Top 1st Week Of Football

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southern California ranked seventh in the preseason Associated Press poll, was a six-point favorite to beat Washington State in one of two major games Friday night that kick off the first big weekend of the college football campaign.

The Trojans, 7-3 and the Rose Bowl's Western representatives last season, have come up with another powerhouse led by Mike Hull, a pile-driving fullback and speedy flanker Jim Lawrence.

And if it's what's up front that counts, USC has plenty of strength there, too, including star tackle Ron Yary, linebacker Adrian Young and end Ron Drake.

Cougars Start Grind

For Washington State, the game in Los Angeles begins a tough five game grind. The Cougars, 3-7 last year, follow with games against Oklahoma, UCLA, Baylor and Stanford.

Florida State is at Houston in the other major game Friday night.

The big ones Saturday include a nationally televised feature between Texas A&M and Southern Methodist at College Station, Tex., plus important meetings between UCLA and Tennessee, and Colorado and Baylor.

Texas A&M is rated a 10-point choice over SMU. The Aggies have fine receivers in Tommy Maxwell and Tommy Buckman to go with Edd Hargett, a good quarterback. The Mustangs were hit hard by graduation.

Beban Leads UCLA

UCLA and its brilliant quarterback, Gary Beban, are rated four points better than Tennessee. The Bruins were ranked eighth and the Vols ninth in the preseason poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

Beban completed 156 of 309 passes during his first two seasons for 2,728 yards. Dewey Warren, Tennessee's sharp-shooting passer, hit on 136 of 229 aerials for 1,716 yards last year.

The SMU game will be televised by ABC-TV starting 3 p.m. Iowa City time.

Colorado, No. 10 in the poll, is a 10-point favorite to defeat Baylor at Boulder, Colo.

and Chicago in a toss of Cronin's silver half-dollar.

In case it's Minnesota, and Boston, the first game will be played at Boston Monday, Oct. 2, with the teams moving to Minnesota for the second game, Oct. 3, and the third, if necessary, Oct. 4.

If it's Chicago vs. Boston or Chicago vs. Minnesota, the first games will be played at the latter sites with the second and third in Chicago.

Intrepid Sailing Near Sweep In Rhode Island Cup Race

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Intrepid, a white-hulled sailing beauty, just about wrapped up the America's Cup Thursday by routing Australia's Dame Pattie for the third straight day in a one-sided duel of 12-meter yachts.

Now the 64-foot American defender needs only one more victory to end the best-of-seven series between the sleek, expensive yachts in Rhode Island Sound.

Not even a detour towards a cap-sized boat that cost her an estimated 20 seconds, could prevent Intrepid from streaking away from the blue-hulled, 65-foot challenger. She won by more than one-half mile.

Intrepid's time margin of victory was 4 minutes, 41 seconds. She won the first race by 5:58 and the second by 3:36.

Bus Mosbacher, the 46-year-old skipper from White Plains, N.Y., provided another masterful performance in beating his old rival, 52-year-old Jock Sturrock.

Sturrock asked for a lay day, or a day off, and the race committee said the fourth race will be Saturday.

No boat ever has been able to make up a 3-0 deficit in this storied competition for the old mug, held by the United States for 116 years.

Dame Pattie's challenge is the 20th since 1870 and the United States never has lost. The Americans have captured three of the last four series by 4-0 scores. In the other, in 1962, Mosbacher, at the helm of the Weatherly, beat Sturrock's Gretel, 4-1, in Australia's first challenge.

Sturrock got the Dame off to the lead in a 15-knot northerly breeze but it wasn't long before Mosbacher had the Intrepid in front on the choppy sea.

Intrepid had about a minute lead when her crew spotted a capsized sailboat in the middle of the course. Mosbacher steered towards the boat but then went back to racing when he saw a Coast Guard helicopter pick up the two men.

Two young students had sailed the 13-footer — against a Coast Guard warning — into the course. The helicopter had come out to warn them away but the down-draft from the propellers apparently turned over the boat.

The incident cost Intrepid an estimated 20 seconds and her windward position again and finished the windward against an advantage of 1 minute, 21 seconds.

Tsitouris Recalled

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds announced Thursday they have called up John Tsitouris, who pitched with the club from 1962-66, from San Diego in the Pacific Coast League.

Tsitouris, who compiled a 17-7 record with San Diego, will report for the Reds' game Friday night with St. Louis.

Conigliaro Out

BOSTON (AP) — Tony Conigliaro, star outfielder of the Boston Red Sox, will not be able to play baseball the rest of the season because of blurred vision since he was hit on the head by a pitched ball last month.

Club officials announced Thursday Conigliaro was examined by Retina Associates who said it was unlikely the outfielder would be able to play "efficiently" within a three-week period.

A Red Sox spokesman said the examination Thursday showed Conigliaro's vision has partially improved "but the actual visual acuity" has not improved.

Cubs Release Shaw

CHICAGO (AP) — Bob Shaw, veteran pitcher, received an unconditional release Thursday from the Chicago Cubs.

Shaw, 34, was acquired July 24 from the New York Mets. In nine appearances for the Cubs he compiled a 0-2 record. For the season it was 3-11.

Surgery For Met

ATLANTA (AP) — Bob Hendley, left-handed pitcher for the New York Mets, will have bone chips removed from his left elbow in New York next Wednesday. Manager Wes Westrum said Thursday.

Hendley was purchased from the Chicago Cubs June 12 and has a 3-3 record with the Mets.

Area Preps Kickoff Season

All three Iowa City high schools will be in action tonight as the 1967 prep football season kicks off.

Cedar Rapids Jefferson, heavily favored to finish high in the Mississippi Valley Conference will face an experienced City High team at 7:30 on the City High field.

Another underdog, Regina High, will host Waterloo Columbus at 8 p.m. Regina has only two lettermen returning from the 1966 team.

The Iowa practice field will be the scene of University High's season opener with Des Moines Hoover, a new school which will be playing its first game.

HAVE YOU WRITTEN A BOOK?

The executive director of a well-known New York publishing firm will be in Iowa City in early October. He will be interviewing local authors in a quest for finished manuscripts suitable for book publication. All subjects will be considered, including fiction and non-fiction, poetry, juveniles, religious books, etc.

If you have completed a book-length manuscript (or nearly so) on any subject, and would like a professional appraisal (without cost or obligation), please write immediately describing your work and stating which part of the day (a.m. or p.m.) you would prefer for an appointment. You will promptly receive a confirmation for a definite time and place.

Authors with completed manuscripts unable to appear may send them directly to us for a free reading and evaluation. We will also be glad to hear from those whose literary works are still in progress. Please address:

Devlin Tops Philly Golf By 2 Strokes

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Australian Bruce Devlin, who said he has been playing the kind of golf that couldn't even beat his grandmother, led the first round of the $110,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic Thursday with a 7-under-par 65.

The 29-year-old Devlin rolled in putts of 35, 25 twice and 20 feet as he carded nine birdies in a round of 35-30-65 over the 6,708-yard par-72 Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course. He used only 29 putts and twice on the back nine fired three consecutive birdies.

Devlin holds a two-stroke lead over Bill Collins, the 39-year-old part-time pro tourist from Brae Burn Country Club in New York state, and Lou Graham, a comparatively unknown member of the circuit, each with 5-under-par 67s.

Collins, who is 51st on the list of PGA money-winners, broke a PGA record set by Gay Brewer in the Pensacola Open last spring when he fired six straight birdies in a 35-32 round.

Graham, a 170-pounder from Nashville, Tenn., who joined the pro tour in 1964 also wielded a red-hot putter with five birdies in a round in which he failed to lose a stroke to par. Although he won the Minneapolis Classic in July and has pocketed $41,842 for his efforts on the tour this year, Graham is relatively unknown to the public.

Another stroke back, grouped at 68, were Mason Rudolph, who had a 72-foot eagle putt; Masters champion Brewer; Miller Barber; Terry Dill; George Archer, Rocky Thompson and Bob Charles.

Tigers Win Coin Flip, Get Playoff Advantage

NEW YORK (AP) — The Detroit Tigers won coin-tossing ceremonies Thursday in a meeting with the three other contenders—Minnesota, Boston and Chicago — to prepare for a possible playoff in the tight American League baseball race.

If the Tigers should wind up in a two-way tie with any of the other three clubs, they would have the advantage of playing two of the three games in the Detroit park.

Representatives of the four top teams met with AL President Joe Cronin to fix playoff plans in case of two, three and even four-way deadlocks.

Cronin announced the first playoff game would be played Monday, Oct. 2, the day after the season closes. A best-of-three game series will unravel a two-way tie, a round robin will be used for three teams and best-of-three semifinal and final playoffs will be necessary in the highly improbable case of a four-team knot.

There would be a one-day open date before start of the World Series, now slated to open Oct. 4. All playoff games will be day games and will start at 1 p.m. local time, Cronin said.

Boston agreed to playing the opener at Boston in the event of a tie with Detroit, with the second and third games in Detroit, but the Tigers beat Minnesota five minutes from downtown.

Brave Rally Beats Mets

ATLANTA (AP) — Mike de la Hoz' two-run single in the ninth inning gave Atlanta a 5-4 victory over the New York Mets Thursday night.

The Mets had a 4-3 lead on the strength of Ed Kranepool's three-run homer in the sixth, but Hank Aaron drew a walk leading off the ninth and Mack Jones reached first on reliever Dick Selma's fielding error.

Rico Carty put down a bunt, moving the runners to second and third and de la Hoz' single to center drove in the winning runs.

Aaron hit his 37th homer for the Braves, a two-run shot in the fourth, and Jones hit a solo blast in the eighth.

Romney Remains Silent On When, Or If, He'll Run

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. George Romney has given no indication to his aides of when, or if, he will announce his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination, a Romney source said Thursday.

The Michigan Republican's dinner meeting Thursday night with New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, one of his chief supporters, was considered important in charting Romney's future course.

The Romney source acknowledged that the Michigan governor or has been urged by some of his advisers to speed up the formal announcement of his candidacy.

Nothing New

On the other hand, the source contended there was nothing new in this, that various parties had been urging Romney to throw his hat into the ring as early as last June.

Romney himself has declined to discuss any politics while on a tour of urban areas coast to coast.

Asked Thursday whether it was true that he was under pressure to speed up his timing, Romney said he would not talk public politics on or off the record.

And he kept this vow of political silence on arrival in New York City. After giving some praise to California Gov. Ronald Reagan during a brief airport news conference, Romney was asked, "Do you envision a Romney-Reagan ticket?"

Question Evaded

"I don't envision anything now but urban problems," retorted Romney.

He told newsmen traveling with him on his 19-day nationwide tour, "I think this trip thus far has been very profitable as far as I am concerned. I've gotten a lot out of it."

The Michigan governor spent Wednesday night and much of Thursday inspecting programs in Rochester, N.Y., a city struck by Negro rioting in 1965. Romney praised the progress being made by business and local groups.

He contended that one of the main reasons for his extended trip is to study whether U.S. priorities are in proper balance, such as whether Vietnam is given emphasis at the expense of programs aimed at solving problems in the Negro slums across the country.

Senate Committee Votes $54 Million For Campaigns

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee voted Thursday to make up to $54 million in U.S. Treasury funds available to finance the political campaigns of major party presidential and senatorial candidates.

A Republican claimed immediately that President Johnson is asking Congress to give him the money to finance a try for reelection next year.

Sen. John J. Williams (R-Del.) said he suspected that Johnson began to show interest in government financing of elections "since he started dropping in the polls."

But Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.), committee chairman, said the plan would be a long stride toward "removing corruption and improper influence in government."

The bill would make available

$14 million to each of two major party candidates for president and $26 million to contenders in 34 Senate races in 1968. Minor party presidential candidates would be eligible for Treasury money if they polled more than 5 per cent of all votes cast.

The new financing plan would apply to presidential and senatorial races only. Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) said he hoped members of the House would vote to come under the plan if the bill is passed by the Senate.

The bill approved Thursday followed generally the principles of a May 25 message sent to Congress by Johnson endorsing direct government financing of presidential campaigns and possibly some others.

Gore offered a compromise plan after the Senate had shelved a presidential campaign financing plan that had been enacted into law last year with Johnson's endorsement.

The law provided that as much as $30 million in government funds could be made available to each presidential nominee in 1968 under a system of voluntary $1 taxpayer checkoffs on income tax returns.

Widow In Fair Condition

A California woman remained in fair condition Thursday night at University Hospital following a two-car collision on Highway 218 about three miles north of North Liberty in which her husband was killed.

Dead on arrival at University Hospital was Army PFC Mark Koster, 21, of Westchester, Calif.

His wife Barbara, 22, suffered head injuries when the autoher husband was driving was in collision with a car driven by Joseph G. Daniels of Berwyn, Ill. Daniels escaped serious injury, the Highway Patrol said.

The accident occurred at about 1 a.m. on a curve just north of the Iowa River bridge.

The death was the 16th traffic fatality in Johnson County this year, one more than at the same time in 1966.

City Health Sanitarian Charles Carney expressed concern Thursday over the discovery of a rabid skunk near the Veterans Administration Hospital.

The animal was destroyed Tuesday, and laboratory reports completed Wednesday showed that the skunk had rabies.

Animal Sheltermaster Earl Krell has impounded one cat which was observed with the skunk, but it was thought that other cats had been in the area.

Carney urged all cat owners to have their pets vaccinated.
