

U.S. To Count Eskimo Noses, Camp Out In Hawaii

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. role in a huge worldwide biology research effort aimed at preserving the Earth's habitability will range from a novel study of Alaskan Eskimos to one about exotic plants and wildlife in Hawaii now disappearing in the face of man's intrusions.

This was revealed Wednesday in the first detailed announcement by the National Academy of Sciences of this country's plans for five major research projects and 104 individual projects in the five-year undertaking that began July 1 of this year. Others are expected to be announced later.

The international, coordinated venture — in which 50 nations, including the Soviet Union, are participating — is called the International Biological Program.

It will bring together a giant task force of scientists "moving to make man's environment more productive and livable," the Academy said.

The cost of American projects, with funding primarily from federal agencies, has been estimated at between $105 million and $135 million, but officials said it could cost more.

The international effort, in which the United Nations and other international organizations are slated to aid in the funding, is designed to marshal the research skills of the world's biologists in a correlated attempt to:

- Help solve the world's food and population problems, including helping the developing countries "in the fight against starvation and disease."
- Foster more efficient use of the world's beneficial plant and animal resources.
- Increase science's understanding of the effect of the environment on man — and of man's effects on his own environment, including the adverse effects resulting from advancing technology.

The U.S. Committee for IBP — a committee organized by the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council — announced the first definite American projects.

The five major American projects include:

1. An aerobiology investigation — that is, a special study of the many biological troublemakers that are carried by the wind. These range from the pollen grains that make men sneeze to the insects that cause extensive damage to crops.
2. Research on large ecosystems — that is, extensive geographic systems, such as drainage basins, landscapes and forests, where there is continuous interaction between living organisms and their surrounding environment.
3. A study of Eskimo populations. This calls for a joint U.S.-Canadian investigation of three Eskimo groups — Alaskan Eskimo at Wainwright; the Upernaviks of Greenland; and an Acanadian Arctic Eskimo community.
4. Research on terrestrial life in Hawaii. This study is aimed at getting better understanding of biological-environmental interactions from an evolutionary standpoint.

clude: a forest in the eastern United States; a western coniferous forest; a western grasslands and cultivated ecosystem in some area or areas between Canada and Mexico; a desert area; a tropical forest; and some polar area.

3. A study of Eskimo populations. This calls for a joint U.S.-Canadian investigation of three Eskimo groups — Alaskan Eskimo at Wainwright; the Upernaviks of Greenland; and an Acanadian Arctic Eskimo community.

4. Research on terrestrial life in Hawaii. This study is aimed at getting better understanding of biological-environmental interactions from an evolutionary standpoint.

The native flora and fauna of Hawaii are deemed critical because these islands — from a biological viewpoint — have been geographically separated from other world influences for millions of years. As a result, the committee said, the islands have developed evolutionary distinct strains of plants and animals that are now disappearing.

5. Research in phenology, the science of relations between climate and the behaviour of plant and animals.

The idea is to try to extend science's powers of predicting biological events — powers man already uses to forecast insect outbreaks and to manage his ranges and pastures.

Hanoi Believed 'Escorting' War Supplies Across China

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnamese are traveling across China to receive Soviet war supplies at the Soviet-Chinese border, congressional testimony contended Wednesday.

The disclosure was made by military men testifying before the Senate subcommittee investigating subcommittee Aug. 10 during a closed hearing on the Vietnamese air war.

The comments of Adm. U. S. Grant Sharp, Pacific commander in chief, and Air Force Maj. Gen. Chesley G. Peterson, assistant chief of staff of Pacific intelligence, were released Wednesday.

Peterson said it is "an accepted intelligence estimate" that the North Vietnamese are taking physical possession of war-making material from the Soviets at the border to escort it across China.

"They are having problems with the Chinese stealing stuff off the rails," Peterson said. "The Soviets therefore worked out an agreement that the North Vietnamese themselves would take it over and accompany it all the way."

Relations "A Little Bad" Peterson said relations between the Chinese and Soviets has been "a little bit bad, and may get worse." In efforts to destroy such supplies coming by rail through China, U.S. air attacks have been stepped up in North Vietnam's upper regions. Two major rail lines extend in a sort of V-shaped pattern out of China into Hanoi. The rail lines have been attacked repeatedly in recent weeks.

But Sharp said a more important step would be to take out the key North Vietnamese port of Haiphong. Sharp contended it might shorten the war but in any event would make it far more difficult for the North Vietnamese to import weapons and equipment. Sharp said he has recommended mining Haiphong — "completely feasible and a very simple operation" — but higher authority in Washington forbids it.

Although he controls most of the air war planning, Sharp said, he has been given no explanation on why Haiphong is immune or why certain other targets cannot be hit. But he said he assumes international factors figure in high-level policy decisions.

Bombing Continuation Urged As other U.S. military leaders have advocated, Sharp said the bombing must be continued and he called for hitting more of what he termed significant targets in North Vietnam. Halting the attacks, he said, "would be a disaster" for the United States.

Sharp differed with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara over the value of knocking out the ports. McNamara has said the North Vietnamese use Haiphong mainly for convenience and could transfer goods across the shores if the port were destroyed.

Hampered By Rain, Fog, U.S. Pilots Let Loose Bomb Shower On Reds

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. pilots struggled in rain and fog Wednesday to pinpoint and destroy Communist guns that are again hammering American Marine outposts below the demilitarized zone. Clouds screened the enemy's camouflaged firing pits.

High-flying B52 Stratofortresses and jungle-skimming fighter-bombers loosed more than 250 tons of explosives on suspected Red positions in and north of the DMZ to counter enemy shelling that the U.S. Comman 1 said killed one Marine and wounded 100.

More than 300 artillery and mortar shells had poured into American positions, chiefly at Con Thien and Gio Linh, in a 24-hour period. The inclement weather was a forerunner of seasonal storms from the northeast monsoon, due in two or three weeks.

Marines Sorely Tested Six months of fighting in the dry season had sorely tested the Marines and, though enemy losses are described as heavy, seemingly left matters completely unsettled in the 1st Corps area. This is the strategic sector adjoining the DMZ, the six-mile-wide border territory through which runs the shortest of North Vietnam's infiltration routes.

The North Vietnamese are reported to have 35,000 regulars in and around the DMZ as opposed to about 17,500 Marines and 2,500 South Vietnamese troops scattered along the frontier. Throughout the five provinces of the 1st Corps area, however, the allies retain a numerical edge, with about 98,000 men in combat units.

Thoughts are running now to monsoon defense positions. The mud wallow that is the key supply road to Con Thien must be resurfaced with gravel. Seabees push to finish a new air strip and concrete artillery stands at Khe Sanh.

Intense Shelling Reported Associated Press correspondent Edwin Q. White reported from Marine headquarters the enemy shelling Wednesday was so intense that road traffic to Con Thien and Gio Linh was suspended. Helicopters were used to move up supplies.

Foul weather limited U.S. operations over North Vietnam Tuesday. Air Force squadrons flew 42 missions, mostly in the area above Hanoi. Eight MIG17s jumped four F105 Thunderchiefs as the American fighter-bombers headed back from a raid on a military barracks 17 miles north of the Communist capital, but spokesmen said neither side scored in an exchange of cannon fire.

Weather elsewhere was so bad that U.S. 7th Fleet carriers at sea were unable, for the first time in the war, to send up a combat flight.

JAMES R. HOFFA Charges Dismissed

Conspiracy Charges Against Hoffa Stopped

NASHVILLE (AP) — A federal judge Wednesday dismissed the conspiracy charges which led to Teamster President James Hoffa's 1964 conviction and eight-year federal prison sentence for jury tampering.

The U.S. attorney's office here asked for dismissal of the five-year-old conspiracy charge — trial of which resulted in the subsequent jury tampering charge.

Hoffa's 1962 conspiracy trial here ended in a mistrial when the jury failed to reach a verdict, but the union leader later was indicted for tampering with the jury and, at Chattanooga in 1964, was convicted. He is now serving a federal prison sentence in Pennsylvania.

U.S. Atty. Gilbert Merritt requested dismissal of the old charge on grounds the trial would require a long court session on misdemeanor charges and that Hoffa already is serving a prison term on felony charges.

Closed Sessions Of Council Draws Mixed Reactions

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Delegates to the U.N. General Assembly were divided in their views on a suggestion of Secretary-General U Thant that the Security Council hold periodic closed-door meetings to deal with major world problems.

The proposal by the secretary-general was being discussed in the corridors Wednesday as the assembly, which opened for a three-month session Tuesday, began organizing its work.

Thant suggested in the introduction to his annual report that the council make use, for the first time, of a provision in the U.N. Charter that the council "shall hold periodic meetings" to discuss, as Thant put it, "matters relating to international peace and security."

Thant's idea was that the meetings be initiated by foreign ministers of the 15 member nations, most of whom are here for the opening of the assembly.

It was understood that when Thant first raised the idea for periodic council meetings at a luncheon of Security Council members last month, he suggested that it might be a route to a settlement of the war in Vietnam.

Iowa Women's Clubs Fear Hippie Influence

DES MOINES (AP) — The board of the Iowa Federation of Women's Clubs declared Wednesday the State Board of Regents should clamp down on hippies at state educational institutions.

The 60-member state board adopted a resolution proposing that the organization "do all it can to see that the Board of Regents exercises its rightful position of setting and maintaining high standards of moral decency and health, rather than delegating these rights to the students."

Mrs. Wayne Bonnell of Fort Dodge, president of the IFWC which claims 30,000 members in 800 clubs in Iowa, said the resolution went through without a dissenting vote.

It was drafted after the board members considered reports of drugs, sexual freedom, general nonconformity — and dirty feet — among hippies.

Mrs. Bonnell said the discussion arose because of newspaper reports of life with hippies in the Haight-Ashbury district of San Francisco.

Academic Year Gets Under Way With Registration

Dozens of suitcases were unpacked, hundreds of texts were purchased and kegs of beer were quaffed Wednesday as almost 19,000 students registered, moved into dorms and had a final fling before classes got under way for the 1967-68 school year.

BOWEN

By 5 p.m. Friday, about 18,900 students will have completed registration, the Registrar's Office predicted Wednesday.

The first full week of classes begins officially at 7:30 a.m. Monday.

Pres. Howard R. Bowen will note the University's current progress in his first address of the academic year at the annual Induction Ceremony at 8:45 a.m. Monday on the east steps of Old Capitol.

Classes scheduled for the 8:30 to 9:20 a.m. period will not meet so that all students and faculty may attend the ceremony. The ringing of the Old Cap bell will mark the occasion.

Wearing full academic apparel, all academic and administrative deans and directors will be introduced at the beginning of the program. Master of ceremonies will be W. D. Coder, director of conferences and institutes.

Directed by Frank Piarsol, the University Band will play "The Star-Spangled Banner." George W. Forell, professor and director of the School of Religion, will give the invocation.

Following Bowen's address, the band will play "Old Gold" and "On Iowa."

The band will begin playing at 8:30, directed by associate professor of music Tom Davis. The pre-ceremony program will include "Klaxon," "76 Trombones," "The Iowa Fight Song" and "Samson."

More than one-third of the 18,900 students will be attending classes for the first time this fall — 2,600 will be freshmen, and the rest are transfer and graduate students. All states, as well as 60 foreign nations, will be represented in the student body.

Schwengel Plans To Lead Group Touring Vietnam

REP. FRED SCHWENDEL To Go To Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Fred Schwengel (R-Iowa) calling for an overhaul of the pacification effort in South Vietnam, announced Wednesday he will lead a group on a private inspection tour to see where changes can be made.

Schwengel said he, Rep. William O. Cowger (R-Ky.) and up to seven persons from outside government plan to leave Nov. 15 on a 10-day trip at their own expense.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.) may join the group, Schwengel said. "Apparently our leaders failed to realize we have more than the military war to win in Vietnam," Schwengel said. "We have the pacification program — but it is under the wrong management and it is too massive."

"We ought to move in where it's needed," he said, "and then put in our most talented people to run it."

Schwengel said the effort to rebuild South Vietnam's economy and government is too closely tied to the military effort.

Beulah Wreaks Death, Havoc On Texas Coast

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Hurricane Beulah, one of the mightiest storms in history, slammed multimillion-dollar destruction into the lower Texas coast Wednesday, spreading death and havoc.

The bravny hurricane did her worst at Port Isabel and Brownsville before dawn, blasting ashore with 160-mile-an-hour winds at her center. Hurricane-force blasts hit Corpus Christi, 160 miles up the coast, before sundown.

The hurricane has killed 29 persons since it began in the Atlantic 12 days ago. It was losing its force in its trip up the Texas coastal plain.

The little ranch settlements of Sarita and Riviera south of Corpus Christi were pounded by 90-mile-an-hour winds. At 6:30 p.m. winds up to 78 miles an hour slashed at Corpus Christi after a day of gales. Hurricane force begins at 75 m.p.h.

Widespread Damage Damage was widespread. Entire communities were isolated. Electric power was cut off to almost all the storm-hit region.

Some evacuees began leaving for their homes, but Red Cross officials at Brownsville warned of dangerous flooding, tornadoes and downed power lines. Food was running short in the Brownsville shelters.

Officials said it would be several days before the damage could be estimated in Brownsville. Corpus Christi, despite escaping the main force, suffered extensively from wind damage.

At 6:45 p.m. Beulah's eye was located some 30 miles south of Kingsville, Tex. Weathermen said Beulah would continue to move inland which means that she would lose her power.

Terse reports from Highway Patrol units began to come into the Emergency Operating Center at Austin, a complex of governmental representatives, Red Cross and Civil Defense communications setups.

Port Isabel Destroyed "Port Isabel appears to be 85 per cent destroyed," one report said.

"Laguna Heights (another coastal community between Corpus Christi and Brownsville) 75 per cent home damaged, 40 per cent appear total loss," the report said.

The Weather Bureau said the number of tornadoes spawned by Beulah was a record. The official count was 20 twisters. Unofficial counts ran much higher.

Rat Extermination Bill Ok'd 2nd Time Around

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted Wednesday to increase federal funds for rat extermination by adding $40 million to the authorization for state health programs.

Enough congressmen who had voted in July to reject the Johnson administration's proposal for a new rat extermination program by 31 votes switched sides to give 227-173 approval to the bipartisan proposals. It had been okayed tentatively by one vote on Tuesday.

The amendment by Reps. Henry S. Reuss (D-Wis.) and Charles Mathias Jr. (R-Md.) adds $20 million in each of the next two years to the authorizations for grants for state projects, putting the sums at $90 million this year and $95 million for fiscal 1969.

The amendment was supported by 159 Democrats and 68 Republicans and opposed by 63 Democrats and 110 Republicans.

Senate OKs Rent Plan, Model Cities Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson scored a major victory Wednesday when the Senate, rejecting House cuts, voted just about what he asked for his model cities and rent subsidy programs.

Both are key instruments in the administration's efforts to improve conditions in the city's slums.

The Senate voted 62 to 28 to approve its Appropriation Committee's decision to allot $537 million for the model cities program for the current fiscal year that began July 1. The House had cut the fund to $237 million.

The Senate's vote was 59 to 31 to give Johnson the full $40 million he asked in contract authority for rent subsidies. Housing and Urban Development officials estimate this will finance 44,500 housing units for low-income families.

The House had voted to deny any new authorizations for the program this year. Both provisions are included in a $10.4 billion bill covering the Housing Department and 23 other federal agencies. Final action on the measure was put off until today.

The Bureau said hurricane warnings probably would be lowered during the night.

Texas Agriculture Commissioner John White estimated crop losses at $50 million. A spokesman for citrus growers predicted a loss of $15 million for oranges and grapefruit.

The storm stripped the nearly mature oranges and grapefruit from trees and may have damaged the trees themselves.

Beulah sank expensive, ocean-going shrimp boats. She tossed utility poles across streets and highways like lineacades. Broken power and phone lines whipped in the battering wind like string.

GOV. GEORGE ROMNEY Barred By Puerto Rican

Cold Shoulder Burns Romney

CHICAGO (AP) — Republican Gov. George Romney was barred Wednesday from entering a private welfare organization in a Puerto Rican neighborhood by the organization's young director who accused the Michigan governor of answering the poor with "tanks and machineguns."

When Romney arrived at Casa Central Outpost, there was a sign hanging over the door saying, "We do not welcome politicians that call out National Guard on poor people."

Romney angrily accused the organization's director, Luis Cuza, of a "despicable political attack" on him.

At one point when Cuza tried to turn away from Romney's wrath, the governor grabbed him by the arm and told Cuza, "You stand here and take it." Romney told him, "You can't walk away after making charges that are false."

After the angry sidewalk confrontation which brought at least two extra patrol cars, Romney walked across the street to meet Juan Diaz, described as a leader of the Puerto Rican community and director of the Spanish Action Committee of Chicago. He apologized to Romney and said that Cuza's group is "not authorized by the Puerto Rican community to make any decisions."

Why keep us in the dark?

The installation of huge globular lights outside the Union is a welcome, if somewhat grotesque-looking, addition to the campus. Now the question arises, why not cover the entire campus and city with lights?

If anyone wanted to commit murder, arson, rape or robbery I can't think of a better place than Iowa City at night.

Most areas of the campus and the city near the campus are so poorly lighted that many coeds are afraid to go outside alone at night. And in a college community with night classes, meetings, and studying at the library this situation is inexcusable.

Officials have in the past recommended that coeds avoid the dark areas on campus. But this is virtually impossible because the entire campus is dark — unless, of course, one wishes to study on the well-lighted roof of Old Capitol.

Some of the areas most in need of more candle power — to name a few — are: the Washington Street hill, Madison Street from Burlington to Bloomington, Iowa Avenue from the bridge to the Pentacrest, the walk along the river and under the CRANDIC tracks near Danforth Chapel. This list could go on and on. Anyone who has ever been out at night could surely think of more.

Even Washington Street directly in front of the Civic Center is dangerously dark. A couple years ago a student was hit by a car in front of the Civic Center. The driver said it was so dark that she didn't see the student until she hit him.

Fortunately, the student survived. But neither the city nor the University took the hint and attempted to rectify the situation by improving our street and campus lighting systems.

Until the city and the University decide to do something constructive along the lighting line, I would suggest that all students purchase coal mining helmets. Not only would the attached light guide your way, but the hard hat would protect you from muggers and mashes.

Eliminate residency rules

A Waterloo woman has taken into the Federal court in Cedar Rapids a case which could have important ramifications for Iowa's welfare program.

The woman, who is 71, was refused old-age assistance because she moved to Waterloo from Mississippi in April, 1966. The law says that to qualify for old-age aid, a person must have lived in the state for at least nine years, including the five years immediately preceding the application. For other forms of assistance, such as aid to dependent children, the law requires the person to have established residency for one year prior to application.

The woman who brought the suit was informed last May that she would no longer receive old-age assistance from Mississippi because she doesn't live there any more. Her petition points out that the Constitution provides that citizens of each state are entitled to the privileges and immunities of citizens in the other states. The petition asks that the Iowa residency requirement for welfare assistance be declared unconstitutional.

In a similar case, a U.S. Court in Connecticut recently ruled that such residency laws are illegal, but that case is being appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

If the Supreme Court declares the Connecticut law unconstitutional it automatically would nullify Iowa's residency requirement. Whether in Iowa or Washington, D.C., however, it would seem that judges would recognize the logic of abolishing the regulation.

If a person is poor, blind, the mother of dependent children, elderly or otherwise qualifies for welfare, where he lives should make little difference. The entire welfare program is part of the national Social Security system, instituted during the Depression to take care of the needy, no matter where they lived.

The basic Social Security law permits each state, to some extent, to establish its own regulations regarding the amount of assistance and qualifications for application. It's no secret that in a state like Mississippi, the qualification standards are high and the assistance is low.

One reason for requiring applicants to establish residency in the first place is to see that welfare funds are not shelled out to transients. Since one-fourth of the welfare budget comes from county funds and another quarter from state funds, few county supervisors and legislators would liberalize the residency requirement willingly.

Social Security was a New Deal project of Franklin Roosevelt. It's likely that if FDR were aware that an elderly woman had to wait for nine years before Iowa would give her old-age assistance, he would roll over in his grave. It's time the residency requirements were eliminated.

'The Persecution' etc. called exquisite, unreal

By NICHOLAS MEYER

Jean-Paul Marat, archangel of that great and bloody projected emancipation of the serf and common man, the French Revolution, was assassinated in his therapeutic bath by Charlotte Corday, a peasant girl from the provinces come to Paris with delusions of Judith. (Her act has been immortalized in the famous painting by David.)

The Marquis de Sade, bizarre and electrifying genius, perversely and political theorist, was interned most of his life at the insane asylum at Charenton outside Paris, where, among occupations that included the writing of several books, he directed plays, using his fellow inmates as performers.

Fusing these interesting but hitherto unrelated facts, German playwright, Peter Weiss has fashioned a play with the somewhat lengthy and forbidding (but accurate) title: "The Persecution and Assassination of Jean-Paul Marat as Performed by the Inmates of the Charenton Asylum, Under the Direction of the Marquis de Sade." It is an exciting piece of theatre, which was given an excellent English production by the Royal Shakespeare Company, under the skillful direction of Peter Brook. It is the movie version of that production that we have with us now in Iowa City, and despite some faults, it is very much worth seeing.

In "King Lear" Shakespeare puts some of his greatest wisdom and observations on human nature and the human condition in the mouth of the Fool. Weiss' idea is exactly the same, only instead of one fool there are 50 — all the inmates of the asylum involved in the performance, who keep weaving in and out of their roles, now playing them, now commenting on them, wittily or otherwise. The subject matter is very simple: is it possible to change the condition of humans, or must we all live for ourselves, grasping for happiness and pleasure moment by moment? On the one hand we have Marat, made out here to be the disciple of the Enlightenment, striving to carry out his projected Utopia, and on the other hand there is the director, de Sade, himself, arguing with his leading man that his task is impossible, evil, and time-consuming in the light of an individual man's brief morality.

Supporting or denying the arguments are the Greek chorus of diversified madmen and women, and the whole is interspersed with grim but tuneful little songs. The sum total is razzle-dazzle Brecht, full of social conscience, full of ideas, full of theorizing and sermonizing, but kept (desperately at times) from being too dry and intellectual by the antics and acting of the patients. Their cavorting and coordination and the truths they utter or discover are the chief and spectacular meat of "Marat/Sade." Charlotte Corday has a sleeping sickness, her lover is a raving sex maniac, Marat's mistress is an imbecile. Thus the dialogue of de Sade's play is performed always on two levels: Charlotte being wooed by her lover who is chained to the wall because he will rape her if released. He tries to say his lines but his eyes keep straying and his mind wandering along the lines of his pentup desires. All this makes fascinating watching and the actors are terrific.

Watching the play (the year is 1808) are some obviously jaded Napoleonic nobility, including the foppish director of the institution, who have come for the thrill of seeing the loons in action. When the play's political implications seem to be getting out of hand and he objects, the audience is assured that this is all in the past and things are much better now. The actors leer and peer through the bars behind which we sit and tell us that this is so, but we know the truth, and the irony and the implication of it are stunning. What has the Revolution (French or any other) really done? Anything? The inmates are talking to us as much as their Napoleonic audience, and their meanings and truths haven't changed. One goes home full of thoughts.

But not full of feelings, and that is where the play's fundamental weakness lies. It is passionate, it is exhausting, it is sensational, and it is thought-provoking, but it is not real. Those are not real people on the screen, for all their fantastic mimicry of them. They are only representative puppets to trot forth Weiss' ideas, and their bizarre qualities are only supplied to jazz up their two-dimensionality, so that the audience will not notice that they are paper thin. One can watch with fascination such a performance, but not with involvement, for there is nothing with which to empathize. You can not love a symbol. Weiss' material contains the same weakness as Brecht, his countryman. So eager are they to get out their ideas, that they are willing to forget what plays are all about, what art is all about: moving people. Moving them to feel FIRST and to think (if at all) second. Weiss' play makes you do a lot of thinking, but not much feeling at all.

Still, I feel obliged to close on a positive note: the total effect of "Marat/Sade" is exquisite, except for the above-named deprivation. It has been excellently directed, edited, photographed and performed. Thinking, after all needn't be completely banished.

Ghetto Inc. presents super slum tours

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — A friend of mine has just thought of a way to raise a large sum of money for poverty-stricken areas without one cent's cost to the taxpayers. He calls his program Ghetto Inc. and this is his explanation of how it works.

"From now until the presidential elections in 1968," my friend said, "ghettos are going to be the big thing and every politician running for public office is going to have to visit one. But most politicians don't know where to begin when it comes to touring the slums, and so Ghetto Inc. will make all the arrangements for them, for a fee, of course."

"What will you do?" "Well, let us suppose the person wishing to tour a ghetto area is one of the many thousands of presidential candidates who feels obligated to walk through a depressed area. Ghetto Inc. would make out an itinerary for him. First, we'd have him visit a rat-infested tenement where he could be visibly shocked.

"Then we'd take him over to meet the parish priest who has just coached a Little League team of deprived youngsters to a city championship. After that we'd have him talk to an ex-convict who has gone straight and become a Good Humor man.

"Finally, we would arrange an interview with an unwed mother who has just lost her welfare payments. The candidate could or could not promise the woman he'd do something about it, depending on how he thinks the country feels at the time about unwed mothers."

"It sounds like a great service," I said. "How much does it cost?"

"Well, that's just a simple tour, and with transportation and including the ex-convict and Good Humor truck, we charge $1,500."

"That's not expensive," I said.

"Of course, Ghetto Inc. has more luxurious tours. We can arrange for a candidate to walk through a garbage dump, have him photographed with a group of striking schoolteachers, let him cut the ribbon for a new playground and then lay the cornerstone for a low-cost housing development. The charge for this would be $10,000, and we'd supply the striking schoolteachers."

"You must be swamped with business," I said.

"Well, it's picking up nicely," my friend said. "Of course, the beauty of Ghetto Inc. is that we can service all candidates whether they're for or against the poverty program."

"How's that?" "Suppose you have a candidate who is against welfare, opposed to coddling the poor and feels everyone should lift himself up by his own bootstraps."

"I know one," I said. "Well, for $25,000 we'll arrange a tour for him which will include having rotten vegetables and eggs thrown at him, having paint spilled on his car and, if he requests it, having the press roughed up. This will get him the sympathy of the backlash crowd, which he is appealing to in the first place."

"I could see a candidate asking for that kind of treatment, but where do you find the people to throw the rotten eggs and vegetables?"

"Oh, they're around, they're around." "Well, I think it's a very noble experiment and I can't see how Ghetto Inc. can miss," I said.

"It can't. As a matter of fact, with so many people running for office in 1968, our only fear is that we may run out of ghettos — or, even worse, unwed mothers — before the campaign is over."

-Legislator Hits Exemption- Tax Suit Promised

WATERLOO (AP) — State Rep. Donald Bowin (R-Waterloo) disclosed Wednesday he'll bring suit charging the Iowa Tax Commission with illegally assuming legislative powers if it is permitted to exempt new construction from the tax on services.

Bowin, who voted against the tax law during the 1967 session, said he had already consulted with his lawyer about legal action.

"I'm strictly against taxing new construction," Bowin said, "but no matter how bad the law is, it's up to the Legislature to change it."

Bowin is in the forefront of a drive to get Gov. Harold E. Hughes to call a special session to repair the law, which becomes effective Oct. 1 in the midst of confusion over how it should be enforced.

The law extended the sales tax to services and boosted the bite from 2 to 3 per cent.

However, it failed to spell out exactly which services would be taxed, leaving a gap the three-member tax commission is trying to fill by administrative decree.

Many Faults Cited
Bowin says there are many faults in the law which need correction, but he thinks the tax board's decision to exclude new construction gives him his best leverage to force a special session.

Thus he is in the position of agreeing with what the tax commission is doing but objecting to the way it is being done.

Bowin said the suit would be filed only if Atty. Gen. Richard Turner decides the tax commission was within its authority in interpreting the law as exempting new construction.

Turner, who is required by law to review administrative rules after they have been passed by the Legislative Rules Review Committee, will have only a short time to act before he sues, said Bowin.

The Rules Review Committee meets Sept. 27; the law takes effect four days later.

Bowin figures if the tax is collected on new construction there will be howls of protest across the state — particularly if industry backs away from new investment — and Hughes will be forced to call a session.

The section in question levies the tax on "buildings and structures for the improvement of realty."

"Realty Is Land"
Says Bowin, "Realty is land, I don't care how you cut it."

The man who wrote the section for the legislature agrees. Tax Commissioner Lynn Potter says he included new construction because he was told to. Potter split with the other commissioners to vote against the exemption rule.

Hughes has thus far remained adamant in refusing to call a session. He acknowledges that the law needs untangling, but says the construction issue isn't serious enough to warrant a session.

He alone has the authority to call one.

Meanwhile, Bowin announced that his poll of lawmakers shows in early returns that 62 per cent favor going into a session restricted to the tax law.

He sent letters to each of Iowa's 182 legislators for their opinion. Bowin said he expects to get 70 back and, if the trend continues, bring added pressure on Hughes.

In a related development, Tax Commission Chairman Earl A. Burrows Jr. reported that some 30,000 new permits for collecting the tax won't reach applicants by Oct. 1.

He suggested that those in doubt about whether or not to collect should do so and apply for refunds if it is later determined that they are not covered. The permits cost one dollar.

Nigerians Declare Separate Nation

Lagos (AP) — Rebellious Midwesterners struck another blow at Nigeria's fragile federation Wednesday, declaring themselves an independent republic and pledging cooperation with Biafra in the civil war against the Lagos government.

Maj. Albert O. Okonkwo, a U.S.-trained medical doctor, proclaimed the Midwest the Republic of Benin and said it would apply for membership in the United Nations. Okonkwo was installed as military Midwestern administrator when Biafrans and mutinous federal troops took over the region early in August.

Truckers Use Force, Fear To Stall Steel

Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP) — Desperate guerrilla warfare spread across Ohio and Pennsylvania Wednesday as maverick truckers tried to stop by force and fear the movement of steel in eight states.

Gunfire peppered strike-breaking rigs on lonely stretches of road. A picket was shot in the stomach as he marched at a turnpike interchange.

Steel was piling up in warehouses as most drivers stayed safe at home. Steel-makers laid off workers.

For the first time since the bizarre strike started a month ago in Gary, Ind., Teamsters Union officials sat down in Chicago with dissident members to hear their complaints.

No Progress Reported
There were no reports of progress.

But the reports of rifles and pistols echoed at highway ambushes.

State Police said a man in a passing truck shot a picket in the stomach as he carried a sign at the Pennsylvania Turnpike's Breezewood interchange urging other drivers to stay off the road.

Near Ashland, Ohio, a hail of bullets ricocheted off a rig on U.S. 224. Four shots from a passing car pelted the front of a truck on U.S. 6 near Sandusky, Ohio. Donald F. Shannon, 41, of Eau Claire, Mich., said someone in a pickup truck shot out his tires on U.S. 30 near East Liverpool, Ohio.

None of the Ohio truckers was injured.

Production Cut Back
U.S. Steel, which cut back production by 20 per cent at its 3,500-man Irvin works, said trucking is at a standstill.

Strip mill operations at Republic Steel Corp.'s Cleveland plant have been cut by one-third. Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. laid off workers in Pittsburgh Monday.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., Wheeling Steel Corp. and Pittsburgh Steel Co. also made cutbacks, and Armco Steel Corp.'s Ashland, Ky., plant reported steel shipments dropped below normal Wednesday.

Mills in Detroit, Chicago, Gary, Ind., and Buffalo, N.Y., were also cramped.

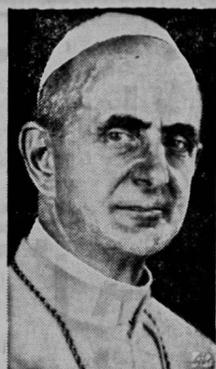

Iowa City To Get All-Out Cleanup

Iowa City will stage an all-out cleanup campaign next week, Ralph Speers, director of public works, announced Wednesday.

The campaign will be designed to clean up trash as a fire prevention measure and to get trash collection throughout the city up to date.

Next week, in addition to five regular refuse routes, six crews from the street department will collect trash. The collection will be on the same day as the regular garbage pickup.

DOCTORS for Pope Paul have decided that an operation for his prostate gland condition is necessary but not urgent, informed sources said Thursday. The pontiff's three doctors were said to be preparing a medical bulletin confirming that new radiological examinations showed the Pope to be largely recovered from the illness that struck him Sept. 4.

Hearing Set For UI Coed In Drug Case

A University coed possessed innocent to a charge of possession of marijuana Wednesday in Iowa City Police Court.

The girl, Ruth M. Roser, A2, Williamsburg, was charged Sept. 11 after Iowa City detectives searched her apartment on Aug. 23.

Police Court Judge Marion R. Neely scheduled a preliminary hearing for 8:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Police detective Sgt. Donald Strand told The Daily Iowan on Sept. 11 that the search was made on the basis of evidence given the police by an informant. He refused to disclose how much marijuana was found.

Miss Roser, 20, shared an apartment at 411 E. Market St. with three other girls. Strand said that detectives had concluded that the other girls were not involved.

Possession of marijuana is punishable in Iowa by imprisonment from two to five years, a fine of up to $2,000, or both.

Women Picket In Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — An anti-Vietnamese War demonstration by some 600 women resulted in brief violence in front of the White House Wednesday and a police threat — never carried out — to make mass arrests.

The demonstrators, members of the Women Strike for Peace, marched from the Washington Monument to the White House in a straggly, chanting line, then became angry because a new local regulation limits the number of pickets permitted on the White House sidewalk to 100.

Police checked off 100 of the demonstrators, told them to go about their picketing and instructed the others to stay across the street near Lafayette Park.

Some of the women — about 100 of them — decided they didn't like the restriction and crossed the street where they had a pushing and shoving match with police assigned to keep the White House sidewalk clear of all but the assigned pickets.

Several persons, including some young men, were taken into custody during the melee.

FDA To Get Drug Study

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP) — A book by a group of Princeton University students urged the nation's colleges to openly study the problem of drugs on campus.

The book makes no judgments about legal or moral aspects of drug use. It offers medical and sociological comments about various drugs, ranging from "pep pills" to LSD, noting that use of most of these is illegal.

"It is not for this report to debate this legality," the authors say, "merely to observe it." They expressed hope the work would lead to more study of drugs on college campuses.

The book, titled "Psychedelics and the College Student," will be sold on other college campuses through the Princeton University Press, a publishing venture not officially connected with the university.

The book was written and compiled by a committee of 12 Princeton students founded by Kim J. Masters of New York City. Masters said he got the idea last year after the first campus drug arrest in the 22-year history of Princeton. Students, aided by three Princeton faculty members, did research in magazine articles, books and other publications. Their sources ranged from Playboy Magazine to scientific journals.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Academy of Sciences, engaged in an unprecedented study of more than 2,800 drugs marketed between 1938 and 1962, has found so far that "only a few to-fall ineffective drugs are marketed."

But the same study — called for by the Food & Drug Administration more than a year ago — has also disclosed that many of the efficacy claims offered by manufacturers for individual drugs "will be subject to modification."

Brilliant new styling • Dramatic new interiors • Totally new instrument panel • Corcealed windshield wipers • Improved variable ratio power steering • New disc brakes available • Wide choice of eleven exciting new body styles.

Now, enter a new era of luxury car performance. Cadillac's new 472 V-8 has the greatest torque, or usable power, of any passenger car engine and the newest combination of engine components since Cadillac pioneered the V-8 fifty-three years ago. You will notice a brilliant improvement in passing performance that in no way compromises the reserve of strength for Cadillac's usual power conveniences. You will also be impressed with its amazing quiet—so remarkable that only its responsiveness reminds you that a great new engine lies under the hood.

Cadillac for 1968 provides, in addition, its well-proved triple braking system with finned drums to deliver smooth, straight stopping power. Front disc brakes are available for those who prefer the further refinement of an advanced disc-and-drum combination, and this year they're standard on Eldorado. You may also choose a greatly improved air conditioning system that moves more air more quietly.

Whether your preference is for one of the more traditional models—or the classic beauty of the Eldorado—come in soon and discover new elegance and excitement in luxury motoring!

THE NEW 1968 CADILLACS ARE NOW ON DISPLAY AT YOUR AUTHORIZED CADILLAC DEALERS.

Yaz Has Lead In MVP Race But Killebrew, Robbie Push

NEW YORK (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski seems to have the inside track on the American League's Most Valuable Player award. But the powerful figures of Frank Robinson and Harmon Killebrew are standing in the Boston star's path to the triple crown.

Yastrzemski held the lead Monday in all three triple crown categories, batting, homers and runs batted in. However, as a result of Tuesday night's action, the young outfielder relinquished the No. 1 spot in batting to Baltimore's Robinson.

Yastrzemski was hitless in three trips in the game against Detroit, dropping his average to .312. Robinson, the 1966 triple crown winner, had one hit in two tries and lifted his average to .313.

For the week ending Tuesday night, though, Yastrzemski gained considerable ground because Robinson dropped eight points with only four hits in 24 times at bat. Yastrzemski had seven hits in 23 at bats and his average did not change.

In the home run and runs batted in competition, Yastrzemski and Killebrew, the Minnesota veteran, are still duelling for the lead with the Red Sox' outfielder holding slim margins.

Each hit one home run last week, giving Yastrzemski 40 and Killebrew 39. In the RBI category, Yastrzemski had four and Killebrew five, lifting Yastrzemski's total to 107 and the Twin slugger's aggregate to 102.

Iowa State Has Shakeup After Loss

AMES (AP) — Four players were removed from the No. 1 offensive and defensive units of the Iowa State football team Wednesday in the wake of the Cyclones' 34-3 loss to South Carolina Saturday.

The coaching staff said junior Don Graves was moved ahead of Larry Thompson at linebacker and sophomore Fred Jones has replaced injured George Dimitri at defensive tackle.

Sophomore halfback Bob McPherson will receive the starting assignment against Texas Tech Saturday, replacing Willie Robinson, and either junior Wayne

Perry or sophomore Greg Duke Stein will start at split end in place of Neal Waddington, who was shifted to reserve tight end.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Reggie Smith's two-out single in the ninth inning scored Carl Yastrzemski with the winning run as the Boston Red Sox hung on to their share of the American League lead with a 5-4 victory over Cleveland Wednesday night.

The victory kept the Red Sox tied for the lead with Minnesota, which defeated Kansas City Wednesday afternoon.

Yastrzemski, who slammed his 41st homer earlier, touched off Boston's winning rally with his fourth hit of the night with two out in the ninth.

He moved to second on George Culver's wild pitch and stayed there when George Scott walked. Then Smith lined his hit to right field and Yastrzemski dashed home.

Six home runs accounted for the game's first eight runs.

Consecutive homers by Tony Horton and Max Alvis tied it for the Indians in the seventh against Jim Lonborg.

Oliva, Allison Keep Twins On Top, 6-2

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Tony Oliva and Bob Allison slammed two-run homers and Harmon Killebrew drove in two runs with a pair of singles, pacing Minnesota and Dean Chance to a 6-2 victory over Kansas City Wednesday.

The victory kept the Twins even with Boston for the American League lead. The Red Sox beat Cleveland Wednesday night.

Oliva's 16th homer handed Chance a 4-2 lead after Killebrew's second run-scoring single tied the game in the third inning. Allison's 22nd homer gave the Twins a 6-2 cushion in the fifth.

Chance allowed only four hits in posting his 19th victory against 12 losses. He gave up rookie Dave Duncan's fourth homer with a man on base in the second to fall behind 2-1. But the big right-hander surrendered only one hit the rest of the way to go the distance for the 17th time this year.

Hawks Have Spirit In 60-Minute Drill

The days are dwindling until Iowa's 1967 football premier and Head Coach Ray Nagel is tapering the Hawkeye practice routine considerably.

Wednesday's practice, which lasted about an hour, stressed all phases of the game with the varsity offensive and defensive units having separate workouts with members of the freshman squad.

"It was a highly spirited practice," said Nagel. "The boys are starting to come back after being sluggish the first part of the week. They responded real well today."

Sophomore fullback Tim Sullivan ran with the No. 1 backfield Wednesday, but Nagel was still undecided who would start Saturday's game with Texas Christian. Regular fullback Cory Patterson has been bothered by a pulled hamstring muscle in recent practices. Nagel did say, however, that both boys would see a lot of action in the game.

The Hawks will have another light drill this afternoon according to Nagel. The practice will be strictly closed and should last about an hour.

Sports — Facts and Facets

Colled By JOHN HARMON
Assistant Sports Editor

Several Iowa graduates are dotting the rosters of professional teams this year. Among the more recent graduates is Alvin Randolph, a 1965 grad, who has won a starting role in the defensive backfield of the San Francisco 49ers in his sophomore year. Randolph won two Iowa football letters as a safety and was also a star hurdler on the Hawk track team.

Two other 1965 graduates, Larry McDowell and Curt Vande Walle are playing in the National Professional Football League (NFL). McDowell, a defensive back at Iowa, tried out for the Joliet team as a punter and Vande Walle made the Quad City club as an offensive end. On the Des Moines team of the NFL are Tom Knutson, who graduated last year, Mark Manders, an All-America guard in 1960, Lou Williams, a defensive end for Iowa until 1964 and Dick Gibbs who joined the Warriors recently after training with the Minnesota Vikings. Gibbs graduated last year.

Williams, incidentally, was present in the Des Moines defensive backfield at Saturday's league game between the Warriors and Quad Cities at Davenport. Williams agitated his man so much that the frustrated end would just raise his hands in despair in front of the referee as if to say, "Can't you see what he's doing?"

Williams eventually was ejected from the game after one of many of the evening's skirmishes. His team won handily, however, 50-13.

Karl Noonan, who teamed with Gary Snook for Iowa's ace pass duo in 1964, is in the running for the No. 1 flankerback position for the Miami Dolphins of the NFL. Noonan graduated in 1965 after winning three letters for the Hawks.

Still at the college level is former Hawk end Rich O'Hara. O'Hara left Iowa last year and went to North Arizona State where he is listed as one of the top 90 professional prospects this year.

Charley Finley fanned again in the eyes of most people during the recent debacle in Kansas City. But, as is the case in most controversies, there were two sides.

Finley is a man who speaks his mind and because of his sound financial situation, usually gets what he wants:

He wanted a ball club and got one; he wanted to get his mule in Chicago's Comiskey Park and he snuck it in; he didn't want his kiddie corps to drink and he didn't; and he gave his club one more chance after a hotel shooting incident and that's all they got.

Actually, Finley has got a heart. This is apparent in what he's done for baseball people in the past few years. For instance Finley hired Satchel Paige so the aging star could qualify for the pension fund and he gave irate umpire Ed Hurley a job when he was forced to retire.

But sentiment doesn't win ball games or bring fans to the park — two important aspects of the game which Kansas City hasn't enjoyed in years.

One interesting sidelight of the whole affair: what if Alvin Dark wanted to get fired? If so, he sure came out of the conflict "smelling like a rose."

Baseball suffered three great losses in recent weeks and all of them had a rather tragic tone.

The Minnesota Twins lost one of their farmhands, Walt Bond, who died of leukemia last week. Bond was the type of player who was supposed to hit 35 home runs a year, but never could. The best he could ever manage was 20 and 24 with Houston.

Big Walter, 6-6, 220-pounds, spent several years in the Cleveland Indians' farm system but could never hit what was expected of him. He did play good ball for Houston, but not good enough since he was peddled to Minnesota.

Last spring it looked like Bond would make the big time because of his torrid spring training with Minnesota but the Twins were well stocked at both first base and the outfield and they didn't want a pinch hitter. Back to the minors for Bond, who didn't go until he told the Twins brass what a bad deal he thought he'd gotten.

Now Bond will never get that last shot at the big time. He might have made it.

Richie Allen has what it takes to be a super star. He also has what it takes to be the scapegoat for the blood thirsty Philadelphia fans, who delight in giving the raspberries to someone at all times. First it was Del Ennis, then Willie Jones and down the line until 1967, when Allen is the victim.

Now Allen is on the sidelines with a severe injury to his hand, which he suffered pushing a car. Baseball and the Phillies are minus one great hitter, but the Philadelphia fans will undoubtedly find another player to hiss and boo before the season is over.

Vern Law made many headlines as a star pitcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates. He hurled for the Pirates for 16 years, guiding them to a pennant as a Cy Young Award — winner in 1960. But he suffered an arm injury in 1961 and was less than effective for several years.

Law was a great competitor, however. He went back to the minors at the age of 33 to regain his form. It paid off in 1965 when he won 17 games for the Pirates. But this year Law suffered another injury and at 37, it was one he couldn't beat.

Law's record will stand however, as will Walt Bond's and Richie Allen's — they were three of the many thousands of contributors to the great game of baseball.

Ferrara Paces Dodgers
NEW YORK (AP) — Al Ferrara's two-run double snapped a scoreless tie in the sixth inning and the Los Angeles Dodgers went on to a 4-3 victory over the New York Mets Wednesday night.

The Dodgers loaded the bases with none out in the sixth against rookie Danny Friesella on a walk to Willie Davis and infield hits by Ron Hunt and Ron Fairly. Ferrara's double drove in two runs and Los Angeles added a third on Luis Alcaraz' sacrifice fly.

2 Iowa Coaches Feted At Dinner
Two hundred people were on hand at the University Athletic Club here last night to honor Iowa track Coach Francis Cretzmeier and gymnastics Coach Sam Baillie for their Big 10 championships the last school year.

Cretzmeier was presented with a stereo set and Baillie received a complete set of golf clubs and both coaches received a set of Iowa championship glasses.

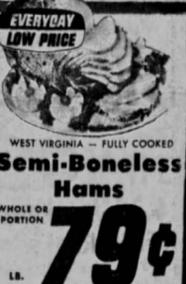

Baillie, whose team won the Big 10 title his first year as coach, told the audience he had written the team members during the summer and told them they had to improve at least 25 per cent so they could not only repeat as conference champs but also defeat Southern Illinois and take the NCAA title.

Royal Name Of New Ship Irks Scots

CLYDEBANK, Scotland (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II gave her own name Wednesday to Britain's new transatlantic liner, and the royal accolade stirred resentment into the pride of the ship's Scottish builders.

QUEEN ELIZABETH Christens Liner

More than 30,000 persons along the River Clyde cheered as recognize such a person. They regard Queen Elizabeth I as just an English monarch who reigned south of the border and died more than 100 years before the union of England and Scotland in 1707.

LBJ Asks Congress For FAA Safety Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress Wednesday to appropriate an extra $7 million so the Federal Aviation Administration can hire 900 more air traffic controllers and other safety personnel.

Johnson is seeking an additional $7 million for the FAA for the fiscal year that began July 1. Boyd told newsmen this would permit the hiring of about 800 air traffic controllers and about 100 specialists in flight standards.

"I do not believe the general taxpayer should be asked to shoulder this burden," Johnson wrote.

This presidential suggestion is expected to lead to administration-sponsored legislation, perhaps by early next year, that would impose user charges on airlines and their passengers, private aviation, airport concessionaires, air freight patrons and local communities supporting airports.

DETROIT (AP) — A University of Michigan research team, using tape recorded noises, found that the sounds of a washing machine or refrigerator annoy college graduates more than less-educated persons.

LBJ Fares Poorly In Poll

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A California poll sponsored by the Los Angeles Times indicates that a slate of delegates backing President Johnson might lose in the California Democratic primary election next year.

Nearly half of the Democratic voters questioned in the state poll said they thought Johnson was doing a "poor" job in handling the Vietnam war, the Times reported.

Airline Workers Call Off Walkout

WASHINGTON — Several thousand workers striking against Pan American World Airways ended their brief walkout Wednesday that apparently did little to slow the airline's global operations.

"The company has agreed that there will be no reprisals taken against any employees of Pan Am in connection with the strike. We are therefore hereby ordering all employees to return to work immediately," said C.L. Dennis, president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks.

Dennis, in telegrams to the 7,000 workers involved in the nationwide dispute, said the strike was being called off at the request of the National Mediation Board.

DI Editor In Detroit To Visit Car Plant

The editor of The Daily Iowan, William B. Newbrough, G. Des Moines, is one of 25 editors of student-operated newspapers from around the country in Detroit today and tomorrow for a preview of the 1968 model Chevrolet automobiles.

The editors are scheduled to visit the Chevrolet engineering, styling and testing facilities, besides driving 1968 cars.

The firm is paying all the expenses of the trip. Each of the editors will be offered a car at the end of the Detroit visit for use for one week.

ANTIMISSILE DEFENSE is illustrated by the Nike-Zeus and Sprint missiles and by radar detection. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has announced that the United States will build a "thin" antimissile defense system to guard against possible nuclear attack by Red China in the 1970s. The Nike-Zeus would be the long-range missile for the system, or else its successor, the Spartan. Incoming missiles would be detected by central radar sites, and the superfast Sprint missile would be deployed to intercept the enemy missiles which got by the long-range defense system. — AP Wirephoto

Band Plans 'Salute' To Colleges

The Hawkeye Marching Band will present a "University Salute" when the Iowa football season opens Saturday against Texas State University.

The half-time show, a salute to representative colleges within the University, will begin as the band marches downfield to "This Could Be the Start of Something Big."

The band will then form a giant hypodermic needle and salute the College of Medicine with "Got You Under My Skin."

The "Theme from the Defenders" will honor the College of Law next as the band forms the scales of justice.

Because the College of Engineering offers specialization in many different areas, the band will perform "All the Things You Are" in its honor. The next band formation will be a giant can register as the College of Business Administration receives the salute "Pennies from Heaven."

Concluding the show will be a salute to the College of Liberal Arts, recognizing this college's investigation of man and his world, the band will play "You Was a New, a Number" famous by the Tijuana Brass.

Tom Davis, associate professor of music, is acting director of the marching band. Frank Pierson is director of bands.

Student Motorists Must Get Stickers

By DON YAGER
Editorial Page Editor

The University's Director of Parking, John D. Dooley, emphasized Wednesday the importance of registering all student automobiles and motorcycles.

He said all student vehicles must be registered and that failure to do so would result in a $25 registration violation.

Dooley cautioned students that a registration sticker, which is free, does not entitle the auto to be parked in any University lot. An eligible student can purchase a parking permit for $45 which entitles him to park in any student reserved lot.

Dooley said drivers should be particularly careful in reading parking lot signs to avoid violations.

Volume is Heavy
Because of the heavy volume of cars, Dooley said it was necessary to ban freshmen and sophomores from purchasing parking permits.

Although certain exemptions are available, freshmen and sophomores are prohibited from parking in any University owned lot, including storage lots, the ramp and metered areas between 7:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

He said the exemptions were: handicapped or disabled freshmen and sophomores, those employed to finance their education in a job where a car is required, commuters and freshmen and sophomores over 21.

Change Noted
Dooley also said that a change in regulations requires that motorcycles can be parked only in motorcycle lots and must also be registered.

Another new regulation has changed the Myrtle Avenue and Hydraulic building lots from open storage to reserved storage which costs $25 for nine months.

If a student parks at a jammed meter, he should call the Campus Security Office immediately, Dooley said.

Dooley warned that all registration and parking stickers must be properly displayed by Monday. Complete motor vehicle and bicycle regulations can be obtained at the west end of the Field House during Registration or at Dooley's office in Old Dental building.

Israeli, Egyptian Guns Boom At Suez Canal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli and Egyptian troops battled along the Red Sea end of the Suez Canal Wednesday. The truce-breaking fight coincided with the opening in New York of a U.N. General Assembly session at which the Mideastern crisis is a prime issue.

A Tel Aviv spokesman said Israeli tank gunners spotted eight patrol boats moving down the 100-yard-wide canal toward Port Taufiq with armed and helmeted Egyptian soldiers and sank three, dumping about 45 men into the water.

Egypt denied this version. It said Egyptian guns opened up with counterfire after the Israelis, without provocation, lobbed shells into Port Taufiq and the nearby city of Suez.

A Cairo communique said no

Egyptian military installations were hit, but two houses and a power station were damaged. The semi-official Middle East News Agency said five civilians were wounded.

"Reports claiming there were Egyptian boats in the canal at the time are absolutely untrue," a Cairo spokesman said.

Israel's armed forces swept across the Sinai Desert to the eastern bank of the canal in the fighting of June 5 to 10. There have been frequent fire-fights since along the 114-mile-long waterway.

The most serious incident, a heavy seven-hour artillery duel, erupted Sept. 4. U.N. observers reported later this was stirred up by shore battery fire on three Israeli patrol boats that the Egyptians said were attempting to force their way to the southern end of the canal.

Nixon Leading New Hampshire

CONCORD, N.H. — With less than six months to go before New Hampshire's presidential preference primary — the nation's first — it's Richard M. Nixon leading the field of Republican hopefuls.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan will start his move with speeches at Dartmouth and the University of New Hampshire on Oct. 30.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California has organized backing but has passed the word that he does not want his name on the ballot in the March 12 primary. So his supporters are concentrating on a write-in campaign along the lines which gave Henry Cabot Lodge a surprise victory in 1964.

Others sure to muster write-in support if they decline to be on the ballot include Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois.

Lasansky Shows Set In Washington

Two exhibitions of works by Mauricio Lasansky, professor of art, will open Saturday in Tacoma, Wash.

His "Nazi Drawings" will be shown in the Tacoma Art Museum through Oct. 22 under arrangements made by the Des Moines Art Center. Professor and Mrs. Lasansky will be guests of the museum at a dinner and a preview of the exhibition Friday evening.

Twenty-five Lasansky prints from the collection of Dr. and Mrs. Webster B. Gelman of 2403 Towncrest Drive will be shown at Pacific Lutheran University, Tacoma, for three weeks.

Trailer Purge To Continue

A crackdown on trailer home registrations held in Johnson County last May will be resumed on a statewide basis early in October, the Iowa Department of Public Safety announced Wednesday.

In May, 192 mobile home owners were summoned into justice court here for failure to display registration plates and for non-payment of fees. Fines from $5 to $40 were levied against about two-thirds of those called.

About one-third of the owners filed appeals. Trial of one case resulted in conviction, and the other appeals are still pending.

Under Iowa law, all mobile homes and travel trailers must have registration plates prominently displayed on the rear. The plates cost $5 a year.

Mere possession of registration plates does not satisfy the law, because a summons may be written for failure to display plates.

County Lacks CD Shelter

Public fallout shelters in Johnson County could accommodate 40,000 people in case of a nuclear attack.

Only 890 people in the county live in homes that would provide what civil defense officials consider adequate protection. With minor change in homes, 33,027 could be protected. These changes would bring the total protected to 73,000, or more than the estimated county population of 65,000.

These figures have been received by Wayne Walters, director of Johnson County civil defense. They are part of a statewide fallout protection survey completed by the U.S. Bureau of Census.

About 76 per cent of the households in Iowa City who received questionnaires replied. Specific recommendations were sent to householders who participated in the survey.

Mott Concept To Be Aired

How to keep a community's schools open much of the week will be the subject of a workshop here Sept. 23 and 24.

The Institute of Public Affairs has invited school superintendents, mayors, adult education directors and community action leaders to attend the workshop.

The workshop will have as its theme the Mott concept which makes available public schools on weekday evenings and Saturdays for educational, health, social and recreational programs for the public.

Directing the workshop will be Robert Senecal, community development specialist at the Institute, who is a former school director in Flint, Mich., where the Mott concept started. The principal speaker will be W. Fred Totten, director of the Mott graduate training program operated in conjunction with Eastern Michigan and Michigan State Universities.

Forell To Speak In East Germany

George W. Forell, professor and director of the School of Religion, has been invited to Wittenberg, East Germany, to speak at the 450th anniversary celebration of Martin Luther's nailing his theses to the church door.

Forell, a Lutheran and native of Germany, is to lecture in German at a theological study conference Nov. 2 on "Justification and Eschatology in Luther's Thought." Two other speakers are from West Germany, and the rest are from behind the Iron Curtain.

You didn't finish school?

(Lots of luck! You're going to need it.)

Some people never learn. The smaller your education, the smaller the job you'll get. The smaller your salary, too. It's a proven fact. You really cut out of your future when you cut out of school. Any school. At any level. Grade School. High School. Even College.

Today, to get a good job, you need a good education. Employers insist on it. Good-paying jobs demand it. So you really ought to get it... if you want to enjoy a richly rewarding future.

Don't sell a good education short. If you're in school now... stay there! Learn all you can for as long as you can. If you're out of school, find out about the many ways to get valuable training outside the classroom. Visit the Youth Councillor at your State Employment Service. Remember, a good education isn't a luxury today. It's an absolute necessity.

To get a good job, get a good education
