Battered Texans Wading Through Beulah's Wake

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Massive floods from rains of almost 30 inches deposited by Hurricane Beulah's dying throes surrounded at least three quarters of a million persons in South Texas Thursday night.

Officials counted 56 tornadoes kicked off by the massive, slowly dying storm and predicted more.

One rain gauge in Victoria reported 29 inches. The official Weather Bureau gauge in the flood-isolated town got 18.85 inches and the deluge continued.

The rains flooded every river, creek and ditch in the South Texas flatlands, made streams of highways and lakes of fields and spread into countless cities and towns.

Heavy rains and flooding encompassed an area of about 40,000 square miles in the rough triangle from the Gulf of Mexico above Victoria 360 miles west to Del Rio on the Rio Grande and 200 miles south from that line to Brownsville. That area is a little larger than the state of Indiana.

Flooding was heavy enough to isolate 750,000 people — about one twelfth of the state's population — in cities and towns in the eastern half of the storm area.

Highway Flooded

U.S. 77, the main highway through the Rio Grande Valley, was hub-cap deep in water for long stretches. In the Valley's cities flood water lapped over street curbs and in low sections covered parked cars and the tops of their doors.

South Texas already had taken an estimated half-billion dollar blow from Beulah, a once mighty hurricane downgraded to a tropical storm.

Tornadoes roamed the areas already wracked by flooding and Beulah's 160-mile-an-hour winds. The twisters made inroads into the northern half of the state.

At Freeport, Tex., the body of Bridgette Laverne Anthony, 15, the first victim in Texas of Beulah, was found some 50 feet from the water's edge at a beach. The girl was drowned early Tuesday while surfing in Beulah's massive waves off Freeport.

The toll of death remained amazingly low. Only six persons died in Texas. Twenty-four were killed in Mexico and the Caribbean during the 12 days Beulah rampaged as a full-fledged hurricane.

Tiny Cuero, a town some 30 miles northwest of Victoria near the Texas coast, had an unofficial total of 25 inches of rain. The official figure for the 48 hours ending at 7 p.m. Thursday was 18.85 inches and the rains continued.

The Guadalupe River near Cuero was 10 feet over flood stage. Telephone service was out to vast areas. Refugees huddled in flood isolated shelters.

Officials in Cuero put out a request that all persons thinking about coming there stay away from the city and surrounding Dewitt county. Floodwaters covered the entire town, a small city of some 7,000. U.S. 87 was closed between Dewitt and Gonzales Counties.

Damage reports continued to pour in and the havoc continued. Rain-swollen irrigation ditches isolated entire cities, carrying chunks of oranges and crops that form the lifeblood of the hard-hit Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Beulah's center moved toward Laredo, Tex., early in the evening, still bearing 50 mile-an-hour winds and ponderous rains.

Tomato Crop Ruined

A Department of Public Safety report from the Valley said the area's multimillion-dollar tomato crops were "wiped out." Citrus damage was heavy, so heavy that the state agriculture commissioner estimated the loss at $50 million.

Gov. John B. Connally said he would fly to the Valley with a blue-ribbon group of state officials to try to look at the situation, weather permitting. He said he anticipated asking President Johnson — whose own Texas ranch in the central section of the state was cut off by floodwaters — to declare the hurricane zone a disaster area.

"Beyond any question, damages to all kinds of property — public and private — are going to run far in excess of what we originally anticipated," Connally told a news conference in Austin.

Connally said he hoped to meet with his Mexican counterpart from across the Rio Grande. Damage in Mexico's Tamaulipas State was reported extensive, also.

Red Cross and city evacuation centers put out urgent appeals for candles. Electrical power remained out for a vast area and the rains kept repairmen indoors with other flood refugees.

The Weather Bureau issued a special flood warning for the lower Neuces River above Corpus Christi. The forecast said flood water would run over the spillway at the Lake Corpus Christi dam sometime Thursday night and hit Calallen, on the northwest edge of Corpus Christi, with an 11-foot crest — five feet above flood stage — by tonight.

Nigeria Troops Pursue Rebels

LAGOS (AP) — The commander of federal forces holding Benin City ordered troops into Ibo tribal areas of the Midwestern region Thursday and warned civilians there to keep out of the way or risk being treated as rebels.

Col. Murtala Ramat Muhammed, 28, said in a broadcast from Benin that soldiers were sent toward Agbo, 40 miles east of the Midwestern capital and a major town in an area inhabited by Ibos. The tribe is a minority in the Midwest but dominates Biafra, the secessionist Eastern region.

Muhammed named Lt. Col. Samuel Ogbemudia temporary administrator of the Midwest and imposed a curfew on Benin. The city was taken over by federal troops Wednesday hours after rebels declared it the capital of an independent Republic of Benin that would be allied with Biafra in Nigeria's civil war.

Fighting broke out 10 weeks ago as the result of friction among the nation's tribal groups.

Fifty miles northeast of Benin City, federal forces were reported moving close to Ubiaja, which commands the road to the Negiar River and the Biafra border 15 miles to the east.

This is near Ibo areas where Maj. Albert O. Okonkwo, a U.S.-trained medical doctor, is believed to have fled. Okonkwo was appointed military administrator of the Midwest after Biafrans and dissident federal soldiers took it over last month.

DUKE ELLINGTON To Perform At The Union

The Duke Rides 'A-Train' To UI

Duke Ellington and his orchestra will present two concerts at the Union Sept. 30. Sponsored by the Central Party Committee, the Duke will perform at 7 and 9:30 p.m. Tickets, at $2.50 and $3, will go on sale Monday at the Union and at the Campus Record Shop, 11 S. Dubuque St. All seats are reserved.

A composer, arranger, pianist and band leader, Ellington has been a top American musician for more than 40 years. He wrote "Mood Indigo," "Don't Get Around Much Anymore," "Sophisticated Lady," "Satin Doll," "C Jam Blues" and "In a Mellow Tone."

His suites and extended works include "The Liberian Suite," commissioned by the Liberian government; "Black, Brown and Beige"; "Harlem," commissioned by Arturo Toscanini, and "The Far East Suite," inspired by one of his State Department tours.

Many of his extended works have been performed by the NBC, Philadelphia, Cleveland, New Haven, Detroit and Washington National symphony orchestras. Several of his works have been recorded by the symphonies of Stockholm, Paris, Hamburg, and La Scala in Milan.

In 1965 Ellington broke new musical ground when he presented his first concert of sacred music in Grace Cathedral, San Francisco. "In the beginning God..." a work based on the first four words of the Bible.

Ellington's musical scores for motion pictures include "Anatomy of a Murder," "Paris Blues" and "Assault on a Queen." In 1949 he wrote a musical, "Jump for Joy," and he has written scores for many others, including "Beggars' Holiday," "My People" and "Sugar City."

Goldberg Throws Hanoi Challenge: Agree To Talks

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg challenged Hanoi and its allies Thursday to state categorically that meaningful negotiations would take place, without disadvantage to either side, if the United States halted its bombing of North Vietnam.

In a major address to the U.N. General Assembly, Goldberg reiterated that the United States was committed to a political solution, not a military solution, in Vietnam.

But he added that "in fidelity to our commitment to a political solution, we will not permit North Vietnam and its adherents to impose a military solution upon South Vietnam."

The chief U.S. delegate noted that Hanoi in its public statements had said negotiations "could" take place if the bombing stopped. Other governments and Secretary-General U Thant, he said, "have expressed their belief or assumption that negotiations 'would' begin" if the bombing stopped. But he added that "no such third party — including those governments which are among Hanoi's closest friends — has conveyed to us any authoritative message from Hanoi that there would in fact be negotiations if the bombing were stopped."

"We have sought such a message directly from Hanoi without success."

Mental Patients Killed In Blaze

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Six men mental patients, confused and bewildered by dense, acrid-smelling smoke, were overcome by the fumes and killed trying to flee a sudden fire which broke out at the New Mexico State Hospital Thursday morning.

Hospital attendants, including a 19-year-old university student, led 152 men and women patients to safety, some reluctantly, who were "walking right back into the place."

Ralph Ortiz, 27, an attendant who turned in the first alarm, said some of the rescued patients "were turning back and walking right back into the place."

Three, I had to drag out. They were just going around in circles. They were just confused and didn't know one door from the other."

Authorities said the fire was believed to have started in a locker in a first-floor dayroom. The cause, believed to be accidental, has not been determined.

All the victims were trapped on the second floor.

Edward Mason, Prof Emeritus, Is Dead At 79

Edward F. Mason, associate professor emeritus of journalism, died of a heart attack at 3:30 p.m. Thursday at his home, 32 Olive St. He was 79.

Leslie G. Moeller, former director of the School of Journalism and now a professor of journalism, said Thursday night, "Professor Mason set high standards for his own work, both in photography and in his writing, and for his students as well."

EDWARD F. MASON Journalism Professor (A 1956 Photograph)

He gave them much, and their regard for him as a teacher was outstanding. He was a major contributor to the program of the Iowa School of Journalism."

Professor Mason came to the University in 1930. He organized and was head of the pictorial journalism sequence in the School of Journalism. He retired in 1956 but continued to teach part time.

Professor Mason edited the Iowa Publisher for 20 years and the Iowa Official Register from 1961 to 1966. He was the author of three books on reporting and photography.

He graduated from Whitman College in Washington in 1908 and was a member of the first graduating class from the Pulitzer School of Journalism at Columbia University in 1913. He received an M.A. degree from the University of Idaho in 1927.

Professor Mason worked for several newspapers, served in World War I and was on the staff of the University of Idaho for 11 years before coming to the University.

Funeral services are to be at 9 a.m. Saturday at the First Presbyterian Church, 26 E. Market St. Arrangements are being handled by the Beckman-Butherford Funeral Home, 507 E. College St.

Professor Mason is survived by his widow, Dora; a son, Dr. Edward E. Mason, professor of surgery at the College of Medicine; a sister and four grandchildren.

The family has asked that no flowers be sent, but that donations be made to the First Presbyterian Church building fund instead.

Won't You-All Come Along With Me . . . First Lady Travels - Huck Finn Style

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon Johnson floated down the Mississippi River into Mark Twain territory Thursday and called her boatride "a marvelous symphony of romance and commerce."

Banjos strummed old river tunes as Mrs. Johnson and the party traveling with her on a "Crossroads U.S.A." tour ate catfish and Cajun shrimp on the J. W. Hershey towboat.

The boat carried about 200 persons including Mrs. Hubert Humphrey, Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman and Secretary of Housing Robert Weaver. The First Lady traveled 17 miles along the bluff-bordered river between Quincy, Ill., and Hannibal — the home town of Mark Twain.

The Great River Barbershop Chorus — wearing straw hats and red vests — sang a special request received in a wire Thursday morning from President Johnson — "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

In a bright red suit and red, white and blue scarf, the First Lady clasped her hands in delight at the President's request and waved to crowds thronging the shorelines of the vast river.

At Hannibal, the First Lady said: "My coming here today fulfills a lifelong yearning to see the world of Tom Sawyer and his friends."

At the Hannibal dock, she was met by a makebelieve Tom and his girl friend, Becky Thatcher — John Weldon Webbell and Marybeth Orschelm — who were costumed as the characters from Mark Twain's novel about river life.

Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Humphrey toured the Mark Twain home and museum and the homes created in Hannibal to resemble the fictional places where Tom Sawyer and Becky Thatcher lived.

Educational TV Receives Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted Thursday night to boost federal support for non-commercial radio and television by creating a public broadcasting corporation to subsidize programming and help local stations combine into a network.

The legislation, already approved in slightly different form by the Senate, was passed by a roll-call vote of 265 to 91 after a Republican move to eliminate the corporation was defeated 194 to 167.

The measure authorizes $9 million to create the corporation and includes $38 million for federal construction grants to local educational stations over the next three years.

The corporation would be run by a 15-member board of directors, nine named by the President and confirmed by the Senate and six picked by those nine. Only eight could be members of the same political party.

The corporation would be forbidden from operating a network but could help educational stations form a network for specific programs, using existing means of transmission such as telephone lines, coaxial cables, microwaves and satellites.

—Groom Is Negro Technician—

Rusk Daughter Marries

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk gave his blonde 18-year-old daughter in marriage to a Negro Thursday in a quiet family ceremony in the chapel of the Stanford University Memorial Church.

Parents of both the bride and groom attended the wedding. Rusk escorted the bride to the altar.

The bride was Margaret Elizabeth Rusk, a second-year student at Stanford.

The bridegroom was Guy Gibson Smith, 22, a June graduate of Georgetown University in Washington, D.C.

Relatives said the young couple met in Washington about three years ago and the romance flowered during horseback rides in Washington parks.

The bridegroom's father, Clarence L. Smith, is chief analyst with the Army Correction Program in Washington, and his mother is a guidance counselor in the Washington school system.

ense was issued out of hours Wednesday night at a private home.

Demonstrations Feared

Jack Foisie, an uncle of the bride, said Rusk was "fearful that demonstrations might mar the wedding."

Actually, there was no incident of any sort.

Rusk and other members of the party declined comment both entering and leaving the church, a mosaic-covered building dominating the Inner Quadrangle of Stanford's campus.

The bridal couple was whisked away by limousine immediately after the ceremony.

A private reception was scheduled for the afternoon at the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. B.T. Bergeson in nearby Los Altos.

Despite its extreme privacy, the wedding was performed in traditional fashion.

The Georgia-born Secretary of State and other male members of the party were formally clad.

The bride, a personable girl of medium height, recently completed the summer quarter at Stanford.

After a honeymoon at an undisclosed spot, she plans to resume her studies.

Possibly as part of the secrecy cover, she had registered for quarters at Lagunita Cour, a woman's dormitory, and had signed to assist in student registrations next Monday.

To Resume Studies

The groom has been employed since his graduation as a data processor with a private contractor the Ames Research Center, a national space agency division in nearby Sunnyvale.

He recently was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the Army reserve and has been accepted as a student helicopter pilot in the Army air training program.

A relative who was not identified, said after the wedding that young Smith expected eventually to be assigned to Vietnam, and added:

"He knows he will have a tough time over the marriage but he is only worried about his family."

Robert Ades, his supervisor at Ames, described Smith as "a quiet, good worker."

Individuals must choose

America. Land of the free and the Indian reservation and the full tummy and the empty pocket and the suburbs and the ghetto and the guaranteed wage and the welfare check and the World Series and the Detroit riots and the foreign aid and the bombing of Southeast Asian villages.

The university. The exaltation of beauty and the memorization of facts and the advancement of learning and the value of a grade and the progression of ideas and ideals and the multi-hundred lecture classes and the center of order and light and the restriction of housing and motor vehicles.

So you want to come to college? Why? To get an education, or to get a degree? To participate in a free discussion of the modes, manners and history of human thought? Or do you just want to qualify for a higher income? To experiment and toy with different ideologies and concepts and draw your own conclusions? Or to memorize and accept the established and the standard? You are here, baby, and it's up to you. Education or stepping stone?

You can make it the easy way. You can cheat and pass and ride out the four or five or six or more years. Ask your roommate or your adviser or even the president. They made it through, or are in the process of doing so, one way or the other. And they know of both ways — either first hand or by acquaintance. It can be done and you can do it, one way or the other.

But wait a minute, take another look around you. Look at America and the university. And the slums and the fat cats and the dead and the dying and the living and the lying. Look around you, pal, what do you think about our clear cut values. And our four year, memorize or cheat, right or wrong, black or white, pass or fail educational system.

The university. The stalwart of our educated society. The college degree. Our key to the realms of material wealth and prosperity. And your cousin or my cousin or Rap Brown's cousin is growing up and living and dying in a poverty that even our enemies cannot imagine. He gets through the fourth or the eighth or even the twelfth grade and has to drop out of school to support his brothers and sisters and mother, or wife and children or all of them and his father, too.

Look at America, baby. And the university. Do you like what you see? Do you like this thing called the wage dispute where management holds out while the factory workers lose a day's bread in order to win a little bit for tomorrow; and the state school board holdout while your brothers and sisters learn about the streets and alleys and the back seat of an old jalopy? Do you like this thing called education where you listen and feed back and seldom search out and seldom contribute. Do you like all this? This is America.

If you don't care for wealth and poverty, mass manufacturing and rubber stamping; and, if you don't care for striking and bombing and cheating — then help change it.

You don't have to be a hippie or grow a beard or move to San Francisco or join a militant student union.

The establishment isn't always right. To improve the system you can begin with your education. Demand a discussion; a discussion of his and yours and the other guy's thoughts on the subject. Raise your hand and ask. And if that doesn't work, demand. And if that doesn't work walk out and go to the next class. And talk about it with your roommate and your next door neighbor and your parents and your student government.

If you're not satisfied with your education, protest, and demand something better. You don't have to accept it. The state owes you an education if you're willing to search it out. Don't settle for anything less.

Is Chou far behind?

By ART BUCHWALD
WASHINGTON — One of the most perplexing things about the situation in Communist China is that Liu Shao-chi is still walking around free in Peking. For those who haven't kept up with the events of the past year, Liu Shao-chi, as chairman of the People's Republic, is China's chief of state. But ever since the Cultural Revolution began, he is the most reviled man in the government.

A day doesn't go by when he isn't attacked in the press, or on wall posters or by the Red Guards. He has been accused by the Maoists of taking the capitalist road, of being a lackey of the Soviet Union and of being in cahoots with Chiang Kai-shek. This is not to mention his other unspeakable crimes, such as revisionism, imperialism and bad breath.

Yet Liu is still for all intents and purposes the head of the Chinese government. How does he get away with it?

The only thing one can surmise is that Liu has something on Mao, and if he ever blows the whistle Mao is going to wind up in birdnest soup.

China-watchers have been speculating as to what it could possibly be, and here are some of the theories they have come up with.

Mao owns the only television station in Canton. If he makes any attempt to kick out Liu Shao-chi, who controls the Chinese equivalent of the FCC, Liu will issue another license so there will be two TV stations in Canton. Mao's station could never stand the competition. And his TV interests, which are now in trust, would lose a fortune.

Another theory is that in order to launch his Cultural Revolution Mao accepted money from the CIA. Liu found out about this when he discovered that the Hate America Every Day Foundation was really a conduit for CIA funds. Liu has warned Mao that if he makes any move against him, he will give the story to Ram Pals magazine, and every student in China will turn against him.

Still another theory as to why Liu has managed to survive is that he has proof that the "Thoughts of Mao" was ghost-written by a professor at Shanghai University and that Mao hasn't had an original thought since he became head of the Communist Party in China.

There are some China experts who believe that if you look behind the scenes you'll find a woman. They say Mao has been having an affair with a Red Guard sorority mother and Liu knows about it. Since the present Mrs. Mao is said to be an insanely jealous woman, Mao's life wouldn't be worth two chopsticks if she ever found out about it.

Another theory is that Mao is a compulsive gambler and has lost over 2 billion fens to Liu at Fan-Tan. The only way Mao could ever hope to get even is by keeping Liu alive and play him double or nothing.

But the most interesting idea that has been put forth so far is that Mao and Liu are the same person. One night he sneaks out and puts up a poster against Liu and the next night he sneaks out and puts a poster up attacking Mao.

In that way no matter who wins the Cultural Revolution Mao or Liu will still be on top.

This final theory makes the most sense, though there are still some questions that have to be answered. If Mao is Liu and Liu is Mao, can Chou be far behind?

'Are they figuring that a wall across Vietnam could hold us back too?'

San Francisco Troupe shows the controversial

SAN FRANCISCO — The controversial San Francisco Mime Troupe, fresh from its seventh season of presenting free commedia dell'arte in the parks and fairgrounds of Northern California, will bring its current production, "L'Amant Militaire," to Macbride Hall at 8 p.m. Oct. 19 and 20.

R.G. Davis, the Troupe's founder and director, speaks of the work of his company as guerrilla theatre.

"You do something because you think it's right and you believe yourself ultimately," he said. "We want to deal with hypocrisy in America. I deal with it on the stage for everybody. You can't say 'this is the conclusion' to the audience. They have to come to the same conclusion as you, hopefully. Otherwise it's didactic theatre and you might as well write an essay. We're out to disturb you. I'm willing to expose myself to the same thing we expose the audience to."

The Mime Troupe uses commedia dell'arte, a highly stylized form of theatrical presentation which began in 16th century Italy, as part of its effort to arouse and engage its audience by choosing issues and performance situations which are intrinsically vital. Commedia is a form which invites freedom and participation, making it an especially good means of confronting the audience. The Mime Troupe has attempted to follow the practice of the roving Renaissance actors by performing their improvised comedies in streets, fairgrounds and byways, carrying with them a rough wooden stage that is easily assembled, a painted curtain which serves as scenery, and the commedia masks which instantly identify each character.

"L'Amant Militaire," translated from the Goldoni original by Betty Schwimmer

and adapted by Joan Holden, deals with the difficulties to visitors and visited when a large, powerful country invades and occupies a smaller nation in the throes of civil war. Heralded as the best anti-war play to come out of the Vietnam war, "L'Amant Militaire" slaughters several sacred cows — the war, the war machine, and presidential policies, as the Mime Troupe, in the words of one critic, "manages to plant a firm foot in everybody's mouth but its own."

"Olive Pits," a one-act commedia adapted by Peter Berg and Peter Cohon from a work by Lope de Rueda, will also be presented by the touring Troupe. It concerns the get-rich-quick schemes of a peasant farmer who attempts to use the system to beat the system and is, instead, beaten by it.

When asked why the tour has been centered around colleges instead of local theaters, Davis replied, "In the first place, these students are going to be the politically and socially influential citizens of tomorrow. Our most immediate hope is for change.

"Secondly, and maybe most important, students are more open-minded. They are constantly challenged by new ideas and attitudes and are at least willing to hear them out. Because, for the present, they have less of a vested interest in the society, they see things more clearly and are willing to admit they see them. They are exciting audiences to play to."

The Troupe will be presented here as part of the 1967 Conference for Modern Letters, sponsored by the Department of English and Center for Modern Letters. The conference topic is "The New Fictive, or, Is There a Post-Realistic Fiction?"

'Heat' has heart in the right place

By NICHOLAS MEYER

Norman Jewison's movies always seem to have their hearts in the right place — so much so that one is tempted to overlook their artistic and aesthetic troubles. "The Russians are Coming, The Russians are Coming" is a case in point. Its plea for international tolerance was strong and heart-felt, yet the fact remains that it did not do justice to Nathaniel Benchley's hilarious book on which it was based.

Short-comings mar his latest film as well, though once again his heart is obviously in the right place. "In the Heat of the Night" takes place in a small southern town, whose backward (all white) police department hasn't the vaguest notion of how to solve the murder of a prominent industrialist. By coincidence, chief Rod Steiger gets help from a northern cop who is a Negro. Needless to say the effect of a Negro policeman at work in this bigoted little town — and a Negro more efficient and knowledgeable than whites for 50 miles around — provokes explosive reactions. The natives become quite restless. Eventually Rod Steiger comes to appreciate a good policeman, regardless of race, creed or color.

The film's problem is one of convincing its audience. The conversation of a bigot into the beginnings of a human being is a very nice happy ending, but when a man has a lot of grey in his hair and has lived in one place (and that place very much out of the way) all his life, he isn't going to change over night.

Sterling Silliphant's script is naive, and in my opinion weakens its punch by being so obviously rigged in favor of its ending and its point. In making the police chief inept and the visiting Negro officer a "super detective," the makers of the film have set up a dead pigeon to knock down, not a live one. Too neat. Too pat.

Rod Steiger goes a long way towards making the film credible. (Between Steiger and Scott we have the great American actors of our age). His gum-chewing police chief is a memorable portrait, tinged with pathos and loneliness. He is at least not a symbol, but a real individual.

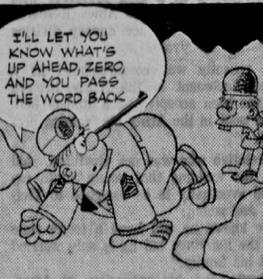

Sidney Portier, playing the Negro policeman, is awful. It is my opinion that Portier is not a good actor, but merely a personality who repeats his set bits (i.e., anger, fear, laughter, etc.) over and over again in each different role with no variation. Lots of his emoting in "In the Heat of the Night" is left over from his acting as the school teacher in "To Sir With Love." If Mr. Jewison had shown just a bit more box office courage, he would have gone out and found himself a better actor for the part.

The small town is well depicted (Jewison has a flair for depicting small towns) and the film is lively and exciting. And its heart is definitely in the right place. These points in its favor may make it enjoyed, and if you don't think too much about the realism of the action, that won't be hard.

Ul Rocket Payload Zooms Into Space

From University News Service
WALLOPS ISLAND, Va. — A University of Iowa rocket payload roared 475 miles into space from Wallops Island, Va., early Thursday.

Navy Bombers Hit Haiphong; Bridge Struck

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy bombers pounded Haiphong Thursday in the third raid inside North Vietnam's major port city in five days.

The Navy jets, launched from carriers 100 miles away in the Gulf of Tonkin, struck at targets they had attacked Sunday and again Monday — a rail-highway bridge 1.7 miles from the city's heart.

The objective was to seal off main supply routes in and out of the port and clog Haiphong with supplies brought by sea from the Soviet Union and other countries.

U.S. headquarters made no mention of any planes lost in Thursday's raids. The North Vietnamese News Agency claimed seven American planes were shot down.

Meanwhile there were indications that the increasing U.S. commitment in the ground war is bringing commensurate losses.

U.S. military statistics showed that this year's toll of U.S. dead and wounded exceeds the total of all six previous years of American involvement in Vietnam.

Unofficial data listed 6,701 American combat dead and 45,705 wounded from the beginning of the year to last Saturday midnight. The 1961-1966 toll was 6,664 killed and 37,733 wounded.

Coeds' Apartment Damaged By Fire

An apartment at 1103 E. College St. occupied by three University coeds was extensively damaged by fire early Thursday morning.

The girls are Ann Cast, Mary Deckleaver, and Marlys Norby, all of Osage. None was present when the fire started.

The apartment, which is owned by Maynard V. Brogan of 654 S. Governor, is in a two-story wood frame building. The first floor apartment was unoccupied.

Firemen said the fire probably was started by a discarded cigarette. The fire extensively damaged the second floor and attic, and the lower apartment suffered water and smoke damage.

One Iowa City fireman, Herman Villhauer, 44, was treated and released at Mercy Hospital after being overcome by smoke.

Prof's Grammar Study Aided By Canadian Indian Legend

A legend about how an Indian woman gave birth to five puppies who turned into children will help a professor establish the first written grammar for the Dogrib Indian language.

This summer Robert R. Howren, associate professor of English and chairman of the linguistics program, made his second visit to the Dogrib settlement of Rae on Great Slave Lake in Canada's Northwest Territory.

With the aid of his research assistant, Charles R. Pyle Jr., G. Iowa City, and three tape recorders, Howren collected Dogrib vocabulary and grammatical patterns for his study.

One of his informants, Vital Thomas, 64, recounted to him in Dogrib the story of the tribe's origin from a single Indian woman and the puppies who turned into children and left human footprints in the ashes of a campfire.

Howren then replayed the legend to the Indian, one sentence at a time, and recorded his grammatical analysis of each part, both on tape and in writing.

The Dogrib language, one of 20 Northern Athabaskan languages distantly related to Navajo and Apache Indian tongues, is full of nasal sounds and relies much on tones for its meaning. Its structure entails frequent use of prefixes, so the sentence "I will work for myself" is spoken as a verb with five prefixes and one suffix.

Since Howren's first visit to the Indians in 1965, most of their dwellings have been hooked up to electricity, and he found that their word for "light" is "ko," which means "fire." This application of an old word for a new experience is consistent with their calling a motor vehicle "satsio mbechi," which means "iron sled."

Howren expects to publish articles on the Dogrib grammar and on comparative studies between Dogrib and other Northern Athabaskan languages like Slave, Hare and Chipewyan. He will also transcribe words onto the University's sonograph, a machine which make visual analyses of spoken sounds for study by linguistics students.

Pyle plans to write a master's thesis on some phase of the Dogrib study.

Ghetto's 'Harvest' Feared

See Related Story Page 6.
DES MOINES (AP) — Presidential Assistant Sherwin J. Markman warned Thursday night that possible curtailment or discontinuance of programs to solve ghetto problems would have tragic consequences.

"The inevitable harvest for our nation would be increased alienation of the races, indefinite and embittering continuation of Negro ghetto poverty and escalating urban violence," he said.

"The reality of these possibilities results from the combined impact of riots, Negro extremism, white backlash and white apathy — all of which are negative and destructive forces operating in our society."

"These forces are powerful but they are not invincible, and we ignore their potential impact only at the greatest peril."

Markman's comments were contained in a speech prepared for delivery at the annual banquet of the League of Iowa Municipalities.

In connection with the League's annual meeting, a bi-racial task force Thursday recommended that Iowa cities enact strong fair housing and employment ordinances, enforce existing health and sanitation codes in slum areas and improve training of police in minority relations. Markman called on private industry to join local, state and federal governments in an effort to eliminate chronic problems confronting the nation's cities.

"It is clear that the entire task cannot and should not be attempted by the federal government," he asserted. "It is imperative that the effort involve all facets of our society."

He said riots are hurting the Negro cause.

"Though the riots sometimes beget token positive responses, of incomparably greater moment is the backlash and counter violence which the riots trigger," he said.

"The inevitable white reaction of disgust and anger erodes the essential public support which is imperative for the survival of any meaningful programs targeted at the ghettos," Markman said.

Action was expected today on the report of the League's committee on race relations.

The task force, formed by the large cities section of the league to find ways to better human relations in urban areas, said the problems of minorities can only be solved through "the continuing effort of 'power structure' leaders and minority leaders."

The recommendations included:

- More university extension and adult education programs focusing on urban problems.
- A "get-tough" enforcement policy on health and sanitation regulations to put pressure on "absentee slum landlords."
- Strong fair housing and fair employment practices ordinances, with professional staffs to enforce them.
- Municipal human rights commissions.
- Improved community relations training for police to increase their sensitivity to minority problems, and active recruitment of Negroes for law enforcement work.

Senate Votes $10.5 Billion For Poverty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed 77 to 5 Thursday a bill carrying $10.49 billion for 24 federal agencies and giving President Johnson what he asked for clearing city slums and helping low-income families pay their rent.

The measure now goes to a conference with the House, which in passing the measure May 17 voted $501 million less.

The big difference is the Senate's action Wednesday in voting $40 million for rent subsidies and $537 million for the model cities program. The House had allowed nothing for the rent supplements and only $237 million for model cities.

Senators who fought for the added funds for the urban programs conceded they face a tough fight with House conferees in trying to keep the higher total Johnson says is vitally needed.

The total includes funds for the Housing and Urban Development Department and 23 independent agencies. The biggest allotment is $6.65 billion for the Veterans Administration, with $4.56 billion earmarked for veterans compensations and pensions.

The five senators who voted against the bill were: John J. Williams (R-Del.), Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), Jack Miller (R-Iowa), and Strom Thurmond (R-S.C.) and Ernest F. Hollings (D-S.C.).

Williams had conducted a losing battle for four days to hold down the bill's total.

The Senate upheld another Johnson request in voting 57 to 30 to authorize $2.385 billion worth of sales of participation certificates on housing, college dormitory and other loans rather than $581 million voted by the House.

Cities To Close For 'Riots'

Whole blocks of the downtown sections of Sioux City and Fairfield will be closed for rioting Sunday.

But not for real. Units of the Iowa National Guard will be both staging and subduing the riots in an exercise testing the training they received at summer camp.

The mock riots are a follow-up to 32 hours of riot-control training, says Maj. C. P. Woods, training officer for the Iowa Guard.

In Sioux City, 900 members of the 2nd Mechanized Battalion, 133rd Infantry, will split up, some to pose as snipers and unruly mobs, the rest to take posts as riot troops.

The soldiers will be targets of flour-filled paper bags and water-filled balloons, the bags representing rocks and the balloons make-believe gasoline bombs.

Helicopters will hover overhead, armored personnel carriers will rumble through the streets. Police and firemen will join in as Civil Defense team members.

In Fairfield, the Central Park section will be training ground for 500 members of the 224th Engineer Battalion. A force of 100 guardsmen-rioters will provide the tumult for that affair.

Officials said residents of the selected areas will be permitted free movement during the exercise.

They didn't know what approach would be best for a stranger unaware of the drill.

Boston Trips Tribe, 6-5, Stays In 1st

CLEVELAND (AP) — Dalton Jones lined a two-run single in Boston's three-run sixth inning and the Red Sox went on to defeat Cleveland 6-5 Thursday night to hang onto a share of the lead in the torrid American League race.

The Red Sox nursed a 1-0 lead into the sixth off Cleveland starter Steve Hargan. Walks to Mike Andrews and Carl Yastrzemski, George Scott's sacrifice, and an intentional pass to Reggie Smith filled the bases.

Jones' single scored Andrews and Yastrzemski, and Smith made it home for the third run on a wild pitch.

The Indians got back one run in the sixth, when Rich Scheinblum walked, Chuck Hinton singled with two out — the second hit off Boston starter Gary Bell — and Tony Horton followed with a single to right center.

'Strain' Prompts Westrum To Quit As Mets' Skipper

NEW YORK (AP) — Wes Westrum, citing the mental and physical strain of the job, resigned Thursday as manager of the New York Mets.

Names immediately mentioned — not by the Mets — as possible successors were Alvin Dark, who was fired last month by Kansas City; Gil Hodges, who still has a year to go on his contract with Washington; Yogi Berra, former Yankee manager and now a coach with the Mets, and Harry Walker, fired by Pittsburgh in July.

Stengel, midway through the 1965 season, said he would leave New York in a day or two to visit his mother, who has been ill, in Clearbrook, Minn., and then head for his home and family in Phoenix, Ariz.

President Bing Devine named coach Salty Parker to serve as manager until the end of the season.

Westrum first told Devine of his plan to resign Tuesday night and reiterated his intention Wednesday night in a meeting with Devine and M. Donald Grant, chairman of the Mets' board of directors.

"We were deep in the process of making a decision about Wes when he came to us," Grant said at the conference in the manager's room at Shea Stadium.

Improvement Necessary

"Under the conditions," Westrum said, "and knowing baseball and being around the game for 26 years, if you don't improve your standing, certain things have to be done."

The 44-year-old former major league catcher took over on an interim basis after Stengel broke his hip July 25, 1965.

Given the job for 1966, he managed the Mets into ninth place, the first time they had broken out of the National League cellar since they began playing in 1962.

This year, however, the Mets are back in their familiar surroundings. Currently lagging 5½ games behind ninth-place Houston with only 11 games to play.

Oregon State Wins Opener

Oregon State, Iowa's opponent next week, seeks its second straight win Saturday against Arizona State. The Beavers beat Stanford last week, 13-7.

"We made a lot of mistakes," said Coach Dee Andros. "They were the type of errors that we cannot make in the future and win. But when the chips were down, the entire team really had it," he said.

Andros praised linebacker Skip Vanderbunt. Vanderbunt made many tackles, including three key pass interceptions.

Ex-Marine Wiels Hot Putter To Top Thunderbird Meet

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Bill Collins, a strapping ex-Marine whose aches and pains drove him off the tour three years ago, sank king-sized putts on the first three holes and leap-frogged over golf's glamour boys for the first-round lead Thursday in the $150,000 Thunderbird Classic.

The 6-foot-4, 205-pound teaching pro from the Brae Burn Club in Purchase, N.Y., ran down putts of from 14 to 30 feet in a quick explosion of birdies and sank another from 50 feet on the 10th for a 32-35-67 over the 7,005-yard par-72 Upper Montclair course.

Collins Leads By Stroke

This gave Collins a one-stroke edge over Homero Blancas, 29-year-old Mexican-American from Houston and Ryder Cupper Johnny Pett, tied at 68.

Nineteen players broke the 72 par. Tied at 70 were the veteran Art Wall Jr., former Master's champion; Bill Martindale and Terry Wilcox, who teaches golf in Bronxville, N.Y.

In the group with Palmer were such outstanding golfers as Gary Player of South Africa, two-time Open champion Julius Boros and Thompson and a 250-pound club pro from nearby West Orange, N.J., Pat Schwab.

Frank Beard, plus outsiders Charles Coody, David Jimenez, Bert Weaver and Bob Goetz.

The defending champion, Mason Rudolph, struggled over the 18 holes with a sore back and shot a 73.

- Q. Who may buy Freedom Shares?
- A. Any individual who purchases Series E Bonds regularly through a formal plan—either Payroll Savings where he works or Bond-a-Month where he banks.
- Q. What is the interest rate on Freedom Shares?
- A. 4.74% compounded semiannually, when held to maturity of 4½ years. The rate is less if redeemed prior to maturity; and they may not be redeemed for at least one year.
- Q. Does this same rate now apply to E Bonds?
- A. No. E Bonds continue to return an average of 4.15% when held to their seven-year maturity.
- Q. What do Freedom Shares cost?
- A. They are issued in face amounts of $25, $50, $75, and $100. Purchase prices are $20.25, $40.50, $60.75, and $81.00.

- Q. Can Freedom Shares be bought by themselves?
- A. No. They must be bought in conjunction with E Bonds of the same or larger face amounts. For example, a $25 Freedom Share may be bought with a $25 E Bond, when on a regular plan. The total price would be $39. ($20.25 for the Freedom Share and $18.75 for the Bond).
- Q. Can I buy as many Freedom Shares as I want, as long as I buy E Bonds of the same or larger amounts?
- A. No. On Payroll Savings, Freedom Share deductions are limited to $20.25 per weekly pay period, $40.50 per

- Q. bi-weekly or semimonthly pay period, $81.00 per monthly pay period. On Bond-a-Month, the limit on Freedom Share deductions is $81.00 per month. There is also an annual holding limit of $1,350 (face amount) of Freedom Shares issued in any calendar to any one person.
- Q. How will the Freedom Shares be registered?
- A. Registration must be identical with the E Bonds bought in combination.
- Q. Are Freedom Shares subject to taxation?
- A. The same as E Bonds. Interest is subject to Federal income tax, which may be deferred until maturity or redemption (whichever comes first). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes. Current values are subject to estate, inheritance, gift, and other excise taxes, both Federal and state.
- Q. Will Freedom Shares be extended beyond maturity, as E Bonds have been?
- A. No. Under existing law, there is no provision for extension.

Mantle Will Play Ball For Sure Next Season

NEW YORK (AP) — There have been rumors floating around that Mickey Mantle is going to call it quits as a baseball player next month and become a television or radio announcer.

"Not so," says Michael Burke, chairman and president of the New York Yankees.

"It is absolutely certain he will play one more year, it is likely he will play two and it is possible he will play three," Burke declared Thursday.

Mantle will be 36 years old Oct. 20 and he has been a major leaguer since 1951, all the time with the Yankees. Switched from the outfield to first base this season he has found a new lease on life even if his batting average doesn't sparkle quite as much as of old. It is still a respectable .254 with 22 home runs. He has won 15 games for the anemic Yankees with crucial hits, eight being home runs.

"Broadcasting is not in our thinking for Mantle, although we hope he will remain with the Yankee organization as long as he wants," said Burke.

"In fact, I doubt if broadcasting fits in with Mickey's view of the future although that isn't to say he might not do something with it. He has enormous magnetism and charm on television. He's relaxed and easy with natural animal warmth."

Burke, the greying, distinguished looking executive whom the Columbia Broadcasting System put in charge of the Yankees when it acquired the ball club, must be numbered among the most ardent of Mantle's fans.

"He has enormous physical courage and pure guts," said Burke glowingly.

Despite a long series of physical handicaps, Mantle has already carved a place for himself in the baseball records. He is fifth on the all-time home run list with 518, only three behind Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox, whom he certainly would overtake in another season.

8 Sophs Dot OSU Lineup, Yet Woody's Pretty Sure His Bucks Will Be Better

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Woody Hayes, dean of Big 10 coaches, seemed mellowed by the vagaries of football fate as he enters his 17th Ohio State season.

Hayes' last season saw his Buckeyes suffer more than three defeats in the same campaign for only the second time with a 4-5 record, still better than his all-time low of 3-5-1 in 1959.

The Big 10's off-explosive preacher of hard-nosed, winning football, 54-year-old Hayes must fight for the coming season with his two top quarterbacks lame and with no fewer than eight starting sophomores.

Hayes was entirely convivial as he held a group of Big 10 Skywriters:

"I think we'll be a better team than last year — we have more depth and more running ability."

Hayes Jokes
Hayes joked about an axiom credited to the late Bob Zupke that "for every sophomore in your lineup, you lose a game."

"That would leave us in a bad way, wouldn't it? But actually, Zupke told me he never said that. What he said was:

"Always get your geniuses in there, including sophomores." "I don't believe any Big 10 team will start as many sophomores as we will, but they are good. In fact, we have had three good recruiting years in a row and the incoming frosh are probably the best of the three."

You might say Hayes has been hamstrung by his quarterbacking. Veteran Bill Long, one of the top Big 10 passers last season, pulled a muscle badly in his right leg the first workout of the season and has been sidelined for much of the practice season.

Long's scheduled understudy, Gerry Ehrman, still hasn't fully recovered from a similar hamstringing pull in his left leg which benched him most of last season.

Defensive Vets Return
Defensively, seasoned holdovers are Nick Roman, an end rated the second best Buckeye; middle guard Vic Stottlemeyer; linebackers Mark Stier, Dirk Worden and Jim Neiner and secondary backs Sam Elliott and Tom Portsmouth.

"Neither our offensive or defensive team will be very big or obviously, too experienced," summed up Hayes, "but if we get expected improvement from our sophomores, we'd like to think we can step up in the Big 10 race."

"The Bucks, who finished last season with a 3-4 conference record and yielded to champion Michigan State only 11-8, launch their nine-game schedule Sept. 30 here against Arizona.

Milwaukee's Maier Criticizes News Media

DES MOINES (AP) — News reports of racial trouble in America's cities have distorted events and emphasized the sensational, Mayor Henry Maier of Milwaukee charged Thursday.

"The strident voices capture the national headlines," Maier told the League of Iowa Municipalities at its annual conference. "The quiet voices of reason are unheard."

Maier asserted that a change in the attitude of the news media as well as a greater national commitment to urban problems are needed to prevent cities from going "straight down the freeway to hell."

Maier criticized news coverage of civil outbreaks and open housing demonstrations which have plagued Milwaukee.

"It seems to me that, in these turbulent times, the virtue of proportion — if I may call it that — has been violated over and over again," he said. "The clenched fist is the close-up symbol of Milwaukee on national television. The open hand of friendship and good will is never in view."

He continued:

"My contention is that the city cannot be saved unless the press recognizes that the city is also its city, which may well be on the way to perdition."

"The media are concerned with the 'dramatic.' Peace, unfortunately, is not dramatic."

"In a time like this, it is dangerous, in the name of usual news procedure, to over-dramatize events which contribute to the hardening of prejudice or play on violent emotions, to echo every extreme statement whether false or true, to play down positive efforts which are being made to help solve our deepening racial, economic and social problems."

Maier suggested that the news media underwrite a study to determine why there is "persistent and general agreement that at least some of the media are not living up to their obligations in the field of urban affairs."

The president of the Iowa league, Burlington Councilman Milton Schoell, complained that the nation has refused to recognize critical problems which have plagued the cities for many years.

Striking Auto Workers Set For Long, Chilly Autumn

DETROIT (AP) — Like squirrels foreseeing a rough winter, most Ford Motor Co. strikers apparently foresaw their walkout coming and prepared for it.

Chatter along picket lines of the United Auto Workers Union still is merry after two weeks, and reports of forced economic belt-tightening all but nonexistent thus far.

Skimpy larders loom in the future, however, if the strike in support of a new contract lasts the three months which some along the picket lines expect it may.

Ken Bannen, the UAW's Ford department chief, estimates the strike will last at least another six weeks. Sidney F. McKenna, Ford director of labor affairs, says Bannen's prediction is "a discouraging assessment," but declines to make a forecast himself.

Workers say that failure of the company and union to agree on anything in weeks following the opening of negotiations back on July 11 forestalled strike.

1,500 skilled tradesmen have removed their tool boxes from plants thus far, indicating they likely have found employment elsewhere.

Workers "Will Survive"

Pauline Holcomb, a widow who makes $3.02 hourly as a janitorial matron, said she owned her home and that she and her mother-in-law, who lives with her, "will survive," and if it (the strike) will "make it any better for us, I'm for it."

Rufus Ellison, a $150-a-week spray painter at the Rouge, said he supposed he could get car and house payments put off and that his $25 weekly benefit would provide groceries.

"There's no pressure yet," he added. "I figure it'll last about a month, but I hope it won't be that long, though."

William H. Higden, president of UAW Local 882 in Atlanta, Ga., told an Associated Press reporter there "we're not hurting."

His local has set up a welfare committee, he said, and is assisting workers in finding other part-time jobs.

"We're digging in and preparing for a long one," said UAW Atlanta area director, John Young, who added: "We're doing fine. We hope it won't last too long, but we're preparing for a two-to-three-month strike."

Charles Bradley, 22, of Sardinia, Ohio, said "if it lasts another couple of weeks, I'll be going to work with a friend as a carpenter, but as soon as the strike is over I'll be back at Ford. It's a good place to work."

Bradley is married and the father of a child.

Film Series To Star U.S.

Historic shrines and scenic highlights of the United States will figure in six of the 21 programs scheduled for the 1967-68 Iowa Mountaineers Film-Lecture Series. All parts of the world will be represented in the series, with western Canada to be featured in the opening program Oct. 1.

Don Cooper will give the first lecture, taking viewers from the prairies of Alberta through the Canadian Rockies and the forests of British Columbia to the Pacific. He will present the program at 2:30 p.m. Oct. 1 in Macbride Auditorium, where all of the film-lectures will be shown on Sunday afternoons.

Season tickets are available by writing to Film-Lectures, Box 163, Iowa City. Tickets for individual lectures will be available at the door. Season tickets for any seven programs are $5.50, and for any 14 programs, $10. Tickets for children may be purchased for $2.50 for any seven programs.

Fowler Warns Congress To Pass Tax, Or Else . . .

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler said Thursday refusal of Congress to raise taxes would leave the economy in a shambles and subject congressmen to voter backlash next year.

In his strongest appeal to date for approval of President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes, Fowler said a congressman who votes against the plan would be playing "political Russian roulette."

Just before Fowler spoke at a National Press Club luncheon, Republican congressional leaders took a slap at the surcharge but acknowledged it isn't dead.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the House GOP leader, said there appears to be no chance now for House approval of the plan but the atmosphere might change if the administration makes a bona fide effort to cut spending.

"Nothing is dead around here," Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told the same news conference. "Somehow these things have a way of coming to life."

The House Ways and Means Committee held its third closed session of the week on the surcharge without taking any action. It adjourned until next Tuesday.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark.) was reported to have told administration officials at Thursday's session that if the committee sent the bill to the House now, there wouldn't be 100 votes for it out of the membership of 435.

In his talk, Fowler said representative government may face a breakdown unless Congress acts quickly to raise taxes.

Nesmith Won't Run

Councilman James H. Nesmith announced Thursday that he will not be a candidate for re-election in this fall's city election. He will complete a four-year term at the end of this year.

"I wish to devote more time to my family and business in the next few years before I retire," Nesmith said. He is president of Plumbers Supply Co., a wholesale firm.

Nesmith will have served a total of seven years on the council. He was appointed to fill a vacancy, defeated in a bid for election, then elected to his present term in 1963.

Before coming to Iowa City 15 years ago, he had served four years as a state senator from Jasper County. He also had been a councilman for six years and a school board member for three years at Kellogg.

Services Planned For Crash Victim

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Roberts, 72, of 2029 I Street will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at the George L. Gay Funeral Home.
