

Flower Children Wilted By 'Summer Of Love'

SAN FRANCISCO — Ron Thelin says the hippie movement is at death's door. Thelin operates the Psychedelic Shop, the main hippie gathering place in the Haight-Ashbury district.

The flower children have been so inactive lately he's going broke.

Thelin is about $5,000 in debt and plans to close the store today.

He and others are planning a three-day "death of a hippie" observance culminating in a funeral procession with a symbolic casket to be borne through the district Sunday.

The open coffin will contain abandoned trappings of hippie life — shaven beards, wilted flowers, discarded marijuana and sandals.

Thelin believes the hippies have grown tired of conforming to the image created by news media.

"Haight-Ashbury was apportioned to us by the news media and police. The tourists came to the zoo to see the captive animals and we growled fiercely behind the bars we accepted," he said.

Last spring Thelin predicted that 100,000 flower children would flock to San Francisco for a "summer of love."

Large numbers arrived, but few stayed.

San Francisco's chilly, foggy summer weather had something to do with the problem. Camping out in Golden Gate Park adjacent to Haight-Ashbury proved uncomfortable.

The hippie movement also was hard hit by hepatitis and venereal disease.

A free Haight-Ashbury medical clinic closed three weeks ago.

The clinic staff was broke and exhausted, and Dr. Ellis Sox, the city's public health director, declined to take over the operation.

Beards, bare feet and outlandish garb can still be seen in Haight-Ashbury, but Thelin declared "the spirit is gone."

Police said that recently many hippies were seen gathered at certain intersections to hitchhike rides out of town.

Where are the flower children going?

With few exceptions those queried informally by officers have given the same answer: "Home."

Rival Group To Battle HSP

By MIKE FINN

A new campus political organization, meeting privately Thursday night, announced plans to snatch the reins of student government away from the runaway Hawkeye Student Party (HSP).

The group, calling itself the Students for Responsible Action (SRA), proposes a "coalition of faculty and students granted equal representation in a University Community senate chaired by the Administration."

The SRA believes this coalition to be the "logical means to make known desires and recommendations in an open forum." And the group will attempt to place the question on the ballot of the upcoming student body referendum as an "alternative" to the HSP's amendment to the new Student Senate constitution which calls for a University "hands off" policy regarding students' "non-academic" lives.

Student Sen. Carl Varner, temporary chairman of SRA, said that he and other senators who are against the HSP amendment, will introduce a resolution at Monday's special session of the senate asking that their alternative proposal be put on the ballot in the coming referendum.

The HSP amendment would have the effect of reserving to the senate the power to form policies governing the students' personal lives, regardless of what the administration says.

Pelton Unopposed

Student Body Pres. John T. Pelton, contacted by The Daily Iowan after the meeting, said "I don't see why not" the SRA's proposal shouldn't be discussed at Monday's special session of the senate.

Present at Thursday's unannounced meeting, held in the Union Michigan Room, were many independent senators, most of whom abstained on Tuesday's senate vote. Among those who said they would support the proposal were Hillcrest's Gary Sissel, Quadrangle's Roy Cacciatore, Carrie Stanley's Pat Caldwell, and senators-at-large Robert Horna and Randy Swisher. Also present were Sens. Janet Carl and Diane Dennis.

"The party was not formed merely to propose an alternative to HSP proposal," Varner said. "We are trying to fill the vacuum in the student body. We will embark on a membership drive which will encompass virtually every area of the campus. We will be a coalition of interests in the concept of a real political party — not a tightly-knit pressure group which is more interested in ideological purity than concrete accomplishment."

Swisher Plays Both Sides

Swisher, who voted in favor of the HSP amendment Tuesday, said that he will work for the SRA proposal. He said that if the proposal is turned down by the senate, he would actively oppose the amendment.

Myron Yorra, G. Boston, who gave the keynote speech at the organizational meeting, said, "There is a very serious problem confronting all of us in the next few weeks. And the problem is this — we have in our grasp the means to solve the matter of student independence. In a few days there will come before the student body a referendum. This must be defeated."

Thursday night's meeting culminated several meetings which dealt with the question of organizing another political party on campus. The general concept of another political party had been decided by SRA organizers before the HSP proposal.

SRA will hold a campaign organization meeting today at 2:30 p.m. in the Union Activities Center. Varner said the meeting is open to the public.

Defense Spending Frozen As Budget Battle Goes On

WASHINGTON — The Johnson administration ordered a freeze on $350 million worth of federal spending Thursday and the House Appropriations Committee reported a modest start in its effort to recapture some of the money Congress has poured out.

In addition to halting $350 million in military construction contracts, the Pentagon also suspended all new civil works construction awards. There was no estimate of the amount of these awards, described by some critics as "pork barrel" projects.

President Johnson argued meantime that it is neither necessary nor wise for Congress to postpone action on his request for an income tax surcharge until federal spending levels are decided upon.

With many members of the House demanding a spending reduction of at least $5 billion, there has been a debate whether the reductions should be pinpointed by Congress or whether the final decisions should be left to the president.

Johnson, at a news conference called solely to discuss the taxes-spending issue, said the entire nation would pay a burdensome inflation tax "if it fails to face up to its responsibilities" in handling tax and appropriation legislation.

Johnson spoke shortly after Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara issued a stop order on $350 million in military construction contracts "because of the uncertain state of federal finances."

One Pentagon official said the action — involving such projects as barracks, family housing, training facilities and other structures — probably will have impact in all 50 states.

The secretary's order, effective next Monday, said: "No new invitations for bids shall be issued except for those projects clearly associated with new weapons systems or in direct support of Southeast Asia."

The action came two days after the House Ways and Means Committee shelved further consideration of Johnson's request for a 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes — at least until Congress and the President reach an understanding on how to reduce federal spending.

Efforts Speeded

At the same time, the House Appropriations Committee stepped up an effort to cut down on new appropriations and to recapture some of the money already voted by Congress this year.

A subcommittee in charge of finances for the Interior Department has voted to cancel out around $100 million of the $1.38 billion Congress allowed the department earlier this year.

Another subcommittee hoping to pull back some of the $7.54 billion given the Treasury and Post Office departments tentatively has agreed on some restrictions. But Chairman Tom Steed (D-Okla.) said the cutbacks won't be sensational.

The only places where meaningful cuts can be made in Post Office Department allotments are in service and operations areas, since the major amounts go for wages and salaries fixed by law. Steed's group is considering suggestions that it rescind funds needed for Saturday mail delivery and reduce business mail deliveries to one a day.

Budget Reviewed

A third subcommittee is weighing how it can make cuts in the $276 million recently voted to operate the legislative department and related agencies. It doesn't have much elbow room in which to operate either, since most of the money is for salaries and general expenses. There have been no suggestions that congressional staff payrolls be pared or congressional traveling be curbed.

That leaves only one more area in which sizable reductions might be considered — the $89.6 billion already appropriated for the Defense Department.

With the cost of the war in Vietnam rising and another emergency defense bill in the offing, it isn't likely that major slashes will be proposed in military programs although some Defense Department non-war activities may be cut back.

There is little possibility that the committee will be able between now and Oct. 23 to bring to the House a rescission bill that would result in deep cuts in federal spending. That is the day on which a temporary law financing many federal agencies expires.

There is growing support in the House for a Republican-backed drive to tie to the next temporary bill a directive to President Johnson to do his own cutting, to the tune of at least $5 billion.

DEATH OF A HIPPIE — Ron Thelin, owner of the Psychedelic Shop in San Francisco, says the hippie movement is declining and nearly dead. He says that inactivity in the Haight-Ashbury district is so pronounced that he's in the hole for $6,000. He plans to close his shop today and stage a three-day "Death of a Hippie" observance.

Bowen, HSP Leaders To Discuss Amendment

By BETSY BECKER

A meeting between Pres. Howard R. Bowen and supporters of the Student Senate's proposed constitutional amendment on student government autonomy has been arranged for Saturday morning.

The amendment was passed at Tuesday's senate meeting. It calls for the senate to have the power to determine policy in matters concerning students' non-academic personal lives.

Before the amendment is ratified, it must be passed by the senate at its next regular meeting which will be held after a student referendum on the amendment. According to Student Body Pres. John T. Pelton the referendum to determine student opinion will probably be held late this month.

"The meeting (with the president) has been arranged because we want to keep all lines of communication open," Sen. Philip G. Hubbard Jr. of Hawkeye Student Party (HSP) said Thursday.

Bowen commented Tuesday that he always saw as soon as possible any student or faculty member who asked to see him. "A student asked to see me and I agreed," he said.

Communication Cited

Lee Weingrad, chairman of HSP, said: "The idea of the meeting was to make clear that HSP believes that autonomy does not necessarily entail cutting lines of communication with the administration."

Wednesday M. L. Huit, dean of students, said he thought a senate which simply declared it was going to be independent of a university alienated itself from lines of communication.

Pritchett Says Judges' Opinions Subject To Study

By BETTY BOWLSBY

Political scientists were warned Thursday night not to ascribe too many political or economic motives to Supreme Court justices by a University of California professor who delivered the first speech in the Shambaugh Conference on Judicial Research.

C. Herman Pritchett told about 200 people at the Union Ballroom that Supreme Court decisions may be adversely affected by the fact that the nine justices realize they have an important effect on the American political system.

Pritchett's talk, entitled "Law, Politics and Judicial Behavior," marked the 20th anniversary of the publication of his book "The Roosevelt Court" which stressed the personal values of Supreme Court justices. The book advocated scientific measurement of values in judicial research and had considerable effect in the legal profession.

Pritchett quoted from several legal research publications extensively in discussing the reorganization of the Supreme Court during the 1930's.

He noted that during Roosevelt's administration the court assumed a significant role in shaping public policy and that this trend is bound to continue.

Political scientists, meanwhile, have been doing extensive research into the values which may influence the judges' opinions. These include the judges' politics, economic philosophy, religion and occupations.

U.S. Warplanes Strike Haiphong For 2nd Day

SAIGON — U.S. warplanes struck hard at targets in Haiphong for the second day in a row Thursday in an intensified campaign to isolate the port city, the American Command reported Friday.

And for the third day in a row, jets streaked to within a minute's flying time of the Chinese border to hammer a railroad bridge only 10 miles away.

North Vietnam claimed six U.S. planes were shot down during the heavy raids Thursday and several American pilots were captured.

U.S. headquarters made no mention of any planes lost, under its policy of withholding announcement of American losses over the North when it believes the information may aid the enemy or jeopardize attempts to rescue pilots.

Active Pace Reflected

The intensified air strikes and a rising number of allied ground sweeps in South Vietnam reflected the active pace of a war in which American casualties have now exceeded 100,000.

2 Candidates Join City Council Race

Iowa City has gone from famine to feast in City Council candidates and will now hold a primary election Oct. 24.

John B. Harper, 26, of 1025 Woodlawn Ave., and Howard J. Gilroy, 50, of 1017½ Diana St., took out nomination paper Thursday. They are the sixth and seventh candidates for the three council positions to be filled in the Nov. 7 election.

Iowa City law requires a primary election to be held if the number of candidates more than doubles the number of available positions. Eight days ago no citizens had declared candidacy.

Councilmen Richard Burger and James Nesmith and Mayor William C. Hubbard, whose terms expire this year, have said they would not seek re-election.

Other declared candidates are Donald A. Graham, Mrs. Alan E. Ganka, Leroy C. Buthers, Clifford J. Stubbs and Brooks W. Booker.

Harper is an administrative assistant in the University Department of English.

Gilroy was an unsuccessful council candidate in 1961. He was defeated in the 1961 primary election. A soft drink salesman, he has been a resident of Iowa City since 1963.

The three council positions are for four-year terms.

at times been aimed at targets previously exempt from attack.

In Thursday's raids, U.S. Navy pilots from the carriers Constellation and Intrepid hit two targets in Haiphong, both of which had been attacked in prior raids.

Navy A6 Intruder pilots from the Constellation raked the Haiphong petroleum products storage area two miles northwest of the center of the city. A4 Skyhawk pilots from the Intrepid pounded the Haiphong highway bridge eight-tenths of a mile from the heart of the city.

Pilots reported one secondary explosion in the raid on the storage area and said that further assessment was hampered by smoke and dust. Pilots hitting the highway bridge reported knocking out the center span and the Navy said post strike photos confirmed the damage.

53 Operations Mounted

Allied commanders mounted 53 major operations — considerably above the average — in the never-ending hunt for Communist hideouts across South Vietnam. The action was officially described as "light and scattered."

Combat casualties on both sides were higher last week than in the previous reporting period, Sept. 17-23.

In addition, 2,705 Americans have died in Vietnam of illness, accidents and other causes officially classified as nonhostile. There were 23 such cases last week.

In Washington, the Pentagon listed 141 killed in action for the week. Its official figures often differ slightly from those reported in Saigon because it delays listing a death until paperwork is completed. Excluding those missing, the Pentagon thus reported a total of 100,269 killed and wounded through last Saturday.

Call For Asian's Help In Vietnam Runs Afoul

WASHINGTON — A bipartisan resolution calling for greater efforts by President Johnson to obtain more help from Asian nations for the Vietnamese war ran into bipartisan opposition Thursday.

"I think it's full of mischief," Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said of the proposition sponsored by his Illinois GOP colleague, Charles H. Percy.

Sen. Gale McGee (D-Wyo.) suggested the resolution could hamper efforts to bring about a greater contribution from the Asian countries.

A KISS FOR THE WINNER — Boston Red Sox pitcher Jim Lonborg receives a kiss on the cheek from Margot Klopp of Berkeley, Calif., as he leaves Boston's Fenway Park Thursday after defeating the St. Louis Cardinals 5 to 0 in the second game of the World Series. Advisers should advise—only

There is an element of University control over students in the area of academics that should be ended. It involves the childish practice of requiring an academic adviser's signature on registration cards or changes in registration.

The role of the academic adviser should be just as the words imply. He should advise. He should not rule. The final decision on what courses a student takes should be the student's.

It can be argued, of course, that the requirement is in the student's interest. This is so, because it supposedly forces the student to visit with his adviser before registering or changing registration. The student supposedly is given the correct advice about graduation requirements so that he can receive his degree in the shortest time possible.

But things don't always work that way. Some of the academic advisers don't know a great deal about detailed graduation requirements. Others don't really care and simply sign anything put in front of them.

Or the students forge the necessary signatures on the forms. One student this week became fed up with the red tape involved in changing his registration for a course from credit to audit only. He had the signature of the instructor of the course, which should be the only one he would need. But when he tried to hand the change in registration form in at the Office of the Registrar, the clerk refused to accept it because the adviser had not also signed it.

The student tried to reason with the clerk, but the clerk stuck to obeying her orders. Finally the student signed the form himself right in front of the clerk. The clerk accepted it.

The rather useless regulation should be changed. The student has no one to blame other than himself if he must stay at the University an extra semester to get his degree. But the advisers should still be available to the student — for advice.

Elimination of tuition needed

The first University bills are out and most students probably are noticing the effects of an action by the Board of Regents this summer: Tuitions have been raised.

The increases amount to $30 a year for residents of Iowa and $70 a year for non-residents. This makes the tuition and fees for a resident student in the College of Liberal Arts $185 a semester. For a non-resident the tuition and fees amount to $500.

The regents were forced to approve the increases because the legislature didn't appropriate the amount of money the Regents requested.

It is about time the trend toward higher tuitions was halted or even turned around. As tuitions are increased, the students from poorer or larger families are discriminated against more and more.

It can be argued that scholarships or loans are available for those who can't afford to pay. Or, the argument goes, if not enough scholarships and loans are available, the state should supply them.

But it seems that a simpler and more direct solution to the same problem would be to put the state money directly into the University.

In California no tuition is charged at the public universities for state residents, but expensive fees are charged for various reasons. The effect is to simply charge a tuition but to call it by a different name.

The solution lies in a complete elimination of tuition charges. Fees should be charged for non-academic reasons only. The University administration should begin to work in this direction.

Bravo, student senators! Your resolution calling for an immediate end to University interference in students' lives heralds a new era on the University campus. It stands as a beacon glimmering through a foreboding darkness.

How much is that froggy in the window?

HONOLULU (AP) — Circuit Court Judge Allen R. Hawkins had to decide the value of 200,000 baby bullfrogs in his court.

And also 300 mother and father frogs and some carp and some water lilies and some water chestnuts.

He met the challenge, and declared the colony of croakers, and others, worth $3,746.55.

The whole thing started on June 20, 1963, when the state sprayed weed killer around a pond in Waimanalo. It just happened that particular pond belonged to Kwai Ing Hong who used the pond for breeding frogs.

The weed killer killed the weeds and it killed almost every living thing in the pond. So Hong filed a $100,000 damage suit against the state, claiming the frogs and the tadpoles in the pond would eventually have been worth that much money.

Judge Hawkins rules the state was negligent all right, but only in the amount of $3,746.55.

Carve your name here

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Students with knives, nail files and assorted cutting instruments appear daily at the Ranger Coffee House of the campus of Southern Illinois University here.

The school has purchased a table on which students are given an opportunity to carve their initials as a personal legacy.

A maple table top is provided for the carvings. A school official said the top would be replaced annually to give the 9,000 students a chance each year to carve their initials.

minutes each, playing at the Iowa Theater. Each is a masterpiece, and neither should be missed.

One is Louis de Rochemont's classic film of George Orwell's ingenious and frightening fable, "Animal Farm." Showing the full potential of cartoon animation as it has rarely, if ever been seen since, Rochemont's film is the perfect realization of Orwell's story of society's tragic and never-ending struggle. It is about capitalism and communism, but really more than these transitory terms for organization. It is about racism and tyranny, and the almost but not quite futile effort it requires, and always will require, to overthrow masters of a any kind.

The other film is much more recent. Made for the BBC by Peter Watkins is a documentary about conceivable nuclear attack, the government which commissioned it was so horrified with Watkins' product, that they refused to show it.

It is the most terrifying movie ever made.

When works of art are as complete and articulate as these are, the idea of the critics attempting to add to them is superfluous, if not ridiculous.

Reader says status of deputization needed

To the Editor:

I was very interested to hear that the chief of the University Security Department, John Hanna, desires to have some of his men armed and deputized. Heaven knows that the status accrued by the proposed deputization is much needed. I certainly do agree that the police on campus should be armed, and well armed at that. After all, in lieu of last year's panty raid in which one officer was injured, I think that it is only fair that the police and would-be panty protectors be equipped to deal justly with errant and riot-provoking students. Perhaps if several of these trouble makers, who may even be Communist dupes, were shot, it might prove an effective deterrent to future trouble makers.

Hats off to Hanna!

HSP makes statement on autonomy resolution

Currently there is some confusion regarding the meaning of the autonomy resolution, tentatively amended to the Student Senate constitution. Hawkeye Student Party (HSP) would therefore like to clarify the purposes for which the document was written and the meaning of the future it proposes for students at the University of Iowa.

In the first place many individuals have made statements, most of them ill-advised, concerning the basis of "Independence."

Of all the statements perhaps the most irresponsible was uttered by Dean Host Wednesday when he said the student government was cutting its neck. For, had he read the document tentatively approved by the senate Tuesday, he would have realized that we have not declared independence from the University; rather, we have simply restated the principle first uttered by Thomas Jefferson: that the just powers of the government are derived from the consent of the governed. More specifically this means that if there is to be true student government at all at the University, it must not be the meaningless variety that has for so long been dominated by individuals who are only interested in maintaining the status quo. It must be free to have the power and responsibility to make meaningful policy (in their non-academic lives) reflecting what decisions students have delegated to it and protecting and enumerating their rights as individuals. This means that the Senate shall have the power delegated to it by its constituency — the student body — without the threat or practice of administrative veto.

But if this means that we will have meaningful student government or no student government at all, it does not mean that the Senate wants to take the place of the administration: HSP envisages a student government that will guarantee the same rights and privileges ordinary people enjoy. This means that what a student does in his non-academic, private life, is a matter to be settled between he and his conscience. As long as it does not interfere with another's rights, it is not the place of student government to regulate his actions. And under no circumstances is it the business of the administration to restrict his actions. Two questions come to mind: 1. what does this mean specifically; and 2. how do we plan to implement it.

It means specifically that women who don't want them will no longer have hours; that approved housing will no longer serve to restrict a student's right to live where he pleases; it means freedom — to live as ordinary people; but it also means that the student government shall provide for the general welfare. It will do this by implementing the power granted to it by the electorate. Practically this power will work as follows: Say that the autonomy is approved and the Senate then passes a resolution to the effect that women's hours are in effect for only those who desire them. To some people, no doubt, it would appear that the old administration rule restricting women's hours is still in effect. But to the 1500 or so women who stayed out until a time that was agreeable to them, the new Senate resolution would be in effect. Such practice could be successfully employed for every new "regulation" (more accurately, repeal of regulation). Acting collectively, we can have the power not available to individuals submerged and psychologically homeless at the University.

Acting collectively we are strong, and can have the dignity that is fitting and proper for human beings.

I'm not a candidate... although I do lead in Iowa

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — It's probably too early to announce it, but I have decided not to run for President of the United States on the Republican ticket. In so doing I join a long list of distinguished men who are also not running for President, including Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Gov. Ronald Reagan, Sen. Charles Percy, former Vice President Richard Nixon and Gen. James Gavin, who have all publicly stated they are not interested in the office. (Romney still hasn't made up his mind.)

Like all these men I am terribly embarrassed by my many well-meaning friends and supporters who have opened up campaign headquarters in cities throughout the country, and I would like to disassociate myself from their enthusiasm and ardor.

I've done everything possible to persuade them that I wish to remain in my present position where I can do the most good for the people.

But these supporters refuse to take no for an answer, and all I can do is keep denying I am a candidate for the Presidency right up until the Republican convention where I would probably not even accept a draft.

It's true that I've been leading President Johnson in the Iowa polls, but everybody is leading President Johnson in Iowa, so I must in all modesty say that although I'm pleased, I'm not surprised.

There are those who say that I have accepted speaking engagements in all parts of the country as a method of lining up delegates. This, of course, is a dastardly accusation. The only reason I have been making these trips is to meet the American people so they can see what sort of man they could have had for President, if I were running for the office, which I am, of course, not doing.

But at the same time like all other men who are not running for the Presidency, I am disturbed about the war in Vietnam, rampant crime in the streets, wasteful government spending, the credibility gap and our hippie youth who have forsaken the true values of the American way of life.

There are great urban problems to be solved, but let's not forget the farmer or the old people on Social Security or our gallant forest fire fighters.

The question that the American people will have to ask in 1968, and I can't answer it because I'm not a candidate is, are we moving with the times, or are we being pushed aside by events that will eventually smother us and make us a second-rate power, in a world where the only thing the Communists understand is strength?

I have been asked by those who put their country above everything else if I would reconsider my irrevocable decision not to run for the presidential nomination, and I have told them that it would be unfair for me to even consider it when Rocky, Dick, Ronnie, Charles and Jim have all announced that they were not candidates for the same office.

So if you get invited to a fund-raising dinner or a political rally by the "Citizens for Buchwald" committee, I want you to know I had nothing to do with it, and I repudiate their efforts and would nip the groundswell in the bud if I only knew how.

Jail's 'Forgotten Man' Held 10 Extra Months

LOS ANGELES (AP) — While prisoners are often called forgotten men, it was even worse for Sherman Puc Dockery. For nearly 10 months, Dockery, 27, was an administrative outcast in the county jail. He finally asked a guard why he was still there and suddenly a lot of people became interested.

He turned out Dockery was supposed to have been turned over to Santa Monica Superior Court for a hearing on an arson charge last January.

Santa Monica Superior Court Judge David Williams on Wednesday asked jail chief Robert Weddle for an explanation of the delay.

Weddle was home ill, his office said Thursday, but Sheriff's Capt. Max Krakow, head of the jail's Inmate Reception Center, said the extended detention was not his department's fault.

The judge's letter noted that he committed Dockery to Camarillo State Hospital on Sept. 22, 1966, and that Dockery was discharged Dec. 29.

On that date, Dockery was to have been returned from the hospital to jail and then turned over to Williams' court for further action.

"In some manner," the letter reads, "the defendant was left forgotten in jail from December until approximately the end of

Feel Insecure? Alienated? Try T-Groups

By SALLY HOLM
Gather a small group of individuals together in an isolated room and throw in one trainer to act as an observer. Add the elements of human emotion, curiosity and perception.

"The individuals assembled are a 'T-group,' and their experience is 'sensitivity training.' Miles W. Martin of the Michigan State University department of communication, who visited the School of Journalism this week, described sensitivity training as an experience in self-awareness.

"It provides one with a normless environment in which he can learn from others in the group how he is being perceived and interpreted," Martin said. "The environment permits honest feedback and interpersonal communication within the group without fear of retaliation."

He said that the intended result was more effective communication with other members of society on the part of the sensitivity participant.

Martin's experience with T-groups began with studies in interpersonal communication and sensitivity training which led to his doctorate in behavioral science from Case Institute of Technology. In the past four years he has been both a participant and a trainer in numerous T-group situations.

Martin said sensitivity training is becoming popular as a reaction to the hurried pace of modern living.

"This pace allows less time for meaningful relations with others which people need and desire," he said. "This lack of contact has created a need for more effective communication when it does occur."

Harper Sees Need For Voice Of Students On City Council

By ROY PETTY
A University staff member entered the City Council race Thursday, stating that he intended to "get some means of adequate representation for students," including non-voting students.

John B. Harper, 26, of 1025 Woodlawn Ave., an administrative assistant in the Department of English, said he took out nomination papers for the council after "a number of students and faculty members" persuaded him that students needed a city representative who was aware of their needs and sympathetic to their problems.

Student voting barriers and the effects of urban renewal are two of Harper's specific interests.

"The City Council has not adequately considered student housing needs with respect to urban renewal," he said.

Regulations Hit
He also said, "The city has unrealistic regulations which prevent students from voting."

He called for "thorough and fast work to get students aware of registration rights and to get as many of them registered as we can."

Harper, an Iowa City resident since 1964, received an M.A. degree in business administration from the University in June, 1966.

He attended Stanford University in Palo Alto, Calif., and was active in student politics there. While a student at the University, he was an assistant to the executive secretary of the Iowa Bar Association in 1963.

Harper said that he was not a spokesman for any organized student or faculty group, but said that he was "acting as an individual."

He said that some members of the Hawkeye Student Party (HSP) were "backing him as individuals," but he did not intend his candidacy to be a "student takeover."

Harper said he would solicit support from an unofficial representative group of students to aid him in putting student issues before the council. He also said he would look for cooperation from existing University bodies.

Harper said there was a need for some kind of student representation.

"Students are Iowa City's principle reason for existence and have a vital interest in such matters as housing, urban renewal, recreational facilities, parking and others," he said.

Call For Halt In Bombing

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Nationalist China and Thailand Thursday deplored the rising clamor for a halt in the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

They told the U.N. General Assembly it only encouraged the Communists to keep the Vietnamese war going.

But Yugoslavia and Mongolia immediately joined 23 other countries in the anti-bombing campaign.

Now 25 countries are demanding an end to the bombing and 59 have spoken in the 122-nation assembly's general debate. In the anti-bombing campaign are eight Communist countries, seven countries in Africa and Asia, three in Latin America, two Nordic neutrals and five U.S. allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization — Belgium, Canada, France, Denmark and Norway.

Reward, 'No Questions,' Offered For Coins Return

MIAMI (AP) — A substantial reward — "No questions asked" — was offered Thursday to ransom two coin collections valued at $1.5 million taken by five hooded gunmen who invaded the mansion of Willis Harrington du Pont.

The bandits broke into du Pont's 33-room home and tied the young millionaire, his family and servants before hauling away their loot.

Late in the day attorney Harold Gray, representing du Pont, said the family would meet the ransom demand of the bandits.

"All information will be kept confidential," the statement said. Private investigator William Stanton was named as go-between for anyone with information about the loot.

"I'll never keep anything of value in my home again," du Pont said as police and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents combed the city for the bandits.

Du Pont said he and his Spanish wife, Miren, had just returned to their five-acre estate from a party and had been in bed only 30 minutes when there was a loud bang on their bedroom door.

"Then five men broke down the door," he said. "Four of them had black hoods with the eyes cut out and one wore a red checkered mask. All had guns."

Du Pont, 31, said the men told him nobody would be hurt if he cooperated. He said they asked him and his wife how many other people were in the house and then went to round up their 4-year-old son, Victor; the butler, Hans Hein, 55, and Hein's wife, Rosa, 50. The five of them were tied hand and foot with du Pont's neckties and venetian blind cord. They were forced to remain in the master bedroom while the thugs looted the house for two hours.

Son Didn't Waken
The du Ponts' younger son, 1-year-old Lammet, was allowed to remain in his crib. Police said he did not awaken.

"They tied us up and threatened us as I guess all robbers do," du Pont said. "But they didn't treat us roughly."

The du Ponts lay on their bed

Senate Approves Antipoverty Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted a two-year extension to the antipoverty program Thursday after refusing to trim it back to the $198-million summer figure asked by President Johnson.

As the measure went to an uncertain outlook in the House, it would authorize appropriations up to $2.25 billion for the Office of Economic Opportunity in the current fiscal year, and $2.4 billion in the year starting next July 1.

The Senate voted 50 to 36 against a Republican move to cut the current year's authorization to the $2.06 billion proposed by Johnson, and then passed the bill 60 to 21.

Much of the extra $198 million was added by the Senate Labor Committee for new or expanded programs sponsored by Sens. Robert F. Kennedy (D-N.Y.) and Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.)

The gang leader, he said, asked for the name of his attorney and said he would contact him later to see if du Pont wished to ransom the coin collections for $200,000.

Iowa Coach To Attend Sports Clinic

Donald Klotz, associate professor of physical education for men and tennis coach at the University, has been asked to attend the Lifetime Sports Education Project Clinic Oct. 12-14 at North Des Moines High School, Des Moines.

Klotz was one of 140 educators and recreation specialists chosen to attend the tri-state clinic in bowling, archery and badminton. Participants will come from Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota. The teachers, most of them physical education specialists, will take part in sports instruction which will qualify them to conduct similar clinics in their home areas.

The Lifetime Sports Education Project is a nation-wide effort to improve and expand the teaching of individual sports skills in the schools.

Casper, 2 Others Lead Alcan Golf

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland — Billy Casper, Doug Sanders and Gardner Dickinson shared the first round lead in the rich Alcan Golfer of the Year tournament Thursday with 22-year-old Brian Barnes of England. All registered four-under-par 68s.

The tournament, being played for the first time, carries a first prize of $55,000 — the largest in pro golf. Eleven United States pros, seven Britons and Bob Charles of New Zealand qualified to compete.

Bobby Nichols and Gay Brewer of the U.S. contingent and Peter Allis of Britain all were deadlocked at 69.

The sun shone and there was a little wind. The visitors — only Sanders among them had played the Old Course previously — agreed that the weather was perfect for golf.

Meanwhile, an International 72-hole tournament for $70,000 in prizes was being played at the same time as the $125,000 Alcan.

At the end of the first round in the International, Peter Thomson, five-time winner of the British Open championship from Australia, led with 69. Dai Rees, British Ryder Cup captain; David Snell, England, and Brian Waites, England, were on the 70 mark.

Then came Al Balding, Canada; Graham Henning, South Africa; Peter Green, Britain; John Panton, Scotland; Brian Allen, England; and Denis Hutchinson, South Africa, with 71s.

Iowa worked out for an hour and a half Thursday in sweat suits and Coach Ray Nagel said everyone was healthy and should be ready for Saturday's football game at Notre Dame.

The Hawkeyes stressed the running game in the short workout.

WHEELING AND DEALING, is Boston Red Sox pitcher Jim Lonborg in Thursday's second game of the World Series at Fenway Park in Boston. The lanky righthander was robbed of a no-hitter when Julian Javier doubled to left field in the eighth in-

Lonborg Stifles Cards, 5-0

BOSTON — Jim Lonborg flirted with a perfect game and wound up with a one-hitter and Carl Yastrzemski slammed two electrifying homers Thursday to even the World Series with a 5-0 Boston victory over St. Louis in the rain-spattered second game.

A tense crowd of 35,188 thrilled to Lonborg's brilliant pitching that awoke memories of Don Larsen's perfect game for the New York Yankees in the 1956 series.

Not a man reached base and 19 Cardinals had been retired in order until Curt Flood finally walked on a 3-2 pitch with one out in the seventh.

The no-hitter still was alive into the eighth when a light shower and sudden dark clouds forced the lights to be turned on. By this time, the game had been locked up by Yastrzemski's second homer, a three-run 430-foot blast into the bleachers for a 5-0 lead.

Lonborg, ever aware of the no-hit possibilities, was working with a blister on his right thumb, bothering his breaking ball and curve.

McCarver Grounds Out
A rousing cheer arose when Tim McCarver grounded out to second base. The noise mounted when Rieo Petrocelli, a star a-field all day, tossed out Mike Shannon.

The air went out of the no-hit boom when Julian Javier slashed a double into the left field corner. But Lonborg never missed a stride. He sent down pinch hitter Bob Tolan to complete the eighth and knocked off the Redbirds, one-two-three in the ninth.

Cardinal Players Just Weren't Connecting

BOSTON — Most of the St. Louis Cardinals players felt that Boston's Jim Lonborg was throwing the pitches to the right spot but their bats just weren't connecting.

"He was throwing them right in there," Manager Red Schoendienst said after Lonborg and the Red Sox beat St. Louis 5-0 in Thursday's second game of the World Series.

There was more talk in the Cardinal dressing room about Carl Yastrzemski, the American League's leading hitter who went without a hit Wednesday but cracked two homers Thursday.

"I got the pitch almost where I wanted it," Hughes said in discussing the first Yastrzemski homer, a blast into the right-field corner. "It was a fast ball."

"His (Yastrzemski's) body moves toward their dugout on the first base side," Hughes said. "His style is similar to St. Louis catcher Tim McCarver's."

Joe Hoerner, normally the Cardinals' most effective left-handed reliever, gave up the second Yastrzemski homer, a three-run blast, just after he replaced Ron Willis on the mound.

"I threw a fast ball up high," Hoerner said. "I got two strikes on him high and inside, but I didn't quite get the one he hit where I wanted . . . And boy, did he hit it."

Mike Shannon, the St. Louis third baseman, said, "Lonborg pitched a heckuva game out there."

But Curt Flood, the St. Louis centerfielder who walked in the seventh to eliminate the possibility of a perfect game by Lonborg, said it was hard to follow the ball at the plate.

Flood said the pitch he took for the fourth ball in the seventh inning "was off the plate just by inches."

"All those people out in the center field bleachers make it hard to follow the pitch," Flood said. He said he felt Lonborg would be easier to hit in a larger park with a solid background in center field.

Schoendienst said Lonborg threw about what his team expected, a lot of sliders and sinkers. "That control of his was the big thing," he added.

First word from the Boston clubhouse was that Lonborg had a little blister on his right thumb that developed in the seventh inning. Dick Williams, the manager, said the blister bothered the pitcher's breaking ball and curve but never reached the point where he was thinking of taking him out.

"Pressure?" said Williams in answer to a question. "No, this was fun. You should have been here the last half of the season to see what pressure is."

Williams said he would pitch Gary Bell Saturday in St. Louis against the Cards' Nelson Briles.

Sleeping Giant Yastrzemski Wakes Up With Loud Roar—3 Hits, 2 Homers, 4 R.B.I.

BOSTON (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski awoke from a 45-minute clubhouse nap Thursday and turned the second game of the World Series into a nightmare for the St. Louis Cardinals.

The brilliant Boston slugger, held hitless in four at-bats by Bob Gibson in the first game Wednesday, exploded with all the fire that made him the American League's triple-crown winner.

He hit two home runs, added a single and drove in four runs in Boston's 5-0 victory that evened the series at one game each.

And he did it after substituting a nap on the trainer's table for batting practice.

Yastrzemski Bats

"I took batting practice for about 20 minutes after yesterday's game, and I felt real sharp afterward," Yastrzemski said, straddling two wooden folding chairs in the mobbed Red Sox clubhouse.

"I didn't take any batting practice before Thursday's game because there wasn't any need for it. I felt good, real sharp. When I take batting practice after one game, I don't like to take it before the next. It takes a lot out of me.

"So instead, I took a nap on the trainer's table. I do that sometimes. I slept for about 45 minutes, and the trainer woke me up at about a quarter to 12. I felt great when I woke up."

Then Yaz, Boston's left fielder, went out and took infield practice.

Infield practice?

He Loosens Up

"When I don't take batting practice," he explained, "I go out to third base and take infield practice. I do it just to loosen up, look at the ball and get the feel of it."

That warm-up out of the way, Yaz went out and got his first hits of the series — a 380-foot bases-empty homer off Dick Hughes for Boston's first run in the fourth inning, a 430-foot-blast with two aboard off Joe Hoerner in the seventh and a single in the eighth.

"I was going for home runs all day," the 28-year-old left-handed slugger said, sweat dripping onto listeners' notebooks.

Strategy Changed

"Against Gibson, I didn't go for the homer because I didn't feel real sharp. I just wanted to lay the bat on the ball.

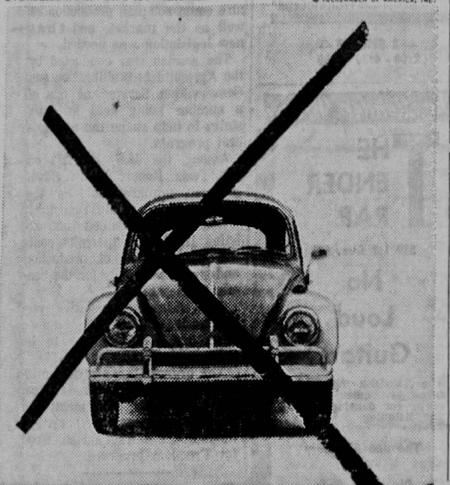

"But when you feel good, you naturally go for home runs, and I felt exceptionally good.

"I didn't feel good in the first game. The two days off hurt me. I don't like to take days off."

Someone reminded Yastrzemski about something he said Wednesday after his 20-minute post-game session in the batting cage.

"Yes, I said I'd get three hits and two homers, but I was only kidding," Yaz protested. "I only said I'd probably do it because I felt so good. I wasn't predicting anything. It was all in jest."

For the 19th consecutive year, we've replaced the bug. With another bug.

To those of you who were expecting something fancier, sorry. (The '68 looks just like the '67 crossed out above.)

To those of you who now own a Volkswagen, congratulations. (Once again your model has not gone out of style.)

To those of you who've been thinking about buying a new one, nice thinking.

The front seats are more comfortable. (They have built-in headrests.)

The windshield wipers are much more efficient. (They're larger.)

Even the shifting is easier. (We put a decal on the window to show you how.)

All in all, we feel that the 36 nice little changes on this year's Volkswagen make it the best ever.

Of course, every year we build the "perfect" Volkswagen.

Boston Hurler's 1-Hit Gem Wasn't Entirely Satisfying

BOSTON (AP) — Jim Lonborg, Boston's top candidate for the Cy Young Award, was overjoyed and disappointed at the same time Thursday after a one-hit masterpiece in a 5-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in the second game of the World Series.

"I'm always happy when I pitch well and we win, but I'm disappointed that I didn't get the no-hitter. It's the one goal that has eluded me during this fabulous season," he said. "I pitched in the All-Star game, I won 20 games, actually 22, and I pitched in the World Series. I'll get that no-hitter someday."

Lonborg hurled perfect ball for 6 1/2 innings, retiring 19 batters in order before Curt Flood walked on a 3-2 count with one out in the seventh.

Then Julian Javier, a .281 hitter during the regular season, broke up Lonborg's bid by hitting a sinking liner into the left field corner for a double with two out in the eighth.

"I didn't care about the walk," Lonborg said, "I'm not after any perfect game — yet. The no-hitter is what I wanted."

"Javier hit a hanging slider. As soon as I threw it, I wanted it back. It was the only bad pitch I made all day."

Lonborg, a well-spoken gentleman with a degree from Stanford University, went directly to slugger Carl Yastrzemski as he entered the crowded clubhouse after squaring the World Series at a game apiece.

"This guy is just fabulous," Lonborg said in praising Yastrzemski, who drove in four runs with a pair of homers.

"He's the greatest hitter I've ever seen."

BET PAYS OFF—

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Archibald Henderson, 55, Newport Beach, Calif., collected $10,000 Wednesday in a payoff on a 100 to 1 shot — the Boston Red Sox to win the American League baseball pennant.

Henderson placed the bet — legal in Nevada — last March at the time Boston was figured by the bookmakers to place ninth, with 100 to 1 odds that it would take the pennant.

Henderson and his wife returned to Las Vegas Wednesday to pick up the check from Sammy Cohen, owner of Santa Anita Race Book.

Golf's Big 3 Tie In Meet

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Gary Player and Jack Nicklaus fought to a tie in a special Big Three golf tournament Thursday, played two holes of sudden-death and then agreed to split $40,000 in prize money when darkness and a flight schedule halted play.

Nicklaus shot a two-under-par 68, tying Player at 211 after the third round. The South African had a six-stroke lead after two rounds, but a four-over-par 74 on the final round enabled Nicklaus to tie.

Arnold Palmer was third with a final round of 72 and a three-round total of 216. He won $10,000.

Britain's Tennis Body Decides To Disregard International Ruling

LONDON (AP) — The council of the British Lawn Tennis Association (LTA) decided in principle Thursday to defy an international rule and invite professionals to compete in an open Wimbledon tournament.

A resolution that all distinction between amateurs and professionals be dropped was passed by an overwhelming majority. Chairman William Attewell said.

It will be sent for ratification to the annual meeting of club delegates in December.

CENTRAL PLAYER STARS—

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Doug Van Boven of Central College, Iowa, leads NAIA schools in rushing, according to football statistics released by the organization Thursday.

Van Boven has carried the ball 87 times for 600 yards, an average of 6.9 yards per carry. He also was second in the country in scoring with 54 points on nine touchdowns.

Touch Football, Volleyball Teams Begin University's Intramural Season

The intramural season began during the past week with a schedule of games played in football and volleyball. Leagues this year include fraternities, dormitories and housing units.

Touch football will be confined to league championships this year. There will be no university champion in this sport.

Each football league has been divided into sections. At the end of the season, the two top teams in each section will participate in league playoffs to determine the champion.

Volleyball has been set up on a double elimination basis. A team plays in the school tournament until it has lost two matches.

To win a match, a team must win two of three 21-point games from an opponent. League champions will meet at the end of the regular season in a single-elimination tournament to determine the all-University titlist.

Golf and swimming are the other sports on the fall intramural card. A one-day golf tournament will be held Oct. 14. The opening date for swimming has not been released.

The Intramural Office has urged all intramural chairmen to pick up their football schedules at 113 Field House. In addition, the registration deadline for golf participants is 5 p.m. today.

Intramural results will be run in The Daily Iowan beginning next week.

Musical Moments... by Ted Hyman

THE GUITAR . . . part II
Elizabethan Times to 17th Century

In Shakespeare's day both the Lute and the easily played 6-string Cittern had become so popular that barbershops often kept a Cittern hanging on the wall so that customers might amuse themselves while awaiting their turn! Although the Cittern was tuned CEGCEG, you can achieve an old English effect on your modern guitar by tuning to FACFAC. A few of the basic chords are illustrated here.

A 16th century Spanish author and musician, Vincente Espinel, added a fifth string to the Moorish Guitar and presented new techniques of playing which added greatly to the popularity of this instrument in Spain. The Spanish Guitar continued to change until it had evolved into a shape with a flat front and slightly arched back. By the next century, Fernando Sor, one of the "greats" in guitar history, and Ferdinando Carulli, a Neapolitan, developed the method and theory and wrote many compositions for the guitar.

See our large selection of classic guitars by Gibson, Goya, Guild, Mozani, Framus, Tarrega and Yamaha.

Symposium On Vietnam's Future To Be Held

By PEG MCGAFFEY
The future legal and political problems of Vietnam will be discussed in depth at a two-day symposium sponsored by the Iowa Society of International and Comparative Law Friday and Oct. 14 in Macbride Hall Auditorium.

Four authorities representing opposing views on the topic will lead the panel discussion. They are Morton Kaplan, professor of political science at the University of Chicago; Edmund O. Stillman, former foreign service officer presently with the Hudson Institute; Richard A. Falk, professor of international law and practice at Princeton University and John N. Moore, professor of law at the University of Virginia. Following the presentation, a panel of University faculty members and students will address questions to the guest speakers. Two members of the panel will be Allan B. Spitzer, professor of history and Edwin B. Allaire, professor and chairman of the Department of Philosophy.

Other panel members have not yet been selected. Audience participation will be encouraged during the discussion period. Michael Miles, L2, Galesburg, Ill., president of the sponsoring organization, said Thursday that the society's symposium has a dual purpose.

First, it is hoped there will be equal discussion of both sides of the Vietnamese issue. The society intends to remain impartial in the discussion, he said. Second, although the legality of the problem will be discussed, the society hopes the discussion will also study the future implications of the Vietnamese war. The symposium's first session will meet at 8 p.m. Friday. The second and third sessions will be held at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., Oct. 14.

Astronaut Dies In Crash

Astronaut Dies In Crash

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — One of America's astronauts, Marine Maj. Clifton C. Williams Jr., was killed Thursday in a fiery plane crash near the Florida-Georgia border.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration confirmed the death two and a half hours after the T38 jet plane plunged to earth and disintegrated.

The Eastern Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Center at Robins Air Force Base, Ga., said two men were aboard the craft.

The space agency would not confirm this and said the flight plan filed at Cape Kennedy listed only Williams. But a spokesman said passengers sometimes are not listed on the flight plans.

The center said the craft was on a flight from Patrick Air Force base near the Cape to Brookley Air Force Base, Ala., near Mobile.

Williams, 35, was a native of Mobile. He had been at Cape Kennedy with other astronauts for a meeting on the launching of the first unmanned Lunar Module, scheduled early next year. The meeting was canceled.

City Bus System Still In Red

—Has Been 'A Real Struggle'—

By CHERYL ARVIDSON
The Iowa City Coach Co., which operates the city's bus service, has been owned by one family for 30 years. But it may be city-owned within a year, Lewis H. Negus, president of the company said Thursday.

The Negus family has owned the bus company since 1928, when Negus' grandfather, Henry Negus, purchased the system. Negus said that the bus company, without city and University subsidies, would lose between $33,000 and $41,000 yearly.

Because of the $5,000 monthly subsidy received from the city and University, the company has been able to lower the bus fare from 25 cents to 10 cents. There has been an increase in the number of passengers and the company has raised its salary scales.

Still Loses Money
The company is still losing money, said Negus. To break even, it is necessary that each of the eight buses now in operation carry 700 passengers daily. Presently each bus averages only 500 passengers daily.

The Iowa City Coach Co. provides both city and school bus service. Negus said that the school bus profit enables the city buses to operate.

Negus said that he has not planned any improvements to the bus system because he was unsure of the company's future. He said that he planned to meet with City Manager Frank R. Smiley within two weeks to discuss the possibility of city ownership of the company.

City Has Choice
Iowa City has the option to make a contract with Negus, begin its own bus service or sign a contract with another company. Negus said that he hoped the city would make a decision "one way or the other very soon."

He said that the operation of the bus company had been "a real struggle" for over 10 years. When Henry Negus purchased the company in 1928, it was called the Missouri Valley Electric Co.

By July, 1931, the company had switched from trolley cars to buses. Iowa City then had a population of about 14,000. That included 5,000 University staff and students.

Joe E. Negus, father of Lewis, took over the company in 1943. The company had acquired a fleet of new buses before World War II, when it became impossible to purchase new buses. Although bus tires and gasoline were rationed during the war, the company was always able to acquire sufficient quantities of each, Negus said.

Lewis Negus became president of the company in 1954. By 1957 he had replaced all the pre-war buses with the present 30 and 35-passenger buses. The company now owns 11 city buses and 23 school buses.

The company's loss of money is not its own fault, said Negus. "Cars are here to stay, so people just don't ride buses."

Student Records Kept Confidential

By MARY CLARK

Just how private are a student's University records? Will the University give the Federal Government information about students? Not usually, said Philip G. Hubbard, dean of academic affairs, in an interview this week.

Hubbard said the University would disclose only whether a person is a registered student and whether he has received any degrees. Any further information can be obtained only after the student has given written consent, according to Hubbard.

The American Council on Education has asked that all institutions clearly outline their policies concerning information about students provided to other agencies, Hubbard noted.

The House Committee on Un-American Activities created a controversy last year when it received from the University of California at Berkeley and the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, the membership lists of all student organizations which opposed the Vietnamese war. The Berkeley students protested this action as an invasion of their privacy.

According to Hubbard, the University neither requires nor keeps membership lists of any of the student organizations.

"We feel that this sort of investigation of the students' records can be a serious threat to them. We have to keep up our attempts to protect the students' rights. We can never relax our efforts."

"The University has never given any confidential information without a student's consent. We will support the student to the last inch," he said.

Should the situation arise, the University is even prepared to provide legal counsel if a student is financial unable to protect his rights in court. However, if a subpoena is served, the University will comply with the law and give the requested information.

Half Of Cabinet Ousted In Congo

KINSHASA, the Congo (AP) — President Joseph D. Mobutu fired 9 of his 17 Cabinet ministers Thursday, saying the shakeup was for a more effective and representative government.

Brought into the Cabinet were two high officials of the only party in the Congo, the Popular Revolutionary Movement.

Party Secretary - General Bernard Mungu-Diakha was made education minister.

Farm Program Faulty, Says Farm Bureau

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa's largest farmer organization, the Iowa Farm Bureau, called for legislative rather than administrative action Thursday and turned its back on a government hearing over the 1968 feed grain program.

In a statement announcing that the Farm Bureau would make no recommendations at the hearing, president J. Merrill Anderson said, "The problem cannot be solved by changes in administration of present farm programs but only by new legislation."

The problem, Anderson said, "is the attempt to manage farm production politically, and neither political party has or can do this successfully."

Anderson said current high production levels and low prices of corn and soybeans proved that the U.S. Department of Agriculture could not plan production as well as the market, and that new legislation was needed.

The session was conducted by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service as one of a number being held in grain states to help shape the new federal program.

Among the U.S. officials on hand was Robert S. Bergland, program administrator for the ASCS in a nine-state region.

Anderson complained that existing legislation "permits political management of production and stocks primarily for the benefit of consumers."

The bureau's legislative recommendations, he said, "have been and will continue to be made directly to Congress."

The organization's program includes floor recourse loans, long-term land retirement and use of compensatory payment funds in the market for the Food for Freedom program.

Pan Am Unit Plans Party

A get-acquainted party for Latin American and U.S. students will be hosted by the Pan American League this semester, League members decided at their meeting Thursday.

The League will also give pot-luck suppers throughout the year for couples from Latin America. The diners will be held in members' homes.

Mrs. Ralph Miller, publicity chairman, said Thursday that there was room for three more students in the League's English class which meets at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Henry Linder, 120 N. Dodge St.

The class, which includes Chinese and Japanese student, is open to anyone interested in learning English. The League can provide transportation to the class.

Truck Strike Tightens Vise On Steel Use

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Reinforced police patrols and the FBI clamped down Wednesday on nightriders firing up a strike by steel haulers, but an economic vise tightened on steel producers and users in seven states.

Fabricators, highway builders—even hospitals, grocery stores and restaurants—saw their lines of supply and delivery had been disrupted. The Ohio Contractors Association estimated that $154 million in highways projects had been stopped and that $81 million more in sewer and street work was being threatened.

The Western Pennsylvania Heavy & Highway Contractors Association estimated that 4,000 tradesmen have been laid off in two days because shipments of concrete have been halted.

Violence lessens — But the violence that had mounted relentlessly as the strike neared the end of a second month fell off sharply around the steel centers of Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Where dozens of rock-throwings, shootings and beatings were reported daily, there were less than a half dozen Thursday.

Troopers on 16-hour shifts turned up repeatedly to stop trouble before it started or got worse. The FBI also had its agents investigating. Special officers were deputized in Pittsburgh to stop arson and sabotage.

But apparently very few steel trucks were moving. Iron Age Magazine reported the wildcat walkout by 10,000 to 20,000 drivers helped cut production by 30 per cent last month.

Businesses hampered — Other businesses were hampered sporadically as the steel haulers tried to persuade other drivers to quit in sympathy.

Sheriffs' deputies had to run interference to get bread trucks past picket lines for one supermarket chain north of Pittsburgh. Restaurants and hospitals near Cleveland, Ohio, reported they were having trouble getting fresh frozen foods and meat.

But it was the steel industry that missed the trucks, which normally carry more than 50 per cent of the producer's shipments.

Mills switched to railroads when possible, but cars were scarce.

Bethlehem Steel reported that it had cut back one plant by 950 individual shifts last week and the total was expected to go to 2,650 this week.

Comedy Set By Theatre

The University Theatre will begin its 47th season with a series of plays ranging from Greek tragedy to contemporary comedy.

"You Can't Take It With You," the classic American comedy by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, will be presented as the theater's first offering, Oct. 26 to Nov. 4.

It was the winner of the 1937 Pulitzer Prize for drama and ran for 847 performances on Broadway.

The other four plays scheduled this year are Euripides' "The Trojan Woman"; Shakespeare's "King Lear"; a modern Irish comedy by Denis Johnston, "The Moon in the Yellow River"; and the recent Broadway drama, "A Delicate Balance" by Edward Albee.

The theater's public relations director, Jerry Di Iorio, G. Las Vegas, Nev., said Thursday that "You Can't Take It With You" presents a moral lesson which everyone can appreciate.

Di Iorio said the authors suggest that it's really quite simple to enjoy life — one needs only enough money to take things easy, to be adroit at income tax evasion, to develop zany hobbies to keep one's self in mischief and a household full of heartwarming individuals who love every moment they live.

9 Law Students Receive Awards

Nine University law students have received the John F. Murray scholarship, according to Paul M. Neuhauser, associate dean of the College of Law.

The students who received the honor in the College of Law are Edward E. Blythe, L3, Carbondale, Ill.; Paul P. Bazeldes Jr., L1, Dubuque; Don D. Carlson, L1, Stratford; Constance K. Heneke, L1, Delmar; Patrick J. Kelley, L2, Ames; Harry D. Maas, L1, Wellsburg; Darrell A. Morf, L2, Fredericksburg; Richard G. Santi, L2, Storm Lake, and David G. Schmidt, L1, Spirit Lake.

Highlanders Plan Trip To Clarinda

Forty members of the Scottish Highlanders will go to Clarinda Saturday to appear in the South-west Iowa Band Association Festival.

The Highlanders are scheduled to lead a parade through Clarinda in the afternoon and to march that evening following the band performances.

The coeds will stay in Clarinda homes Saturday night.

House Notes 'Gross Day' With Humor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. H. R. Gross, the Iowa Republican who rails regularly against federal spending and foreign aid, was somewhat surprised Thursday when Democratic leader Carl Albert told him it was "Gross Day" in honor of the 144th day the House has been in session this year.

"I'm overwhelmed by the tremendous outpouring of members in observance of Gross Day," the Iowa replied.

There were fewer than 20 members in the chamber with no business scheduled because of the Jewish holy days.

Albert made the announcement while Gross was complaining about the House's plans to do no business next Thursday because of the Columbus Day holiday.

Wisconsin Prof To Give Lecture Here

Economist Bowen Views U.S. Wage

By JOHN TEMPLER

Pres. Howard R. Bowen removed his mantle of top University administrator Thursday to speak as an economist to the Debate Club.

Bowen, who served as chairman of the President's Commission on Automation, Technology and Economic Progress last year, discussed the commission's findings in a question and answer session with the club.

This year the collegiate debate topic concerns a guaranteed annual income for all citizens.

The club heard Bowen comment on the economic and social consequences of a proposed guaranteed wage program.

Bowen, who holds a Ph.D. in economics, said that the commission recommended public service employment at the minimum wage for the able unemployed persons and a guaranteed income to those families without breadwinners or those termed unemployable.

He said, however, that the distinction between "employable" and "unemployable" is a difficult one. He added, however, that a guaranteed minimum wage would not encourage people to be content to receive government welfare without work.

Opponents of a guaranteed annual wage program have contended that such a program might result in a large number of people accepting a wage regardless of whether they work, Bowen noted.

"The overwhelming majority of people find great meaning and satisfaction in their work. Their work gives them peace of mind and respect in the world," the president said.

MACLEAN TO SPEAK

Foreign Minister Hong Kong Finds More Red Bombs

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist terrorists resumed planting bombs in Hong Kong Thursday, ending British hopes that Red Chinese had abandoned their campaign of terror. More than 30 bombs were taken from one industrial area.

The two major Communist newspapers, Ta Kung Pao and Wen Wei Pao, resumed attacks meanwhile on British authorities, calling them "fascist" and saying they murdered a Chinese during China's National Day celebrations Oct. 1.

The Chinese were killed Sunday when police broke up an illegal Communist fireworks display.

"Freedom must be at all times defended, because it is at all times besieged. Not all of us are called to fight on the battlefield. Many of us must, quietly and firmly, do what we can and all that we must, here at home. Buying Bonds, regularly, is as important to this nation in the long reach of history as almost anything we can do."

Now there is a new way for Americans to help their country—and help themselves as well. When you buy U.S. Savings Bonds regularly—through Payroll Savings where you work or Bond-a-Month where you bank—you are also entitled to purchase new Freedom Shares. Freedom Shares are short-term Savings Notes. They pay a higher return than Savings Bonds (4.74% when held to maturity in 4 1/2 years), may be bought one-for-one with Bonds in four denominations, and are redeemable after one year. You will find complete information where you work or bank.

President Johnson displays the first Freedom Share.

Do your share. Sign up for U.S. Savings Bonds, new Freedom Shares.

The U.S. Government does not pay for this advertisement. It is presented as a public service in cooperation with the Treasury Department and The Advertising Council.

Who got the job?

I did.

"I'm Ernie Strong. I used to be a janitor. Now I work in computer operations systems. I've done something with myself—I had my fill of washing floors."

Things are changing.

Jobs are open to everybody who has a skill. If you don't have a skill, go to your local state employment office. Find out how to get one.

Things are changing. In the next 5 years, 8,000,000 good jobs will open up for Whites, Negroes, Puerto Ricans, Mexican-Americans, everyone. To get one, get a skill.
