Senate Defeats Move To Rescind HSP Amendment

See Related Stories Pages 3 and 6
By BETSY BECKER

The Student Senate Tuesday night defeated an attempt by backers of the "independence" amendment to rescind the amendment.

And it appears that students voting in the referendum later this month will be able to choose between the independence amendment, a plan for a faculty-student committee proposed by the Students for Responsible Action (SRA), or neither.

The attempt by some of the supporters of the amendment to have the senate's vote last week approving it rescinded came after the senate voted 17 to 14 to put the SRA proposal on the ballot. The amended ballot will also allow students to vote for neither of the student government re-organizational plans.

After the vote on the ballot alteration, a large group of senators who had originally supported the amendment, left the meeting room for a short while. After they returned, Sen. Chuck Derden, Hawk-eye Student Party (HSP), called for the senate to rescind its action last week approving the amendment.

Approval Expected

Derden said that many of the backers of the amendment, which calls for an end to administration interference in students "non-academic" lives, had agreed to the referendum on it so that there would be a definitive answer from the students to the administration upon the question of student rights. He said had expected overwhelming approval from the student body.

But, said Derden, with the three choices on the referendum ballot, there would be no showing of a single united force. The outcome would benefit no student group, he said.

There were charges from SRA senators that the amendment backers were afraid of defeat by the student body, and were asking that the amendment vote be rescinded for that reason.

Derden denied the charges, saying "the results of the referendum approved by the senate would say nothing to anyone."

Not all the original backers of the amendment were for rescinding the vote. Sen. Phil Hubbard, HSP, said he would not back down.

The writer of the resolution calling for the amendment, Ken Murphy, Al, Iowa City, also called for continued support of it. He said he was disappointed with HSP, whose members had given the amendment much of its support.

Not An HSP Action

But the attempt to rescind the amendment was not an action by HSP. Derden said each senator was left to vote his own conscience.

The vote on whether to rescind the amendment was 18 opposed to 12 in favor. Two-thirds of the senators would have had to vote yes for the amendment to be rescinded. The effect of a vote to rescind would have been to make the senate's position as if the vote last week in favor of the amendment would have never taken place.

The vote on whether to alter the ballot to be used in the referendum came after nearly three hours of debate on the matter.

Sen. Carl Varner, acting chairman of the SRA, introduced his group's resolution as an alternative to the amendment, and asked that it be placed on the referendum. The SRA resolution calls for a

Student Referendum Scheduled For Nov. 1

Student Body Pres. John T. Pelton announced Tuesday that the Student Senate referendum will be held Nov. 1.

Pelton said that he wanted to hold the meeting as soon as possible after Homecoming. Wednesday was selected, according to Pelton, because "we want to create the belief that Wednesday is election day."

He said he was referring to the fact that all-campus elections are held on Wednesday and he considered this an all-campus election.

Pelton said holding the election before that date would interfere with various Homecoming activities.

The senate's next regularly scheduled meeting is Nov. 7. Meetings held between now and Nov. 7 are special sessions because the constitutional changes must be approved at "two regularly scheduled meetings." According to the proposal, the referendum was to be held between now and the next regularly scheduled meeting.

—Cutback Threat Tied To Tax—

Road Funds Seen As Ploy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The hint of a possible cutback in the federal aid highway program was seen Tuesday as a strong political power play to loosen President Johnson's plan for higher taxes from its congressional quagmire.

Although a highway cutback could help stem inflation in the long run, it would have no immediate effect on the economy and would be a poor substitute for a tax increase, government sources said.

If the hinted cutback went into effect, it would be the second time within a year that the highway program has felt the sting of inflationary pressure. A 25 per cent cutback last year was restored this year after strong protests from Congress.

Johnson's Plan

Government economists insist the best way to brake the economy, which they say is already moving faster than anticipated three months ago, is for Congress student-faculty coalition, or community senate, to be chaired by the administration. The SRA coalition would be similar to — but stronger than — the present Committee on Student Life.

Sen. Ken Wessels (HSP) questioned the relevance of the resolution to the referendum.

Student Body Vice Pres. Eric Morris ruled that the resolution was relevant. The ruling was immediately challenged and the question was opened to debate.

Third Choice Requested

Sen. Carl Stuart, who had voted for the amendment, asked that a third choice be added to the referendum ballot. He proposed to give the student body the choice of no change of the present system.

After a discussion of the meaning of "referendum," the senate voted to uphold Morris' ruling that the resolution was relevant by a vote of 19 to 4.

A motion to include the SRA resolution on the referendum was made by Varner. He said it would give the students a choice.

Varner supported the resolution saying it would make communication lines formal and get the faculty behind the senate.

Addressing himself to the supporters of the amendment, Varner said he didn't think the students could seize control of their personal lives by themselves. He said the students would support the administration rather than the senate because the power lies in the administration.

Varner said the members of the SRA-proposed community senate would be appointed by the respective student and faculty senates.

Michael Lally, HSP, said the community senate would not be democratic because the students would be represented by people they had not elected.

Wants To Be Independent

"I want to be an independent individual as soon as possible," Sen. Carl Stuart said. "At first the HSP resolution seemed the quickest way possible. Now I'm in a quandary — which procedure is quickest?"

Myron Yorra, G, Boston, a spokesman for SRA, said, "The quickest way is the most direct, the most direct is through what has been established." He advocated an open forum of students and faculty.

Lally said, "If we have the rights, why all the rigmarole. If we have the rights, then let's exercise them with student government protection. HSP has faith in the students."

Yorra said Lally's solution would bring a confrontation with the administration and would bring forth a united front in the administration. They could provide a solid front by cutting funds and canceling registration for example, Yorra said.

Sen. Gary Goldstein asked if SRA had discussed the community senate idea with the Faculty Senate.

Varner said he had an appointment to talk with Faculty Senate representatives later this week.

Sen. Dennis Schuelke then asked that a third choice appear on the referendum ballot be stated so that students would also have a choice of voting for neither of the proposals rather than on change as was suggested earlier.

HSP has scheduled a meeting for 7 p.m. today to discuss possible party unity on the situation surrounding the amendment and the proposed referendum.

News In Brief

ALSO IN THE NEWS LAST NIGHT:

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union announced one of the biggest increases in defense spending in its history to bolster North Vietnam and to aid Arab nations. Finance Minister Vasily F. Garbuzov told Parliament a 15 per cent increase was necessary because "international tension demands increased attention to our defenses."

SAIGON — Bomb-set fires were reported raging at a military compound where Soviet missiles and helicopters shipped into Haiphong had long been uncrated and assembled without interference from the American air offensive. The U.S. Command announced the first strikes of the war against the compound, an array of 70 barracks and other buildings situated between Haiphong and the MIG base of Cat Bi, four miles southeast of the port.

News Blackout Shrouds Talks In Auto Strike

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union and the strikebound Ford Motor Co. Tuesday night declared a 24-hour news blackout on their contract talks, a move that traditionally heralds a break in deadlocked bargaining.

The blackout, announced in a joint statement on the 34th day of the strike by 160,000 Ford workers, means each side has agreed to make no public statements about the talks until 9 p.m. today.

Usually a news embargo during contract talks means either that the company is making a new offer, or the union is altering its demands. But in the wake of the blackout, neither side would explain what, if anything, was developing in negotiations.

The two sides were meeting separately, at the vast Ford headquarters in suburban Dearborn, but a union spokesman said the bargaining teams, including UAW President Walter P. Reuther, had been in communication "by various means."

The joint declaration said the blackout was set "in the hope that this might facilitate serious and meaningful collective bargaining."

The blackout came on the eve of the regular meeting of Ford's board of directors Wednesday. Their business, which could include consideration of a contract package, is expected to be concluded before the embargo expires.

Even before the announcement of a news blackout, there had been speculation that changes were being made in the bargaining position of one, or both, sides.

The two sides had been scheduled to meet at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, but postponed their session and instead announced they would meet for the first time at night since the strike started Sept. 6.

Word followed in early evening that the two sides against had postponed a confrontation, but that they would continue separate sessions at the Ford headquarters, known as the Glass House.

On Aug. 29, Ford made its only offer to date, and the union rejected it as inadequate.

House Tentatively Approves Increase In Postage Rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House gave tentative approval Tuesday night to proposed increases in first class and air mail postage rates by rejecting attempts to keep them at their present levels.

Overwhelming voice votes beat down moves by Reps. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) and Joe Poll (D-Tex.) to eliminate the increases which provide the bulk of the additional revenue in the omnibus postal rate-federal pay package.

This left standing the Post Office Committee's proposal that first class rates go up one cent to six cents for letters and five cents for post cards, and that air rates jump two cents to 10 cents for letters and eight cents for post cards.

Approval of the package is expected Wednesday or Thursday after some 40-odd amendments are disposed of.

As the House took up the measure there were no calls for economy and reduction in federal spending.

Speakers concentrated on higher postal rates and second and third-stage pay hikes in 1968 and 1969, and at least one member said he would seek an increase in the 1967 pay raises.

The bill calls for a pay raise, retroactive to Oct. 1, of 6 per cent for postal workers

Michigan Uproar Over 'Freedom' Similar To UI's

By JIM FARRELL

At least one other Big 10 institution is experiencing a student independence situation comparable to that occurring at the University.

Stephen Firsheim, associate managing editor of the Michigan Daily, the campus newspaper at Ann Arbor, told The Daily Iowan that the University of Michigan Student Government Council (SGC) is at odds with its administration.

A new president of Michigan's SGC was elected last spring on a platform of student rights. Firsheim said. The new president asserted in his campaign that the administration should not interfere in non-academic affairs.

The new student government then voted that all non-academic rules of the university were null and void. Several liberal students were appointed to the Judiciary Board which acts on appeals of students convicted of rules infractions.

The board decided it would not uphold convictions of any student accused of violating administration rules.

Firsheim said that shortly after registration this fall, a student was convicted of failing to display an auto registration sticker and another was convicted of using fireworks in a men's dormitory.

As promised, the Judiciary Board refused to uphold either conviction.

The editor said that the administration is expected this week either to withdraw recognition of the Judiciary Board or accept its actions. If it does nothing, he said, it would be tantamount to granting the demands of student government.

Jail Matron Testifies

Conspiracy Trial In Mississippi Enters 2nd Day

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — Deputy Sheriff Cecil Price warned three young civil rights workers, "You all see how quick you all can get out of Neshoba County," as a jail matron testified Tuesday at the trial of 18 men charged with conspiracy in the trio's deaths.

The deputy is among those charged with violating the civil rights of Michael Schwerner, 24, Andrew Goodman, 20, both white New Yorkers, and James Chaney, 21, a Meridian Negro.

Deaths of the three near Philadelphia, Miss., during the racially troubled summer of 1964 attracted worldwide attention. The White House took a hand in the fast-paced investigation.

Justice Department attorneys claimed at the outset of the trial they would prove that Price arrested the youths, then released them from jail and later in the night was in one of three cars that cornered them in a station wagon on a back road where they were shot.

Witnesses Under Wraps

Asst. U.S. Atty. Gen. John Doar told the all-white jury of seven women and five men at the trial's opening Monday the government's case would include testimony from paid informers. These witnesses remained under wraps.

Mildred Herring, who teams with her husband to run the Neshoba County Jail, recalled the Sunday afternoon, June 21, 1964, when Price and Rainey brought the men to jail.

"No one talked to them in jail," Mrs. Herring testified, adding that they "caused no trouble."

She said Price came back to the jail shortly after 10 p.m., some four hours after the arrest of the three men, and said Chaney wanted to pay off the fine. Chaney, she said, borrowed $20 from Schwerner and gave it to Price.

As they picked up their belongings, Mrs. Herring said, "Deputy Price told them, 'You all see how quick you all can get out of Neshoba County.' They thanked him and went on out."

On Aug. 4, FBI agents dug into an earthen dam eight miles southwest of Philadelphia — on the farm of one of the defendants, Olen L. Burrage. The bodies, clothed and all in one suit, rested under 15 feet of dirt. The state never filed murder charges in the deaths and federal authorities cannot prosecute under murder charges unless the crime took place on federal property.

Settlement Seen In Haulers' Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An unusual seven-state mediation team came up with a program for settling the violent, eight-state steel haulers strike Tuesday. Leaders of the striking drivers said they approved.

It also approved by the Teamsters Union, the trucking companies and the 10,000 to 20,000 drivers, steel could possibly start moving again within four days.

The five-point program appeared to touch all the demands made by the truckers.

The recommendations would give strikers a 5 per cent rate boost and $10 an hour beyond the first two hours they wait in mills to get loaded.

They had demanded a 6 per cent rate hike and $15 an hour after waiting the first two hours at no pay.

12 Candidates To Run In Council Primary Race

Four surprise candidates filed nomination papers Tuesday for the City Council with the City Clerk's Office before the 5 p.m. deadline, bringing the number of names on the Oct. 24 primary election ballot to 12.

The new candidates are Daniel L. Berry, of 2905 Brookside Dr.; E. Dale Erickson, 86 Olive Ct.; Clifford B. Kritt, 1534 Rochester Ave.; and Robert J. (Doc) Connell, 1918 Rochester Ave.

Erickson, Kritt and Connell said Tuesday that they would run as a ticket. Erickson said that the group would publicly announce some definite stands today. The three candidates, according to Erickson, will not support the present federal urban renewal program before the council.

Berry is the owner of Joe's Place, 115 Iowa Ave. Erickson is the owner of Evers Shoe Store, 107 S. Clinton St. Kritt is the owner of Kritt Beverage Co., 211 N. Gilbert St., and Connell is the owner of the Annex Tavern, 26 E. College St.

Holds Different Views

Berry said that he had different views from the other three candidates and that he would "round out the ticket and give the voters a choice." Berry said he would explain his views more fully at a later date.

Bolivians Display Body They Claim Is Guevara

VALLEGRANDE, Bolivia (AP) — Bolivian army officers displayed a body to newsmen Tuesday and claimed it was fully identified as that of Ernesto Che Guevara, reputed architect of Latin-American revolution.

The officers said Guevara, former top aide of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, whose whereabouts has been a mystery since he vanished from Cuba in 1965, was mortally wounded in a clash between guerrillas and army units Sunday and that he confirmed his identity before he died.

"I'm the Che and I've failed," Gen. Alfredo Ovando Candia, commander in chief of the armed forces, quoted the slain guerrilla as saying before he died.

It remained to be seen, however, whether the Bolivian claim that Guevara was among those slain will be accepted elsewhere.

3 Slain

The body displayed to newsmen as that of Guevara lay on an army stretcher placed on a concrete slab in an outdoor washroom of a hospital. Two other guerrillas' bodies lay on the floor of the room.

Army sources said they were presumed to be those of a Cuban with the guerrilla name of El Moro and of a Peruvian named El Chino.

The high army officers repeated many times that it was fully proved that Guevara was one of those slain.

Ovando declared that besides the reputed Guevara admission of his identity "there are two other important proofs—his fingerprints and his diary, which was found in his rucksack."

Ovando invited newsmen to take the fingerprints from the displayed body and check them against Guevara's wherever they want.

Shot Near Heart

Press reports from the scene said Guevara was shot near the heart and in the legs with machine-gun fire.

The battle broke out about four miles north of Higueras Sunday afternoon. It raged for five hours in the jungles.

property owners who signed and filed a petition with Johnson County District Court to enjoin four current councilmen from further action on urban renewal.

Four previously announced candidates returned their nomination papers Tuesday. They were Howard J. Gilroy, John B. Harper, Tim Brandt and Gerald Stevenson.

Clifford J. Stubbs, who had earlier announced his candidacy, withdrew from the race Tuesday morning. Stubbs said that he thought there were enough qualified candidates running to give the voters a choice.

Papers Filed Monday

The final four candidates, who all returned their papers Monday, are Mrs. Alan E. Ganka, Leroy C. Butherford, Brooks W. Booker and Don A. Graham.

Nomination papers must be accompanied by a petition signed by 62 registered voters. City Clerk Glen Eckard said Tuesday that all petitions would be checked today by his office to eliminate any signatures of signers who were not qualified to vote.

The 12 candidates are competing for the three-year council terms. In the primary election, the number of candidates will be cut to six. The six successful candidates will then run for the three positions to be filled in an election Nov. 7.

Nine candidates ran in the primary election held in 1965 for the three council seats.

Students should register

The operation of campus politics has taken up the time of many student leaders in the past week or so. And for probably the first time in history, the campus politics have taken on importance greater than that of getting future political careers on their way.

But there is a matter of importance to all students and the University that has been partly neglected. It is the registration of students so that they can vote in the city election this fall.

Friday is the deadline for such registration. The guidelines set down by city officials as to what students are eligible to vote are rather strict and appear to be purely arbitrary. Their legality should be questioned sometime, but there is no time for that now.

There is a substantial number of students who do qualify under these guidelines and who aren't registered. Every attempt should be made to get these students registered and later to get them to vote.

The two major student political groups, the Hawkeye Student Party and Students for Responsible Action, would do well to put aside for the next couple of days their work in campus politics and join with other campus organizations in a drive to get the eligible students registered. The service to the University and students in such an action would be considerable. And very little would be lost as far as the important issues of campus politics are concerned.

— Bill Newbrough

Forward steps needed

It has come to my attention that I have misunderstood the proposal by Students for Responsible Action (SRA) for a student-faculty group to be used to eliminate the University's regulations on the non-academic lives of students. Therefore, Tuesday's editorial in this column on the subject might have misled some who read it.

The SRA student-faculty group would be subjected to the veto power of the University president. It would consider proposals approved by the Faculty Senate or the Student Senate before such proposals went to the president for approval.

In effect, the proposal would simply be the moving of the Committee on Student Life (CSL) from its position subordinate to the Student Senate to a position in which it would be more important than the Student Senate. The Senate now must approve by a two-thirds vote any action that CSL takes. Under the SRA proposal, a group similar to the CSL would be able to veto any action the senate might take with only a majority vote.

This seems to me to be a step backwards from the present situation. SRA claims, however, that recommendations from a committee of students and faculty members would have more influence on the president than "just a group of students," meaning the senate. Unfortunately, this may be true.

But as the editorial Tuesday pointed out, under the SRA proposal of equal representatives from students and faculty on this committee, a conservative minority of the faculty representatives combined with just a few conservative students could effectively block any progressive changes of the paternalistic rules of the University.

A truly representative Student Senate will have senators who are against University paternalism. The impact of such a senate would only be lessened if the SRA proposal were adopted, because group with student representatives would be able to veto any senate action.

'What do those punks think it is anyway — a free country?'

Eat your flowers, family; let's have a group grope and banana dessert

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — Everyone talks about the hippie problem, but no one wants to do anything about it until it strikes home. I have a friend, whom I'll call Mrs. Jaffe. She has a son who is a devout hippie and two daughters who are very sympathetic to their brother's thinking. Her husband never takes his son seriously and for the past year or so the entire family has accused her of being "square."

Mrs. Jaffe finally got fed up fighting a lonely battle, so she decided to do something about it. One day last month around dinner time she walked into the living room barefooted, dressed in blue jeans and her hair tangled in all directions. She sat on the floor, placed a water pipe next to her, picked up a guitar and started to sing, "I want to get inside my brain so I can see my love again."

"Mother, what on earth are you doing?" one of her daughters cried. "This is my thing," Mrs. Jaffe said. "From now on I'm dropping out and turning on."

Mr. Jaffe said, "Get off the floor. You look ridiculous."

"I'm tired of being treated like a cube," Mrs. Jaffe said. "You people have blown my mind and I dig."

She started singing, "If I had a wish I'd smoke it with hashish."

Mrs. Jaffe's son looked at her nervously. "What's for dinner?"

Mrs. Jaffe got up and went over to a vase and took out the flowers. "Daffodils," she said, handing one to each member of the family. "You don't need food when you have flowers."

Mrs. Jaffe's other daughter said, "Mother, my boyfriend's coming over in a few minutes. You've got to stop this."

"I'm sure he's seen a teeny-bopper before. I'm sorry our pad isn't clean, but without dirt where is love?"

Mr. Jaffe said, "This is not very funny. This place looks like a pigsty."

"I can't help it. I was meditating my navel all day long."

"Mother," her daughter said, "how can you say things like that?"

"Does anybody have any grass for this water pipe?"

Her son, who had gone to his bedroom, came running out. "Where's my record machine?"

"I gave it away. Who cares about materialistic things? They only corrupt you."

"But my records."

"I'll play my guitar for you instead."

She sang, "I'm going to run away from home so I can freak out all alone and go to pot on tea."

"I have to put on a clean dress if I'm going out," her daughter said.

"I didn't wash your dress," Mrs. Jaffe said. "I don't think clean laundry should be part of our thing."

Mr. Jaffe said, "I'm going to call the doctor."

"Wonderful! He can join our love-in. We'll have all the neighbors over for a group grope."

"A group grope?" her daughter cried.

"Of course. Our family has been hung up for too long. Now if you eat all your flowers, you can each have a banana for dessert."

Bowen discusses college financing

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following is the first in a series presenting the text of a speech given last Friday by Pres. Howard R. Bowen before the annual conference of the Association of College Admissions Counselors in Minneapolis.

By HOWARD R. BOWEN
President, University of Iowa

In higher educational circles, there may be a shortage of money, but there is never a shortage of talk about money. Most of this talk has the very practical purpose of raising more money. In this audience, however, the prospect of raising any money seems very dim, and so my remarks will be in a low key and designed hopefully to inform and not to incite.

During the past 15 years, miracles have been achieved in the finance of higher education. As one looks back to the discouraging and impoverished period of the early 1950's, it is almost incredible that much support as it has received, and that higher education should have attracted so its position should be so strong as it is today — in the face of massive increased enrollments, expansion of function, and inflation of costs. This achievement has resulted from the joint efforts of state and local governments, the federal government, private foundations and individual donors, and students and their parents, all of whom have generously supplied vast increases of funds in the form of appropriations, gifts, or fees.

Despite the record of the past 15 years, today all is not rosy optimism in college and university circles. Perhaps the gloom is more pervasive in private institutions than in public ones, but both have ample reasons for worry. The load of enrollment and the range of responsibilities are still growing and costs are still rising. But the rate of increase in funds from various sources shows signs of tapering off. It is by no means clear that state and local governments will be willing to continue major increases in appropriations year after year or that the gifts of private foundations and individual donors will grow indefinitely at the needed rates, or that the federal government (now very busy in Vietnam and concerned about many competing social programs) will add to its appropriations, or that students and their parents will willingly pay ever-increasing tuitions. Many educational administrators speak of a "crisis" in educational finance. The word crisis may be extreme, but there is little doubt that higher education is nearing the end of an era. Changes in the system of finance are inevitable.

That changes are necessary does not justify pessimism about the future; it does require us to think carefully about where we should be heading, and it requires us to use all the arts of persuasion to bring about the needed changes in policy. It is unthinkable that this country, as committed as it is to higher learning, would allow the system of colleges and universities, private or public, to deteriorate — especially so since the nation can, despite the war and other claims on our resources, easily afford an excellent system of higher education.

In my talk this afternoon, I shall try to describe what I regard as a desirable and feasible system of finance that would enable us to carry on the progress of recent years, and to achieve the kind of education the American people want, and will demand, for their children. The particular plan I am suggesting may not be perfect; doubtless it can be improved upon in detail. However, I believe it may be close to what will be required in the decades ahead.

The underlying objectives of my proposals are derived from what I believe to be fairly settled national policy about our aspirations for higher education. These are:

1. That the United States should maintain an excellent system of higher education including both learning and research.
2. That this system should be diversified to meet the needs of students of varying interests and abilities, that it should include both private and public institutions, and that the institutions should individually enjoy a maximum of autonomy.
3. That the opportunity for higher education should be open to all, that no person should be deprived by financial barriers or by barriers of race, national origin, religion, place of residence, or background, of the chance for whatever higher education is within his capacity.
4. That students should have free choice of educational programs and institutions within the limits of their qualifications, and that certain programs or certain institutions — whether private or public — should not be set apart for particular socio-economic classes.

The nation is a long way from realizing these democratic objectives, but that it is on the way cannot be doubted. The question I wish to pose is: What kind of educational finance will help to attain these objectives? The question breaks down into two sub-questions: (1) How should students be financed? and (2) How should institutions be financed? Because the thorny matter of tuitions cuts across both these sub-questions, I shall deal with it in my concluding remarks.

Grad sees need for independence

To the Editor:

Dean Huit's comments on the Student Senate's declaration of independence simply prove the necessity of that declaration.

The declaration did not "completely alienate (the student government) from the lines of communication," for such lines had only the appearance of existence; the administration acted on only two of the senate's last 30 resolutions. Huit reveals the source of the administration's deafness by his implicit identification of the administration with the University; the senate did not, as Huit contends, declare itself "independent of the University," but only independent from the administration's arbitrary decisions.

Reader says SRA is reckless

To the Editor:

After reading the SRA position on the proposed amendment declaring the autonomy of the Student Senate, it is clear to any fully informed person that it represents a gross misunderstanding of the issue and a deliberate attempt to misrepresent the position of those who support the amendment. I would like to expose the fallacies SRA presents as fact.

SRA claims the Student Senate will not receive the support of the student body and therefore will be unable to enforce its resolutions. This remains to be proved. It is invalid to assume that the students will not support the resolution because the reason Student Senate called for a referendum was to determine whether the students would support the amendment if passed.

Secondly, in supporting the claim, SRA has shrewdly chosen to imply that HSP advocates the abolition of women's hours against the wishes of those who would be affected by such a rule. As a member of HSP I believe it is the responsibility of the women's dormitories themselves to determine whether they want hours. If the girls in a dormitory want to establish hours, fine. However, HSP believes that some provision should be made to protect the rights of those girls who do not desire to be restricted by hours.

As to the ability of the Student Senate to protect the students from expulsion for adhering to its regulations instead of the University, several members of HSP are currently examining Iowa laws to consider the possibility of taking the matter to court. HSP believes this could possibly be done with the cooperation of the American Civil Liberties Union. I have personally examined the Code of Iowa and have found no law giving either the Board of Regents or the University the power to prohibit or permit student actions which are not permitted or prohibited by Iowa law.

Thus, while the University obviously cannot allow students less than 21 to drink beer at University activities, it cannot also deny students the right to choose where they can live without restriction because this is not denied to the citizens of Iowa by law.

SRA states that an appeal to faculty cooperation would be more effective in persuading the administration to accept the resolutions approved by the senate without providing any evidence of faculty support for its proposal.

On the other hand, what has the faculty done to persuade the administration to accept the 1967 senate constitution and the 28 resolutions approved by the senate last spring which have not been enacted by Pres. Howard R. Bowen? If the faculty has supported the enactment of these proposals they obviously have not been effective and if they have not attempted to persuade the University to accept them, then it is legitimate to argue that they are not interested in the affairs which concern only students. Also, if they are interested and have influence with the Administration, why can't they be asked to use this influence to support the autonomy of the senate?

Perhaps if the members of SRA would take time to examine the issues more closely they would not recklessly rush into making statements which are clearly fallacious.

UI Alum Among Wagner Chorale To Give Concert At Union Tonight!

When the Roger Wagner Chorale arrives here today for its 8 p.m. concert at the Union, one vocalist will be right at home.

She is Harriet Alogian, who received her master's from the University in 1962.

While a student here, Miss Alogian gave several solo recitals and participated in many musical events.

Harold Stark, professor of music, said Tuesday that Miss Alogian, a former student of his, had the lead in the opera "The Crucible." He said she sang mezzo-soprano and "has an outstanding voice."

After graduating from here, Miss Alogian taught in California before joining the chorale.

Songs ranging from sacred medieval music to sea chanteys will be performed by the chorale, many of which have been included in the group's eight record albums.

Tickets for the concert are free to students upon presentation of identification cards, and those remaining at 8 a.m. today will go on sale to the general public at $2 apiece at the Union.

The program will open with the chorale's arrangement of "Ave Maria," with the first part of the concert devoted primarily to music of the Renaissance, Baroque and Romantic periods.

After intermission, the ensemble will perform contemporary music, including popular selections from French, Japanese, Spanish and Latin American folk songs. Two sea chanteys, "Shenandoah" and "A Rovin'" and a selection of Negro spirituals, including "Go Down Moses," will also be performed.

League Hears Candidates For Council

By CHERYL ARVIDSON

Seven candidates for city council positions spoke to nearly 100 members and guests of the League of Women Voters Tuesday at a luncheon at the University Athletic Club.

The candidates present were Brooks W. Booker, Tim Brandt, Leroy C. Butherus, Mrs. A. I. A. E. Ganka, Don A. Graham, John B. Harper and Gerald Stevenson. Howard J. Gilroy and Clifford J. Stubbs, who had announced that they were candidates, were not present.

Each candidate spoke briefly and answered questions from the audience.

Booker, who is associate director of conferences and institutes at the University, said that he favored an urban redevelopment program. He said that he thought it was a "front burner" issue for the campaign.

Brandt, president of Brandt Heating and Air Conditioning Co., said that he thought the future of Iowa City depended on smooth running city government and the selection of well-qualified personnel.

Butherus, owner and operator of Beckman-Butherus Funeral Home, said, "Iowa City's growth presents the city and its leaders with a challenge."

He favored a sound, long-range planning program for the city. Butherus also said that he felt it was "consistent with the democratic way of life" to have a privately-owned, not city-owned, municipal bus service.

Mrs. Ganka said that she wanted to bring Iowa City, Coralville and University Heights together in one building, a municipal center. Her municipal center would be located in the middle of Iowa Avenue, one block east of the Pentacrest.

Mrs. Ganka is a real estate saleswoman for a local real estate firm.

Graham said the new council would be faced with the problems of coordinating regional development, mass transportation, water system improvement, sewage disposal and proper zoning for an orderly development of the community.

Graham is treasurer of Paris Cleaners and Shirt Laundry. Harper, an administrative assistant in the Department of English, said he wished to make the downtown area a "vital and active center for the community."

Harper said that problems of traffic flow, parking facilities and relocation of businesses and individuals in the urban renewal area couldn't be handled "on a piecemeal basis."

Stevenson, owner of the Paper Place bookstore, said, "Although there has been an antithesis between the University and the city, such differences do not mean that one can develop only at the expense of the other."

Placement Meetings Set

Ermina E. Busch, director of the Educational Placement Office, said Tuesday she has scheduled meetings for degree candidates who want to teach in colleges and public schools after February, June or August commencements.

College, junior college and university teaching candidates will meet Monday at 4 or 6:45 p.m., and elementary and secondary school candidates (including those in special fields) will meet Tuesday at 4 or 6:45 p.m. All meetings will be held in 100, Phillips Hall.

Miss Busch said that the registrants will learn how to prepare credential folders in preparation for interviews with recruiters, the first of whom will come to the University in November.

Last year the office registered some 2,000 persons and the number of teaching and administrative vacancies reported to the office topped 80,000.

13 Men Pledged By Fraternities

University social fraternities have pledged 13 men during informal rush, bringing the total pledged during fall rushing to 252.

Those pledged are: Acacia: Ron Parker, Muscatine; Alpha Tau Omega: Thomas Cummings, Maxwell; Ed Knutson, Ida Grove; and Gary Fitzgerald, Morrison, Ill.; Beta Theta Pi: Bert Thompson, Anita; Delta Chi: Scott Sayles, Council Bluffs; Delta Upsilon: Thomas Vickers, Newton; Phi Epsilon Pi: Michael Cohen, Iowa City; Pi Kappa Alpha: Jim Anderson, Pocahontas; Sigma Alpha Epsilon: Steve Kirk, Waterloo; and William Whitaker, Des Moines; Sigma Pi: John Rasmussen, DeWitt; and James Wyland, Rock Rapids.

5 To Be Nominated For Grad Fellowships

University seniors or recent graduates who plan a career in college teaching and who desire to continue study after graduation are eligible for the Danforth Graduate Fellowship, J. Richard Wilmett, professor of sociology, announced Tuesday.

Five students will be nominated from the University, Wilmett said. However, persons interested in the Fellowship must be registered to take the graduate re-examination before Friday. Seniors may register for the exam at the Examination Service, 114 University Hall.

The Danforth Fellowships offer a stipend of $1,800 for unmarried recipients and $2,200 for married students, plus required tuition and fees.

The stipends, which can be for either the academic year or the calendar year, are normally renewable for a total of four years. Special attention is given to three areas in considering candidates for fellowships: intellectual power which is flexible, of wide range and of academic achievement, personal characteristics which are likely to contribute to effective teaching and concerns which range beyond self-interest.

Applications for Danforth fellowships are available from Wilmett, 121 Macbride Hall.

Graduate Pianist To Give Recital

Gordon Steel, G. Huxley, will present a piano recital Friday night at 8 in North Music Hall.

His program will include "Variations and Fugue on a Theme by Handel, Op. 24" by Johannes Brahms, "Sonata in B flat minor, Op. 35" by Frederic Chopin and "Grandes Etudes de Paganini" by Franz Liszt.

Organization Of SRA Began Prior To HSP Amendment

By MIKE FINN

The seeds of a new student political organization, officially launched as the Students for Responsible Action last week, were sown several months before the Hawkeye Student Party's autonomy amendment made its debut at last Tuesday's Student Senate meeting.

Opposition to the HSP amendment, which calls for an end to the University administration's interference in students' "non-academic" lives, has become the first concern of the new group.

But as long ago as mid-summer, Student Sen. Carl Varner, who is acting chairman of SRA, told Mike Mahaffey, A2, Grand Junction, that in order to be effective in student politics this year, it was essential for a new political party to be formed. Mahaffey is now acting vice chairman of SRA.

Varner said that beginning the middle of September, he and other non-HSP senators and leaders began an informal survey to find out if a second party was needed and if so, how it should be formed.

"About a week before this referendum idea came out in senate, we had our first meeting," Varner said.

Meeting Unannounced
This meeting was not announced and only non-HSP students were invited. It was unanimously agreed upon by the 35 persons present that a new political party was needed. Organizational and platform committees were selected and plans and proposals were to be presented to a larger meeting which was scheduled a week later.

During the interim the senate held the meeting at which the HSP autonomy amendment was passed.

"HSP brought up this proposal Tuesday of last week without informing one non-HSP senator. They gave us no chance to talk to our constituency, to offer any amendments or revisions," Varner said.

On Wednesday of last week, Varner, Sen. Randy Swisher and Linda Glazer, SRA temporary secretary, met with HSP in what, according to Varner, was "a meeting to draw up plans for a coalition behind the proposal. I was to draw up my ideas and to present them to HSP."

Asked To Leave
Varner said that his ideas were not considered and that he, Swisher and Miss Glazer were asked to leave.

"They are the ones, in my opinion, who caused this partisan conflict by refusing to cooperate with any non-HSP people," Varner said. He added that the non-HSP senators had consistently tried to work with the HSP.

Varner said, "We'll sit down and talk to them, but they have to realize that those compromises have to be made."

Following the meeting with HSP, another unannounced meeting was held Thursday to discuss a name for the new party, to discuss a platform and to consider an alternative to HSP's autonomy amendment.

Student Body Pres. John T. Pelton, A4, Clinton, said that one effect of SRA would be "to create a realistic system of two-party politics on campus and the overall development is healthy."

New Choice Offered
Pelton also said SRA would

"give many students a new choice in ideologies and in political leadership."

One of the first persons that Varner contacted about forming a new student political party was Hillcrest Association Vice Pres. Jim Truitt, A2, Greene.

Truitt, who said that he was in HSP at the time of its organization, and that he voted an almost straight HSP ticket, commented, "I have become disillusioned with HSP. They have taken on several issues which are very impractical and not at all consistent with campus issues."

Truitt said he did not feel that the senate should be discussing such issues as the Vietnam resolution and the adviser resolution. "There has been a series of irresponsible things that HSP has done," he said.

Truitt, who is temporary treasurer of SRA, went on to say that Hillcrest, which Varner considers one of HSP's strongholds, may not be as strongly HSP as it was last year.

Truitt said that there had been the traditional heavy turnover in the men's residence halls and the dorms were predominantly composed of freshmen. Truitt said that SRA would aim its campaign at these freshmen.

Student Drowns 'In Own Juices'

WACO, Tex. (AP) — A student being initiated into a Baylor University service club died early Tuesday and a justice of the peace said he succumbed from results of a dose he was forced to drink.

The victim was John Everett Clifton, 19, of Crosby, Tex., a sophomore accounting and business student.

Baylor Pres. Abner McCall immediately banned all physical hazing.

Clifton "drowned in his own juices," said Justice of the Peace Joe Johnson, who announced the result of an autopsy.

Johnson said Clifton "could have drowned either on vomit or the juices from some of the stuff he had been given." The justice of the peace said Clifton had been given five different kinds of laxatives and garlic.

'Single' Parents Slate Workshop

Parents Without Partners, Inc. (PWP), a service organization to help persons such as widows and divorcees cope with their problems, will hold a workshop and chapter presentation dinner Saturday.

Mrs. Doris Palmer, Kansas City, international vice president of PWP, will conduct the workshop, "International PWP," at 1:30 p.m. in the Union Princeton Room, according to Mrs. Roberta Pohl, secretary of PWP.

Hunter Comly, associate professor of child psychiatry, will speak on "The Child and the Single Parent Family," at 7:30 p.m. at the Carousel Restaurant and Supper Club Highway 6, Coralville.

Mrs. Palmer will present the charter to the organization, recognizing it as a local group.

DRINKING HOURS ADDED—WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP) — By popular demand, drinking hours in New Zealand's hotel bars will be extended starting next Monday from the traditional 6 p.m. sun-down closing — through the leisurely evening hours to 10 p.m.

34 Singers Join Old Gold

Thirty-four students have been selected for Old Gold Singers. The group consists of singers, a piano accompanist, a drummer and a string bass player who has not yet been chosen, according to director Michael Livingston, G. Longmont, Colo. The Singers recently recorded a stereo album which is available in the Alumni Association office in the Union. The album features works which they presented in 1966-67.

The finalists are: Susan Boyd, A1, Gladbrook — Carrie Stanley; Cid Casserly, A2, Humboldt — Gamma Phi Beta; Linda Flanders, A1, Muscatine — Carrie Stanley; Connie Hughes, A1, Sac City — Burge Wardell; Sheryl Klein, A1, Spirit Lake — Alpha Delta Pi; Katy Krantz, A1, Des Moines — Alpha Phi; Roberta Mullen, A1, Bettendorf — Currier; Eva Price, A1, Skokie, Ill. — Currier; Ginny Sias, A3, Orlando, Fla. — Kappa Alpha Theta; and Ellen Wright, A1, Decorah — Kappa Kappa Gamma.

LSD Linked To Birth Defects

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Tests show that LSD and two other newly popular hallucination-inducing drugs cause birth defects in animals, a medical researcher said Tuesday.

One of these drugs — Mescaline — bears a close chemical relationship to STP, one of the newest hallucinogens, reported Dr. William F. Geber Jr., associate professor of pharmacology at the Medical College of Georgia.

"The hippies claim they get the best results now with STP," Geber said.

But Geber said laboratory experiments in which pregnant hamsters were given injections of LSD, mescaline and BOL (brom-lysergic acid) resulted in fetuses with malformations of the brain, spinal cord, liver and other organs.

The drugs caused stillbirths, runting and other defects, he said in a paper prepared for "Science," the publication of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Geber said he believed his report on mescaline (MES), which is taken from the peyote cactus, was the first on this drug's relationship to congenital defects. Geber, 44, has been studying birth defects and their causes for 10 years. He received his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from Indiana University, his A.B. degree from Dartmouth. He was on the faculty at the University of South Dakota before taking the Medical College post in 1965. "One of the dangers in taking the hallucinogenic drugs is that you've damaged your future children," he said.

Lawyers Named To Defend Tax

DES MOINES (AP) — The Des Moines law firm of Herrick, Langdon, Bell and Harris was hired Tuesday to defend Iowa's new service tax from an attack on its constitutionality filed in Scott County District Court.

The opening round in the suit, brought by advertising interests in eastern Iowa, is scheduled for hearing Friday before Judge Nathan Grant.

The Herrick firm will replace Atty. Gen. Richard Turner in representing the state. Turner disqualified himself after issuing an advisory opinion which said a section of the law taxing advertising was unconstitutional.

Punting Stressed In Hawk Practice

Iowa's football team began preparation for the second portion of the 1967 football season — against Big 10 teams — Tuesday with a hard two-hour workout which stressed all phases of the game, but especially punting.

Dean Schuessler, the sophomore "walk-on" from Lone Tree who was forced to the sidelines nearly a month ago because of illness, stepped into the spotlight briefly at Tuesday's practice with an impressive 15-minute punting drill.

Schuessler had been among the top candidates for punting duties before side effects from an appendectomy forced him to the sidelines only 10 days before the season opener against Texas Christian Sept. 23. Quarterback Ed Podolak has been the No. 1 punter but has averaged only 32 yards in 22 kicks.

Coach Ray Nagel, impressed by the sophomore's performance, indicated that Schuessler may be counted on to do Hawk punting in the future.

Two Hawks, Podolak and Si McKinnie are approaching Iowa records this year. Podolak is nearing Iowa's total offense record for an individual set by Gary Snook in 1954. Podolak has 695 yards in three games for an average of 231.7 yards. The figure accounts for 79 per cent of the team's offensive total. Snook's record is 2,044 yards and was set despite a minus 18 yards in the rushing column.

McKinnie is a cinch to join the select group of Hawks that has gained 1,000 career yards. McKinnie, a three-year regular for the Hawks, needs only 44 yards to reach the plateau.

Meet The Hawkeyes...

TOM HAUGO

JOHN HAYES

TOM HAUGO, 6-4, 218 pounds from Litchfield, Minn. captured a starting offensive tackle position this year after failing to win a letter in 1966. A junior, Haugo started the Hawkeyes' first two games at left tackle. Iowa coaches describe him as a very agile player who learns quickly. JOHN HAYES is competing in his second year on the Hawkeye varsity. A 6-2, 189-pound junior from Asbury Park, N.J., Hayes caught eight passes for 107 yards last year as the No. 2 split end. This year he has moved to wingback and has caught one pass for 12 yards as Barry Crees' back-up man. Hayes has good speed and moves, according to Hawk coaches, which make him a tough man to cover. In high school Hayes won all-state honors in football and was also a top basketball and track man.

Podolak Ranks 8th In Total Offense

NEW YORK — Quarterback Ed Podolak of Iowa ranks eighth in the nation in total offense, according to NCAA statistics released Tuesday.

Podolak, has picked up a total of 695 yards in 134 plays in the Hawkeyes' first three games. He was 14th in passing with 523 yards on 40 of 90 tosses. Iowa individual leaders after three games are Podolak, 172 yards rushing; Barry Crees, 13 pass receptions for 206 yards; and McKinnie 18 points for the team scoring lead. Tony Williams leads in punt and kickoff returns and tackles.

Chartin' The Preps — U-High Loses 4th As Blocking Fails

By MIKE EBBING

U-High, off to its worst start in Coach Gary Hansen's seven seasons, lost its fourth straight game Friday to West Liberty 13-

6. Hansen said that the Blue-hawks' main weakness was their ground game.

"Poor blocking stilled many of our drives," he said. "This is the first team that has had a sustained running attack against us. They had much success with an off-tackle play, which was something we were not expecting."

"The turning point of the game came in the second half, after our drive was stopped on the West Liberty 16. That was our last chance to get back in the game."

U-High, 0-3 in the Eastern Iowa Hawkeye Conference (EIHC), plays host to West Branch this Friday. The Bears are 1-1-1 in the EIHC. They tied undefeated Solon last week and have won the conference title for the last two years.

"This will be a revenge game," said Hansen. "West Branch beat us last year 49-0."

"... A homecoming victory is great, except when you lose your starting halfback for the rest of the season."

"... This could have been a big victory for us, giving us good momentum, if it wasn't for our injuries."

These were Coach Bernie Wyatt's comments after Regina beat Tama-Toledo Friday night 28-21. Early in the fourth quarter, junior halfback Steve Milder broke his collarbone on a punt return.

Milder, before his injury, had gained over 100 yards for the third time this year.

"We'll feel his loss on defense as much as on offense," said Wyatt. "He was valuable at defensive linebacker and halfback."

Regina coasted into the fourth quarter with a 28-7 lead. Then, Milder and the other Regina halfback Joe Halsh left the game with injuries on separate punt returns. Halsh received a severe muscle cramp and bruised thigh.

A few plays later, quarterback Henry Rios left the game with a knee injury. Tama-Toledo dominated the rest of the game, scoring two touchdowns in the last quarter.

"Halsh played his best game of the season," said Wyatt. Halsh, a 162-pound junior, gained 126 yards in 10 carries.

Regina, 2-2, travels to Camanche 3-1 Friday night. Junior Dave Fisher will take over Milder's halfback slot. Rios and Halsh are both doubtful starters. Junior Jim O'Brien will probably start at quarterback and junior Dave Fisher at the other halfback," said Wyatt.

A sharp defensive game was the key to City High's 9-7 victory over East Moline Friday night, said Coach Frank Bates.

The Hawkeye defense stopped two East Moline drives deep in Hawkeye territory, one on the one-yard line, the other on the one-foot line.

"Fullback Gary Smothers turned in another fine game, both offensively and defensively," said Bates. The all-state candidate led the team with nine tackles and eight assists.

This game was the Hawkeyes' first test of its offensive attack without quarterback Steve Piro. Piro is out for the season with an injury he received in the Davenport West game two weeks ago.

"We had a shaky first half with two fumbles and an interception," said Bates, "however, in the second half, we got good running from Smothers and halfback Pat Griffin."

"With the loss of Piro, we had to change our game plan," said Bates. "We only threw three passes all night, while centering our offensive attack around the running of Smothers and Griffin."

City High will be at Clinton Friday night. Although Clinton is 1-3 in the Mississippi Valley Conference (MVC), one of its losses was to strong Cedar Rapids Jefferson 14-12. Jefferson's 14 points against Clinton were the least the J-Hawks have scored all year.

City High has a 2-2 season mark and is 2-1 in the MVC.

Desperate Red Sox Pitch Rookie Today

BOSTON — Gary Waslewski, an obscure commuter between Fenway Park and Boston's Toronto farm club, was the Red Sox's hope to square the World Series in today's sixth game as the pitching foe of St. Louis' Dick Hughes.

Trailing 3-2 in games, Manager Dick Williams of the desperate Red Sox had to gamble on a rookie pitcher with a 2-2 record against a 16-6 Cardinal regular in hopes of extending the Series to seven games and a third chance for Jim Lonborg.

Both clubs worked out at Fenway Park Tuesday after arriving from St. Louis during the night.

The skies were heavy with fog and there were forecasts of possible showers in the area.

"We have to win both games," said Williams. "All the players know it. We faced the same situation in the last two days of the season when we had to face Minnesota's best pitchers. We never had beaten Dean Chance all year and our ace (Lonborg) never had beaten the Twins."

"We think we'll win this ball game and then we'll have our ace come back against Gibson, another fellow we never have beaten." Waslewski, just placed on the list of eligibles the day before the Series as a replacement for sorearmed Darrell Brandon, worked three perfect innings against the Cardinals in relief of Gary Bell in the third game.

Depends on the giant. Actually, some giants are just regular kinds of guys. Except bigger.

And that can be an advantage.

How? Well, for one thing, you've got more going for you. Take Ford Motor Company. A giant in an exciting and vital business. Thinking giant thoughts. About marketing Mustang, Cougar. A city car for the future.

Come to work for this giant and you'll begin to think like one.

Because you're dealing with bigger problems, the consequences, of course, will be greater. Your responsibilities heavier. That means your experience must be better—more complete. And so, you'll get the kind of opportunities only a giant can give.

Giants just naturally seem to attract top professionals. Men that you'll be working with, and for. Marketing and sales pros working hard to accelerate your advancement. Because there's more to do, you'll learn more. In more areas. You may handle as many as three different assignments in your first two years.

You'll develop a talent for making hard-nosed, imaginative decisions. And you'll know how these decisions affect the guts of the operation. At the grass roots. Because you'll have been there.

If you'd like to be a giant yourself, and you've got better ideas in marketing and sales, see the man from Ford when he visits your campus. Or send your resume to Ford Motor Company, College Recruiting Department.

You and Ford can grow bigger together.

What's it like to sell for a giant?

Rival Parties Argue Politics At Soapbox

By GAIL DRAUDEN

Attacking a counter-proposal to the Student Senate's "independence" amendment at Tuesday's Soapbox Soundoff, a student senator charged that the state "does not have the right to run my life."

Sen. Mike Lally of the Hawkeye Student Party (HSP), who conceded that the state "may help pay for my education," scoffed at interference by the state in his private life as "ridiculous."

The Soapbox discussion of the HSP-sponsored amendment to the proposed student constitution, which calls for a "hands-off" policy for the University administration towards students' "non-academic" lives, lasted a full two hours.

The discussion was kicked off by Sen. Carl Varner, temporary chairman of the newly formed Students for Responsible Action (SRA) who read SRA's counter-proposal to the amendment, which calls for a faculty-student coalition chaired by the administration.

Yorra Agrees
Myron Yorra, G. Boston, speaking as a member of SRA, agreed with Lally that students should be free from control.

"But the problem is to make the administration recognize student rights, and that can be done only through cooperation," he said.

Sen. Philip G. Hubbard criticized the SRA assumption that a combination student-faculty senate would give students additional leverage with the administration.

"In my view, the SRA proposal would not be a workable alternative," Hubbard said.

Linda Glazer, A2, Des Moines, temporary SRA secretary, said that last year at the University of Wisconsin students voted for student power but found it impossible to implement.

Lee Weingrad, HSP president, said, "People have a right to make decision that directly affect their lives."

SRA spokesman Yorra replied that all possibilities must be tried.

Sen. Charles Derden (HSP) said that a vote on the SRA recommendation would not be significant.

Robert Heymann, G. West Branch, said that all means have been tried.

Suggests March
"If there were a march on Old Capitol, or the state capitol, or if 5,000 girls didn't return on weekends, students would be able to make their point," he said.

Dan Johannsen, E4, Clinton, offered a third proposal, that government should reorganize along academic lines. He recommended that committees of department faculties and their major students should voice sentiment from their departments.

Martin D. Farren, G, Iowa City, asked HSP how it expected to implement its declaration of independence. He also questioned whether SRA had found out if the faculty was interested in a combined senate.

Richard Dickens, E4, Davenport questioned whether student senate really represented the students.

Donald J. Schleisman, A3, Carroll, said that students should show their support of student senate by boycotting classes, and met with little response from his audience.

Librarian Hit On Policies

Before Soapbox Soundoff got onto a discussion of the Student Senate Tuesday afternoon, Richard F. Styvaert, G, Spring Valley, Calif., complained about the government documents section of the Main Library.

Styvaert, a research assistant in economics, said that the director of government documents, Jerry F. Cao, did not have sufficient material on hand in the section. He also said that Cao's policy was to minimize circulation of the documents and that reference materials about states were lacking.

Cao told The Daily Iowan later Tuesday afternoon that the section was one of the 33 depositories in the nation that received all the publications of the Federal Government.

Cao said that the section did not have an extensive collection of material about states, because these publications were available from the Center for Research Libraries in Chicago.

"We can get this material within a week if a researcher here needs it."

"Since we pay a substantial fee to subscribe to the Center's services, it is silly to duplicate their available publications," Cao said.

The section is a limited circulation section, and has been so for years, he added. Since it is essentially a reference library, there is no need for the books to circulate, Cao said.

Symposium To Discuss Future Problems Of Vietnam

A two-day symposium to study the future legal and political problems of Vietnam will be held Friday and Saturday in Macbride Hall.

The symposium is sponsored by the Iowa Society of International and Comparative Law, founded last spring in the College of Law.

The first session will be held at 8 p.m. Friday. The second and third sessions will meet at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Saturday. The symposium is free and open to the public.

Four guest speakers will represent opposing views on the topic and a panel of University faculty and students will question the speakers.

4 Speakers Will Attend
The speakers are Morton Kaplan, professor of political science at the University of Chicago; Edmund O. Stillman, former foreign service officer presently with the Hudson Institute; Richard A. Falk, professor of international law and practice at Princeton University; and John N. Moore, professor of law at the University of Virginia. Moore and Kaplan will represent the "hawk" element of the panel, Stillman and Falk are considered "doves."

Kaplan received his Ph.D. from Columbia University. He is the director of the Ford Workshop Programs in International Relations at the University of Chicago.

In 1965 Kaplan served as a consultant on the Committee on Economic Development. He has also been a Carnegie "Traveling Fellow.

Stillman has worked in the Department of State as a foreign service officer in Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and the Netherlands. Presently he is an adviser to the Department of Defense and the Atomic Energy Commission on political and strategic issues.

Has Worked Abroad
He received his law degree from Columbia University. He is a contributor of the New York Times Magazine, Harper's, The New Republic and other publications.

Falk graduated from Harvard Law School. Besides teaching at Princeton University, he is a lawyer for the International Court of Justice and a co-editor of World Politics. He is also a member of the editorial board

Music Grad Student Named To Faculty
Wendell M. Logan, G, Thomson, Ga., a candidate for a Ph.D. in music, has taken a position as an assistant professor of music at Ball State University, Muncie, of the American Journal of International Law.

Moore is a graduate of the University of Illinois. He has taught at the Universities of Florida and Illinois and has acted as consultant to the Naval War College.

Ind. Logan earned a bachelor's degree from Florida Agricultural and Mechanical College and a master of music degree from Southern Illinois University.

Voter Registration To End On Friday

Friday is the last day for voter registration for the City Council elections.

Being married, owning property, having a non-University job or holding a local driver's license will make a University student eligible to vote.

A list of check points for voter registration requirements may be picked up at the City Clerk's Office in the Civic Center.
