Alumni To Return For Homecoming

By CINDY HOWELL

Iowa City will fill with University alumni this weekend as Homecoming celebrations based on the theme, "A Record Smashing Victory," shift into high gear. Highlighting the festivities are dances, badge sales competition, the Homecoming parade, the Dolphin Show, the game with Purdue, the building and burning of the Homecoming monument, the State Officials' Luncheon, the pep rally, the crowning of Miss U of I and parties, parties, parties.

Approximately 50 units, including the Shriners, University Marching Band, the Scottish Highlanders, Saddle Club and high school bands will parade before the town at 7 p.m. Friday, with Herky and the cheerleaders dashing around along the parade route.

Floats in the theme of "A Record Smashing Victory" are expected from 17 housing units and will be examined by five judges on the reviewing stand at the corner of Clinton Street and Iowa Avenue.

Judges for the parade are: O. D. Roberts, dean of men at Purdue; Donald R. Mallett, vice president and executive dean of Purdue; Dr. Samuel Osdoba, 1966 U of I Dad of the Year; State Rep. Minnette Doderer; and State Sen. Robert J. Burns.

Winning Floats To Be Picked
The judges will pick the winning floats in the sweepstakes, beauty, originality and humor categories, as well as in special categories for best float by a fraternity-sorority and best float by a men's residence hall. The latter two categories are sponsored by the Iowa City Kiwanis and Elks Clubs, respectively.

The parade is to start at Iowa Avenue and Gilbert Street, proceed west on Iowa to Dubuque Street, north on Dubuque to Market Street, west on Market to Clinton Street, south on Clinton to College Street, and east on College to Gilbert.

Immediately following the parade, a pep rally and the crowning of Miss U of I will take place on the east steps of the Old Capitol.

The Dolphin fraternity gets into the swim of things with "Paradise Dolphin Style," an aquashow in the Field House pool tonight through Saturday. The Old Gold Singers will provide music for the production. Tickets may be purchased for $1.50 at the Union Box Office and in a Pentacrest stand.

Two bands and an orchestra will provide continuous music for the Central Party Committee dance at the Union Saturday night as Bobby Hackett and his orchestra play the big band sound in the New Ballroom, and the New Colony Six and the California Spectrum "groove" in the Main Lounge.

Tickets for the dances are $5 per couple and may be purchased at the Union Box Office.

Monument To Be Burned
The Homecoming Monument, a 14-foot high pyramid with a 24-foot base and a "Herky Hawk" figure at the apex, will be burned following the game with Purdue. The game is a real homecoming for the Hawks, who have been out of town for the past three games.

Gov. Harold E. Hughes and state legislators will be honored at a luncheon in the Field House Saturday.

Many University schools, departments and organizations are sponsoring alumni coffee hours during Homecoming weekend.

Seventeen campus groups have entered exhibits and displays in the theme, "The Size and Scope of a Great University." They will be displayed in the Union Terrace Lounge from today through Dad's Day, Nov. 4.

Union Open House Set

The Union will hold open house after the coronation Friday night. Coffee, hot chocolate and doughnuts will be available in the Main Lounge, Terrace Lounge and elsewhere in the building. The Gonn Band will provide music for a free dance in the Ballroom.

A photo exhibit by Benita Allen will continue on display in the Terrace Lounge.

Recreational areas in the Union will be open. Friday's Cinema 16 movie will be "Night is my Future" and will be shown at 7 and 9 p.m. in the Illinois Room. Movie admission will be 50 cents.

Homecoming is financed by the sale of Homecoming badges. Twenty-five thousand badges were ordered, to sell for 50 cents each. Melanie Moyer, A4, Marion, designed this year's badge.

Thirteen housing units are in badge sales competition for a grand prize of a 23-inch color console television and traveling trophy. Other prizes are two 19-inch color televisions and two console stereos with AM-FM radio.

Adherers will count the ballots.

Identification cards and certificates of current registration, which are necessary for voting, will be closely checked to make sure the pictures and dates are correct.

All male undergraduates and graduates are eligible to vote.

Voting is scheduled to run from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at booths in Chemistry Building, Schaeffer Hall, Macbride Hall, Phillips Hall, English-Philosophy, Union and the Hillcrest Rotunda.

Weather permitting, there will also be a booth in the Pentacrest.

Jones will announce the name of the new queen at a pep rally to be held at the Old Capitol after the parade Friday night. The parade starts at 7 p.m.

The new Miss U of I and the four finalists will be presented at 10:30 at the Central Party Committee's Homecoming dance, which starts at 9 p.m. Saturday in the Union Main Lounge and New Ballroom.

IN A WORLD OF their own, unaware of the presence of the grandfather, Richard Pick, G. Valparaiso, Ind., are Sue Kramer, A3, Erie, Pa., and Dorwin Peterson, A4, Canton, Ill. The scene is from the University Theatre production, "You Can't Take It With You," which opens at 8 tonight. See story Page 3.

Air Force Planes Hit Hanoi Bridge, Work Over Field

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force pilots reported today they dropped two spans of Hanoi's main rail and highway bridge in raids late Wednesday and knocked the mile-long structure out of service once more.

In other strikes, Air Force jets again worked over the North Vietnamese MIG airfield at Phuc Yen, which had been hit Tuesday for the first time in the war.

Doumer Bridge Hit Once
The Doumer Bridge, 1.7 miles from the center of Hanoi, had been hit only once before Wednesday's raid. Air Force pilots reported knocking the bridge out of commission Aug. 11. Subsequent aerial photos showed the one damaged span of the two-lane concrete bridge had been rebuilt.

There was no immediate U.S. report of plane losses in the raids. The North Vietnamese claimed 10 planes were shot down and an unspecified number of fliers were captured.

The North Vietnamese also charged the U.S. planes dropped "steel pellet bombs" on Hanoi's center and called it "a new, extremely brazen step" in escalation of the war.

CBU USED
They probably were referring to CBU bombs — Cluster Bomb Units — used mainly to knock out aircraft sites. The CBU is intended to smother the target by spewing hundreds of pellets over it, usually with fiery napalm added.

Squadrons of F105 Thunderchiefs returned to Phuc Yen, 18 miles northwest of Hanoi, which was hit Tuesday for the first time after being removed from the Pentagon's restricted list. Spokesmen said they blasted fresh craters in the 9,170-foot runway and hit maintenance and support facilities that were passed up in the initial raid, the most massive of the war.

Two Planes Collided
In the South, two American planes were lost in a collision at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport. Witnesses said an F105 Thunderchief, landing in a heavy rain, crashed into a taxiing C123 transport and flames engulfed both. The Thunderchief pilot was killed. The transport's four crewmen escaped with injuries.

The ground war was marked by light

Viet Cong mortar attacks on a half-dozen closely bunched towns and an airfield of Kien Hoa Province, in the Mekong Delta 30 to 45 miles south of Saigon.

The U.S. Army's 4th Infantry Division announced slim results in a 13-day hunt for North Vietnamese troops across four provinces of the central highlands; four Communists killed, 16 Americans wounded. The operation, dubbed McArthur, involves about 8,000 men.

Johnson Decries As Absurd Talk Of 'Yellow Peril'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, branding as absurd talk that the United States fears a "Yellow Peril" in Asia, said Wednesday freedom cannot be reserved for white Americans and Europeans.

"We have utterly repudiated the racist nonsense of an earlier era," Johnson said. "Indeed, we have made a commitment in Asia because we do believe that no men, whatever the pigmentation of their skins, should be delivered over to totalitarianism."

"Race has no place in our purpose."

Johnson made his remarks at the presentation of a Medal of Honor — the nation's highest military award — to Marine Maj. Howard V. Lee of New York City and Dumfries, Va. It was the 21st Medal of Honor to be given for actions in the Vietnamese war.

Some commentators and members of Congress accused Secretary of State Dean Rusk of raising the "Yellow Peril" threat at an Oct. 12 news conference in which he spoke of the danger of the great population masses of China armed with nuclear weapons.

Johnson said: "There has been some furor in the past week or so about the 'Yellow Peril.' Let me take just a moment to point out the absurdity of this charge."

"We fought side by side with Asians at Bataan and Corregidor, in Korea and now in Vietnam. We have utterly repudiated the racist nonsense of an earlier era."

Drug-Death Case Ends In Acquittal

NEW YORK (AP) — Stephen Kessler was acquitted by reason of insanity Wednesday night in the murder of his mother-in-law, a deed he attributed to an LSD trip into the uncharted world of hallucination.

It was believed to be one of the first homicide cases to involve the substance that has become a familiar symbol of the drug-oriented hippie culture in the United States.

A State Supreme Court jury of 11 men and one woman three times reported itself hopelessly deadlocked during its 12 hours of actual deliberations. Each time the court sent the panel back to try again.

The verdict came at 6:20 p.m. Kessler burst into tears at the acquittal, flung his eyeglasses on the defense table, covered his face with his hands and cried:

"I still say I don't know what happened. I had no reason to kill her. I loved her."

Polls To Be Guarded

By MARY CLARK

Ballot stuffers will have little chance to operate in today's Miss U of I election.

If they do manage to get past the 70 persons guarding the polling places and are eventually caught, their candidates will automatically be disqualified, according to Bob Ahders, A3, Rock Rapids, who is pageant board election chairman.

Ahders said precautions would be taken to insure a fair election.

The majority of the ballot stuffing in previous years occurred as the ballots were transferred from the polling places to the Union, Ahders said.

This year the ballots will remain in the boxes until the voting ends.

Approximately 70 students including many of Student Senate's freshman interns, will be guarding the ballot boxes.

Doug Jones, pageant board chairman, Loren V. Kotner, director of the Union and Adherers will count the ballots.

Identification cards and certificates of current registration, which are necessary for voting, will be closely checked to make sure the pictures and dates are correct.

All male undergraduates and graduates are eligible to vote.

Voting is scheduled to run from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at booths in Chemistry Building, Schaeffer Hall, Macbride Hall, Phillips Hall, English-Philosophy, Union and the Hillcrest Rotunda.

Weather permitting, there will also be a booth in the Pentacrest.

Jones will announce the name of the new queen at a pep rally to be held at the Old Capitol after the parade Friday night. The parade starts at 7 p.m.

The new Miss U of I and the four finalists will be presented at 10:30 at the Central Party Committee's Homecoming dance, which starts at 9 p.m. Saturday in the Union Main Lounge and New Ballroom.

Candidates Validated By Council

By CHERYL ARVIDSON

It's now official — the six candidates who tallied the greatest number of votes Tuesday will be placed on the Nov. 7 ballot to compete for the three 4-year City Council terms available.

In a special meeting Wednesday, the council approved the election abstract presented by City Atty. Jay Honohan and certified the names of Robert J. (Doc) Connell, E. Dale Erickson, Clifford B. Kritt, Brooks W. Booker, Leroy C. Buthers and Tim Brandt for the Nov. 7 ballot.

In other council business, Councilman Richard Burger asked for a revision of the city ordinance concerning the licensing of plumbers and electricians.

Burger said that as the ordinance now stands, owners of plumbing and electric businesses must hold masters' licenses in their trade. Burger called this ordinance "unfair."

Burger said that any people doing work or installations for companies should be licensed for the job, but that the man who owns the company, if he does not engage in repair or installation, should not have to hold a license.

The council agreed with Burger and instructed Honohan to revise the city ordinance.

Honohan said that he planned to investigate an employer's license that would require a business owner to pass a business operation test.

Under any revision that the council would make, company employees would still need a certified license.

City Manager Frank R. Smiley asked for council permission to request a State Highway Commission study concerning the lowering of the speed limit on North Dubuque Street.

Smiley suggested extending the city speed limit of 25 m.p.h. on North Dubuque Street beyond Mayflower Hall.

Smiley said that this speed lowering would provide greater safety for the semi-residential area.

In other council action, Smiley was authorized to proceed with the establishment of a city owned reserved parking area.

Public lots will be established behind the Civic Center and between College and Burlington streets behind the City Recreation Center.

Beer 'Conflict' Could Dampen Race

An opinion issued by the Attorney General's Office in Des Moines on Wednesday may have local implications, it was noted at Wednesday's informal City Council meeting.

The ruling said some persons who sell beer can't serve as a city councilman, according to preliminary reports.

Two of the six candidates who won in Tuesday's primary election hold beer permits.

The ruling was requested by the Osceola County Attorney. It said that since a member of a city council is responsible for administering the state liquor laws, he would be prohibited from holding a Class C beer permit. Such a permit entitles the holder to sell beer for consumption off the premises, in other words, to take beer out of the store or tavern.

It was noted, however, that opinions by the attorney general do not have the force of law. The issue would have to be contested in court and a judge's ruling delivered before it would have binding impact.

City Atty. Jay Honohan said Wednesday he would investigate the ruling to see if it also applied to holders of Class A and B beer permits.

Robert J. (Doc) Connell, owner of the Annex Tavern, holds a Class B permit, and Clifford B. Kritt, owner of Kritt's Beverage Co., holds a Class A permit. Class A permits are for the wholesale distribution of beer.

Smoke Pall Hangs Over Ruined Suez

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Great fires swept the ruins of two major Egyptian oil refineries Wednesday in the port of Suez a day after Israeli artillery blasted them to rubble. In New York, the U.N. Security Council demanded an end to the fighting in the Suez Canal area.

A pall of smoke hung high over the desolate and silent port of Suez at the southern end of the canal.

Correspondents brought from Cairo to Suez said an Israeli jet swept low over the port and fired machine guns at Egyptians fighting the refinery fires.

Israeli officers across the Suez Canal denied this, saying Egyptian anti-aircraft gunners opened fire on one of their own Soviet-built Sukhoi SU7 jets as it flew low over the refineries.

However, a U.N. observation post in the area reported an Israeli plane flew low over the sector and that Israel later complained Egyptian anti-aircraft guns fired on one of its aircraft near Port Taufiq south of Suez.

Foreign correspondents driving from Cairo by bus reported they could see the glow of fires in Suez when they were still 40 miles away.

300 Men Battle Blaze
When they arrived, they found 300 men battling the blaze in the refinery complex. Some flames leaped as high as nearby four story apartment houses. The Egyptians were trying to localize the fires to stop them from reaching other storage tanks. But the storage tanks were still going up in flames.

Gov. Hamid Mahmoud of Suez told the reporters the big Nasr — victory — refinery complex was almost completely destroyed while its twin refinery, the Suez, was half flattened.

The two refineries produce nearly three-fourths of Egyptian petroleum products. The pipeline terminal at Port Taufiq south of Suez also was ablaze. It normally pumps about five million tons from the refineries to Cairo each year.

Mahmoud said the shelling extended to houses, schools and factories. The Information Department in Cairo said eight civilians were killed and 60 wounded. Military casualties were given as eight killed and 32 wounded.

Normally bustling Suez was gloomy and silent as reporters toured the empty streets. Only the occasional explosions from oil storage tanks broke the silence.

Population Flees
Only about 80,000 of Suez's 250,000 population remained. The rest had headed to towns in the Nile delta and upper Egypt.

Mahmoud said the Israelis were obviously retaliating for the sinking of the destroyer Elath by Egyptian missiles Saturday. He said they opened unprovoked heavy fire on the oil complex.

The Israelis, however, said their artillery and mortars began firing at the refineries only after the Egyptians had begun an artillery barrage from the refinery area.

Israel was delighted that the United States had decided to resume some arms shipments, but the reaction in Cairo was one of extreme resentment.

Mohammed Hassan El-Zayat, chairman of Egypt's Information Department, told reporters the U.S. government plans "to put arms in the hands of Israeli aggressors who shelled our schools and factories and killed our children."

While the United States said nothing about it, Zayat asserted the U.S. government plans to ship 60 supersonic fighter planes to Israel. Washington officials said some but not all of 36 Skyhawk A4 fighter-bombers will be sent to Israel this year. The planes were on order before the June fighting broke out.

Cairo's semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram reported that several units of the Soviet fleet will arrive at Port Said at the northern end of the canal today for a "friendly visit."

Soviet warships, part of the fleet believed roaming the eastern Mediterranean, called at Port Said at the height of Israeli-Egyptian fighting along the canal earlier this year as a show of solidarity with Egypt.

U.N. Council Demands End To New Fighting

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The U.N. Security Council, meeting urgently to deal with fresh violence in the Middle East, Wednesday night unanimously condemned violations of the Egyptian-Israeli cease-fire and demanded an end to fighting in the Suez area.

The resolution, offered as a stopgap compromise between competing resolutions put forward by the United States and the Soviet Union, also expressed regret over the casualties and property damage from the recent violations.

The resolution was introduced after lengthy consultations by Ambassador Senjin Tsuruoka of Japan, council president for October.

Observance Reaffirmed
It reaffirms the "necessity of the strict observance of the cease-fire resolutions" adopted by the council last June during the six-day Arab-Israeli fighting.

It further calls upon the Israelis and the Arab nations to "cease immediately all prohibited military activities in the area and to cooperate fully and promptly" with U.N. peace observers in the area.

Despite heavy pressure, however, the resolution stopped short of authorizing Secretary-General U Thant to name a special representative to seek peaceful solutions to the complex Middle East problems, as many members have proposed, or of any other substantive action that might make a start toward a permanent settlement.

Members said negotiations on these points, long under way, would continue with renewed urgency.

Offered As Alternative
The resolution was worked out in consultations among the 10 nonpermanent members of the 15-nation council. It was offered as an alternative to rival resolutions submitted Tuesday night by the two major powers.

The Soviet Union called for condemnation of Israel, reparations for the damage caused by the Israeli shelling of the city of Suez and Israel's strict observance of the cease-fire.

The U.S. proposal would condemn "any and all violations of the cease-fire," insist on scrupulous respect for the cease-fire and ask the governments concerned to "issue categorical instructions to all military forces to refrain from all firing."

Chief S. O. Adebayo, of Nigeria, the only speaker at the morning meeting, appealed to the council to avoid an immediate vote on either proposal and to allow time for a search for a compromise.

U. of Oregon moves to reduce 'in loco parentis' by ending women's hours

Another case of "in loco parentis" may soon be history here at the University of Oregon. Women's closing hours may be on the way out.

For a number of years now the Emerald has advocated the Student Conduct Committee do away with all closing hours and this year it looks like it just might.

Bud Titus, associate professor of law and a committee member, introduced an amendment which would, in effect, abolish mandatory closing hours in university-related housing.

Basically, the university would establish no closing hours for any student living in a fraternity, sorority or co-operative, although each group may establish its own closing hours.

Furthermore, two kinds of student dormitories would be established — an "open" dorm with no hours and a "restricted" dorm with closing hours.

Any dorm resident would be eligible to live in either an open or restricted dorm and would be situated in a restricted dorm only if the resident or his parents filed a request for a restricted dorm.

Closing hours for restricted dorms would remain midnight on week days and 2 a.m. on Friday and Saturday.

This is just what we have been asking for years. Not only would it mean that the university recognizes student responsibility but also it would mean the university would take a long step down the road away from the philosophy of in loco parentis, or parent substitute.

Closing hours are a control that parents forced the university to place on its students many years ago. It's only natural that parents want to retain as much control as possible over their children as long as possible.

And after their sons or daughters come to the university they feel that the only way they can maintain a semblance of their former control is to demand that the university officials place restrictions on the students.

That parents are concerned about their children is understandable, but in loco parentis is a burden the university shouldn't have.

Last year the committee took many steps away from this idea. It approved visiting hours in the living units of the opposite sex; it changed closing hours and it asked that permission cards be changed to have only the information of whether a girl can or cannot check out over night.

As we said in an editorial last year, "The university is beginning to realize a responsibility it should have accepted long ago — one of providing the most realistic and practical education possible — one of giving students a chance to integrate the university with real life and to develop the maturity they are possessed of."

This is no small step and it is one that is liable to bring parents out in full force to protest.

But if parents want their sons or daughters to have closing hours all they would have to do is request a restricted dorm. Closing hours must be left to students and their parents, not the university.

'Man For All Seasons' has reason, eloquence

By NICHOLAS MEYER

Almost since the beginning of theater — or indeed any art form — there has been a continued and perplexing argument as to whether art should entertain (i.e.: move) first and set thoughts in motion after, or the other way around. One's reaction to Fred Zinneman's film of Robert Bolt's play, "A Man for All Seasons," is going to depend on which response you place more importance.

Visually, "A Man for All Seasons" must rank as one of the most stunning films ever made. The production of John Box equals if not surpasses the jobs he did on "Dr. Zhizago" or "Lawrence of Arabia."

The acting is equally sensational, with Paul Scofield richly deserving his Academy Award, and well-supported by an unbelievably well-coordinated array of talent which includes Robert Shaw, Gordon Redgrave, Wendy Hiller, Susannah York, Leo McKern, Vanessa Redgrave, Orson Wells and Nigel Davenport.

"A Man for All Seasons" is an utterly absorbing movie, but it is a dramatic failure in that the response it elicits from the audience is intellectual and only once emotional in origin.

The man for all seasons was Thomas More, lawyer, author, political theoretician, wit and Catholic. His sovereign was the mercurial Henry VIII, and the issue which divided them was Henry's divorce of Katherine of Aragon in order to wed Anne Boleyn (mother of Elizabeth I). More was Henry's Chancellor. He was also a pious Catholic. Rather than subject himself life and limb to the wrath of his king, in a move which he could not in good conscience approve, he resigned his post of office and retired to private life. Publicly and privately he refused to say a word for or against the divorce and new marriage, trusting implicitly in the laws of the land which guarantee immunity in his silence. In this he believed himself safe.

That he was not safe, history has shown. The story of More's downfall, of his absolute faith in the safety and justice of laws, is fascinatingly set forth in Robert Bolt's beautifully written language. Yet there is something missing. With the single exception of a scene in prison when he is visited by his family, we feel nothing for the plight of Thomas More. We like him, we admire his wit, his infinite resource, his sanity and sagacity; we revel in his speeches about men, lies, and God, but we are so awed by his intellectual perfection that we forget his mortality. It scarcely occurs to us during the entire proceedings to feel concerned for his life. How can you be concerned with a man who tips his executioner and tells him not to worry for he is dispatching him to Heaven? Thomas More makes king and country look like colossal asses, hypocrites and worse, and we delight in each of his victories, forgetting that the champion of reason reclaiming before us and arguing rings around a clumsy and corrupt morality, must himself be a real human being somewhere and is in danger of dying a very real death.

"A Man for All Seasons" is very dry, very intellectual and very moral. It is probably the longest film on the theme: "this above all, to thine own self be true, and it must follow as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man."

It is a marvel to behold. It is even a marvel to hear, but it does not touch the soul — only saturates effectively the brain, and I belong to the school which argues that this is not enough.

One cannot help comparing Bolt's play to Anouilh's similar historical drama of the moral struggle between church and state, "Becket." Although historically "Becket" is nonsense, it nevertheless is much stronger theater (or film) than "A Man for All Seasons." The two plays, with their similar themes and settings have been cut from the same cloth, but Bolt's is dry and starved where Anouilh's pulsates with real life.

"A Man for All Seasons" is a very good treatise. It has wit, it has reason, and it has eloquence. These almost — not quite, but almost — make up for its lack of feeling. They certainly make it worth seeing.

Have a Beer, son

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — A government-sponsored study on alcoholism has just been released and some of the recommendations are bound to cause quite a flurry in the United States.

The study said that it should be national policy to adapt realistically to a predominantly "drinking society." It is believed that if you made alcoholic beverages available to children, there would be less drinking than if you repressed them.

Having lived in France for a long time, I'm not sure the suggestions will produce the hoped-for results. Children in France drink wine at a very early age, and the French have one of the largest alcoholism problems in the world. I recall that in the Calvados, where the best apple brandy is made, the teachers once protested because mothers were giving their children a shot of brandy in the morning and the kids were staggering all over the roads on their way to school.

Even if the study is correct, the big question is 'How do you promote drinking in a family setting?'

The scene is the home of the Thompsons. It's 6 o'clock in the evening. Mr. Thompson yells up to his teenage son, "George, can I make you a martini?"

"No thanks, Dad, I'd rather have a glass of milk."

"Listen, you come down right away and drink this martini or you won't get any dinner."

"OK, but I still have a hangover from the white wine Mom packed in my lunch."

"One martini won't hurt you, and besides, it will keep you from becoming an alcoholic."

George comes downstairs, and Mrs. Thompson comes out of the kitchen.

Karen, their 14-year-old daughter, enters and says, "Hi, folks. What's for dinner?"

Mrs. Thompson says, "I've made a turtle soup with sherry, a beef in Burgundy sauce, salad with white wine dressing and for dessert brandied cherries and coffee served with whipped cream and Irish whiskey."

"Oh boy," George says. "I knew I should have done my homework before dinner."

"That's enough of that," Mr. Thompson says sternly. "Your mother has been slaving over a hot bar all day long, and the least you can do is not make wisecracks about her cooking."

Mrs. Thompson says, "Karen, you didn't eat the orange in your whisky sour."

"Mother, you know I hate oranges."

"But how else are you going to get your vitamins?"

"Where's Freddy?" Mr. Thompson asks. "He's up in bed. He passed out from all those liqueur-filled chocolates you brought home last night."

"Serves him right for eating between meals."

After dinner the family is back in the living room. Mr. Thompson and George are singing "Sweet Adeline." Karen is sitting on top of the piano, and Mrs. Thompson is making daquiris for everyone.

Freddie comes staggering down the stairs. "I'm hungry."

"All right," Mrs. Thompson says. "Help yourself to a cold glass of beer in the ice-box."

Cinema 16 movie called trash

For The Daily Iowan

There isn't much to be said about this week's Cinema 16 movie. The film, "Night Is My Future," is an early effort of Ingmar Bergmann and unfortunately the best one can say for it is that it is trash.

The story is the worst sentimental rubbish. A soldier who operates the targets on a practice range is accidentally blinded while trying to save a puppy who has wandered conveniently into the line of fire. While recovering at his aunt's house in the country he meets a young girl whose father has just died and who is now a maid in the house. He later goes to the city to take his examination for entrance into the musical academy (he is a pianist), having in the meantime alienated the girl unintentionally by calling her the maid in a conversation with his aunt. In the city he is not accepted at the academy and so goes to work for a venal restaurant owner. There he has more troubles. Finally he meets the girl again and marries her and goes off by train with her to become the church organist in some small parish.

The plot itself is obviously ridiculous and the people are either cliches or grotesques. At the beginning of the film there is a ludicrous sequence after the hero has been shot in which we see him pulled down into the mud by various pairs of hands and then rising (in miniature) through a huge fishbowl. Besides this the direction is less than pedestrian, the photography is dull, the acting adequate.

This semester there are two Bergmann films on the Cinema 16 list. Why anyone thought this film was of merit (it is early, early Bergmann) is as much a mystery as why anyone could have thought it was worth making in the first place. Everyone concerned could have saved their time. The audience, by skipping this one entirely, can save theirs.

Q — I've heard that Iowa City used to be subjected to disastrous flooding of the Iowa River. Is this true? Are floods like this possible any more? SEL

A — Mel Dahl, city engineer, reports that there used to be serious flooding of the Iowa River prior to the construction of the Coralville Dam. Dahl said flooding could still occur if there was an ice jam in the river such as the jams in the Mississippi River last winter.

Q — How many people are treated in the University infirmary each week? DRF

A — According to Dr. Chester Miller, director of Student Health, the Student Health Service gives medical attention to students in two areas: student clinic and student infirmary. He said there were about 40 students who had overnight stays in the infirmary each week, about 630 students in the clinic each week and about 1141 Student Health visits each week. He said there was an extensive overlap in these figures and that a number of students come back numerous times during the week for progress reports or re-examination.

Q — Is it true that one University professor wouldn't allow coeds to wear shorts to his classes last summer? DAM

A — Robert Caldwell, professor of sociology and anthropology, maintained last summer that the wearing of shorts by either males or females was against his standards of good taste. He asked the members of his Criminology 34S:140 class not to wear shorts. Most of the students complied. Student Body Pres. John T. Pelton did not comply and said he had been dropped from the class for his non-compliance. Caldwell maintained he dropped Pelton because he had not taken 34S:1. Pelton dropped the course.

Q — What is the total phone bill for the University on an average month? WCB

A — Leonard R. Brecka, University controller, says that it takes about $50,000 each month to cover the phone bill, tool equipment rental and operator salaries. The University Hospital phone bill is not included in this amount.

Q — Why can't KSUI-FM be on the air in the daytime and maybe broadcast some modern popular music in stereo? HAA

A — Carl Menzer, director of WSUI, says that the main reason is that the station does not have an adequate number of staff members or a sufficient budget to operate more hours. Menzer says, "Popular music can be obtained on other stations. WSUI would like to give some programs which are not generally available on other stations."

Q — Where do fruit flies go in the winter? WCD

A — George E. Brosseau Jr., associate professor of zoology, says that fruit flies go to warm places such as grocery store basements or kitchens during the winter. The fruit fly has no resistant stage, like a cocoon, in which they can survive during the cold season. However, since the average fruit fly doesn't have very many activities in the winter, he doesn't need very much food and therefore can find a nice, cozy warm place and spend the winter without bothering people.

CAMPUS CORNER

'A new cage? I can bearly believe it. . .'

Reader hits letter, supports SRA

To the Editor:

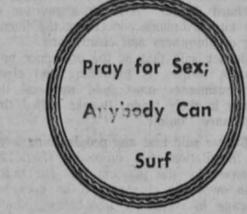

Since I have been following the current debate on the power of student government, I have been appalled at the one man letter to the editor campaign by Ken Murphy. I found Murphy's letter on Wednesday to be misleading, uninformed, and unfounded.

He refers to SRA (Students for Responsible Action) as a reactionary organization. This is a false statement. SRA contains many of the most progressive student leaders on this campus. They recognize that student government has been ineffective but they reject the idea that HSP (Hawkeye Student Party) has the only method to achieve progress. The SRA platform contains such ideas as no hours for sophomore women and the elimination of the 21 rule to live in unapproved housing. Murphy should check the facts before he makes another misleading assertion such as this.

His ignorance regarding the present power structure on this campus is obvious from his implication that Student Senate can unilaterally give itself power. As Brad Kiese's recent letter indicated, the mass of students on this campus are apathetic or dissatisfied only to the point of inconvenience but not rebellion. Most are here to get an education so they can increase their income later in life and not to get out on the picket line. Murphy attempts to isolate this issue as being one of students vs. the administration. He forgets that the state legislature and the Board of Regents have the ultimate veto.

In short, I hope that Murphy will check the record lest he make another misleading public display. . . Although I have certain reservations about the SRA proposal, it is reasonable and will accomplish something. I will vote for it on Nov. 1 and I urge my fellow students to do likewise.

Johnson's Rights Bill OK'd By Senate Group

See Related Story Page 13
WASHINGTON — The administration's civil rights bill was approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee Wednesday by a 7-6 vote after escaping narrowly a series of efforts to alter it.

The administration was able to produce a committee majority with the arrival of Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) from England on a military flight arranged by the White House.

The bill — designed to protect Negroes and civil rights workers from violence and threats in exercising federally guaranteed rights — was sent to the Senate where it faces a possible filibuster if Southern opponents rally enough Republican support.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.) sponsor of a substitute bill which the committee shelved 8 to 7 in favor of the administration version, said he would take his fight to the Senate floor.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen supported Ervin's proposal in the committee.

The administration plan would provide criminal penalties for injuring or intimidating a person exercising specifically listed federal rights or because of race, color, religion or national origin.

These rights include voting, attending public school, serving on a jury, employment, participating in federally aided program and use of public accommodations and such common carriers as railroads and buses.

The minimum penalty would be $10,000 fine or a year in jail. If bodily harm is done, the penalty would be 10 years or $10,000, or in case of death life imprisonment.

A Judiciary subcommittee had approved 5 to 1 Ervin's substitute, which would provide the same penalties but would not require a showing of racial, religious or other discrimination. Federal protection would be extended to all citizens regardless of race, religion or national origin.

The administration version approved by the committee omits some provisions put into the measure by the House which passed it last August.

School Spirit At Stadium 'Needs Lift'

"We do have some school spirit on this campus, but we need more," said Terry D. Schechinger, A4, Council Bluffs, who captains the University's cheerleaders.

The cheerleaders met Wednesday afternoon in the Union Ohio State Room with representatives of several housing units to discuss school spirit and what could be done to improve it.

Many representatives thought that the students did not know the songs and cheers, so the cheerleaders said they would start visiting all housing units to explain the cheers and answer any questions.

It was also thought that students might be more enthusiastic if the individual housing units obtained blocks of seats for the games.

Schechinger was encouraged by some of the comments of the representatives and said he was hopeful that all housing units would be represented at future meetings.

Reagan Says GOP Seeks Viet Victory

DES MOINES — Republicans will choose a presidential candidate "aligned to victory" in Vietnam, California Gov. Ronald Reagan said Wednesday, adding almost automatically that it won't be him.

Republican Reagan said the GOP would offer voters in 1968 no Vietnam alternative but victory.

"We can't go running with our tails between our legs," he told a news conference before his scheduled speech to a $100-a-plate Republican State Central Committee fund raising dinner.

Republican disagreement with the administration on Vietnam policy, he added, will be centered about the so-called credibility gap and President Johnson's reluctance to make affirmative decisions which could lead to victory.

Reagan said the North Vietnamese might have been brought to the conference table long ago had the U.S. not exempted 94 key military targets from attack by American warplanes.

"I'm one who believes the escalation should have taken place earlier," he said. "My disagreement is with stretching it (the war) out. But we have a commitment. We should be there."

The California governor said a declaration of war with North Vietnam "is worth considering" as a means of dealing with protest demonstrations under laws applying to treason, insurrection and giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

He said he couldn't buy seeing Americans "fight and die while the government defends the rights of those who dissent and give aid and comfort to the enemy."

There is central direction of the protest movement, he added, while the government is "bound by the technicality" of whether a war exists or not.

"This is part of the credibility gap," Reagan added. "I don't know why it isn't a war... they don't tell us." Reagan said the rules of war should apply even without a formal declaration to deal with the protesters.

Seydel Released On $2,000 Bond

After spending a month in the Johnson County Jail, Donald M. Seydel, 19, of West Branch, was released late Tuesday on $2,000 bond.

Seydel is charged with possession of marijuana. He was arrested Sept. 22 with two other youths at an apartment at 109 1/2 Clinton St. by Iowa City police and Johnson County Sheriff's officers.

For their efforts, Mrs. Penhorwood and the other finalists have already received $2,000 study grants.

Student Eyes Opera Finals

Mrs. Constance Penhorwood, G, Iowa City, will be one of nine vocalists to participate in the national finals of the Metropolitan Opera competition Nov. 5, on the Met stage in New York. Mrs. Penhorwood sings under the stage name of Constanza Cuccaro.

The opera finals will take place in front of an audience and a panel of judges composed of the Met's general manager, Rudolf Bing, and his staff.

A feature of the competition this year will be the presentation of a new auditions' award, the $500 Ludwig Donath Memorial Scholarship Award, which comes from the Metropolitan Studio.

In addition to the Donath Scholarship, winners of the finals will receive a possible Metropolitan Opera contract, the $2,000 Madame Lilliana Teruzzi Award, the $2,000 Stuart and Irene Chambers Award and the $2,000 Fisher Foundation Award.

For their efforts, Mrs. Penhorwood and the other finalists have already received $2,000 study grants.

'You Can't Take It With You' To Kick Off Theatre Season

By JUDI PIER

"You Can't Take It With You," the University Theatre's first production of the season, is a play in which the so-called "normal" people are in reality "abnormal" and vice versa, according to Edward L. Sostek, G, Iowa City, the play's director.

The play opens at 8 p.m. tonight and will run nightly, except Sundays, until Nov. 4. Week night tickets are still available at the Union.

The play, a comedy, centers on people who manage to stay happy in the economically worst period in this century — the depression.

The people in the play do weird things and enjoy doing so, Sostek said. They are not concerned with problems beyond their own group: love, happiness, acceptance of one another and peace are their main concerns.

All the strange things that happen do not seem strange to the audience after it becomes oriented to them.

"We (the audience) get used to these so-called weird actions, and they don't seem weird to us," said Sostek.

Thus, we are, in reality, laughing at the "normal" people, not the "abnormal" ones, he added. Sostek earned his B.A. and M.A. degrees at Tufts University near Boston, and is working on his Ph.D. degree in theater.

He has spent several years in the professional theater working as actor, director and stage manager of several off-broadway productions.

Sostek directed "Mandrachola" and "The Fantasticks" at the University.

—Motive For Rampage Unknown—

Mass Murderer Succumbs

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. — Leo Held, 40-year-old laboratory technician, died Wednesday without divulging why he shot and killed six friends and neighbors and wounded six others in a 90-minute rampage.

Held was still unconscious from four bullet wounds suffered when police captured him. A pulmonary embolism, or internal blood clot, was the immediate cause of death.

"He mumbled some things about his family and work," Dist. Atty. Allen Lugg told newsmen. "We have no further evidence of a motive."

Held, a former school board member and Boy Scout leader from nearby Loganton, was cut down by police bullets Monday an hour and a half after his shooting spree began at the paper mill where he worked.

He was married and the father of four children ranging in age from 12 to 18.

Held was described by some friends and relatives as quiet and mild-mannered. But others said the former Army sharpshooter had a violent temper, and was "odd and moody."

From police records, and interviews with relatives and friends, this chronology of the events of Oct. 23 was pieced together:

5:30 a.m. — Held and his wife, Alda, awaken in their 14-year-old brick home at Loganton, 15 miles from Lock Haven, and prepare for their day's work; his at the Hamermill Paper Co. plant in Lock Haven, her's at Plastic-Vac Corp. in Jersey Shore.

6:15 — Mrs. Held, 36, leaves for work.

7:15 — Held awakens his children — Kurt, 15; Gerald, 13, and Barbara, 12 — for school. Son Larry, 18, is at college in Hazleton, Pa.

7:17 — Held steps into his new station wagon — inside are two pistols — and leaves for Lock Haven.

7:56 — He parks in Hamermill's northside lot, tucks the pistols inside his jacket and walks the 50 yards to a plant entrance through the old turbine room. Carmen H. Edwards, 62, grandfather and a plant superintendent, is inside. Shots ring out and Edwards falls dead, the first to die.

7:59 — Elmer E. Weaver, 37, father of two, technician in the laboratory, is at work when Held walks into the room. A gun fires, and Weaver dies.

8:03 — Several men see Held approach. Shots sound. James Allen, 47, falls, wounded in the chest and arm. Lab assistant Allen R. Barrett Jr., 44, father of one, a former Air Force gunner, is killed. Richard H. Carter, 40, is hit twice in the stomach and once in the arm. His condition is critical. A stray bullet hits the turbine control unit, blacking out the plant.

8:05 — Held walks into an adjoining office where Richard Davenport, 32, a quality control supervisor, is working. Davenport, father of three, is killed.

8:06 — As Held strides down a corridor several employes scurry for safety. Two shots ring out — but the bullets miss.

8:08 — Entering the rewinder area, Held is confronted by David F. Overdorf, 23, who tries to stop him. A bullet through the thigh drops Overdorf, a former member of Held's disbanded car pool.

8:09 — Held walks five yards to a ramp in the finishing area where he calmly reloads his pistols.

8:10 — Miss Anabelle Steyer, a telephone operator, sees Held approach, and ducks beneath a counter, but Donald R. Walden, 31, supervisor of manufacturing, is shot dead as he hurries through the hallway, escorting employes — including his wife, Shirley — to shelter.

8:12 — Held walks back toward the telephone booth, pauses before the crouching Miss Steyer — and walks on.

8:13 — Outside the executive offices, a pistol cracks and Woodrow Stultz, 46, drops, wounded in the chest, abdomen and thigh.

8:14 — Held tucks his pistols back into his jacket and walks calmly out of the building. An employe asks, "What's going on?" Held replies, "The lights just went out."

8:20 — Held arrives at the Piper Aircraft Corp. plant, where Mrs. G. Schuyler Ramm, 37, a telephone operator, works. Mrs. Ramm once belonged to the same car pool as Held but quit because, she told her husband, Held drove recklessly. She spots Held's pistol and ducks beneath her desk. Held fires through the desk, wounding Mrs. Ramm in the face, neck and shoulder.

8:23 — Airport Manager Howard Graves, attracted by the shots, doesn't see Mrs. Ramm and assumes Held is firing blank cartridges. He grabs Held by the arm and orders him to leave. Held drives away before Graves finds Mrs. Ramm lying wounded.

8:52 — Arriving at Loganton, Held parks and enters the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd D. Quiggle, across the street from his own. Quiggle, a self-employed trucker, had no assignments Monday. He and his wife — are asleep when Held enters the bedroom. Gunfire kills the 27-year-old husband. Mrs. Quiggle is wounded in the face and neck. Their son is at school. Their daughter, Jody Lynn, 5, hides under the bed, and escapes harm.

8:57 — Taking several guns from the Quiggle home, Held walks to his own.

9:02 — Police arrive. Chief Homer Orndorf of Lock Haven encounters Held coming through a doorway with a rifle and two pistols.

9:04 — Held fires, and Orndorf shoots back, wounding Held in the leg. Held drops the rifle as he falls, but pulls a .45-caliber pistol and opens fire. Encircling police try to shoot the gun from his hand.

9:18 — Police shoot Held through the right wrist but Held pulls out a .38-caliber Magnum pistol with his left hand and starts shooting again.

9:21 — Almost immediately police bullets crash into Held's left wrist and right shoulder, knocking him unconscious, and ending the fight.

No Changes Needed To Make Dorms Co-Ed

By MIKE FINN

No remodeling is planned in the move to co-educational residence hall living, according to Ted M. Rehder, director of Dormitory Administration.

There have been recent reports that expensive changes would be necessary to make the women's residence halls more masculine and to make the men's halls more feminine.

Rehder said these reports were false. The only expense in making the changes would be the transportation of the beds across the river. This was necessary because men's beds are longer than women's, Rehder said.

Specifically, this would mean that urinals would remain in bathrooms to be used by coeds.

Separation Noted

The Grand Avenue Complex, composed of Hillcrest, Quadrangle, South Quadrangle, Rienow I and II, is presently all male. The Clinton Street Complex, composed of Burge, Currier, Kate Daum and Carrie Stanley, is presently all female.

Next fall Kate Daum and Carrie Stanley Halls will become men's residence halls while Rienow I and II will become women's residence halls.

The decision to trade Rienow I and II was based on a desire to provide co-ed dining, the comparable newness of buildings and the number of beds in each building, according to Rehder.

All four dining centers — Hillcrest, Quadrangle, Burge and Currier — students of both sexes will be served. Students from Rienow II will eat at Hillcrest, Rienow I at Quadrangle, Carrie Stanley at Currier, and Kate Daum at Burge.

Work Zips Along

Rienow II, which is still under construction, is ahead of schedule. Occupancy is slated for next fall.

Rienow I was opened in September 1966, Carrie Stanley in February 1966 and Kate Daum in September 1964.

Both Rienows have an occupancy of 523. Kate Daum and Carrie Stanley have capacities of 474 and 563.

Gordon A. Shuey, A2, Jefferson, candidate for student senator from Rienow, has expressed concern over the trading of double rooms for triple rooms.

All rooms in both Rienow halls are doubles. Two-thirds of the occupants in Carrie Stanley and Kate Daum are assigned to triples.

Another concern of some coeds is the long walk to the Grand Avenue Complex, which will include Rienow I and II.

French Magazine Reviews, Praises Student's Painting

A painting by a University art student has recently been reviewed by the editor of LaRevue Moderne, a French magazine.

The painting, "Mr. Short's Place," was finished in late 1966 by Dan D. Wood, G. Fort Dodge, an art teacher at University Elementary School. Wood said the painting depicted alleys behind Short's Shoe Repair and other downtown stores.

He said the painting used color to emphasize the age of the building. He said it also displayed the geometric composition of the buildings.

The article, which will appear in a future edition of the French magazine, said that it was a painting of force, and that the knowing use of tonalities gave the work a personality which showed the richness of the artist.

The painting was on exhibit at the Butler Institute of American Art in Youngstown, Ohio, when the French editor viewed it.

The painting is currently on display in the National Academy Galleries in New York City.

It is a part of an annual exhibit by the Allied Artists of America, Inc.

6 Cubans Beat Piracy Charges

MIAMI (AP) — A federal court ordered six Cuban exiles freed of piracy charges Monday on the grounds that a Panamanian freighter they allegedly hijacked was in U.S. waters, not on the high seas. U.S. district Judge Clyde Atkins directed a verdict of acquittal. The six were convicted of lesser charges. They were conspiracy, assault and battery, destruction of property and stowing away. No date was set for sentencing.

MAKING A DRAMATIC EXIT, University of Minnesota Pres. Malcolm Moos rises just as student protestors to campus recruitment by Dow Chemical Company, makers of napalm for use in the Vietnamese war, are about to present their demands. Moos, who met briefly with the group of about 40 students in the Board of Regents office on campus in Minneapolis, agreed with the students' right to protest but refused to listen to their demands that Dow be barred from the campus. — AP Wirephoto

The KLH Model Eleven.

One of our good customers, faced with the choice of taking his wife or KLH Model Eleven to Port Said—took his wife... Of course. We don't make silly claims about the Eleven. But we'll bet you see more KLH Model Elevens going places with people who go places than any other stereo portable on the market. The reason is simple. The Eleven is a portable that's really portable. Just 28 pounds of solid musical performance. It's got KLH quality throughout. There are specially designed KLH full range speakers; a distortion-free solid state amplifier; an automatic turntable custom-built for KLH by Garrard; magnetic cartridge and diamond stylus; inputs for tuner and tape recorder, and many other features. Come down to the store. Listen to the big sound of a little Eleven. It's for sure you'll run out of the store with one. And you won't need muscles or track shoes. It's that light. So is the price.

—South Quad In Living-Learning Plan— Dormitory Becomes 'Community'

Isolated Classroom In Woods Opens Doors To Perception

By BRUCE MOST
The black and white sign which squeaks in the wind outside South Quadrangle will soon read "South Quadrangle Community" instead of "Dormitory." The men of South Quad want it that way.

The residents of South Quad are part of a "Living-Learning" program, a new program designed to bring the academic world into the residence hall.

They consider themselves a community because almost all of them are freshmen and are majoring in either medicine, dentistry, pharmacy or engineering.

Most of them have at least one class which is held in the basement of South Quad. They have organized their own government and established their own rules.

Quiet hours were only recently imposed by "the residents, and are generally enforced by the residents themselves. Their advisers cannot make or enforce any rules.

The only rules they must follow are in the University Code of Student Life.

Robert P. Boynton, professor of political science and coordinator of the living-learning program, said in a recent interview that the program was started late last spring by Robert N. Hubbell, counselor to men.

Boynton said Hubbell was concerned that even though students spend more time in residence halls than in classrooms, the dormitory environment does not reinforce academic life.

One hundred and forty-two men live in South Quad, a small two story building which is now almost hidden by the half-completed Reinow II.

Most of the residents like the program, although they have their share of complaints.

"If you have a class here (South Quad) and then have a class on campus the next hour, you have to run to class," complained Kenneth Lloyd, AI, Anamosa.

A couple of the residents said a student should have all or none of his classes in the dormitory.

Many more, though, thought more work should be done to iron out the schedule problems so that students wouldn't have to run back and forth so much.

Another common complaint is that the rooms are too small. Most rooms have four students in them, some of them with beds three tiers high (which is done more for kicks than necessity).

Most of the complaints, however, are aimed at the building and not directly at the program itself.

Many residents feel one of the strongest points of the program is the fact that many of them have the same courses and same schedules.

"Just about everybody is taking chemistry," said Peter Reiter, AI, Cedar Rapids, a member of South Quad's government.

"The guys can help each other on assignments," he said, "and this makes for a more academic atmosphere."

Some residents, such as Michael Gregory, AI, Blockton, feel that since the dormitory is confined to only four pre-professional areas, the spectrum of interest is somewhat limited.

But many more feel it is not a real problem.

Mark Lorenz, EI, Cedar Rapids, said, "You get to know the kids quicker here. They are a closer knit group."

Many residents said that one reason they were a closer knit group than most dormitories was that they had to establish their own dormitory rules.

Boynton, and many of the residents, did point out, however, that South Quad had been slow in organizing their rules, government and social functions.

A seven-man executive committee has been elected, but a constitution is only in skeleton form.

A student senator, Curtis Cooling, AI, Waterloo, was recently elected.

A judicial committee will be set up, but its structure has not been determined.

Some, such as Michael Gregory, attributed this slowness to the fact that the students "are not used to setting up their own government."

Others, such as Peter Reiter, AI, Cedar Rapids, felt that the residents are "just now realizing how much they are on their own."

Still others, such as James Chadek, A2, Mount Vernon, who is president of the executive council, said the slowness is due to apathy, too much freedom, and an unwillingness to accept rules.

"They reject many of the normal dormitory rules, but they will find that they will have to come down to earth," he said. "The problem is getting them to accept at least a skeleton of rules."

Chadek pointed out that just over 25 per cent of the residents voted for student senator.

"Everybody lets somebody else run things," he said, "and then they complain when they see what has been done."

By SALLY HOLM
Last week in a wood cabin "classrooms," isolated from the pressures of schedules, deadlines, and time, I went through an 80-hour lesson in perception.

The experience was called sensitivity training and its goal was better interpersonal relations through better perception of one's self.

The "classroom" was located at the 4-H campgrounds in Madrid, a small town north of Des Moines. The participants were 77 students and faculty members from the University and Drake University. The name of the "course" was the Human Relations Laboratory.

But there the classroom analogy ends. No classroom atmosphere, no assigned student-teacher roles and no definite goals left an open stage for the four-day lab.

Throw a group of people together with no expressed task or topic for an extended period of time, eliminate as many of the restrictions, inhibitions and social norms as possible, and let these people have nothing to concentrate on but themselves.

Group In Isolation
That describes the basic unit of sensitivity training, the T-group or training group. Composed of 12 persons, the group spent some 30 hours in isolation trying to better understand the motivations, defenses and needs of each of its members.

Under the leadership of a national consultant on sensitivity training, the lab's first session attempted to introduce a number of various perception techniques. For example, each participant was told to face everyone in the 77-member group individually and communicate solely by eye contact. It was a very uncomfortable yet effective introduction. And it set the tenor for the next three and a half days.

The individual T-group sessions began the first evening. It's hard to imagine and harder to describe how 12 strangers can walk into a room knowing nothing about each other and end up responding to each other on an intensely personal level in a very short span of time.

Starting Was Frustrating
Getting started was a very frustrating experience, and in most T-groups, 12 uncomfortable people fidgeted wordlessly for the first half hour.

The key to relaxing the mood lay in the establishing of what is called a "trust level" in T-group jargon. And it was not until each member felt secure enough to open up that the group began to function.

Once a trust level was established, sessions became destruction-construction processes. Defense mechanisms and communication barrier were torn down and confidences rebuilt. It was like reaching into someone else's mind, fish pond — one never knew what to expect until it was brought to the surface. And the beauty of it was that anyone was free to say exactly what was on his mind.

If, for example, one member was bothered by another's overbearing manner, he said, "You really bug me. I don't like that superior attitude of yours."

Such comments were the momentum necessary to swing attention to that individual to help him realize his "hang-up" and find some way to deal with it effectively.

Perceptions Sharpened
The manner by which criticism and reinforcement was transmitted was termed feedback — negative or positive, and it was through such feedback that the individual learned to sharpen his perception of himself in relation to others.

Since returning to the campus, most participants have voiced very favorable opinions on the program's effectiveness.

But, as Dr. Roger D. Augustine, director of student activities and co-chairman for the lab, has pointed out, the true test of its effectiveness lies in its application outside of the normless, unrealistic tenor of the T-group. Generalizations on increased self-awareness and perception may have been meaningful in Madrid, but they drew blank stares in Iowa City.

True, the very nature of the experience makes it difficult to describe, yet the answer is not in describing but rather in demonstrating what positive effects there might have been.

The Madrid lab was sponsored by the University's Student Leadership Program and financed by the University, Student Senate, and a $25 fee paid by each participant.

Co-chairmen were Augustine and Jane E. Anton, A4, Waterloo. They were assisted by an executive committee composed of three faculty members and three students.

Another laboratory is tentatively scheduled for February of 1968.

Bayer Paces Sahara Golfers

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Towering George Bayer led an awesome parade of par wreckers through the first round of the $100,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament Wednesday.

He shaved five strokes off regulation figures, despite a badly swollen finger and competitive inactivity since last April.

Bayer toured the 7,069-yard, par 35-35-71 Paradise Valley Country Club course in 34-32-66.

Thirty-six professionals of the 14 entered shot subpar golf, with the defending champion Jack Nicklaus posting a 36-32-68. Arnold Palmer, suffering the agony of a double bogey and bogey on the second and third holes, finished with 39-37-76.

Six players were crowded one shot back of Bayer at 67.

They were Ken Still, 33-34, who was playing with a painful rib injury; Julius Boros, 34-33; Romero Blancas, 35-32; Frank Beard, 35-32; Bo Wininger, 34-33; and Terry Dill, 34-33.

Included in the 68 bracket with Nicklaus were Bob Goalby, 35-33; Gardner Dickinson, 34-34; Butch Baird, 33-35, and Joe Carr, 36-32.

Coach Comments—

Lee Evaluates Boilermakers, Iowa's Next Big 10 Opponent

Gordon Lee, Iowa's defensive backfield coach, has been scouting Purdue, Iowa's Homecoming foe, for the last two weekends. Purdue beat Ohio State 41-6 Oct. 19, and lost last weekend to Oregon State 22-14.

"Purdue's biggest threat is its offensive attack," said Lee, "however, they are an effective defensive club also."

"Their offense centers around sophomore quarterback Mike Phipps. His two favorite receivers have been flanker Leroy Keyes and end Jim Beirne."

The 6-2, 205-pound quarterback took over the top spot in the nation in total offense this week. In Purdue's five games, Phipps has a total of 1,243 yards. He is second in the nation in total pass yardage.

"Phipps is not a nifty runner," said Lee, "but he is effective." "He seldom carries the ball, although he can run out of the pocket if his receivers are covered."

"Although Purdue is mainly a passing team, they have two very talented runners in Keyes and fullback Perry Williams. When their passing attack falters, they can still be considered a threat on the ground."

Keyes has a 4.4 rushing average and Williams 4.1. They have scored nine touchdowns between them.

"On third down situations with medium yardage," said Lee, "look for a pitchout to Keyes in the tailback position, or a short pass. On third down and short yardage, they like to run Keyes wide or give to fullback Williams."

"They have a big defensive line averaging around 235 pounds. Against a running play, they use a five-man front line. On passing plays, they use a four-man line with three linemen, and on short yardage, they use a six-man line with one linebacker."

"Against Oregon State, Purdue looked flat. I think they were still riding high after their victory over Notre Dame. Also, Phipps did not play his usual ball game."

Phipps Throws

In Purdue's first four victories, Phipps passed for over 200 yards and threw at least one touchdown pass. However, against Oregon State, he did neither. His longest completion was only for 15 yards.

Purdue has won six straight games from the Hawks. The last Hawkeye win was in 1960.

AL SCHUETTE

DON SIBERY

AL SCHUETTE, 6-2, 185 pounds, from Staunton, Ill., is a versatile sophomore performer who is being groomed as a safety.

He is also an outstanding pass catcher. In his senior year in high school, he grabbed 39 of 40 passes thrown to him. This ability earned him little all-state honors in 1966.

Schuette also punts and kicks field goals. He pitched his high school legion team to a second place finish in statewide competition.

DON SIBERY, 6-1, 218 pounds, from Dearborn Heights, Mich., is a sophomore who won a starting position at linebacker this season.

The coaching staff has been very impressed with his toughness. He played prep football at Robichaud High in Dearborn, the same school which gave Iowa Si McKinnie. Sibery was a guard and linebacker in high school and received honorable mention all-state.

Sibery was an outstanding student, being named honorary mayor of Dearborn Heights for a day. His hobby is showing horses.

Iowa Intramurals Reviewed

By MIKE EBBING

"The main purpose of the intramural program is to provide both formal and informal recreational facilities for students, faculty and town residents," said Otto Berg, head of intramurals, in a recent interview.

The formal part of the program, according to Berg, consists mainly of competition among dorm residents, social and professional fraternities, and town residents not living in dorms or fraternities.

The informal part concentrates more on recreational sport activities. Canoeing, family-nights, play nights, and Sunday recreation make up most of this area.

Berg, who came to the University in 1965, did his undergraduate work at Kansas State University. He received a B.S. degree in physical education in 1958, and an M.Ed. from the University of Arizona in 1963. He has completed a year of graduate schooling here at the University and is currently working on a Doctor of Education degree in physical education at the University of Missouri, Columbia.

Berg Succeeds
 Berg will succeed Frederic Bebee as director of Intramurals when Bebee retires in 1969. Bebee has been with the intramural department since 1936.

"I think the program promotes physical fitness and the social objectives of associating with fellow peer groups," said Berg. "We hope participation will provoke a permanent interest in recreational sports after college."

Berg discussed some proposed improvements and changes for the program.

"We plan some office reorganization which should benefit the program through a re-utilization of some of our funds. Nearly half of our budget is spent on elaborate trophies and record-keeping."

Instead of individual sport trophies, Berg suggested that one major trophy be presented to the overall division champion at the end of the year, with plaques going to individual sport titlists.

Recognition Intended

"The main purpose of these awards," according to Berg, "is recognition and not reward. Plaques with the names of team members would be more effective than a huge nameless trophy. These plaques would be cheaper and allow us to transfer these funds into more worthwhile areas."

"One of the weaknesses of the program is that we need more referees and officials. The officiating this year has been superb, but we simply are lacking in quantity. The program could be improved by appropriating money into this area."

The increased number of forfeits was another problem that Berg discussed. He has proposed a new point system for next year that will hopefully eliminate many forfeits.

"Points would be awarded for both winning and participating in the contest. If a team forfeited, it would lose its participation points for that event. A total running score of points would be kept and at the end of the season, the team with the highest total would be the intramural champion in its division."

Under the present point system, each individual of a team participating in a contest receives a point for his team. These points are tabulated for the entire season and the team with the highest number receives a participation trophy. Berg said that the main fault with this system was the tremendous amount of bookwork.

Trophy Recognizes

"The trophy would recognize both athletic excellence and participation," said Berg. "By penalizing teams for forfeits, I think this will promote more interest and improve overall competition."

Like many college intramural programs, Berg said that Iowa's program suffered from a lack of space.

"The proposed multi-purpose recreation building should alleviate much of this problem," said Berg. This arena will be used by the baseball and track teams, leaving the Field House open more for physical education classes, intramurals and recreation. The new building, which should be completed by 1969, will also be used for intramurals and recreational sports.

Berg said that he was pleased with the success of the intramural program this year.

"The office personnel has been highly dedicated to the program. Dr. Bebee, who is serving as an advisor, has been a great help to me during this transitional period," he said.

Iowa H-Andy Man Boots Way Into Hawkeye Football History

By PAUL STEVENS

During Saturday afternoon football games, he sits alone on a bench beside the rest of the team — a second line of defense — waiting for a chance to add a point or three to Iowa's side of the scoreboard. His total game action in three years probably wouldn't amount to over two minutes.

But unnoticed and somewhat behind the limelight of Iowa's offense and defense, the Hawkeyes' Bob Anderson is building up quite a record for a guy who never played the sport until he reported for practice on a hot August day four years ago. Anderson is a refined specialist in a sport that becomes more specialized every year, and his only tools are a square-toed shoe and a homemade kicking tee made of plywood.

Andy's Accurate

Andy has made an art of place kicking that no Iowa kicker of the past has come close to matching. The 21-year-old senior has never missed an extra point kick in 27 attempts, which is an Iowa record. He's booted 13 field goals in 19 tries during his career as a Hawk, and a 42-yarder against Minnesota in 1965 is also another Iowa record. Andy has led the team in scoring for the past two years.

But statistics are cold and Sports writers find him refreshing to interview after talking harsh, and Andy certainly is not with offensive players about what made the big play click. He displays a ready smile and different sense of humor to anyone who talks to him, and many writers leave the interview asking themselves, "Just what did he say?" Jerry Burns, the former Hawkeye head coach who was succeeded by Ray Nagel, will probably never forget Andy.

At the start of Iowa's fall practice in 1965, an uninvited guest, a fat, pear-shaped kid, showed up at the practice field. He was an odd-looking sort. He carried a mesh potato sack over his shoulder packed with footballs of his own, and they were worn in places so the bladder was punching through like a rupture.

Kicker Reports

He wore a Minnesota Twins baseball cap and a Chicago White Sox T-shirt. He told Coach Burns that he was reporting for the team as a kicker, and in his hand, held tightly as if it were redeemable for cash, was a homemade kicking tee with sandpaper glued to a piece of plywood.

At first he practiced by himself, kicking and chasing. Next the student manager got the shagging job.

Burns, as he told the story later, was nearly breaking up over the sight of the fat kid with the potato sack of balls but agreed to take a look. It could have been the smartest move he made as Iowa coach.

That was Anderson's debut on the football field . . . not the Iowa field . . . any field. He never played in high school. Burns, after seeing how valuable Anderson could be, gave him some old pads and an Ohio State helmet that had been left behind from one of the Buckeyes' trips to Iowa Stadium. Andy painted the helmet and across the front wrote "Rose Bowl or Bust." The idea was a bust, and still is as Andy finishes his final season with the Hawkeyes.

If the key to Anderson's success could be pinpointed to any one thing, it would have to be his tremendous determination. Andy began his kicking acquaintance with the football in a cemetery in a town in Massachusetts, where he once lived before moving to Chatfield, Minn., several years ago.

Andy has had his moments of glory, such as last year against Indiana when he won the game with a field goal, but these moments are engulfed by the hours of practice he has put into his profession.

Anderson practiced throughout the past three summers in a small schoolyard near his place of residence in Iowa City. He was also on a weight losing program at the insistence of Coach Nagel, who said last year that he didn't want "a fat pumpkin" rolling onto the field to kick extra points. Andy weighed 225 as a sophomore, but has since slimmed down to 186 pounds.

Position Isolates Him

Andy's position as strictly a kicker on the team in a way tends to isolate him physically from the rest of the players. At an Iowa practice session, he can usually be found kicking alone away from the scrimmaging. But does he feel isolated?

"Absolutely not," replies Andy. "I agree with Coach Nagel 100 per cent when he told us that every man on this team is a part of this team, win or lose."

His string of extra points has no psychological effect on him, claims Anderson.

"My gosh, there'd be no sense having a kicker if he couldn't kick an extra point, would there?" Anderson said.

So you walk away saying to yourself, "I guess he's right, whatever he said," and behind you, the paunchy kicker places another ball on his tee, preparing for his next opportunity to extend perfection.

Patterson Hungers For Title

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "They say I'm hungrier than I am and that's probably true. But I'm just as hungry for the championship as he is."

At 32, Floyd Patterson hungers for the heavyweight boxing championship he already has won, lost, won and lost again.

On Saturday afternoon at the Olympic Auditorium, the ex-champion fights a return match with young Californian Jerry Quarry with the winner advancing in the current World Boxing Association tournament to decide a titlist.

Patterson was 21 when he knocked out Archie Moore in the fifth round to win the title via a tournament route after Rocky Marciano retired undefeated.

"I feel just as strong now as I was then," Floyd declared as he wound up his strenuous training for the return match against the 22-year-old Quarry who battled him to a 10-round draw last June 9.

"Some say I'm not as strong, some say I'm stronger, but as far as I'm concerned, I'm feeling just the same," Patterson observed.

He doesn't feel the winner of the tournament can feel himself a true champion until he meets and beats Muhammad Ali, declaring, "I'd like to fight him again very much."

Damascus Set For Cup

NEW YORK (AP) — "He's ready. I can't do anymore."

That was trainer Frank Whitley Jr.'s terse comment Wednesday as he prepared Damascus for Saturday's $100,000-added Jockey Club Gold Cup at Aqueduct — the 3-year-old colt's final race before taking on some of the world's best in the $150,000 Washington D.C. International at Laurel, Md., Nov. 11.

Indian Fighter Honored On 100th Birthday

SAN FRANCISCO — An Englishman who left his native London at age 20 to fight Apache Indians in the territory of Arizona was honored Wednesday on his 100th birthday by President Johnson and the U.S. Army.

"Your devotion while serving this nation in the Indian Wars and the full and varied life you continue to live are an inspiration to us all," the President wrote in a letter read aloud to Reginald Bradley, the former Englishman, as he stood on the same Army Presidio ground where he was mustered out of service Sept. 10, 1894.

Flanked by Lt. Gen. Ben Harrell, commander of the U.S. 6th Army, the grey-haired old Indian fighter — who confides that two fingers of 100-proof bourbon daily are a must for him — leaned only lightly on his cane as a saluting honor guard marched by.

Harrell bestowed upon Bradley the shoulder patches of an honorary sergeant major and said, "With that goes an awful lot of authority."

'Tons Of Pot' Discovered Near Capitol

DES MOINES — "Tons" of marijuana have been found growing on state-owned land near the Capitol, an employee of the State Buildings and Grounds Department said Wednesday.

However, William Gall, state superintendent of buildings and grounds, said he didn't know if the plants were marijuana. He said he would check and destroy the plants if they were.

Richard Comegys, a state groundsman, said the weed until Tuesday covered an entire hillside southeast of the Statehouse. It was growing in an area recently acquired by the state. Crews by Tuesday had cut or scraped away most of the plants, he said.

"We even had to use a bulldozer," Comegys said. Comegys, after holding up a plant taller than he was, said it was marijuana, still green and apparently in its prime despite chilly weather.

'Soviet Journal Reveals Battle Over Economy

MOSCOW — A Kremlin battle over the Soviet economy has been exposed to public view with an indication that Communist chief Leonid I. Bresnev has lost a round.

Just who won was a question puzzling diplomats here Wednesday. Most likely answer was that a combination of other leaders representing heavy industry, defense production and other special interests in the Soviet economy had probably won.

The battle is over the division of scarce investment capital between industrial development and improving Soviet agriculture. It has been going on for at least two years and is continuing, according to the article which exposed it.

Polyansky is Writer
The article appeared in Kommunist, the theoretical journal of the Soviet Communist party, under the byline of Deputy Premier Dmitry S. Polyansky. Polyansky is the top government man supervising agriculture and he is also a member of the 11-man Communist party Politburo.

The Politburo, in which party General Secretary Bresnev is normally the key man, makes decisions which the Soviet government carries out.

The article appeared this week, a month after the Communist party decided that agricultural investment in the 1966-70 period would be 35.7 billion rubles from national budgets. A ruble is $1.11 at the official rate of exchange.

Investment is Lower
This is 13 per cent less than the 41 billion rubles which the party had decided in March 1965 would be invested in the five-year economic planning period.

Bresnev had personally advocated the March decision in order to try to overcome the chronic backwardness of Soviet agriculture.

Dolphin Queen To Don Crown Sans Reagan

By JIM JOHNSTON

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California won't choose this year's Dolphin queen, but there will be a queen anyway. Reagan, who was a radio announcer in Des Moines 25 years ago, chose the Dolphin queen in 1942 after he had made a name for himself in Hollywood.

Prior to 1935, the pictures of the Dolphin queen candidates were sent, along with their qualifications, to radio and movie personalities who picked the queen. Since 1935 the Dolphins have picked their own queen except for the year that Reagan did the judging.

Queen Was First

The Dolphin queen was the first queen to reign on this campus and for many years the Dolphin queen was also the homecoming queen.

The Dolphins started as a swimming and gymnastics fraternity on this campus in 1922.

The planning for each show, which is the largest amateur indoor water show in the Midwest, begins right after the previous show is finished, according to Tim Barnes, A3, Tacoma, Wash., the Dolphin publicity director.

Barnes said that a theme would be picked this fall for next year's show and that the Dolphins would begin work on new acts immediately. After the acts have been worked out, a title would be chosen.

Show Has Pacific Plot

This year's show, "Paradise Dolphin Style," centers around a pilot who is forced to parachute to safety on a South Pacific paradise island. He is taken to a native village where a Peace Corps worker is organizing a festival. The Peace Corpsman eventually helps the pilot escape.

The Old Gold Singers, a synchronized swimming team, clown divers, and a gorilla will be featured in this year's show.

Letters Sent

The Dolphins sent letters to 25 junior and senior high schools inviting them to a special show Wednesday night. Barnes said that the students were able to see the show, which is a full dress rehearsal, for half price. The Dolphins will give the schools one-third of the receipts from Wednesday night's show.

The Dolphin queen will be crowned at tonight's show. The finalists are: Susan Boyd, A1, Gladbrook; Cyd Casserly, A2, Humboldt; Linda Flanders, A3, Muscatine; Ginny Sias, A3, Orlando, Fla.; and Ellen Wright, A3, Decorah.

Receipts Pay Expenses

Barnes said that receipts from the show would pay for expenses and help get next year's show started. Also, the money would be used to send some Dolphins to Florida during Christmas vacation to attend swimming and gymnastics clinics.

"Paradise Dolphin Style" will be presented four times: 8 to 10 p.m. Friday; and 7 and 9 p.m. Saturday.

Admission is $1.50, and tickets can be purchased at the Dolphin booth in front of Old Capitol or at the door.

Rash Of Thefts Breaks Out Here

A rash of thefts has broken out here, according to police officials. One arrest has been made.

Three cars parked at a Coralville motel were broken into Tuesday night. A barbershop theft in Coralville and a car theft involving camera equipment are being investigated.

Donald Ray Yoder, 21, 946 Iowa Ave., was charged Tuesday with larceny in the daytime by sheriff's officers. Yoder is accused of taking $350 from the Dean Moel farmhouse near Solon on Sept. 29, and $74 from the Robert An residence, Route 2, on Oct. 18. He appeared before Justice of the Peace T. E. Lyon Tuesday night and was freed on $400 bond.

Jay Brooks, a night clerk at Old Capitol Inn, told Coralville Police that a personalized check book drawn on the Coralville Bank and Trust Co. was the only thing taken from his car. He said he had closed the account Tuesday.

Charles R. Harris, Cape Coral, Fla., said that three shotguns, some bullet shells and a camera, valued at $529, were taken from his car while parked at the motel.

John Beatrice, Calumet City, Ill., said that a coin changer with $15 was the only item taken from his car.

Mike Saresky, proprietor of Mike's Barber Shop, Coralville, found $61 worth of shears and clippers and rolled coins missing Tuesday morning when he opened his shop.

Iowa City Police are still investigating a theft of camera equipment and tools taken Monday night from the car of Harry Cook, G. Penfield, N.Y.

State Officials Coming Here For Luncheon

More than 550 state and University officials are expected to attend the annual State Officials Luncheon scheduled for Saturday morning in conjunction with the 1967 Homecoming festivities.

The luncheon will start at 10 a.m. in the North Gym of the Field House, according to Ann Wayner, A4, Iowa City, committee chairman.

Among those officials invited to attend the dinner were Gov. Harold E. Hughes, his cabinet, state legislators, supreme court justices and members of the Board of Regents. Pres. Howard R. Bowen and several other University administrators are also expected to attend the luncheon.

The luncheon is jointly sponsored by the President's office and the Homecoming Committee, Miss Wayner said.

The North Gym will be decorated for the event with the motif "A Record Smashing Victory," Miss Wayner said.

Members of the State Officials Luncheon Committee are: Arlene Faik, A2, Mendota, Ill.; Kim Newland, A2, Cedar Rapids; Sara Horstman, A4, Britt; Barbara Criswell, N3, Indianola; and Charles Caughlan, A2, Council Bluffs.

Senate Ethics Committee Finds No Facts On Long

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate ethics committee reported Wednesday it found no evidence to support charges that Sen. Edward V. Long (D-Mo.) misused a wiretap probe in an effort to help imprisoned Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa.

The bipartisan panel said although it found no basis for public hearings on the charges, it would "hold itself in readiness to consider any additional evidence which may become available relating to this matter."

Long promptly told newsmen: "I feel very definitely it is a complete vindication."

The committee undertook an inquiry into charges in the May 26 issue of Life magazine that Long, chairman of a Senate Judiciary subcommittee, had misused an investigation of wiretapping and other "snooping" by federal agencies in an effort to help Hoffa.

The magazine said Morris A. Shenker, a St. Louis lawyer who represented Hoffa in his appeal from a jury tampering conviction, had paid Long $48,000 in legal fees in 1963 and 1964.

Long acknowledged the payments but denied they had anything to do with Hoffa or the Teamsters Union. He said they represented a sharing of fees from legal cases he and Shenker had worked on together.

The magazine said Long had misused the wiretap probe first in an attempt to keep Hoffa out of prison and then to get his conviction reversed.

Air Force Awards To Be Presented

The annual fall awards ceremony for University Air Force ROTC cadets will be held at 7 tonight in the Iowa Field House Armory.

Hunter Rouse, dean of the College of Engineering, will present awards to the cadets.

Awards to be given are the Military Scholastic Award, Distinguished Air Force ROTC Cadet Award, Air Force ROTC Pilot Wings, Wing Staff Service Ribbon and Commanders Service Ribbon.

Expo '67 To Close Sunday With Large Deficit

OTTAWA (AP) — Expo 67 will close Sunday with a total deficit of about $250 million — above five times the originally predicted cost — an informed government source said Wednesday.

As of last week, the fair's revenues were $116 million, or 95 per cent of projections, but operating expenses had climbed beyond expectations.

Speaker Seminar Director

IOWA CITY, Iowa — The Rev. Carl Gutekunst, liturgist and speaker at St. Paul's University Lutheran Chapel's Reformation Celebration on Sunday, also conducts Seminars in Religious Concerns twice-weekly at the Chapel.

The Seminars are "an attempt to examine contemporary religious questions, see what theologians have said and are saying about them and then to decide what we think we think," according to Gutekunst.

The Seminar, which meets on Wednesday and Friday at noon, currently is discussing "Man?". The meetings are open to all University students, and coffee and sandwiches are provided.

Rev. Gutekunst, a Ph.D. candidate in systematic theology at the University's School of Religion, received his BD from Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo., in 1960. He was ordained in 1956 at Waterloo where he served as pastor from 1956 to 1960.

He has studied also at The University of Detroit under Jesuit clergy and at the Association of Theological Faculty of Iowa, Dubuque, under a faculty consisting of Roman Catholic, Presbyterian and American Lutheran Church clergy.

Obviously no stranger to the academic, Rev. Gutekunst has taught theology both at Lutheran High East, Detroit from 1960 to 1966, and at Michigan Lutheran College, also in Detroit, from 1963 to 1966.

Rev. Gutekunst is now serving two pastorates; one in Garrison, and the other in Van Horne where he, his wife, and children reside.

UAW To Ratify Contract With Ford

DETROIT (AP) — Striking United Auto Workers Union members appeared Wednesday to be placing their stamp of approval on a proposed new three-year contract with the Ford Motor Co.

Ratification by overwhelming numbers was reported in early returns from several UAW locals, including the 34,000-member Local 600 at Ford's mammoth Rouge plant downriver from Detroit.

Walter Dorish, president of the Rouge local, said 93 per cent of the production workers and 62 per cent of the skilled tradesmen had approved the proposed pact. Under the UAW voting procedure, the skilled workers have a veto power over any tentative agreement.

Prof. to Study Computers James N. Murray, professor and head of the Department of Political Science, will leave Sunday for a two-week conference on the use of computers in international relations in Oakridge, Tenn.

Food Shipments Increased
 WASHINGTON (AP) — In the wake of unexpectedly bountiful U.S. harvests, the government disclosed plans Wednesday to step up food-for-freedom shipments to needy countries.
 President Johnson is personally interested in using U.S. food to improve nutrition and child feeding. U.S. aid missions abroad have been told.
 In making public a Washington message to the aid missions, State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey declined to say whether the move was prompted by an administration desire to prop up sagging domestic farm prices before the 1968 presidential election.
 The message from the Agency for International Development (AID) to its overseas posts, dated Oct. 21, in effect repeats an August, 1966, cutback of 25 per cent in the food donation program because of the then tight supply of grains.
 "There is ample food available to meet program requirements which were curtailed last fiscal year because of limited supplies of some commodities," the new AID message stated.

Computer Teaching System Begun In Dentistry College

By MARY ANN McEVoy
 Teaching methods may be changed by the introduction of computer-assisted instruction in the College of Dentistry.
 An IBM 1500 computer system was recently programmed with a sample dentistry course. This computer and others like it may be used to change instructional techniques in dentistry.
 Three dentistry instructors prepared a course, "Essentials in Periodontics," which was programmed into the computer.
 The computer can present audio material to the student through earphones. Written information, pictures, slides and graphs are displayed on screens.
Project Leaders
 Director of the project was Dr. Devore E. Killip, director of educational research and continuing education for the College of Dentistry.
 "Essentials of Periodontics" was written by Dr. Claud M. Fraleigh, professor and head of the department of periodontics, assisted by Dr. Frank I. Molsberry, instructor in periodontics.

 Audiovisual work for the six-month project was done by William I. Hetherington, director of the audiovisual department for the College of Dentistry. Actual programming of the computer was done by Stanley A. Walljapper, instructor in computer programming.
 According to Hetherington, this project, which is still in the developmental stage, is significant because it is the first computer assisted instruction (CAI) project in health science that makes use of all the visual media the college's project does.
Potential Considered
 Killip, Fraleigh, Molsberry, Hetherington and other members of the dentistry faculty went to Chicago recently to view the completed CAI project, and to consider its potential as a teaching device.
 According to Hetherington, CAI is a relatively new means of teaching which has many advantages in individual student instruction.
 Hetherington said that a CAI system presents instructional material through recorded audio messages, images projected on a screen and character display on a cathode ray tube, which is similar to that found in a television set.
 Questions are presented on the cathode ray tube. The students respond to the computer by use of a typewriter-like keyboard and an electronic indicating pen.
Instant Reply
 According to Hetherington, if the student's answer is correct, reinforcement of it occurs before new material is presented. However, if the response was incorrect, the computer will back up and present the same material in a simplified manner.
 According to an IBM pamphlet on CAI, the author can write his course so that each student is

Law Seniors' Black Canes Are Tradition

By NED NEVELS
 One of the oldest Homecoming traditions at the University — observance of the "Code of the Cane" — is again in effect this week.
 The tradition is that seniors in the College of Law carry black canes during Homecoming week and at every home game thereafter.
 Those caught without their canes are subject to a kangaroo court conducted at a local tavern each evening. The cliché about "sober as a judge" does not characterize the proceedings.
 In the best legal fashion, the "code" comes complete with a preamble. This year's:
 "We the survivors of the Class of 1968, in order to prevent our further demise, establish solidarity, insure class notoriety, provide for the Collective Support of Individual Inebriation, promote the wealth of the Great Society, secure the blessings of seniority, and defense of our posteriors, do ordain and establish this Code of the Cane."
 Research indicates that carrying black canes goes back to at least 1915 when law seniors kept them with them the year around. Over the years, the time was shortened to Homecoming weekend and at subsequent home games.
 An explanation for the tradition is that seniors began carrying canes to beat down the derbies of engineering students when a variety show, the Law Jubilee, was being produced.
 There is a long-standing, good-natured antagonism at the University between the Colleges of Law and Engineering.

YAF Comments On Student Rights

By TED HENRY
 Members of Young Americans for Freedom said Tuesday night that the solution to the problem of students' rights could come only through "the enlightenment of University administrators."
 The statement was made at a meeting held in the Union Princeton Room. It came in response to the upcoming student referendum on the rights of students to claim autonomy from the administration in those matters concerned with students' personal lives.
 Chairman Clete Uhlenhopp, A3, Aplington, read the statement to the 30 members who attended the meeting.
 Another portion of the statement held that the only right a student could claim against an educational institution was "the right to full and prompt compliance with the contractual obligations assumed by the University."
 But the proposal went on to say that YAF opposes "University paternalism as a general policy and advocates student autonomy in social activities as the only policy consistent with the purpose and nature of University education."

The Telephone Jangled— Rights Bill Rescued

WASHINGTON (AP)—A junior senator from Pennsylvania was slumbering peacefully at a little cottage in Oxford, England, his legislative cares 3,500 miles away.

At 4 a.m., the telephone jangled. The long arm of the White House had found its mark again.

The next evening, Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) was airborne in a military cargo plane, bound for Washington to cast a committee vote crucial to the Johnson administration.

For the administration, the trip proved to be a gilt-edged bargain—especially since the White House said, it didn't cost a dime.

Scott's presence provided the razor-thin margin by which the Senate Judiciary Committee approved, 8 to 7, the administrative version of civil rights legislation designed to protect Negroes exercising their federal rights.

Scott plans to return to England on another military cargo plane to resume his eight-week stint as a visiting lecturer on American government and politics at Oxford University.

George Christian, White House press secretary, said Scott traveled on a military cargo plane making a regular run. Members of Congress may hitch free rides on such flights, Christian said, when space is available.

A Pentagon spokesman refused to discuss Scott's transatlantic flight. But he said the armed services averaged 186 cargo and passenger flights a month between the United States and Europe.

The fare for a government employee is $86 each way—but if a plane is departing with an empty seat, he acknowledged, a legis-

Officer Killed In Gun Battle

PELLA (AP)—Marion County Deputy Sheriff Harold Gates died Wednesday of wounds received in a gun battle Tuesday with a Pella man, Lloyd Earl Winkelman, 59, was also killed.

Dr. Alan Patterson, Marion County medical examiner, said after an autopsy that Winkelman died of a shotgun blast in the chest. There had been earlier speculation that he might have shot himself with the rifle he carried. Dr. Patterson said the autopsy indicated an officer's gun killed Winkelman.

Gates was shot as he got out of a car at the Winkelman home. Four Pella policemen and Gates had converged on the home in response to an anonymous phone call which warned that Winkelman had a gun and might spray shots over the neighborhood.

Authorities said Winkelman apparently went berserk after his wife walked out on him after a quarrel.

Winkelman fired four shots from a high-powered rifle. One struck Deputy Gates in the hip, officers said. Two bullets smashed a window of his car.

'Defense' Spending Cost $1 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—The two days of antiwar protests in Washington forced governmental spending of more than $1 million, the Pentagon said Wednesday.

Largest share of the cost was borne by the Defense Department which, according to its figures, spent $641,000. That money went for airlifting troops to protect the Pentagon, National Guard expenditures and operation of trucks and buses, among other things.

3 Crash Survivors Still In Hospital; 2 Are Improving

Three persons injured in automobile accidents, including two University students, remained in University Hospital Wednesday night.

Diann L. Fox, 41, Des Moines, remained in critical condition. She was injured in a two-car accident in Coralville Oct. 6. Linda C. Grimes, 42, Des Moines, who was injured in the same accident, had been removed from the serious condition list but was still hospitalized.

Eulis Flud, 46, Gary, Ind., the only survivor of a two-car crash Friday in which three persons were killed, was listed in fair condition.

Flud's wife, Phyllis, 41, and son, Mark, 17, and Donald Gocho, 31, 2205 Miami Dr., were killed in the accident. The accident occurred at an intersection of Highway 218 near North Liberty known as Young's Corners.

THIS WHIMSICAL BILLBOARD on a highway near Paris, Tex., might be part of Lady Bird Johnson's beautification program, except for the fact that Mrs. Johnson doesn't like billboards. Well, you can't win them all.

Pro War Petition To Be Circulated

Students for Patriotic Action, a recently-formed group, will begin circulating today a petition in support of soldiers in the Vietnamese war.

The petition is to show support of U.S. soldiers by University students, faculty and alumni, according to Patrick O'Conner, 41, Waterloo, co-chairman of the organization.

O'Conner said that his group thought that recent antiwar demonstrations and rallies on campus had disgraced the good name of the University. He said they believe that the majority of the University community supports the war.

The petition will be available for signing today through Saturday at the dormitories and the Union. The signed petition will be presented to an Iowa Congressman, who is to present it to President Johnson.
