The faculty-student Parking and Security Committee met Thursday in the Old Capitol and recommended continuation of a policy which grants no waiver from parking fees because of financial hardships.

The committee also turned down a Student Senate request that money from student parking fines be put into a scholarship fund.

The fee question came up after a graduate student couple asked John Dooley, director of parking lot operations, for a waiver from parking permit fee rules for financial and medical reasons.

Dooley said he referred the couple to the committee through Richard Dole, its chairman, because the policy didn't allow him to give a dispensation.

The couple had been given a temporary parking permit earlier in the year and the fee was waived. Dole said this had been done because the policy had not been considered recently. He said he thought the committee might wish to reconsider the policy, not to waive the fee.

Committee Agrees

The committee agreed that Dole was right to grant the temporary permit on the information he had.

Dole said the couple verbally presented him with a case of extreme financial hardship and desperate medical condition of the wife, who is pregnant. The students have documents indicating they receive state medical aid. Dole said they were also heavily in debt and that the wife had a problem with her legs and was faced with the possibility of miscarriage if she walked to work.

The temporary permit had been given on the condition that written proof of the case would be presented later, Dole said.

The proof was submitted Wednesday but was withdrawn before the committee met. Dole said the proof had not been accepted as sufficient.

The committee went into executive session and discussed the matter whether to give the couple an extension of the permit until the committee discussed general policy on the matter. The permit expires today.

After the private meeting, the committee said it wouldn't extend the temporary permit. It also said it would recommend that Pres. Howard R. Bowen continue the policy of not giving waivers because of financial need.

The University at present makes special parking available for disabled people, but the users must pay the usual parking permit fees.

Request Discussed

Later the committee discussed the senate request to contribute money from student traffic fines to a scholarship fund.

The 1965-66 committee recommended that the fine money should all be put into parking improvement work, maintenance and enforcement, with the exception of an allocation that would be available to the Office of Financial Aids for emergency student loans.

Ray Mossman, University business manager and treasurer, said in the future the parking system was going to need all the revenues to fulfill the needs of the parking system. He said that last year the money taken in for fines was less than the cost of enforcement.

3 Other Candidates Consider Forming Slate

Three Iowa City council candidates are to meet with the Iowa City Council-Manager Association (CMA) today to continue plans for their running as a slate in the Nov. 7 council election.

The three candidates, Brooks W. Booker, Clement L. Brandt, and LeRoy C. Buthrus, met informally with CMA directors Wednesday. At that time, CMA chairman Derold Foster said, "Although we reached no definite decisions, it can be assumed that the candidates have accepted our backing."

The tentative slate will be running against three men who ran as a slate in the primary election held Tuesday. That slate is composed of Robert J. Connell, E. Dale Erickson and Clifford B. Kritt.

The Connell-Erickson-Kritt slate strongly opposed a federal urban renewal program for Iowa City before the primary. Booker, Brandt and Buthrus generally favor it.

Professor Claims Politics Prevents Any Urban Peace

By SALLY HOLM

A political science professor from Wayne State University, Detroit, said here Thursday night that he doubted that the political system of the United States was capable of creating a common order in the face of urban racial agitation.

Addressing an assembly in the Union of Iowa city government officials at the initial seminar of the Fourth Urban Policy Conference, Matthew Holden Jr., said that a large adjustment in the overall handling of the racial problem was nearly impossible because of the nature of American politics.

He emphasized that the problem of riot control was not in maintaining order but rather in creating it. Holden said that modernization of the local police role was secondary to the problem. The police role is primarily to "keep under control the individual who pops out and can't be controlled by the system," Holden said. He added that the pervasive nature of urban violence demanded means of control on a more technical and significant level.

Holden was the featured speaker on a panel which included Mayor Lloyd Turner, Waterloo, Harvey Miller, of the University's Institute of Public Affairs, and James A. Thomas, executive director of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission.

The three-day session, sponsored by the Institute of Public Affairs and the League of Iowa Municipalities, will feature discussions today on "Political Problems of the Urban Future."

HSP Discusses Protest

By TED HENRY

A University of Wisconsin student said that police stormed students protesting the recruiting of Dow Chemical on the Wisconsin campus "not in defense of Dow Chemical, and not to break up the demonstration, but with the intent to hurt people."

The student's taped comments were played at a Hawkeye Student Party (HSP) meeting attended by about 50 people Thursday night in the Union Hawkeye Room.

Diane Neumaier, A4, San Francisco, was one of a number of University students who traveled to Madison because she felt that all the facts on the police action were not being recorded by the mass media. The tape recording included talks with several Wisconsin students.

The Wisconsin student also said that the police attacked the demonstrators without warning and clubbed both male and female protesters, and also wielded clubs on persons not directly involved in the demonstration.

In addition to listening to and discussing the tape recording, HSP members discussed the upcoming student referendum and U.S. Marine recruiting on campus.

The HSP, which introduced the student autonomy amendment in the Student Senate, has organized door to door campaigns in the dormitories in an attempt to gain support for the amendment. Also discussed was the possibility of putting up posters around campus and handing out literature. The referendum will be held Wednesday.

The discussion on Marine recruitment on campus dealt with whether or not the HSP, as a group, should support a demonstration against the Marines' recruiting on campus planned by several antiwar groups for next week.

Lee Weingrad, G, Jamaica, N.Y., said that by limiting their action to campus politics, the HSP is thereby placing too much stress on the student and the college scene.

Phil Hubbard, A3, Iowa City, disagreed and said that the average student who supported the HSP autonomy movement did not equate it with Marine recruitment on campus and, as an individual, does not have to. He urged nonsupport of the demonstration for HSP as a group, but said that any member should feel free to lend his support as an individual.

After taking a general consensus of the members present, the group decided not to lend the name of the HSP in support of the demonstration.

Military Says Bombs Haven't Halted Streams Of Supplies To Communists

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military officials are unable after 2½ months of intensified bombing of North Vietnam, to furnish any hard evidence that this has significantly reduced the flow of war supplies to Communist forces in South Vietnam.

The best they come up with are some indicators that the heavier air attacks and broadened range of targets are making the Communists' task tougher, more costly in manpower, and more time-consuming.

Two of these signs involve:
1. Greater reliance by the North Vietnamese on small watercraft to bypass cargo around smashed bridges holding up rail and truck movements, and
2. Some apparent temporary lack of ammunition for North Vietnamese anti-aircraft guns.

These assessments were based on extensive interviews with many senior officers and military experts of all the armed services and of the Defense Department.

Records show that more than 30 new targets have been struck by U.S. raiders in North Vietnam since Aug. 8, when President Johnson authorized the widened air offensive.

These targets included at least a dozen important bridges which had been previously off limits because they are very close to Hanoi and Haiphong and within what had been a 25-to-30-mile "no bombing zone" along the southern border of China.

U.S. Pilots Dogfight With MIGs Over Hanoi

SAIGON (AP) — American jet pilots tangled with at least six MIGs in swirling dogfights during raids on Hanoi Thursday and reported shooting down two of the Soviet-built interceptors.

The U.S. planes pounded Hanoi's electricity power plant 1.1 miles north of the center of the city and also hit a truck park five miles to the south.

The targets opened up since then also have included rail yards and rail sidings where, military authorities said, the North Vietnamese had hoarded freight cars waiting for bad weather to make a sneak run between Hanoi and China.

Jet Fields Hit
On the approved list, too, were the port of Cam Paj, North Vietnam's third largest, and two MIG jet fields — Phuc Yen and Cat Bi, which had been spared in the past.

When it was evident that the North Vietnamese were switching some of their supply movement to sampans, barges and other watercraft, U.S. bombers were free to attack six different boatyards, boat repair setups, and a navy yard.

Also opened up to U.S. bombing were warehouse and storage areas less than two miles from the center of Haiphong and a complex where Russian supplied anti-aircraft missiles and helicopters were assembled.

Sixteen new targets were approved the day before a Senate investigating committee opened hearings which underscored the split between the Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS) and other military leaders on the one hand and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara on the other regarding the scope and ground rules of the bombing campaign against North Vietnam.

McNamara said at the time that only 57 targets recommended by the military chiefs had not yet been authorized. Air strikes had been approved for 302 other fixed targets, he testified.

"Whatever the merits of striking these 57 targets may be," McNamara said, "I believe it is clear that strikes against them will not materially shorten the war."

Since his testimony the Pentagon has refused to discuss how many of those 57 JCS-recommended targets have subsequently been approved and struck.

Officials have said that the 57 figure has lost its validity since then because the target list is constantly changing, with new objectives added, with priorities changed. One knowledgeable source said

Congress Moves On Money Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate moved with a burst of speed Thursday on stymied money bills, sending President Johnson softened cuts in funds for space and for his rent subsidy and Model Cities programs.

And the House approved a pay raise for 3.5 million servicemen ranging from $112 a month for four-star generals to $5 for privates. It would be retroactive to Oct. 1 if the Senate accepts that date.

The stepped-up action on money bills for the fiscal year that began July 1 could head off a showdown between House and Senate over trying to direct Johnson to shrink spending by several billion dollars and allowing Congress to specify where cuts should be made.

The Senate on Wednesday rejected a provision the House had tied to a resolution designed to permit federal agencies to function until Congress passed an appropriations bill.

Meeting Thursday

A 30-minute meeting of Senate-House conferees Thursday on the question brought no agreement and they set another meeting for Friday.

In addition to the 11 money bills that have cleared the House, four others are still pending — including controversial anti-poverty and foreign aid funds.

Voice votes in the Senate Thursday sent to the White House bills appropriating:

• $4.6 billion for the space program. Senators were assured a relatively small $15.5-million addition would permit continuation of several future space programs previously rejected by the House.

• $2.16 billion for the State, Justice and Commerce Departments and the federal judiciary and related agencies.

• $10.14 billion for the Department of Housing and several independent agencies. Included was $10 million of the $40 million Johnson asked for his rent subsidy program and $312 million of the $662 million he sought for the Model Cities program.

Twice Refused

The House has twice refused to vote rent supplement funds. And the House has wanted to give the Model Cities program only $237 million compared to $537 million the Senate voted. The compromise was an administration victory.

The House also passed and sent to the Senate a $13.25-billion bill for the Labor and Welfare Department. It is about $170 million less than Johnson asked, but it omits 13 Senate-voted increases totaling about $20 million over budget requests.

The Senate scheduled a vote for Friday to send the Labor-Welfare appropriation to the White House.

However, Maine's Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, a Democrat, and Margaret Chase Smith, a Republican, managed to shove until next week action expected Thursday on a $4.7-billion public works bill. The house passed it Wednesday.

WHILE RAY NAGEL is coaching the Hawkeyes in Saturday's Homecoming game, members of his family will be watching from the stands. Mrs. Nagel confided recently that "things are a little bit quiet when Mr. Nagel is home" during football season. that between 15 and 20 of the much-discussed 57 targets had still not been attacked.

Phuc Yen, the biggest MIG home base 18 miles northwest of Hanoi, was authorized about two weeks before the weather permitted the air strikes to be mounted this week.

There are at least five major targets which still have not been visited by American bombers.

They include the Gia Lam airfield, just to the east of Hanoi. Gia Lam is the only remaining jet-capable airfield in North Vietnam which has not been bombed. McNamara has told Congress that the bombing of Phuc Yen might cause the North Vietnamese to shift their MIGs to Gia Lam.

Since the bombing of North Vietnamese MIG fields began earlier this year, the North Vietnamese have shifted the bulk of their air force into Red China. Currently, 51 of North Vietnam's 80 MIGs are reported in the sanctuary of Communist China.

Prime Targets
Other still unbombed but prime targets are the main dock area of Haiphong, North Vietnam's chief port; Hon Gai, North Vietnam's second ranking port to the east of Haiphong; a power plant at Lao Cai on the Chinese border some 175 miles northwest of Hanoi; and the North Vietnamese air defense control center in downtown Hanoi.

Since current U.S. policy is to avoid inflicting heavy civilian casualties, the air defense center probably is safe from U.S. attack for the indefinite future.

Nor is there any indication that the Johnson administration is getting ready to unleash American warplanes against the docks of Haiphong. U.S. leaders have stressed repeatedly that this could bring on a direct confrontation with Russia, which almost always has some ships in port.

A senior military officer told a reporter: "There is no doubt that the enemy's problem of moving supplies has become very critical. There is evidence of large amounts piled up in the port. There have been indications he has moved to water traffic. This is further evidence that his land lines of communication have become difficult to use."

Another military source conceded there has been, as he put it, "no significant reduction in the flow of supplies south within the last month or two."

De-Escalation Seen As Peace Key

WASHINGTON (AP) — De-escalation of the U.S. military effort in Vietnam is required before the United Nations could move for peace with any chance of success, three former U.S. delegates to the world body said Thursday.

Even then, they added, there is no guarantee a settlement would result.

Testifying before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on resolutions urging U.N. action were Benjamin Cohen, Rep. Jonathan B. Bingham (D-N.Y.) and Charles V. Yost.

The committee is considering two resolutions to urge U.N. action on Vietnam.

One, sponsored by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, would urge President Johnson to seek U.N. consideration of a Vietnamese resolution that has been pending there for 21 months. This proposal now has the backing of 56 senators.

A second resolution, sponsored by Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) would call on Johnson to seek an emergency session of the U.N. Security Council on Vietnam.

It would have the United States pledge in advance to accept any council dictates, such as an end to the bombing.

March on Pentagon won't end Vietnam problems

The anti-war rally in Washington began Saturday with strong, yet peaceful, denunciations of U.S. policy in Vietnam but it ended with violent expressions of hate against "the military-industrial complex." Those two extremes nearly cover the opinions felt by the demonstrators.

Thus, it is difficult to evaluate the rally in one sweeping set of generalizations. For its diversity not only plagued it, but it added to the confusion of trying to understand what the rally might mean to the future of the peace movement.

There will likely be no immediate effects from the march. Certainly it did nothing that will change the President's policy. He seems as inflexible about his approach as the marchers were about theirs. But few who marched actually thought the rally would have an effect on U.S. policy, and that is why the peace movement is taking on dangerous overtones.

Unlike the civil rights march on Washington in 1963, the march Saturday was filled with people who had no other thought than to cause trouble. The approach was not optimistic but pessimistic. Certainly they were in a minority, but their actions might have helped discredit those opposed to violence.

Many of the reports about the march were either distorted, slanted or lacking in depth. They skimmed the surface of the march, and in the process, they skimmed off only the violence at the Pentagon. The thousands who did not take part in the Pentagon protest were nonetheless classed in the same category as those who did.

This is the problem facing the peace movement now. The anti-war people are as split as the hawks and doves on Capitol Hill. They want peace, but they don't know how to get it. There are many who are interested in discussion, debate and nonviolent activities. But there is a growing minority bent on simply disrupting the country.

This is the group which took over the march on Saturday, and this is the group which is taking over anti-war movements throughout the country. They are slowly squeezing out the people opposed to violence, and they are also discrediting the work of those who still believe the way to a solution is through peaceful actions.

The revolutionaries aren't as interested in stopping the war as they are in stopping this country. Their hero is Che Guevara who was anything but a peaceful man. And their goals are to overthrow the entire system in America. This group was at its peak on Saturday, and the Army did an excellent job of handling what was an explosive situation.

The solution to solving the problems in Vietnam and the country cannot be achieved by burning down the Pentagon. The radical minority which stormed the parking lot of the Pentagon Saturday refuses to accept this. Their methods should be rejected by Americans who are really seeking peace.

'The Red Desert' is a puzzling film

By NICHOLAS MEYER

"The Red Desert" is a puzzling film, simultaneously brilliant and boring, insightful and unoriginal, imaginative, yet dull. It is most certainly not the kind of picture you can walk into, sit back and relax, and say "Okay, show me." Do that and you will fall asleep in 15 minutes.

In fact, for the first half hour it requires a strong effort of will not to sleep. The alienated heroine stands before us, wildly over-acting, and we discover that we are in for Son of Hedda Gabler, or the Tribulations and Sex Life of the Upper Bourgeoisie. Somehow, you just don't feel up to it — again. It has all been done before, and director Antonioni keeps tracing and re-tracing his humorous themes in the same pedantic and tiresome way, as if by banging the same note incessantly on the piano, it will suddenly and eventually come out different. I began to resent the idle Almost-Rich and their cultivated introspection which shows, that despite money, security, love, and everything one could possibly desire, they are not really happy. One is tempted to say, "Oh, stuff this" at first, and bewail privately the problems of the poor and of the workers. In the opening sequence, Monica Vitti and her little boy are walking near where some under-paid factory workers are on strike. I watched her emotive briefly, and my sympathies right then and there were with the workers, and the hell with her soul-searching.

This is certainly a valid point of view, and equally certain is the fact that Monica Vitti is a pretty bad actress, and certain it is that what follows is a series of variations on a theme by Ibsen.

It is also true, however, that "The Red Desert" occasionally seems to contain sands gathered from your soul. There are some moments — rare, to be sure — when sense of humor, critical impatience with the plodding of the director and his choice of subject matter are not enough to keep you from being terrified by the fearsome apparition of loneliness that haunts the heroine. We are all together, yet we are all apart. It's not a new message, but sometimes, during the course of the film, it is not a message at all, but a feeling that can give you goose bumps. The plight of the heroine, her inability to communicate, her impotence and the impotence of those around her is exaggerated to be sure, but that stab of aloneness strikes every one of us sometime or other. It cannot be escaped, nor can it fail to be recognized, as Antonioni keeps searching for words and images to illustrate it. He comes closest, perhaps, during a fog when Monica Vitti sees all her friends standing before her yet the mists blot between them and they seem to disappear — although, of course, they still stand right next to her. The scene is frightening, and the feeling can drive you mad. The trick, the difficult trick, we learn, is not to think about it.

Antonioni is one of the most annoying and dry filmmakers I know. Like an aged narrator, he cannot be hurried, but must turn his pompous and clinical attention to each detail of his story as he goes along. This leads to some stunningly composed shots, some funeral pacing and a style which intends to be intellectual and emerges instead as merely academic. I put more effort into watching "The Red Desert" than I think it was worth, more effort than I could find myself advising anyone else to make — and I certainly would not go back to see this one a second time, for clarification, or amusement.

Yet it cannot be denied — despite the unreality of his characters and his devotion to irrelevant minutiae — that the film succeeds in turning images into ideas and feelings. At the end, objections to the class of people Antonioni has chosen become irrelevant, poor people can feel alone, too, and it is this universal feeling, nothing more in my opinion, that he has set himself to capture. It might pain me to admit it, but capture it he has.

Group urges support for SRA in referendum

To the Editor:

A Student Senate referendum will be held Nov. 1 to allow the students of this university to voice their opinions on the future course of student government.

One proposal states that Student Senate should declare its independence from this university and become the sole body governing the non-academic lives of students. A second proposal would utilize the present system by making it more responsive to students. We, the undersigned, would like to announce our support for the second alternative and urge you to vote for it in the referendum.

Although the first proposal may sound good, it ignores the basic realities of this university. Because of this, it is bad legislation and an irresponsible proposal. It ignores the fact that a powerless body cannot unilaterally grant itself power. It ignores the fact that a body cannot make the rules unless it can enforce those rules and Student Senate has no enforcement machinery. It ignores the fact that this university is governed by a power structure that includes the state legislature, the Board of Regents, and the administration. Student Senate can no more declare its independence from the administration than the administration can declare its independence from the Board of Regents. For these reasons, we urge that this proposal be defeated.

We urge you to vote for the second alternative. It recognizes that we must work within the system to obtain our goals. It simply asks that we seek faculty support for our proposals which would greatly increase their influence with the administration.

Who would suspect that after a short summer respite, one would return to the Gold Feather Room to find doughnuts twice as high? It's outrageous. How can they justify a 100 per cent increase? Are the doughnuts any doughnutier? Obviously not. They're the same ones we had last year.

If they would have tried to pull off this massive increase during school, we would have seen proper action taken — public demonstrations would have forced the University to either admit their folly or else close down the school. Or perhaps a federal mediation board could have intervened and found a suitable compromise — perhaps 6 cents rather than 5, but 10 — who would have dreamed it?

Instructor praises library atmosphere

To the Editor:

As a newcomer to Iowa City, I find the literary and journalistic atmosphere here highly interesting and encouraging.

I have read the first issues of Middle Earth (brand new), the Iowa Defender (revived) and the Student (revamped) with some care and recommend them to anyone interested in fresh, engaging, informative and entertaining reading.

This is not to say there aren't faults one could find. Naturally, one can't expect perfection at the very beginnings of alive and growing things, and perhaps critics of these periodicals might hold a bit until more issues have appeared. To those who have attacked these journals might I suggest that it is easier to criticize than to create and that one way to raise a publication's literary level, for instance, is to send some good writing to it.

Indiana U. student commends Iowa band

To the Editor:

I know the Iowa-Indiana football game, after it must be very hard for anyone in Iowa even to open a letter with a Bloomington postmark without violent gastronomic upheavals. Nevertheless, Indiana has something to thank you for besides the victory, which surely you deserved as much as we.

That something is the fine performance of your band, which was without a doubt the finest musical presentation in our stadium in my four years at I.U. Their sound was superb, as were their formations, and their lively music and spirit continued to delight Hoosier gridiron fans throughout the afternoon.

It was certainly impossible to tell from their spirited sound and performance that several of their members had unfortunately been involved in a wreck while en route to I.U., something we regret tremendously. At any rate, I think any student or alumni in the stadium would have to admit that the Iowa band shamed our own Marching Hundred, just as your fighting football team almost shamed our gridriders.

I think Iowa has much to be proud of, both in its team and its band, and we at Indiana are grateful for the opportunity of listening to the latter and meeting the former. And, as you well know, having lost about 40 million or thereabouts games in the last few years, Indiana, while relishing victory, certainly understands your disappointment in defeat.

Associate dean replies to letter

To the Editor:

A recent article in The Daily Iowan conveyed a principle of government pertaining to a democracy which is correct but when applied to an institution of higher education it is incorrect. The writer indicated that in a democracy the government obtains its right to govern from the governed.

An attempt to apply the same principle to an institution of higher education runs into immediate difficulty. Historically and legally, the power of the governance of institutions of higher education rests with the minority who, in turn delegate this to the majority, (i.e., the governor of the state of Iowa appoints a Board of Regents which has the authority and responsibility for operating an institution of higher education in Iowa City. The president of the University is, in turn, employed and given the responsibility to operate the University. At his discretion, delegation of this responsibility occurs.)

Student tells of benefits offered by Free University

To the Editor:

Are you weary of struggling for grade points? Weary of trudging to uninspiring courses? Weary of sitting up nights cranking out themes, reports, term papers, and daily assignments few of which shed light upon the unanswered questions of your own life? If so, then the Free University of Iowa, a recently-founded group dedicated to the linking of learning with life, vitally concerns you.

The free university idea is not new. In recent years free universities have sprung up at Dartmouth, San Francisco State, Iowa State, the University of Pennsylvania and dozens of other campuses throughout our nation. On most campuses, the birth of free universities has generated waves of enthusiasm, and free universities have served to transform and strengthen already existing educational institutions.

The free university idea is basically this. Regularly, a small group of students and a teacher get together for informal meetings. At these meetings, discussions of subjects not ordinarily talked about in college classrooms are held — subjects of special interest to the participants themselves. At a particular meeting, aspects of the Cold War, or Marxism, or Black Power, or LSD, or sexual freedom — or any subject whatsoever — may be brought up and examined. Indeed, the subject discussed does not greatly matter; what greatly matters is its presentation. The Free University seeks to put forth subjects so as to show their relevance to the most immediate and urgent concerns of life. It seeks to show how seemingly disconnected facts and ideas relate to people.

Unlike most universities, which half-ignore and thereby undermine genuine human values, the Free University will emphasize and work to propagate such values. It will emphasize and work to propagate values by which men can live freely and happily. Moreover it will seek, by creating an atmosphere free from pressures and constraints of any sort, to promote the emotional and intellectual growth of human beings. It will encourage people to communicate freely with one another, and to be themselves.

To begin with, we will offer no courses. Once each week, we will present to the public a speaker, who will lead a discussion on a subject of widespread interest. Meetings of the Free University are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursdays, at Wesley House.

We urge all persons who hunger after truths to attend our meetings. With the support of those interested in sustaining our idealistic enterprise, we are confident it will succeed.

Early Snow Causes Rash Of Accidents

By JERRY LEVINE
Your spirit(s) better be high today for Homecoming festivities because the temperature will be low.
City and highway driving conditions are expected to be hazardous as a result of Thursday's snow storm, the first of the year. More snow and sleet have been predicted for today, ending at noon, but with continued freezing temperatures through the night, according to the Weather Bureau.

The Highway Patrol urged all motorists to be extra careful because roads into Iowa City will be crowded with Homecoming traffic.

Thursday's snow storm, the earliest in the year since 1962, caused an epidemic of accidents in and around Iowa City. Eleven persons were taken to University Hospitals Thursday night as a result of a car crash. Jack Woodson, his wife, Dolly, and their nine children, ranging in age from 15 months to 9 years, all of Mt. Vernon, Iowa, were treated at the hospital. All but Mrs. Woodson, who suffered a fractured jaw, were released Thursday night.

Woodson's vehicle ran off Sand Road eight miles south of Iowa City, slammed into a tree and landed in a ditch, according to the Highway Patrol. No charges were filed.

Luther Donald Danneman, Rural Route 3, was charged by Iowa City police with losing control of his vehicle after his car ran off on Highway 1 West at Brennan Street late Thursday. Danneman was not injured but his car was reported demolished.

There were no reported injuries from a four-car collision Thursday on Newton Road at University Hospitals. All involved in the accident were from Coralville. They included Cecil L. Goetsch, L3, 914 Ninth Ave.; Dr. Harry C. Stephenson, resident physician in ophthalmology at University Hospitals; Margaret Money, 511 Seventh Ave.; and Daryl Doanrenbas, 714 12th Ave. No charges were filed by police.

Don Engelfort, Cedar Rapids, reported to police that his car was sideswiped while in the parking lot Thursday at University Hospitals. Police estimated damage at $100.

Educational TV Gets Final OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate approval Thursday completed congressional action on legislation providing increased federal financial support for non-commercial radio and television broadcasting.

A major feature of the measure is the creation of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting to make grants for the production or procurement of educational programs for national or regional distribution.

Autonomy Controversy Given Informal Airing

By JOHN TEMPLER

The proposed student senate autonomy resolution was the subject of an informal debate broadcast Wednesday night over KWAD, the student-operated dormitory radio station.

Participating in the discussion were Student Sen. Carl Varner, 13, Centerville, and Jim Truitt, 11, Greene, representing Students for Responsible Action, and Student Sen. Mike Lally, A4, Iowa City, and Ken Murphy, A1, Iowa City, speaking for the Hawkeye Student Party.

Phillip G. Hubbard, dean of academic affairs, and William M. Hines, associate professor of law, and a member of the Committee on Student Life, also participated.

HSP has declared itself in favor of the recent amendment to the new student constitution that would make the senate independent of the University administration in matters concerning the nonacademic affairs of students.

SRA said that the autonomy amendment was neither feasible nor advisable. As an alternative to the independence amendment, SRA proposed a faculty-student senate, under the direction of the administration, to discuss matters of students' rights.

Voters in Wednesday's referendum will have three choices: the amendment, the SRA proposal and "no change." Speaking for the faculty-student senate plan, Varner said the senate, being ultimately responsible to the administration, cannot declare itself independent.

Both Hubbard and Hines emphasized that the administration is very much in favor of students' rights.

"We have been asked by President Howard R. Bowen to insure that students' rights are protected," Hubbard said.

Administration policies such as approved housing for students under 21 are "traditional" and society and parents expect these rules, Hubbard said.

Hines added that while the housing regulations were probably not "legal," these policies were intended to help the freshmen become adjusted more easily to the University environment.

Murphy said University students should have the same rights as persons of the same age not attending the University.

Everybody Loves A Parade, And Today's To Be The Best

By CHRIS DYSKOW

Eighteen colorful floats, fifteen marching bands, three precision drill teams and several antique cars will help make this year's Homecoming parade the best Iowa City has ever seen, according to Bob Penwell, A4, Villisca, chairman of the parade.

Approximately 50,000 people are expected to watch the one-hour parade, which will start at 7 tonight. A pep rally and the coronation of the 1967 Miss U of I will follow.

Pershing Rifles, the Air Force Drill Team and Angel Flight will lead the parade. University and Iowa City officials, Student Body Pres. John Pelton and 1966 Homecoming Queen Nancy Moore will follow them in 1968 model automobiles.

The Scottish Highlanders and the Hawkeye Marching Band will march next.

The Homecoming theme, "A Record Smashing Victory," will be reflected in all of the 18 floats constructed by University housing units and organizations. Sixteen of the floats were sponsored by Iowa City merchants.

The floats will be judged on the basis of beauty, originality and humor by O.D. Roberts, dean of men at Purdue; Donald R. Mallett, vice president and executive dean at Purdue; Dr. Samuel Osoba, 1966 U of I Dad of the Year; State Rep. Minette Doderer; and State Sen. Robert J. Burns.

The judges' stand is located on Clinton Avenue in front of the Pentacrest.

Eleven of the 15 marching bands are from area high schools. Approximately 800 high school students arrive in Iowa City today. Following the parade and pep rally, they will attend the dance and hootenanny at the Union. The students will also be given free tickets for Saturday's game.

Probably the center of attraction for many viewers will be the five queen candidates riding on the Pageant Board float.

The candidates are: Gail Longanecker, A4, Davenport, Alpha Delta Pi; Heidi Keir, A4, Spencer, Carrie Stanley; Nancy McGimpsey, A3, Davenport, Gamma Phi Beta; Tina Babbe, A4, Fort Dodge, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Mary Kent, A3, Des Moines, Pi Beta Phi.

The director of the Miss U of I pageant said Thursday that "aside from minor complaints from the candidates themselves, there is nothing that has darkened the spirit of an honest election."

"Precautions such as numbered ballots, punching of registration certificates and poll watchers sponsored by Student Senate freshmen interns guaranteed no irregularities in voting," Doug Jones, A3, Moline, Ill., pageant director, said.

To delight the Iowa City youngsters, Herky the Hawk and the University cheerleaders will be marching among the 50 parade units.

As in past years, members of the Air Force ROTC will help units find their places in the parade line and keep the units spaced evenly along the parade route by use of walkie-talkies.

Individual members are assigned to march alongside each large entry to retrieve lost hats, pick up pieces of floats and keep jumpy horses in line.

The parade begins at Iowa Avenue and Gilbert Street, proceeds west on Iowa to Dubuque Street, north on Dubuque to Market Street, west on Market to Clinton Street, south on Clinton to College Street and East on College to Gilbert.

A budget of approximately $2,000 provided through the income of Badge Sales, has allowed the addition of lights on existing poles along the parade route, a decorated judges' stand and decorations on the Pentacrest.

The co-chairman of the Homecoming Badge Committee said Thursday that 11,000 badges had been sold. Dale E. Baker, B4, Davenport, said that he hoped 20,000 badges would be sold before the weekend was over. Last year 19,200 badges were sold.

"A lot of work is behind Homecoming this year," Penwell said. "We hope to create more spirit and include everyone in Homecoming activities. Our committee is doing everything it can to make the parade the most exciting ever, and to give tonight's pep rally a head start."

Senate Plans Rules Study Of Convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two days of Senate hearings will be held next week on legislation setting ground rules because of the possibility Congress may have to call a constitutional convention.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.), author of the bill and chairman of the subcommittee on Separation of Powers, said 32 states had applied for such a convention to propose an amendment to override the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote decision on legislative apportionment. Article V of the Constitution provides that Congress shall call a convention upon the application of two-thirds of the states.

"If two more states were to apply," Ervin said, "Congress would be faced for the first time in our history with implementing that provision of Article V without a syllable of clear precedent to guide it in answering the many sensitive and complex questions involved."

Court Issues Temporary Ban To Advertising Sales Tax

DAVENPORT (AP) — District Court Judge Nathan Grant issued a temporary injunction Thursday halting collection of the new state sales tax on advertising until a suit challenging its constitutionality is resolved.

The advertising tax is included in a law taxing a multitude of services. Judge Grant's injunction does not affect other portions of the law, which became effective Oct. 1.

In Des Moines, state officials declined to say what action they would take on the injunction until they have studied it further.

The group of publishers, broadcasters and advertisers who sought the injunction have filed suit seeking to have the entire tax on services declared unconstitutional. They said the law was so vague that its provisions could not be uniformly applied. They attacked the advertising tax, clearly their chief target, as an unconstitutional abridgement of freedom of speech.

The new law was passed in the final hours of the 1967 session of the Iowa Legislature. Interpretation of it by the State Tax Commission generated statewide controversy.

Commission Chairman E. A. Burrows declined to comment on the injunction Thursday, but noted that the state has received no revenue to date from the tax on advertising.

NEW — FIND SCHOLARSHIPS BY COMPUTER

Last year $30 million in college scholarships went unclaimed — because no qualified persons knew of them. Now ECS engineers and educators have programmed a high-speed computer with 700,000 items of scholastic aid, worth over $500 million, to permit students to easily and quickly locate scholarships for which they qualify. The student fills out a detailed, confidential questionnaire and returns it to ECS, with a one-time computer-processing fee of $15. In seconds the computer compares his qualifications against requirements of grants set up by foundations, business, civic, fraternal, religious, and government organizations, and prints a personalized report to the student telling him where and when to apply for grants for which he qualifies. Thousands of these do not depend on scholastic standing or financial need.

Thomson Hikes Open Lead

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Former British Open champion Peter Thomson increased his lead to six strokes by firing his second straight 69 Thursday in the Australian Open Golf Championship.

The second round was marked by the withdrawal of slumping Bruce Devlin and by a fit of temper on the part of a U.S. touring pro, Bert Yancey, who bent a six-iron over his knee.

Yancey, the former West Pointer from Philadelphia who had a 77 Wednesday, was playing par golf until he came to the 11th hole and sent his approach shot to the back of the green. He took his six-iron and bent it over his knee.

"I don't know why I did it," Yancey said. "I've never done anything like that before. I suppose I just became too emotional."

Thomson's 69-59-138 over the 6,702-yard, par 73 Commonwealth course sent him six strokes ahead of Peter Townsend, the rookie English pro who added a 71 to an earlier 73, and Colin Johnson, 70-74. The two were tied at 144.

PATTERSON FIGHTS — LOS ANGELES (AP) — Heavyweights Floyd Patterson and Jerry Quarry collide in a 12-round fight Saturday billed as one of an elimination series to fill the void left by the banishment of Muhammad Ali from the thrown.

The Patterson-Quarry bout goes on at 8 p.m. PDT at the Olympic Auditorium and a national television audience can sit in and watch it on ABC.

Meet The Hawkeyes...

PAUL USINOWICZ

BILL SMITH

PAUL USINOWICZ, 6-2, 210 pounds, from Pompton Lakes, N.J., has been Iowa's tight end for most of the last two seasons. Last year he was used some at tackle when injuries sidelined some interior linemen. This season he has been playing center in place of injured sophomore Dean Schuessler.

Usinowicz was an all-state football player in high school, where he was also an excellent student in mathematics and science. He has done equally well in the University's engineering program.

BILL SMITH, 6-2, 228 pounds, from Melrose Park, Ill., is another Hawkeye who came to Iowa without a scholarship.

Hard work on a weight lifting program helped him gain 30 pounds during the past two years. And during this time he has worked himself into an important position in Coach Ray Nagel's football plans.

As a sophomore, he was a starter at defensive end. Last year he was moved inside to offensive tackle. Smith played high school ball for Proviso West in Melrose Park.

Huff To Miss 1st NFL Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Linebacker Sam Huff of the Washington Redskins was told by his doctor Thursday that he definitely would be unable to play against the Baltimore Colts Sunday, thus ending the second longest consecutive playing streak in the National Football League.

Huff, who suffered an ankle injury last Sunday in a collision with a teammate, had played in 150 consecutive games in the NFL as well as six league title games and one conference play-off.

"Huff definitely won't be able to play Sunday," a doctor in Washington reported.

The 6-foot-1, 230-pound former New York Giant earlier had insisted he would play but later said, "It's more serious than I thought. Realistically, I'd have to say no about playing."

Huff's injury tops the list of ailments in the NFL, which has a seven-game schedule Sunday.

In the American League, where four games will be played, the Buffalo Bills probably will have to go without split end Art Powell, who has hyper-tension in his right knee.

Here's the hospital report for the week-end pro games:

NFL

Baltimore at Washington: Receiver Ray Berry lost to the Colts for four to six weeks with replacement Ray Perkins also questionable with pulled muscle. Alex Hawkins to start at wide end. Jimmy Orr may be reactivated by Baltimore. Redskins list receiver Charley Taylor (hamstring), Huff (ankle), as question marks. Len Hauss (sprained knee) doubtful.

Dallas at Philadelphia: Don Meredith expects to return as quarterback of the Cowboys after two games' absence with rib injury. Dallas doubtfuls are Mel Renfro (foot) and Phil Clark (shoulder). Eagles may be without Jim Nettles (pulled muscle) and defensive back Bobby Shann (ribs), but Timmy Brown (hamstring) may return.

Cleveland at New York: Quarterback Frank Ryan (bruised clavicle) expects to start for Browns with tight end Mill Morin (knee) unlikely to play. Giants list defensive backs Scott Eaton (foot) and Clarence Childs (arm) as questionable.

Los Angeles at Chicago: Rams at full strength. Gale Sayers (leg) is probable for Bears, reserve defensive-back Al Dodd (wrist) and reserve guard Don Croft (knee) doubtful.

Detroit at San Francisco: Receiver Pat Studstill (hamstring) and running back Mel Farr (leg) doubtful for Lions with tight end Ron Kramer (knee) possible. Charlie Johnson may start at defensive tackle for Charlie Krueger (knee) and flanker Wayne Swinford (knee) is out for 49ers.

Philadelphia at New Orleans: Receiver Roy Jefferson (thigh) probable and quarterback Bill Nelson (knee) may be reactivated for Steelers. Saints at full strength including defensive end

Doug Atkins (hamstring) and defensive back Jimmy Heidel (shoulder).

Minnesota at Atlanta: Jim Velone may replace Mill Sunde (knee) at guard for Vikings. Falcons' quarterback Randy Johnson (abdomen) doubtful; Terry Nofsinger likely starter.

Green Bay at St. Louis: Quarterback Bart Starr (shoulder, hand) starts for Packers, who are at full strength. Cards' doubtful is receiver Billy Cambrell (shoulder).

AFL

San Diego at Oakland: Guard Walt Sweeney (knee) defensive tackle George Gross (elbow) and running back Russ Smith (groin) doubtful for Chargers. Reserve linebacker Bill Fairband (knee) doubtful for Raiders but full-back Hewitt Dixon (shoulder) is ready.

Boston at New York: Jim Whalen, tight end, out with shoulder separation for Raiders. Art Graham playing split end and Jim Colclough moving to Graham's spot. Fullback Mark Smolinski (shoulder) lost to Jets but Bill Mathis ready to start and quarterback Joe Namath okay.

Buffalo at Houston: Besides Powell, Bills' tackle Dick Hudson (knee) is a question mark. Safety Hagood Clark (ligaments) may be ready. Oilers healthy.

Denver at Kansas City: Linebacker E.J. Holub (hamstring) and center Jon Gilliam out for Chiefs with Bud Abell and Tony DiMidio subbing. Broncos have no injuries.

New, improved box.

Alas As big and lovable as it was, there were still some things some people didn't love about our old wagon.

Some people weren't too crazy about the way it rode. "Like a truck," someone said.

So we re-built the Volkswagen Station Wagon from the bottom up and now it rides just like a car.

Some people weren't too crazy about the way it looked either. "No class," someone else said. So we gave it more class.

"It's not the most comfortable thing on earth," was another complaint.

So we made it more comfortable. The inside is nicer. There's more room than ever before for up to 9 people. Just about everything's padded and cushioned. The armrests are thicker. The seats, more plush.

"The front doors are too narrow and too hard to get through."

So we made the front doors wider and easier to get through.

"The side doors get in the way when I'm loading."

"It's kind of homely," someone finally said.

So we put in a huge 3 1/2' by 4' sliding side door. Slide the door open. Slide the piano in.

Slide the door closed. It locks automatically in both positions.

"It doesn't have enough heater and vent outlets."

So now we have 6.

"It has too many little windows."

So we built giant ones.

"The windshield wipers are too small."

So we built giant wipers to go along with the giant windows.

"Can you make it beautiful?"

Nopes.

Spray Leads Sahara Meet By 4 Strokes

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Youn Steve Spray fired a seven-under-par 64 Thursday, the best in his brief career as a professional, and led the way at the midway mark with a 36-hole score of 135 in the $100,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

Spray, 26, from Indianola, Iowa, toured the 7,069-yard, par 36-35-71 Paradise Valley Country Club course with a brilliant 34-30, two strokes shy of the course record.

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus remained in strong contention with a 69 for 137 and gallery favorite Arnold Palmer, who aimed at a 68 in order to beat the cut and qualify for the final 36 holes, made it and beat the cut by one stroke with a score of 144.

Big George Bayer, whose 66 led the field Wednesday, was unable to bag even one birdie and fell back with a 77 for 143.

Playing again in ideal weather, the pros for the second day made a shambles of par, 38 shooting 141 or better for the two rounds.

Two strokes back of Spray were Bob Goulby with 67 and Terry Dill with a 68 for their 135.

Tied with Nicklaus at 137 were Frank Beard and Ken Still each with a 70. Julius Boros shot a 73 for 140 and Bill Casper had the same 18-hole score for 142.

More Stock Drivers Qualify

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. — Eight more drivers qualified Thursday for the American 500 stock car race, but international star Jimmy Clark was not among them.

The little Scotsman, making his first start in an American big bore sedan, got his factory-backed Ford Fairlane up to competitive speed but then ran into handling problems that will put him at least 16 cars back in the 44-car starting field.

The day's fastest time for Sunday's $78,000 grind over the one-mile, banked North Carolina Motor Speedway was posted by veteran Paul Goldsmith in a Plymouth. Goldsmith who won the Carolina 500 here in 1966, had a four-lap speed of 116.523 miles per hour.

Clark, with only a day and a half to "sort" himself and the car out on a track he had never seen before, was clocked by his pit crew on one practice lap at 115.104 m.p.h.

Clark apparently was unable to diagnose his handling problems and at least two other Ford team drivers, all experienced on this speedway, took turns driving the car.

A. J. Foyt, three-time Indianapolis winner who also is making his initial start at Rockingham, was the day's second fastest qualifier. He put his factory Fairlane in 10th spot, at 116.391 m.p.h.

Others earning positions 11 through 16 were Buddy Baker, Dodge, 116.391; Paschal, Plymouth, 116.316; Donnie Allison, Ford, 116.147; Darel Dieringer, Dodge, 116.063; G. C. Spencer, Plymouth, 115.227; and Bobby Isaac, Dodge, 115.218.

Last 76 Seconds Fatal For 'Skins

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the Washington Redskins petition the National Football League to change their name to the 76ers, it's quite understandable.

A total of 76 seconds is the difference between the Redskins having a record of five victories and one defeat instead of their present two victories, two losses and two ties.

In their last three games, the Redskins drove ahead in the waning minutes each time only to wind up with a loss and two ties.

Three weeks ago against Dallas, quarterback Sonny Jurgensen put the Redskins ahead 14-10 with an eight-yard scoring pass to Charley Taylor with 1:10 to play. With 10 seconds left the Cowboys' Dan Reeves scored on a 36-yard pass play from Don Meredith.

In Atlanta a week later, Jurgensen passed to Bobby Mitchell for a 24-yard touchdown with 42 seconds left to put Washington in front 20-17. The extra point was blocked. With two seconds to play, Wade Traynham kicked a 31-yard field goal to tie the score at 20-20.

Last Sunday against Los Angeles, Jurgensen put the Redskins ahead 28-21 with two minutes and 35 seconds to play, hitting Jerry Smith with a 39-yard touchdown pass. But with 64 seconds to play, Roman Gabriel threw a six-yard scoring pass to Bernie Casey for a 28-23 tie.

UI Coed Pools Her Talents

By PEGGY McGAFFEY

"Love is letting him beat you even though you know you could slaughter him," according to the wisdom of a Peanuts character. Not so in the case of Gail Allums — no one beats her if she can help it.

Gail Allums, A3, Chicago, has a double major: pool and bowling, with the emphasis on pool. If you're not adept in pool, don't challenge her. She refuses to take on anyone who doesn't demonstrate skill.

"How else could I learn to improve my game?" she asked. And if you're seeking hints on how to improve your game, don't ask her. She'll only tell you to practice and concentrate.

Miss Allums' unique skill in pool has earned her a third place in national ratings in addition to numerous plaques and a pool cue — a gift from Brunswick.

Also articles have appeared about her in Ebony magazine, Bowlers Journal and area newspapers.

For such fame it might be suspected that she is an old hand at pool. On the contrary, Miss Allums didn't pick up a cue until she was a freshman at the University, and that was on a date at the Union.

Since then the Union has been her only practice ground. Miss Allums can be seen there every day shooting pool between classes. She explained that she's practicing for the coming tournament.

Although the date of the tournament is indefinite, she said regional would be held at the University. The nationals for this women's intercollegiate tournament will be in Virginia.

Allums Participates

Miss Allums' participation in last year's nationals held in Oregon earned her a third place in the nation. That tournament started on a local basis. From there she went to the regionals where she placed first out of 12 participating colleges.

Miss Allums predicted that male supremacy in the art of pool is in danger. Although female shooters are in the minority now, she has noticed an increasing number of feminine enthusiasts practicing in the Union.

Contrary to her recently achieved ability in pool, Miss Allums has been bowling since she was 11. Since then she has participated in bowling tournaments as a member of the University's women's bowling team.

She is the team's highest scorer.

Last year as a sophomore, she was one of five University bowlers to go to regional competition. From those regionals a teammate went on to place first in the nationals.

Regals Lose, 14-0

Cedar Rapids Regis, the state's fourth-ranked high school football team, defeated Regina 14-0 here Thursday night.

The teams played a scoreless first half. But the potent Royals shook loose for touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters.

Regina now has a 2-4 season record. The Royals are 7-0.

Schollander, U.S. Swimmers Collect Pre-Olympic Medals

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Don Schollander, the Olympic veteran of the United States swimming team, captured his second and third gold medals as the U.S. won four of the seven swim events Thursday night in the Pre-Olympics.

The Yale University student, who won four golds in the 1964 Olympics, finished in a hurry to win the 200-meter freestyle in a close battle with Leonid Ilievich of Russia. He then anchored the winning 400-meter freestyle relay team.

Russia still was the runaway leader in medals with the United States moving into second place. Unofficial standings, excluding the fencing, gave Russia 26 gold, 14 silver and 15 bronze, while the U.S. has 13, 16 and 10.

Schollander of Saratoga, Calif.,

beat two Russians in the 100-meter freestyle Wednesday night.

Jane Barkman of Wayne, Pa., won the women's 100-meter freestyle and Carl Robie of Philadelphia captured the men's 100-meter butterfly for the other U.S. victories.

East Germany took two golds as Frank Wiegand splashed home in the 200-meter individual medley and Sabine Steinback took the women's 200-meter backstroke.

Ada Kok of Holland, world record holder in the women's 200-meter butterfly, easily won that event, although far off her August record of 2:21.0.

In other finals, Pierre D'Orionla of France won the equestrian, Russia grabbed the water polo tournament and East Europeans battled for the gold in men's epee fencing.

Hadfield Uses Warped Stick To Catch High-Scoring Hull

NEW YORK (AP) — Vic Hadfield is blond and plays left wing. Until now, that's where the comparison between him and Bobby Hull has ended.

Hull has scored 370 goals in the last six National Hockey League seasons. Hadfield has scored 69. Late last season, Hadfield decided to do something about Hull's enormous lead on him. He picked up one of the Chicago star's sharply warped sticks and started using it.

"If he can score 54 goals with it," Hadfield reasoned, "Maybe I can get 20."

The change had an instant effect on Hadfield. He fired five goals in New York's final six games last season. The pace has continued this year, with four goals in the Rangers' first six games.

-Rite Delayed 26 Years- Shah Dons Crown

TEHRAN (AP) — In a burst of royal splendor, the Shah of Iran crowned himself Thursday as he celebrated his 48th birthday in a ceremony delayed with 26 years.

After he picked up the royal scepter, the Shah of Iran, Mohammed Reza Shah Pahlavi took his seat on the fabled Peacock Throne and put on an egret-plumed crown containing 3,755 jewels.

Weighed down by a pearl-embroidered cape, a golden emerald girdle and a diamond-studded sword, the Shah raised a second crown — made in Paris — and placed it on the head of his radiant 29-year-old queen, Farah. Her crown had 1,469 diamonds and 177 rubies, emeralds and pearls.

In the Shah's Middle Eastern realm, where women until recently have been second-class subjects shrouded in veils, Farah was the first Iranian queen ever to receive a crown.

The newly crowned King of Kings and Light of the Aryans proclaimed from the throne: "My deepest wish is to preserve the independence and sovereignty of the country, to raise the Iranian nation to the level of the world's most progressive and prosperous societies, and to renew the ancient grandeur of this historic land."

The Shah called Iran, formerly Persia, the world's oldest monarchy. It dates back 2,513 years to Cyrus the Great. But the Shah's own dynasty began only in 1926.

Target Date Set For Saturn Flight

CAPE KENNEDY (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration Thursday officially set Nov. 7 as the target launching date for the first Saturn 5 super-rocket.

The announcement said that this was the earliest possible date for launching the 363-foot-tall rocket on its maiden test flight, during which it is to hurl an unmanned Apollo moon ship into space.

In setting the goal, however, NASA emphasized that the complexity of the rocket and launch equipment are liable to force delays beyond that date.

"This is a target date," said Maj. Gen. Samuel C. Phillips, Apollo program director. "We are in a very complex learning process and we are going to take all the time we need on this first launch."

SUPERAFFLUENCE HIT—
BOMBAY (AP) — Affluence is all right, but superaffluence is no environment for young Indian scientists, says H. N. Sethna, director of the Bhabha Atomic Research Center. He told a research group young Indians should get their training in countries like Denmark because, "though they are affluent, they are not super-affluent as is the United States."

OFF TO HOLLYWOOD are the XL's, a local combo which has won first place in a national band contest. As part of the prize, they will play in movie, "A Time to Sing — A Time to Cry." Members of the group are (from left): Garry A. Martin, 67 Bon-Aire Lodge; Leslie D. Thede, E2, Iowa City; Michael L. Heinrich, B3, Wilton Junction; Robert L. Guy, A3, Wilton Junction; James Grothusen, Davenport; and Joseph L. McClean, 613 College St.

P. L. West (right), owner of West Music Co., 217 S. Clinton St., sponsored the group. The XL's, who competed with 100 other bands, entered a tape recording of "Summer Love in the Sand," which was written by Guy. The contest was sponsored by a manufacturer of electric guitars and amplifiers.

Pennsylvania Priests Warned On Behavior

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Staff members of the Diocese of Pennsylvania were warned Thursday to stop advocating civil disobedience or face possible dismissal.

Episcopal Bishop Robert L. DeWitt, head of the five-county Philadelphia area diocese, made the announcement after several days of controversy over statements by some Episcopal clergymen.

On Thursday one 450-member church said it was withholding $700 from the diocese because of what it considered "seditious and treasonous" statements by some diocese officials.

On Wednesday 30 placard-carrying pickets paraded outside the diocese headquarters demanding DeWitt clarify his stand on civil disobedience.

The bishop said his statement Thursday stemmed from a recent call by the Rev. David Gracie for young men to burn their draft cards. Bishop DeWitt said he took responsibility for Gracie's statement since the bishop had issued no guidelines on such matters. But, he said, from now on such statements will not be tolerated. Gracie is the urban missionary in the diocese.

"It is important to administer to those whose concern leads them to challenge a law or its administration as unjust," the bishop's statement said.

Ropes Urges Poverty Units To Combine

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa's 28 local antipoverty boards are being urged to consolidate operations under 16 area committees, state poverty chief John M. Ropes said Thursday.

Ropes said the reorganization would provide better coordination with state agencies which are to revamp their activities under a 16-area plan recently announced by Gov. Harold Hughes.

There has been no strong opposition to the reorganization from the antipoverty boards, which administer community action programs, said Ropes, director of the State Manpower Development Council.

Ropes said the regional headquarters of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity in Kansas City approved the reorganization proposal but advised that "any actions be taken quietly to avoid political repercussions."

"The federal officials want us to move in an orderly fashion so we don't raise the ire of local action boards," said Ropes.

"There might be opposition to the plan in some areas, but I think the boards will see the definite advantages," he said.

Liberal Arts College Picks 7 New Committee Members

Seven faculty members have been elected to the three standing committees of the College of Liberal Arts, according to Dean Dewey B. Stull.

The new members, all from the College of Liberal Arts, and their committees are John Gerber, professor and head of the Department of English; James Murray, professor and chairman of the Department of Political Science and Eugene Spaziani, associate director of zoology — all of the executive committee.

Elected to the educational policy committee were Frank Seiberling, professor and director of the School of Art; Robert Boynton, associate professor of political science; and Sherwood Tuttle, professor and chairman of the Department of Geology.

Richard Lloyd-Jones, professor of English, was elected to the adjustment committee.

The new committee members, who were nominated and elected by members of the College of Liberal Arts, will serve three year terms.

The executive committee is composed of the college dean and nine faculty members and serves to advise the dean in the college's business and studies policies toward the welfare and regulation of the faculty.

Also consisting of the dean and nine faculty members, the educational policy committee evaluates college courses and programs.

The adjustment committee, composed of the dean and three faculty members, works with student problems. The group also studies student regulations and reviews student scholarship records.

Amendment To Be Aired By Students

Representatives of campus political parties will discuss the Student Senate's autonomy proposal at Union Board's Issues and Answers program at 3:30 p.m. Monday in the Union Princeton Room. The student body is to vote on the proposal Wednesday.

Sen. Carl Varner, A3, Center-ville, and Jane Anton, A4, Waterloo, will represent Students for Responsible Action, and Sen. Phil Hubbard, A3, Iowa City, will be one of the Hawkeye Student Party's representatives.

Each side will be given five to eight minutes to give its opinion of the referendum. The discussion will then be open to questions from the audience.

Beer Party Raided But None Arrested

DES MOINES (AP) — An Iowa highway patrolman who raided a teen-age beer party said Thursday he didn't make arrests because he felt the juvenile court would not punish them.

Patrolman John R. Abeltins, accompanied by Patrolman Dennis

McGough, raided the party in a barn northeast of here Saturday night. He turned an estimated 250 youths loose after a man on the premises demanded to see a search warrant.

Abeltins said he was afraid he could not make arrests without a warrant.

"We had no way to get 250 kids into Des Moines to put them in jail," said Abeltins. "And some of them were too drunk to be driving."

"I didn't know — and still don't for that matter — where I stood legally, so I let the kids go," Abeltins said.

"I didn't think it would do any good to arrest the juveniles because the juvenile courts never do anything with them. I didn't want to arrest the adults and let the younger offenders go free."

Abeltins, a patrol veteran of eight years, said William Jones, a Des Moines lawyer who the patrolman said owned the land on which the party took place, asked to see a search warrant.

Polk County Atty. Ray A. Fenton said he was investigating the matter.

"I don't see why there were no arrests made," said Fenton. "The officers didn't need a search warrant to make arrests when they observed crimes taking place."

Rich German Apprehended For Espionage

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP) — Federal authorities veiled in secrecy their probe of a new espionage affair Thursday in which a multimillionaire businessman was put behind bars on suspicion of working for Communist East German intelligence.

Hans-Heinz Porst, 45, owner of Germany's largest photography store chain, was arrested Tuesday in a raid that drew bannerlines throughout the country. One of his employees had been taken into custody last week.

Federal Atty. Gen. Ludwig Martin would merely say that Porst was suspected of having had contacts with East Germany for "many years."

He declined comment on whether there was any link with the arrest of four Germans in Bonn two weeks ago following defection to the West of a Soviet spy.

Dieter Reiber, an executive of Porst's "Photo-Porst" chain, issued a statement condemning the arrest as "absurd and incredible."

Reiber is Porst's deputy in the management of the 50-store chain and various other business interests whose sales reportedly totaled $37.5 million last year.

Porst, a flamboyant type who likes hunting, flying his private plane and driving expensive American cars, is married and has four children who live in a villa outside Nuernberg.

UNI Teacher Accused Of Teaching 'Treason'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) accused a University of Northern Iowa instructor Thursday of "teaching anarchy and treason" by calling on students to protest the draft.

"This man is clearly, openly and aggressively advocating the overthrow of the United States government if that government does not knuckle under to his way of thinking," Gross said in a speech prepared for delivery on the floor of the House.

Gross, a native of Waterloo, calling himself "a staunch advocate of free speech and the right of dissent," said the instructor, Edward Hoffmans, launched "a vicious attack" on the government in the university newspaper.

In the article, Hoffmans urged students to mutilate draft cards, disrupt induction centers, refuse to serve in the armed forces, and in addition, instructed them on how to avoid being drafted.

Earlier this month, Hoffmans turned in his draft card to federal officials following an anti-draft demonstration in Cedar Rapids.

Gross said he would help pay for a one-way trip to North Vietnam for Hoffmans "so this man may learn firsthand just how free the speech is there."

Living Costs Up; Tax Hike Argued

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs continued to outclimb record-setting pay gains for most Americans last month and gave President Johnson further argument for a tax increase, the government reported Thursday.

A two-tenths of one per cent rise in consumer prices, plus steadily rising costs of industrial raw materials, "corroborate the need for a tax increase," said Commissioner Arthur M. Ross of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

10 To Attend Conference On Residence

Ten University representatives will attend the Big 10 Residence Hall Conference today through Sunday at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

The conference will include guest speakers and seminars and will provide an opportunity to discuss goals, programming and other aspects of residence hall living, according to Francis Hornstein, A3, Omaha, president of Associated Residence Halls (ARH).

Attending the conference will be William Arbes, director of counseling of men's residence halls; Anne Spiesz, G, Buffalo, N.Y., head resident of Stanley Hall; and Mark Monahan, A4, Audubon, head resident of Hillcrest.

Officers of ARH attending are Miss Hornstein, Anne Marecek, N2, Kirkwood, Mo., secretary; and Mark Royer, A3, Dallas Center, treasurer. Four residence hall advisors will also go.

California Ponds Turn Death Traps

CORCORAN, Calif. (AP) — The beautiful fields and streams under the central California section of the Pacific Flyway have turned into a death trap for thousands of migratory birds.

Botulism, the dread disease of waterfowl, has struck with deadly effect in the Tulare Lake basin, infecting more than 60,000 birds and leaving at least 5,000 dead.

Irrigation ditches in the area, a stopping off place for migratory birds heading south after summering in the north, are lined with dead and dying ducks.

Fish and Game Department officials fear the count of dead birds may reach 20,000.

Botulism, or food poisoning, strikes when standing water becomes warm and causes the vegetation beneath to ferment. The infected birds transmit the illness to other waterfowl.

Crews are burning the dead birds and transferring alling ones to fresh water ponds in the nearby Kern National Wildlife Refuge.

"We hope to save a large number of the sick birds," said Dave Selleck, regional game manager for the state.

Selleck said the birds were forced into the warm water with the opening of the waterfowl hunting season.

"When hunting began on the public shooting areas and the duck clubs, these birds naturally sought water in which they were not disturbed," he said.

"No hunting has been permitted on the irrigated farm lands in the basin."

The botulism outbreak in the area is the worst in several years.

Selleck said cooler weather would help stem the epidemic.

Joan Baez Released

Italian Court Blames Actor For Accident

LUCCA, Italy (AP) — American actor William Holden was convicted Thursday of manslaughter in the highway accident death of an Italian motorist.

The court sentenced him to eight months in jail and suspended the sentence.

Holden, 49, was not present for the verdict. He telephoned from his home in Switzerland to get the news.

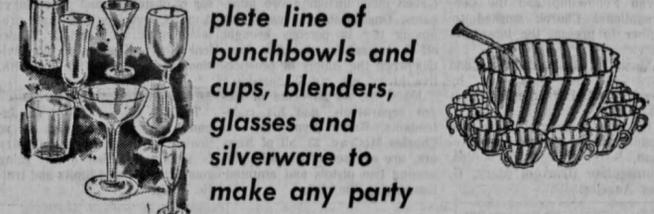

The actor was charged with manslaughter after his sports car and a small Italian car collided July 26, 1966, on a road between Florence and Pisa. The Italian driving the other car, Giorgio Valerio Novelli, 42, was killed. Holden escaped unhurt.

The court ruled that the Italian driver had failed to make enough room on the highway after Holden had signaled he wanted to pass.

The court also banned Holden from driving in Italy for eight months.

This group was one of many to fan-out over Caracas for various course-related field experiences during the several days the s.s. RYNDAM, campus and dormitory for the travelling students and faculty, was docked in the South American port.

Professor Haven now teaches art courses at the University of Miami, Florida. His students have transferred credits earned aboard the floating campus to their home campuses and have resumed regular classes. One is from South Dakota, majoring in Sociology at Tabor College in Hillsboro, Kansas; another is a junior in Political Science at San Francisco State College; a third is a sophomore in Latin American Studies at Indiana University and still another a business student at Santa Monica City College in California.

As you read this, more than 500 students, representing 200 colleges and universities throughout the country, accompanied by a distinguished faculty, already have embarked from New York for the Fall 1967 semester which will take them to ports in Europe, Africa and Asia, returning to Los Angeles via Honolulu.

Students are now enrolling for the Spring 1968 semester and will depart from Los Angeles to engage in shipboard study supplemented by visits to ports in Peru, Chile, Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, Senegal, Morocco, Spain, Greece, Turkey, Yugoslavia, Italy, Portugal, The Netherlands and Great Britain, terminating in May in New York.

Zoners OK Street Names

The Iowa City Planning and Zoning Commission will recommend to the City Council that two city streets be renamed, the commission decided at its meeting Thursday afternoon.

The commission approved the name Colorado Avenue for the previously named Parkway Avenue in the Fairmeadows area. The name was changed to avoid confusion with the Parkway Avenue in the Towncrest Addition.

The commission decided on the name St. Anne Drive for a previously unnamed street off Prairie du Chien Road. The commission discussed whether to spell the street "Ann" or "Anne." They decided on "Anne" so that it would complement the French name, Prairie du Chien.

Members also received preliminary plans for a 26-acre plan development off West Benton Street and an informal preliminary plat for an addition to the Fairmeadows development.

PAPERS TO BE READ

Scientific reports will be given at the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine meeting at 7:30 Tuesday night in 3 Medical Laboratories Building.

DI, WSUI, TV Center To Aid Corps

Staff members of The Daily Iowan, WSUI and the Television Center are acting as consultants to help the Clinton Job Corps Center set up newspaper, radio and television programs.

According to Bill Newbrough, editor of the DI, the University staffs will make facilities in their departments available to women from the Job Corps who are interested in their areas.

Newbrough, Charles F. Cremer, news director at WSUI, and Larry Barrett, program assistant at WSUI, visited the Clinton center Wednesday. They met with officials of the center and with some of the trainees.

The center is presently operating a closed circuit radio and television system and a newspaper is being produced by corpswomen, Newbrough said. Directors of the center told the University staff members that the center might be interested in developing radio, television and newspaper vocational programs.

Newbrough said that he and his staff looked forward to working with corpswomen interested in newspaper work. He said that he and his staff would visit the center.

"We hope women from the center will be able to spend several days working with the staff of The Daily Iowan in the near future," he said.

Barrett and Cremer said they planned to work with corpswomen in the same way.

Other University departments with programs that might interest corpswomen should contact the management of the center, Newbrough said.

Joint Vesper To Be Held

An unusual joint Roman Catholic-Protestant vesper service will be celebrated at 7 p.m. Sunday at the First Methodist Church, 404 E. Jefferson St.

The service is to be followed at 8 p.m. by "Acts 2:12," a satirical play at Gloria Dei Lutheran Church at Dubuque and Market streets.

University students from St. Thomas More, Christus House, St. Paul's Lutheran Chapel, Wesleyan Fellowship and the Congregational Church worked together to present the inter-faith service.

Music for the processional and recessional will be provided by the Gloria Dei Choir and a brass quartet.

In another unusual move, the homily will be delivered by a woman, Sister Roberta McMullen, Immaculate Heart of Mary, G. Los Angeles.

School Board Gets Brief Lesson In Economics, 1st-Grader Style

By MARILYN MILLER

Iowa City parents may be surprised when their children come home from school talking about such economic concepts as the law of supply and demand.

Economic-oriented texts for first graders was one of the topics covered in a social studies curriculum discussion at the Iowa City Community School Board meeting Tuesday.

The board members studied a first grade textbook, "Our Working World," and listened to an accompanying record about how taxes pay for the "goods and services families buy together."

"Do you know who pays for roads and parks, for the Army, Navy and Air Force? Who pays for firemen and their shiny red fire engines?" the "woman in the record" asked.

Sound Effect Included

The record, which includes such sound effects as a walling siren, is played while children look at corresponding pictures in the textbook.

The text begins with the family and branches out to illustrate the roles of the consumer and producer in society.

"Children are able to grasp concepts formerly thought to be too difficult," said Richard Hughes, principal of Herbert Hoover Elementary School.

"To motivate and interest students in social studies and to touch something meaningful to them so they aren't just blobs of protoplasm in the classroom" are the goals of social studies, said Thomas Sandell, Iowa City chairman of secondary social studies.

The former method of teaching was to use one text for each course. Now several texts, films, slides, records and reference books are used. C. E. Railsback, director of curriculum, said. The program has been in effect for three years.

Stress Inductive Thinking
Railsback said that the curriculum directors were stressing the inductive method of teaching, to get the student to think and to come to his own conclusions.

"The problem-solving approach is slow and difficult, but it is one of the best ways of getting material across to and motivating the student," Sandell said.

This new trend in Iowa City schools is one way to get away from presenting students with volumes of facts which seem distant and irrelevant to them, Sandell said.

"Social studies concern people and human understanding, which is vitally important today," he said.

SPI Board To Be Open To Reporters

The Board of Trustees of Student Publications, Inc. (SPI) voted Thursday afternoon to open their meetings to the press.

The action came after a request from Bill Newbrough, editor of The Daily Iowan, that he be allowed to report on the board's meetings.

SPI owns the DI. The board also publishes the Hawkeye yearbook and football programs.

Newbrough said later he was pleased with the vote. He commented that the DI tried to cover meetings of all boards, committees and other important University bodies and that the SPI board would be covered in the future.

"It is appropriate that the governing board for student publications take a step in favor of freedom of the press," Newbrough said.

John B. Bremner, assistant professor of journalism, voted against admitting the press. Lane Davis, professor of political science, abstained.

All-White Jury Chosen For Trial Of Playwright

MORRISTOWN, N.J. — An all-white jury was selected Thursday in the trial of Negro poet-playwright LeRoi Jones and two others on weapons charges stemming from last July's racial disorders in Newark.

The Morris County jury is composed of three women and eleven men, including two alternates. One of those chosen was among the 18 persons brought off the street by sheriff's deputies when the supply of prospective jurors ran out Wednesday.

Jones, 33, an advocate of Negro separatism, and his codefendants, Barry Wynn, 23, and Charles McCray, 33, all of Newark, are accused of illegally possessing two pistols and ammunition during the riots.

Roosevelt Apathy To Jews Charged

GENEVA — A World Jewish Congress leader supported Thursday allegations in a new book that President Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration deliberately failed to take actions which could have saved thousands of Jewish victims of Nazi persecution.

A former Columbia Broadcasting System executive, Arthur D. Morse, wrote the book: "While Six Million Died: A Chronicle of American Apathy."

It charges the Roosevelt government knew Hitler's Germany was planning a massacre of Jews, but obstructed, thwarted and delayed actions which could have saved thousands.

In one case, Morse wrote, Gerhart M. Riegner, the World Jewish Congress representative in Switzerland, went to the U.S. consulate in Geneva with information that Hitler had ordered the extermination of all Jews in Europe.

The information was received with universal disbelief by the State Department and was suppressed, Morse said.

Riegner, 55, who is now secretary-general of the World Jewish Congress, commented:

"On the whole, I can say I have never been convinced that it was necessary for Hitler to come to power. I have never been convinced that Hitler could not have been stopped before it was too late."

"There is no doubt that at that time the U.S. authorities never realized the seriousness of the situation or the extent of the tragedy," he said.

"There was never any attempt to use the imagination needed to inaugurate a rescue scheme. In short, the effort made by the U.S. government 25 years ago was too little and too late."

Nursing Institute To Be Held Here

Theme of a postgraduate nursing institute to be held Wednesday and Thursday at the Union will be "Family Life Education."

The program is being sponsored by the Department of Pediatrics, Obstetrics and Gynecology, the College of Nursing, and the Division of Maternal and Child Health of the State Department of Health.

Moderators will be Dr. Robert M. Kretzschmar, associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology; Anna E. Overland, associate professor of nursing; and Dr. Madeleine Healy, director of the Division of Maternal and Child Health.

SEA SPEED LIMITS URGED

TOKYO — Traffic on Japan's coastal waterways is so heavy that the Transport Ministry is urging adoption of sea-going route signs, speed limits and traffic lights.

Hospital Meters Working Sundays

Regulations for parking meters north and south of University Hospital and on Newton Road north of the Hospital are being enforced from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily, John Dooley, director of parking lot operation, said Thursday.

Meters were previously enforced Monday through Saturday only.

The areas north and south of the hospital are still reserved for visitor parking. The area on Newton Road is open to all students except freshmen and sophomores.

You don't save enough money, do you?

You try to save. But something always comes up. The dentist, maybe. Or car repairs. Or the kids need clothes. It seems there's always month left at the end of the money instead of the other way around.

Well, you're not alone. It's the same way with millions of Americans. But you know, they've found a way to save successfully. They've signed up for U.S. Savings Bonds—through the Payroll Savings Plan where they work or the Bond-a-Month Plan where they bank. They put a regular amount every payday toward Savings Bonds.

The plan works—because it's automatic. The saving is done for you. And you don't feel the pinch because you don't see the money. Sounds funny, but it's true. We call it "Don't-Take-Home-Pay," and it's the greatest invention since take-home pay.

When you invest in Savings Bonds you add to your security today, and add to your opportunities for tomorrow. Savings Bonds can provide the down payment on a new home. A college education for the children. A comfortable, enjoyable retirement. And your savings earn a good return while they pile up.

There's also another reason to buy Savings Bonds. You put your savings to work for America, in the cause of freedom. You help your country at the same time you help yourself. That can make you feel mighty good.

Another thing: when you join the Payroll Savings Plan or the Bond-a-Month Plan, you are also eligible to purchase the new type U.S. Savings Notes—Freedom Shares. Freedom Shares pay 4.74% when held to maturity of just 4½ years (redeemable after one year), are available on a one-for-one basis with Savings Bonds.

Why not get started today? Talk to the Payroll Department where you work, or to any officer where you bank.

You'll breathe easier because you're saving money. And you'll walk taller because you're helping your country.

U.S. Savings Bonds, new Freedom Shares

EVER BEEN GEEEEPED? What, not even once? Well, neither has anybody else, so don't feel bad. However, the first "occasion" by Iowa City's own GEEEEP (Group for the Experimentally Entertaining Exploitation of Existing Prowess) will be held tonight at the Unicorn Coffee House in the Unitarian Church at Iowa Avenue and Gilbert Street. Everyone in the world has been invited to this free Geeeep-in, and since there'll be two shows, one at 9 p.m. and another at 11 p.m., at least some of you will be able to attend. Scenes like the one pictured above, featuring several Geeeeps who prefer to remain anonymous, will be featured. — Photo by Dave Luck

TV Networks To Juggle Programs, Cancel Others

NEW YORK (AP) — Program juggling fever hit the television networks Thursday, and at least four more shows may get the word on cancellation before the week is out.

Two shows cancelled earlier — both new to this season — are "Dundee and the Culhane" on CBS and "Accidental Family" on NBC.

Four programs expected to be dropped at the end of the year — or at least juggled in the time schedule — are "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." and "Maya" on NBC and "Custer" and "Good Company" on ABC.

Network officials have been meeting for several days about the program changes. More definite word is expected after they study the newest Nielsen multi-city ratings, due out Friday. Besides the six shows mentioned, other programs may be in for time changes.

This has not been a good year for regular series programming, and the new shows in particular have suffered in the ratings battle. No new shows made it to the top 10 — where the movies hold five of the top spots.

Cancellation of "Dundee" was announced by CBS last week, and it will be replaced at 10 p.m. Wednesday, beginning Dec. 27, by a comedy-variety show starring Jonathan Winters. A network source said no further program changes are anticipated.

NBC confirmed late Wednesday that "Accidental Family" will leave the air at the end of December. No replacement has been named, but among the possibilities are a game show or "Sheriff Who?" a Western comedy with John Astin that won attention when the network showed it in a sneak preview before the season premiere.

USIA Mission Discussed

By JUDI PIER

Richard M. McCarthy of the United States Information Agency (USIA), spoke on the objectives, personnel system, admission requirements and salary ranges of the USIA during a meeting Thursday afternoon in Union Kirkwood Room.

By influencing important persons of foreign nations through news and propaganda, the USIA attempts to create a favorable climate towards the United States, McCarthy said.

The USIA also strives to support national development in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Middle East.

Foreign service personnel spend two-thirds or more of their careers overseas, according to McCarthy. In addition, they are required to work in Washington about every eight years.

A written foreign service test, which will be given at the University Dec. 2, followed by an oral interview, are required for admission to the foreign service.

McCarthy said that 30 per cent passed the written examination and approximately half those who took the oral examination were hired as officers.

USIA salaries depend on age and qualifications. Salaries for those under 25 range from $6450 to $7700 yearly. Persons over 24 with a masters degree, or having three years or more working experience, receive from $7500 to $8400 yearly.

In addition, special arrangements are made by the USIA concerning housing, travel expenses, medical care, insurance and education.

McCarthy, a 1943 graduate of the University, entered the U.S. Foreign Service in 1947. He has been stationed in Peking, Hong Kong, Bangkok and Saigon.

Wildcat Strikes Plague Britain

LONDON (AP) — Wildcat strikes spread across Britain Thursday with broad ranks of workers apparently in open revolt against the Labor government they put in power and even against their own trade union leaders.

The unofficial strike action was holding up more than $500 million worth of vital exports, endangering national economic recovery and thus jeopardizing the British bid to join the European Common Market.

The Labor government's popularity rating in the opinion polls plunged to its lowest level since taking office three years ago on a platform of restoring the sickly national economy, streamlining government administration and modernizing industry.

Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II, indicated in a forthright speech Wednesday that he feels the regime has failed to carry out at least two of its aims. He called for sweeping reforms to modernize industry, bureaucracy and education.

Protest Set For Marines, Student Says

"We don't want any violence, we want a peaceful demonstration," Bruce A. Clark, A, D, E, S, Moines, a member of a steering committee that is organizing a protest of United States Marine Corps recruiting on this campus, said Thursday.

The committee is composed of members of Students for a Democratic Society and the Draft Resisters Union. This week the committee has been distributing leaflets at the Union postering the recruiting, which will be Wednesday through Friday next week.

Clark said that final plans have not been made for the protest but that there would be people obstructing the corridors to prevent students from talking to the recruiters.

Clark said that he and several members of the committee talked to students from the University of Wisconsin at Madison and that he learned some lessons from them. He did not elaborate.
