Reds Believed Ready To Seek Peace, Coalition

KANDAHAR, Afghanistan—There are signs that hard-line communists may be ready to start peace talks with the Afghan government. Sources close to the Afghan government said Monday that the communists had made offers to meet the government. However, the negotiations were expected to be difficult because the communists are not yet ready to accept all the demands of the Afghan government.

Antarid ad draws skepticism

Only about 60 per cent of the members of the faculty and staff at the University of Iowa whose names appeared in an announcement appeared in an announcement from the New York Times. But those who did were faculty, instructors, and staff members or graduate assistants.

There were 60 names on the fol­low­ing ad, but about 25 of the three were listed as graduate students or simply not listed in the bold list.

The broadside is this:

Professors

Instructors

Grad. Staff

Before any conclusions are drawn, these figures need some explanation. The brief ad is a fairly broad invitation to anyone to sign a petition, work for a student or staff member, or simply not sign. It was held by those who did not want to sign.

In my opinion, the ad should have been made to all of those who signed it, no matter who the faculty or staff member was. The petition was巨大地有 and its purpose was to show the need for this and the need for the administration to consider this.

The call for signing by themselves or the signatures were made by students.

For the sake of honesty, there either should have been fewer names or the ad should have indicated that not all those who signed held both teaching positions.

On Sunday Iowa City Iowan, Rick

T. Turner said that he was drafting the ad on the request of an instructor to a lawyer who said it "amounts to a dollar and some." Turner said that it had been decided that it would be "difficult to prove intent to lesser or any country which is a necessary element in generating such a petition.

This is not the case. The ad was quickly worded and only a member of the radical right would make this the first line of "attacks and threats." Turner emphatically did not agree to engage in a whole bunch of those who signed the ad, and he said it was an inconvenience, in part.

However, there is a right to speak out in the "political" sense. The ad was written by the professor of the students as "Graduate Students" on the University of Iowa and was distributed as a 3 x 5 card.

I understand that no one department is at the request of graduate assistants and other graduate students that the ad was circulated around the campus.

9 Protesters Found Guilty-1 To Get Trial

Nine prominent figures of the Chicago Napalm Defense League were convicted last week in U.S. District Court here of conspiring to violate the Selective Service Act. The defendants, who are friends of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., pleaded guilty after a jury trial.

Three other persons, including a former member of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, were acquitted. The defendants were sentenced to three years or fines of $5,000 and were ordered to begin serving their sentences on Wednesday.

The convictions were the result of a five-week trial in which the government presented evidence of a plot to violate the Selective Service Act by refusing to register for the draft.

The defendants were charged with conspiracy to violate the Selective Service Act by refusing to register for the draft.

The jury was composed of 12 men and one woman. It took two hours to reach its decision.

The defendants were represented by Samuel Levene, a noted Chicago lawyer, and by Howard A. Shaw, a former member of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

Levene said he would consider appealing the convictions.

At the close of the trial, Judge Milton Fishman said the defendants were guilty of a serious crime and that the sentences were adequate.

The defendants were: William Ayers, a former member of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee; John Demos, a former member of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee; and Thomas F. Lyon, a former member of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

The government was represented by Assistant U.S. Attorney Philip P. Schulberg.

A summary of the evidence presented at the trial follows:

The government's case was based on the testimony of three witnesses: John Demos, a former member of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee; William Ayers, a former member of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee; and Thomas F. Lyon, a former member of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

Demos testified that he had been a member of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and that he had been a member of the Chicago Napalm Defense League. He said that he had been a member of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and that he had been a member of the Chicago Napalm Defense League.

Ayers testified that he had been a member of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and that he had been a member of the Chicago Napalm Defense League. NL Confers On Expansion

CHICAGO (AP) - The National League yesterday adopted the formula of the American League in clamping on to its expansion schedule.

The NL announced it will sponsor ball clubs in two new cities for the 1969 season.

National League President John Heydle, speaking to the Board of Directors members of the National League, said: "The experience of the American League with respect to expansion and outfitting clubs has been such that it is natural to give careful consideration to this matter.

"The League has been planning expansion for over two years and a number of proposals have been discussed. It is evident that expansion will take place in the next two years and it is important for both the American and National Leagues that the new clubs be properly established." The clubs, which will be chartered in bottom row of the NL, will be chartered in

The National League, it was reported, will have a list of cities in which it will start ball clubs. The National League in 1969 will include ten clubs in the NL.

NEW YORK (AP) — In a move that kills two birds with one stone, the city of New York has decided to implement a new policy that requires all new employees to wear both a mask and a hat during the workday. The policy was implemented in response to a recent increase in cases of bird flu in the area, which has led to concerns about the spread of the disease among employees. The new policy is expected to reduce the risk of transmission and protect the city's workforce from potential exposure. The policy applies to all employees, regardless of their position, and will be enforced strictly.

Advantage Of Improved Library Setup

By 20 Jan 1967

A new system was established at the Iowa State Library. It is the first step towards a new library system for the state. The system will improve the efficiency of the library and allow for better access to materials. The system will also help to reduce the cost of maintaining the library. The Iowa State Library hopes to use the new system to improve the resources available to the public. The library is looking forward to the new system and hoping it will be successful.
