Hillcrest residents chant 'Dial Baby, Dial!'

To the Editor:

We would like to take a moment to compliment the men of Hillcrest for their speed in emptying the building after Monday's 3:30 a.m. false fire alarm. However, before we go too far in our praise, we must remind ourselves that we have had a great deal of practice this semester. Also, we assume that each resident knows the value of early morning fresh air, especially while enjoying it in pajamas.

The reader might not believe this, but there have been complaints by residents

Death lives in grad's poem

To the Editor:

The Grim Reminder
 Death walked the narrow streets of Iowa City.
 Dead men saw him dimly through their decomposing eyes respecting this reminder of their own demise (whose memory — not wholly dead — still haunted them) they strove to drive the spirit from their decadent minds, tried to suppress, to bury him.
 He is gone,
 but death stands still and stays in Iowa City.
 These dead men cannot kill that ghost obsessing them.
 Death lives.

Soldier tells of 'protest demonstration'

To the Editor:
 While reading the paper the other day I discovered that the campus liberals had a protest demonstration against Dow Chemical Co. It seems that protest demonstrations are a way of life at the University.

Other organizations have protest demonstrations and I enclose a picture of a "pro-

CBS Reports

by Rick Garr

Aside from the fact that its title gave the wrong impression beforehand, the CBS documentary Tuesday night on California's Republican governor, Ronald Reagan, was informative, interesting and thought-provoking.

The advertising made me believe the special would be an evaluation of Reagan's chances as a Presidential candidate or an analysis of his national strengths, organization and so forth. Both of these would be welcome at the present, but this show was neither.

It was simply an hour-long, filmed portrait of Reagan's past. It was more of a portrait of the man than an evaluation of a possible candidate.

Narrated by CBS newsman Harry Reasoner, the show began at the beginning: Reagan's birthplace at Tampico, Ill. Reasoner read a passage from the governor's autobiography, "Where's the Rest of Me?" in which he described his red, white and blue birth in 1911.

Reagan said he was blue in the face from crying, red on the bottom from being spanked at birth, and white with terror at the experience of being born.

Reasoner used this passage to lead into a discussion of Reagan's blatant patriotism, and from this the theme of the show was built.

Virtually every other scene in the program was related to the Reagan-as-honest-man theme. He was portrayed along these lines no matter whether he was doing commercials, hosting a television show or stumping against Pat Brown in California last year.

CBS apparently wanted to show that Reagan's personal life was given the greatest play, and both his present and former wife (Jane Wyman) were mentioned. The stress was put on almost every aspect of Reagan the man except on Reagan the potential President.

It seemed that if CBS had only taken another half hour to analyze Reagan's chances for the nomination and had tried to answer the current political questions floating around, the portrait would have been complete. As it was, it seemed about 75 per cent finished.

Perhaps because everything else was a fact accompli, the present political speculation would not have fit well with the program's format. But, it would seem, with such a strong foundation to build upon, CBS really passed up a chance to give the public some insight into the present scramble for the nomination next year.

As a personal portrait the show was impressive. I would vote for a rerun.

Clergyman suggests ending student deferments

To the Editor:

As feelings become more intense and reasoning becomes less clear, as more heat is generated than light from the "Draft-Vietnam Syndrome," I offer the following proposal to students.

I urge the leaders of the student community to circulate petitions on campus stating the following:

In order that we be placed on an equal footing with all young men subject to the demands of the Selective Service Act of 1967, we, the undersigned, request the cessation of deferments for students.

This modest proposal has within it a powerful moral dimension which might inspire the older generation. It is legal. It would challenge the sincerity and integrity of those who support the syndrome as well as those who protest. It would make the supporters as vulnerable as the protesters. It is not enough for 2,000 students to send a letter of support to the President. The time has come for these same students to make themselves subject to the conditions they support.

If the students pursue the above course of action they will silence the cynics among us who look at the inequities within the Selective Service System and say: "this is the final solution in coping with the high school and college drop outs. Here is a method by which we can re-educate the poor, the minority groups, those who have neither the means nor the motivation to opt for a student deferment."

Now is the time for students to lead the "over-30" generation in a forceful moral gesture. Act from your petition of privilege maintained at the expense of others.

Coed requests fire, vehemence in DI editorials

In reading one of The Daily Iowan's editorials of Dec. 5, "Irresponsible protest was unfortunate," it struck me — not for the first time — how objective and impersonal most of the DI's editorial comments are.

In an editorial I like to see some personal reactions, maybe even a little fire and vehemence once in a while, but what did I find in the Dec. 5 edition? There were such phrases as "There was unnecessary and unwise police violence" and "The correct police action in this case would have been . . ." Even the title of the piece was stilted. The overall impression I receive is that the DI's editorials are totally estranged from the scene, as if they were written in an office miles from the action. What about a little empathy?

'General, we may have to reclassify you'

Reader asks leadership from liberal community

To the Editor:

Are the teachers and graduate students who call for "responsible protest" serious when they ask others to turn to them for alternate ways of seeking peace? (See Saturday's Daily Iowan.) I sincerely hope so as there has been a noticeable lack of leadership from the liberal community.

I expect to see the 19 who signed the letter and those who agree with them create a broad based movement on this campus in which thousands can participate without compromising their integrity.

Obviously it will not be a meaningful movement unless the . . . 108 plus 18, who have been recently carrying the burden (physically, financially and morally), are encouraged to participate. They will not join if they are to be patronized or condemned even before they are brought to trial. They will support a new group if they are convinced that there are others who are just as committed to ending the war but who may have different plans of action — the time for discussion alone is past.

Visible alternatives will be welcomed if they are presented in a spirit of unity of purpose rather than of criticism. If the responsible will take the lead in initiating "dramatic and thought-provoking" protest on this campus, in this city or in this state, they will get cooperation from the demonstrators. The demonstrators too want to improve society but are aware that inaction, as well as excesses in action, can destroy not only our society but the world . . .

There are evidences that those who strongly oppose the war will be harshly treated unless the liberals shout — no quiet voice — their objections. Intellectuals, who understand the dynamics involved in opposing an institutionalized social evil, realize that they may have to risk their jobs, their reputations, and their tranquility if they are to be effective in both opposing the war and in preventing an atmosphere of jingoism and persecution from developing.

Santa Claus — a dirty hippie?

To the Editor:
 It has come to my attention that Santa Claus is a hippie. He wears boots, bells, a beard and long hair. Besides that, he's filthy from chimney soot. Hippies are no-goods. Therefore, I suggest we do away with Christmas this year.

Stearns Hawk

Heavyweight Dale Stearns will appear in Iowa's lineup for the first time this season tonight when the Hawkeye wrestling team tries to make it seven wins in a row over Illinois. The meet is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the Field House.

Stearns, who finished third in the Big 10 meet last year, has been out of action this season with a rib injury. He has stayed in shape by running laps every night in the Field House.

His injury has held him back, however, and Stearns is anxious to start his season tonight.

The Hawkeyes and the Illini meet every year in mid December for a dual meet and the Hawks have not lost one of these meets since December, 1961. The score last year was 23-6.

Hawks Beat Purdue

Iowa has already had three dual meets, beating Purdue, 34-2 for the biggest margin for the Hawkeyes over a Big 10 team in many years, losing to Indiana, 19-13, and defeating Bowling Green, 23-6. Today's will be the first duel meet of the season for Illinois.

Iowa will field a lineup of five heavyweights.

The unusual situation of facing two Big 10 opponents in dual meets in less than 18 hours occurs for Iowa's gymnastics team today and Saturday.

In the first of the season's dual meet series, the Hawkeyes will host Wisconsin tonight at 7:30 and Indiana Saturday at 10:30 a.m. Both meets will be in the north gym of the Field House.

The two matches mark an unusually early start of conference action for Iowa, but Hawk Coach Sam Baille feels his team is ready.

Both Indiana and Wisconsin have been plagued by weakness in trampoline, just as we have," said Baille. "But we have upgraded ourselves in this area this year, and that should give us the edge we need.

In the second dual meet, the Hawkeyes will host Michigan Saturday at 10:30 a.m. Both teams will be in the south gym of the Field House.

lettermen, including four juniors and a senior. Sophomores will wrestle in the 130, 137, and 145-pound classes.

Sophomores who are pushing veterans carry the hopes of Illinois for improvement of their 2-10 dual meet record last year. The Illini have six juniors and seniors but with the advance of younger men their positions for the Iowa meet are in jeopardy.

Yahn Injured

The Hawks will go into the meet without the help of two starters, Don Yahn and Joe Wells.

Yahn, who has wrestled at 145 pounds for the Hawks this year, has a knee injury and will not be able to compete tonight.

Wells, who has competed at 152 pounds this year, is out of the lineup with strep throat.

Iowa's lineup for tonight's meet is:

Ray Pastorino — 123; Dave Mayberry — 130; Joe Carstensen — 137; John Irvine — 145; Jim Danielson — 152; Rich Michael — 160; Phil Henning — 167; Verlyn Streller — 177; and Dale Stearns — heavyweight.

2 Hawkeyes Set To Race Over Holidays

Competition in December track meets awaits Iowa track men Mike Mondane and Larry Wieczorek. Coach Francis Cretzmeier announced Thursday.

Wieczorek, winner of two Big 10 mile titles as well as two conference cross country crowns, will run the mile in the Senior Bowl meet in Mobile, Ala. Dec. 21. He has a best indoor time of 4:05.3, the Big 10 record. The Mobile race will be on a board indoor track.

Wieczorek will also run the three-mile event in the Sugar Bowl outdoor meet Dec. 30 in New Orleans. In this meet Mondane will run the 440-yard dash, an event in which he has won two outdoor Big 10 titles and holds the all-time Iowa record of :45.9.

Cretzmeier said both Hawkeyes are in good shape but, of course, will not reach their running peak until March when the Big 10 and NCAA meets occur.

Card Sale Assists Kids

A Christmas card sale for the benefit of UNICEF, the U.N.'s children's fund, is currently being held at the Whipple House, 529 S. Gilbert St.

Proceeds aid UNICEF work in 117 countries where the organization provides health services, disease control programs, educational facilities and vocational training, according to Mrs. John Gerber, a board member of the Iowa City United Nations Association.

The foreword was written by Dr. William B. Bean, head of the University Department of Internal Medicine.

The local chapter of Gamma Delta, international Lutheran student organization, has a contract with the University to provide jobs as part of the Federal Work-Study Program (FWSP).

The fraternity, located at St. Paul's Lutheran Chapel, 404 E. Jefferson St., has eight jobs available. The job areas include setarial, custodial, nursing, cooking and library work.

The jobs, which pay about $2 an hour with a maximum of 15 work hours a week, are open to any students.

Under the FWSP, the federal government pays 85 per cent of the workers' wages, with the sponsoring group contributing the remaining 15 per cent.

In a meeting of all education

Chamber Elects New Directors

Five new members were added to the Board of Directors of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

The newly elected members are D. Bartholow of the Iowa State Bank and Trust Co.; Robert N. Mearon; Marvin Law Offices; H. Graham, Paris Cleaners; Robert C. Randall, Procter and Gamble Manufacturing Co.; and James A. Sangster, First National Bank.

The men were elected to three-year terms beginning Jan. 1. The Chamber membership voted mail ballots which were counted Thursday morning. The men join 10 elected holdover members and five special representatives on the 20-member board.

The organizational meeting for the Chamber board will be at the Highlander Restaurant 6:30 p.m., Dec. 28. Election of officers for the new year will be held at that time.

Instructor, Alums Win Art Awards

A faculty member and two former students in the School of Art are among some 30 recipients of Louis Comfort Tiffany Foundation Fellowships for 1967.

Ronald L. Brown, an instructor in ceramics, will use his award to help pay for a large studio kiln and to finance transportation of his works to exhibitions.

James Burke and James Hibbard, who received masters degrees in 1962 and 1966, both in printmaking, are the alumni.

Burke is now at Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, and Hibbard is at Portland State College, Portland.

No Trial Date Set For Riley

The date for the trial of State Sen. Tom Riley (R-Cedar Rapids) on a charge of disturbing the peace remained indefinite Thursday night.

The trial will take place in the court of Justice of the Peace Carl J. Goetz of Iowa City. Originally to be held in Iowa City Police Court, the trial venue was switched Wednesday to Goetz's court at the request of Riley by Police Court Judge Marion R. Neely.

Riley requested the change in venue so he could request a jury trial. Iowa City ordinances do not make provisions for jury trials in Police Court.

Neely denied a motion Wednesday to dismiss the charge against Riley.

Riley was charged following a citizen's arrest by Jerry Sies, 44, Valley Stream, N.Y., in the Nov. 1 protest against Marine recruiters on campus. Sies apprehended Riley after the senator himself attempted to make a citizen's arrest of one of the demonstrators.

Riley requested the change in

Comptroller Resigns

DES MOINES — Richard W. Paton, an assistant comptroller, resigned Thursday after being accused in a state audit of depositing Gov. Harold E. Hughes' income tax withholding checks in Paton's personal account.

The report by State Auditor Lloyd Smith said Paton, 49, had deposited $5,046 withheld from the salaries of Hughes and members of the governor's staff in an account at the Central National Bank.

The disclosure was under investigation by the attorney general's office.

Student Attitudes Studied

By SUSANN HOOVEN
A survey of racial and ethnic attitudes and behavioral norms of 100 University students is being conducted by a group of students for a sociology course on Race and Ethnic Relations.

The course is taught by Howard J. Ehrlich, associate professor of sociology and anthropology.

The survey will occur annually in order to measure how much change in racial and ethnic attitudes and behavior will happen over time. The survey will also attempt to explain the reasons for a change.

A random sample of 100 students has been chosen for this survey. They will be interviewed and questioned during the next several weeks.

According to Joseph Rosmann, G. Harlan, who is helping to conduct the survey, University students are usually considered to be liberal and unprejudiced in their racial and ethnic attitudes. One outcome of this survey will be an attempt to prove whether this impression is valid.

The survey also will consider student attitudes concerning peace demonstrators, professors, and Young Americans for Freedom.

The behavior aspect of the study will deal with the types of relationships and activities that the student would engage in with a member of the target groups, such as marriage, friendship, or social contacts.

Rosmann said that to try to determine from this survey what the ideal norms of behavior of those interviewed was important. Ideal norms, he said, are usually the guide for a person's actual behavior with a member of the various target groups.

Results of the survey will be published in the Daily Iowan sometime in January.

UI Sororities Hold Parties For Christmas

Christmas is a time for greeting friends and the sororities on campus follow this tradition.

In addition to a gift exchange between friends at each chapter house, many sororities spread the Christmas spirit to their house employees, to underprivileged children, and to Iowa City residents at Christmas open houses.

To honor their board crews who serve meals at the houses, some sororities have traded duties and served the crews.

"One night before vacation, the seniors in our sorority take over the dinner serving duties and the house boys (board crews) are treated as special guests," said Debbie Elliott, A2, Oelwein, Chi Omega.

Other men in the girls' lives have been honored at miscellaneous Christmas parties. The Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority had a Christmas buffet for girls and their dates. The Alpha Chi Omega Sorority planned a tree trimming party.

Several houses entertained some underprivileged children in the community. "We planned a party for underprivileged children and gave them little gifts," said Patricia E. Volle, A2, Springfield, Ill., of Alpha Chi Omega.

Most sororities serenaded their fraternities with carols and were in turn serenaded by them.

The Junior Panhellenic Association, comprised of pledges from all the sororities also have caroled at each fraternity house.

The Gamma Phi Beta sorority held its traditional fireside this week and invited over 200 friends and strangers into their home for coffee and cookies.

Film Festival To Be Held For Students

The Third National Student Film Festival will be held Jan. 19 to 21 at the University of California, Los Angeles.

The event, jointly sponsored by the Motion Picture Association of America (MPAA), the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts and the U.S. National Student Association.

Four first prize winners will be chosen in categories of animation, documentary, dramatic and experimental films and will receive $500 grants, contributed by the MPAA.

The announcement of winners, the first public showing of finalists and award winning films will be presented during the festival.

Winning student films also will be presented at Lincoln Center's Philharmonic Hall, New York, in April.

Drake Will Drop Divinity School

DES MOINES (I)—President Paul F. Sharp announced Thursday that Drake University would discontinue its divinity school next year.

Sharp said the decision was made by university trustees, who cited "sharply rising costs and low enrollments" as primary factors.

He said the closing of the school would be accompanied by a "re-orientation of religious education" at the University which is currently being developed by a task force under the direction of Provost David G. Brown.

We believe that we have a better solution for the problems facing the nation," said Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan.

With Johnson in the White House, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said, the nation is "in a fix" and the GOP is trying to do something about it.

Dirksen and Ford spoke in rebuttal to a Tuesday night speech in which Johnson gave faint praise to this Congress and assailed its Republican members.

"This is not a rubber-stamp Congress," Ford said. "The last Congress was President Johnson's Congress."

"We didn't agree and frankly we didn't like the President's unfair assessment of the 90th Congress."

Congress Praised

"For the first time in years," said Dirksen, "this has been the assertive, aggressive Congress which has really gone to bat to retrieve its constitutional position."

They recorded the reply to Johnson for national television-radio broadcast Friday night. Johnson's speech to the AFL-CIO

Tu Suy was nationally broadcast, and the Republicans demanded and received time to answer him on the major networks.

Johnson called Republicans in Congress "woolly soldiers of the status quo."

Bridge Over C Toll Ur

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. (AP)—An evening suspension bridge collapsed during rush-hour and Christmas shopping Friday, sending an estimated 75 cars into the Ohio River. Nine were recovered and estimates were death toll might go higher when permitted searching the river.

"The whole bridge is in the river," a policeman said at Gallipolis, Ohio, the Ohio end of the 1,750-foot-long bridge. "There isn't any bridge any more."

Among those reported missing were 18-year-old wife of Howard Boggs and 17-month-old daughter.

"They just went down and they came up with me," sobbed the 24-year-old Boggs. "I don't know how I'm going to without them."

"That old bridge was bouncing up and down like it always does," Boggs said. "Then all of a sudden everything was falling down . . . my feet touched dammed bottom of the river."

Traffic Was Heavy

An accurate count of the number of vehicles streaming across the 40-year-old bridge was impossible. Aside from usual heavy flow of commuter traffic from both Ohio and West Virginia, there was a heavy flow of Christmas shoppers weekend travelers.

The disaster blocked all traffic on Ohio River. The Army Corps of Engineers at Huntington said no boats were moving in the area of the bridge collapse.

The superstructure of the two-lane concrete and steel bridge tumbled onto the cars as they hit the frigid, swirling waters.

The Holzer Hospital at Gallipolis reported it had six bodies. Three other bodies were recovered from a twisted mass.

Congres After Bu

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 90th Congress galloped to adjournment Friday but its going-home pleasure was marred by reminders that it must return next month to grapple with a proposed income tax increase—a doubly illsome job in an election year.

The House adjourned at 6:36 p.m., Friday night until Jan. 15 and the Senate followed at 6:50 p.m.

Many Bills Acted On

The crescendo of action in the closing hours of the 11-month session went like this:

* The Senate sent to the White House a massive package to boost Social Security benefits for 4.4 million pensioners by $3.6 billion a year—and to hike annual payroll taxes by $1.5 billion to help foot the bill.

* The House gave 198 to 158 approval to an appropriations bill for $2.29 billion to finance foreign aid in the current fiscal year—the lowest sum voted in the program's 20-year history.

The Senate swiftly completed action on the measure with a 54 to 19 vote.

* The final appropriations bill, carrying $1.77 billion to fund the antipoverty program for the current year, next cleared the House by voice vote and the Senate on a 69 to 3 roll call.

GOP Role

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican leaders of the House and Senate defended the Democratic-controlled 90th Congress Friday and said Americans "deserve a better break" than they're getting under President Johnson's leadership.

"We believe that we have a better solution for the problems facing the nation," said Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan.

With Johnson in the White House, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said, the nation is "in a fix" and the GOP is trying to do something about it.

Dirksen and Ford spoke in rebuttal to a Tuesday night speech in which Johnson gave faint praise to this Congress and assailed its Republican members.

"This is not a rubber-stamp Congress," Ford said. "The last Congress was President Johnson's Congress."

"We didn't agree and frankly we didn't like the President's unfair assessment of the 90th Congress."

Congress Praised

"For the first time in years," said Dirksen, "this has been the assertive, aggressive Congress which has really gone to bat to retrieve its constitutional position."

They recorded the reply to Johnson for national television-radio broadcast Friday night. Johnson's speech to the AFL-CIO

Tu Suy was nationally broadcast, and the Republicans demanded and received time to answer him on the major networks.

Johnson called Republicans in Congress "woolly soldiers of the status quo."

"The only program that Grand Old Party offers is the remains of what they have
