Reversing an earlier position, Sihanouk said he would not attack U.S. forces who might move into Cambodian territory in pursuit of fleeing Vietnamese units. He said he would welcome a visit by a representative of President Johnson to discuss the problem.

Bowles interrupted a vacation in South India to hurry back to New Delhi for a conference with Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi on the Cambodian question. Bowles is to go to Phnom Penh in a few days.

Word Change May Spell Peace

The latest surge of hope for peace in Vietnam welled up on cautious analysis of a statement from Hanoi last Saturday to determine what, if anything, was new in the way of nuances and emphases.

Were there any clues that differed from those of past enigmas issued from the camp of Ho Chi Minh? Maybe. Western and Oriental minds rarely if ever engage head-on.

But Hanoi had changed a "could" to a "will" in the seldom-changing game of mutual bafflement.

Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh for the first time stated that North Vietnam "will" parley with the United States when aerial and naval bombardment of North Vietnam ends.

Hanoi previously had said a cessation of acts of war against North Vietnam "could" start talks.

Trinh referred to President Johnson's Sept. 29 remarks in San Antonio, Tex., when the President said the United States "is willing to stop all aerial and naval

McCarthy To Go For Nomination All Of The Way

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy accused President Johnson Thursday of presiding over "a kind of Republican foreign policy" and said he will press his Democratic presidential challenge whatever the outcome of the early primary elections.

The Minnesota Democrat acknowledged that New Hampshire's March 12 primary, latest addition to his schedule of six state races against Johnson, would be "a very tough campaign."

"I intend to go on no matter what happens in New Hampshire or the other primaries to which I've publicly committed myself," McCarthy told a news conference.

His race against Johnson is based on disagreement with the administration's conduct of the Vietnam war.

McCarthy said U.S. policy there is not "a projection of what we expected" on the basis of the President's 1964 campaign.

"What we're pursuing is a kind of Republican foreign policy," McCarthy said.

He said it was Republicans, notably the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who put "the Asian emphasis" into American foreign policy.

McCarthy outlined his Vietnamese policy alternative this way:

- Stop escalation of the war.
- Halt the bombing as a possible avenue to negotiations.
- Negotiate with the National Liberation Front.
- Ultimately, begin phased withdrawals of American troops, coupled with continuing efforts to move the Saigon government into negotiations with the Communists.

McCarthy said he sees "an openness to some kind of negotiations" on the part of the enemy in Vietnam but the opening of talks would not necessarily lead him to withdraw from the presidential race.

U.S. Takes Advantage Of Weather For Raids

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes, taking full advantage of continuing good weather, returned Thursday to the Hanoi-Haiphong industrial corridor with seven more raids, including a pair that straddled the North Vietnamese capital.

A U.S. spokesman said a flight of Navy pilots winging in from the carrier Oriskany hit the Hanoi railroad and highway bridge three miles north of the city while other Oriskany planes slammed the Phu Thi highway ferry 12 miles southeast of the capital.

Five other raids were carried out within 24 miles of Hanoi and the port city of Haiphong, the spokesman said.

In a delayed report, the U.S. Command announced today that a second plane, an Air Force F105, was shot down Wednesday by a Russian-designed MIG21. The Command had reported earlier the loss of a Navy A4 Skyhawk, downed by ground fire, during Wednesday's raids. The pilots of both planes were reported missing.

The two American losses apparently made the score even for that day. Air Force F4 Phantom crews reported shooting down two older-model MIG17s in dog-fights over Hanoi.

U.S. artillery, mortars and bombers hammered Thursday at scattered elements of two North Vietnamese regiments in the rice-rich Que Son Valley to cap a victory won in part by advance knowledge of the enemy's battle plan, spokesman said.

Eight-engine B52 Stratofortresses loosed tons of explosives on a mountain range overlooking the valley, 350 miles northeast of Saigon, in an attempt to catch North Vietnamese troops either withdrawing from frustrated attacks on three base camps of the U.S. American Division or moving in to try again.

Officers said American forces killed at least 281 of the enemy in repulsing a Red offensive launched early Wednesday against the camps — Landing Zones Ross, Leslie and West — in the valley, about 20 miles south of Da Nang.

Changed Minds On War — 2 Vets To Meet With Schwengel

Two University students who fought in Vietnam have changed their minds about the war and are planning to talk to their Congressman — Rep. Fred Schwengel, (Iowa) — about it.

The students, Dale Beliveau, Al Iowa City, and Larry Huppert, Al North Liberty, said they wanted to talk to Schwengel because he had expressed a change in his views on the war shortly after his return from Vietnam in November.

Schwengel was reported to have said then, "I went to Vietnam a hawk and I have returned a realist."

Huppert, a former Marine, said that he thought talking to Schwengel was a better way of expressing his views than demonstrating.

"If you have a gripe, you don't have to spread it around. If you want to do something about it you can talk to someone like Schwengel," he said.

Beliveau, who was in the Navy, said that he had participated for awhile in the Dec. 5 demonstrations against Dow Chemical Co. but had left because "I couldn't see getting arrested."

Both students said they held pro-war views while in Vietnam because they had not really known that much about the war.

Changed My Mind

"Before I went to Vietnam my opinion of the war was based on emotion," Huppert said. "I thought it was my country — right or wrong. But once I read some facts about the war I changed my mind."

Beliveau said that the soldiers fighting don't have a true picture of the situation.

"We heard what the Government wanted us to hear," said Beliveau. "They said that the President was over here (Vietnam) to do a job and that we were going to get it done. Most of the men believed that if the President said it, it must be true. They think he is infallible."

Beliveau said the only questions most

Teacher Comes Back By Riding Snowmobile

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP) — Country schoolteacher Pansy Schroeder returned to teach her four students Thursday — astride a motorized sled after traveling over a bitterly cold 12 miles of snowdrifts to eight feet deep.

"It was my last chance" this winter to return to the one-room school which also serves as her home, said the 68-year-old Miss Schroeder.

Now that she's there, she will stay put for the rest of the winter.

She had been on a holiday visit in Great Falls and in the interim, snow blocked roads to her Calvert School, about 35 miles south of here. More snow and 65-mile-an-hour winds were predicted Thursday.

The tiny student body, which uses horses and snowmobiles regularly in the winter to travel the half-mile from home to class, was back at school Thursday. The two boys and two girls spent the

Smith, a physiologist and psychologist, told a news conference that many physicians believe that psychological factors — such as fear, anger and various states of excitement — were prominent in the production of this rare, blood-thinning disease.

Dr. A. Smith of the University of Washington said the disease is characterized by a sudden and severe drop in blood pressure, which can lead to a stroke or a heart attack.

The new research was reported by the department of medicine at the University of Washington in a report on a program of research on the National Institute of Health.

Q — Ever since the war in Korea ended I have wondered what the terms of cessation were. I scanned newspapers at the time and ever since, but I have never been able to find what concessions were made by the United States. Could you help me? IS

A — The final peace treaty was signed July 27, 1953, and contained six main points. The United Nations proposal that all areas be open to inspection was modified to allow inspection teams at five points of entry on each side plus 10 mobile teams to investigate irregularities. The U.N. plan for joint teams was discarded and representatives of neutral nations acceptable to both commands were appointed as inspectors. The U.N. rejected a Communist proposal that the Soviet Union be considered a neutral nation. Other provisions of the treaty included the U.N. evacuation of islands off North Korea, a ban on blockades of Korea, a plan for a committee of five officials from each side to investigate truce violations and a request that military leaders recommend that a political conference between the principal nations be held to arrange for the final withdrawal of troops from Korea.

Q — Why can't University students sit on the main floor for home basketball games? I think the general public would still be willing to pay $3 a game even if they had to sit in the upper balconies. If this change were made would the students wouldn't feel so much like second class citizens. CA

A — According to Francis I. Graham, business manager of athletics, the seating arrangement is a matter of policy and is not an attempt to make anyone feel like a "second class citizen." He said that students would discover that the seating on the main floor is little, if any, better than that in the balconies. Those seated beyond the first row on the floor have trouble seeing the action of the game, according to Graham. He feels that many members of the paying public would gladly sit in the balconies if they had the chance.

Q — "When Adam delved and Eve span Who was then the gentleman?" I am 78 years old and all my life I have wondered what this gibberish means. To me it is only a jumble of words with no meaning at all. Why does it live? I have tried in every way I know to learn the meaning of this jingle — to no avail. Is it a vulgarism, or a diatribe against women that men love to voice? IS

A — The lines, which have no ascribable authorship, probably originated during the 14th century, specifically during the peasant revolt of 1380, according to John C. McGalliard, professor of English. The word delved means to work as a farmer and span, an archaic form of spun, is to weave. The essence of the lines is, if both Adam and Eve were working people, there existed a question as to who could assume the prerogatives of superior class.

Q — Would you please print a list of products produced by the Dow Chemical Co? I can't find their name on any of the products in my home. AR

A — Perhaps the reason you can't find Dow Chemical Co.'s name on any products in your home is that Dow specializes in the manufacture of chemicals which are sold to other companies which produce the consumer products. Chemicals made by Dow go into the production of nearly 800 products including antifreeze, adhesives, tobacco, pet food, plastics, containers, soap, paint, bleach, dye, shampoo and shaving cream. Sedatives, aspirin, measles virus vaccine and decongestants are examples of drugs produced directly by Dow include Saran Wrap, Handi-Wrap and Dow oven and bathroom cleaners.

'I'm afraid to look'

Writer sees serious injustice in condemning Riley's action

By MIKE FINN

You are driving down the street looking for a parking place. In the path of your car are two men squaring off in the street. In the background you hear a woman yelling at her screaming children. What do you do?

In the situation described above, one man got out of his car and walked between the two men. The men became stymied at the presence of this intruder. The intruder speaks. Tempers cool. A fight is averted.

The news media never reported the incident. The argument had no political overtones.

But State Sen. Tom Riley (R-Cedar Rapids) became involved in another incident earlier this academic year which did have political overtones. Riley, who was present at the Nov. 1 antiwar demonstration aimed at the Marine Corps, was one of the 108 persons arrested. Jerrold Sies, A4, Valley Stream, N.Y., made a citizen's arrest of Riley after Riley had attempted to arrest one of the protesters.

The great majority of the University community agreed with The Daily Iowan Editorial Page Editor Don Yager who called the situation "unfortunate" and charged Riley with "using the situation to make political hay."

But the Cedar Rapids Republican was not making political hay last spring during the controversy concerning Donald Barnett when he told the Iowa senate that the legislature should stay out of the internal operations of the University.

Nor was Riley counting his political pence when he bawled Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.) during the last legislative session. Dirksen called Riley prior to a committee vote on the so-called Dirksen Amendment and asked Riley to vote to send the bill to the floor of the senate. Riley told Dirksen that he had always been for fair apportionment and that he was going to vote to table the resolution.

Riley was the only Republican who voted to table the resolution which was tabled by one vote.

Riley told the DI, "I'd be a fool to say that I didn't know that my actions on Nov. 1 would have political repercussions; but I'm convinced in my own mind that if I'd been a private citizen, I would have gone over and helped anyway."

Riley's concern during the demonstration centered around the alleged illegality of the demonstrators' actions and what he termed "mob violence" of the counter-demonstrators.

"When I got to the scene at 1 p.m. only one security official was between the 50 or so demonstrators and the 100 to 200 counter-demonstrators (which I'll call 'mob' for simplicity and accuracy). Should I have simply left, wringing my hands over this 'deplorable situation' and later written to Pres. Howard R. Bowen expressing my regret at the seeming detachment shown by the University?" Riley asked.

Criticizing the obstruction tactics of the demonstrators, the Linn County senator said that Thoreau, by his action, differentiated between active and passive forms of civil disobedience.

By refusing to pay his taxes, he did not hurt anyone, Riley said. He went to jail but he didn't interfere with the rights of others.

While Riley may have made a little political hay, the fact remains that there was not the militancy of the hecklers during the afternoon despite the fact that no law enforcement officers were between the hecklers and the demonstrators for more than an hour in the afternoon.

It seems illogical that a state senator, with the record of social legislation that Riley has (including sponsorship of the fair employment practices and open housing legislation) and his support of the University, should receive such a one-sided condemnation from the University community.

'7 Women' bad result of good director; 'To Sir' called relatively nice fake

By NICHOLAS MEYER

"7 Women" is a bad movie. This would not be such a disturbing fact, were the film not directed by one of the country's erstwhile great directors. The sad truth, however, is that people — even brilliant and creative people — get old and misplace their sources of inspiration and aesthetic acumen. John Ford is the only director who has received four Academy Awards, yet "7 Women" shows none of the celebrated sensitivity and imagination which earned him so many laurels in the past. Purporting to deal with the tribulations of an American lay mission in China in 1935, the film has been shot on what is painfully obviously a Hollywood sound stage with lighting of the most dated and artificial sort. John Ford, so noted for his realism, seems no longer to be concerned with its maintenance.

What is further embarrassing is to watch Ford's clumsy efforts to remain on current with contemporary cinema subject matter. Thus the head of the mission — well played by Margaret Leighton, incidentally — is a latent lesbian, and has semiconscious designs on the virginal young assistant — played awfully by Sue Lyon. Ford is clearly out of his depth in handling such psychological traumas, and comes across with all the subtlety of a falling brick wall. Then, going to the polar extreme, he tries to extract great moments or bits from his past film triumphs. Thus, as in his classic "Stagecoach," there is a woman who is going to have a baby in an uncivilized corner of the world, surrounded by marauding Chinese bandits. But it's been done before — and better — by Ford himself. The acting is as uneven as the script, and the performances, like the dialogue itself (e.g., "Good heavens, you're a woman, doctor!") are masses of clichés. However, it is unfair to judge John Ford or any artist past his prime.

"To Sir With Love" is the poor man's "Up the Down Staircase," and since "Up the Down Staircase" was already a poor man's version, "To Sir" can't help but come off second best. Essentially the subject matter is the same. Both films deal with handicapped teachers in a slum situation. In "Up the Down Staircase" the teacher was hampered by her femininity, and in "To Sir With Love" the teacher's personal problem is his color, which is black. The similarities end there. "Up the Down Staircase" was for real every step of its unhappy way, filmed where it happened, not with actors, but actual students in New York City's appalling public school system (the veracity of which I can testify, being an undistinguished alumnus of such a school). "To Sir With Love" has the cards all stacked in favor of a happy ending, and the script and direction of James Clavell are only in touch with the cinematic reality slightly stronger than Walt Disney. The film is well-intentioned but it is not credible, and it cannot help but pale next to the American film on the same theme. ("To Sir" takes place in a London school). Sidney Portier is the determined teacher and I could not tell the difference between Portier the school teacher and Portier the cop ("In The Heat of the Night"). I judge him to be a very mediocre performer and I take issue with the lack of courage makers of this and other films which require a Negro leading man display. Is there only Portier? Are the Negro people so devoid of talent that they can produce no one besides this one vaguely competent actor? Of course not, but the commercial film industry is not ready to take chances on anyone else. Portier is safe; he's been around so long he's practically white. What about James Earl Jones? One has only to see Peter Glenville's over-long but absorbing film "The Comedians" to see scores of tremendously talented

Warhol's new book moves, acts but something is missing — feeling

By TOM FENSCH

"Andy Warhol's Index" by Andy Warhol (New York, Random House, 1968). $4.95. Available at Iowa Book & Supply Co.

Andy Warhol's "Index" is everything that Marshall McLuhan's "The Medium is the Message" should have been and wasn't.

Warhol's book has a mixture of type styles and faces, pages that pop out at the reader, pages that are blank, pages that make noises and pages with added attractions — a balloon, a plastic record to play at home, a page that, if placed in water, dissolves.

It's the ultimate in pop-art, or if you will, pop-culture.

Warhol, famous for his Brillo boxes and his ungodly long and bizarre movies (he has one that is simply called "Empire" and is a 24-hour movie of the Empire State Building, all 24 hours worth from one camera angle) made this book in the same vein.

In it are Warhol, being interviewed with little luck by a German reporter (and the reporter's questions are in the traditional "black-face" type — reminiscent of the old German books. Here are Warhol's stars: Nico, one simply called "Ingrid Superstar" and the members of Warhol's acid-rock group, The Velvet Underground.

"Begin," the Red King said in Alice in Wonderland, "at the beginning and read through until you get to the end. When you get to the end, stop."

Nothing could be easier. But the reader notes throughout the maze of attractions, pages that move and act, that there is little message to the book.

It might be good for Warhol's fans, who now constitute a cult, or it might be good at $4.95 for pop-art devotees, but either the book is overpriced or something is missing.

What does it all mean?

Fan suggests vinegar

To the Editor:
I certainly hope that you are able to accept defeat at the hands of Drake in a more adult fashion than your substitute for a "sports editor" Mike Barry.

It is not at all difficult to visualize Mike sitting in a little pool of his own tears covered only by a dainty white diaper and throwing a tantrum because the "muscle, rough" bully Bulldogs stole his pacifier. The crass ineptitude of Mike's logorrhea is not worthy of further reprinting. I only have one word of advice — vinegar is good for diaper rash.

HSP To Take Issues To Dorm Residents

The Hawkeye Student Party (HSP) will conduct a series of informal discussions in the dormitories beginning Sunday, according to Ken Wessels, A2, Dyersville, the group's vice-president.

The discussions will deal with whether student power is practical and whether demonstrations are worthwhile. Wessels said members of the HSP active in student government also will survey student opinion on women's hours, approved housing, recruiting on campus, the role of the Business and Industrial Placement Office, the voice of student government in academic affairs and University disciplinary processes.

Speakers will include HSP student senators and student government officers. Dormitory senators will be invited to discuss even though they may not be HSP members, according to Wessels.

Epidemic Outbreaks Of Flu Hit 30 States

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Influenza and other respiratory ailments have taken a heavy toll from the Eastern Seaboard all the way to Colorado, with outbreaks reported in more than 30 states and the District of Columbia.

Reports reaching the National Communicable Disease Center (NCDC) show that Asian flu has been documented with laboratory tests in at least 14 states.

These include Michigan, Florida, New Jersey, Alabama, New York, Oklahoma, Illinois, Kansas, Iowa, Georgia, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Tennessee and Connecticut.

However, an Associated Press survey Thursday showed that state health officials in at least two other states — Texas and Pennsylvania — reported that the Asian flu virus has been identified.

Laboratory tests are sometimes slow in reaching the NCDC, authorities say, and for that reason documentation of the virus may sometimes be reported a week or more after it has actually been identified.

Nevertheless, the seriousness of outbreaks in some areas became evident this week as children began to return to school after the holidays. School absenteeism in Louisiana and Texas was especially high, and some schools in these states have been closed.

Louisiana officials say they have an epidemic in the southern portion of the state. Reports reaching the NCDC indicate outbreaks of what probably is Asian flu in Indiana, Virginia and Missouri.

And additional reports indicate possible Asian flu in Ohio, Maryland, Mississippi, Arkansas, Nebraska, North Carolina, South Carolina, Kentucky and the District of Columbia.

Other outbreaks of respiratory ailments have been reported in Colorado, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Vermont.

In Louisiana, some or all schools in nine parishes (counties) have been closed. Schools in two north Louisiana parishes (Caddo and Bossier) were closed Thursday and today as a preventive measure.

Outbreaks cut sharply into school attendance throughout Texas.

ESCAPE FROM FATAL FIRE — Willis Barnett, 28, clings outside a second floor window in an effort to escape a fire in which his two-year-old daughter, Wilma Jean, died in Cincinnati Thursday. His wife, Della, 22, jumped from a window and suffered a broken ankle. Their four-year-old son, James, suffered critical burns. Nine persons, living on the third floor, got out of the burning building via a fire escape.

U.S. Reported Pushing Bonds

BRUSSELS (AP)—President Johnson is trying to sell U.S. Treasury bonds to prosperous West European countries to counter the outflow of gold and dollars spent by American troops in Europe, authoritative sources said Thursday.

This is one of the forms of cooperation in defense of the dollar that Nicholas Katzenbach, undersecretary of state, is seeking on his tour of Western Europe. He visited Brussels, headquarters of the European Common Market and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Thursday. Then he went to The Hague, capital of Holland, and on to Rome. He also will visit Paris.

The United States has an outflow of $1.1 billion a year because of its troops stationed in the Common Market countries: West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

Plans Conflict At Board Meeting

Two different calendars for the 1968-69 school year were proposed at a meeting Wednesday of the Iowa City Community Board of Education and the Iowa City Education Association (ICEA), a committee representing local teachers.

The ICEA representatives objected to several points in the school board's calendar. Harry Dean, president of the ICEA, said that teachers wanted 190 contract days instead of 187 as proposed by the school board.

The 190 days would include two in-service workshop days and a day to attend a district teachers' meeting. The teachers also wanted a non-contract day granted to attend the Iowa State Education Association convention.

The board and the ICEA are to consider the two proposals at the next regular meeting Jan. 10.

Advisory Office Is Relocated

The Liberal Arts Advisory Office, which had been located in 109 Schaeffer Hall for 20 years, recently had its facilities expanded and moved to 116 Schaeffer Hall.

The office advises on academic matters, arranges for changes of majors, offers credit in core courses by examination and answers questions concerning probation and dismissal.

According to Hugh E. Kelso, assistant dean of the College of Liberal Arts, the intention is to provide a constantly-manned advisory center. Either he or Assistant Dean James Sandrock and one of two graduate assistants will be available there 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Kelso said that a student who could not find his own advisor could go to the office for help in an urgent matter.

The new physical facilities include a large outer office and five smaller offices for the advisers.

CHANGING HIS MAJOR in the new Liberal Arts Advisory Office is Tom Henrichs (left), E2, Libertyville, Ill. The office was recently moved from 109 Schaeffer Hall to 116 Schaeffer. During regular office hours either Hugh Kelso (center) or James Sandrock (right), assistant deans of the College of Liberal Arts, will be in the office to advise students with urgent problems. The secretaries are Miss Pat Lemley (left), Riverside, and Mrs. Robert H. Peterson, 612 6th Ave., Coralville.

Free Concert To Be Given In Old Style

Music lovers can turn the clock back 400 years when the School of Music presents a program called Collegium Musicum at 8 p.m. J.N. 12 in Macbride Auditorium. The concert is free and open to the public.

The program of vocal and instrumental numbers will open with the Autumn and Winter violin concertos from Antonio Vivaldi's "The Seasons," written in 1725.

A 300-year-old work, "Two Intradas" by Johann Pezel will be presented in 17th century style. According to Eugene Helm, associate professor of music and faculty adviser to the Collegium Musicum, the group will use strange-looking instruments including various sizes of recorders, a Baroque flute, wooden one-keyed ancestor of today's flute; various sizes of cornetti, hybrids blown like trumpets, fingered like recorders and made of wood that is sometimes wrapped in leather and two sizes of sackbuts, ancestors of the modern trombone.

Also included in the program will be four settings of 16th century German folk songs, plus Samuel Scheidt's "Paduan" and Salomone Rossi's "Canzona and Galliard."

A sonata for recorder and continuo by Handel will be presented with the free ornamentation and improvisation which, Helm said, "as the rule, not the exception, in Handel's time."

Directors of the Collegium Musicum are Richard Bloesch, assistant professor of music, Robert Donington, professor of music, and Helm.

Group Discusses Education

The Iowa Coordinating Council for Post High School Education heard a preliminary report on Iowa's financial capacity to support higher education Thursday at a meeting here.

The group, made up of representatives of private and public education, also discussed aspects of financing higher education on a national level and heard a report on the University medical center from Dr. Robert C. Hardin, vice president for medical affairs.

William G. Murray, professor of economics at Iowa State University, presented findings on a study of long-range finance of education of students and construction of institutions in Iowa. The findings will be discussed further by the council at future meetings.

The coordinating council is an association of representatives of Iowa's private colleges and universities, area community colleges and state universities. Pres. Howard R. Bowen is chairman of the council.

2 Eastern Boxing Boards Draw Criticism From WBA

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—The World Boxing Association assailed Thursday plans for a Joe Frazier-Buster Mathis fight that would be considered a heavyweight championship match in the eyes of the New York and Massachusetts commissions.

Emile Bruneau, chairman of the WBA's World's Championship Committee, said the WBA definitely would not consider the match as a fight for the championship.

"However," he said in a statement "should New York and Massachusetts and other states want to have championship tests and wind up with synthetic titles, this is their business."

"But," Bruneau said, "certainly this type of disunity ultimately can only prove adverse to what is best for boxing."

He said the WBA's current heavyweight elimination tournament would produce a winner that "with recognition of the WBA, will be universally accepted as heavyweight champion."

The elimination tournament is still under way. It began after the WBA stripped Muhammad Ali of his title when he refused to accept induction into the U.S. Army. Ali has since been convicted and sentenced to prison for violation of Selective Service laws. He is free on bond, pending appeal of the conviction.

The Frazier-Mathis fight is to be held in the week of March 4 in the new Madison Square Garden center in New York.

Toughened Wrestling Team Tries 2 More Foes Saturday

By JIM JOHNSTON

The Hawkeye wrestlers, who met some tough competition in the Midlands Tournament during the Christmas vacation, will compete in two dual meets in the Field House Saturday.

The Hawks will go against the University of Wisconsin wrestlers in the first dual meet at 1 p.m. and will compete against Illinois State University at Normal, Ill., in the third dual meet of the afternoon.

The Midlands Tournament, which was held in La Grange, Ill., Dec. 29-30, featured the toughest competition outside of the NCAA championship finals, according to Dave McCuskey, the Hawkeye wrestling coach.

The tournament was an AAU meet so any amateur wrestler in the country could compete, McCuskey said, and the only nationally ranked teams that did not compete were Lehigh University, Oklahoma University and Oklahoma State University.

3 Hawkeyes Place
Joe Carstensen, Rich Mihal and Dale Stearns were the only Hawks that placed in the tournament. Carstensen finished fourth in the 137-pound division, while Mihal captured third place among the 160 pounders and Stearns placed fourth in the heavyweight category.

Among the teams competing were Michigan State and the University of Michigan, which placed first and second, respectively, in the NCAA and the Big 10 last year.

Also, the Mayor Daley Club of Chicago, which is made up of several former national wrestling champions, competed.

McCuskey said he was satisfied with the Hawks' performance in the tournament considering the team had many things going against it.

The wrestlers, who had been on vacation for two weeks prior to the tournament, came back to the University towards the end of vacation and left immediately for the tournament, so they were not in as good shape as they could have been.

Also, three outstanding wrestlers, Russell Sill, Don Yahn and Dave Mayberry, did not get to compete in the tournament.

Sill Has Knee Injury
Sill, who was a standout at 167 pounds last year, has been out all season with a knee injury; Yahn, who has started in the 145-pound division this year, had a knee injury; and Mayberry, the 130-pound starter, was sick during vacation.

The three men will be ready for Saturday's meets and the team will be wrestling at full strength, McCuskey said.

The Hawks will face a strong Wisconsin team and a good team from Illinois State, which has a history of strong wrestling teams.

The weekend lineup is:
123—Ray Pastorino.
130—Dave Mayberry, Steve Hansen.
137—Joe Carstensen, Jim Danielson.
145—Don Yahn, John Irvine.
152—Joe Wells.
160—Rich Mihal.
167—Russell Sill, Phil Henning or John Neumeister.
177—Verlyn Strellner.
Hwt.—Dale Stearns, Mike Edwards.

ABC TO CARRY OPEN
NEW YORK (AP)—ABC will telecast the U.S. Open for the next three years under an agreement announced Thursday by the television company and the United States Golf Association.

UCLA, Houston To Use Dugouts For Game In Dome

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—When UCLA and Houston meet Jan. 20 in the Astrodome, the two top-ranked basketball teams will operate from dugouts and make use of a court from California and backboards from Massachusetts.

Special dugouts for use by players, official scorers and timers, and news media representatives will extend the length of the court on both sidelines.

More than 44,000 tickets have been sold for the nationally televised game. The final batch of reserved seat tickets goes on sale today. Standing room only tickets to be sold later are expected to push the attendance total to a record 55,000.

Jaik O'Connell, Astrodome vice president for conventions and exhibitions, said Thursday UCLA would not have a home court advantage even though the Uclans have played on the Los Angeles Arena court that is to be shipped here for the first basketball game to be played in the domed structure.

"UCLA plays only a few of its games on this court and, besides, we are obtaining the backboards from Massachusetts and the baskets from local sources," O'Connell said.

The dugouts will be 18 inches deep and four feet wide.

"They will be necessary, in that no spectators will be on the main floor and we want everyone in the stands to have a good view of the court," O'Connell said.

He estimated it would cost about $10,000 to convert the stadium for basketball after it is used Jan. 12-13 for an auto thrill show and destruction derby. The estimate includes renting and shipping the Los Angeles court.

"The court will not arrive in Houston until Jan. 17 and it will have to be returned to Los Angeles immediately after the UCLA game," O'Connell said.

"It is to be used in Los Angeles the week before and the week after our game."

Negro Football Players Say Members Of Cardinal Team Don't Get Along Very Well

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Negro members of the St. Louis football Cardinals confirmed Thursday newspaper reports that the Redbirds were not one big happy family, but said problems had not reached the boiling point.

The newspaper reports said players were dissatisfied with the unavailability of President Bidwill, who lives in Chicago, and Negro players had demanded that an assistant coach be fired.

The newspaper reports said Negro players handed a list of grievances and demands to head Coach Charley Winner.

Winner, contacted in Mobile, Ala., Wednesday where he was scouting Senior Bowl players, declined to comment.

"Anything that happens on our ball club is a closed affair between the coaches and the players and there's nothing to say about it," Winner said.

Tackle Ernie McMillan, a Negro, said Thursday the newspaper accounts of the Negroes' meeting with Winner took things out of context.

Grievances Forgiven
"I don't even remember what the grievances were," McMillan said, but added, "there was nothing so overbearing that we couldn't live with them."

Another Negro player, who wished to remain unidentified said it appeared one member of the coaching staff seemed racially biased.

The Bidwills confirmed the meeting between Winner and the Negro players.

"There was frank discussion and agreement . . . there were no so-called demands."

"Rumors of dissension always seem to go along with a losing streak or a losing season," said the Bidwill statement. "It's an easy explanation. It's the easiest way out."

"Despite what may have been written, we anticipate no problems with Cardinals players in 1968."

Ref Rebuffs Cage Coaches

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—The head of Big 8 officials conceded Thursday that some basketball coaches probably violated rules by protesting calls in last week's conference tournament at Kansas City.

John Waldorf, Big 8 supervisor of officials, was asked by newsmen about the rule which says basketball coaches cannot try to influence or intimidate officials during a game.

"There was some of this going on in the Big 8 Tourney," said Waldorf in a telephone conversation. "However, such an infraction is a hard thing for an official to see, because he has to be watching the play on the court and usually has his back to the coaches."

Waldorf added any time a referee sees a coach violate the rule, a penalty will be called.

The supervisor noted coaches have the right to visit the scorers' table, cheer, shout advice to players and do "anything associated with their regular coaching activities."

"The only thing they can't do," said Waldorf, "is show displeasure at officiating or things of that nature."

7 Events Crowd Iowa Schedules

A sports schedule of seven events between next Saturday and next Wednesday, Jan. 10, awaits University of Iowa teams in five sports, headed by four contests in the Field House.

Basketball, gymnastics, and wrestling teams each have two contests and one event is set for swimmers.

At home, Hawkeyes have dual wrestling meets with Wisconsin and Illinois State Saturday, starting at 1 p.m. The basketball team meets Loyola of Chicago here Monday at 7:30 p.m. and the gymnastics team has a home meet with Western Illinois Jan. 10 at 7:30 p.m.

A highlight of the period is the opening of the Big 10 basketball schedule of 14 games. Iowa goes to Evanston to play Northwestern Saturday. Each team has a 5-4 record in non-conference games and Iowa is just home from the Los Angeles Classic, where it won third place by taking two wins in three games, all in overtime.

Iowa's gymnastics team, apparently one of the best in Hawkeye history, meets Minnesota at Minneapolis Saturday in an attempt to win its third straight conference dual meet. December victims were Wisconsin and Indiana.

The wrestlers have beaten Purdue and Illinois but lost to Indiana in Big 10 dual meets, and hold a decision over Bowling Green (Ohio) in a non-conference affair. Wisconsin has a 4-3 dual meet mark, one of its losses being to Northwestern.

In swimming, the Hawkeyes enter the annual Big 10 Relays Saturday at Bloomington, Ind.

Players Say Cardinal Team Doing Very Well

League meeting, there was great difficulty and none was elected.

The newspaper reports said the players were dissatisfied with the availability of President Bidwell who lives in Chicago, and who players had demanded an assistant coach be fired.

The newspaper reports said the players handed a list of grievances and demands to head coach Charley Winner.

Winner, contacted in Mobile, Ala., Wednesday where he was coaching Senior Bowl players, declined to comment.

Anything that happens on our campus is a closed affair between the coaches and the players and there's nothing to say about it," Winner said.

Head coach Ernie McMillan, a Neosho, Mo., coach, said the newspaper reports of the "grievances" of the players' accounts of the Negroes' coaching staff seemed racialized.

McMillan said he confirmed the reports of the players' grievances were "frank" but added, "there was nothing so overbearing that we didn't live with them."

Another Negro player who had remained unidentified in the past, it appeared one member of coaching staff seemed racialized.

Postal Rate Increase Costly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Post Office Department officials predicted Thursday that the $900-million increase in postal rates starting Sunday — the most extensive rate change in history — will cost about $22 million to be put into effect.

Officials stressed, however, that the $22-million figure is strictly an estimate and includes a variety of costs ranging from printing new posters and forms and resetting stamp vending machines, to putting into effect new regulations against mailing sexually provocative advertising.

The increases become effective on mail postmarked after midnight Saturday. The increase will raise the cost of mailing a regular first-class letter from 5 to 6 cents. Airmail letters go from 8 to 10 cents; postal cards from 4 to 5 cents; airmail cards from 6 to 8 cents.

The post office expects the increase to go into effect without any hitches. To make sure, it has authorized the use of extra manpower if needed, has printed about 200,000 posters and signs to inform the public.

The department also has directed that all first-class and airmail letters mailed with inadequate postage shall be forwarded postage due.

400 Students In National Study

Four hundred University students have been asked to help with a national study to learn how American colleges actually function.

The University is among 19 colleges and universities participating in the study sponsored by the American Association for Higher Education and directed by Morris Keeton, academic vice president of Antioch College.

The colleges of liberal arts, engineering, business administration, and education each have invited 100 students to complete a questionnaire. A number of faculty members also will receive a questionnaire, all part of a study designed to identify the patterns of decision-making, influence and communication which operate on campuses.

The study's basic assumption is that there is no one ideal pattern of governance and that

Professor To Speak On Freedom

Robert P. Scharlemann, associate professor of religion, will speak on "The Idea of Freedom and the Search for Humanity" at a Humanities Society lecture at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Old Capitol Senate Chamber.

Scharlemann will discuss the connection between men's ideas about freedom and the way they put them into practice. He will also talk about the system of supernatural grace in the medieval church and the politics of liberal democracy.

Performance To Be Given By Pianist

Pianist John Browning will present a concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Union Main Lounge.

Tickets are available at the Union. They are free for students and $2 for others. Tickets will go on sale Tuesday to the general public.

Browning will perform five sonatas by Scarlatti, Schubert's "Sonata in A Major," four preludes of Debussy and Schumann's "Etudes Symphoniques."

Browning has been called "one of the most gifted pianists of our generation," by Time Magazine.

He has performed in the Soviet Union, Europe, the Near East, South Africa and Mexico. He holds the Gold Medal Award of the Concours Internationale Musicale in Belgium.

Smoking Out In Open

TOLEDO (AP) — The State Juvenile Home holds four periods of supervised cigarette smoking daily because it has been unable to cope with "sneak smoking" by its youthful charges.

Supt. Phil Juhl made the disclosure during a recent inspection by a legislative interim committee.

Juhl said he decided to bring smoking into the open after deciding "there's nothing more ingenious than a boy who wants to get his hands on some cigarettes. If he smokes, he's going to do it one way or another."

Witness Subpoenaed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison subpoenaed an Oklahoma man, James Hicks, Thursday as his fourth recent "material witness" in his controversial probe into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Garrison's office said Hicks is a civil service employe at Vance Air Force Base, Emid, Okla.

Art Works By Italian Artists To Go On Exhibit Sunday

An exhibition of works by Italian painters Alberto Burri and Lucio Fontana will be on exhibit in the Art Building, beginning at 2 p.m. Sunday.

The 39-piece exhibit, which closes Jan. 23, shows the development of the two artists' work since 1949. The exhibit was organized for circulation in the United States by the Museum of Modern Art in New York. The gallery hours are 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday, and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday through Saturday.

Burri and Fontana have been prominent among postwar painters who have given up traditional media for use of new materials and concepts.

Burri was one of the first artists to expand collage by using burlap and rags as the primary materials in large textural compositions.

Fontana often punctures and slashes the canvas, using relief and gouged-out passages, stones, and metallic and brightly colored surfaces.

Easel Painting Dead

He has said, "I want to show that space is behind and around the painting. I also want people to understand that traditional easel painting is dead, finished forever, and that one cannot go back."

The exhibition shows examples of Burri's "Sacchi" (burlap compositions) of the early 1950's; one from the "Combustioni" series begun in 1957, in which he used an acetylene torch to make compositions of canvas, charred wood and paper; examples from the series called "Ferri," in which he used the torch on sheet iron to produce subtle colors; and three of the "Plasticas," from a series begun in 1961 in which several sheets of plastic were burned and melted to make the composition.

Fontana Founded Movement

Fontana was a founder of the spatialist movement in Milan in 1947, and all his works are titled "Spatial Concept," although their style and mood vary.

He has sought expression in accordance with experimental, scientific principles, as opposed to idealistic concepts, which stress the dynamic rather than the static.

In his "White Manifesto," written in 1946, he said, "Sensations were everything with the primitive man — musical sensations, rhythmic sensations. It is our intention to develop this original condition of man. We are offering the substance and not the accidents..."

Painted In Detention Camp

Burri was born in 1915 in Cittadella, Italy. He received a degree in medicine and was taken prisoner in North Africa while serving as a surgeon in the Italian Army. He began painting in a detention camp in Texas in 1944-45.

His first one-man show was held at the Galleria La Margherita in Rome in 1947. In 1958 he won third prize in the Pittsburgh International at the Carnegie Institute, and in 1960 he won the International Association of Art Critics Prize at the Venice Biennale.

Fontana was born in Santa Fe de Rosario, Argentina, in 1899, and in 1905 moved to Italy with his family. He studied art at the Accademia de Brera in Milan under Adolfo Wildt, and became interested in the art of the Futurists.

He has made abstractions in metal and concrete and in ceramics. He has been using perforations in drawings and paintings since 1948, and has also worked with fluorescent tubing. In 1966 he received the Italian Prize for Painting at the Venice Biennale.

Rights Pamphlets To Be Given Out

Discrimination will raise its ugly head at Registration next semester — but for a good cause.

Monitors representing the city's Human Relations Commission will distribute pamphlets at Registration, but only to students of minority races.

Mrs. Donald Volm, commission chairman, said the commission's main problem is to reach minority groups that are affected by housing discrimination in Iowa City.

The leaflets are intended to inform minority groups of the commission's jurisdiction, she said at the commission's meeting Thursday evening at the Civic Center.

Buy Bonds where you work.

They do.

"Freedom must be at all times defended, because it is at all times besieged. Not all of us are called to fight on the battlefield. Buying Bonds, regularly, is as important to this nation in the long reach of history as almost anything we can do." President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Our men in Vietnam defend the cause of freedom—and help pay the cost of freedom too, through regular purchase of U.S. Savings Bonds. Would you like to show these men you're with them? Buy Bonds and new Freedom Shares where you work or bank.

New Freedom Shares

Now, when you join the Payroll Savings Plan or the Bond-a-Month Plan, you are eligible to purchase new U.S. Savings Notes, "Freedom Shares," as a bonus opportunity. Freedom Shares pay 4.74% when held to maturity of just four and a half years (redeemable after one year), and are available on a one-for-one basis with Savings Bonds. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The clash between rising hemlines plunging temperatures turned Minneapolis into the Stalingrad of women's fashion.

Since the advent of the mini-skirt years ago, designers have waited for the precise moment when their high creations would be tested under most demanding, uncompromising conditions.

That moment arrived in the Twin Cities of Minneapolis-St. Paul early Thursday when the wind chill reached the 68 level.

JAMES VAN ALLEN Warns Of Space Lag

Van Allen Says U. S. Abandoning Lead Space Role

On America's 10th anniversary in space, are we abandoning the planets to Russians?

In its Jan. 5th issue, Time Magazine answers in the affirmative, quoting James Van Allen, professor and head of the department of Physics and Astronomy.

Van Allen, who discovered Earth's radiation belts after the launching of the U.S. satellite Jan. 31, 1958, is quoted in Time as warning that the nation "is allowing its own high competence in planetary exploration to decay."

This competence, says Time, has been "dramatically demonstrated in the past five years" by the Mariner interplanetary program.

The three successful Mariners all carried University radiation detectors which helped confirm the absence of significant radiation belts around the planets Venus and Mars such as exist about the earth.

The U.S.S.R., says Time, has scored only one success in 18 or 19 launches of probes to Mars and Venus. "But that success was the apparent soft landing of a working, instrumented capsule on the surface of Venus last October, a feat indicating that the quality of Russian planetary probes is beginning to catch up to the quantity," Time points out.

"Now," says Time, "congressional economists have been slicing away at NASA's space budget" so that "the U.S. has virtually scrapped its once ambitious planetary space program."

"Surely this trend must be reversed if we are to regard intellectual leadership as one of the most central of our national objectives," Van Allen is quoted as saying.

A fourth University-built space vehicle, Injun V, is scheduled for launching in earth orbit this spring.

Peace Hints Tied To Labor Supply

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
An AP News Analysis

A severe labor shortage and fear of low-range political consequences could be an important factor behind cautious peace probes now being attributed to Ho Chi Minh's Communist regime in North Vietnam.

At least some in the ruling North Vietnamese Politburo may fear a superabundance of help from Communist China could mean entrenchment of Peking's influence.

Sources in Paris with contacts in Hanoi say Communist China has stepped up five times since last fall the number of coolie laborers sent into North Vietnam to repair bomb damage to roads, bridge rail lines and the like. They say there are about 250,000 Chinese laborers in North Vietnam apart from a flood of technicians and advisers in other fields.

The stronger the Red Chinese influence the less chance there seems to be for negotiated end to the conflict, at least while the current Maoist regime, pledged to "people's war" remains in power. The longer the war goes on, the more Chinese there are likely to be in Vietnam, which historically fears China.
