Student Senate campaign looks to be meaningful

The prospects for an interesting and meaningful student Senate campaign this year are quite good, according to the three student body president candidates. Carl Venter, who is currently serving as the student body vice president, announced that he was seeking the position of president.

Earlier, Ken Woskod announced he was seeking the office. Both Woskod and Venter have been active in campus politics this past year. Venter is the vice president of the student body, and Venter is a student senator-at-large.

Both individuals have been active in the increase in student activities here this year. Both were closely involved in the debates and campaigns leading to the information concerning the Student Senate in November. Venter and Woskod were on opposite sides of the issue of the residence halls, and Venter is hoping that the students For Responsible Action will support him.

There may be some problems for the student body president's office. But even if there are not, the announcements of Woskod and Venter indicate that it will be an exciting and potentially worthwhile campaign.

College, university enrollment reaches record 7 million

WASHINGTON D.C. — Enrollment in higher education institutions reached a record high of 7.8 million students in 1967, according to figures released by the National Center for Educational Statistics. The record enrollment was due to a combination of factors, including the expansion of higher education programs and the increasing number of students seeking higher education.

The figures show that enrollment in higher education institutions has increased steadily over the past decade. In 1957, enrollment was 2.7 million students. By 1967, enrollment had increased to 7.8 million students.

The figures also show that enrollment is continuing to increase. Enrollment is expected to reach 8.6 million students in 1968.

Individuals should be told of illegal salesmen tactics

By GARY GOOFSMOTHER

For The Daily Iowan

A number of students have claimed that they have been approached by illegal salesmen who have attempted to sell them educational articles. The salesmen are often very persuasive, and they may be able to sell products that the students do not need or want.

Free University Gets Off to Rousing, Surprising Start

By ROBERT DONOHER

Across the University of Vermont's College of Liberal Arts on Monday evening, a32-year-old English professor, Mr. SidneyPkego, exclaimed, "Just wait till the students hear what I've got to say!"

It was the first sign of the extraordinary growth of the student-run Free University, an experiment in teaching which has already attracted nationwide attention.

"This is the most exciting thing that has happened in this country in 20 years," said Dr. George Reid, president of the College of Liberal Arts.

The Free University began two weeks ago with the simple statement: "If you have something to say, say it."

The initial classes were held in the lecture hall at the University of Vermont, and have since expanded to include a large gymnasium, a library, and a cafeteria.

The Free University is being directed by a group of students who have formed their own organization, the "Freedom Education Association," to operate the school.

The students have already organized their own curriculum, including courses in political science, economics, and social studies.

"We want to teach the students what they need to know," said one of the Free University's founders. "We're not interested in the traditional curriculum that is offered by the University."

The Free University has already attracted a large number of students, who are drawn to the school by the opportunity to learn in a more informal and creative environment.

"We're not interested in the traditional curriculum that is offered by the University."

The Free University's success has been noted by other colleges and universities across the country, who are beginning to consider similar programs for their own students.

"We're not interested in the traditional curriculum that is offered by the University."

The Free University is expected to continue to grow in the coming years, as more students are drawn to its innovative approach to education.

"We're not interested in the traditional curriculum that is offered by the University.

With over 1,000 students already enrolled, the Free University is proving to be a valuable educational resource for those who are interested in learning in a more creative and engaging environment.

The Iowa Hawkeyes will face Purdue University on Saturday, March 2nd, in the second game of the University of Iowa Hawkeyes spring exhibition season. The game is scheduled to begin at 7:00 PM at the State Fairgrounds Coliseum in Des Moines.

The Hawkeyes have won their first two exhibition games, both against teams from the midwestern states. In their first game, against the University of Nebraska-Omaha Mavericks, the team scored a 93-75 victory. In their second game, against the University of Kansas Jayhawks, the Hawkeyes won with a score of 82-69.

The Hawkeyes have two key players returning from last year's team: senior guard Mike Edmunds and junior forward Ben Dunning. Edmunds is expected to lead the team in scoring, while Dunning will be a key rebounder.

The Hawkeyes are one of the top teams in the Big Ten Conference and are expected to finish in the upper half of the league standings. Purdue, on the other hand, is a strong team with several returning players.

The game will be held in front of a packed crowd, with the university's student body expected to turn out in force.

UI Poets Play At 'Playboying'

By DIANE YING

The Poetry Club was a result of a proposal made to the University writers during their opening meeting of Chicago in 1973. The Mayor of Chicago and Paul Engle, director at the International Writing Program, invited poet sociologists to organize as a result of the meeting.

Headed by Paul Engle, professors in English and French at the International Writing Program, the proposal was for the development of a poetry club in Chicago.

The purpose of the group was to visit the biggest city in the Midwest and to visit with poets from around the world. The trip was sponsored by the Poetry Club.

Ford Cabinet Job Rumored
WASHINGTON D.C. - Douglas MacArthur, special envoy to the Far East, has been mentioned as a possible appointment to the Ford cabinet. MacArthur's name has been bandied about as a possibility to fill the post of Secretary of Defense, which is currently vacant. The rumors are unconfirmed and no official comment has been made by the White House or the Department of State.

The current Secretary of Defense, Robert S. McNamara, has been under fire in recent weeks for his handling of the Vietnam War. MacArthur, a highly decorated general, is known for his controversial views on the war and his strong beliefs in the use of military force.

If MacArthur were to be appointed to the Ford cabinet, it would likely be a significant moment in U.S. foreign policy. MacArthur's appointment would be seen as a strong sign of a commitment to military action in Vietnam. The move could also have implications for the upcoming presidential election, as many believe that the Vietnam War will be a key issue in the campaign.

The rumors of MacArthur's appointment have not been confirmed by the White House. As of yet, no official statement has been made by Ford's administration regarding the position.

Kerner Won't Run Again
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. - Otto Kerner, Illinois Governor and former Secretary of Commerce in the Kennedy Administration, has announced that he will not run for re-election in 1966. Kerner, 58, has served as Governor since 1963.

Kerner announced his decision in a letter to friends and supporters. "I have decided not to seek the Democratic nomination for Governor in 1966," he wrote. "I have not been able to make up my mind." Kerner has been considered a strong candidate for the Democratic nomination in recent years.

Kerner's tenure as Governor has been marked by a number of controversies, including his handling of the Illinois prison system and his support for Affirmative Action policies.
