Kennedy To Kick Off Hughes' Senate Race

DES MOINES (AP) — Sen. Robert Kennedy, a leading critic of U.S. Vietnamese policy, kicks off a campaign today which may place Gov. Harold Hughes among the ranks of Senate doves.

The New York Senator will speak at 8:15 p.m. at a $100-a-plate campaign dinner for Hughes. Hughes is a Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate seat to be voluntarily surrendered this year by Republican Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa.

The switch from hawkish Hickenlooper to dovish Hughes, provided Hughes is elected, could be parallel in the Senate with the shift in the Vietnam outlook exhibited by Hughes in the statehouse.

From being an ardent supporter of Lyndon Johnson's war policy in 1966, Hughes has become increasingly critical of the President's handling of the war.

May Reach Point

Within the past month, Hughes has said he may reach the point where he will break with Johnson over Vietnam.

He has said he particularly opposes escalation of the war and any increase in U.S. troop strength in Vietnam.

Hughes has stressed, however, that breaking with the President over Vietnam and refusing to support Johnson for re-election in 1968 are two different things.

Kene, too, has said he would support

Southern Rangers Repulse Invaders Near Khe Sanh

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese rangers started again Friday in defense of the U.S. Marine base at Khe Sanh. They mauled a North Vietnamese company as it emerged from a tunnel just outside the bases' barbed wire and killed 27.

The government troops, a 500-man battalion sharing the hazards of Khe Sanh with 6,000 American Leathernecks, had repulsed an onslaught by 500 North Vietnamese March 1 with the help of U.S. B52 bombers.

More than 100 of the enemy took part in Friday's assault.

They tunneled their way toward the rangers' sector of the base with mole-like tactics such as Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap's Communist-led troops used in defeating the French at Dien Bien Phu nearly 14 years ago.

Lieutenant Wounded

A ranger detachment turned back the North Vietnamese after a seesaw fight in which the detachment's leader, a young lieutenant, fell wounded.

Associated Press correspondent Robert D. Ohman reported from Khe Sanh that, when other rangers started through enemy fire to rescue the lieutenant, he waved them back and killed himself with a shot in the head to avoid capture.

Gunners and rocket crewmen among the 20,000 North Vietnamese estimated to be in the surrounding hills again shelled the two-square-mile compound, though at a rate far below the 1,300 rounds reached one day in the siege. They lobbed in a round every 10 minutes or so.

One explosion just missed a twin-engine CH46 Sea Knight helicopter taking off with a load of wounded Marines.

Fighting Near Dong Ha

The skirmish at Khe Sanh, the western anchor of allied posts below the demilitarized zone, followed savage fighting Thursday near Dong Ha, a Marine supply base about 30 miles to the east.

U.S. headquarters, which has reorganized the chain of command in the northern sector in the expectation it will be the scene of the Communists' next big push, said Marines, South Vietnamese troops, fighter-bombers and artillery killed 39 Communist soldiers in a seven-hour battle.

About 500 of the enemy were engaged in this action, in the Cua Viet River Valley some 15 miles south of the DMZ.

Marines were in the thick of the fight. They reported they accounted for 16 of the enemy dead, but lost the same number of their own killed and 113 wounded with 76 of the wounded requiring hospitalization. Casualties among the South Vietnamese were described as light.

2 Killed Near Hu

Farther south, government soldiers killed 21 enemy troops four miles east of Hue, the old imperial capital that was heavily damaged in battle through much of February. They reported uncovering the bodies of 25 other enemy soldiers in the same area.

Conservation Campaign Proposed By President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson called on all Americans Friday to help conserve and renew the nation's natural resources.

In a special message to Congress, Johnson proposed a stepped-up $1.2-billion campaign against air and water pollution and land despoliation, more than double current spending.

Declaring that conservation is not only for man's enjoyment but "for man's survival," the President said the job ahead is not just for some, "but for all Americans."

Work Begins With Family

"All will share in its blessings and all will suffer if the work is neglected," he said. "That work begins with the family."

Johnson asked Congress for $128 million for the coming year's fight against air pollution.

"Of all the problems of conservation, none is more urgent than the polluted air which endangers the American people," he said.

He said 130 million tons of soot, carbon and grime settle over the country each year from factory smokestacks and the exhausts of motors and machines.

2 Students Face Narcotics Charge

CEDAR RAPIDS — Two University of Iowa students were charged by Marion police with possession of narcotics in Cedar Rapids Municipal Court Friday.

One of the students was arrested at his Hillcrest Dormitory room Thursday night by Iowa City police, who turned him over to Marion police. He was identified as Steven A. Van Note, A1, Marion.

The other student was identified as Gregg Miles, A1, Marion.

The charges were filed following an incident Feb. 24, when Marion policeman investigated a parked car at the Marion High School. The policeman searched the car and reportedly found a bag of ground up weeds.

The weeds were later identified as marijuana by the State Narcotics Bureau, authorities said.

Students, Police Clash In Warsaw Over Expulsions

WARSAW (AP) — Shouting "Freedom! Freedom!" upwards of 5,000 students demonstrated on the campus of Warsaw University Friday before police and militiamen dispersed them with clubs.

The students were protesting expulsion of two students who took part in a demonstration against Communist authorities' closing of a play that contained several anti-Russian lines.

When the reserve militiamen drove up to the downtown campus in seven buses they were greeted with shouts of "Gestapo!" The militiamen were unable to break up the crowds.

The demonstrators then shut the university's main gates, barring the exit of the militiamen. Helmeted police arrived, and charged the gates, broke through and set upon the students.

Ceds, male students and even a book-carrying soldier were struck by police clubs. The number of injuries was not known, and there were no reports of arrests.

"A small revolution," said one student. "Democracy, Democracy," chanted some students as police began to clear the sidewalks.

Before the hectic end, the students obtained a promise from school authorities to hold a meeting next week at which their complaints would be heard.

Until Prorector Zygmunt Rybicki appeared before the assembled students in a campus arcade, the militiamen made several abortive attempts to break up the gathering by pushing through the crowd.

Forecast

Rights, Open Housing Bill Cleared For Senate Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate cleared the way Friday for passage, probably on Monday, of a civil rights protection, open housing and antiriot bill.

By a 51-19 vote, the Senate accepted the amended legislation as a substitute for the original civil rights measure brought up in mid-January.

Only three non-southern senators voted against acceptance. They were Carl T. Curtis (R-Neb.), John J. Williams (R-Del.) and Robert C. Byrd (D-W. Va.).

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) said he hoped to pass the bill and send it to the House on Monday.

He indicated he did not expect opponents to wage a filibuster against passage, although he told newsmen he had no agreement with them.

The limitation on debate that was put into effect last Monday, with adoption of the cloture rule, expired with completion of action on amendments.

But Mansfield made clear he would not hesitate to ask the Senate to invoke its cloture rule again if he felt it was necessary.

The legislation, expanded far beyond its original scope during more than seven weeks of debate, was broadened even further at Friday's session.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.) won adoption of an amendment extending the protection of the Bill of Rights and other constitutional guarantees to American Indians.

The open housing provisions, the most controversial part of the bill, would take effect in three stages and would bar discrimination in the sale or rental of nearly 70 per cent of the nation's housing.

The bill also would provide federal criminal penalties for interfering by force or threats with voting, serving on juries, attending public schools, and other specifically protected rights.

Another part of the measure would make it a federal crime to cross a state line with intent to incite a riot.

The bill also provides federal criminal penalties for transporting in interstate commerce and teaching how to make or use firearms, explosives and incendiary devices like Molotov cocktails in riots.

Kerner Calls For Steps To Avert Racial Schism

DES MOINES (AP) — America must act quickly if a deep, irreparable racial schism is to be avoided, Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner said at Drake University here Friday.

Kerner said solutions to the problems outlined by the President's Commission on Civil Disorders might appear difficult now, "but in the not-too-distant future they will be, not difficult, but impossible."

Kerner was chairman of the commission which reported its findings on America's 1967 summer of violence to President Johnson last week.

$30 Billion Is Price Tag

The report said "white racism" has created separate societies for blacks and whites in America. It recommended spending more than $30 billion for programs to provide Negroes with jobs, housing and education.

Kerner said most important of the recommendations is a change of attitude among white Americans. Whites do not understand the ghetto, he said.

"Our white institutions created it, white institutions maintained it and white society condones it," he said.

Despite the distress signal of last summer's riots, Kerner said, "We are still moving toward separate societies."

If nothing is done, tensions will continue to increase, he said. Action on a community as well as a national level is imperative to eliminate discrimination in jobs, housing and education.

Money The Rub

At a news conference following his speech at a Drake seminar on riots, Kerner acknowledged that finding money to carry out the commission's report would be "one of the bogies."

But despite the press of the Vietnam war on national spending, he added, "If we have the will, we can raise the funds." He continued, however, that most important was a change of attitude.

"Attitude is more important than money," he said, "and a change of attitude doesn't cost one red cent."

The governor agreed with critics who contended the report contained nothing that had not been said before, but added, "No document to this time has put together all the facts and conveyed them to the people."

He rejected the allegation by Iowa Sen. Jack Miller that the commission deliberately timed release of its report to influence the cloture vote on the Senate Civil Rights debate.

"Any criticism of that sort is specious," Kerner said.

"Major John Lindsey and I decided several months ago that we would have no interim report and that we wanted to get the findings out about March 1." The New York mayor was a co-chairman of the commission.

'Candidate' Called Brilliant, Stylish

By ALAN ROSTOKER
For The Daily Iowan

John Frankenheimer's "The Manchurian Candidate," the Weekend Movie at the Union, is as stylish and brilliantly made a film as any American film of the last decade. It is a thriller of enormous wit and energy, both literary and visual; a political fantasy which seems no more grotesque and unreal than our so-called ordinary reality.

On patrol in Korea, Raymond Shaw, his captain and his squad are captured by the North Koreans. They are subjected to a three-day intensive brainwashing by a team from the Russian Pavlov Institute. The other men are brainwashed into believing that Raymond has heroically saved them from the enemy. Raymond is programmed as an assassin. He returns to America as a Medal of Honor winner and is met at the airport by his mother and step-father, a senator who is the film's comic version of the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

Raymond hates his mother, although he is later remiss, as a child he only mildly disliked her. Her intention is obvious: to use him for her husband's political advantage. Raymond instead goes to work for a liberal newspaperman whom he later kills as a test run to see whether he is still properly programmed.

At the same time, Raymond's step-father has started his anti-Communist crusade and Raymond's captain, plagued by a recurring nightmare of what really happened in Korea, is out to find the truth. Raymond's mother is, as it turns out, his American operative and her plan is simple.

Raymond will shoot the party's presidential candidate at the convention, and his mother, whose only obstacle to the vice presidential nomination has been killed by Raymond (who has just married the man's daughter and is forced to kill her too, though, of course, he later has no memory of either deed), will take over and be elected. All of this is the Communist master plan, but Raymond's mother has something else up her sleeve. Her monstrous ego has not taken nicely to this unplanned use of her son and of herself. As she informs Raymond, once her husband is elected she alone will be in power.

The film plays fast and loose with everything. Politically, it equates the far right with the Communists, yet when the famous liberal senator, whose daughter Raymond has just married, is shot, he is holding a bottle of milk in his hand and the bullet goes through it and his heart at the same instant. So much for the milk of human kindness. Raymond's mother is the American dominating mother gone wild, a completely monolithic monster of utterly heroic proportion. His step-father is, conversely, the weak American husband, pleading comically for one simple number of Communists in the Defense Department whose names on a list he is emotionally claiming to possess.

Frankenheimer's direction is every bit as imaginative and oversize as his characters and situations. The captain's nightmare is a beautiful alternation between what the soldiers think is happening — they are caught in a small hotel during a meeting of the women's garden society, and the real demonstration that is taking place before a gathering of assorted Russians and Chinese. When Raymond's step-father launches his attack on the Defense Department at a press conference of the Secretary of Defense, the action is mirrored in the television monitors at the side of the action. A costume party thrown by Raymond's mother and the political convention that ends the film are both shown in all their insane energy and ornamentation.

The film is also brilliant on a shot-by-shot level, each composition graceful and beautifully photographed (Lionel Lindon's black and white work is the finest of its kind I can remember having seen). The cutting is always sharp and often witty in its own right. As for the script by George Axelrod, it abounds in verbal and character humor. There is an unnecessary romance for Raymond's captain, but that is the film's only lapse from a level of high precision in the script.

The cast is uniformly excellent. Frank Sinatra is Raymond's captain, Laurence Harvey is Raymond, James Gregory is his step-father. A special note must be made of Kihl Diegh as the Chinese brainwasher and of Angela Lansbury's masterful performance as Raymond's mother. David Amram's music also does its job brilliantly.

I am aware that this review has said little beyond being enthusiastic. Yet there is not much other choice when a film is so perfect in its own terms. "The Manchurian Candidate" is not a great film, it is without the necessary seriousness for that. But this is by no means a complaint. John Frankenheimer has made, instead, a film that is an absolute joy to watch, a film of enormous formal inventiveness and control.

As is the case with other great American films of recent years (great in their way, of course) like "Vertigo," "Psycho," "Touch of Evil," "Bonnie and Clyde," "Inside Daisy Clover," etc., "The Manchurian Candidate" is an exhilarating blend of the comic and the serious, of the real and the exaggerated. As such, it is a very brilliant accomplishment indeed.

PROTEST FAST ENDS — Three Smith College coeds pose with a poster showing the percentage of Smith girls participating in the Northampton, Mass., college's three-day fast in protest against the Vietnam war. Of the 2,300 girl students, 1,285 were fasters. The rest of the student body, 1,700, wore white armbands in sympathy but did not fast. The three-day fast ended Friday afternoon. ## UI Students To Participate In Choice '68 'Primary' Vote

University students will be among an expected 2½ million American college students voting April 24 in Choice '68, the first national collegiate "presidential primary." They will choose from among 14 potential candidates for the presidency and vote on three referendum questions concerning H. Percy, California, Gov. Ronald W. Reagan, Michigan, Gov. George W. Romney and New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, Sen. Mark O. Hatfield (R-Ore.), and the Rev. Martin Luther King will also be included.

The referendum questions will be: "What course of military action should the United States pursue in Vietnam?" What course of action should the United States pursue in regard to the bombing of North Vietnam?" and a question on how the urban crisis might best be attacked through federal spending.

Students will punch out their selections on IBM-card ballots. Some 15 polling places will be set up around the campus and the election process used in other campus elections will generally be followed.

Among the Democratic candidates for President listed on the Choice '68 ballot are Pres. Johnson, New York Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy (D-Minn.). Among the Republicans are former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Illinois Sen. Charles

Fencing Vets To Graduate; 4 Returnees

Iowa's fencing team will lose much of its experience and strength next with the graduation of five lettermen from its nine-man squad.

Senior fencers who have completed their careers are George Bergeman, Phil Carter, Kent Grieshaber, Karl Luneckas and Jim Hoener.

Both Grieshaber and Luneckas established new Iowa records in their fencing competition over the past three years.

Grieshaber set a new record in the total number of epee wins scored in a single season with 36. The previous record of 31 was held by Iowa's present fencing Coach Cap Hermann. Grieshaber also broke the record for the number of epee wins scored over a three-year period with a total of 92.

Luneckas established a new record of 32 sabre wins during a single season and tied the previous three-year record total held by Mike Kinsinger, former Big 10 foil champ from Iowa.

The fencers ended the season with a record of 12-7 and a fourth place finish in the Big 10 fencing meet.

Hermann, Iowa's first National Collegiate fencing champion in 1966, said he was not disappointed over the fourth place finish in the six-team Big 10 competition in view of the many improvements that were made by the team.

Hermann cited Iowa's 14-13 dual meet victory over Illinois as the highlight of the season. It was Iowa's first fencing victory over Illinois.

Illinois went on to win the 1967 Big 10 title in later competition. Although the Big 10 fencing competition and regular dual meet season have ended, Hermann said he and several of his fencers would continue dueling in several tournaments which will continue through June.

Facts and Facets

CULLED BY JOHN HARMON

Sports Editor

The Iowa Department of Athletics for good reason won't go on record about seating accommodations at the NCAA Mideast regionals until the Hawks have clinched the Big 10 title.

The University of Kentucky's Ticket Office told The Daily Iowan, however, that each visiting school will receive 600 tickets. Francis Graham, business manager of the athletic department, said a decision would probably be announced concerning ticket allocation Monday morning — after Iowa had won the Big 10 title.

Should the Hawkeyes be upset by the surging Michigan team tonight, a playoff game with Ohio State to determine the conference representative to Lexington would be Tuesday, March 12, at Lafayette, Ind.

The game would start at 8 p.m. and would be televised by Sports Network, Inc.

If the Hawkeyes win tonight's game in the Field House, they would move directly to the Mideast regional and face the winner of the Florida State - Eastern Tennessee game of March 9 in the tournament's first game March 15.

There is one Hawkeye fan who won't even think of a Hawkeye defeat tonight. The fan, Denny DeSirey, A3, Clinton, wrote the following poem in celebration of Iowa's victory over Minnesota Monday:

'Twas a night full of pressure,
I slipped off my loafers
And watched the Hawks ramble
All over the Gophers.

They scrambled and hustled
All over the floor
And within seven minutes
U.M. sought the doors.

With Sam making jump shots,
Chad driving the lane,
The sight of all this gave
The Gophers a pain.

As the second half started
They shook loose the dirt,
The Gophers caught fire
And made a quick spurt.

The drive didn't last long
As Sam soon got hot,
From all over the court he
Made every damn shot.

'Twill be Saturday night,
When all through the gym,
There will be much more noise
Than a crashing tree limb.

The Hawks will be hustling
And trying to win,
And this they must do just
To clinch the Big Ten.

Let this be a lesson
I will not repeat,
Don't bet 'gainst the Hawks 'cause
They just can't be beat!

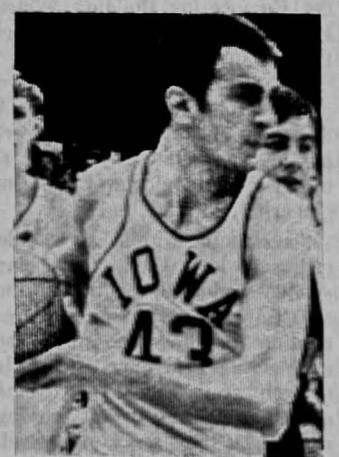

GO HAWKS!

Iowa's soccer team, the Infernos, will begin its spring season with practice sessions Saturday and Sunday. Both practices will be at 2 p.m. on the field south of the Union.

The team is encouraging all people interested in soccer to attend the practice sessions. Further information can be obtained by calling 353-2693.

Iowa City High School climbed to within two runs of a berth in the Class AA state tournament field with an impressive victory in the district final at Muscatine Thursday night.

The Little Hawks side-tracked Muscatine 75-62, a real surprise since the Muskies were the state's eighth-ranked team. Iowa City meets Keokuk in the first round of the sub-state action Monday night at 7:30 at Mount Pleasant.

day presents that the Hawkeye coach has ever received when the Hawks face fast-rising Michigan tonight at 7:30 in the Field House.

Attending the "birthday party" for Miller will be 12,900 fans who hope to watch the Hawkeyes present their coach with a victory over the Wolverines and thus hand him the Big 10 title with no strings attached.

"I've been through quite a few years where we've finished 'D on my birthday," Miller said, "but I ha never had a team give me a present such as this." Miller is 49 years old today.

title with a 10-3 record, needs a victory against the Wolverines to wrap up undisputed possession. A loss would throw the Hawks into a tie with Ohio State (10-4) and necessitate a play-off game next Tuesday to determine the conference's representative to the NCAA regionals.

Records Deceiving

The task confronting the Hawkeyes tonight is not an easy one by any means. Records and conference rankings can be most deceptive and such is the case with Michigan.

The Wolverines, posting a 5-8 record that places them eighth in the Big 10, come into the game with everything to gain and nothing to lose.

"Michigan is in a beautiful situation against us... they have no pressure at all," said Miller. "Nothing could help their confidence and outlook for the next year more than to knock off the title contender on its home court."

"If we have any misconception that Michigan will do anything other than give us an all-out battle, then we're in trouble."

Wolverines Jell

The Wolverines, like the Hawkeyes, are a young team, and have started to mold into an excellent club during the latter part of their conference schedule. Michigan has won four of its last six Big 10 games and is currently nursing a mild streak of three straight triumphs. Its most recent victims (and scores) were Minnesota (105-92), Purdue (104-94) and Northwestern (83-79).

"From what I've observed in practice this week, I think our boys are in a good frame of mind and are not taking this game lightly," Miller commented. "But this is a very young ball club and it is sometimes hard for a coach to read what they're thinking of."

Although five seniors — Sam Williams, Huston Breedlove, Rich Agnew, Rolly McGrath and Dave White — will play their final home game tonight, only one will be on the playing floor when the opening tip-off signals the start of action. That senior, of course, is Super Sam, a third team All-American selection and an All-Big 10 performer for the past two years.

"This is probably the youngest team I've coached," said Coach Miller. "I can't remember when I've had three sophomores in the starting lineup."

Iowa will open with Williams and angular Glenn Vidovic at forwards, 6-8 Dick Jensen at center, and sharpshooters Chad Calabria and Ron Norman at guards. Vidovic, Jensen and Calabria are sophomores while Norman is a junior.

Williams, who has a record of 573 points in 23 games, leads the Hawkeyes in scoring with a 24.9 average. Don Nelson, now with the NBA's Boston Celtics, held the old mark of 572 points. Vidovic has averaged 13.8 points in his last eight games since becoming eligible at the beginning of second semester. Calabria, named Thursday to second team All-Big 10, averages 13.7 and Norman is hitting at a 10.4 clip.

Balance has been the key word prepared to play... to use an old expression, they can afford to throw all caution to the wind against us."

On paper, Iowa is in excellent position to gain its 17th victory in 24 games. The Hawks have won seven of their last eight conference games, including a 99-86 triumph over the Wolverines a month ago at Ann Arbor. And the possibility of becoming the second Iowa club in 12 years to compete in the NCAA regionals is top form.

HUSTON BREEDLOVE
Always On The Move

Top form is a great apt word to describe the manner in which the young Hawkeyes battled from a 3-2 conference record in mid-January to a 10-3 mark entering tonight's game with Michigan. And remarkable is even a more apt word to describe the coaching job registered by Miller — only one starter in tonight's game is a senior, one is a junior and three are sophomores.

"This game should be a great showdown," Coach Miller said. "Our players have had a taste in mind all season and this could be a fine rewarding finish for a group of men who has shown so much desire, dedication and hustle."

The last Iowa team to win the Big 10 title outright was "The Fabulous Five" of 1955-56.

STALLWORTH AND SAM

Williams and Agnew are the two best players I've had in recent years. In many respects, they're quite the same. They are dedicated to becoming fine players, but nevertheless they are not selfish in any sense of the word."

Miller said he felt no surprise over the success Williams has had in the Big 10 after coming to Iowa two years ago from Burlington Junior College.

"We felt that Sam would be a starter for us from the time we saw him at Burlington," Miller said. "I expected him to do well for us, and he hasn't let me down one bit."

"If he isn't picked as the Big 10's most valuable player, I'll be surprised and tremendously disappointed. Sam has carried us along way."

The fact that Iowa's crop of sophomores have played more like experienced seniors than brash sophos has also been a decisive factor in the Hawks' late surge to the top.

TWO PENNSYLVANIANS, CALABRIA AND VIDOVIC, HAVE GATHERED UP MUCH LIMELIGHT, AND WITH GOOD REASON. CALABRIA HAS THAT CERTAIN KNACK OF HAVING A NOSE FOR THE BALL, OR BEING IN THE RIGHT PLACE AT THE RIGHT TIME, A "SIXTH SENSE" THAT MILLER FEELS A PLAYER CAN'T BE TAUGHT.

Vidovic, despite a rail-thin trim, is a 6-8 pound frame, is a strong scorer and is not afraid to operate underneath the basket. Since he joined the team eight games ago, Iowa has lost just once.

Center Dick Jensen averages just 6.6 points a game, but his improvement has been in Miller's favorite areas — defense and rebounding.

"Dick's improvement has been very steady," said Miller. "His best improvement has come in defense and rebounding. I would much rather see a boy develop in these areas first. The confidence he is gaining will soon splash over into his offensive game, and I think he'll be a very good college post man."

The presence of three sophomores in the starting lineup has been a first for Miller, but he is quick to emphasize the roles of other players which he feels are equally responsibility for Iowa's success.

"YOU HAVE TO GIVE A YEOMAN'S AMOUNT OF CREDIT TO OUR SOPHOMORES," MILLER SAID, "BUT REMEMBER THAT WE PLAYED THE EARLY PART OF OUR SEASON WITHOUT THEM. YOU HAVE TO CREDIT THE BREWDROPS AND AGNEW WHO KEPT THEIR NOSES TO THE GRINDSTONE AND FINALLY GOT US TO A POSITION WHERE THE SOPHOMORES HAVE COME FORWARD."

Three Iowa reserves, all of whom have started at one point or other during the season, have fitted in perfectly to provide fine back-up punch at each position. Huston Breedlove has played both forward and center all year long. Rolly McGrath has been a steady influence at guard and Dick Agnew has turned in alway-hustling performances at forward.

The decision-making starts today when, for the first time, all 20 teams are slated to see action in spring training games.

The exhibition schedule opened Thursday with the New York Yankees blanking Washington 1-0. Five games were booked Friday.

Season Opens

Saturday's schedule features eight games in Florida — Atlanta and Los Angeles in West Palm Beach; Cincinnati and the Chicago White Sox at Sarasota; Houston and Washington at Cocoa; the New York Mets and St. Louis at St. Petersburg; Philadelphia and Pittsburgh at Ft. Myers; Boston and Oakland at Bradenton; Minnesota and Detroit at Lakeland; and the Yankees and Baltimore at Ft. Lauderdale.

The Chicago Cubs and California meet in Palm Springs, Calif., and San Francisco and Cleveland at Tucson, Ariz.

"A manager has got to earn his money this year," said Eddie Stanky, the White Sox skipper. "I like the idea of getting down to 25 players. When we expand we'll have to get down to 22 or 23 men and we might as well get ready."

Oakland Premiers

The American League will add Kansas City and Seattle for the 1969 campaign. The National League hasn't announced its expansion plans.

Records Don't Indicate Hawks' Title Ingredients

By PAUL STEVENS
Ass't Sports Editor

Decades from now, some enterprising Big 10 sports writer with time on his hands will probably happen upon a musty gold and black covered copy of a basketball pamphlet in the lower drawers of his files titled: Iowa Basketball, 1967-68.

Inside the press booklet, the writer will be confronted with statistics upon statistics about a team which that season won the Big 10 title for its school, ending a span of 12 title-less years. On each page of the glossy booklet, he'll find statistics, profiles and school records. He'll know the average height of the starting five. He'll learn of a Coach Ralph Miller's philosophy on basketball and Miller's feelings and comments on this season's crop of individual players.

When he has scanned the last page, the writer will know little more about the Iowa team of 1967-68 than he did before plucking it out of a drawer. For the most important fact about the team is something he'll never find in a book — how it climbed from obscurity to mid-season into the conference throne at season's end.

Iowa's basketball team could care less about statistics. Sam Williams, a player who has set several records in two seasons of play, accomplishes his prolific scoring for one purpose — the furtherance of the Iowa basketball team, and not the furtherance of Sam Williams. That is precisely what earns him the title of "Super Sam", and it is the same attitude that has placed the team where it is today — on top.

"Almost 100 per cent of the reason we've climbed to the top of the conference has been hustle and desire," said Miller Thursday. "This is a good solid team of battlers. Each boy has made a solid contribution for us."

"The outstanding trait of this club is that they set their goal a long time ago that they could win the title and then they doggedly set out to do just that. Do they have a champions' attitude? Well, I think it's difficult not to get a feeling within a team that they are accomplishing their purpose."

Doggedly is a most apt word to describe the manner in which the young Hawkeyes battled from a 3-2 conference record in mid-January to a 10-3 mark entering tonight's game with Michigan. And remarkable is even a more apt word to describe the coaching job registered by Miller — only one starter in tonight's game is a senior, one is a junior and three are sophomores.

If a coach had to build around just a single senior starter, few would prefer to do so other than around the likes of Sam Williams, one of the best all-around performers to play at Iowa.

"Sam is one of the best players I've ever coached," said Miller. "I'm not one to rank players above others and I won't do so in his case. Sam is a lot like Dave Stallworth, though. Stallworth was an All-America for Miller at Wichita in 1962-63."

"Stallworth and Sam are the two best players I've had in recent years. In many respects, they're quite the same. They are dedicated to becoming fine players, but nevertheless they are not selfish in any sense of the word."

Miller said he felt no surprise over the success Williams has had

—300 Clients Now Being Helped— Handicapped, Rehabilitated Aided By Service Office Here

By ANNE BOOZELL

Rod Seward is a 35-year-old Iowa City resident. He is single and lives with his parents. He is in perfect physical health and has a friendly disposition, but he is mentally retarded.

Rod wants a job. He is capable of doing simple, routine tasks, but he has little education and no training.

Rod's case is fairly typical of that of hundreds of persons in the Iowa City area who can't find work because of physical, mental or emotional handicaps as Wayne Moomey, of the Iowa City Office of Rehabilitation, Education, and Services can testify.

Moomey is presently in charge of the vocational rehabilitation of approximately 300 clients, including ex-convicts, mentally retarded and emotionally disturbed cases and alcoholics. He personally handles 98 of them, while three other full-time staff members cover the rest.

Moomey, who has directed the Iowa City office for the past 10 months, said he believed that personal contact with clients was the key to success.

Counseling Makes Program Go

"Counseling is the heart of vocational rehabilitation," he said. "It's what makes the program tick."

Soviets Defied
For 2nd Time
By Romania

SOFIA, Bulgaria (UPI) — Romania openly defied the Soviet Union for the second time in eight days Friday, refusing to sign with its Communist allies a statement supporting a U.S.-Soviet agreement halting the spread of nuclear weapons. Communists said.

The new rebellion at a summit meeting of Warsaw Pact leaders resulted in a watered-down general communiqué and a deepening crack in Soviet unity, breached publicly by the Iowa City office. But if the need arises, the counselor will assist the client in contacting an employer.

According to Moomey, Iowa City employers on the whole are "very good about hiring rehabilitated workers."

J. McGuire, personnel director of the Veterans Administration Hospital, said, "Rehabilitated persons are selectively placed in jobs suited to them, they make excellent employees."

Currently the V.A. Hospital employes 68 rehabilitated workers, including physically handicapped persons with amputations or deformities, epileptics, formerly mentally ill persons, and mentally retarded persons. A majority hold jobs on the laundry, kitchen or custodial staffs.

On-The-Job Restrictions

On-the-job restrictions are often necessary for these people. McGuire pointed out, for example, that most epileptics cannot be placed around machines and that a worker who has recovered from a mental breakdown must be protected from stresses and strains.

Disabled veterans returning from World War I first gave impetus to the vocational rehabilitation movement. The Office of Vocational Rehabilitation was established in the 1920s under the Federal Board of Education to re-train these veterans to lead productive lives. Gradually, the idea expanded to include disabled civilians.

Education Answer For Some

For some clients, training and education or re-education are the answer. For others, the problems lie in overcoming an emotional or behavioral handicap. Mrs. Mayta Bird, former Oakdale supervisor and now a member of the Iowa City office staff, said she felt that the counselor became especially important in working with problems.

The task of the counselor is much more than finding a job," she said. "The counselor is someone for the client to share his problems with."

60 Per Cent Placed

Moomey estimated that out of 300 clients, 70 per cent would be accepted for service by the office, and that of this group 60 to 70 per cent will be successfully placed in jobs.

Scientist Says Genetics May Change Man's Nature

DUBUQUE (AP) — Scientists might soon be able to change and control the nature of man genetically, a biologist told a Clarke College symposium here Friday.

Prof. Ruth Sager of Hunter College, New York, said there was an enormous potentiality for good in this prospect, including retarding the aging process and even genetic control of behavior.

"If I can import any message to you," Prof. Sager told the students, "it is that science is open to anyone.

"Science and art can enable everyone to reach new levels of awareness of the creative process. A poem is like an experiment — they explore new depths.

Teaching science as an intellectual discipline, which is part of man's heritage, Prof. Sager said, is as important as teaching it for practical reasons.

The symposium was opened by Barry Ulman, professor of English at Barnard College, New York, and chairman of the symposium. He said art in our time has been more and more concerned with scientific scenes and ideologies.

support of the nine-day teacher strike.

The striking Florida Education Association called for an end Friday to the 2½-week-old statewide walkout of teachers after a new law.

Teachers were asked to return to their classrooms Monday by the association president, Dexter Hagman.

The stalemate appeared solved when the board approved a nine-point resolution, of which a key point called for giving $10.2 million to public school education from surplus in a $329 million education-tax package that became law at midnight Thursday.

Teachers In Florida Call For Strike End

Classes at North High School in Milwaukee were dismissed Friday afternoon for staff meetings to discuss problems in the predominantly Negro school. Teachers had been assured of extra personnel to curb vandalism and pupil disorder Thursday. Friday morning classes were reported as being quiet.

The Pittsburgh sheriff's office reported that deputies found pickets at Pittsburgh schools again Friday in defiance of a court order. The deputies said the pickets dispersed quietly and no arrests were made.

Mayor Joseph M. Barr arranged for the legislature to introduce a measure to clear up legal blocks to settlement of the strike.

Teachers in Washington, D.C., returned to their classrooms after a one-day holiday to protest pay scales.

In Los Angeles, where 400 pupils boycotted classes at Lincoln High School, pupils marched to a nearby park in the Mexican-American section. Police were on standby alert in the North Side area, but were not needed. The students have charged discrimination and "second-class conditions."

Redmond said, "I'm not going to sit idly by and have pressure groups determine the assignment of personnel in the Chicago school system."
