Officials Say Hanoi Still Silent On Sites

HONOLULU (AP) — U.S. authorities portrayed President Johnson and South Korea's President Chung Hee Park Tuesday as in general accord on Johnson's move to get peace talks going with North Vietnam.

They reported also that no message from Hanoi has yet arrived in response to U.S. proposals listing four neutral Asian capitals as possible sites for preliminary peace talks.

And they labeled as premature a suggestion, attributed in news reports to South

Allies Voice Concern Over Talks With North

SAIGON (AP) — South Korea and Thailand voiced reservations Tuesday about peace talks with North Vietnam. South Vietnam suggested a summit meeting of the Vietnamese allies before negotiations open.

Premier Chung Il Kwon of South Korea, speaking in Seoul, said, "We fear any compromise with the North Vietnamese Communists would be dangerous."

In Bangkok, Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman of Thailand expressed fears that "Vietnam will be forsaken in the same way as Laos" by the United States.

In his sumup of negotiations with North Vietnam, Thailand's Thanat predicted peace talks would fail. He noted that in two weeks the United States and North Vietnam had been unable to agree on a site for initial talks.

Memphis Settles Sanitation Strike

65-Day, Racially Tinged Strike Ends After Concession On Dues Checkoff

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Agreement was reached Tuesday to end a 65-day strike by 1,300 city garbage collectors. The bitter, racially tinged labor dispute had brought the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. to Memphis where he was slain April 4.

The strikers, 98 per cent of them Negro, cheered wildly as they unanimously accepted the agreement which was described as a "memorandum of understanding" rather than a formal contract.

The 13-member city council, with one dissenting vote, also approved the agreement but not before Negro Councilman J.O. Patterson Jr. accused the governing body of being responsible for the prolonged work stoppage and the violence which it spawned.

"Seven weeks ago," Patterson said, "we agreed to the main issues almost identical to those before us today and then a majority of the council changes its mind . . . refused to take any action on this matter and a lot of hell broke out across the city and across the nation. We could have avoided all this, including the death of Dr. King."

Councilman Bob James cast the lone dissenting vote. He said he was happy the strike was over but that the city "does not have the money it's promising these men."

The pact calls for a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase May 1 and another 5 cents an hour Sept. 1, plus union recognition and dues checkoffs. Sanitation workers were making from $1.65 to $2.10 an hour when they walked off their jobs Feb. 12.

Undersecretary of Labor James Reynolds, dispatched to Memphis by President Johnson two days after King's assassination, termed the contract "honorable and proper under the circumstances."

But there were indications the racial turmoil stirred by the walkout would continue in this Mississippi River city of 700,000.

The Rev. James Lawson, a leader of the strike sympathizers, said that marches and boycotts would continue even though the strike has ended.

"We've just begun," he said. "We want to get to the point where every poor person in this Shelby County of ours will be able to walk on their own two feet. The battle is not over. We've got a fight on our hands."

One King-led march erupted into violence and looting on March 28. A week later, while planning another march, the civil rights movement's chief apostle of nonviolence was shot and killed by a sniper outside his motel room. The FBI still is searching for the assassin.

King's death was followed by disorders in scores of cities from coast to coast. The up-heaval left at least a score of persons dead and caused millions of dollars in damage to burned and looted businesses.

The Rev. Dr. Ralph Abernathy, King's successor as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, told a mass rally in Memphis Monday night that "some of the most militant nonviolent steps we have ever taken," including marches in exclusive white neighborhoods, were being planned in support of the strikers.

5 Sharp Battles Dot Area Around Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Five sharp battles broke out around Saigon late Tuesday as allied forces probed jungles and rice paddies in Operation Complete Victory, the biggest offensive of the war.

A platoon of newly equipped North Vietnamese attacked an American patrol near Saigon earlier in the day, lending support to intelligence reports that sizeable numbers of Northern troops are infiltrating the capital area and the Mekong Delta.

In the early hours today, Viet Cong troops fired more than 100 mortar rounds into an officer's training center and a national police headquarters five to six miles north of the city. Four South Vietnamese troops were reported killed and 30 wounded.

The U.S. Command announced, meanwhile, that American soldiers killed 1,044 North Vietnamese troops in lifting the siege of Khe Sanh and in the fighting that followed around the base during the first two weeks of April. U.S. losses were put at 92 killed and 667 wounded.

fight. Two Americans were reported killed and two wounded.

Twenty-five members of a South Vietnamese airborne battalion were wounded in a battle seven miles north of Saigon. Enemy losses were not reported.

Americans Rushed In

In the delta 15 miles southwest of Saigon, a South Vietnamese regional force company took on a strong enemy force. Two companies from the U.S. 199th Light Infantry Brigade were rushed in as reinforcements. Those reported killed were 14 government soldiers, three Americans, 11 enemy and three Vietnamese civilians.

All the actions were part of Operation Complete Victory, an 11-province sweep by about 100,000 allied troops.

In the curtailed bombing campaign over North Vietnam, military sources said U.S. pilots stayed below the 19th parallel Tuesday for the 13th consecutive day. The deepest reported penetration was a strike by Navy A6 Intruders from the carrier Enterprise on a railroad siding 22 miles north of Vinh — 168 miles north of the demilitarized zone and two miles below the parallel.

Dirksen Backs Daley On Get-Tough Policy

DES MOINES (AP) — Senate Minority Leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois said Tuesday he thinks there is "something to be said" for Chicago Mayor Richard Daley's order that arsonists in riots be shot.

The Illinois Republican told a news conference that if an arsonist "were to throw a Molotov cocktail through the window of a hotel, he may become a mass murderer."

Dirksen said Daley's statement would have to be toned down before the senator could agree with it fully. But he said Daley was "speaking for the future," and if his statement were softened riots such as those that tore the city this month might be repeated.

said, because it is obvious Cambodia, suggested by North Vietnam for preliminary peace talks, is unsuitable, and "the conference halls we were offered in Warsaw were so bugged" that no conference of U.S. negotiators and its allies could be held without danger that the other side would hear the discussions.

He said Geneva, Switzerland, Paris, or New Delhi, India "all would be a good place" for the conference. But he ruled out Burma because he said newsmen would have trouble even getting visas to attend the meetings, and "we have to assure that the flow of information from the conference is not impeded by some provincial law."

Local Architects To Design City's New Parking Ramp

By CHERYL ARVIDSON
City Editor

The local architectural firm of Hanson, Lind and Meyer has been selected to design a $1-million parking ramp for downtown Iowa City.

Mayor Loren Hickerson made the announcement of the firm's selection and the City Council approved the selection Tuesday night.

Councilman Robert Lind abstained from voting on the selection of the firm. Lind's son John is a member of the architectural firm.

City Manager Frank R. Smiley said the preliminary drawings for the ramp, which will be located at the intersection of College and Dubuque streets, should be completed in six to eight weeks. Final drawings are expected by June, Smiley said.

The ramp construction is scheduled to be under way by fall. The ramp will have 425 parking stalls.

No New Land Needed

Smiley said the ramp construction would not require the purchase of any additional land. The city owns the College-Dubuque street site, and the land is now used for a street level parking lot.

The ramp as planned will occupy about half the lot. The west end of the lot will be available for a department store or some other building, Smiley said.

Hickerson said the council had studied the selection of an architect with great care. After a council decision to choose a local firm for the design, Lind withdrew from all council discussion concerning the choice of architect, Hickerson said.

In other action, the council received letters and a petition with 65 signatures regarding stricter parking regulations around Lincoln Elementary School and several streets in the area. The letters and petition were signed by residents of Manville Heights in northwest Iowa City, who requested parking bans in the area because of hazardous traffic conditions.

Student Cars Blamed

The parking problems come from University students' cars which are parked bumper to bumper on the streets and block the vision of motorists, the residents said. The streets in the Manville Heights area are too narrow to allow parking and smooth traffic flow.

Council members referred the requests to Smiley and scheduled discussion on the parking situation for Monday's informal council session.

In other business, the council selected Kerl Greenland, an Iowa City contractor, to construct median curbs on Iowa Avenue. Greenland's bid of $13,095.50, was the lowest of three bids received for the project, which will be completed in conjunction with Project GREEN (Grow to Reach Environmental Excellence Now).

Bids for the median curb project were taken April 2. The other bids were from local firms for $15,500 and $19,500.

Not 'Out Of The Woods'

Dirksen said that before peace talks could begin in earnest, decisions about representation of the Viet Cong would have to be resolved, and an agenda set.

Dirksen said "we aren't out of the woods" as far as the gold crisis is concerned. He said foreign bankers want the United States to devalue the dollar "and we might have to do it yet."

Dirksen said he doesn't feel President Lyndon Johnson's announcement that he will not run for a second term had any "real impact" on Republican chances to elect a president this year.

He said he always has felt the Republican chances are good this year because of "the mood of the country — people everywhere are unhappy."

He replied "indeed so" when asked if he thinks anyone other than former Vice President Richard Nixon has a chance to win the Republican presidential nomination. "We haven't cut out anybody," he declared.

Atlanta Taxi Driver Identifies FBI Sketch As A Rider In A Hurry

ATLANTA (AP) — An Atlanta taxi driver said Tuesday night he had a man riding in his taxi on a short trip in Memphis, Tenn., the night after the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was slain.

The driver, who asked that his name not be used, said an FBI agent questioned him about another taxi he had on Friday night, April 4, before showing him the sketch which he immediately identified.

He said he recognized the sketch, which appeared to be a composite photograph as a man he had picked up at a coffee shop in Atlanta's "hippie" district and carried two blocks.

The driver said the man appeared to be in a hurry.

"He told me to make a right hand turn, and he'd be the know when to stop," the driver said. "I went about two blocks, and he told me he wanted to get out."

"When I stopped, he opened the door, and I turned around to make sure I got my fare. I got a look at him. I put my hand out, but he threw the money on the seat and he fell on the floor," the driver said. "That man was mad. That's the main reason I remember him so well."

The taxi driver said FBI agents had continuously poked over the taxi continuously "trip sheets," since agents in Memphis had a "trip sheet" last Thursday, he said. The car left the description of a car which was seen leaving the scene of the assassination of Dr. King by a sniper's bullet from a rooming house in Memphis, Tenn.

Work-Study Program announces new grants

WASHINGTON — More than 217,000 students, including 4,327 in Iowa, who need money to attend college will be helped by the federally supported College Work-Study Program during the second half of this year, Wilbur J. Cohen, Acting Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said Tuesday.

More than $82 million in federal grants will be made available by the U.S. Office of Education during the six-month period, he said. Iowa's share is $1,194,601, according to Cohen.

"Our goal is to remove the financial barrier that stands in the way of any qualified young person who seeks a college education," Cohen said. "This program, which provides paying jobs for students, is one of the ways in which we are working to remove that financial barrier."

During the current school year, more than 300,000 students are being helped through college by the program.

The Office of Education has allocated grants in support of the program for the second half of 1968 to 1,845 institutions of higher education in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. In Iowa, 41 institutions will receive grants.

Ul-city cooperation needed on parking

By NORM ROLLINS

One of the worst ways to begin a day is not being able to find a place to park. Even the most tenacious — whether businessman, teacher, shopper or student — become discouraged after driving up, down and around the campus or business district searching frantically for an open parking space.

Both the city and University have studied various proposals that might alleviate the problem. A parking ramp to be located near the downtown shopping center is on the planning boards. Traffic has been studied to determine which meters should have shorter time periods to allow for a greater turnover in parking.

The University's Security and Parking Committee said it would recommend to Pres. Howard Bowen that all student parking lots be metered next year. Because approximately 1,500 students will be eligible for about 900 reserved parking spaces, the committee apparently reasoned that meters would help alleviate some of the parking problems.

In effect, it appears that the University would be taking the easy way out by placing the 900 spaces on a first-come basis. What would happen to the drivers of the 600 additional cars is anyone's guess, but it is safe to assume that a great majority of them would be forced to drive up, down and around the campus in search of an open space.

Postmasters, politics shouldn't mix

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — When the looting in Washington started last week, the first thing Bobby Kennedy did was throw a brick through a White House window and steal Postmaster General Larry O'Brien.

This left President Johnson without a postmaster general for the rest of the term.

It is not generally known, but President Johnson's one ambition before leaving the Executive Mansion is to save the United States post office. And so when O'Brien was looted, Johnson called in Marvin Watson, his loyal White House aide.

"Marvin, I've been watching you lately and the thing I admire most about you is the way you handle the mail."

"Thank you, sir. I was a four-letter man at college."

"No jokes, Marvin. You heard, of course, that Larry O'Brien is no longer with us."

"Yes, sir. I saw him going over the fence during the riots, but I decided not to stop him."

"Why not, Marvin?"

"Well, you said to stop people trying to get into the White House, but you didn't mention anything about stopping people trying to get out."

"I see. Well, Marvin, O'Brien's departure has left us with a big hole in the post office. We have a billion-dollar deficit, and I was hoping Larry could make it up by January."

"I thought he was going to sell the post office," Marvin said.

"The only one who made a bid on it was Howard Hughes, but he said he would not take it unless we sold him Arizona and California at the same time. He figured the two would go nicely with Nevada."

"I feel sorry for the poor sucker who would have to take over the post office at this time."

The President didn't say anything.

"Mr. President," Watson said, "what are you looking at me that way for?"

"Marvin, when I leave this place I want to go down in history as the President who saved the United States post office. I want people to say Lyndon Johnson was willing to sacrifice his political career to give every man, woman and child in this country a ZIP code. I want them to say that neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night kept the President from making his appointed rounds."

"That's beautiful, Mr. President," Watson said writing it down for his future book.

"I have selected you, Marvin, to be the new postmaster general. By appointing you, the country will realize that I consider the postmaster general's office above politics and that I am truly searching for a just solution to our junk mail crisis."

Watson was terribly moved.

"Mr. President, you know I'm willing to serve you in any capacity you ask. I shall take on the job, and if I can't save the country a billion dollars in the next seven months, I'll resign in January."

"I knew you'd do it, Marvin. The country will never realize the debt they owe to you. If you can do nothing more than keep the hippies from delivering mail in San Francisco, it will be a step in the right direction."

"Don't worry, sir, I've got some definite ideas on what to do. For a start we could put in a mail cover on Kennedy headquarters, then we could..."

"Marvin," the President said, "we've got to stay out of politics. A postmaster general must remain neutral in word, thought and deed."

"I guess you're right, Mr. President," Marvin said sadly. "Well, could I at least jam their postage meter machine?"

Atlanta Taxi Driver Identifies FBI Sketch As A Rider In A Hurry

ATLANTA (AP) — An Atlanta taxi driver said Tuesday night he had a man riding in his taxi on a short trip in Memphis, Tenn., the night after the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was slain.

The driver, who asked that his name not be used, said an FBI agent questioned him about another taxi he had on Friday night, April 4, before showing him the sketch which he immediately identified.

He said he recognized the sketch, which appeared to be a composite photograph as a man he had picked up at a coffee shop in Atlanta's "hippie" district and carried two blocks.

The driver said the man appeared to be in a hurry.

"He told me to make a right hand turn, and he'd be the know when to stop," the driver said. "I went about two blocks, and he told me he wanted to get out."

"When I stopped, he opened the door, and I turned around to make sure I got my fare. I got a look at him. I put my hand out, but he threw the money on the seat and he fell on the floor," the driver said. "That man was mad. That's the main reason I remember him so well."

The taxi driver said FBI agents had continuously poked over the taxi continuously "trip sheets," since agents in Memphis had a "trip sheet" last Thursday, he said. The car left the description of a car which was seen leaving the scene of the assassination of Dr. King by a sniper's bullet from a rooming house in Memphis, Tenn.

Work-Study Program announces new grants

WASHINGTON — More than 217,000 students, including 4,327 in Iowa, who need money to attend college will be helped by the federally supported College Work-Study Program during the second half of this year, Wilbur J. Cohen, Acting Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said Tuesday.

More than $82 million in federal grants will be made available by the U.S. Office of Education during the six-month period, he said. Iowa's share is $1,194,601, according to Cohen.

"Our goal is to remove the financial barrier that stands in the way of any qualified young person who seeks a college education," Cohen said. "This program, which provides paying jobs for students, is one of the ways in which we are working to remove that financial barrier."

During the current school year, more than 300,000 students are being helped through college by the program.

The Office of Education has allocated grants in support of the program for the second half of 1968 to 1,845 institutions of higher education in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. In Iowa, 41 institutions will receive grants.

From July 1 through August 31, the federal government will pay 50 percent of the wages of student workers with the remainder provided by the employer or off-campus employer. August 20, the federal share will be 60 percent.

Student employment consists of part-time jobs such as teacher assistant, laboratory assistant, maintenance worker or administrative aide. Part-time work may be for public or private profit agencies in such activities as education and recreation.

Students may work an average of 15 hours a week while in school and 40 hours a week during vacation.

Any student unable to enter or continue in college for lack of funds may apply for participation in the Work-Study Program to the financial aid office of the college he attends or plans to attend.

The college or university president must submit a request for federal assistance to a regional panel set up by the U.S. Office of Education. These panels are composed of local college officials and federal financial aid officials. The Commissioner of Education makes the final decision on the basis of panel recommendations.

Ul-city cooperation needed on parking

By NORM ROLLINS

One of the worst ways to begin a day is not being able to find a place to park. Even the most tenacious — whether businessman, teacher, shopper or student — become discouraged after driving up, down and around the campus or business district searching frantically for an open parking space.

Both the city and University have studied various proposals that might alleviate the problem. A parking ramp to be located near the downtown shopping center is on the planning boards. Traffic has been studied to determine which meters should have shorter time periods to allow for a greater turnover in parking.

The University's Security and Parking Committee said it would recommend to Pres. Howard Bowen that all student parking lots be metered next year. Because approximately 1,500 students will be eligible for about 900 reserved parking spaces, the committee apparently reasoned that meters would help alleviate some of the parking problems.

In effect, it appears that the University would be taking the easy way out by placing the 900 spaces on a first-come basis. What would happen to the drivers of the 600 additional cars is anyone's guess, but it is safe to assume that a great majority of them would be forced to drive up, down and around the campus in search of an open space.

—Like Looking For Needle In Haystack—

Profs Wage Search For Cancer Drug

Finding a needle in a haystack is child's play compared to trying to develop an anticancer drug. Let's suppose one had to find a needle that was broken into little parts, put the needle back together and sew with it.

Drs. John L. Lach, professor, and Ting-Fong Chin, assistant professor, both of the College of Pharmacy, are faced with this difficult task. They devise and prepare drugs which just might possess anticancer properties.

Their research is sponsored by a grant from the Iowa Division of the American Cancer Society with funds given by Iowans during last year's April Cancer Crusade.

Many chemists throughout the nation, including the University researchers, theorize on paper what combination of chemical groups should yield an anticancer drug. That's like knowing the needle's in the haystack.

Just A Beginning
Having figured out how the new compound should work and having made a sample, most chemists stop. Lach and Chin have just begun.

Not only must they put the needle back together. They have to sew with it.

The University pharmacists must prepare a compound that will remain stable in an animal's system so it can be tested for its anticancer properties. It would do little good to synthesize a drug that would disintegrate and lose its effectiveness as soon as it was given to a patient.

Lach and Chin have been preparing new compounds from the basic organic "building blocks," uracil and quinone. Various chemical groups are joined to specific positions or "handles" on the molecule to form a compound that theoretically should possess anticancer qualities.

Hope To Reduce Toxicity
Some of the molecules the pharmacy professors have been studying normally are highly toxic.

By adding a chemical group, the scientists hope to reduce the toxicity of the compound and make a stable molecule that will effectively wither cancerous tumors.

So far, a series of new compounds developed at the University and a few which have been synthesized by other scientists have been produced. Preliminary tests of the drugs on rats by the National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md., indicate that the compounds are less toxic, remain stable, and exhibit some anticancer activity.

Like the needle in the haystack, Lach's and Chin's compounds can be found through much tedious work. Whether the chemical needles produced in the laboratory will pierce the shroud of cancer to sew a new cloak of life is yet to be determined.

A total of $96,820 for research, equipment and special training at the University was provided this year by the American Cancer Society and its Iowa Division.

Post Office Cracks Down On 'Sex' Mail

Persons who are bothered by "erotic or sexually provocative" literature received through the mail can now do something about it.

Iowa City Postmaster William J. Coen announced Tuesday plans for administering a new law that gives each mail patron the right to decide what advertisements are sexually offensive to him.

Coen said that the post office would direct a mailer to send no more mail to a person who complained about such mail. The Post Office Department has published a brief pamphlet — "How You Can Curb Pandering Advertisements" — for interested persons. Coen said the pamphlet was available at the Iowa City Post Office.

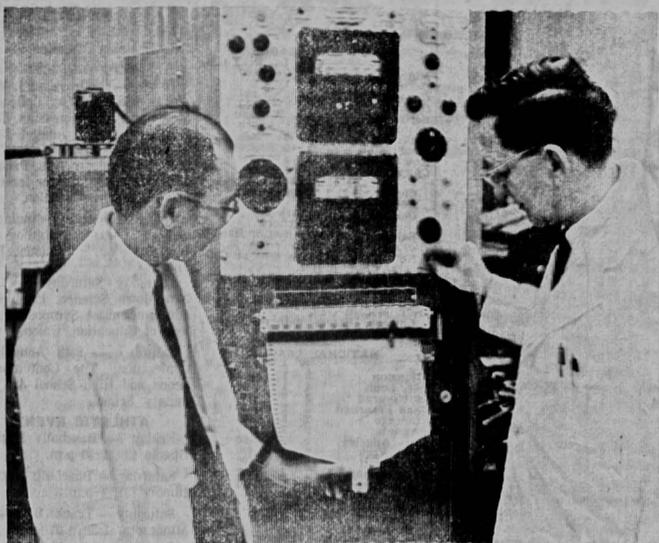

"This new law should give some protection to American families offended by advertisements they believe to be morally harmful, particularly to their children," Coen said. "Last year the Post Office Department received some 140,000 complaints from those offended by pandering advertisements. While in most cases the ads were not legally obscene and were therefore mailable, they are often offensive and usually are not the type of material one would want his children to read," Coen said.

The postmaster general may ask the attorney general to apply a federal court order forcing mailers to remove persons from their mailing lists, according to Coen.

King Memorial Set At Grinnell

GRINNELL — The Grinnell College faculty has dedicated April 30 and May 1 to the memory of slain civil rights leader the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King.

Regularly scheduled classes will be cancelled during the two-day period to devote time to study and discussion of civil rights and poverty problems.

Edna Ferber Dies At 82; Noted Novelist, Playwright

NEW YORK — Edna Ferber, who drew deeply from the history and folklore of America to become a Pulitzer Prize novelist, as well as a world-renowned short story writer and playwright, died Tuesday at the age of 82.

Ill for several months, she had been in and out of hospitals. But the end came in her Park Avenue apartment, where she had been confined recently.

Miss Ferber's novel, "So Big," a story of a woman on a truck farm outside Chicago, won the Pulitzer Prize in 1924. She once said: "Not only did I not plan to write a best seller when I wrote 'So Big' but I thought, when I had finished it, that I had written the world's worst seller."

Write Hit Plays
A chance discussion about show boats led Miss Ferber to spend some time on the Mississippi River aboard James Adams Floater.

4 Merged Boards Name New Head

The superintendent of Washington County schools, Dwight Bode, 39, has been named superintendent of the merged four-county Regional Education Service Agency (RESA).

The new unit is to go into operation July 1. It replaces individual county school boards in Johnson, Linn, Cedar and Washington counties.

Bode was one of four applicants for the position. His salary is to be $18,000 a year. The agency's central office will be in Cedar Rapids. A branch office will be located in Coralville.

Draft Resister Given 5 Years

LONE TREE — A sociology instructor at Muscatine Junior College from here, Ardhith A. Davis, 26, has been sentenced to five years in prison for failing to report for induction into the armed forces.

Federal Judge Roy Stephenson issued the sentence in Des Moines Monday. Davis was found guilty to the charge in March. He plans to appeal the conviction.

Davis claims to be a conscientious objector. However, he did not apply for the status until after he had been ordered to report for induction.

Maximum penalty for the offense is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. Davis was not fined or assessed court costs.

20 Portraits By Americans To Be Shown

Twenty portraits by noted American artists dating from the late 18th century to the mid-20th century will be shown at the Union beginning Monday.

On loan to the University from the International Business Machines Corporation, the exhibition will be up through May 10 in the Union Terrace Lounge. Local sponsor of the show is the Exhibits Committee of Union Board.

A third of the portraits are from the period before the middle of the 19th century, when portraiture was the mainstay of American painting. After the daguerrotype was brought across the Atlantic from France in the mid-1800s, photography largely supplanted painting as a means of providing portraits.

Increasingly, the painting of portraits became limited to the rich, the fashionable, and the famous, though many artists continued to do portraits occasionally.

Some of the portrait painters from early America represented in the IBM exhibition are John Singleton Copley, Benjamin West, Gilbert Stuart and Charles Willson Peale.

Leading artists of a later period with works in the collection are Thomas Eakins, James A. McNeill Whistler, George Bellows, George Luks and Abbott Thayer. Contemporary painters represented are Peter Hurd, Joseph Hirsch and Philip Guston.

Hearing Date Set On Injunction Bid In Records Battle

A hearing on issuing a District Court injunction to block a University student from obtaining information on Iowa City housing code violations has been set for May 2 at 9:30 a.m.

The petition for the injunction had been filed by City Atty. Jay H. Honohan and City Building Inspector James B. Hemesath.

The petition also asks that the student, Jerry Seis, 44, Valley Stream, N.Y., be enjoined from charging Honohan and Hemesath with illegal concealment of public records. Seis has filed such a charge in Police Court.

Seis says he intends to use records of city housing inspections to inform persons living in places with violations that they do not need to pay their rents.

Honohan says that dissemination of the records would be a disservice and cause harm to innocent individuals.

4 Men Convicted Of Spilling Blood On Draft Board Records

BALTIMORE, Md. — Four men, including two members of the clergy, were convicted by a federal jury Tuesday of mutilating government property by pouring blood on draft board records.

The jury deliberated less than two hours before handing down guilty verdicts on three counts against each defendant.

U.S. District Court Judge Edward S. Northrop dismissed the jury and announced he would convene the case today to consider possible motions. Defense attorney Fred E. Weisgal said he would file a motion for a new trial.

The defendants were again released in their own recognizance. Stephen H. Sachs, U.S. attorney for Maryland, closed his case by arguing that crimes may not be committed because they are "morally or religiously motivated."

Weisgal argued the opposite, saying the defendants "did what is absolutely proper in the American way."

The defendants admitted on the witness stand they participated in pouring blood, some of it human, from plastic bottles on Selective Service files at the U.S. Customs House Oct. 27. But they defended it on grounds of their motives, protesting the war in Vietnam.

The defendants are the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan, 44, a Catholic priest; the Rev. James L. Mengel, 38, a United Church of Christ minister; Thomas P. Lewis, 27, an artist; and David Eberhardt, 26, a teacher and secretary of the Baltimore Interfaith Mission.

Sachs told the jury before it retired that the key words in determining guilt were "knowingly, willfully and with intent." He said the demonstration by the four was "highly competent and planned."

Sachs also emphasized the amount of damage was $264 and that operation of a draft board was delayed three months because its records were spoiled.

Hughes Vows Law, Order Will Be Kept

DES MOINES — Saying he agrees "nine times out of 10" with police action in quelling civil disturbances, Gov. Harold Hughes Tuesday pledged law and order will be maintained in Iowa "by whatever means are necessary."

He said police actions — criticized by some Negroes — in curtailing minor disturbances in Des Moines April 7 were the best possible "under the circumstances."

Hughes, who authorized placing some 500 Iowa National Guard troops on standby alert at the request of city authorities when a march for slain civil rights leader the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. turned into scattered violence, said he backs "the man in the field."

At the same time, he said, incidents in Des Moines and elsewhere in Iowa have been minor compared with those in other areas of the U.S.

"We have seen the fringe areas of trouble in Des Moines, and the community has responded greatly to the gut needs of the city," he said.

Hughes reasserted an earlier contention that law enforcement should be left to trained policemen — not "club-swinging vigilantes."

He also stressed that "whatever means are necessary" does not include "undue use of force or brutality."

Turbine Cars In Indy Race

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Granatelli turbine cars, stripped of some muscle by a U.S. District Court decision, will be in the Indianapolis 500-mile race May 30.

Joseph Granatelli, president of Granatelli Products of Santa Monica, Calif., announced Tuesday he had mailed entries for a six-car entry ahead of the Monday midnight deadline.

Granatelli disclosed that all six engines would meet the U.S. Auto Club rules. Five will be new St-84 Pratt & Whitney turbines built by United Aircraft of Canada Ltd.

The engines, which originally had a 24.5-square-inch air intake, were reduced by removing the first two compressors, leaving only two. Some turbines have as many as nine compressor stages.

BELLY-SLIDE BEATS THROW — Pete Rose (14) of Cincinnati slides head-first toward second base on double to beat throw from centerfield to Chicago Cubs second baseman Glenn Beckert (18) in first inning of a game Tuesday at Wrigley Field. Later Rose scored on Vada Pinson's sacrifice fly. Rose scored again when he hit a home run in second inning. — AP Wirephoto

Current Scoring Method Has Support Of Masters Winner

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Goalby, upset over a bogey on the final hole, Roberto signed for a four instead of a three at the 17th hole — a birdie witnessed by millions on the TV screen — and had to take a 66 instead of a 65.

The rules of golf state that a player must check his score kept by a marker — in this case, playing companion Tommy Aaron. If he signs for a bigger score than he takes, he is stuck with it; for less, he is automatically disqualified.

PACKERS MAKES TRADES — GREEN BAY (AP) — The National Football League champion Green Bay Packers traded offensive tackle Steve Wright and linebacker Tommy Crutcher to the New York Giants Tuesday for offensive tackle Francis Peay.

ISU STARTS PRACTICE
