Varner Clarifies Senate's Action On Constitution

The Student Senate's position concerning the Student Association Constitution was clarified Wednesday in a statement issued by Student Body Pres. Carl Varner.

Varner said, "Several articles of the senate (sic) constitution have now received provisional recognition from Pres. Howard R. Bowen. The recognized sections include the sections that grant student government the power to disperse student funds, recognize organizations, and nominate students for policy committees. Recognition was not granted to the Preamble which included statements of student autonomy."

Varner said the acceptance of Bowen's demands granted at Tuesday night's senate meeting did not mean that the Preamble was eliminated from the constitution, or that the senate had consented to change this part. It simply means that if the student government acts under the authority it possesses over the non-academic lives of students, these actions will not be recognized by the administration.

"If authority to govern is granted from the students as this constitution states, then administration recognition for the Preamble should make no difference," Varner said.

Varner said it was useless to request the administration or the Board of Regents to approve these sections "because it is obvious they would not."

"The only course left open for the proponents of this constitution seems to be a test case on a particular non-academic regulation and see if the students will support the senate, despite the fact that the administration has the enforcement machinery," he added.

Varner said the senate did not agree to change the constitution in line with Bowen's recommendations Tuesday, but rather, "accepted recognition for part of the constitution in order that it can maintain its status as a recognized organization."

Columbia Campus Shut As Students Seize Buildings

NEW YORK (AP) — Columbia University's campus was all but sealed off Wednesday, after several hundred student demonstrators seized control of two buildings. They held three school officials behind makeshift barricades for 24 hours, and reportedly wrecked the office of Pres. Grayson Kirk.

Night classes were cancelled, the 70 buildings locked and all but two campus entrances closed, amid reports that Harlem Negroes planned to join student sit-ins in the two buildings.

As 500 other students gathered in a rainy spring dusk to heckle the demonstrators and throw eggs, Associate Dean Alexander B. Platt urged them to disperse. He told them: "If you try to handle this yourselves there will be violence at this time. We can't afford violence at all."

During two days of disorder and vandalism, the demonstrators polarized into two groups — Negroes protesting a new university gymnasium, and whites opposed to the war in Vietnam.

Students from other universities in the city were said to have joined in, as well as some non-student Negro militants.

White members of Students for a Democratic Society invaded Kirk's office and a university spokesman said: "The place is a complete mess."

Contributions To King Fund Reach $22,000 In 2 Weeks

By BILL NEWBROUGH
Editor

Contributions to the Martin Luther King Scholarship Fund have reached $22,000, even though the drive for donations has barely gotten underway.

It was two weeks ago that Pres. Howard R. Bowen called for the creation of the scholarship fund to help provide educational opportunities for students of minority backgrounds. And during most of those two weeks, the University was closed down for spring recess.

But Bowen announced Wednesday that pledges and donations had reached the $22,000 figure. Most of this, he said, came from University faculty and staff.

Bowen had set a goal of $50,000 a year to be used for the scholarships. Some of the $22,000 figure is for pledges over a period of several years.

An estimated 25 to 50 students might be brought to the University with the funds.

Foundation Manages Fund
The University of Iowa Foundation is managing the fund. Contributions can be sent in care of the foundation to the Union.

Bowen has suggested that each University student donate at least $1 a year to the fund. Money will be solicited also from alumni and other friends of the University.

At a meeting Tuesday night in Bowen's home, about 30 persons discussed the organization of a steering committee to ad-

War Foes To Join Parade

By SUSANNE OLSON

Two representatives of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) will attempt to meet with Pres. Howard R. Bowen today to demand that members of the peace movement be allowed to participate in the May 1 Governor's Day review of troops.

"With or without sanction" from Bowen those with antimilitary sentiment will march in a parade of University troops to be reviewed by Gov. Harold Hughes at the Field House parade grounds, according to Steve Morris, A1, Iowa City, one of the SDS representatives who will try to talk to Bowen.

The SDS decisions were made at the group's meeting Wednesday night in the Union Wisconsin Room.

Hughes is scheduled to review the University military and affiliate groups (which include ROTC, Pershing Rifles, AFROT, Guidon and Angel Flight) as a part of the annual Governor's Day ceremony on this campus.

Morris said that he and T. Hunter Wilson, G, Lexington, Mass., the other SDS representative, would ask Bowen to excuse all students from classes on May 1 in view of a similar excuse already granted to members of the University military and auxiliary groups.

Tentative plans also include a sign-in held at the parade grounds and a march back to the Union after the troop review.

The plans are still tentative because Gov. Hughes' schedule for the day is not definitely known.

Sometime after the parade, members of the United Front, a coalition of campus antiwar, student power and black power groups, of which SDS is a member, will attempt to present Gov. Hughes with petitions demanding an end to the war in Vietnam and action on the recent demands of the black people in Iowa.

Other member groups of the United Front — the Afro-American Student Association and the Hawkeye Student Party — will meet on Friday and Monday respectively to formulate their specific plans and demands for May 1, according to Charles Derden, A3, Cedar Rapids, a member of both groups.

A "guerrilla theater" group will also stage a performance during the day, Wilson said.

The guerrilla theater group, being organized by Tim Steffe, 228½ E. College St., will perform in a pantomime outdoor drama similar to the San Francisco Mime troop which performed here in October.

A mass meeting of antimilitary groups is also tentatively scheduled for Tuesday to coordinate the activities of May 1, which is also billed as "Gentle Wednesday," a University-wide day of friendliness.

Commenting on the expected nature of the demonstration and parade, Winnett Hagens, G, Iowa City an SDS member, said the activities will be "however militant you want."

GOP Senate Aspirants Offer Viet Solutions

By SUE SANDERS

One aspirant for the Republican Senate nomination called for congressional debate on the Vietnamese war. Another spoke out for immediate peace talks, and the third proposed internationally supervised free elections for South Vietnam. The proposals came at a candidate's debate in the Old Capitol House Chamber Wednesday night.

James Bromwell, a Cedar Rapids attorney and former congressman, hit President Johnson for not referring the Vietnamese issue to Congress for clarification of war aims and policy. He cited the U.S. Constitution as giving the power to declare war to Congress.

"Somewhere between a handful of advisers and 535,000 servicemen in action in Vietnam right now, America went to war in Vietnam," Bromwell, told the audience of about 50.

William Plymat, a Des Moines businessman, criticized Johnson for his failure to comply with his March 31 de-escalation in Vietnam announcement.

He quoted U.N. Secretary-General U Thant as saying that U.S. bombing in North Vietnam was more intensive now than before the de-escalation announcement, although it was concentrated in a more limited area.

State Sen. David Stanley of Muscatine proposed free elections under international supervision as a means of settling the war. He said the U.S. government should then support the winners of that election, even if they were Communists.

All three candidates spoke out against the draft, proposing in its place a voluntary army with salaries scaled to civilian pay rates.

Bromwell also criticized the current federal agricultural program, which he said was designed to reduce the supply of farm products in order to raise their prices.

He said he thought the U.S. should bring every acre in the country into production in order to remedy the severe food shortage in the world and the food shortage projected for the U.S. for 1975.

Plymat hit increasing campaign costs in his speech, saying that Congress should impose a limit on how much should be spent by candidates for major offices.

Stanley proposed several measures which he said he thought would remedy the problems of inequality in housing and employment opportunities.

He proposed a tax-sharing plan, in which the federal government would return part of the federal income tax to the states for spending on education and housing.

He also proposed a human investment act, which would grant federal tax credit to any employer setting up his own job training program, and a national home ownership plan, by which local organizations would buy slum areas, have them rehabilitated, and sell them at a low price to local impoverished families.

Democrats Turn Attention To Indiana

Kennedy Voices Hope For No More Vietnams

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy said Wednesday that "there must be no more Vietnams" and won deafening applause from an Indiana University audience of more than 4,000.

"Vietnam has proven that all the might and power of America cannot provide or create a substitute for another government or for the will of another people," he said.

Kennedy drew heavy applause when he said: "Ill-considered military interventions may very well increase the very Communist influence they are aimed to prevent. . . Communism has gained its greatest strength when allied with a national reaction to foreign intervention, invasion or colonial domination."

Kennedy's appearance in the IU Auditorium opened the third straight day of hard stumping in his campaign to win Indiana's May 7 presidential primary and lock up the first-ballot vote of the state's 63 delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

Students gave standing ovations to both Kennedy and his companion, astronaut John Glenn.

One sign for Richard M. Nixon and another for Ronald Reagan were the only non-Kennedy notes.

At the Bloomington airport, however, at least half of the signs in a crowd of several hundred persons were for Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, also in the Democratic primary with favorite son candidate Gov. Roger D. Branigan.

A crowd of more than 1,000 turned out in the parking lot of the Bloomington plant at Radio Corporation of America in spite of a cold wind that made Kennedy's talk inaudible to most of the crowd.

His university speech hammered on the theme that the United States cannot be policemen for the world.

U.S. Again Asks Hanoi For Neutral Talks Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has sent another message to North Vietnam in the still-unsuccessful effort to achieve agreement on a site for preliminary peace talks, the State Department disclosed Wednesday.

It was understood that the new U.S. message went to Hanoi Monday and amounted to a diplomatic prod to the Reds to respond to earlier U.S. offers of any of its list of 15 Asian and European capitals as a meeting place.

It was the fifth such communication from Washington to Hanoi announced since the opposing sides publicly declared three weeks ago their willingness to enter into direct talks. Since then they have been sparring over where their envoys should meet.

In revealing the latest American message, State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said that he could not report progress towards accord on a site.

Other U.S. authorities said no official message has been received since the second one from Hanoi on the subject, dated April 11, which proposed Warsaw as a meeting location. The first North Vietnamese offer, on April 8, suggested Phnom Penh.

The United States has objected to both Warsaw and Phnom Penh. It wants the talks to be held in a neutral country where there are adequate communications and where the parties involved in the Vietnam conflict have diplomatic accreditation.

The State Department spokesman's remarks appeared to be a follow-up to President Johnson's statement at a diplomatic reception Tuesday that the United States had been in touch with Hanoi again. The message was reportedly routed through Vietnam, the Laotian capital where both countries have embassies.

Asian diplomatic sources see Paris as the likeliest spot for the two sides to agree upon. Neither the United States nor North Vietnam has proposed the French capital as a site so far, but neither has rejected it.

The diplomatic sources noted that Paris is accessible to representatives from both the Communist and non-Communist countries involved in the war.

McCloskey reaffirmed that at this stage the proposed meeting is to be only between U.S. and North Vietnamese emissaries. This is in line with the original announcement concerning direct Washington-Hanoi contacts.

U.S. allies have been anxious not to be left out of negotiations that may develop. The United States has assured its Vietnam partners that they will be consulted and informed on the initial talks and has indicated the allies will be at the conference table should discussions broaden into full-fledged negotiations at a later stage.

At the United Nations, Secretary-General U Thant appealed to the United States and North Vietnam to agree on a site "without further delay." And he called for scaled-down fighting to set a more favorable stage for peace talks.

Gun-Sales Controls Added To Senate's Anticrime Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee voted Wednesday to cement into a broad anticrime bill a section providing tougher federal controls over firearms sales.

But, contrary to President Johnson's recommendations, the new restrictions would not prohibit interstate mail order sales of rifles and shotguns to individuals.

However, they would ban such sales of other firearms, including concealable weapons like pistols and revolvers.

There also would be an outright ban on sales to persons under 21 years of age.

The bill would make it unlawful for any person other than a licensed dealer to transport or receive in his state of residence any firearm other than a rifle or shotgun purchased or otherwise obtained outside his state.

This prohibition is extended to a rifle or shotgun if the purchase of such a weapon would be unlawful in the state where the person resides.

The present firearms act, enacted in 1938, has a similar prohibition. The new bill is designed to make it more enforceable.

Another provision intended to implement state and local firearms controls would make it unlawful for a licensed dealer to deliver any firearm to a person if there were reasonable cause to believe its receipt or possession would be in violation of state or local law.

Under another provision, a person who shipped, transported or received a firearm in interstate commerce with intent to commit a felony would be subject to a $10,000 fine and 10-year imprisonment.

As under present law, mail order sales of firearms or ammunition to fugitives, felons and persons under indictment for certain crimes would be prohibited. The bill goes a step further by applying this ban also to over-the-counter sales.

Abernathy Fears King's Death 1st In Possible Plot

ATLANTA (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Ralph D. Abernathy, successor to the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., said Wednesday he was concerned that King's assassination might have been the work of a conspiracy to kill off civil rights leaders.

"The forces of evil have tried to defeat our movement by killing off our leaders," Abernathy said at a briefing for news media on the Poor People's Campaign in Washington to be held next month.

"The grave concern on my part is that there actually may be a conspiracy in this country to pick off our leaders one by one or three by three," he said.

Since the assassination an armed guard has been posted at the Southern Christian Leadership Conference headquarters here and all the locks have been changed.

Abernathy said that he was not as concerned about the assassin himself "as I am about the climate that made this killer feel he was on a divine mission or carrying out the will of a majority of the people."

20 Per Cent Of Student Body Casts Ballots In Choice '68

An estimated 4,500 students, about 20 per cent of the student body, voted Wednesday in the Choice '68 Presidential Election, according to Gary Musselman, elections board chairman. Musselman also estimated that the largest voting block on campus came from the medical students.

The results, which were sent to Time-Life Inc., in Chicago, will not be known until about May 1. Time-Life sponsored the nationwide student mock vote.

News In Brief

ALSO IN THE NEWS LAST NIGHT:
LONDON — Several hundred more British workers marched on Parliament to demand tighter nonwhite immigration controls, but most of their mates stayed on the job — often with colored men beside them.

DES MOINES — Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. officials said lines, cables and communications equipment have been damaged, apparently deliberately, in five Iowa cities. The company offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone maliciously damaging Northwestern Bell property.

NEWARK, N.J. — Arson investigators arrested a 13-year-old Negro boy and said he admitted setting the fire in the predominantly Negro Central Ward that left 600 persons homeless over the weekend.

TEL AVIV — Gun duels between Israelis and Jordanians broke out across the River Jordan in the Beisan Valley south of the Sea of Galilee.

WASHINGTON — The Russians may have set off an underground nuclear test Wednesday, the Atomic Energy Commission announced.

WASHINGTON — The Space Agency said that the Saturn 5's troubles in the April 4 launch have been tracked down, can be corrected and this may mean the next Saturn 5 flight late this year may be a manned mission. This in turn could give great promise of a landing on the moon by the middle of next year.

Hatred, distrust is cause for continued pessimism coupled with more effort

There have been some signs encouraging optimism about the internal problems of the country since the outbreak of rioting after the murder of Martin Luther King Jr.:

- The rioting was not as severe as many of us expected this summer. Of course, there is an argument that the murder caught the militants who were planning this summer's disorders off guard, so that they were not involved in these most recent disorders.
- There were signs of significant movements by residents in the urban ghettos to stop looting and burning.
- Even some of the ghetto youth gangs have taken action to oppose the rioting. And it is the youth who participate in these gangs who usually are said to be the most militant in opposing the white establishment.
- The white reaction to the rioting seems to have been far more understanding than that following the riots last summer.
- The open housing legislation that had been stalled for weeks in Congress quickly became law after King's assassination.
- Citizen groups have been formed throughout the country to wage a massive assault on racial discrimination in this country and the problems of our urban areas.
- Such movements have been particularly impressive in Iowa City. Six thousand signatures on petitions were obtained in just a few days calling for various types of legislation and increased taxes necessary to pay for the programs called for in the legislation.

About $22,000 has been pledged or collected for a scholarship fund to bring students from minority backgrounds to the University. And this was done with very little organizational effort. For instance the steering committee to administer the scholarships has met only once and has made nothing but very general plans for raising the necessary funds.

Yet this is still no time to pat ourselves on our backs about what has been done. It would be tragic if we became as complacent as we generally were before King's murder and the resulting disorders.

The summer still is ahead of us. And those in the know still are very pessimistic. They continue to predict complete disruption of most major cities and large-scale destruction.

Little has been done to directly attack the hatred and distrust that is behind the problems. But it is this hatred and distrust that will be the most difficult to change. And this is sufficient reason for continued pessimism — coupled with even more effort.

'Heat of the Night' called weakened by Poitier

By NICHOLAS MEYER

To my mind, "In the Heat of the Night" is one of the most unaccountably overrated films of recent months. Placed against the background of a murder mystery, the film is actually a mild plea for tolerance and understanding between the races — in this case between a southern white sheriff (Rod Steiger) and the big city Negro cop (Sidney Poitier) whose help he is forced to enlist in solving a murder beyond the experience of Sparta, Mississippi's backward police department.

"In the Heat of the Night" won five academy awards of which it deserved exactly one, that for Rod Steiger for best actor. For the rest, the story is not really anything approaching a first rate mystery (and why should it be? Adapter Stirling Silliphant was not concerned with the story which was only a feeble excuse to juxtapose the two characters).

The acting, except for Steiger, is competent without being inspired, and Sidney Poitier is downright terrible; the difference between Poitier as a super-detective and Poitier as a super-teacher (in "To Sir With Love") is unnoticeable. The mannerisms, the voice inflections, even the suits are exactly the same. And nothing so siffed as make-up, of course. Why? Poitier has said that until the image of the Negro changes from its sub-human stereotype, he will not undertake any but "good"

Negro roles. These roles, of course, require that the Negro be well-heeled, well spoken and morally correct. It will surprise no one then, when I note that in a new film entitled "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner" Poitier plays exactly the same part. In short, while his decision may be creditable for a man, it completely negates him as a serious actor, especially as his own talent is so highly limited to begin with that he is unable to differentiate the different "good" Negroes he portrays. He is thus a poor antagonist for Rod Steiger — in spite of his nice smile — and he weakens what might have been a film of considerably more interest by refusing to play a more interesting (i.e., less shining white) human being. Too bad. Poitier has come a long way from his heart-warming characterization of Homer the construction worker in "Lilies of the Field" for which he won an Academy Award.

Norman Jewison's direction is hum-drum with some interesting use of color, particularly at night. The performance he got out of Steiger — or more likely, the performance he allowed Steiger room to deliver — is truly stunning and by itself may be said to merit the price of admission. But don't go expecting to see a first class film. This one's heart may be in the right place, but much as one might wish, this doesn't make it art.

Logan poetry reading seen as moment of important calm

By GEOFF HEWITT

For The Daily Iowan

As is often the case, one of the best things that can happen around here is receiving little public attention. Well, contemporary American poetry doesn't deserve much advance notice: James Dick-ey and Rod McKuen and G.L. Sberg draw record audiences — are there others of note on the scene? John Logan is reading his poems in the New Chemistry Auditorium at 3:45 p.m. Friday. "Devoted gangs of students follow him, as if he were the Piper, wherever he happens to be . . . the love is mutual and enduring. Although Logan has mellowed, and fathered nine children, and seems to be on his way to becoming one of the sages of poetry, there remains a deep part of him that remembers and shares in the youth he was." (Paul Carroll, from "The American Poets in Their Skins 1950-67")

Is it evidence of raw creative and energetic political spirit that Iowa City Resist is sponsoring this reading? Whatever, the opportunity will cost us each a dollar, payable at the door. The paradox is that Logan is not a "political" poet. His work largely ignores the stench of elections and war. It rises, as no other contemporary American's can do, above the immediate, the occasional.

"His intellect, lucid and intricate, is one of the best, but he also acutely feels and studies the heart — its obscure gestures, postures, fetishes, its primitive needs — as if it were a damaged text . . ." (Paul Carroll.)

He is intelligent but he is not academic. He is intellectual but he is not stuffy. "If we have a major poet, Logan or Dickey or Lowell is it," a visiting poet said recently. Logan's poems have "range." Each is different, but his voice is equally behind imagistic and lyrical lines. Where Dickey succeeds with the lyric and Lowell with the personal, Log writes both:

So gored a thousands times through the heart and mouth and thigs our earth smells of the death of worlds, for the sulphur dung of Royal Bengal
tigers, the droppings of birds of paradise and thin llamas from the rare plateaus mingle on the local lot with popcorn and the vomit of a dog.
(33 of "The Thirty-three Ring Circus")

Ah son, on the moaning beach Xanthian bitci, on bitch mad with the juice they took from the smeas of mares in rut, ran at you, lifting up their skirts, to cut your manly parts!

For they hoped a poet's blood would fountain in their wombs and make them quick. See, I weep for you my eunuch son, beloved Bellerophon, and up the mound roll back again the gradual rock of my grieving heart.

(from: "Monologues Of The Son Of Saul")

John Logan was born in Red Oak, Iowa. In his three books, "Cycle for Mother Gabrieli," "Ghosts of the Heart," and "Spring of the Thief," one can trace the gradual abandonment of Catholicism in favor of a more secular poetry. At present, Logan has two books ready for publication: a fourth volume of uncollected poems and a selection of poetry from the first four collections. He is the editor of "Choice," poetry editor of "The Nation," and professor of English at the State University of New York at Buffalo.

Perhaps it is Logan's intentionally non-political poetic stance that adds so much significance to this politically-oriented occasion. All poets, by nature of their craft, are anti-destructive. But often the most vehement among these, the "peace" poets, allow the force of their message, the intensity of their frustration, to dominate their work. Perhaps Logan's willingness to appear at a Resist-sponsored affair indicates a new turning in his poetry. Maybe the poems since "Spring of the Thief" incorporate a still different awareness. Those familiar with Logan's poetry regard this appearance as a welcome opportunity to see whether such a new direction has been taken. Whatever the nature of Logan's most recent work, this reading, presented in an atmosphere of political commitment, is a significant statement on the part of the poet, and will provide a moment of important calm for all who can be there.

Playing cat

by Paul Kleinberger

The following is an exercise in philosophy, anthropology, linguistics, acting, sensitivity, thinking in the language and foreign relations.

To do it you need a cat, preferably one you know, who is old enough to be able to see you and young enough to be interested. Your problem is to relate to him as if you were a cat also.

It's not easy, because you're not a cat, as he knows perfectly well. There are physical incongruities. From where you're standing there is only one of him. From where he's standing there are many separate parts of you. (Not that he's unaware of your soul, or the otherwise integrated nature of your extremities. I just mean that you can't sit on his stomach and look into his eyes while he scratches your head and pulls your tail.)

And there are other incongruities. It's at least as much of a challenge as getting a Frenchman to talk to you.

But a field trip in applied comparative anthropology cannot help but be a valuable educational experience. Modern psychology stands in need of a return to the simple art of understanding.

Foreign travelers should train for their trips by playing cat. American diplomats should play Cat. The Marines . . .

Anyone seriously interested in this experiment would do well to try it before reading any further. It's harder to think spontaneously like a cat when one is armed with a lot of analytical ideas of how a cat thinks.

Cat mentality varies a lot from one cat to the next, and I'm really no cat expert, so some of the following may be wrong in individual cases. Still, it should be helpful for an initial self-check.

If you think he's stalking you, you're wrong. Cats stalk only other animals, from dog size on down. They don't normally stalk other cats, even strange ones. (To check the difference between "stalking" and "looking warily at," watch one line up on a bird.)

Hugging is not in the cat vocabulary, although sexy relationships are.

If you think he's seriously fighting you, cat to cat, that's surely wrong. Cats sometimes scratch people to get away from them, but that's not fighting. They attack people only when previously extremely frightened or aroused by an approximately cat-sized threat it would be difficult for a human to simulate. (For comparison, try petting a tom-cat when a strange tom has just jumped in the window.)

They will play-fight other cats or with a good facsimile.

Cats sniff noses. (Like a kiss, it's got to be mutual.)

Cats move forwards or sideways, rarely backwards.

Cats will be warm and lie down together to sleep.

Sleepy cats are charmingly vague about distinguishing between their body and their cat companion's.

Two tests:

If he purrs, that probably means you're not making it as a cat. The ones I've known purr only to people. They purr because they feel petted (physically or otherwise); and petting is not a thing cats do.

If he licks you, if he washes you, you are in.

"Cat" cannot be seriously undertaken only for five or ten minutes. It's probably as complex as French. For a philosopher, though, who knows if it's not as important.

One last thing: If the experiment has worked out badly because you had to force your attentions on a cat who wasn't interested in playing, then you made your first mistake as soon as you started. Cats do not force their attentions on one another.

Grad commends baseball team

To the Editor:

Last year Coach Dick Schultz and his Iowa baseball team did rather poorly in the opening games of the season as well as on the spring trip to Arizona. Therefore, the team elected to call all of these games "practice games" and did not count them as a regular part of the season record. This year the baseball team did rather well in the early games of the season, but the Arizona spring trip was unsuccessful as usual. Consequently, the team has elected to count the first few games in the regular schedule and has designated the games in Arizona as being part of the "practice schedule."

I think the baseball team should be commended for this rather ingenious device. Carried to its logical conclusion we would simply count the games which Iowa wins as being regularly scheduled games and we would count the games which Iowa loses as being "practice games." There is really no good reason why baseball should be the only Iowa sport which divides its varsity competition into two schedules in order to make its record look better. Just think! Using this method even the 1967 Iowa football team could be considered a winner.

Battle over talk site has finally been settled

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — "The trouble with small wars," said my friend, Finsterman, who is in charge of small wars at the State Department, "is that both sides think they have won. We think we've defeated the North Vietnamese and they are sure that they have defeated us. Under these circumstances it's not only difficult to arrive at a peace settlement, it's impossible to agree on a site to even discuss it."

"But didn't we say we'd go anywhere, anytime to discuss peace with Hanoi?"

"Ah, yes, but we didn't say we'd go to Cambodia or Warsaw."

"That's true," I admitted. "We have them there."

"You must keep in mind that we've offered Hanoi the choice of 15 sites and they've only offered us the choice of two."

"It sounds like a body count to me."

"Their two sites have many drawbacks. Warsaw is in a Communist country, and Cambodia is a neutralist nation where, unfortunately, we have no diplomatic relations. In Warsaw, we know it would be much easier for them to bug us than for us to bug them. You can't have a peace conference without reciprocal bugging."

"What's wrong with Cambodia?"

"Besides the fact we have no diplomatic relations there, Cambodia was the first site the North Vietnamese selected, so naturally we had to reject it or it would look as if we were going to the conference table from a position of weakness."

"Why did North Vietnam turn down Geneva?"

"Because that's the first site we suggested. If they accepted our first suggestion it would look as if they were going to the conference table as the defeated party."

"But we must have known that before we suggested Geneva. Why did we suggest it?"

"We had to suggest someplace," Finsterman said. "You see, the trick of these negotiations is for both sides to suggest places because they are sure the other side won't go there. The one you want to go to you never mention and neither do they."

"Paris hasn't been mentioned," I said.

"Exactly. If we offered to meet Hanoi in Paris they would reject it out of hand. If they said they would meet us in Paris we would be hard put to accept it as it would look as though we were bowing to them. Paris makes sense to both sides at the moment because neither one has suggested it as a meeting place."

"You'll have to admit," I said, "that the average person is very confused about the fact that we can't agree on a site to talk. Why couldn't we announce that under no conditions would the United States meet Hanoi in Paris? When they heard that we didn't want to go to Paris they might insist on meeting in Paris and no place else. Wouldn't that resolve the problem?"

"Absolutely not. For one thing, if we announced that we didn't want to go to Paris and then we agreed to meet in Paris, it would be a diplomatic victory for the Communists. Besides, if we met in Paris it would make De Gaulle look very good, which is something we've never prefer to avoid if we possibly could."

"It isn't a question of meeting. The real problem is to meet in good faith. Hanoi has shown bad faith by rejecting the sites we offered for a peace meeting."

"And they say we have shown bad faith by rejecting the sites they have suggested. Who is right?"

"To quote our great secretary of state, it depends on whose side you're on."

"If you had your choice of any site in the world to hold your conference, where would you select?"

"Ambassador Averill Harriman's house in Georgetown. The communications are excellent, the food is good and everyone knows that Georgetown is absolutely neutral, in word, thought and deed."

Readers won't pay bill

To the Editor:

In light of the current strike of the Communication Workers of America (AFL-CIO) against Bell Telephone Co. and its subsidiaries, I have written to T.H. Magnusson, manager of Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. in Iowa City, informing him that I would be unable to pay my current telephone bill for as long as the strike lasts.

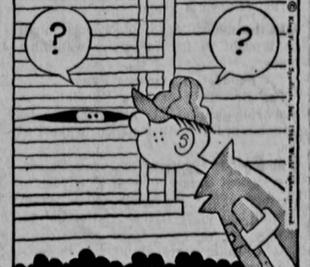

I would urge all students, whose ties to the working people of the United States are stronger than may at all times appear obvious, and all faculty members and staff members of the University, who are themselves workers, to likewise withhold their current telephone bill payments and inform the telephone company of their intentions, in support of the CWA strikers.

Cheerleading Tryout Date Set

Tryouts for the 1968-69 University Hawkeye Cheerleading squad will be held May 2 in the Field House North Gym.

Pam Childs, A3, Dekalb, Ill., cheerleader captain, said that before tryouts there would be a clinic beginning Monday and ending Wednesday.

Miss Childs said some basic cheerleading skills, including the Iowa fight song, double stunts and some gymnastics, would be taught at the clinic. She said no gymnastics would be required for tryouts.

Judges for tryouts will be Roger Augustine, associate dean of students, Sam Baile, Iowa Gymnastics coach, Kathleen Miller, girls' physical education instructor, and graduating senior cheerleaders.

A STUDY IN CONTRASTS — Peter, Paul and Mary will present a concert at 8 p.m. Saturday, May 4, in the Field House.

The folk singing trio's first appearance in Iowa City is being sponsored by the Central Party Committee. Tickets will go on sale this Saturday.

Peter, Paul, Mary Concert To Combine History, Honesty

A short musical course combining history, optimism and honesty will be offered at 8 p.m. May 4 in the Field House.

Registration fee for the course, which will be taught by Peter Yarrow, Paul Stookey and Mary Travers, better known as Peter, Paul and Mary, is $3.50 or $3.00 per person.

The Central Party Committee will begin selling tickets at 8 a.m. Saturday at the Field House Box Office. Those wishing to purchase $3.00 balcony seats should use the north entrance. The $3.50 tickets, for main floor and bleacher seats, will be sold inside the south entrance. Ticket sales will be moved to the Union Box Office on Monday.

Field House doors will open at 6:30 p.m. the night of the performance.

Peter, Paul and Mary agree that although there is no clear-cut definition of a folk song, they have three elements in common. A folk song tells you about the time and place in which it was born; it is never totally negative and nihilistic and a folk song is honest. These three things are present in each of their songs.

In May, 1961, New York folk singer Yarrow joined Stookey and Miss Travers, who were already singing together. They sang "Mary Had a Little Lamb," the only one to which they all knew the lyrics and melody.

After months of rehearsal they began appearing in night clubs and concerts around the world. They released their first recording, "This Train," arranged by Yarrow, during these months. By 1962 Peter, Paul and Mary had been acclaimed as leaders in the American folk movement.

Peter Yarrow, sometimes called the "straightman" of the group, is its only unmarried member. Although he showed interest and promise in music and art, he majored in physics at Cornell University and received a degree in psychology from there.

Stookey, married and father of a little girl, composed "Rain, Rain," "Early in the Morning" and other songs for the group. He is bookkeeper for the group.

Mary Travers has sung folk music since she was five years old. Foreign folk music was a means of communication between herself and a non-English-speaking step brother and sister.

She is now married to a freelance photographer and has a nine year old daughter.

THEY DON'T MAKE THEM LIKE THEY USED TO — This is how the new fence at Iowa's baseball field looked Wednesday after brisk winds took their toll Tuesday night. The strong spring winds have hampered attempts to put stronger braces on the fence, according to Assistant Athletic Director Bob Flora, but the new barrier and the Hawks' new scoreboard will be ready for the next Iowa home game next Tuesday. Members of Iowa's 8-1 baseball team conduct a chilly afternoon workout in the background.

Sports—Facts and Facets

Compiled By JOHN HARMON
Sports Editor

It took a little more than a huff and a puff, but the new baseball fence at Iowa Field, installed just last week, blew down during Tuesday's wind storm. Robert Flora, assistant director of athletics at Iowa, said the fence wasn't braced properly to withstand such heavy winds.

A portion of the fence had already blown down during Friday's rainstorm. Attempts to install proper bases for it will have to be delayed until the brisk Iowa spring winds calm.

Flora said, however, that the fence, plus the new scoreboard in left-center field will be ready for the Hawkeyes' next home game against Central next Tuesday.

Although Iowa's fencing schedule has been completed, four Hawkeyes, including Coach Cap Hermann, are continuing competition in hopes of reaching the national meet in Miami, Fla., June 21-28.

Hermann and Hawkeye fencers John Schweppe and Karl Lunekas, competing as the Iowa City Fencing Club, competed in the state meet in Fairfield last weekend and they all qualified for the sectional meet in Milwaukee May 11 and 12.

Lunekas compiled a 4-0 record in sabre, Schweppe was 7-0 and Hermann 4-2 in epee and Hermann was 4-0 in foil.

Hawkeye foil specialist George Bergeman had already compiled enough points to qualify for the sectionals, so he did not have to participate in the Fairfield meet.

Fencers will have an opportunity to collect Olympic points in the sectional and national meets, according to Hermann, who presently has seven Olympic points and ranks about 20th in the nation. Only three regulars and three alternates are chosen for the Olympic team.

It was a busy weekend for Hermann since he competed in an international meet in New York City Saturday and had to fly back that night in order to compete in the state meet Sunday.

Hermann didn't place in the international meet, but said it was the best competition he had ever faced. Ed Richard, a 1964 Olympic performer, was one of the fencers to beat the Iowa coach in early round-robin competition.

Rich Mihal, the Big 10 160-pound champion from Cedar Rapids, and 137-pound Joe Carstensen have been re-elected as captains of Iowa's wrestling team for the 1969 season.

Iowa Athletic Director Forest Evashevski has announced that Sam Williams will receive the Chicago Tribune Silver Basketball Award for being selected the Big 10's most valuable player at Iowa's annual intrasquad game May 18.

Williams, who set Iowa season records for most points — 632, most field goals — 219 and most free throws — 194, is the third Hawkeye to win the award, which began in 1946. Murray Wier won it in 1948 and Chuck Darling in 1952.

Iowa scored 78 points to win the college division of the Iowa State High School and College Women's Swim meet in Des Moines over the weekend. Iowa State was second with 53 points and Marycrest third with 34.

Members of the Iowa team are freshmen Beth Conklin, Deborah Neff, Mary Vollersten, Sue Greene and Anne Herrick, sophomores Nancy Boettcher and Stephanie Nissen and junior Becky Shotwell.

Robert F. Ray, dean of the extension division, will be in Denver, Colo., this weekend for the annual spring meeting of the Executive Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA).

The 10-man executive committee governs the financial affairs of the NCAA and supervises conduct of its 23 national collegiate and national college division championships.

Ray, a former NCAA president, is currently a member of the NCAA Committee for the Advancement of Intercollegiate Football, the Theodore Roosevelt Award Committee and a special committee to study the trampoline event in college gymnastics.

How to tap a keg
(and tie into the best reason in the world to drink beer)

- 1 Pick up a half-barrel of Bud* (good for about 245 12-ounce cups ... with foam) and the tapping equipment on the day of the party. Just set the beer in a tub of ice to keep it cold.
- 2 Just before the party begins, tap your beer. First, make sure the beer faucet is closed (you wouldn't want to waste a drop of Beechwood Aged Bud!). Then, insert the faucet-and-pump unit into the upper valve of the keg, give it a quarter turn clockwise, and lock it in place by tightening the lower wing nut.
- 3 Next, insert the lager tap in the lower valve of the keg and give it a quarter turn. Now, set the keg upright in a tub and pack ice around it.
- 4 You're now ready to draw beer. Pump pressure to the proper point for good draw, usually about 15 lbs. That's all there is to it, but there's no rule against sampling just to make sure everything is perfect. Ahhhhh! It's no wonder you'll find more taverns with the famous "Bud on Draught" sign than any other!

Brundage Confirms Ousting Of South African Delegation

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Avery Brundage confirmed Wednesday that South Africa is out of the Mexico City Olympics. The American president of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) said there were more than enough votes to keep South African athletes home. And, in a statement, he said the IOC's executive board had feared there would be "actual danger if a South African team appeared at the Games." Brundage said that with 54 of the 71 votes cast, 41 IOC members had approved the board's recommendation to withdraw the invitation to South Africa to participate in the Oct. 12-27 Games. Thirteen members voted in favor of South Africa. Only a simple majority of 36 votes was required to bar South Africa. South Africa, barred from the Olympics in 1963 for its racial segregation policies, was reinstated when the nation's Olympic Committee pledged to send a multiracial team to the 1968 Olympics. A storm of protest followed. More than 40 nations, most of them from Africa, said they would boycott the games.

Slumps Hit Baseball Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Wynn, the man who hit 37 homers and knocked in 107 runs last year, is riding the bench at Houston. Tommie Agee, the man the New York Mets had to have, is sitting with an 0 for 26 streak and a .119 batting average. Deron Johnson, supposed to solve Atlanta's first base problems, is hitting only .114 and Tommie Aaron has replaced him. Bob Bailey is watching while Luis Alcaarez holds down third base for the Los Angeles Dodgers. Gil Hodges, the manager of the Mets, has been resting Agee in the last three games. He expects to return the ex-White Sox outfielder to the lineup Friday night in Cincinnati. Ironically, Don Bosch, who flopped last year, has been playing center for Agee. Wynn Moves Over Wynn, moved out of his old center field job in Houston to make room for Ron Davis, took extra batting practice Tuesday at Shea Stadium from Harry Walker, the Astros' special hitting instructor. Wynn has only three hits, all singles, in 35 trips, only one RBI and is hitting .086. Among the more startling statistics is a little item in the Houston figures: the Astros' catchers have thrown out only one base-stealer in 15 attempts. Obviously, the runners have been giving rookie Hal King a bad time. Grady Hatton, Houston manager, switched to John Bateman against the Mets. There were five stolen bases against the Astros in one game but then there were five against Boston the other day when Gene Oliver was catching. ANNOUNCERS CHOSEN— NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Christman, former Missouri great, and Lenny Moore, for the past 12 years a member of the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League, will be analysts of NFL games for CBS, the television network said Wednesday.

Golf Greats Gather Today For Byron Nelson Classic

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — What may be the greatest gathering of big name golfers — many of them coming to pay tribute to one of their own — will move out today in the opening round of the $100,000 Byron Nelson Classic.

A limping Arnold Palmer, the greatest money-winner of all time, will play despite a painful hip injury. It's all because of Nelson, the fabled Texas golf great of the 40s, who is being honored by having the tournament named for him and who was given a $25 a plate testimonial dinner.

Eleven of the twelve top money winners of golf history, led by the great Palmer, with Billy Casper No. 2 are in the field. The missing one is Tony Lema, killed in a plane crash last year.

The 13th, Ben Hogan, had to withdraw because of an injured knee, but the 14th and 15th are here — Bob Goalby and Don January.

There are 74 players who have won PGA tournaments and Jack Fithell, PGA tournament director, said no other tournament could make that statement.

There are more than 50 from the top 60 money-winners of the year. But Casper is the only tournament winner this year since George Knudson had to return to Canada under his visa.

Gary Player, one of the big names in the field, said it was one of the toughest golf courses he ever had played.

Flood Credits 'Relaxation' For Hot Bat

ST. LOUIS (AP) — His name is Curt Flood. He is 30 years old, weighs 160 pounds and stands 5-feet 9-inches tall. He plays center field for the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals.

But his bat is the story of Flood during the first 12 games of the 1968 season. Through Tuesday night's 4-2 victory over Cincinnati, Flood had scored in each game and he led the National League in runs scored (15) batting (.396) and hits (21) for the first-place Redbirds.

"I'm a little more relaxed, more confident at the plate," Flood said Wednesday as he discussed his 1968 start. "Fifty per cent of hitting is being able to relax because your body doesn't operate when you're tight. Maybe it just takes 10 years of doing the same thing over and over."

Flood Strikes
Except for 1966, Flood has hit better than .300 every year since 1963. His .335 average last year was the highest mark in his 10-year career.

"It took me five years to learn I'm not a home run hitter, and that's the hardest thing in the world for a baseball player to tell himself," Flood continued. "It's a blow to your ego. You have to tell yourself you're not as big, and strong as the next guy. It hits at your masculinity, your manhood."

"Baseball is hard," Flood added, "and the only fun is when you win. Winning makes it all worthwhile. And the World Series is the topper . . . It's the climax to all your efforts since you began."

Flood Liked Winning
"There can't be a greater thrill in baseball except to do it again. I look back over last year, when we won the pennant and see all the elements, all the components were there. But even over that you have to see how hard these guys worked. So that's what you have to look back at."

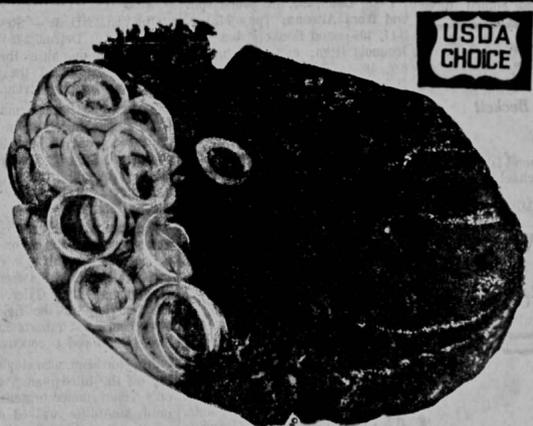

"I couldn't allow myself to fall into a complacent attitude. I enjoy winning too much — or maybe it's that I'm such a lousy loser. I don't believe any of those cliches about being a good loser."

Kerr Quits Bulls, Joins New Team

CHICAGO (AP) — John "Red" Kerr, unhappy after two coaching seasons with the Chicago Bulls, was given a three-year contract and a salary increase Wednesday to coach the new Phoenix entry in the National Basketball Association.

Bulls owner Dick Klein, with whom Kerr had some differences, said the 6-8 former NBA player star was excused from the one remaining year of his Chicago contract.

Kerr's signing was announced at Phoenix Tuesday night.

16 High School Prospects Sign Hawkeye Grid Tenders

Sixteen more prep football prospects, including three All-America selections, have signed Iowa tenders. Coach Ray Nagel announced Wednesday.

Heading the latest list of Hawkeye recruits are Levi Mitchell, a 5-9, 180-pound tailback from Froebel High School, Gary, Ind., Bill Windauer, 6-4, 240-pound lineman from Chicago Mendel and Steve Penny, a 6-2, 200-pound halfback from Geneseo.

All three players were chosen to first-team all-state and All-America teams.

Other Illinois prospects to sign Iowa tenders were:

Carl Calandra, 6-1, 230-pound interior lineman from Chicago Weber; Mike Crivello, 6-3, 215-pound quarterback from Alton; Pat Hendron, 6-2, 190-pound tailback from Chicago Heights Marian Catholic; and Lorin Lynch, 6-2, 220-pound guard from Joliet West.

Also, Frank Werkau, 6-2, 225-pound fullback and linebacker from Springfield Lamphier High School; Denny Young, 6-2, 225-pound center from Chicago Brother Rice High; and Ken Herington, 6-3, 220-pound lineman from Ottawa; and Tom Wanat, 6-1, 225-pound tackle from Chicago Weber.

Nagel has also signed three prospects from Pennsylvania and two from Ohio.

Don Osby, a 6-2, 185-pound halfback, is one of a long line of Hawkeye football players to hail from Steubenville, Ohio. Osby was named to the all-district, all-eastern Ohio and all-Ohio honor teams. Iowa end Coach Frank Gilliam is one of many Steubenville athletes to come to Iowa.

Also from Ohio is Craig Clemens, 6-0, 190-pounds, from Central High School in Piqua. Clemens was a member of the All-Ohio football team.

The three Pennsylvania athletes are:

Doug Dean, 6-2, 185-pound split end from Altoona; Tony Mayor, 5-11, 185-pound flanker from Erie Iroquois High; and Al Schaefer, 6-0, 185-pound quarterback from Baldwin.

Hargan Blanks Tigers
 CLEVELAND (AP) — Steve Hargan shut out Detroit 2-0 Wednesday night on one hit as the Cleveland Indians ended the Tigers' nine-game winning string.

Hargan and Joe Sparma waged a tight pitching duel in windy, 38-degree weather, and the only run of the first six innings came on a throwing error by second baseman Dick McAuliffe in the second inning.

Hargan himself scored the Tribe's second run after getting a triple as a result of a collision in short left field between Willie Horton and Ray Oyler. Horton was carried off the field on a stretcher. First reports said that Horton suffered a concussion.

Jim Northrup, who singled leading off the third inning, was the only Tiger runner to get on base until McAuliffe walked to lead off the seventh.

A pickoff play and a double play erased these two runners.

Watt Saves Orioles
 ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Pitcher Jim Hardin tripled home two runs in the sixth inning to break a tie but needed relief help from Eddie Watt to give Baltimore a 7-3 victory over Minnesota Wednesday.

Watt relieved in the last of the sixth and got the Orioles out of a bases-loaded jam by uncorking what would have been a wild pitch had it not been for a lucky bounce.

Watt's 2-2 pitch to Cesar Torvito to the backstop. The Twins' Ted Uhlaender appeared to be able to score easily from third, but the ball took a hard bounce off the backstop right to catcher Elrod Hendricks who had an easy putout.

The Twins could mount nothing serious against Watt the rest of the way as he protected Hardin's second victory.

Baltimore tore into Dean Chance for seven hits and six of its runs in the first six innings, the Oriole attack against the Twins' 20-game winner of 1967 being capped by Hardin's triple.

Cold weather held the crowd to 2,011, one of the lowest on record for Minnesota. Temperature at game time was 37, and it rose to only 42 during the game.

Hawkins Helps Lakers' Triumph

BOSTON (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers led by old pros Jerry West and Elgin Baylor, got help from unheralded Tom Hawkins and overpowered the Boston Celtics 123-113 Wednesday night, squaring their showdown for the National Basketball Association championship.

The victory sent the Lakers home all even with the third game of the best-of-seven series set for Los Angeles Friday night.

West connected for 35 points. Baylor contributed 23, while Hawkins, coming through in the clutch, hit for 19.

Bowen Discusses Better Health Care

Better health care for Iowans would require a recognition that basic changes have occurred and that mere increases in the supply of doctors would not solve all health problems, Pres. Howard R. Bowen said Wednesday.

"Once this is understood, then the way is cleared for community-wide planning that will produce a viable solution," Bowen told some 150 representatives of Iowa hospitals attending the second annual Iowa Cancer Programs Symposium at the University.

Bowen said there is no "single solution" to problems brought by increasing demands for health services, increasing costs, uneven geographical distribution of health services and inefficient allocation of efforts in health care.

Not Peculiar To Iowa

Geographical imbalance of health services is not peculiar to Iowa or to the United States but is world-wide, Bowen said. "In rural areas and urban ghettos, health care is not as readily accessible as in upper income urban areas."

He said he did not believe that it was possible to attract doctors to smaller towns under traditional conditions of practice there, but that health care service for rural areas could be provided if conditions of practice are changed.

Calling for leadership in rural areas to help develop plans for solving rural health problems, Bowen said such plans "may involve the creation of regional health care centers with transportation systems not unlike that used by University Hospitals. They may also involve establishment of convenient dispensaries in smaller towns or open country."

Resources Available

Bowen emphasized that the entire resources of the University and the Iowa Regional Medical Program, which has headquarters at the University, were available to help in planning and implementing program to improve health care.

The University, he noted, is increasing the number of health professionals being trained and "is preparing to expand dramatically the number of graduates from our many programs," when new facilities are completed.

He said he felt the present program of expansion at the University was adequate to meet Iowa's obligations toward the nation's supply of physicians without building another medical school in the state.

Although not all graduates from University health programs will stay in Iowa, he said, health education programs are also expanding in other states and Iowa should benefit from those programs.

Bowen said Iowa should continue to attract physicians, dentists, and other health professionals from other states as it has in the past "provided the conditions of practice in Iowa are attractive."

Conditions Cited

"Each community must consider whether it can offer the aspiring young physician and dentist the conditions in which he can narrow the gap between advancing science and technology and a less rapidly advancing standard of health care."

In addition to describing expanding enrollment in the health professions at the University, Bowen outlined objectives of other University-based programs which help to meet the health needs in Iowa.

These include the Iowa Regional Medical Program, the Program in Health Occupations Education, continuing education programs in health professions, and research and service aspects of the Health Center.

Bowen spoke at a dinner meeting of the symposium sponsored by the Iowa Central Tumor Registry at the University, which assists participating Iowa hospitals by storing, tabulating, and analyzing by computer methods information about their cancer patients.

Army Acts To Halt GI Marijuana Use

LONG BINH, Vietnam (AP) — Of the 342,000 U.S. Army soldiers in South Vietnam, about 1,300 a year are found using or possessing marijuana, says a U.S. army personnel officer.

The officer, Col. Richard A. Edwards Jr., deputy chief of staff of the U.S. Army in Vietnam, said marijuana smoking was now the second most widespread offense among soldiers. Larceny is the most frequent offense.

The marijuana figures do not include personnel of the Marines, Navy or Air Force.

Marijuana is refined from the dried leaves and flowering tops of hemp. The plant grows profusely throughout Vietnam and is available to GIs through outlets ranging from bars and houses of prostitution to sidewalk magazine stands and pedicabs.

"It is very difficult, I would say impossible, to cut off this supply," Edwards said, "but we are taking steps."

Marijuana Squad Formed

Foremost among these steps is a Marijuana Suppression Squad that the Army has formed in conjunction with South Vietnamese government authorities.

Members of the squad are chosen from military police ranks. Those selected have had experience and training in and out of the service in narcotics and marijuana work.

"We know that some opium den operators sell marijuana to troops — mostly to help maintain their own habits — but so far we have not discovered any organization," Edwards said.

Edwards said that the effects of marijuana smoking on a soldier were basically similar to drinking.

A lesson plan on marijuana prepared by the U.S. chaplain's office stated: "The marijuana user with his dulled reflexes, poor judgment and desire for excitement is a hazard to any combat unit. His unpredictable action can easily create a situation where a number of men could be killed or wounded."

Marijuana Might Allay Fears

On the other hand, Edwards said, because an individual's fears might be allayed by marijuana, he might feel more prone to engage in battle.

Although one of the major arguments against marijuana smoking is that it may lead to more serious drug habits, the Army finds only a handful of narcotics cases among troops in Vietnam.

"We had 12 cases in 1967 and just one so far this year — all of them some form of opium," he said.

Most cases were possession, either of the drug, an opium pipe, or a hypodermic needle.

Punishment for marijuana smoking or possession in the army is personal handling by a man's commanding officer or a general court-martial.

"The initial decision is made by the commanding officer," Edwards said. "If he feels this is a man's first offense, that he's generally a good soldier, and that he was just curious about the thing, he would probably handle the case under Article 15."

Officer Could Punish

Under this article of the Uniform Code of Military Justice, Edwards explained, a commanding officer could designate a punishment, perhaps a reprimand, confinement to base for a given period, or forfeiture of pay.

If the case appeared more serious, the commanding officer would recommend a court-martial — summary, special or general.

Edwards said in 1967 four men were discharged on marijuana charges following court-martial and in 1968, one man had been discharged.

Edwards emphasized that this did not necessarily mean the men had received dishonorable discharges.

"They were not necessarily punitive," he said. "They could have been administrative."

An administrative discharge could mean that a man was listed as "undesirable" and his discharge would not list the cause.

DEVELOPMENT INCREASES—DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Development Commission reported Monday that 73 new plants or industries were started during the first three months of this year, compared with 34 in the first quarter of 1967.

Mayflower Living To Alter In Fall

New arrangements governing student residency at the privately-owned Mayflower Hall were announced Wednesday by M. L. Huit, dean of students. Mayflower will be divided operationally into a north wing and a south wing, Huit said. The north wing will consist of approved housing for single undergraduate students under 21, with women on three floors and men on three floors. The south wing will house students over 21, faculty and staff members.

The south wing will not be approved housing. The new wing division will go into effect in September.

Since the opening of the Mayflower last year, the University has required women to live in the south wing and men to live in the north wing. This was done to insure the Mayflower's approved housing status by the University.

According to the plans, two elevators in the north wing will be separately programmed. One would stop only at men's floors and the other only at women's floors. Other requirements for the north wing would be the same as other University approved housing.

Requirements for the south wing include stipulations that only University students, faculty and other full-time staff members may occupy the wing that the Mayflower must employ a supervisor for each floor of the south wing.

Groppi Exhorts Religion To Rid Itself Of Racism

By DENNIS BATES
DAVENPORT — "I was standing on the porch of St. Boniface, smoking a cigarette, watching a group of kids tear up a police car; and all I could think was, 'Don't get caught; oh God, don't get caught.'" The young, gentle-looking priest stood straight up not taking his eyes from an audience of nuns, priests and laymen as he described the way he became interested in civil rights. He smiled slightly, adding, "And they didn't either."

The Rev. James E. Groppi, the Milwaukee priest who has been the leader of almost a year of continuous civil rights demonstrations in behalf of open housing legislation in Milwaukee, spoke here Tuesday upon receiving the 1968 Pacem in Terris Peace and Freedom Award. The Davenport Catholic Interracial Council Award went to Groppi because, as the citations read, "In a fearless fashion, against considerable odds, he has exemplified in his ministry the convictions of the late, beloved Pope John who insists that... the dignity of the human person involves the right to take an active part in public affairs and to contribute one's part to the common good of the citizens."

Kennedy, King Won Before
Previous recipients of the award have been President John F. Kennedy, the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, the slain civil rights leader whose theories of nonviolence Groppi advocates, and John H. Griffin.

Griffin, a Catholic author who wrote "Black Like Me," presented the award to Groppi. "The approach religion must have towards racism is to throw out the whole darn thing," Groppi declared during his brief comments.

"If that means we have to get rid of some of our sisters, some of our priests, and some of our lay people, that's fine — they should never have been there in the first place."

Groppi spoke sarcastically about the good sisters who refused to let black children out of the classrooms to participate in the issues that involved them.

"It's good to teach them black history, but this is black history we are involved in," he pleaded. He also condemned the church in general.

"The church cannot run away from the racial problem. It is involved through its involvement. When we talk about brotherhood, we never talk about the black man — that's imprudent. Someone might not put money in the collection plate."

Groppi said that progress in racial areas can only come by getting to know the black man. He said that the people who make him the angriest are the people who teach and preach in the black community, but don't know the people in the black community.

A member of the Commandos, a Milwaukee Negro youth organization formed by Groppi, sat next to him throughout the speech. Groppi turned to him and pointed to several other members of the group, who were sitting in the audience.

"We've all been in jail. It's a mark of distinction to us," he boasted.

Dressed in traditional priest's garb, Groppi spoke loudly in favor of nonviolence. He said that he hoped the movement would turn back to King's principles. Then Groppi lowered his voice and said:

"But it is dishonest to tell the black man that he must use non-violence. If nonviolence means don't work, and so far they haven't."

Groppi spoke both violently and peacefully. It was almost as if his collar seemed to restrict him at times. He spoke of the "corrupt system" in America, white bigotry, and religious failures. There were times when the priests in the audience applauded, and there were times when they were silent as a church on Monday morning.

MIT's Computer Plays At Blocks, Can 'See, Feel'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A system with sufficient artificial intelligence to recognize blocks and assemble them without step-by-step instructions from an operator has been developed at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

A computer, television camera and mechanical arm are combined to make the system, which can visually perceive blocks, determine their size and location and stack them into a tower.

It also can sort blocks by size into separate stacks. The system was developed as part of a research program to give machines greater flexibility by the ability to see their work, and create machines with various visual abilities and manual dexterity.

Eagle Discount Pricing Is Not A Game

EAGLE WON'T PLAY GAMES WITH YOUR FOOD DOLLAR!

Everybody Wins At Eagle, and the reason is simply this . . . Eagle's Discount Pricing Policy maintains that everyday low prices will be in effect 365 days a year and a customer need not rely on weekend specials, loss leaders, or other bait advertising, but may shop and save any day she chooses.

The homemaker who shops Eagle knows her Arithmetic . . . she knows stores that offer cash prizes and free merchandise or sell a few fast moving specials at cost to a few customers make up the loss by passing the costs on to all their customers. At Eagle there are no stamps, no games, or gimmicks. Shop Eagle and save 5% to 15% or more on your total food bill.
