4 Nabbed On Drug Charges

and Anthony H. Borg (in car), 21. All three are being held in Johnson County Jail in lieu of $2,500 bond. A fourth suspect, Dale E. Two University students and two Iowa City men were arrested on drug charges Thursday afternoon in coordinated raids by Iowa City police and Federal Bureau of Drug Abuse and Control agents.

Dale E. Repp III, A1, Cedar Rapids, was charged by federal agents with sale of controlled drugs, according to federal agents. He appeared before Iowa City Police Court Judge Marion Neely, who acted as a federal commissioner, Thursday afternoon. Neely set bond at $5,000.

Thursday night, Repp was being held in the Polk County Jail in Des Moines.

David R. Leshtz, A3, Highland Park, Ill., who lives at 103 1/2 S. Clinton St.; Steven M. Siegel, 23, 814 N. Dodge St.; and Anthony H. Borg, 21, 814 N. Dodge St., were charged by Iowa City police with possession of marijuana.

Borg was also charged with possession of a stimulant or depressant drug.

They appeared before Neely in Police Court Thursday evening. Neely set bond at $2,500 for each person and continued each case until Tuesday.

Thursday night Leshtz, Siegel and Borg were being held in the Johnson County Jail.

All four were arrested about 2 p.m. Thursday in a coordinated raid on five locations by 19 Iowa City policemen, two federal agents, and two Campus Security officers.

Federal agents took Repp into custody in his room at Quadrangle Dormitory. Leshtz, Siegel and Borg were found in their apartments and arrested by Iowa City police. An undisclosed quantity of drugs was found in the apartments, police said.

Other locations raided by police were apartments at 630 S. Governor St. and 310 S. Capitol St. No drugs were found at those locations, however, and no arrests were made.

Authorities said that a quantity of LSD, marijuana and other drugs were found in a blue flight bag in Repp's room in Quadrangle.

The raid was the culmination of investigations by Iowa City police, Coralville police, Johnson County Sheriff's Department, State Narcotics Bureau and the Federal Bureau of Drug Abuse and Control.

According to Iowa City Police Detective L. Charles Snider, investigations relating to this raid had been under way since March 1.

Detective Sgt. Donald Strand said that he thought that the persons arrested in these raids may have been some of the ringleaders of drugs at the University.

Political Scene At A Glance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In Thursday's political news:

McCarthy — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, seeking Indiana support in his quest for the Democratic presidential nomination, said that state's May 7 primary will be the most difficult thus far for the voters. The Minnesota said this is true because it's a three-way race also involving Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and Indiana Gov. Roger D. Branigin, running as a favorite stand-in for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Kennedy — The New York senator promised Indiana voters to "stop talking about crime and begin doing something about it" if elected president.

Nixon — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, only avowed major candidate for the Republican nomination, told a cheering audience in Oregon lumber country, "If we continue the irresponsible handling of money in Washington, interest rates will go up and the housing and lumber industries will continue to go down."

Humphrey — The still unannounced candidate for his party's nomination spoke in Mississippi and Tennessee, pledging to carry the record of the John Kennedy and Johnson administrations "to every American who will listen."

Rockefeller — Two political scouts trying to promote a Republican draft for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller began a Midwestern swing at Minneapolis. Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, appearing with former Rep. William Miller of New York, the party's 1964 vice presidential nominee, told a news conference the Republicans must have an open convention. He argued it would even benefit the front-running Nixon.

Wallace — George C. Wallace, segregationist former governor of Alabama, carried his third-party campaign into Texas stressing the theme "We give you a choice."

U.S., North Viet Aides Confer On Talk Sites

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. and North Vietnamese representatives met again Thursday in Laos without coming to agreement on a site for preliminary peace talks.

But the fact that the North Vietnamese charge d'affaires in Vientiane, the Laotian capital, invited the U.S. ambassador over for a 30-minute chat was seen here as a sign of Communist interest in breaking the deadlock.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey predicted Thursday that "in a very short time a place will be agreed upon for the preliminary talks."

Humphrey, speaking at Oxford, Miss., forecast success for peace negotiations, provided both sides have the will for a peaceful solution.

It has been more than three weeks since Washington and Hanoi first publicly proclaimed their readiness for direct talks. But so far the opposing sides have bogged down in argument over where their special envoys should meet.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey confirmed an Associated Press report from Vientiane that U.S. Ambassador William Sullivan went to the North Vietnamese embassy to see Hanoi's top diplomat there, Nguyen Chan.

The State Department spokesman added that "there is no agreement yet on the site," and he declined further comment on the exchange.

Washington has proposed 15 Asian and European capitals as possible locations for talks to determine whether peace negotiations are possible. Hanoi has declined to budge thus far from its proposal that the envoys meet in Phnom Penh, capital of Cambodia, or Warsaw, capital of Communist Poland.

U.S. authorities here said North Vietnam regarded the location of the proposed talks as an important issue and it was mounting diplomatic pressure for Warsaw as a place agreeable to Hanoi and painful to Washington.

Committee Urges Spring Vacation In Mid-Semester

A student-faculty committee has recommended to Pres. Howard R. Bowen that spring recess at the University come in the middle of the spring semester without regard to the date of Easter. Presently the University spring vacation is an Easter recess.

The Council on Teaching has recommended that, beginning in 1969, a spring break be taken in the ninth week of the 17-week semester.

Philip G. Hubbard, chairman of the committee and dean of academic affairs, said the recommended new policy results from consultations with students and other interested parties on the campus. The suggested new policy does not lengthen the recess period — which would remain at one full week of classes — but it does insure that the break comes in the middle of the semester when, Hubbard said, a rest is most needed and beneficial.

The council, at the suggestion of the Committee on Human Rights, also has recommended that the dates of the Jewish holidays Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur be entered on University wall and desk calendars as are Christmas, Good Friday, and Easter.

If the new proposal for spring recess is adopted, the schedule for the next two years would be: 1969 — from 10 p.m. Friday, April 4, to 7:30 a.m. Monday, April 14; 1970 — from 10 p.m. Friday, March 27 to 7:30 a.m. Monday, April 6. Classes which meet on Saturday only would meet on the first Saturday following the start of each period, but not on the second Saturday.

Senate Unit OKs Federal Building For Iowa City

The Senate Public Works Committee Thursday approved preliminary plans for a $4.7 million federal building in Iowa City.

The approval was announced by Rep. Fred Schwengel (R-Iowa). Schwengel is a member of the House public buildings and grounds subcommittee, which will consider the plans.

Schwengel said he was confident that the building plans would be approved by Congress.

The new building would provide space for a post office and other federal government offices that now lease space in Iowa City.

"The post office has outgrown its space and has been renting space for a number of years now," Russell Ross, professor of political science, said. "Five or six other federal agencies are also renting space and a new building would put them all under one roof." Ross said he had discussed the need for a federal building with Schwengel.

One suggestion for a site for the new building has been on Washington Street across from the Civic Center. This is only a suggestion and no site or date for construction to begin have been decided, Ross said.

Ball Named Successor To Retiring Goldberg

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson disclosed Thursday the long-anticipated resignation of Arthur J. Goldberg as ambassador to the United Nations and announced a surprise successor: former Undersecretary of State George W. Ball.

Goldberg, a former labor lawyer who has held high federal posts since the first day of the John F. Kennedy administration, had made no secret recently of his desire to return to private life.

Goldberg said Thursday that he was quitting his job as chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations because he believed he could do more for Vietnam peace as a private citizen.

Possibilities Limited
The 59-year-old ambassador did not elaborate, but he indicated that the burdens of his office limited his possibilities. He was careful, however, to avoid any criticism of U.S. policies on Vietnam and, he praised the March 31 decision of President Johnson to order a partial halt in the bombing of North Vietnam.

Advance speculation about a successor did not touch the 58-year-old Ball, who resigned as No. 2 man in the State Department nearly two years ago to return to law practice.

Johnson, announcing the U.N. shift at a brief news conference in his office, described Ball as a distinguished public servant "who serves me unofficially in many advisory capacities at the present time."

When Ball left the government in 1966, he was widely regarded as more "dovish" on Vietnamese policy than Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Will Stay Until June

The President, who said he accepted Goldberg's resignation with regret, said the former secretary of labor and Supreme Court justice probably would remain at the U.N. until early June "while certain matters that he now has underway are being handled and disposed of."

He said Goldberg is leaving for personal reasons — Johnson did not specify them — but "would be available to the government to consult and help out with any problems that we might feel he was equipped to help us handle."

Ball, an Iowa native who practiced law in Chicago for many years, was a close associate of the late Adlai E. Stevenson, whom Goldberg succeeded at the United Nations in 1965.

2 Students Ask Universities To End Sanction Of Greeks

By SANDY H. NISCH

Two University students Thursday asked for the end of sanction of the Greek system. The request was made in a brief sent to the presidents of the three state universities, the State Board of Regents, The Daily Iowan and newspapers throughout the state.

The brief stated, "We are resolved that the three state universities should end sanction and support to Greek social sororities and fraternities."

It was signed by Terry J. Knapp, A4, Cedar Falls, and James W. Nelson, AXE, Cedar Rapids.

The idea for the brief was conceived last winter at a Soapbox Soundoff discussion about the Greek system.

The brief also read, "The Greek social sorority and fraternity has long been a part of the life on campus. It has long received the sanction and support of our three state universities. The brief calls for an end to that sanction and support."

Four questions are raised in the brief.
• Can one truly achieve a brotherhood on campus when it becomes "necessary" to reject a substantial number of fellow students?

• Does the pledge of the University to give students "equal access to all of its activities" really have any meaning?

• Should a person who is absent or rejected by a group without rationale be called on in any way to support that group?

• Though selective social groups have a right to exist, do they have a right to exist in an atmosphere dedicated to an equal treatment of all?

Brief Taken Lightly

The brief was taken rather lightly by University administrative officials.

"I think something like that arrived in my office today," Pres. Howard R. Bowen said Thursday night.

"However, I don't know much about it." Helen Reich, associate dean of students, said, "I assume these are just a few individuals expressing a personal view."

David L. McKinney, counselor to fraternities, could not be reached for comment.

The idea that the Greek system should be abolished was not held by any of 17 students interviewed Thursday in a man-on-the-street interview.

"I think it would be completely stupid to abolish the Greek system," said Gary Davenport, A2, Waterloo.

He said he thought the system was not bad except that it was used by some students as a status symbol.

"I don't think it's such a big deal," Davenport said.

He added, "I'm not pro-Greek, but I'm not pro-GDI either."

Those who complain are those who are turned down by the Greek system or those who don't care one way or the other, said Stephen Morain, A4, Jefferson, past president of Phi Gamma Delta.

"Don't Really Care"

His statement was reiterated by Frank Myers, A4, Russell, an independent.

"I think it's a great minority of the students who try to get in and fail. I don't think the rest of them really even care."

The writers of the brief contend that there is a large amount of discontent on the campus with Greek social sororities and fraternities.

They said their brief showed a need for answers and actions to determine the true value of the system.

Knapp was one of five students who picketed Wednesday's concert by the Fifth Dimension, which was sponsored by Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic Council for Greeks only.

Varner Hits SDS, Student Radicals In Finkbine Talk

By JEFF HLUBEK

Students for Democratic Society (SDS) and members of the New Left at the University were attacked by Student Body Pres. Carl A. Varner in a speech at the Finkbine Dinner Thursday evening at the Union.

Members of the Finkbine Society awarded the Hancher-Finkbine Medallion to Michael A. Shea, A4, Centerville and David A. Dancer, Lamoni, assistant executive secretary of the State Board of Regents, at the dinner.

Varner said he thought "the New Left is dead wrong." SDS, he said had nothing to offer but "trumped up slogans."

He called on moderates to "wake up" because "student government is tottering on the brink of control by a radical minority."

Unless moderates take a greater part in student government, he said, extremists will assume control. Groups like SDS, he said, "represent no one but themselves."

The actions of the New Left and SDS have given the University a bad name Varner said. Because of this, he said, "I have to apologize for my fellow students every time I get 10 miles outside of Iowa City."

The radicals, he said, were a "fringe minority" and did not represent the views of the majority of the student body. He said that groups like SDS had power out of proportion to their numbers because of the complacency of the moderates.

Varner was the student speaker at the annual Finkbine awards dinner held to honor outstanding alumni and students at the University.

The Hancher-Finkbine Medallion is awarded annually to a student and an alumnus in recognition of leadership, learning and loyalty.

Shea, the student winner of the medallion, is the president of the senior class and the only Big 10 winner of a Rhoades Scholarship this year.

The awards were presented by Pres. Howard R. Bowen.

Towers should be removed

A tremendous improvement has been made in the appearance of the campus skyline in the past few weeks. The smokestack on the Engineering Building has been taken down.

But that building continues to contribute to the clutter of the skyline with the two old broadcasting towers mounted on it. They ought to be removed.

The towers were previously used for experimental work. The east tower holds the transmitting antenna for KSUI-FM and a television receiving antenna. In addition, a radio receiving antenna is stretched between the two structures.

It costs money to maintain the two ugly towers. Electricity to light them amounts to about $4 each month. The light bulb replacements cost at least $100 each year.

The towers need painting now, as they do from time to time. An estimate for doing the necessary painting three years ago was $880, and surely it would be more today.

It wouldn't cost a great deal to tear the towers down. One firm said that the cost of removal would not exceed $9,000. Another said it would cost $2,000 and that there would be a salvage value for the metal from the structures.

Although it is not clear whether the towers are used for anything but KSUI-FM, it would not be difficult to replace the television and radio receiving antennas by moving them nearer the roof of the building. And moving the KSUI-FM transmitter to the WSUI transmitter site near the Hawkeye apartments might even have additional advantages.

Such a move probably would eliminate much of the interference the station causes to television sets in the area. And it might also make operation of KSUI-FM more efficient by eliminating the need for one engineer.

Although further investigation of the apparent economy of removing the towers may be in order, the esthetic desirability of their removal is obvious. It is also worth paying something for.

SKYLINE CLUTTER SHOULD GO — The campus skyline has been enhanced by the removal of a smokestack on the Engineering Building. But two old broadcasting towers atop the building still remain. The two smokestacks in this picture, taken from atop Phillips Hall, are at the University Power Plant several blocks southwest of the Engineering Building.

Lally replies to DI article

To the Editor:

I did not, as reported Wednesday in The Daily Iowan, disassociate myself from HSP because some HSP senators voted against a resolution I supported but rather because the founder of HSP argued against principles which I believed HSP represented.

However, had I been aware at the time that my fellow senators had accepted, temporarily, Carl Varner's suggestion that they comply with Pres. Howard R. Bowen's dictates concerning the new constitution which they were pledged to uphold, I would not have bothered to introduce any resolutions.

I would have reported to that actively concerned minority I represent that the Student Senate had reneged on its obligation to secure students their rights, for the time being, and seemed willing to render itself ineffective in order to continue distributing funds to organizations which could get these same funds without the Student Senate, and without which the Student Senate could still function with more time and manpower to devote to the real issues concerning students. It seems evident that the "normal channels" and "proper procedures" have proven futile and that the only step left to take is to bypass the senate and other administration sanctioned organizations and, if necessary, go into the streets.

If Student Senators have been misled by Varner's rhetoric, or the administration's, or the DI editorial or reporting coverage of their cooption, perhaps the example of some active students not allowing the establishment to deter or coopt them might return them to the position most of them adhered to in their campaign speeches, i.e. to represent student interests and secure students their rights and to follow the will of the student body which was expressed in the passage, by referendum, of the new constitution.

Freedom is in your head, maybe

by Paul Kleinberger

If you're in jail you can't go out and play. If you are given a free choice between working or starving, you can't go out and play. If they tend to draft people who do, you can't go out and play. But also, you may be educated so that you no longer want to play. Playing may come to seem a rather obscene business. Or you simply won't be interested.

In America, we enjoy a certain freedom from physical restraints. "This is Freedom," we were told in high school, "and we must defend it." I don't remember the subject ever coming up in philosophy class, or in psych. It was usually while we practiced our salutes.

Things haven't changed much, despite appearances. Average Americans talk about the Credibility Gap and about widespread corruption in the Saigon government, while simultaneously writing off as propaganda any statements by foreign powers that we are not trustworthy, and seeing any reaction to the corrupt Saigon regime as devilish Communist Hunger for Power. Double think.

There is also the phenomenon of Singlethink. Perhaps convinced by their own advertising (and I mean cars and soap, not politics), Americans have a way of believing that there is something good about the American way of life. Without having considered, in fact without ever even having seen, any alternatives, they live the American way, praise it, export it, pity anybody who hasn't got it, and are sometimes ready to "defend it with their lives if necessary."

For almost an entire people to think so superficially about what they and their government are doing is only possible in a land where nobody thinks very deeply about anything.

Ironically, though many of us have become aware that grades and diplomas are no indication of what people have learned, we still tend to be sucked into believing, just because lots of them go to school, the myth that Americans are educated.

It's a myth, if an educated man is one who has a habit of thinking for himself, not just in his technical specialty but all the time, and one whose acquaintance with the cultural heritage of humanity is such that he recognizes in it some relevance to the things he personally is concerned about, then American education certainly must rank low among the civilizations.

That says nothing, of course, about industriousness or, say, the capacity for following complex instructions. There is the curious phenomenon which in eleventh grade we called "cook-book chemistry" because our laboratory instructor consisted of a series of "experiments" with each step of the procedure, including when to fold the filter paper, outlined in advance. Experimenting was easy. Add water, mix, and if you'd done it correctly you were sure to make the same discovery that thousands of other industrious students around the country were discovering at about that time.

It's pretty clear what Americans educated in such environments are likely to learn. So we have gadgets for every conceivable purpose and can operate quite a few, but none of them were invented by you or me, or by anybody that either of us has ever met. When I was in France last summer the father of a friend of mine proudly showed me the central heating system he had designed and installed in his house, building from scratch (not a Sears Roebuck kit) and working on weekends. In America, that's not only unheard of, it's probably illegal.

The entire structure of American civilization seems to encourage mindless proficiency at the expense of individual creative initiative. The political implications are not hard to find. I also went to Spain last summer, and looked curiously for tangible signs of the political repression of the Franco regime. The gestapo was not particularly in evidence, but I did notice some other interesting things. One afternoon in a town probably about half as big as Iowa City, and 20 miles from anything of comparable size, I set out to buy something to read. At first I asked for directions to a book store. Then I asked for directions to just any store that might have books to sell. Then I asked for magazines. After about an hour and a half I had narrowed the field to a kind of portable newspaper stand set up at the edge of the town plaza. The stand carried a few papers, 30 or 40 Spanish versions of True Romance, and a good selection of translated American works in the fields of cowboys, detectives and science fiction. The owner assured me that these were the only books in town.

Franco didn't burn all the missing books, or censor them, or close the book stores. Franco directs Spanish education. No more dramatic measures are necessary.

'Oedipus the King' called a bold experiment

By NICHOLAS MEYER

In filming Sophocles' masterpiece, "Oedipus the King," Philip Saville and Michael Luke set themselves to overcome several seemingly insurmountable obstacles. Working with an admittedly great play, they were nevertheless faced with a text with little external dramatic action, a number of speeches spoken by a chorus — a theatrical convention completely foreign to today's audiences, except in music — and a text whose emphasis was almost entirely based on sound and not sight. It takes place in one spot, scene flowing without interruption into scene. How can one move a camera? How can one make a FILM of "Oedipus" and not a photographed play?

Saville and Luke have succeeded. If in other ways the movie is not altogether satisfactory, Saville and Luke may at the least be said to have conquered the technical problems posed by the seemingly static text. Saville, as director, has created a fascinating playing style which is a cross between realism and theatricality, juxtaposing poetry with spectacle, and the choruses are retained with the use of a roving camera carrying the words on the sound track. The editing of the play is quite ingenious, especially the idea of subliminal-like flash-backs to the murder of Laius (somewhat after the manner of "Rashomon") and one obsolete bit of dialogue in the play is rescued thus from its usual place under a black pencil mark in the director's script. The electronic music is imaginative and successful, as is the translation of Sophocles by Paul Roche, that is only occasionally ill-fitting and drawn out where the original is tight. The verse is by and large felicitous, and a Greek theater doubles with odd appropriate irony as Oedipus' palace.

Yet, in spite of all these things, some of which may even be termed milestones in terms of invention in the movies, "Oedipus the King" is not the greatest movie it could have been.

The chief trouble lies with Oedipus himself, as portrayed by Christopher Plummer. Plummer's diction is perfect, he looks the man he is supposed to be and he is as graceful as a cat. But, curiously, Oedipus is cold, oddly detached and a slave of his own pyrotechnics. With everything going for him, Plummer is unbelievable and for the most part unmoving. One watches a performance but is not caught up with the plight of the man Oedipus. He has moments, of course, a good ones, but they are rare. The impression one gets is almost that they are accidental when seen against the larger scope of the actor's technically preoccupied interpretation.

Lilli Palmer is physically perfect for the part of Jocasta, ill-fated Queen of Thebes, but her slight German accent cannot help but be slightly jarring and distracting from her characterization. Orson Welles does nicely with the part of Tiresias, the blind prophet, and Cyril Cusack Roger Livsey and Donald Sutherland are all excellent as the messenger, the shepherd and the chorus leader, respectively, although Sutherland's voice is imperfectly dubbed. By far the best is Richard Johnson as Creon, brother of Jocasta, left to pick up the pieces at the play's close. Johnson, for those of us who have been wondering, proves himself to be a very capable actor indeed, when given something to work with.

"Oedipus the King" is an experiment — a bold experiment — in film-making. In some ways it is a masterful piece of work, succeeding brilliantly in translating and transforming Sophocles into Cinema. It is a pleasure to hear, and it is a treat to see how cleverly Saville and Luke have solved the play's problems.

On the other hand, it must also be noted that Plummer's performance is muted and frequently nothing more than wooden, and that there are some astonishingly bad technical slip-ups, where sound recording and continuity are concerned. There is no doubt, however, that this is a most original and outstanding film, daring and better through that alone, than such tame fare as normally gets weighed down with Oscars and accolades. Sophocles wrote a play for all time. This film does nothing to hide that fact and a great deal to re-enforce it.

'Meet the Arts' to end Monday at Carrie Stanley

By STAN ZEGEL

The popular "Meet the Arts" series of programs sponsored by the Cultural Affairs Committee will conclude Monday evening in the lounge of Carrie Stanley Hall when, at 7 p.m., pianist Marian Buck-Lew presents an informal concert featuring Robert Schumann's delightful series of pieces known as "Carnival."

Miss Buck-Lew, a native of Hong Kong, will not only play the series but, more important, will explain something about it.

"Carnival" is a series of musical caricatures which includes Schumann himself, a mistress or two of his, and even Chopin. Sandwiched between two noble dances will be a brilliant melody in the right hand reminiscent of flashy violinist Paganini, after whom that section is titled.

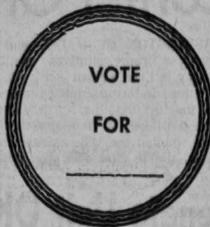

In the German method of naming the keys of the piano, E-flat was known as "S" and B-flat as "H" in Schumann's time (1834), and he took advantage of that fact to use the four-note theme A-S-C-H throughout the work. "Asch" was the name of the village where a girlfriend of Schumann's lived. Schumann used the A-S-C-H motif for two clever anagrams in the "Sphinxes" section of "Carnival." That section is traditionally skipped in performance, but the theme can be heard often in the remaining sections. "Carnival" concludes with a comic "March of the League of David against the Philistines" which pits a heroic ma ch (white hats) against a little waltz (black hats) to symbolize the triumph of the sophisticated arts over crude competitors. Satirical Schumann couldn't resist using the lumbering "Grandfather's Dance" as the waltz to represent the detested Philistines — people utterly without appreciation for cultured things.

The program is open to the public, and no tickets are required. The relaxed atmosphere of the presentation, and the composition itself should make it fun!

Magnusson Sees Chance Of Sabotage

Weekend damage to telephone cables in East Hall may have been sabotage, Ted H. Magnusson, local manager of Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, charged Thursday. Magnusson went on to say that damage to the cables by a storm was not possible.

Cables pulled from terminals put about 40 telephones out of order, Magnusson said. Telephone service was restored Monday, with supervisory help repairing the damage.

John Clevenger, president of Local 7116, of the striking Communications Workers of America (CWA), said Thursday there was no way of knowing who was responsible for the damage and denied that union members had anything to do with it.

"We're going to get blamed for things that happen, whether we're responsible or not," he said.

Scattered damage also resulted from Tuesday's storm, according to Magnusson. On North Duquesne Street, a fallen tree damaged a cable and affected about 50 telephones.

About 190 local telephone workers have been on strike since April 18. The workers are members of the CWA, which called the strike in all Bell cities after wage increase negotiations broke down.

How're The Buses Doing? Nobody Seems To Know

By RON GEORGEFF
How is the bus company doing after operating 57 days on its own?

It is anybody's guess and only Lewis Negus really knows. But Negus, Iowa City Coach Co. president, has not yet tallied the books for March, he said Thursday, and therefore does not know revenue or passenger figures for the month.

Negus said he might have the figures Monday or Tuesday.

On March 1, the bus fare jumped from 10 to 15 cents. The 15 cent fare began soon after the City Council discontinued a monthly $5,000 city-University subsidy to the bus company on Feb. 20.

The subsidy cut-off came as a result of a bus contract negotiation breakdown on Feb. 15. At that time Negus told the city he would stop city bus service on June 10 if no contract could be signed.

The city and bus company had been negotiating a contract for six months because a study had indicated the $5,000 subsidy was too much. Contract negotiations have never resumed since Feb. 15.

Negus gave a report on the city bus service's progress March 14. At that time he said revenue had increased and the number of passengers had declined 12 per cent since the subsidy cut-off and fare raise.

Negus returned recently from a Florida vacation.

Tasha The Tiger Out Of The Moat

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tasha, Philadelphia's tiger in the moat, was pulled out Thursday after being drugged.

Tasha, a female Siberian tiger, jumped or fell into a water-filled moat last April 6. The water was drained, and several unsuccessful attempts were made to lure her out.

Last week Frederick Ulmer, the zoo's curator of mammals, shot her with a drug, but it didn't knock her out, foiling an attempt to capture her.

Thursday Ulmer shot her with another drug and she finally passed out. Keepers wrapped her in a heavy net and hoisted her out.

Boris Godunov, Moussorgsky's opera in a prologue and four acts, with bass Boris Christoff and the Paris Conservatory Orchestra conducted by Andre Cluytens, will be heard in a complete recording tonight at 6.

YDs Withdraw Endorsement Of McCarthy To Meet Rules

By BECKY CERLING
The Young Democrats (YD) rescinded their endorsement of Minnesota Sen. Eugene McCarthy as a candidate for president Thursday night because the endorsement violated the Young Democrats' state constitution.

After the decision to rescind the endorsement, State Rep. Minette Doderer (D-Iowa City), a candidate for the Democratic nomination for state senator from Johnson County, spoke to the group. She spoke against a proposed college in western Iowa and explained five constitutional amendments that will go before the voters in the fall.

According to the YD state constitution, YD organizations are to endorse only the candidate nominated by the Democratic Party, Ivan T. Webber, A3, Daventry, chairman of the local club, said after the meeting.

"The passing of the resolution to give $500,000 to start a college in western Iowa was a result of a parliamentary maneuver on the part of representatives from northwest Iowa," Mrs. Doderer said.

The resolution was passed as a part of a conference committee report. Legislators must either accept everything on a conference committee report or vote against the entire report, Mrs. Doderer explained.

"This particular resolution was placed on the Board of Regents' appropriations bill, so, of course, we had to accept it," she said.

Mrs. Doderer also explained and spoke in favor of five state constitutional amendments. These were home rule in cities and towns, reapportionment, annual state legislature meetings, readjusted methods of compensating legislators and item veto power for the governor.

Any approved housing unit may sponsor a team in the contest. They may enter at the Advertising or Circulation desks at the DI, 201 Communications Center.

Poetry Different To Everyone, Visiting Japanese Poet Says

By MITSUYO HIGA

A poem is not just for poets. Everyone has his own poem, though his way of realizing and expressing it is different, Ryuichi Tamura, a 45-year-old Japanese poet who has been at the University for five months as a guest of the International Writing Program, says.

Tamura, who has been awarded the Kotaro Takamura prize, the most highly regarded poetry prize in Japan, will read his poems in Japanese at 8 tonight in Room 107 English — Philosophy Building. An English translation will be read by Samuel B. Grolmes, G. Oshkosh, Wis., who has translated Tamura's work.

Commenting on Tamura's poetry, Grolmes said he had been continually impressed with the strength of both language and concept that Tamura has been able to achieve in his poetry. In both the long serious and the short almost humorous poetry, there is a clear intelligence at work, Grolmes added.

"A poet expresses his own poem with words, a musician expresses his poem with sound, a painter expresses his poem with colors and lines and everybody lives in order to discover his own poem and to express it," said Tamura explaining his concept of the poem. To be a good housewife, to be a successful businessman, to be a good teacher and to be a diligent laborer are all ways of discovering and realizing our own poem in our lives, according to Tamura.

However, said Tamura, when and how to realize one's own poem differs among individuals. Tamura himself began to write poems in 1939, but it was World War II that made him realize his own poem, according to Tamura. His experience in the war as a navy officer made him realize that poetry is the essence of his life, Tamura said.

Tamura, who studied Anglo-Saxon literature at Meiji University, Tokyo, could hardly believe that those who wrote the novels and the poems he loved were his enemy, because they were the very people that made him write his poem. However, Tamura said he soon found that his real enemy was the process of Japan's modernization which inevitably led Japan in to W.W.II.

"Although I was one of the strong patriots and I do love my country, I felt resistance against fate that made Japan involved in the war," Tamura said recalling the days of his early twenties.

After the war, he and nine friends published a poetry magazine, The Waste Land. After publishing eight volumes of this monthly poetry magazine, Tamura and his colleagues discontinued it and published a poetry anthology of the same name once a year for eight years.

After 10 years of poetry magazine editing experience, Tamura published a collection of his own poems, "Four Thousand Days and Nights." Because of the hardships he experienced during and after the war, Tamura said he thought of that period in terms of 4,000 days and nights rather than a decade. Since then he has published three other books of poetry.

Besides his own poetry writing, Tamura has translated works of several English poets, such as Richard Eberhart and T.S. Eliot. Commenting on the difficulty of translation, Tamura said that one could never completely understand what a poet was trying to say without reading his original poetry, however, he could understand at least a part of the poem. "This is the reason why people keep translating many good works of other languages and we do enjoy them," said Tamura.

Each translation is an art of the translator. Therefore, Tamura said, it was good to have a poem translated by as many people and as often as possible.

Tamura's four volumes of poetry have been translated into five languages: English, Chinese, French, German and Italian.

His five-month visit in Iowa City gave him a chance to expose himself to a different culture. Tamura, who had never been abroad before he came to the United States, found several interesting cultural differences through his own experience.

"My friends told me Iowa City is a typical American midwest town, and I agree with them," Tamura said.

Although he did not get to see many other parts of the United States, Tamura said he found similarity among several towns in the Midwest.

"The setting up of a town itself is very consistent, churches, Post Office, and residence area and downtown. Especially the downtown area looked almost the same in any place. You can even find the same names of supermarkets and drug stores. If you miss the name of the town, which you rarely find on a street corner, you will never know what town you are in," Tamura said.

Tamura said one had to see people and their life in relation to their land and nature. The oak trees which Tamura found in Iowa City looked exactly like people who lived here, he said. They symbolize dynamism, action and hugeness which well describe American people, Tamura said.

One of the interesting differences Tamura found between Japanese and Americans was their concept of action. American people appear to be always on the go. Action is the most important part of their life. Action and self-expression seem to be one of the main means of proving that they are alive, Tamura said.

On the contrary, staying quiet and keeping silent tend to be regarded as non-productive activity in America, according to Tamura's observation. However, silence does not necessarily mean non-productive activity for Japanese, because silence is the fundamental driving force of art, Tamura said.

"In order to obtain more silence, people strive for expression, because by keeping silent one can develop his new conception," Tamura also said that it was silence that he first experienced when we are struck by the greatness of art.

Tamura who has two children in Tokyo is returning to Japan in May and will be teaching contemporary poetry at the Nihon University, the largest private university in Japan, beginning next year.

Communication Class Hopes To Aid Inmates

Students of Group Communication (36:134) plan to help reorient inmates of Iowa's two major men's penal institutions to society.

As part of the requirements of the Department of Speech and Dramatic Arts course, students initiate and take part in a social action project. This semester one group of class members is arranging to set up a class at University Hospitals for prisoners. The class is planning to present instruction on topics of interest to the prisoners.

Prisoners are often sent to University Hospitals from the Men's Reformatory at Anamosa and the Iowa State Penitentiary at Fort Madison for medical treatment and drug therapy.

Class Patterned After Riverview According to Phillip Webb, B3, Mount Ayr, a student in the Group Communication course, the class would be patterned after the prisoner rehabilitation classes offered at the Riverview Release Center at Newton. Male prisoners are sent to Riverview for several weeks prior to their release.

Instruction is given in such things as driving safety, law enforcement, real estate, social security, and marriage.

Webb visited with prisoners at Riverview last week. He said the convicts "seemed receptive" of the idea of setting up a class at the University.

Webb said an administrator at Riverview, Donald Rhode, was also receptive, but that he thought that courses at the hospital should supplement rather than duplicate courses at Riverview.

Courses Fit To Needs Courses at the hospital would be set up to fit the needs of the prisoners, Webb said. He said, for example, that a local mechanic would be asked to give the prisoners instructions if they were interested in auto mechanics.

Webb said that clearance for the hospital project had been obtained from state penal officials and that the class might get underway in two weeks. Class meetings are planned to be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings starting at 7:30.

The class is scheduled to be put under the auspices of the Action Studies Program (free university).

Campus Protest Spreads Across Nation

NEW YORK (AP)—College students angry over a wide variety of grievances, many with racial overtones, have brought tumult to campuses from coast to coast in recent weeks.

In a rare display of militancy, some groups occupied college buildings and forced cancellation of classes. In two demonstrations court orders were invoked to restore peace.

At Columbia University in New York demonstrators protesting University plans to build a gymnasium in a park in a Negro neighborhood ransacked and took over the office of the school president and held a dean and two aides captive for more than 24 hours.

The Columbia siege continued Thursday with a classroom sit-in which kept one-fourth of the 10,000 day students from their studies.

Meanwhile, 15 students who said they were members of the Students Organization for Black Unity took over the office of the provost of Long Island University's Brooklyn campus. Another 50 sat on the floor outside the locked door. The Brooklyn campus has about 7,000 students.

A spokesman for the Brooklyn Congress of Racial Equality said the students wanted more scholarships for Negroes, more Negroes on the faculty, courses on Negro history and culture and a pay raise for janitors and other non-academic staff members.

A sit-in by 300 Negro students behind the chained doors of the administration building at Boston University ended Wednesday with a promise by the school president to increase the number of black students and offer a course in Afro-American history. The school has 22,690 students.

This week's incidents climaxed weeks of campus unrest across the country, involving everything from a rebellion against school rules to a demand for a student voice in the selection of faculty members.

In most cases the activists were a small fraction of the student body. At Columbia, for instance, only a few hundred of the 27,000 students were involved in the demonstrations. Many of the others were openly hostile to demonstrations.

At Olympic Community College in Bremerton, Wash., a score of students invaded the president's office Wednesday vowing to stay until the disciplinary expulsion of the student body's president-elect was rescinded.

The president-elect, Forrest Adkins, 26, was told to leave after being accused of shouting obscenities at the faculty director of student affairs.

A group of 250 Boston State College students protesting the firing of an assistant professor of physics staged a sit-in at the administration building, but broke it up Wednesday when they learned that Miss Margaret Delaney, 50, an associate professor of education, had died of a heart attack. Boston State has 4,400 students.

Debate Ends Up In Court
A row over University of Georgia rules which coeds contend discriminate against their sex wound up in court. A judicial court order was issued Tuesday to halt student demonstrations inside university buildings and school officials promised to ease the rules next fall.

The coeds complained of pre-midnight curfews and a ban on drinking by women students. Male students are permitted to drink off campus if they are over 21.

Some 550 students and 40 faculty members took over the administration building at Colgate University, Hamilton, N.Y., April 10 and held it for five days in a protest against alleged racial discrimination by fraternities. Colgate's enrollment is 1,690.

The sit-in ended when the university revoked the charter of Phi Delta Theta, one of the main targets of the demonstration, and promised to review admission procedures of other fraternities.

At Ithaca, N.Y., 30 Negro students staged a sit-in in the economics department of Cornell University April 4, protesting alleged racial slurs by an instructor. The university named a commission to study the complaint. Its enrollment is 13,747.

Students demanding an equal voice in the selection of a president for the University of Oregon ended a two-day administration building sleep-in Wednesday. Leaders accepted a plan under which the president would be chosen by a committee of three students, three faculty members and three members of the university administrative staff.

In Montgomery, Ala., a federal judge Wednesday ordered the reinstatement of 54 students who were expelled by predominantly Negro Tuskegee Institute as the result of recent campus unrest. Students demanding more authority in running the school held the president and 11 trustees captive in a padlocked building for 13 hours on April 6.

Students Protest Guns
A group of University of Minnesota students protesting the purchase of anti-air guns for the St. Paul police ended on April 17 after a week-long sit-in in the office of Mayor Thomas Byrne after city officials agreed to submit their complaint to St. Paul's Civil and Human Rights Commission.

On April 9 about 150 Negro students barricaded themselves for five hours inside the University of Michigan administration building, demanding the establishment of a scholarship and professorship honoring Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and the appointment of Negroes to the athletic and university admissions staffs. The university has an enrollment of 31,490.

The demonstration ended when university officials described the demands as reasonable. University trustees have since created a King scholarship, faculty members have started raising money for a King professorship and Negroes are to be added to the university staff as vacancies occur.

On April 12 some 300 Negro and white students held a sit-in at the Tufts University admissions office in Medford, Mass., demanding the enrollment of 40 additional Negroes for the fall term.

Dean John C. Palmer told the group the university would grant the demand if the demonstrators would help out with recruiting, screening and a search for necessary housing. The students agreed.

Students of Duke University in Durham, N.C., started on April 5 a 10-day sit-in at the home of the school's president and the campus quadrangle in support of a wage strike by non-academic workers. The demonstration ended with an agreement by university officials to advance the date of wage increases already agreed to.

Most of the predominantly Negro Howard University in Washington, D.C., was closed by a five day sit-in at the administration building in March by students protesting disciplinary charges against 39 students accused of rowdy behavior at a school ceremony.

The demonstration was called off when school trustees agreed to let the student government handle the matter.

A class boycott that began March 26 at Bowie State College in Maryland, which has a 70 per cent Negro enrollment, was called to dramatize student complaints about the condition of school buildings. The board of trustees agreed to an immediate expenditure of $335,000 for repairs.

Students at Virginia Union University in Richmond took over four campus buildings for a week in early April, demanding eased academic requirements and social rules. School officials obtained a court injunction to end the building takeover and expelled 30 demonstration leaders.

Your Grades Just Average? You Might Be Outstanding

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP)—College students with average grades were given a morale boost Thursday by John Gillespie, director of urban studies at the University of Toledo, Ohio. Gillespie told an Iowa Wesleyan College audience creativity is not synonymous with good grades. "Highly trained people," Gillespie said, "are often sterile in creativity."

Pity!
Not enough girls
will read this ad.

It is a pity because young girls around marrying age are impressionable. We don't mean that derogatorily but an advertisement for a large diamond at a low price would seem attractive to anyone who was not aware of the difference in diamonds. The truth of the matter is that neither of these factors plays a major role in the selection of a diamond. The two most important things to remember are: How much can you afford, and who is your jeweler? We are as concerned about the selection you make as you are. Now doesn't it make sense to make the first diamond purchase the finest. If you do, you will never settle for less, or second best.

ABA Names Mel Daniels Top Rookie

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota Muskies center Mel Daniels was named Thursday as American Basketball Association rookie of the year.

Results of the balloting by selection committees in each of the league's 11 cities was not made public by ABA headquarters here, except to say that Daniels was a "runaway winner."

Joining him on the ABA's first all-rookie team were forwards Tom Washington of Pittsburgh and Bob Netolicky of Indiana and guards Louie Dampier of Kentucky and James Jones of New Orleans.

The second rookie team was composed of forwards Randy Mahaffey of Kentucky and Ron Franz of Oakland, center Bryon Beck of Denver and guards Bob Verga of Dallas, and Ron Perry of Minnesota.

Daniels, 6-foot-9 product of the University of New Mexico, was the No. 1 draft choice of the Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association last year but signed with Minnesota instead.

Ellis-Quarry Fight To Be Televised

WASHINGTON (AP) — The heavyweight championship battle between Jimmy Ellis and Jerry Quarry will be beamed by satellite across both the Atlantic and Pacific Saturday night.

The Communications Satellite Corp. announced the fight will be relayed from Oakland, Calif., to television viewers in England, Japan and Australia.

DES MOINES (AP) — An anchoring effort by recovered Jim Ryun of Kansas, a first-time showdown between two of the country's top distance men and a lightning fast special 440-yard dash field highlighted today's opening session of the 59th Drake Relays.

Ryun tested an injured leg for the first time in a month during last weekend's Kansas Relays.

JIM RYUN
Healthy And Ready

and his meet record 3:42.3 in the 1,500 meters quickly dispelled fears the pulled hamstring muscle he suffered late in March would jeopardize his Olympic chances.

Ryun, who celebrates his 21st birthday Monday, isn't slated for any solo activity here. Instead, he'll be used exclusively for relays, competing both days in at least three events.

However, Coach Bob Timmons, who likes to keep Ryun's itinerary a secret until the last minute, wasn't saying whether he would compete in the sprint medley, two-mile, four-mile or distance medley.

Jim was the sensation of the 1967 relays when he turned in two sub-four minute miles in a couple of anchoring efforts. It not only was the first time the four-minute barrier had been broken here, but also the first time any American had run under four minutes twice in less than 24 hours.

Air Force Lt. Jim Murphy, voted the most outstanding performer in the Kansas Relays after winning both the 5,000 and 10,000 meters, will try to prevent St. Cloud (Minn.) State's durable Van Nelson from scoring a "triple double" here.

Nelson, the Pan American 5,000 and 10,000 meter champ, has won both the three and six-mile runs at Drake the last two years setting records in both last year. The three-mile will be today and the six-mile Saturday.

Only one person has ever won two events three times in a row here — Randy Matson, who captured the shot and discus in 1967 for the third straight time.

Three of the top four finishers in last year's NCAA 440-yard dash tangle in a special event that has been inserted in Friday's program.

Emmett Taylor of Ohio University, who won the NCAA event in 45.9 in almost a three-man dead heat, heads the field, which also includes one of the men he edged out, Iowa's Mike Mondane, and fourth-place finisher Charles Benson of Southern Illinois.

But these three will receive a stern challenge from Ross MacKenzie of Southern Illinois, who turned in a 45.4 relay leg at Kansas; Ron Crawford of Abilene Christian and Henry Harrison of Lamar Tech, both of whom have turned in 46.5 times on relay events.

Muscular, but aged Parry O'Brien, will try to keep the accent from being entirely on youth in a special disc event Friday.

Drake officials added the event to the program to help the 36-year-old O'Brien's conditioning program, which he hopes will give him a shot at the U.S. Olympic team for the fifth straight time.

O'Brien won the Olympic shot put title in both 1952 and 1956, finished second in 1960 and fourth in 1964. He now feels his best chance of making the Olympics would be in the discus.

Cretzmeyer Enters 15 Hawks In 59th Annual Drake Relays

A 15-man team will represent Iowa in the 59th Annual Drake Relays today and Saturday in Des Moines.

Coach Francis Cretzmeyer said Wednesday he would enter teams

Although two members of the 1967 champion and record-breaking one-mile relay team are available, the Hawks will pass up defense of this title to concentrate upon the distance medley relay.

Carl Frazier, P. Griffith, Larry Wiczorek and Mike Mondane will be the Hawk runners in both the two-mile relay and the distance medley relay.

In addition to the relays, seven Hawks will compete in individual events.

Mondane is scheduled to run in a special invitational 440-yard dash event featuring a field of the top quarter-milers in the country, including the defending NCAA 440-yard champion, Emmett Taylor of Ohio University.

Mondane, Taylor Meet Taylor was timed at 45.9 in the 1967 national meet and Mondane at 46.0 finished third. Mondane was clocked at 45.9 in a preliminary race, however.

Cretzmeyer said if the weather was cold and damp today, he would pull Mondane out of the race to make sure he doesn't injure his leg. Mondane pulled a leg muscle before the Hawk-eyes' trip to Arizona during Easter.

Wiczorek will run the mile for the second straight year at Drake. He finished second there last year. Curt LaBond will also try to improve on his 1967 Drake performance of fifth in the six-mile run.

Other individual event entrants will be Garry Phelps, long jumper who went over 23 feet, adding two feet to his previous best last week; Larry Wilson, 6-5 high jumper; Don Utsinger and Rich Gershenzon, pole vaulters who cleared 15-4 and 15-0 last week; and Rollie Kitt, the Big 10 steeplechase champion, who enters the two-mile run.

in four relays, the 440-yard relay, the 880-yard relay, the two-mile relay and the distance medley relay.

In the 440 relay the Hawkeys will run Tom Safley, Roger Menke, Randy Haines and Dale Teberg. In the 880 relay, Jerry Stevens will replace Haines.

Olympic Bound Greene Bids For Record At Penn Relays

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Charlie Greene will try to show that one meet does not a season make. Along with the usual relay and Larry James will try to open up an escape route to Mexico City. And Villanova will try to show that last weekend was all a mistake.

The 74th annual Penn Relays will be at Franklin Field today and Saturday with 123 colleges, and hundreds of more junior colleges, high schools and elementary schools, participating.

Along with the usual relay and individual events for collegians, a series of Olympic development races will be staged for open competitors.

Heading the 100-yard-dash field is Greene, the former University of Nebraska star who last week at the Kansas Relays added a share of the world 100-meter dash record to his piece of the world 100-yard mark.

James, the brilliant Villanova sophomore, will make his first competitive start in the 440-yard hurdles since leaving high school. Since then, James has turned into one of the best quarter milers in this country; his 45.2 earlier this month was the third fastest ever run.

As far as relay races are concerned, Villanova will be out to avenge its shocking defeat by Army in the Queens-Iona Relays in New York last weekend.

Hawk Tennis Team Hopes To Gain 1st Triumph Today

Iowa will attempt to capture its first tennis victory of the year this weekend when the Hawkeyes are matched with Illinois, Purdue and Notre Dame in separate dual meets, all on the road.

The Hawks first match will be this afternoon in Champaign against a solid Illini team that is rated as a first-division candidate in the Big 10 this year.

The Illini hopes suffered recently, however, when No. 3 singles player Mike Eibl suffered an injured foot. He is expected to be out for nearly a month.

In Big 10 action, Illinois has suffered setbacks from the two strong Michigan teams, Michigan State 5-4 and Michigan 9-0. Iowa lost to Michigan State last weekend 8-1.

Iowa Coach Don Klotz said

Purdue appeared to be in its normal condition—weak. The Boiler makers have placed last in Big 10 competition rather consistently, he said.

KLOTZ

He said that Notre Dame, which defeated Iowa last year 6-3, still had a strong team, led by Jasjit Singh from India. However, they lost at least two of their best singles players who graduated last year.

Klotz said the probable line-up would be Richard Strauss, Richard Stokstad, Dale LePrevost, Randy Murphy, Nathan Chapman and Steve Ehlers. Russell Murphy will be used in the seventh spot if needed.

The Hawks will return to Iowa City on Monday for a string of home meets beginning May 1 with a match against Loyola.

Bills Alter Lineup

BUFFALO, N.Y. — The American Football League Buffalo Bills said Thursday two of last season's rookies will play at different positions this year.

The announcement by Coach Joel Collier came as the Bills said Jim LeMoine and Jerry Seither had signed 1968 contracts.

LeMoine, who saw limited action as a tight end, will be switched to linebacker, Collier said. Seither, on the taxi squad, will move from tight end to split end.

British Amateur Levels Emerson

BOURNEMOUTH, England — British amateur Mark Cox blasted new Australian pro Roy Emerson in straight sets Thursday and joined three professionals in the semifinals of the British Hard Court Tennis Championships.

The left-handed Cox blew Emerson off the court 6-0, 6-1, 7-5. Cox will meet Australia's Rod Laver, the tourney favorite and leading money-winner on the pro circuit, in Friday's semifinals. Laver won his quarterfinal match from England's Bobby Wilson 6-2, 8-6, 6-2.

The other semifinal pairs Australia's Ken Rosewall and Andres Gimeno of Spain. Rosewall beat Owen Davidson of Australia, coach of the British Davis Cup team, 6-3, 7-5, 6-3 and Gimeno ousted Aussie Fred Stolle 6-2, 6-1, 6-0.

Gaining the women's semifinals were Virginia Wade, Winnie Shaw and Mrs. Christine Janes, all of England, and Mrs. Fay Moore of Australia.

Miss Wade defeated Valerie Ziegenfuss of San Diego, Calif., 7-5, 6-3; Miss Shaw beat Corinne Molesworth of England 9-7, 6-3; Mrs. Janes turned back Mrs. Anette du Plooy of South Africa 9-7, 6-4 and Mrs. Moore topped Mrs. Joyce Williams of England 6-3, 6-2.

Redskins Sign Pair

WASHINGTON — The Washington Redskins signed two rookie defensive backs Thursday in a bid to bolster their pass defense.

The NFL club came to terms with Frank Liberatore, All-Atlantic Coast Conference cornerback from Clemson, and Tom Garretson, All-Big 10 safety from Northwestern.

Hawks Open Big 10 Season With 2 Road Doubleheaders

By JOE LOOMER
Iowa should have its hands full this weekend as the Hawkeyes open their Big 10 season with two conference doubleheaders.

The league action opens today at Columbus with a doubleheader against defending conference champion Ohio State. The Hawks then travel to Bloomington for a doubleheader with Indiana Saturday.

The Hawks will take an 8-1 regular season record into the four-game road trip due mainly to their fine pitching staff, which during one stretch earlier this month didn't allow a single earned run in 55 consecutive innings.

SCHULTZ

At the plate, however, the Hawks haven't been quite as impressive. Their team batting average is considerably below .200.

Hawkeye Coach Dick Schultz said Thursday he would send Donn Haugen and Al Schuette to the mound against Ohio State. Tom Staack and Jim Koering will pitch in Bloomington.

Ohio State, despite getting off to a slow start this year, will be shooting for its first straight Big 10 championship, a feat never before accomplished. The Buckeyes stand 9-11 for the season, but have started coming around in recent games.

They are led by sophomore catcher Bill McCleave who is currently hitting .476, second best in the Big 10, and pitcher Keith Stilwell and Ken Irvin, a pair of left-handers, who have allowed only seven earned runs between them in 50 innings this spring.

Indiana, a team that finished eighth in the conference last year, has its best team in years for the '68 season. The Hoosiers are off to a 9-4 start and Coach Ernie Andres feels that if two of his top pitchers, Jim Suskiewicz and Bob Woodward, can overcome arm troubles, Indiana can win the title.

Hoosier shortstop Bruce Miller is one of the best in the Big 10 at his position, and Grant Caalema and Ken Winston currently rank first and fifth, respectively, in conference hitting.

Schultz said that he expected Indiana to be a good hitting team, but that Ohio State had a stronger pitching staff.

Due to the cold damp weather this week, the Hawks got in very little practice outdoors and had to move back into the Field House to work out. Schultz said the team was just beginning to play well near the end of their exhibition series in Arizona last week, especially in the hitting department. He hopes the switch from outdoors to indoors won't throw off the players' timing for their weekend games.

Forward Pass Starts Push For Kentucky Derby Berth

LEXINGTON, KY. — Forward Pass led from start to finish Thursday in winning the Blue Grass Stakes and making himself a heavier favorite for next week's Kentucky Derby.

With Ismael Valenzuela subbing in the saddle for ailing Don Brumfield, the on-and-on colt from Calumet Farm jumped from the gate and never looked back.

T. C. Commercial from the Bwamazon Farm of M. A. Waldheim, finished second, also insuring himself a Derby start while Saddle Rock Farm's Francis' Hat was third.

Alley Fighter, the Santa Anita Derby winner from the Cragwood Stable, finished fourth.

Forward Pass roared the 1-1/8 miles of the Blue Grass, just a furlong shorter than the May 4 Derby distance, in 1:47 4/5, just two fifths over the Keeneland track record.

He carried Derby weight of 126 pounds.

Alley Fighter and his stablemate, Jig Time, went in pursuit of Forward Pass at the start and, running almost as a team, were two lengths off the pace until midway in the back stretch.

Players' Hot Putter Warms Cool Byron Nelson Tourney

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Winds of up to 21 miles an hour did not bother Gary Player, the man in black from South Africa, Thursday because he was putting "fantastically" — so much so that he had a four-under-par 66 to lead the $10,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic through the first round.

Without any outward exultation, Player announced it was "my best round this year."

It gave Player a one-stroke lead over fellow South African Harold Henning and Miller Barber and Jack Montgomery, a couple of hot-shooting Texans, who finished early.

Player Putts Well
"No use talking about the wind when putting like that," Player said, and he pointed to the fact that he not only had four birdies and no bogeys as a result of his sensational work around the greens but "I missed a 20-footer on 18 by a thousandth of an inch" that would have given him another birdie.

"But this is a tough course the kind where there is not much difference between a 68 and a 74," he added.

Preston Trail, where the tournament is being played, stretches 7,086 yards.

Barber also was having a great putting day. He sank them for birdies from 18, 35 and 30 feet, did not have a bogey, hit 17 greens in regulation figures and had only 32 putts.

Montgomery Sours
And then came Montgomery, who rolled in two 50-footers

GARY PLAYER
Owns Hot Putter

among his putts and took a bogey on only one hole because his putting soured momentarily. He three-putted the 12th hole.

"I was putting terrifically," the young man from Fort Worth said.

Henning rounded out the day of boastful putters — he took only 28 in firing his 67 and had eight one-putt greens.

"They told me the wind was gusting up to 21 miles an hour, but it felt like 50," he declared, although not blaming the wind for his three bogeys.

Scores Soar
The wind got up to as much as 30 miles per hour in late afternoon and scores soared accordingly.

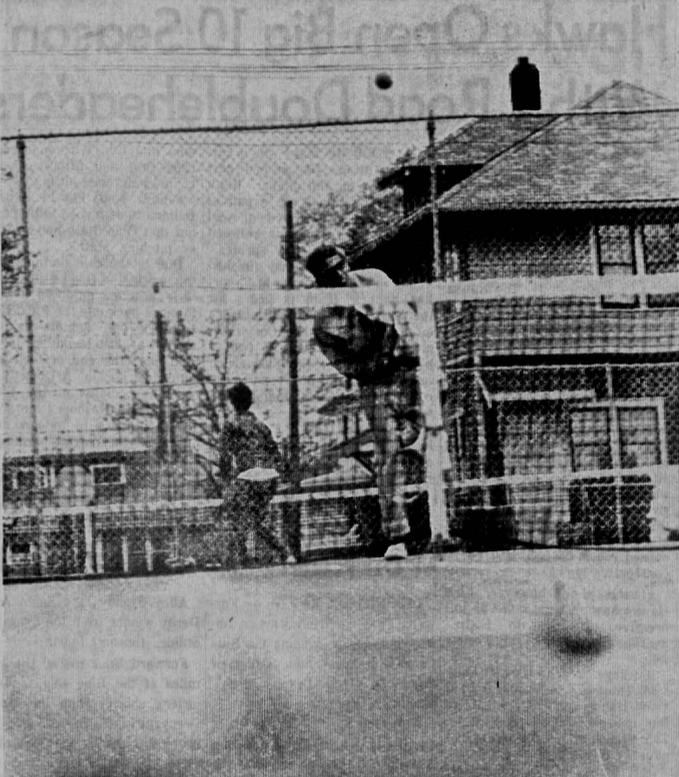

Nobody blamed it on the wind for seven withdrawals either. Julius Boros, former Dallas Open champion, had to quit after his three-over-par 38 on the first nine because of a muscle spasm in his back.

Sam Snead withdrew after shooting a 77. He said he hurt his hand. Art Wall posted a 40 on the front nine, then quit because he had the flu.

E. J. "Dutch" Harrison, a semiretired great; Johnny Pott, Dewitt Weaver and John Josephson all left because of illness. Amateur E. Grant Fitts failed to turn in a card for the second nine after firing a 41 on the first.

Worthington KO's Sox
ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Ageless Al Worthington loaded the bases with none out in the seventh, then struck out three straight Chicago batters to preserve a 3-2 Minnesota victory and pin the 10th straight defeat on the winless White Sox Thursday.

Worthington's strikeouts of Pete Ward, Tommy Davis and Russ Snyder dramatized the White Sox frustration just as they threatened to break the game open.

Pitcher Gary Peter led off with a single, Ken Berry walked and Tom McCraw singled to right, but Peters cou' not score because Tony Oliva threw a strike to Twins catcher John Roseboro to hold him at third.

Worthington then cut down the next three batters with an assortment of sliders and fastballs.

Santo Socks Braves
CHICAGO (AP) — Ron Santo drove in three runs with a pair of homers and Ferguson Jenkins pitched a seven hitter in leading the Chicago Cubs to a 5-2 victory over Atlanta Thursday.

Santo drilled a bases empty homer in the fourth inning for the first run of the game, and his two-run blast highlighted a three-run eighth inning.

Jenkins, unbeaten, posted his third victory in going the distance for the third time in four starts.

American League Delays Action On New Divisions

CHICAGO (AP) — The American League decided for the sake of harmony Thursday to play ball with the National League on mapping 1969 schedules. It delayed action on setting up a planned two-divisional slate for its 12-team expansion program.

"We set today's meeting as long ago as last February in order to possibly adopt a divisional, six-club scheduling plan for 1969," said Joe Cronin, American League president, "but last week the National League decided to expand to 12 teams in 1969 if it were feasible. We now must wait for the National's firming up of its 1969 expansion program before we can decide on our playing schedule. It would be difficult if we went ahead with a divisional setup not knowing what, or even if, two new teams the National will add."

Lou Carroll, National League attorney, sat in on the meeting of American League club owners Thursday.

Cronin said Carroll thought the National would expand at a feasible date, and, in the interest of harmony, they would like for the American League to delay its scheduling plans.

Carroll said the National would meet probably in mid-May, at which time the two new franchises for 1969 may be voted on. At last Friday's NL meeting in Chicago, franchise applications came from San Diego, Milwaukee, Montreal, Buffalo and Dallas-Fort Worth.

Cronin said, "we are cognizant of the problems between the two leagues and we will meet with the National League before May to discuss them."

Holzman Agrees To Knick Terms

NEW YORK (AP) — William "Red" Holzman, the veteran scout who found the elusive road to respectability for the New York Knicks, agreed Thursday to coach the National Basketball Association team again for the 1968-69 season.

"He was a reluctant dragon when he stepped into the breach last season, and we are all pleased that we were able to persuade him to continue," said Ned Irish, the Knick's veteran president.

Neither the length of the contract nor its financial details were revealed. However, the 47-year-old New Yorker must have received a sizeable increase.

After nearly nine years as a Knicks scout, Holzman replaced Dick McGuire as coach last Dec. 27 with the club in fifth place in the six-team Eastern Division.

A week later, the Knick dropped into the cellar. Then followed a six-game winning streak, an over-all 28-16 performance under Holzman and a third place final standing.

Hawkeye Court Open House Attracts 1,200

More than 1,200 persons have visited the University's new Hawkeye Court Apartments since model units in the 504-apartment complex were opened for public viewing April 7.

Open house guests, some who have come from as far away as Sioux City, have been viewing four model apartments, two of which have been furnished for the Open House, and have had a chance to look at the overall layout at the $4.8 million complex.

The University will be hosting the Hawkeye Court open house throughout the summer. Open house hours are from 2 to 5 p.m. weekdays and from 2 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

The courts are located two miles west of the central campus near the University's South Finkbine Golf Course.

Planned as part of the University's long-range development of community-type married student housing, Hawkeye Court is just north of the 192-unit Hawkeye Drive Apartments that were constructed in 1960.

The Hawkeye Court complex, which is one of the largest housing projects ever planned at the University, includes 54 two-story buildings containing the 504 apartments, 288 two-bedroom units and 216 one-bedroom residences.

He will speak at 4:10 p.m. The lecture is sponsored by the College of Medicine and the University Student American Medical Association.

Before becoming commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration in 1966, Goddard was chief of the Accident Prevention Program, where he was responsible for developing and administering a program to minimize deaths, injuries, and disabilities from accidents of all types.

Goddard received the Public Health Service Meritorious Service Medal in 1962. Among his other awards are the Federal Bar Association Liberty Bell Award, the American Medical Authors Distinguished Service Award, and the Federal Aviation Agency Distinguished Service Award.

Remove Causes Of Racial Unrest, Bishop Advises

DALLAS (AP) — Removing the causes of injustice is the only way to end Negro "demonstration, marches, unrest, civil disobedience and threats of violence," Iowa Methodist Bishop James Thomas says.

Thomas addressed the Uniting Conference of the Methodist Church, its highest law making body, Thursday night.

He traced the history of America's and Methodism's racial struggles.

The past, he said, was characterized by "the historic inhumanity of man" through the indignities of slavery, "the stigma of servitude, the shame of human exploitation, the awareness of brutalities and assassinations in a sick society."

Assassins Fail To Get Algerian On Second Try

ALGIERS (AP) — President Houari Boumediene escaped assassination outside the government palace today as would-be killers raked his car with machine-gun fire.

Boumediene, seated in the car, was cut slightly on the upper lip by flying glass. His doctors said he could continue "normal activities."

Soldiers and presidential bodyguards killed two of the attackers, official sources said. There were unconfirmed reports that a guard had been killed in the exchange of gunfire.

The only other known casualty was Boumediene's chauffeur, who was wounded in the right shoulder.

The assassins made their move as Boumediene was leaving the palace after a Cabinet meeting.

It was not immediately known who was behind the attempt to murder the Algerian president or how many persons took part in it. A heavy guard was thrown around the palace.

This was the second attempt in less than three months to remove Boumediene by force.

UI Counseling Service Works To Handle Student Problems

By MIKE REIDER

"I'd like some help in choosing a major."

"I wish I had more confidence in myself."

"My girl and I just don't seem to get along."

"What kinds of jobs am I best fitted for?"

These are the types of student problems which the University Counseling Service must deal with every day.

John O. Crites, director of the Counseling Service, said recently that the counseling facilities were being used to capacity. "This is due largely to the influx of new students in the last few years," he said. "The number of clients tends to grow as student enrollment increases."

Crites and his 15-man staff of counselors now interview more than 1,500 students each year. All interviews are kept strictly confidential, Crites said. No information is released to anyone except upon the student's written request.

About 75 per cent of the students who seek counseling aid are concerned about educational or vocational problems.

A counselor may, for example, advise a student on how to improve his study habits, or if he is having difficulty in choosing a major, the counselor may administer a series of tests, which point out the student's specific areas of interest or aptitude.

The same type of tests are sometimes used to tell a student what kinds of jobs he should apply for based upon his abilities. Counselors, however, do not provide job placement services.

Clients may seek help with problems of a more personal nature besides academic and vocational problems. If a student is having trouble communicating with his parents, if he can't seem to make friends or if he feels emotionally unstable, a counselor may, through private interviews, help the student see the reasons behind his difficulty.

A student sometimes makes 10 to 15 appointments with his counselor before he feels that he has been helped, Crites said. Appointments are usually scheduled on a weekly basis.

Sometimes personality inventories are administered to determine basic personality traits of the client. Inventories measure such characteristics as dominance, sociability and thoughtfulness.

"Many students with personal problems are really just searching for an identity," Crites said. "Personality inventories tell a student what kind of person he is and what he thinks about the world."

Another method for handling personal problems is through group therapy. Crites said that some students received greater benefits from discussing their problems with other students who are facing similar dilemmas. They might find it easier to participate in a group relationship than in private conferences, he said.

Occasionally, Crites said, a student would come to the Counseling Service with an emotional problem that was too serious for them to handle. If a student is suffering from neurosis, if he, for example, is threatening suicide, he is sent either to a University psychiatrist or to the psychopathic hospital for therapeutic treatment.

According to a pamphlet published by the Counseling Service, counselors are "dedicated to the idea that college years should be satisfying, productive, rewarding years. Counseling services are designed to help college students grow in self-understanding so that they may use their assets effectively and plan attainable goals for the future."

Crites said that because the Counseling Service was already handling a full load of clients, many students did not receive help until after their problems had become critical.

He expressed the hope that someday in the near future the Counseling Service would be expanded so that every student would have the opportunity to receive counseling.

In this way, he said, the Counseling Service will be able to help students avoid problems rather than trying to treat problems after they have already become serious.

Faithful As Ever, Doa Traps Owner

DETROIT (AP) — Police investigating a clothing store burglary Wednesday were told the burglar had fled, leaving his dog behind.

They told the animal, "Go home" and followed him to a dwelling where they allegedly found the dog's owner, J. C. Ealey Jr., with some of the loot. Ealey was booked on a breaking and entering charge.

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Daily Mail Thursday launched a great Atlantic air race between the top of the Empire State Building and London's Post Office tower. Anyone can join in.

The race starts next year to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the first trans-Atlantic flight by two British officers, Capt. John Alcock and Lt. Arthur Whitten Brown, on June 15, 1919.

Prizes will total more than $100,000.

One objective of the race, the Daily Mail said, is to point up the amount of time plane travelers lose in getting from city center to airport and back.

That's why the course, to be run in either direction, will be run between the 86th-floor observation platform of the Empire State Building in New York and in the "Top of the Tower" restaurant in London's Post Office tower, Britain's tallest building.

The Daily Mail is offering two prizes of $12,000 each for the fastest time between the Empire State observation platform and the London Post Office tower or vice versa. The Mail does not specify the plane to be used.

The Irish airline Aer Lingus is offering a prize of $12,000 for the fastest time between London and New York via Shannon Airport using a regularly scheduled airline flight and British Overseas Airways Corp. a prize of the same amount for the trip in the opposite direction.

United Air Lines Buys Air Buses For Use In 1971

CHICAGO (AP) — United Air Lines (UAL) announced today that it is spending nearly a half billion dollars on 30 jet air buses, with a capacity of 266 passengers each and a cruising speed of 600 m.p.h.

Another 30 of the McDonnell Douglas DC10s are on option, George E. Keck, UAL president, told stockholders at their annual meeting.

Delivery of the DC10s, each costing about $15.5 million, will begin in August 1971, Keck said.

"These additional aircraft anticipate passenger traffic growth in the 1970s," said Keck, whose company now operates the largest jet fleet in commercial aviation.

"Selection of the McDonnell Douglas DC10 was preceded by an arduous evaluation in which three types of advanced technology jet transports were studied," he said. "The final choice was difficult because of near similarity in many important details."

Each huge subsonic jet will be powered by three General Electric CF6-36 turbofan engines costing a total of $64 million for the 30 aircraft.

Bednerik Play To Be Staged

"On A Motorcycle, You Gotta Ride Behind," an original play by Marya Bednerik, G. Winston-Salem, N.C., will be presented May 1 through 4 at 8 p.m. at the Studio Theatre.

Tickets are now available at the Union box office. Tickets are free to students upon presentation of identification cards. Non-student price is $1.

According to Miss Bednerik, the play is the story of a woman who meets a 20th-century centaur — a man on a motorcycle — and brings him home. The play is being directed by Bob Gilbert, assistant professor of dramatic arts.

Miss Bednerik, who will receive her Ph.D. degree in dramatic arts in August, wrote the play in partial fulfillment of degree requirements. She has also written two other plays produced at the University, "Lottie Moon" in 1964 and "No Message" in 1967. All three plays have received Samuel French Drama Awards.

"Only a few books say anything of enduring significance about war and the moral response to it. This is such a book. By interviewing a wide range of dissenters . . . and relating their opinions by judicious commentary of his own, Mr. Finn has produced a classic on contemporary politics." —WILLIAM V.
