

Hospital Kitchen Rated Unsanitary

Major capital improvements are needed to raise University Hospitals food service to an adequate sanitation level, according to a recent University inspection report.

According to the report, the food service received a sanitation rating of 51 because it had a poorly designed, inadequately equipped and undersized kitchen. A rating below 70 indicates serious sanitation and control problems or a lack of essential equipment or both. A rating of 85 is satisfactory.

The food service kitchen has less than one-third of the recommended refrigeration capacity and half of the recommended dry storage area. Heating pipes passing through the kitchen raise the temperature 10 to 20 degrees above the recommended temperature and only one dishwasher is in operation.

Sewer Odors in Kitchen
Also, sewer odors escape into the kitchen because of ineffective venting.

While the report cited sanitation inadequacies of the kitchen, it commended the Nutrition Department, which operates the food service.

The crowded conditions in which food is prepared increases chances for possible contamination, according to the director of the University Inspection Division, Franklin Kilpatrick.

Although the rating is still more than 30 points less than a satisfactory rating, the food service has improved its rating from a low of 28 in 1962 when the inspections began.

Kilpatrick said the rating was about as high as it could get under present physical conditions.

High School Rating Low
The only other University operated food service that did not meet at least a minimal sanitation level was University High School, which had a rating of 63. The report did not explain the reason for the low University High School rating. Kilpatrick said that many upset stom-aches have resulted from sanitation deficiencies in the various food services.

According to the report, a 1966 epidemic of the "flu" that affected 300 Quadrangle dormitory residents "pointed to food as one of the principle vehicles of transmission." However, the report noted that the cause could not be established because of late notification.

Another incident in 1965 involved rodent claws in sausage and resulted in a policy that the University buy only from properly inspected sources. Ratings for all University food services follow:

Gaullists Face Vote Censure

PARIS (AP) — Left-wing deputies launched a determined attack Tuesday on President Charles de Gaulle's 10-year-long regime, seeking to capitalize politically on scholastic ferment and ever-spreading strikes that are costing France millions of dollars a day in lost production.

The French people "have had enough of this regime of personal power," Waldeck Rochet, secretary-general of the French Communist party, told the National Assembly in debate on a motion of censure expected to reach a vote tonight.

The president's position is not directly threatened, for his term runs until 1972, but passage of the motion would oust Premier Georges Pompidou and his Cabinet the executors of De Gaulle's policies.

As if in preparation for the debate the Cabinet decided there would be no punishment for 44 students charged with violence in the street riots that led into the nation's strike crisis. Summoned by De Gaulle, the ministers approved an amnesty bill that will be submitted to Parliament today. Of the accused youths, 21 had been convicted and 23 were facing court action.

The Gaullist coalition has a narrow majority in the National Assembly, and its leaders expressed confidence that it would survive the vote. Communists and the Federation of the Democratic and Socialist Left charged in the censure motion that the government had refused to deal effectively with demands of students, teachers, farmers and workers.

The French Communist party called for an end to De Gaulle's regime and the formation of "a true republican regime opening the way to socialism."

Political informants said De Gaulle was considering a move to enlist the backing of the French people for a wide reform of French political and social institutions. They reported he was thinking of consulting the nation, possibly as early as next month, by means of a referendum.

He may announce this move in a television broadcast to the country that he has scheduled for Friday evening.

Informants said he may also reshuffle the government to eliminate some of the ministers who have come most directly under fire because of their handling of the student riots and the widening industrial unrest that has idled nearly eight-million of France's 16-million workers.

Strikes were affecting almost every facet of French life in the gravest threat yet posed to the Fifth Republic. The situation was strongly reminiscent of the turmoil that brought De Gaulle, the Free French leader of World War II, back to power in 1958.

Tourists as well as Frenchmen suffered, and hundreds of Americans turned to the U.S. Embassy for help.

The strike stopped trains, subways and buses. Airports, seaports and mines were closed.

All flour mills in the area of the capital shut down. Coping with the threat that this might lead to a shortage of bread, a government agency released 10,000 tons of flour from security stocks. That represents about 10 days' consumption for Paris.

City after city slowed toward a halt. In Bordeaux, Brest, Clermont-Ferrand, Lille, Lyon, Marseille, Poitiers, Rennes and Toulouse, the situation was the same or similar to Paris.

The capital was heaped high with uncollected garbage. Dust, leaflets and handbills littered the unswep streets. Only a relative handful of taxis were still available for transport and they were due to strike today.

Defense Outlays To Be $80 Billion
Deputy Secretary of Defense Paul Nitze told newsmen that the White House more money is needed primarily because of two developments that followed preparation of the January budget: the Communist Tet offensive in South Vietnam and seizure by North Korea of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo on Jan. 23.

Nitze said a great bulk of the $3.9 billion would be used in Vietnam. But $230 million would be earmarked for Korea and $300 million would go into an emergency fund to meet any unforeseen developments in Asia.

Johnson Asks Supplemental Appropriation
Besides seeking more defense money, Johnson also asked for a supplemental appropriation of $791.6 million to meet mandatory federal pay increases voted by Congress in December. This is in addition to $177 million he asked earlier for the same purpose.

Civilian and military pay boosts will cost $1.5 billion during the current year, but the administration said about $500 million of the total will be absorbed by departments and agencies out of their existing budgets.

Johnson's plea for more defense funds served as a substitute for a more modest appeal he submitted in February. At that time he asked for $1.7 billion more for Vietnam but suggested the increase be offset by transferring funds from other Pentagon accounts.

Nitze conceded that about $1 billion of the anticipated offset has been erased since February, adding further to the need for more money.

King Fund Drive Falls Way Short Of Student Goal

The Martin Luther King Scholarship Fund drive among University students did not come anywhere near achieving its goal.

Approximately $5,000 in cash donations and pledges was counted at 10 p.m. Tuesday as student volunteers brought in the final day's collections. The amount includes $840 collected Monday. A goal of approximately $17,000 has been set by fund leaders.

Ken Wessels, A2, Dyersville, a member of the fund raising committee, said he expected an additional $500 to $1,000 in donations would be handed in today, bringing the total to $5,500 or $6,000.

"This is still only a drop in the bucket," said Wessels. He said he was disappointed in the response of students.

Wessels said that he hoped that some of the organizations on campus that have not turned in money would reconsider and turn in money later this year.

"Although we would like to continue the drive, we will be unable to do so because of the upcoming final exams," Wessels said. However, he added, anyone who is willing to continue the drive for funds can do so after contacting Mrs. James Murray, at the University Foundation office, in the Union.

The student drive was the first leg of a four-part drive to collect $50,000 by encompassing the University faculty and staff, Iowa City residents and other Iowa communities.

Baker Convictions Rejected

By CHERYL ARVIDSON

MINNEAPOLIS — The Presbyterian General Assembly, the highest judicial organ of the church, Tuesday rejected decisions of disturbing the peace and unity of the church which were made against a University of Iowa professor and his wife in Iowa City.

Joseph E. Baker, professor of English, and his wife Matilda were convicted on charges of disturbing the peace and unity of the First Presbyterian Church, 26 E. Market St., Iowa City, by the church session, local ruling body of the church.

JOSEPH E. BAKER

Baker, who learned of the decision Tuesday night in Iowa City, told The Daily Iowan that he and his wife were very pleased with the decision.

"We feel we have made our point to the whole church," Baker said.

Baker said he was not surprised with the reversal, but added that the case could have gone either way.

The Rev. Jack Zerwas, pastor of the church, was in Minneapolis Tuesday night and could not be reached for comment on the decision.

The Bakers' trial began in Iowa City in December, and a decision which found the Bakers guilty was delivered Jan. 31.

Students Seize Hamilton Again

NEW YORK (AP) — About 150 to 200 Columbia University students occupied Hamilton Hall on the school's Morningside Heights campus Tuesday night, challenging the authority of the university administration for the second time within a month.

Lines of the confrontation hardened when Acting Dean Henry Coleman entered the building shortly before 7:30 p.m. and ordered the demonstrators to leave. He said if they did not, the university had "no alternative" except to summon city police, as had been done three weeks before.

The students inside countered that they would not move under threat of police action.

A spokesman at police headquarters said that police officers were ordered at 8:20 p.m. to assemble at a point near the university and to stand by for further instructions.

The confrontation grew out of the student rebellion that began 29 days ago and resulted in the occupation of Hamilton Hall and four other university buildings by the rebel students.

After a week, on April 30, 1,000 city police intervened, arresting 700 sit-ins. One hundred persons were injured.

Since then, the university has suspended formal classes.

The newest demonstration was in protest over the summoning of four student leaders to a dean's office for an inquiry into their role in an earlier demonstration in March.

The trial then went in appeal form to the Iowa Synod and to the General Assembly.

The trial, a rarity in recent church history, began after the Bakers' vocal and written criticism of and objections to plans to construct a new church. The Bakers maintained that the church was an architectural gem. The Bakers also criticized Zerwas.

The General Assembly trial began in Minneapolis May 15. A judicial commission of 15 members heard the case and voted 13 to 2 to uphold the Bakers' conviction. However, when the majority and minority opinions were put to a vocal vote in the assembly session, the 802 assembly delegates voted against the commission's recommendations. The vote was approximately 2 to 1 to overrule the commission.

After the local commission found the Bakers guilty, Baker and his wife were sentenced to indefinite suspension from the church's communion, and Baker was suspended from the exercise of his office of ruling elder of the church.

Poor People Marchers Take A' Cultural Tour'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Poor People's Campaigners made their first mass march on Congress Tuesday. They were met by dozens of police and were permitted to proceed only after breaking up into small groups.

It was an hour of quiet confrontation with the legislators after an initial contingent had come earlier in the day in small groups to House and Senate office buildings.

The demonstrators — estimated by newsmen to number between 200 and 300 —

Formal Approval Of Voting Rules Given By Council

The City Council formally approved Tuesday night new voter registration guidelines that will allow students to register to vote more easily.

The new policy was approved by a 4-1 vote, with Councilman Lee Butherus dissenting.

Any individual age 21 or over who has lived in Iowa for 6 months, the county 60 days and the precinct 10 days may now register to vote.

Mayor Loren Hickerson said a new registrant will be asked if he is registered anywhere else and if so, the registrant will have to sign a card to that effect. The city clerk, Hickerson said, will then send the card to the registrant's hometown city clerk.

Councilman C.L. (Tim) Brandt noted that he had had two telephone calls and one personal visit Tuesday praising the council for its decision made Monday.

"I would like to point out," Brandt said, "that we did not grant a person the right to vote. All we did was give him the right to choose his place of residency."

In other business, the council adopted a parking restriction policy recommended by City Manager Frank R. Smiley. According to the new policy, when traffic congestion becomes serious along any street, a three-phase restriction on parking will be set in motion. Each phase will be separate and approved by the council.

The three phases are:
• Prohibit parking on one side of the street.
• Prohibit parking on the other side from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.
• Prohibit parking on the second side at all times.

The overruling of a judicial commission's recommendations is a rare occurrence, according to a spokesman for the assembly.

Under the Presbyterian constitution, the case will be returned to the judicial commission for further hearing. A panel of five members elected from the assembly will represent the assembly at that hearing.

The special hearing decision will be resubmitted to the assembly members. If the assembly again rejects the charges,

LBJ Asks Extra $3.9 Billion For War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress Tuesday for permission to spend an extra $3.9 billion on military operations, mainly in Vietnam.

Terming it an urgent request, Johnson said speedy approval is needed "so that we can meet our present military commitments effectively and without delay."

If Congress approves the long-anticipated money plea, actual defense outlays in the 1968 fiscal year that ends June 30 will hit $76.2 billion, up $2.5 billion from the January budget estimate. The rest of the requested money will be spent later.

Defense outlays in the coming fiscal year are expected to approach $80 billion.

SAIGON (AP) — American pilots reported Wednesday a rapid strengthening of air defenses around Vinh, the North Vietnamese city where most U.S. bombing raids have focused since President Johnson's bombing curtailment order March 31.

A U.S. spokesman said Navy fliers from the carrier Kitty Hawk heavily damaged Tuesday a new early-warning radar complex 16 miles northwest of Vinh.

Increased anti-aircraft fire and surface-to-air missiles were cited as part of a "big buildup" in Vinh, 145 miles north of the demilitarized zone and 25 miles below the present bombing limit at the 19th parallel.

North Vietnamese units equipped with tanks, meanwhile, were reported poised for a possible major attack on Dak To and other American bases guarding against enemy infiltration from Laos into central highlands of South Vietnam. It was believed that the enemy might be trying to seize a large part of western South Vietnam as a bargaining point for North Vietnamese envoys at the Paris talks.

U.S. B52 Stratofortresses pressed a saturation bombing campaign in the highlands in an effort to blunt the enemy force. Bombers made four raids Tuesday night on North Vietnamese positions near Dak To and Kentum.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, retiring U.S. commander in Vietnam, said during a farewell trip to Bangkok that North Vietnamese infiltration is running at a record level of 15,000 troops in April, two and one-half times the previous rate.

Before leaving Saigon to visit American servicemen in Thailand, Westmoreland said, "The intensity of the war seems to be increasing." He said circumstantial evidence linked the rising battle tempo to the start of the Paris negotiations.

For the present, the greatest peril appeared to be in northern South Vietnam, where intelligence officers say at least three North Vietnamese divisions are operating.

The U.S. Command said the American Marine helicopter base at Marble Mountain, near Da Nang, was shelled for the second straight day. Light damage and casualties were reported.

South Vietnamese forces reported killing 170 enemy troops in one battle near Quang Tri, capital of the country's northernmost province, and another fight near Da Nang. Nine government soldiers were listed as killed.

ALSO IN THE NEWS LAST NIGHT:
PARIS — U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman expressed hope that something will come from a British-Soviet meeting in Moscow on Vietnam. Other Americans professed to see a faint prospect of progress in preliminary peace talks here, and perhaps their enlargement.

HOUSTON — Doctors at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital began the world's 15th heart transplant operation. The recipient was identified as Louis John Fierro, 47, of Elmont, N.Y. The donor was Hubert Brungardt, 17, of Pasadena, Tex., who died of a brain hemorrhage.

Quiet protest could make graduation meaningful

Commencement 1968 will follow tradition and be a very dignified and very meaningful recognition of graduating seniors and degree candidates. The difference in commencement this year will be the rapid change of draft status following the ceremony for the majority of men involved.

The war in Vietnam is painfully close to the men who will be finishing their education in June. The war is close to all students.

Various degrees of protests have been launched against this war. These protests have been received with mixed opinion and mixed response. Some University students who will be receiving degrees are organizing a protest that will be new to the campus. This protest, if accepted by the other students receiving degrees, will be a quiet, dignified and solemn expression of dissatisfaction with American involvement in Vietnam.

Graduating students are asked to carry small white cardboard crosses. These crosses are to be left on chairs in the Field House after the ceremony. The protest, called "Expression of Concern, 1968," has been organized to express the meaning of graduation to the public in terms of the waste which will be brought about by the improper allocation of resources that result from the present military draft policy. The organizers hope to muster public opinion against the draft policy and to remedy the waste of talents. The demonstration will be conducted by responsible students in a meaningful attempt to express their opinions.

The "Expression of Concern" is not a movement by any campus organization. It would only involve graduating students. Graduates are asked to attend a meeting at 7 tonight in the Union Ohio State Room to plan the success of this protest or to vote against it. Students who have opinions on the plan should attend this meeting and share their thoughts.

The "Expression of Concern" offers graduates a chance to speak for themselves at commencement. If the graduates agree on this expression and participate in it, Commencement 1968 can add a new tradition to the University — a commencement that has a relevant and realistic view of the graduates' futures. — Cheryl Arvidson

Housing safety standards deserve more attention — now

The Daily Iowan's discovery of the fact that half the University's Greek houses do not meet either city or University housing standards points out what could be a serious problem with a lot of the student housing in Iowa City.

Serious negligence by Greeks, the city, or the University doesn't seem to be the problem, just laxity or ignorance of the standards. Things always seem to be all right for the moment, and there are so many more important things to do.

But health and safety standards as well as fire inspection codes serve a purpose only when they are enforced — and they aren't being enforced very carefully now.

It is my guess that perhaps a fourth of the student body lives in rooms, houses, apartments or trailers that do not meet common-sense standards of health and fire safety. It doesn't bother the residents as long as the heat lasts all winter, the water continues to flow, and the toilets flush reasonably well; safety standards aren't something you think about very often.

But they're a lot like comprehensive auto insurance: you wonder why you keep renewing it until you watch hailstones smash your windshield and put dents in your hood — an emergency precaution that is worth the both every now and then.

Much of the blame for local housing deficiencies belongs to the curious qualities of the student population itself. More than 17,000 students have to live in this city — most of them off campus — at least nine months of the year, and the yearly turnover, needless to say, is tremendous. In addition, undergraduates coming to the University for the first time probably know next to nothing about housing safety standards — if they cared at all.

Landlords are generally not anxious to check the safety of their property because many buildings are old and run-down to start with, repairs are expensive, and few tenants stay for more than three or four years. As long as the University overlooks dangerous living conditions, and the city doesn't get behind landlords and push, conditions will remain just about the way they are now. It isn't a pressing problem at the moment.

But all it takes to start a fire is just one section of badly damaged wiring; all it takes for a student to burn to death is just one burning staircase blocking a single fire escape.

It is a situation that deserves attention. And as the years pass and those old buildings get older, it will deserve more. — Roy Petty

The Garden of Opinion 'JFK, LBJ' two good books in one

by Rick Garr

"JFK and LBJ: The Influence of Personality Upon Politics," by Tom Wicker. (New York, William Morrow & Company, 1968), 297 pages, $5. Available at Iowa Book & Supply Co.

Don't let the title fool you: this is no book in the Evelyn Lincoln tradition of the Kennedy-Johnson war tales. Tom Wicker, the young chief of the New York Times Washington bureau, has compiled two books in one, each either of which could easily stand alone as political analysis of some merit.

The first half of the work is devoted to the sad way in which young President John F. Kennedy lost his control over Congress in 1961 and saw his legislative programs stunted on every hand.

Part two tells how Lyndon Johnson, the supreme politician, lost the "consensus" he gained in 1964 by committing himself to a military victory in Vietnam only two days after Kennedy's death.

Wicker, author of "Kennedy Without Tears" and a popular political column (In the Nation), weaves some surging stories of the inside dog-fighting in the Kennedy half of the book; and in the last half he concentrates on stating that because of his background, Lyndon Johnson could hardly have been expected to take any other path in Vietnam.

Wicker admits that because of Kennedy's different background (less faith in generals, liberalism, intellectualism, etc.), he would have had another perspective on the Vietnam situation in late 1963 on through early 1965, but he does not say Kennedy would have stayed out.

Not wholly a collection of factual accounts, Wicker's book is more a sophisticated reconstruction of probable happenings as put together from a distance. If Truman Capote's "In Cold Blood" was a historical novel, then "JFK and LBJ" is historical fiction, although with an insider's second-hand perspective.

Wicker says that because Kennedy led a divided nation, this very fact split was reflected in the House in 1961 to such a degree that his narrow victory in enlarging the Committee on Rules left too many scars for later success.

And, he says there is no real connection between Kennedy's loss of Congressional power and Johnson's loss of his mandate, except that both situations illustrate quite vividly the interplay of strong personalities and dramatic events.

It is Wicker's basic thesis that no matter what the conditions a man faces in office, his behavior will be determined mostly by his past conditioning. Kennedy was lenient and cautious to a point; Johnson was determined not to lose South Vietnam as he had seen China lost.

If his sentences are sometimes long, and if he often repeats crucial points, it should be forgiven because one must realize Wicker is putting together a chain of events from a Freudian bleacher in left field.

His general assumption is sound, but he could have used several more examples of other men and expanded it into a major work.

On the whole, though, for what is there, "JFK and LBJ" is a stimulating, pressure-packed account of painful political blood-letting in a most historical era. It is worth the few hours it takes to be read.

Vietnam war won't succeed without a rousing war song

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — One of the troubles with the Vietnamese war is that no one has been able to write a war song to go with it. Everyone knows you can't have a really good war without a socko song that people can sing and whistle back in the United States.

For four years, Tin-Pan-Alley has been working day and night on a war song, but without success. The other day I looked in on two friends of mine, Al and Leo, who, despite the peace talks, are still determined to come up with a war song this country could be proud of.

BUCHWALD

When I walked in, Al was singing, "It's a long way to the Mekong Delta/ It's a long way to go/ Keep your eye out for the Viet Cong/ They're a sneaky bunch you know." "Al tore up the manuscript in disgust. 'I just can't seem to get it.'"

Leo said, "I don't know what's the matter with us. How do you like this one: 'Pack up your napalm in your old kit bag and smile, smile, smile!'"

"It doesn't seem to me," I had to admit. "The trouble with this damn war," Al said, "is that it's got too many sociological aspects. It's so complicated."

"That's right," Leo agreed. "Have you ever tried to write lyrics about a pacification program? I tell you, it's downright discouraging. Do you know at one time we were the best war-song writers in the business?"

"We wrote 'Shut Your Trap You Dirty Jap or Uncle Sam Will Shut It for You' in 12 minutes in 1942," Al said.

"And don't forget the 'Adolf Hitler Polka,'" Leo added.

"Those were the good old days," Al said, "when you could really get your teeth into the enemy. We had yellow-belly Nips and goose-stepping Krauts."

"And fat-lipped Mussolini hanging over the balcony," Leo said.

Charity not part of American way of life, reader asserts

To the Editor: Charity's in the air these days. Students are collecting money for a seriously ill child, for a Martin Luther King scholarship fund, and doubtless for other things.

Yet the state of Iowa had an $87 million dollar tax surplus last year. How much of this is going for medical aid, or to set up scholarships? Has the state even offered, as the Federal government does, to equal the amounts raised by students and others? Not on your editorials, it hasn't.

The child dying of a kidney ailment would be treated free in Canada, England, Ireland and Sweden. But God help her here if contributions fall short of the incredible $20,000 needed to restore her to health. In the meantime, rich doctors pay thousands to lobbyists to prevent free medical care for the poor, and add to this evil another: fee-splitting. It was recently disclosed to Congressional investigators that one physician had made $130,000.00 in one year — just distributing "diet pills" to overweight women.

by Johnny Hart

So sing your songs of charity, but don't sing them to me. Mine begins and ends with me and mine, but there's little enough as it is. I used to give to every charitable outfit going, but not anymore — not until my government ceases pouring out tax dollars in an unending flood, then raising taxes on top of it. I even gave upwards of five gallons of blood to the Red Cross during my Army days (they love to bleed G.I.'s), then I found out a pint of my good red own, if needed, would pay $20.

What I really need to do is find a way, like the very rich, to avoid paying income taxes, and get some of Uncle Sugar's dough — dough he gets from working people. Maybe I can set up a few dummy corporations . . . get an oil-depletion allowance . . . start a church . . . or stand on a street corner in Washington with a foreign flag in my hand chanting, "My country needs dough or it's gonna go Communist."

Reviewer took gamble with Collegium—and lost

By STAN ZEGEL

Attending a concert presented by the Collegium Musicum is always a gamble. Sometimes you win, sometimes you don't.

The Collegium specializes in very old music, played on the old-fashioned instruments for which it was written. The instruments which differ the most from their modern-day versions are the winds, and Collegium musicians are often able to play them so well that we wonder why the instruments are no longer in use.

At other times, however, it is quite apparent why they were discarded. About 250 people had such a revelation Friday evening when the Collegium gave its final concert of the season in MacBride Auditorium.

When the winds are in tune, they can be pretty indeed. When they are not, they can sound like, well . . . SDS in a shower room.

Sometimes, older wind instruments just aren't strong enough to do the job in the first performance of Robert Block's "Concerto for Recorder and String Quartet," the recorder — a wooden flute-like instrument — played by Block himself was overwhelmed by the strings. Perhaps if the recorder had been heard, the piece would not have sounded like just what it was — someone's first attempt to write music.

The cutest number of the evening was "Asons Ago Blue" by Robert Dorough. Imagine, if you will, several musicians sitting around, straight-faced, playing something that sounds as if it came from the court of Henry VIII on a venerable set of instruments that includes a viola da gamba — a pegless primitive cello.

The music is slow and mournful. Slowly, the tempo sneaks into a faster pace, an occasional modern sounding chord is repeated more often, and suddenly, you realize that you're listening to a jazz group playing a swinging blues number instead of music from the 16th century.

It's that kind of surprise that makes a concert fun.

Also heard Friday evening were the Collegium Singers with some pretty songs by Brahms and Haydn, and a string group playing sonatas by Vivaldi and J.S. Bach. A performer not listed on the program was a recording engineer who kept wandering onto stage throughout the evening to move a microphone a millimeter or two. Some "ags in the audience even began to applaud his appearances, but I don't think he ever got the hint.

Music from the Orient begins this final week of the musical season. Thursday evening, at 8 p.m. in MacBride Auditorium, an English language Chinese opera, "The Butterfly Lovers," will be part of a program of song, dance and drama from the far east. Tickets are not required for this program, which is produced by the Department of Chinese and Oriental Studies.

Tonight at 8 will find Costanza Cuccaro, first-place winner of the 1967 Metropolitan Opera National Auditions presenting her final recital here before leaving for Italy this summer, where she will study voice on a Fulbright grant.

She will be accompanied for the program by the University Chamber Orchestra in the Union Main Lounge. No tickets are required.

She will sing arias from the Handel operas "Julius Caesar" and "Sampson," as well as a Mozart piece.

Several of Robert Graves' love poems have been set to music by the singer's husband, Edwin Penhorwood, and these will be heard after J.S. Bach's "Cantata No. 51 (Jauchzet Gott in Allen Landen)" which is said to have been written for one of Bach's more famous sons, Carl Phillip Emanuel Bach.

Miss Penhorwood will conclude her program with the aria from Bellini's "La Sonnambula" which won her the coveted award.

A reception will be held for her following the concert.

The final musical event of the season happens Thursday evening in the Union Music Room at 8. No tickets are required for a chamber music concert to be presented by a string quartet composed of Patricia Wolhuis, Andrew Dukwall, Jonna Helwig, and Nancy Pierce. These students were selected by Union Board to give this concert as the first in a series of programs in which outstanding musicians on campus will be invited to perform in the Union Music Room.

The quartet will play the first movement from Mozart's "Quartet in B-flat Minor (K. 589)," which should not be confused with another piece in the same key known as "The Hunt." They will also play the three-movement "Quartet No. 2 in A Minor" of the recent composer Bela Bartok.

Clarinetist William Nichols will join the group for the highlight of the program, the very beautiful "Quintet in A Major (K. 581)" of Mozart.

This piece is one of the greatest masterpieces ever written. It is a beautiful thing which you will find yourself humming for days. It alone will make the concert worthwhile, and is a wonderful way to close this season of music.

Fictional biography of Hemingway reads like 'Papa' but isn't imitation

By TOM FENSCH

"Standing On A Drum" by Irwin R. Blacker (New York; G.P. Putnam's Sons, 1968), $5.95. Available at Iowa Book & Supply Co.

On first glance it would seem that the life of Ernest Hemingway is too big for biographical treatment. He was his own best writer — and he lives best through his own books — the half-disguised European epics, "The Sun Also Rises," "The Michigan Years" which were fictionalized in the Nick Adams stories, the hunting in Africa in "The Green Hills" his views of life in "Death in the Afternoon," "Across the River and into the Trees" and "A Moveable Feast."

But Irwin Blacker, a professor at the University of Southern California has done an admirable job in viewing Hemingway's life in "Standing On A Drum."

In Blacker's novel, the characters are disguised just enough to make the reader ask "did this really happen?" Hemingway is called Wade Tyree and instead of coming from Oak Park, Ill., as Hemingway did, Tyree comes from Hudson, Ohio, from the same kind of spiritually broken family that Hemingway later wrote about.

Hemingway's first wife, Hadley, is pictured, somewhat kindly, as Marilyn Tyree. F. Scott Fitzgerald and his wife Zelda are pictured as "The Golden Boy and the Golden Girl," Randy and Wilma O'Brien. And it is the same — Wade Tyree saw the same insanity in Wilma O'Brien's eyes as Ernest Hemingway is supposed to have seen in Zelda Fitzgerald's eyes, the first time they met.

There is more — Mary Hemingway, Ernest's last wife and the one he was obviously most happy with, is pictured in Blacker's book as the lonely daughter Julia Tyree. Hemingway's Key West retreat is pictured as Cozumel, Mexico, and the fishing boats are the same. Hemingway's "Survival Is Victory." And Hemingway's "The Old Man and the Sea" is also included under a different title. Hemingway's earlier wives and offspring are all pictured to a greater or lesser extent, and with realism.

The saving grace for Blacker's book is that while a fictionalized biography of the great novelist, it also has some great gifts of its own. Blacker's portraits of war, particularly, are finely etched and vibrant. Blacker seems to have either captured Hemingway's gifts as a war novelist or done his own research well — he was in the Second World War.

His gift for dialogue remains faithful to Hemingway too. Tyree talks with the Hemingway touch, but with enough originality to make every page interesting. The other characters are believable.

Readers of Blacker's book who begin it with a distrust based on beliefs that the book would be a second-rate imitation of Papa's works can be reassured. "Standing On A Drum" is excellent. It breathes with a life of its own, it carries the reader forward with the power of Blacker's narrative, and there is enough originality in Blacker's plot to hold it apart from being an exact copy of Hemingway's life.

It should stand as one of the very few good fictional biographies of a major writer.

Buy it today. Who knows, Hemingway himself would probably grin, beat his chest and like it too. He might have even offered Blacker a drink.

under the tea by Mike Lally

Overheard at Kenney's closing Monday night from Lee Weingard: "We should go barricade ourselves into Old Capitol and then make the administration guess our demands!"

Speaking of Old Capitol: SDS is raffling it off at ten cents a throw. The winner is to be announced at a Hootenanny this Saturday night at the Union patio.

Speaking of Hootenannies: Michael Dennis Browne's new book is not to be titled "November Orgasms" after all, but rather: "The Role of Food in Women."

Thanks to Jerry Sies and HSP for winning students the right to vote in Iowa City.

Speaking of students: in one of her first editorials the editor of The Daily Iowan, Cheryl Arvidson, praised students involved in the Martin Luther King Scholarship Drive, assuming there were more people involved in this than in demonstrations, and that it was better publicity. The first assumption has been proved wrong since the editorial was written, and it is interesting to note that of the very few people who did volunteer to work on the drive many had also volunteered to go to jail for their beliefs on last Nov. 1st.

Students Aid Poor People

An Iowa City group announced Monday plans for two caravans to Washington, D.C., to aid the Poor Peoples Campaign.

Richard Killen, G. Iowa City, a member of the Iowa City Support Committee for the Poor Peoples Campaign, said that the group is now engaged in a recruiting drive to gain support for the two caravans.

Killen said the first caravan will leave Iowa City for Washington in time for a May 30 rally, a grass-roots project gaining support throughout the country.

The second caravan will leave June 5 and will carry food and supplies collected in the city for the support of the campaign.

Killen said that most of the group plan on returning in time for the opening of the University's summer session, which begins June 12.

Food and medical supplies for the project will be collected until May 30 at the Trinity Episcopal Church, 320 E. College St.

Senate Backs Lynd, Fills Committee Rolls

Suspended Roosevelt University (Chicago) Prof. Staughton Lynd was given support in his bout with that University's administration in a resolution passed by the Student Senate at their meeting Monday night.

Dismissal Draft Approved

The Faculty Senate voted Tuesday both for adoption of the final draft for dismissal of teaching assistants and against establishment of a faculty observer corps to observe student protest demonstrations.

The draft for the dismissal of teaching assistants will be sent to Pres. Howard R. Bowen and the Academic Board, made up of University deans, members of the administration and the Faculty Senate chairman, for adoption and insertion in the University Operations Manual.

Faculty Council, executive body of Faculty Senate, has been working on the draft all semester. It is a combination of previous documents written by rhetoric and core literature teaching assistants, the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors and the Faculty Council.

Draft Spells Out Specifications
The draft spells out specifications for dismissal and outlines informal and formal procedures to be followed in dismissals or settlements of complaints.

The document also provides accused assistants with an option of having two graduate assistants, three faculty members or only faculty members on a hearing committee which will listen to formal complaints. This point was requested by assistants.

The Faculty Council, at the request of the Senate, drew up the proposal for establishment of a faculty observer corps but did not endorse the document because of much disagreement within the council about necessity for such a corps.

The Senate adopted a resolution aimed primarily at the federal government. It stated that organizations wishing to use the University Placement Office to interview students for jobs must provide a representative to meet students to discuss company policy and questions of national interest which concern positions they are filling.

In order for such a meeting to take place, 25 or more full-time students must sign a written request for the meeting. The request must be submitted to the University placement officer three weeks before the campus visit is scheduled.

Resolution To Write Johnson
The Senate also passed a resolution to write to Gen. Louis B. Hershey, director of the U.S. Selective Service System, and President Johnson to express its "intense dissatisfaction" with draft boards which revoke deferments of students who interfere, as a means of protest, with operation of the selective service system's provision of manpower to the armed forces.

A long range planning committee for the University was also established at the Tuesday meeting.

A story in Tuesday's edition of The Daily Iowan reported that policemen put a hole in Monday afternoon's Department of Art black balloon happenag with nightsticks. Actually, the police only put a hole in the balloon figuratively, by calling a halt to the activity. The DI regrets the error.

Big Frank Howard Eyes Triple Crown

NEW YORK (AP)—It took the American League 65 years to produce half a dozen Triple Crown winners. Now, it may wind up with three in three years.

Frank Howard, the big man in Washington, appears to be well on his way toward being the final leader in batting, home runs and runs batted in. He took the No. 1 position in all three categories last week on the wings of his record-shattering home run pace.

The 6-foot-7, 200-pound outfielder moved from sixth to first in batting with a 13-for-30 performance that resulted in a 28-point increase to .336. He leads the co-runnersup, Ray White of the New York Yankees and Willie Horton of Detroit, by 30 points.

In homers, big Frank whacked eight for a total of 17, seven more than the Tiger's Horton, in second place. The Senators' slugger drove in 15 runs, giving him 34 and a lead of eight over the No. 2 man, Baltimore's Boog Powell.

Counting a pair of homers he hit toward the end of the previous week, Howard had 10 homers in six games for a major league mark. Ty Cobb of Detroit was the AL's first Triple Crown winner in 1909. Then came Jimmy Foxx of the Philadelphia A's in 1933 and Lou Gehrig of the Yankees in 1934. Ted Williams of Boston in 1942 and 1947 and Mickey Mantle of the Yanks in 1956.

A span of 10 years followed before Baltimore's Frank Robinson led in all three major departments in 1966. Carl Yastrzemski of the Red Sox duplicated the feat last season.

By JOE LOOMER

Timely hits by Jim Koering and Pat Prina salvaged the second game of a doubleheader for Iowa as the Hawkeyes split with Drake here Tuesday, losing the first game 2-1 and winning the nightcap 5-2.

Koering, who had just entered the game as the third Hawk pitcher in the fourth inning, laced a double down the leftfield line scoring Jim Spiggos and breaking a 2-2 tie. Prina followed with a ground single to leftfield through a drawn-in Drake infield to score Frank Cataldo and Koering for Iowa's final two runs.

The Hawks scored their first two runs of the game in the first inning without a hit. Three bases on a sacrifice, a double steal and a scuffling fly did the job. There were only three Iowa hits in the games and two were by the pitcher, Koering.

Starter Todd Hatterman threw the opening three innings for the Hawks and was relieved by Earl Foster in the fourth. Foster was followed by Koering who shut out the Bulldogs on two hits over the final 3 1/2 innings got credit for the win, upping his record to 6-2.

Hawkeye Bob Mattson lost a heartbreaker in the opening game when Drake pinch hitter Mike Griffith smashed a two-out, two-run homer in the sixth inning to win the game for the Bulldogs, 2-1.

Mattson, now 1-2 for the season, was sailing along with a one-hit shutout for five innings before Drake pitcher Jim Urban singled to lead off the sixth. Mattson retired the next two batters, but then Griffith, who was hitting only .150 going into the game, got hold of an inside fast ball and put it over the leftfield wall 340 feet away.

The Hawks tallied their lone run in the second when Bob Perkins scored from third while John Blackman was caught in a rundown between first and second base.

The Hawkeyes, who are now 19-10 for the year, will wind up their season with two Big 10 doubleheaders at home over the weekend. Friday the Hawks play conference co-leader Michigan State and Saturday they face fourth place Michigan.

—He's Rhetoric Instructor, Rugger—

Ken Kekke Is No Average Joe College

By CHUCK STOLBERG
 Asst. Sports Editor

Sitting in a big, soft chair with a rhetoric theme booklet in one hand and a pencil in the other, Ken Kekke was the picture of contentment.

A coffee pot was on the top of a bookcase, a desk lamp was burning, the window was open and a light breeze coming in made the atmosphere comfortable.

Kekke looked like the typical College Joe with his shoes off and his feet curled up at the end of the chair.

But Kekke isn't the average Joe College. The room was his office in the Old Rhetoric Building. He is a teaching assistant in rhetoric and in his spare time he plays rugby well enough to be numbered as one of the top players on the Iowa team that is currently enjoying one of its finest seasons with a 9-4 record.

Kekke is working on a Ph.D. in comparative literature, a relatively new discipline. He came to the University in the fall of 1964 on a National Defense Education Fellowship after earning his B.A. at Wesleyan University in Connecticut with a major in French. He bypassed the M.A. program and went directly into the Ph.D. program.

He turned down an athletic scholarship to accept an academic scholarship to Wesleyan in 1960.

Kekke is from Chisholm, Minn.,

a town of about 7,000 people 90 miles from the Canadian border.

Kekke played 3 years each of varsity baseball, football, and basketball in high school and started in all three sports. In his senior year his high school basketball team finished fourth in the state and he was named to the all-conference team.

It was last year when he roomed with Larry Mitchell that Kekke first became interested in something like a touchdown in football — in his first game which the Hawks won 9-0.

Kekke plays center for Iowa, a position that can be likened to a football halfback. He enjoys the game and the contact.

"I enjoy the offensive aspects of the game more than the defensive aspects. In short, I like to run with the ball," he said.

Speaking about rugby, he said, "It is a good spectator sport because it's fast moving, but it hasn't developed much of a following here at Iowa."

One of the reasons for this is that the field ruggers play on is so far out and away from the main part of campus, he added. The Hawks play their home games on the field next to the Hawkeye Apartments.

"There are some people who come out to see the games, but many of them don't understand it. It looks like a chaotic mess out there since there are no set plays. However, once the game is explained, it's easy to understand," he said.

There are two basic factors in the game itself, according to Kekke. One is conditioning and the other is teamwork. "These mean more in rugby than in any other sport I've ever played."

He also emphasized the work done by the forwards, noting that they are the ones who do all the dirty work and who get very little credit for what they do.

Kekke enjoys teaching too. He has one rhetoric section and instructs in the writing lab for four hours every week. He plans on teaching at the college level after he earns his degree. With his emphasis on French in his undergraduate days, he said he would probably teach either English or French. Next year he will be teaching Core Lit.

Kekke started teaching at the University in the fall. It was his first experience with teaching. "Everyone has reservations and fears at first, but they are quickly dispelled," he said.

All teachers have self doubts and wonder if they are getting anything across to their students, he said.

Mitchell, his friend and coach says, "From the beginning I could tell that Ken had the ability to play rugby. He has a high knee action that makes it difficult to tackle him."

At first he was still playing football on the rugby field, trying to cut back to the inside as if he was trying to pick up blockers when he carried the ball. Now he's learned to run straight and to use his strength to break through."

Over the summer Kekke worked very hard on his kicking and when Mitchell gave him an opportunity to show what he had learned, Kekke responded by narrowly missing a 60-yard attempt at a penalty goal and made good on two conversion attempts (2 points each).

This was typical of a Kekke maneuver: success achieved through dedication.

rugby. Mitchell played on the team at the time and is now the coach. Mitchell got him to come out for the team and Kekke scored 3 tries (3 points each) —

Turbines Will Run On USAC Circuit

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—The "Flying Wedge" Lotus turbine race cars which smashed Indianapolis Motor Speedway records during time trials for the Memorial Day 500 race will make the full U.S. Auto Club championship circuit this year, owner Andy Granatelli announced Tuesday.

"We will race our turbines at every track and in every race on the entire USAC championship trail as long as they are capable of running and we have drivers to put in the cockpits," he said.

The decision breaks a long-standing rule of the STP division of Studebaker Corp., which has had cars in the Indianapolis 500 since 1946 but avoided other races.

"Regardless of how well they do on Memorial Day, we think fans across the country will want a chance to see them compete on their hometown tracks," he said.

Two of the turbocars, piloted by Joe Leonard of San Jose, Calif., and Graham Hill of London last Saturday smashed the Speedway qualifying record set in 1967 by Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa.

Leonard hit a four-lap average of 171.559 miles per hour and Hill 171.208. A third STP-Lotus turbine, driven by Art Pollard of Medford, Ore., qualified at 166.297 although Pollard had only six laps of practice.

Leonard and Hill are 1-2 in the front row and Pollard has 11th spot in the 33-car lineup May 30.

NO DOZ ANNOUNCES THE EXAM PILL

(If you flunk, at least you'll be awake.)
 Sure you've used NoDoz to help you stay awake the night before an exam.
 But have you ever thought of taking NoDoz to make yourself a little sharper during the exam itself?
 Well, maybe you should.
 Let's say you're one of those guys who doesn't have to cram like mad the night before. (Even so, you're probably not getting your usual amount of sleep.)
 And let's say the morning of the big exam, you find yourself heading for class, kind of drowsy and unwound and wondering if The Great Brain has deserted you in the night.
 What do you do?
 You panic, that's what you do.
 Or, if you happened to read this ad, you walk coolly over to the water cooler and wash down a couple of NoDoz, the Exam Pill. And before long you're feeling more alert and with it again.
 You see, NoDoz helps bring you up to your usual level of alertness, so you don't just sit there in a fog; it's got what it takes to help restore your perception, your recall, and even your ability to solve problems.
 In fact, NoDoz contains the strongest stimulant for your mind that you can take without a prescription. Yet it's not habit forming.
 Okay, but what about the guy who goofs off all term and has to jam everything in the night before.
 Are we saying NoDoz will keep him from flaming out?
 Nope.
 We're just saying he'll be alert and awake.
 As he flunks.

Chinese Opera Set for Staging At UI

An attempt to transplant traditional Chinese opera into a modern American version will be demonstrated at 8 p.m. Thursday in Machride Hall Auditorium. Admission is free.

A Chinese counterpart of "Romeo and Juliet," "The Butterfly Lovers," will be presented by 17 students in a course in Chinese dramatic art under the direction of Hsi Cheng, associate professor of Chinese and Oriental studies.

"The Butterfly Lovers" is based on ancient tragic folklore and is one of the most popular love stories among the Chinese people, according to Cheng. He revised and translated the Chinese opera into English for presentation by an American cast.

"The Butterfly Lovers" will be presented in the style of 18th-century Chinese opera which includes many traditional techniques of Chinese operatic expressions.

Using these traditional skills of dancing in addition to playing instruments and singing Chinese, the cast attempts to reproduce rare Oriental authoritativeness.

The complete program consists of the opera, a flower drum song, a sword dance and a pole dance. On Tuesday there will be a number of Japanese songs and a slide show with narration both in English and Japanese.

Students who will be performing Chinese numbers are: Thalia E. Alberts, A4, Eules, Tex.; Anne L. Mahl, A4, Des Moines; Janice L. Peterson, A4, Iowa Falls; Jannie C. Babbe, A4, Fort Dodge; Tan-lai Woon, A4, New York City; and Judith B. Lloyd, A4, Memphis, Tenn.

The bamboo flute will be played by Judith D. Magee, A3, Fort Madison, who helped transcribe Chinese music into the Western scale.

Accompanied by Robert K. Sanders' flute music, four students in a Japanese language course will sing two well-known Japanese songs. Students are: Sharon M. Baker, G, Northboro; Sheryl A. Voelker, A2, Stanwood; Elizabeth C. Hsuan, G, Taipei; and Bennett L. Payne, A2, Iowa City.

Ruth A. Flanagan, A2, West Des Moines, and Susan L. Yamasaki, A4, Honolulu, will give the slide show of Japan.

Goddard Quits Post As Chief Of Drug Unit

WASHINGTON — Dr. James L. Goddard, chief of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is resigning July 31 to join a data processing company in Atlanta, FDA announced Tuesday.

Goddard, FDA commissioner for 28 months, will become vice president of EDP Technology Inc. He will be director of a southeast regional office which is to open in Atlanta.

Goddard's wife has relatives in Atlanta, and he served there for 3½ years as chief of the Public Health Service Communicable Disease Center before taking his present post in January 1966.

Goddard has been under almost continuous attack by forces in the drug industry and by some congressmen. He has also had differences with some policies of the Johnson Administration.

Theodore O. Cron, a close aide, said Goddard has strong support from his superiors and isn't being forced to leave by opponents either inside or outside government.

"It's just a case of being tired," said Cron. "The pressure has been tremendous." Goddard spoke at a University of Iowa on May 1 concerning the relationship between his agency and the medical and drug industries.
