Viet Cong Troops Reported Moving Into Saigon Area

SAIGON (AP) — Fighting developed in northern and southern suburbs of Saigon before dawn today. Vietnamese police said elements of two Viet Cong regiments had infiltrated north of the capital.

The enemy was reported equipped with heavy mortars, rockets and antiaircraft weapons.

Thousands of civilians streamed into Saigon to escape the fighting in northern sections, where a 24-hour curfew was declared. Police said units of the Viet Cong's Dong Nai Regiment had moved to a point two miles north of the center of the city, near the Saigon radio station and the zoo.

On the northwestern outskirts, troops of the Viet Cong's 101st Regiment were said to be infiltrating just beyond Tan Son Nhut airport at a point six miles from the city's center.

Fighting Near Bridge

Police sources said the Dong Nai units had started moving toward Saigon two days ago. They said information about the enemy's plans was obtained from an officer of the regiment who was captured Friday.

On the south, U.S. 9th Infantry Division soldiers and Vietnamese police reported killing 14 Viet Cong near the "Y" bridge, where major fighting occurred after the May 5 enemy drive against Saigon.

An American soldier was reported killed in the combat that followed an assault by a Viet Cong platoon on a 9th Division unit patrolling the bridge. As the enemy retreated, Vietnamese police fired on them from concealed positions.

Ben Cat Shelled

Viet Cong, meanwhile, rained more than 300 mortar rounds on Ben Cat, a district capital 25 miles north of Saigon, and nearby positions on the 8th South Vietnamese Infantry Regiment. Initial casualty lists were light.

Far to the north along the demilitarized zone, a surface-to-air-SAM-missile that was fired at U.S. B52 bombers suggested stepped-up North Vietnamese defense against the big Stratofortresses that have been pounding enemy targets heavily in recent weeks.

The U.S. Command said the B52s dodged the missile three miles northwest of the allied base at Gio Linh.

Khe Sanh Chief Wanted Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The colonel who commanded marines through the siege of Khe Sanh indicated Friday he would have preferred more counter-attacking but he said higher authorities selected mainly a "set piece battle."

Marine Col. David E. Lownds said he never felt Khe Sanh was being used as "bait" to lure a big North Vietnamese offensive.

But he added, without appearing to be critical:

"Gen. Westmoreland didn't consult me on the strategy he was going to use in Vietnam."

Gen. William C. Westmoreland is U.S. commander in Vietnam.

Lownds told Pentagon newsmen his assignment was to defend Khe Sanh and that mission did not change through the duration of the attacks between January and mid-March.

There was some questioning of the soundness of U.S. strategy earlier this year when the marine outpost below Vietnam's demilitarized zone was under heavy attack by North Vietnamese units.

"It was chosen that it would be more of a set piece battle," the colonel said.

NEWS IN BRIEF

ALSO IN THE NEWS LAST NIGHT:
DES MOINES — Gov. Harold Hughes will deliver the keynote speech at the State Democratic Convention which gets under way at 11 a.m. today. There are 4,059 delegates with a total convention vote of 3,093 but alternates will swell attendance to more than 6,000.

MONTEVIDEO — Uruguay imposed severe restrictions on the use of electricity and the troubled country's 2.6 million citizens, already plagued by drought and inflation, faced a dark bleak winter.

DES MOINES — Four members of the Iowa Crime Commission said many of the commission's recommendations are "geared to the criminal with little concern" for the victims of crime.

CHICAGO — The grand jury returned an indictment charging Frederick L. Andriess, 25, with the fatal shooting of a 21-year-old Sioux City, Iowa, girl who came to Chicago searching for work. The body of Carol Sue Eddeman was found April 4 by an employe of the Embassy Motel in the room she had rented. She was shot in the chest.

Poor People Marchers Stage Birthday Parade

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 100 demonstrators in the Poor People's Campaign staged a birthday parade to the apartment of Rep. Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark.), chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Friday night.

Police barred their entrance to the building and there were no incidents in contrast to the 18 arrests outside Mills' office on Capitol Hill the previous day. Mills had left his apartment earlier for dinner on his 89th birthday anniversary.

Continuing rains left the campaign's campsite mired in ankle deep mud Friday but failed to dampen the spirits of the protesters.

Most of the 2,400 men, women and children in the plywood camp turned down offers to be moved to grier quarters in nearby churches, and plans for a large-scale evacuation were called off.

The Rev. James Bevel, an official of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, sponsors of the campaign, said only about 150, mostly women and children, took advantage of the opportunity to leave the soggy camp.

Disease Danger Cited

The camp manager, the Rev. Jesse L. Jackson, said earlier he felt most of the people should be taken out to avoid the danger of disease. Jackson said 2,000 beds had been made available for evacuees.

"We're going to try to get as many families out as we can," Jackson said then. "I feel that if they stay here we run the danger of people getting sick and maybe starting an epidemic."

He said volunteer doctors had been asked to administer flu shots to the camp residents.

The rain tapered off but the skies remained cloudy.

Campaign officials called for boots, raincoats and tons of gravel and vowed to

Spock Trial Hears Government Aide

BOSTON (AP) — A top Justice Department aide told a federal court jury Friday that Dr. Benjamin Spock and his antiwar associates left a briefcase full of draft cards and facsimiles with him and demanded he accept them as evidence of a federal crime.

When he refused, they accused him of dereliction of duty, John McDonough, an assistant deputy U.S. attorney general, testified at the five-day-old trial of Spock and four codefendants.

"One asked me where they could go to file dereliction of duty against the attorney general," McDonough said of the confrontation in Washington last fall. "I said they could go either to Congress or the people."

Spock, 65, is on trial with Yale Chaplain William Sloane Coffin Jr., 43; Michael Ferber, 23, a Harvard student; Mitchell Goodman, 44, a New York writer and teacher; and Marcus Raskin, 33, a Washington research director.

They are accused of conspiring to counsel and abet young Americans to avoid the draft, a federal crime carrying a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

One of the chief incidents upon which the Jan. 5, 1968 indictment is based was a rally at the Justice Department in 20, the same day of the meeting with Washington to protest the draft last Oct. McDonough.

hold the camp and carry on their fight for more government help for the needy. But former California Gov. Edmund G. Brown, who sloshed through the ankle-deep mud on a visit, said, "I think this place should be abandoned."

Rain Dogs Marchers

There have been brief showers nearly every day this week, and a steady rain fell for nearly 24 hours beginning Thursday. The forecast calls for more rain today.

The campsite was once a grassy plot stretching for six blocks along the Reflecting Pool between the Lincoln Memorial and Washington Monument. Trucks and thousands of feet long ago beat the grass into the dirt and it is now an unbroken sea of mud.

With a mixture of prayer, cajolery and song, Jackson soon had the throng clapping and singing and promising to carry on, however, Friday.

"Black man's been suffering for two hundred years in America," cried a woman. "We can suffer for a few months more."

Conferees Could Pull Teeth From Senate Attack On Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The major controversy left in the wake of the Senate's passage of a broad crime control bill is over provisions aimed at undoing Supreme Court decisions on police interrogation and holding of suspects. And those provisions may mean the undoing of the entire bill, when House-Senate conferees get hold of the legislation.

By decisive margins, the Senate went on record in favor of reversing the court's decisions. The votes were 55 to 29, 58 to 27, and 63 to 21.

Proponents said they hope the Senate's action will have an impact on the court, although there is nothing in the bill to prevent the justices from ruling the provisions unconstitutional if they are enacted into law.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told reporters Friday he doesn't know what the impact would be on the court but that he knows what it would be on the public unless something is done.

Limiting Tenure Cited

"Let this situation accumulate," he said, "and you are going to have serious thinking about limiting the tenure of judges."

A constitutional amendment would be required to end the lifetime appointment of Supreme Court justices and other federal judges.

After passage of the crime bill Thursday night, by a 72 to 4 vote, Sen. Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich.) said he has no doubt that the court, if it wishes, could easily reconcile the provisions adopted by the Senate with its past decisions.

Griffin said Congress had shown great restraint and patience so far in the exercise of its powers. He emphasized the striking from the bill provisions that would have stripped the court of jurisdiction to review or reverse any confessions or line-up identifications upheld by a state court.

Congressional Powers Cited

But Griffin said that in any confrontation with the Supreme Court, Congress has other rowers. He said Congress can determine by law the number of justices on the court and also their salaries, al-

De Gaulle Power Request Sparks Additional Violence

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle Friday night threatened to quit unless the French voted him powers to make sweeping economic and social reforms.

The immediate reply from students was renewed violence in the streets of Paris and arson fires at the Bourse, the stock exchange. Labor was skeptical at best.

In a television-radio broadcast, the 77-year-old president asked for a "mandate of renovation" — a referendum to be held in June that would give discontented students, workers and farmers a greater voice in their own affairs. No date for the referendum was announced.

First reactions from union and opposition political leaders ranged from skepticism to rejection.

Former Premier Pierre Mendes-France, a moderate leftist, said the millions of striking workers and rioting students have, in effect, already given De Gaulle his answer.

Student demonstrations for university modernization, followed by labor strikes for higher wages and better working conditions, have gradually paralyzed France's major industries and most public services.

Fresh violence between students and police boiled up in the streets of Paris, Lyon, Nantes and elsewhere immediately after General de Gaulle's 7-minute address.

Violence Follows Address

At the city of Lyon, a police commissioner was crushed to death Friday night by a truckload of stone pushed at police forces by student rioters, authorities said. It was the first fatality officially reported in the three weeks of violence that have swept France.

Hit-and-run student disorders also were reported in Bordeaux and Nantes as well as across a broad stretch of Paris.

"We don't give a damn for the general," chanted thousands of students massed near Paris' Lyon railroad station and the Place de la Bastille to protest the expulsion from France of their leader, Daniel Cohn-Bendit. Police replied to their barrages of stones with tear gas and concussion grenades, noise bombs that stun those nearby.

Hundreds of youths late Friday night rattled open the iron gates of the Bourse, swarmed onto the trading floor, piled up wooden quotation boards and set them afire. Firemen put out the blaze but parts of the Bourse were badly damaged.

Speaking to the nation, De Gaulle spoke of the necessity to assure "the elementary existence of the country, as well as public order."

President Warns Of Stagnation

"Our country is at the edge of paralysis," he said. If the crisis is not settled, he went on, "We will tumble through civil war to the most odious and most ruinous adventures and usurpations."

Grim-faces, the President said the unrest was a sure sign that French society must be changed to permit citizens a greater share in the management of their affairs.

"Frenchwomen, Frenchmen, in the month of June you will decide by your votes," he said. "In case your reply is 'no,' it is self-evident that I will not remain any longer in my office."

De Gaulle has been president for 10 years. His re-election in 1965 to a second seven-year term means he cannot be removed from office in an election until 1972. But he can resign.

De Gaulle's address did little to calm the nation. Georges Seguy, secretary-general of the Communist-led General Confederation of Workers, said workers "don't want a referendum but better working conditions."

The French Democratic Federation of Labor, moderately left, declared that the speech "confirms the necessity to reinforce the strike movement."

"It is not a referendum that will solve the problems," said Waldeck Rochet, secretary general of the powerful Communist party. "The government is condemned in the long run."

Talks Threatened As Hanoi Hardens On Bombing Issue

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam seemed to slam the door Friday on any hope of agreement with the United States short of American retreat on the bombing issue, but declined to take the initiative for breaking off preliminary Vietnam peace talks.

The word from Hanoi, both from its delegation here and from leaders in North Vietnam, sounded harder and more uncompromising than ever as the two sides prepared for a fifth round of talks Monday after a four-day recess.

The prospect thus was for either a long-term deadlock here or a showdown which could bring the talks to the brink of a collapse, for which neither side wants to take the responsibility.

A North Vietnamese delegation spokesman said that on the Hanoi side there was no question of breaking off the meeting, which he invariably called "official conversations."

On the American side, willingness to "stay the course" was the keynote.

A U.S. spokesman, William J. Jordan, referring to a description by the North Vietnamese of U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman as "perfidious and obstinate," retorted sharply, "We don't feel we're obstinate. We know we're not perfidious. We are trying to find answers to serious problems which are the concern of people all over the world. The sooner we stop throwing adjectives around and come to grips with real issues, the sooner we'll get something done."

Conferees Could Pull Teeth From Senate Attack On Court

though the salary of a sitting justice may not be reduced.

Still ahead is a struggle within a Senate-House conference committee for agreement on the final terms of the legislation.

Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.), who will head the House conferees, has said he would rather have no bill at all than accept the Senate provisions designed to undo Supreme Court decisions.

Sidewalks Were Planned In Area Where Pair Died

Funds for the construction of a sidewalk, where two University students were hit and killed by a car late Thursday night as they walked along the shoulder of a road, were included in the 1968 city budget, according to Kenneth F. Millsap, assistant city manager.

Mary Sue Miller, 23, Randolph, and James Robert Vanek, 22, Denville, N.J., were hit from behind as they walked along the right side of North Dubuque Street, two blocks south of the Mayflower Hall, about 11:30 p.m., police said.

The driver of the vehicle that hit them, Gregory Ward Burt, West Des Moines, was arraigned Friday morning on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated (OMVI).

A female passenger who was riding with Burt at the time of the accident has not been identified by police. The investigation into the accident is continuing, police said.

Burt, who attended the University in 1965-1966, is currently a student at Westmar College, Le Mars.

He was arraigned before Police Court Judge Marion Neely and was released on a $500 bond.

County Atty. Robert W. Jansen said Friday that other charges may possibly be filed.

Miss Miller, 20, an art major, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren J. Miller of Randolph.

Vanek, 25, a graduate student in geology, was recently divorced. He received his B.S. at the University in 1966. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Vanek of Denville, N.J.

Dr. T. T. Bozek, county medical examiner, said that both Miss Miller and Vanek were killed immediately. Her body was hurled over a guard rail almost into the Iowa River. His body was found next to the guard rail.

A siamese cat that Miss Miller was carrying was also killed.

The proposed sidewalk is to extend from the Park Bridge to the Mayflower Hall on the west side of north Dubuque Street, according to Millsap.

Columbia needs to revamp 'monarchical' administration

In its relationship with students, faculty and surrounding community, Columbia University is 25 years behind most other institutions of its size and importance. As a result, resentment on the part of each of these groups has been mounting for some time. Students and junior faculty want to see a relaxation of the monarchical rigor of the university's government. The neighboring community wants an end to what it has come to regard as the patronizing and at times callous attitude of the university.

For all three of the dissenting groups, the proposed gymnasium on land purchased from the city in Harlem's Morningside Park, ostensibly the root cause of the riotous outbreak, was a hook to hank their grievances on. As a matter of fact, Morningside residents were not really concerned over Columbia's acquisition of two acres of rock and shale in a park that has too often been a training ground for muggers and rapists.

What upset the community was the fact that Columbia's ambitious expansion program in recent years has tended to neglect common courtesy and community relations. The university has been slow to recognize its neighbors and involve them in decisions and actions that directly affect them — e.g., in the tearing down of buildings and the eviction of tenants, some of whom have dwelt in the neighborhood for as long as 30 years.

None of these legitimate complaints, however, justifies the type of protest undertaken by the student agitators. The means used by student militants exceeded both moral and legal limits. The extensive destruction of private property, the theft, photocopying and circulating of executive correspondence, the inflammatory suggestions that campus buildings be set afire — such behavior is obviously too radical to be justified by any responsible norm. (It was apparently no accident that the week-long excesses at Columbia took place after the recent national assembly of the Students for a Democratic Society at the University of Indiana. There this radical student organization designated the week of April 21 as a period of agitation for reform at certain academic institutions it considered to be the more intransigent. Columbia, it is reliably reported, was singled out as a target of special concern because of its long-standing record of administrative immobilism.)

Before the occupancy of the buildings took place, moreover, the university administration had been made very clearly aware of the grievances of the students and of the community. Ad hoc faculty and student committees had been formed. Substantial changes were being considered by the administration. Some of these changes were even in progress.

Why, then, the unnecessary destruction? Negro students showed that they could occupy a building and make their point without wrecking, stealing and mutilating. It is one thing to make one's point clear by resistance and legitimate agitation; it is something else to tear open files and demolish.

Columbia's special fact-finding commission, appointed on May 6, will doubtless indicate specific reforms needed within the university structure. It will, we hope, urge the university to show more sensitivity to the legitimate demands of students, faculty and community. It will also, we hope, review existing methods of trustee appointment.

In regard to the Morningside community, the fact-finding commission, we trust, will urge that the neighborhood be given a voice in decisions that affect its very existence — specifically in the issues raised by Columbia's development projects. The neighborhood must be listened to.

Beyond these considerations, the day is here when all parties at Columbia (and other colleges and universities in the country) are going to have to make startling revisions in their thinking. The administration, for its part, must realize that it has on its hands a group of young people who consider themselves free of the codes that have traditionally restricted students. The students want the privileges of the adult: so be it.

One cannot help wondering, though, whether it would not be the better course for Columbia and the City of New York to drop legal action in all but very grave, calculated and obdurate violations of personal or property rights. Otherwise, wounds are slow to close, the charges would be hard to prove, the students' records would be besmirched. Entry on a police docket sometimes involves lifelong effects.

Since Columbia has not yet committed itself formally to the abandonment of the guardian role, it seems to be appropriate in this situation to let the administration, with student and faculty having an appropriate voice, measures as are required. After this action has been taken, then the changes and consequences of the dropping of its guardianship attitude should be allowed to realize themselves fully. And when that happens — when the university's semi-parental function becomes past history — let all parties be put on notice: administrators, faculty, students, townspeople, police and alas, mothers and fathers.

Outcome of Paris talks may hinge on laundry bill

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — It has been predicted that the peace talks in Paris will go on for a very, very long time. Both the North Vietnamese and the United States claim to have won the war, and it's very hard to get either side to give in on any points when the other believes he is talking to a loser.

The only thing that could speed up the talks and bring about some sort of solution is the fact that the discussions are being held in Paris. At the going rate for hotels and food, the real question is, which side can hold out the longest without going broke?

The State Department is optimistic that the United States, despite its gold crisis and balance-of-payments deficit, can still meet at the Hotel Crillon where the U.S. delegation is being housed.

A spokesman told me, "We had a setback the first week when Ambassador Cyrus Vance ordered breakfast in his room, and it almost wiped out the entire U.S. peace talk budget. But Vance is now taking his breakfast in the American Embassy mess and we should be on our feet in a couple of weeks."

"Isn't Ambassador Averell Harriman still eating breakfast at the Crillon?" "Harriman has a personal fortune of $50 million. If he eats breakfast at the Crillon, that's his own business. Of course, if the conference continues through the summer, there may not be much of that $50 million left, and then he'll have to eat breakfast at the Embassy mess like everyone else."

"There have been rumors," I said, "that the U.S. may halt the bombing of North Vietnam unconditionally when the American delegation's first laundry bill comes in. Is there any truth in it?"

"None whatsoever. We have a special contingency fund for laundry as well as pressing, and we can always get a supplemental appropriation from Congress in case we run out. I would like to say there has been far too much emphasis on what this conference is costing the Americans. The North Vietnamese are hurting, too. They thought they could come to Paris and stay at the Hotel Lutetia on the Left Bank, but after only a week they had to move out. If this doesn't indicate a weakening of their position, I don't know what does."

"But isn't the French government picking up the Hanoi delegation's tab?"

"They were until De Gaulle discovered the North Vietnamese were eating in the hotel restaurant, a la carte. If the Communists hadn't moved out of the city to a house in the country, we might have had an agreement this week on the question of halting North Vietnamese troop infiltration to the south."

"Well, when do you see a break in the conference?"

"When Ho Chi Minh receives the first taxi bill from his delegation in Paris. It's one thing for them to save on the hotel, but they're still going to have to spend money getting to and from the conference hall."

"One of the news commentators said he thought that a great deal more progress could be made if the talks were adjourned to the Crazy Horse Saloon in Paris where they have an excellent strip tease show."

"This was discussed," my informant said, "but it was rejected the first day when both parties agreed they couldn't afford the cover charge."

If you like pool—or like to read—don't buy 'Shoot It,' critic says

Med student's revenge: 'I'm sorry, but florists must pay cash first'

To the Editor:

An open letter to a local florist as well as other Iowa City businesses:

I would sincerely like to thank you and express my compliments to you for the fine service which you are doing for the Iowa City business community. The city could use more men and women of your caliber.

Astute business people, whose keen minds, motivated by fiscal inertia, serve admirably in their capacity as spokes in the wheels of Iowa City's fast rolling, self-propelled manure spreader.

I phoned your little shop recently to request that a corsage be sent to my Mother for Mother's Day. As I was late for the pre-party, I asked if it were permissible to phone in an order and be billed later, rather than coming downtown then. I was assured that this was fine and proceeded to give my mother's name, our home town florists name, the arrangement of the flowers, the message on the card, and then I made a sad but honest mistake . . . I gave my own name and address!

Please forgive me for being so presumptuous as to think that as a representative of such a parsimonious, albeit often profligate, body of humanity I would be allowed this coveted privilege.

For lo and behold, as I gave my name I was impugned with "Oh, I'm sorry, I should have asked . . . are you a student? We must have cash for all student transactions." I said thank you and hung up.

While I realize that you are the victims of no doubt many unscrupulous students who never pay their bills, you might at least have had the decency and common business courtesy to check my credit rating before maligning my name so cursorily.

I must add that there are others in the Iowa City business community who are truly to be emulated and congratulated, for when I called another florist, she was glad to take my order by phone and bill me later. She represents a different class entirely.

To the former class of business men I only wish it were possible to reply in kind with my own future services as a doctor.

"Oh, I'm sorry, I should have asked before I started suturing your wound . . . we must have cash on the line for all florist patients."

money runs out, then traveling on to better rooms, fresher money. They are the few remaining American gypsies, who usually have no homes and little steady income. They go by nicknames: "Wimpy," "Boston Shorty," "The Knoxville Bear," "The Sailor," "Daddy Warbucks," because the nickname hides their real name and because the nickname is a mark of their craft at the tables.

Paul Tyner, a 28-year-old graduate of the University of Illinois, has written what he believes is a fictional work about hustlers. It is not. Tyner's book contains some very good touches about pool players and the game, but he in no way should be represented to the book buying public as having "a Ring Lardner ear for American talk, a Nathaniel West eye for the perplexed and perplexing gestures and grimaces of barflies." According to the dust jacket blurb, "This book shows promise of compassionate imagination, the technical originality and the solid intellectual power of a major novelist."

In truth, it shows none of these things. Granted there are some good touches. The first third of the book, roughly, is a study of pool, especially as it is played in grubby metropolitan neighborhood bars. That first part of Tyner's novel, previously titled "How You Play the Game" appeared in "The New Yorker" magazine, an excellent magazine, but one with short-sightedness about pool. That magazine chose to send a girl reporter into the all-male world of the Johnston City, Ill., All-Round Pocket Billiard Tournament, held in October and November of last year, and which is known as "The Hustler." Naturally a girl could not gain much rapport in that world of hustling and drinking and gambling and men. Logically enough, the magazine liked Tyner's short story about the game well enough to publish it.

Tyner's hero is a punk cop, who, after visiting all the neighborhood bars and a d pool halls in his beat, shoots a black thief, apparently without reason. That much is normal — Chicago and New York and Los Angeles experience similar incidents almost every day, it seems. But when the cop is suspended, pending an investigation, and he becomes involved with a pot-smoking, freewheelin' girl, then the pool game, or what was left of it after Tyner's treatment, leaves the picture entirely. And the end of the novel — an F. Lee Bailey-Melvin Belli-style courtroom trial is in keeping with the very worse of the Mystery-Book-of-the-Month-Club genre.

Those who like the game of pool, and like to read about it without moving their lips, deserve better than this. Even after the publication of Tyner's book, the best book about the game (fictionalized) is still Walter Tevis's "The Hustler," which was made into that fine, fine film with Jackie Gleason and Paul Newman.

If you like pool, don't buy Tyner's "Shoot It." If you think you might like pool — don't buy it. If you like fiction — don't buy it. If you like to read — don't buy it.

And if it's any indication of the quality of the book — the dust jacket is a gaudy red and black aluminum-foil op-art masterpiece.

Don't buy it.

POOR PEOPLE ON THE MARCH—

35 million poor in America—twice South Viet's population

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following article, submitted by the Iowa City Support Committee for the Poor Peoples' Campaign, is based on material prepared by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the Quaker Action Group. This is the first in a series of such articles concerning the Poor Peoples Campaign.

Everyone knows about the Poor Peoples' Campaign which is currently being waged across the nation and in Washington, D.C., in particular.

Everyone knows that thousands of poor people of all races have converged on the nation's capital to petition their government, as the Constitution of the United States entitles all citizens to do, for meaningful legislation to eradicate poverty once and for all.

But not everybody knows what it's like to be poor; how many poor people there are in this country; why there are poor people in this rich land; what can be done to alleviate the problems of the poor; what the poor people want for themselves; and what concerned citizens, well off or poor, can do to confront and overcome the problems of poverty in this country.

This series of articles will attempt to answer these questions.

There are 35 million poor people in this

SDS 'invites' Bowen to talk at hootenanny

To the Editor:

An open letter to Pres. Howard R. Bowen:

As you will remember, a group of students presented to you and to Gov. Harold Hughes petitions which called for certain policy changes and action on your part on May 1.

The petitions, which were signed by several hundred students and faculty members, were presented publicly to you by members of the United Front of Concerned Students.

In light of the fact that no visible action has been taken on this matter, the students naturally expect some public response and explanation.

Students for a Democratic Society is concerned that you have not deemed it necessary to answer the legitimate complaints of students. We are sure, however, that you are merely waiting for an appropriate time to reply — so we have decided to provide you with an opportunity.

At 8 tonight, SDS will sponsor a hootenanny on the Union Patio. We have reserved time in the program for your response to the student body. Should it be impossible for you to come, we sincerely hope that you will issue some statement publicly as soon as possible.

We expect to hear from you soon.

Bruce Clark, A1
Member, SDS Steering Committee

country. These people fall below the government's "poverty line," which is itself quite unrealistic. This official poverty line is $3,130 per year for a family of four. These 35 million poorest of America, who are crushed by economic and political forces most of them hardly even understand, let alone know how to cope with, represent more than twice the total population of South Vietnam. Yet we spend $2 billion a month to kill people in Vietnam and less than $2 billion a year to save people in the United States.

Who are these poor people? They are the unemployed and the underemployed. They are people too young to work and too old to work. They are black people who are victims of a racist society. They are white people who are victims of a job market which no longer needs their skills or products. They are Puerto Ricans and Mexican-Americans who are made victims of language and culture. They are all people who are caught in the vicious web of a nation which will spend $500,000 to kill one Vietnamese and only $53 per person per year in the cruel jester called the antipoverty program.

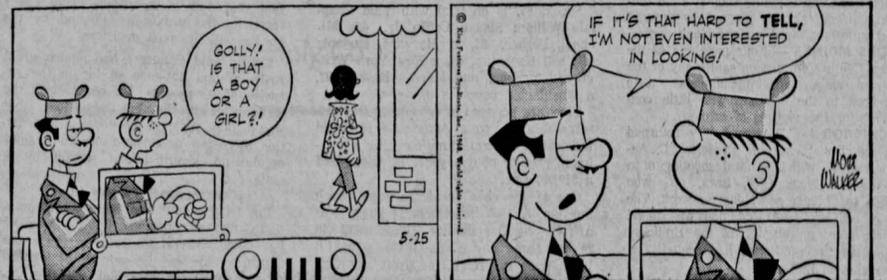

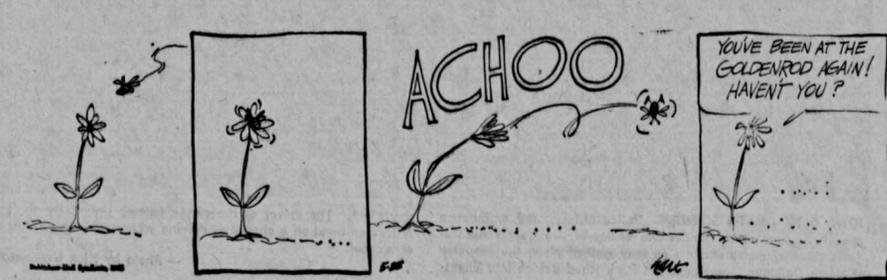

Why are there poor people in this country of seemingly unlimited resources? The answer lies, partially, in the unequal distribution of economic and political power which is characteristic of this nation and its economic and political systems. People with economic power control the government; people with political power control the economy; the cycle goes on and the poor people — those with neither economic nor political power — are caught in the middle, literally powerless.

Because poor people have no power, they do not get anywhere near their fair share of this country's resources — despite the liberal rhetoric which characterizes the United States as a nation of "equality" and "equal opportunity" where all men are "created equal." Poor people do not get decent jobs, decent income, decent housing, decent schools, decent health care, decent government representation, or decent police. Poor people are deprived of a decent life and do not even get respect as human beings.

Poor people have a right to demand a decent life, however. This country officially recognizes the right of all people to "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." But if you are poor and do not have enough food, you might be deprived of life. If you are poor and can not live where you wish or have an adequate job, you do not share in the right to happiness.

The tragedy is that America has the resources to eradicate poverty. With 1 percent of the world's people in the United States, the country controls 33 percent of the world's wealth. Many other countries without our wealth, such as Canada and many European nations, have ended poverty by guaranteeing an adequate income level and jobs. The only thing the United States lacks to end poverty is the desire. If the United States stops killing in Vietnam and devotes the money wasted there to healing at home, we would see the end of poverty.

Property Owners Sue Cities For Riot Loss

NEW YORK (AP) — Owners of property destroyed or damaged in April's rioting have filed claims totaling millions of dollars against U.S. cities and counties. The ultimate cost will fall on the taxpayers.

The claims, which already have reached more than $4 million in Baltimore and more than $2 million in New York, are additional to those against insurance companies. The disorders were touched off by the assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

The American Insurance Association has estimated riot claims against its members at $67 million. That does not include damages to automobiles or losses due to the interruption of some types of business. The association said 21 cities experienced losses exceeding $125,000 each.

Approximately 45 lawsuits for reimbursement of uninsured losses have been filed against the city of Baltimore, alleging that the riot damage resulted from a situation which the mayor and city council should have foreseen and prevented. Insured damage in Baltimore was placed at $12 million.

Lindsay Called Reckless

One claim covering seven Harlem stores asserted that Mayor

John V. Lindsay "recklessly, carelessly and negligently made public pronouncements and broadcasts stating that looters would not be deterred nor restrained by police forces."

The city controller has authority to deal with such claims, but property owners dissatisfied with his decisions have the right to sue. A City Hall spokesman said, "I'm sure the courts will finally have to handle all these claims."

Insured damage in New York was estimated by the insurance association at $4.2 million.

Allegheny County, Pa., in which Pittsburgh is located, has been served with 39 notices of intention to file claims for April rioting damage.

The insurance association estimated insured damage in Pittsburgh at $2 million.

Washington Damages Set At $24 Million

To trickle of claims, expected to become a flood, has begun in Washington, where insured damage was estimated at $24 million.

Some 600 small businessmen met in Washington Wednesday and formed an organization named "We The People," which will seek congressional action to pay victims of fire and looting.

Possible claimants against the city of Chicago, where insured damage losses totaled $13 million, have so far been stymied by the repeal last August of the state mob violence statute which had provided for payment of up to $30,000 for personnel injury or property damage resulting from mob action.

FBI Agents Press Active Manhunt For Illusive Ray

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than a month and a half after the murder of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., FBI agents across the nation are reported to be still actively searching for the man accused of the killing — James Earl Ray, also known as Eric Starvo Galt.

Ray, 40, escaped April 23, 1967, from the Missouri State Penitentiary at Jefferson City, where he served eight years of a 20-year sentence for armed robbery.

The last official statement from the FBI on Ray was a one-paragraph description issued May 7 along with two new photographs of him.

One, said the best photo yet to be made public of Ray, shows him wearing a dark-checked sport jacket. It was taken earlier this year in California. The others, showing Ray wearing dark glasses, were taken last November as he sat in a night club in Mexico.

Meanwhile, reports continue to appear that Ray has been spotted at a number of places.

Just Thursday, officials in Pottsville, Pa., asked the FBI to supply a dental chart of Ray to determine whether he might be a corpse found there.

Although there have been several reports that Ray may be dead, Justice Department officials have continually pointed out that there is no evidence to support or refute this.

King was shot to death April 4 as he stood on the balcony of a Memphis motel.

Political Events At A Glance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here are the major developments Friday in the presidential campaigning:

McCarthy — Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, warming up for next month's California Democratic presidential primary, told a San Francisco audience of businessmen the best way to solve the nation's economic problems "is to negotiate a political settlement to the war in Vietnam." He told the Commonwealth Club Americans have learned "we don't need the artificial stimulation of war to move the economy."

Kennedy — New York Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, taking a pause from campaigning in Oregon, went to the Pacific beach, stripped to his shorts and dived into the chilly waters. Photographers obligingly kept their shutters still while he swam.

Humphrey — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, in a speech for a dinner meeting of the Associated Dairymen Inc. at Kansas City, said the country is so wrapped up in problems of the cities it is paying too little attention to equally serious crisis in rural areas.

Rockefeller — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, told an impromptu news conference at Columbia, S.C., there have been "certain inconsistencies" in statements by Richard M. Nixon, his chief rival for the Republican presidential nomination. He added national unity can be achieved only through straight talk. Earlier at Emory University in Atlanta he accused Kennedy of taking different positions on issues in different parts of the country.

New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, launching a one-day anti-riot campaign for Rockefeller in Tuesday's Oregon primary, predicted the GOP will choose a party moderate as presidential candidate and he said Rockefeller has a "good chance" to be the nominee.

Major Parking Rule Changes Recommended For Next Year

By KAPPY BRISTOL

The Security and Parking Committee finalized recommendations Thursday which would make sweeping changes in the University's parking policies. Included in the proposals are plans for metering student reserved lots and prohibiting about 13,000 to 15,000 students from parking on campus through initiation of a "campus zone."

Goldberg Really Earned A Rest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retiring ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg gave this statistical sumup Friday of his three years at the United Nations:

- Delivered 250 speeches in the United Nations.
- Met 1,204 ambassadors, not counting chance meetings in U.N. corridors.
- Held 300 meetings with groups of ambassadors.
- Spent 141 days at U.N. Security Council sessions and 277 days in the General Assembly.
- Gave 235 social functions in the course of his representation duties as ambassador.
- Attended 776 social affairs in reciprocation.
- Entertained (all told) 16,094 guests.

After this accounting at a National Press Club luncheon, Goldberg concluded: "I think I've earned my sentence and I think I am entitled to a little time off for good behavior."

The recommendations must be approved by Pres. Howard R. Bowen before they can be put into effect next fall.

The "campus zone" rule would prohibit anyone who is living within its boundaries from parking anywhere on campus between 7:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. The only exception would be the new Hospital Parking Ramp which will be open to any student visiting or receiving treatment at University Hospitals. The ramp is scheduled to be completed in September.

Zone Limits Cited

The "campus zone" is bounded on the north by Park Road, on the west by Rocky Shore Drive and the University Golf Course, on the south by the Rock Island Railroad tracks, on the east by Dodge Street, east to the projection of Summit Street then south to Court Street and west to Dodge Street and south to the railroad. Both sides of the named streets are within the zone.

Even if a student is over 21 or has junior standing, the previous parking qualifications, he cannot park on campus if he lives within this zone.

Under the recommendations, student lots would be metered. The present system of buying a permit to use these lots would be scrapped.

The meters would cost five cents an hour and be enforced from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Only those students who meet one of four qualifications would be eligible for parking. These qualifications would restrict student lot parking to:

- Students who have attained junior standing or are 21 and live outside the "campus zone."
- Students possessing a handicap or disablement which, in the opinion of the director of student health, would require the use of a car.
- Students who live outside of Iowa City, University Heights and Coralville and commute daily.
- Students who are working and need a car for their job.

Must Be Registered

Students must be registered for at least six semester hours of course work or four semester hours during the summer session in order to qualify for parking privileges.

As in the past, all students would be required to register their car with the University, even if they are not eligible to park on campus during the day. Both the registration sticker and the parking sticker are free. Students would be required to affix the sticker to their cars within 48 hours after receiving it. Formerly, students were required to put the stickers on immediately.

In addition to metering student reserved lots, the committee has created two new categories of parking — storage parking and night parking privileges.

Storage parking is located in three lots — on Myrtle and Harrison streets and on South Riverside Drive. A storage ticket would cost $25 for the academic year or $3 for the summer session and would enable the student to park his car in the lot all day.

Storage Parking

Dormitory residents who are juniors or 21 years of age will be able to buy storage parking in the Myrtle and Riverside Drive lots, under the recommendations.

If storage space is still available after fall registration, it is to be sold on a first-come first-served basis to other students living in the campus zone.

Night-time parking would be available to graduate students upon certification by their department head that they need the parking privilege to accomplish their work. The privilege would entitle the student to park in special areas after 5:30 p.m. that are usually enforced 24 hours a day. The areas have not yet been designated by the committee. A fee of $10 would be charged for night parking privileges.

Violators of student parking regulations will no longer be subject to punitive action by the Committee on Student Conduct (CSC). If the recommendations are accepted, all punitive actions would come in the form of fines. Presently, the CSC has the power to expel violators who refused to pay fines.

Violations Cumulative

Violations would be cumulative for the academic year beginning in September. Failure to display the proper registration sticker would result in a fine of $10 for the first violation and $25 for each subsequent violation.

Overtime parking violators would be fined $1 for the first 20 violations and $5 for each subsequent one.

For all other violations, such as blocking a driveway or parking on the grass, the offender would be charged $1 for the first violation, $4 for the second, $8 for the third through the 10th and $25 for each one after that.

Grad Students Press Demand For Separate UI Facilities

The legal and financial problems involved in setting up a student center for graduate students were explored in a meeting between student representatives and Graduate College officials Friday afternoon.

"We will be glad to do anything to help you as long as you keep the initiative to implement the plan," Alvin Scaff, associate dean of the Graduate College, told approximately 12 graduate students who met with the officials to find out administrative reaction to requests they made last Friday.

Last Friday, the same group met with Philip G. Hubbard, dean of academic affairs, to request University approval of and finances for a graduate student center separate from the Union and a graduate newsletter.

The students claimed that the Union did not serve the interests of the graduates or faculty but catered to undergraduate students.

Interests Differ

They said that they did not care to mix socially with undergraduates because their interests were not the same.

Scaff, who started the meeting by describing past unsuccessful attempts to organize University graduate students into one group, told the graduate representatives to prepare a preliminary financial budget for the student center and newsletter.

He said that this budget would be reviewed by Graduate College officials and would go to Pres. Howard R. Bowen for final approval.

Scaff said that perhaps part of the reason that earlier attempts at organizing graduate students had failed was because the Graduate College refused to become involved in "a paternalistic role."

The most pressing problem seemed to be finances.

Student Fees Cited

The students claimed that, since graduate enrollment was one fourth of total University student enrollment, one fourth of the funds which the Student Senate receives from the student activities fee should be turned over to the graduate students.

Of the $6.50 which every student pays each semester to the student activities fund, 85 cents is allocated to the Student Senate to finance student activities and organizations.

All students, graduates and undergraduates alike, must pay the student activities fee.

Hubbard said it would be a hardship on the Student Senate to take away one fourth of its funds for next year because the money had already been appropriated for the 1968-69 academic year.

Hubbard said that other sources for obtaining funds to finance the center during its first year might be to use part of a 45-cent slice of the $6.50 Student Activities fee that is allocated to college departments around the campus.

Fund Not Used

Hubbard said that the Graduate College and the College of Liberal Arts were the only two University divisions that did not make use of this particular fund.

Jim Sutton, G. Iowa City, a member of the Student Senate, said that after the graduate center's first year of operation, it could become self-liquidating with income from the newsletter and entertainment facilities such as pinball machines.

Scaff said that the graduates, who wanted to serve liquor and beer in the center, might encounter some legal problems because the University forbids the presence of liquor on University property or in buildings.

OUTSTANDING SENIOR — John W. Phelps, A4, Tipton, "as named outstanding senior in economics by Omicron Delta Epsilon, scholastic honorary economics and business fraternity.

Commencement To Tighten Lots

Parking spaces around the Field House during the June 7 senior commencement exercises will be severely limited, according to John D. Dooley, director of parking lot operations.

All of the concrete parking lots around the Field House are reserved for faculty and staff members. Since commencement is on a Friday, these lots will probably be full.

Dooley said the only parking spaces available for guest parking would be the practice field west of the Field House. He urged all graduating students to ask their guests to make other parking arrangements.

Guests could park somewhere on the east side of the river and take a city bus to the Field House, Dooley suggested.

'Eggs' Lost

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Somewhere in the ocean off Vandenberg Air Force Base are two "eggs" worth $500,000 each and efforts of the Air Force and the Navy so far have failed to find them.

The "eggs" are 2 x 6-inch metal alloy capsules containing radioactive plutonium-238, intended to power instruments on the unmanned Nimbus 3 spacecraft. The Nimbus plunged into the Pacific after its launch rocket veered off course and was destroyed May 18.

FAMILY PLANNING — "AIPEI" — The Nationalist Chinese government announced measures to promote family planning on Taiwan. They will include birth control aid for needy families.

Blood-Letting Demonstrators Receive 6-Year Prison Terms

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest and an artist, convicted of pouring blood on draft board files last fall, were sentenced Friday to six years in federal prison.

Two hours later, both pleaded innocent at an arraignment on charges of storming another Selective Service office with seven other pacifists last Friday, and seizing and burning draft records.

Immediate appeals of their sentences were filed for the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan, 44-year-old Josephite priest, and Thomas F. Lewis, 28, the artist. Both were returned to the Baltimore County Jail without bond.

A third person convicted in the blood-pouring incident last October was given a three-year term and sentencing of a fourth was postponed.

Judge Edward S. Northrop's sentencing of the four war protesters in U.S. District Court touched off a disturbance in the hallway as about 200 spectators surged out of the courtroom.

The government accused the defendants of pouring blood on draft records last Oct. 27 at the U.S. Custom House, headquarters for all 26 of the city's draft boards.

They said their "sacrificial and constructive act" was performed to protest "the pitiful waste of American and Vietnamese blood" in Vietnam.

They said the blood was their own. Authorities said it was duck's blood.

A jury convicted them April 16 of destruction of government property, mutilation of government records and impeding Selective Service procedures.

Northrop imposed sentences of six, three and five years, to run concurrently, on Berrigan and Lewis. They were held without bond.

David Eberhardt, 27-year-old conscientious objector and former teacher, was given three three-year sentences, also to run concurrently. His bond was set at $7,500.

The Rev. James Mengel, 38, unassigned United Church of Christ minister, was given a postponement because Judge Northrop said "the court wants to seek professional advice." He imposed a technical maximum sentence of 18 years, required by law in order to have the 90-day study made. He was put on a $1,000 unsecured bond.

J.C. Cage Star Signs Letter To Attend Iowa

One of the top junior college basketball players in the nation, John Johnson, will enroll at the University next fall. Coach Ralph Miller said Friday.

Johnson, a 6-6½ forward-guard for Northwest Community College, Powell, Wyo., will be eligible to play next fall, Miller said.

"The knowledge that Johnson will be with us next season fills us with anticipation," said Miller. "I am sure he will enhance our program and I feel he will be outstanding as a student-athlete during the next two years."

Johnson, a junior college All America and one of 12 junior college candidates in the April Olympic basketball trials, averaged 29.3 points and 14.2 rebounds a game last year.

The 193-pounder played his prep basketball at Messmer High School in Milwaukee, where he won high school All-America and all-state honors.

Johnson becomes the fourth basketball player to sign a national letter of intent to attend

Iowa and is the third to sign this week.

Others signing for the Hawks this spring are Roy Carter from Carol High School in Miami, Fla., Ken Grabinski from Clear Lake and Gary Lusk from Madison High School, Madison, Ill.

U.S. Leads In Davis Cup

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The United States swept to a 2-0 lead in the North American Zone finals of the Davis Cup Friday when Arthur Ashe defeated Mexico's Rafael Osuna in straight sets, and Clark Graebner took a rain-interrupted four-set struggle from Joaquin Loyo-Mayo.

Ashe defeated Osuna, Mexico's No. 1, 6-0, 6-3 and 6-0 in only 57 minutes.

He won nine straight games to start and finished with seven straight.

Foster KO's Tiger For Boxing Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Foster, whose backers guaranteed Dick Tiger $100,000 for a shot at the title, won the World Light Heavyweight crown Friday night by knocking out the 38-year-old champ in 2:05 of the fourth round.

Foster had been riding along behind a stinging left jab, peppering his squat opponent at ease and loaded a left hook that flattened Tiger for the count.

It was the first time in Tiger's 77-bout career that he had been stopped. He had been down only once previously in a bout with Emile Griffith.

Referee Mark Conn counted out Tiger as he lay on his back, still dazed by the mighty left hook that the rangy Washington slugger landed.

Foster, an 11 to 5 favorite, had the advantage of youth, height and reach over the old man who is anxious to return to his native Biafra which is engaged in a war of independence from Nigeria. Tiger is a lieutenant in the Biafran Army.

It was several minutes before Tiger left the ring under his own power, to the cheers of the crowd in Madison Square Garden.

A Washington wrestling promoter, Vince McMahon, had guaranteed Tiger $100,000 to get the match for Foster. It probably cost him money. His 60 per cent of the gate Tiger's 40 per cent and his own 20 per cent probably did not come to that figure.

Foster was out in front on all three official cards at the knockout. Referee Mark Conn and Judge Tony Castellano had it 3-0 and Judge Artie Aidala 2-1, giving the first to Tiger.

It was a strange looking fight between the 6-3½ Foster and the 5-8 Tiger. Foster, 29, weighed 173½, Tiger 168.

Shuffled around in the background while others got a chance to fight for the title, Foster once quit the ring for a year. He made good with a vengeance when he finally got his shot.

The towering Foster, who looked more like a basketball player than a fighter, kept stinging Tiger with long left jabs. Tiger, who usually comes on late, was unable to get untracked.

Tiger threw only a few flurries, trying to get inside to the body, but was unable to reach the big fellow with any consistency.

It was the ninth straight victory for Foster since he lost a decision to heavyweight Zora Folley in 1965. His record for 34 pro starts now is 30-4. This was his 24th knockout. Tiger now is 58-16-3 for 77 bouts.

Tiger was making the third defense of the crown he won from Jose Torres, Dec. 16, 1966. He previously held the world middleweight title on two different occasions.

Foster had been beating a steady tattoo on Tiger's face with his jab for a minute and a half of the fourth when Tiger dug a right to the body and twisted his foe around near the ropes.

Shortly after they broke, Foster dropped in the left hand that ended his long quest for a championship.

-2nd Game Ends In 4-4 Tie- Hawks Lose In 9 Innings

RIPS A DOUBLE — Hawkeye third baseman Pat Prina is shown above as he lines a double into leftfield in the fifth inning of the first game of Iowa's doubleheader against league-leading Michigan State. Prina's double drove in pitcher Al Schuette to tie the game 2-2, but Michigan State went on to win 5-2 in nine innings.

By JOE LOOMER

Michigan State's magic number was reduced to one Friday as the Spartans scored three runs in the ninth inning to defeat upset-minded Iowa 5-2 at the Iowa Field.

Michigan State, now 13-2 in Big 10 games, needs only a split in today's doubleheader against Minnesota (12-2) to win the title. Minnesota's scheduled doubleheader Friday against Michigan was rained out, making it necessary for the Gophers to win both games against Michigan State to win the championship.

The second game of the Hawkeye-Spartan doubleheader was called because of darkness at the end of eight innings with the score tied 4-4.

In the first game, Hawkeye left-hander Al Schuette dueled two Spartan pitchers on even terms for eight innings before Michigan State's Steve Rymal broke the game open with a two-out two-run homer over the leftfield wall. Going into the ninth, Schuette had allowed the Spartans only three hits, including Steve Garvey's solo home run in the sixth inning that tied the score at 2-2 and sent the game into extra innings.

The Hawkeyes scored their runs in the fourth and fifth innings.

Mike Wymore, who had four hits in the two games, scored the first run in the fourth inning. Wymore singled, moved to third on an error and scored on Gary Breshears' ground out.

In the fifth, with Schuette at second base and Dave Krull at first, Pat Prina lined a double to the left-centered field. Schuette scored easily, but the speedy Krull was cut down at the plate by 15 feet when he tried to come in all the way from first.

Schuette, who was touched for another run in the Spartan's ninth inning uprising before being relieved by Todd Hatterman, took the loss dropping his season's record to 4-3.

The Hawks finally seemed to have found their batting eyes in the second game. They collected 10 hits in the game, seven in the first three innings. Jerry Bruchas led the way with three hits and Wymore and Jim Spiggos had two apiece.

The Hawks took a 3-0 lead after three innings, saw it drop to 4-2 at the end of five and lost it in the sixth inning when the Spartans scored twice to tie it at 4-4. Garvey, Michigan State third baseman, led off the inning with his second home run of the afternoon.

Hawkeye starter Donn Haugen went 6-1/3 innings, allowing nine hits and four runs before giving way to Mike Klein in the seventh. Klein walked the Spartan's Rich Harlow to load the bases with one out, but Jim Koering came in and set down the next two hitters to get the Hawks out of trouble.

The Hawks wind up their season today with a doubleheader against Michigan beginning at 1 p.m. at the Iowa Field.

Their record is 19-11 overall and 4-9 in the Big 10. Michigan is 15-16 overall, but their 9-5 conference record gives them a third place tie with Wisconsin in the league standings.

Allen Arrested On Drug Rap

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lucius Allen, a star on UCLA's national championship basketball teams the past two seasons, faced a charge of possessing marijuana Friday. A university spokesman said he had dropped out of school.

Allen, 20, from Kansas City, Mo., and a second team All-American, has another year of eligibility, but the school spokesman said he had joined the National Guard and had been scheduled to go into active duty within a week.

"We are definitely not counting on him to play for us next year," the spokesman said.

Allen and four others described by police as UCLA students were arrested Thursday night. Police Sgt. John Colella said officers detected the odor of marijuana when they halted a car for speeding in a central Los Angeles alley.

Booked with Allen were John Woolery Jr., Alla Bullen, Bonnie Goss and Melanie Martin, all in their early 20s.

Reed Lifts Record To 6-0

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta rookie Ron Reed won his sixth straight game Friday night, getting ninth inning help from Jim Britton and beating the New York Mets 4-2.

The Braves scored twice in the first inning on the Mets' Nolan Ryan (4-4) on singles by Sonny Jackson and Hank Aaron, two stolen bases, two walks and a hit batsman when the bases were loaded.

Atlanta added another run in the fourth, when Felix Millan singled, went to second when Reed was hit by a pitch, took third on a fly ball and scored on Jackson's infield out. The Braves scored their final run in the eighth on Millan's sacrifice fly.

Reed, a former pro basketball player, retired the first 11 batters he faced and cruised into the ninth inning on a three-hitter.

But he came out after walking Kevin Collins and giving up a single to Ron Swoboda.

Britton surrendered a two-run double to J.C. Martin but then retired the last two batters, nailing down the victory.

★ ★ ★ Cards Beat Phillies

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Curt Flood, Johnny Edwards and Dal Maxvill lashed home runs, zooming the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Friday night.

After the Phillies scored an unearned run in the first off winner Steve Carlton, Julian Javier laced a double with one out for the Cardinals in the first and Flood whacked Chris Short's next pitch into the left field seats for his fourth homer.

The Cardinals, breaking a three-game losing streak, erupted for three more runs in the seventh. Phil Gagliano led off with a single and wound up at third when Richie Allen threw wildly trying for a double play as Ed Spiezio lined out. Edwards then rocked Short's pitch into the right field stands for his first homer of the year.

Maxvill followed with a line shot off the facade in left field, driving out Short. It was Maxvill's first home run, other than an inside the park smash in 1962.

Twelve pints of blood have been used by a University coed since her injury in a motorcycle accident a week ago.

Justean Sparks, A1, Oskaloosa, was still listed in serious condition at University Hospitals Friday.

The 12 pints of blood have already been replaced by donations to the blood bank. Miss Sparks will not have to pay for the blood, hospital officials said.

It is not known whether she will need more blood, according to hospital blood bank personnel.

Another University student, Peter A. Bursten, A2, Milwaukee, Wis., was killed in the accident in which Miss Sparks was seriously injured.

In The Spring, Young People Warned On Venereal Disease

By SARA BUDD

In the spring a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love. And, while the problem isn't confined merely to the warmer months of the year, medical statistics indicate that the incidence of venereal disease rises during this period.

Veneral disease is raging as strong as ever, with 119 cases reported in Johnson County last year, up nine from 1966. And about 80 cases are students at the University, Dr. Franklin P. Koontz, assistant director of the State Hygienic Laboratory, estimated recently.

Trend Can Be Seen

A very definite trend can be seen by comparing venereal disease case numbers for particular months. Johnson County takes a big jump in the tally from August to September, as many students are returning to Iowa City. November's figures are up, too, falling in December as the Christmas season calls many students home. The number of cases in January is up, February falls, but March rates high as spring approaches. The remaining spring months show climbing numbers with about a 7 per cent increase in May alone.

Because about 60 per cent of venereal disease falls in the 16-24 years of age bracket, college students are hard hit. If a student contracts VD, he may or

King Action Unit Collects $1,781 To Assist SCLC

Several hundred residents of Iowa City have contributed a total of $1,781 to a special fund that will go to help the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) carry on the works of the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

Most of the contributions were made in Iowa City and Solon churches the Sunday following King's death. The churches were asked for help by the local Martin Luther King Action Committee that was organized to press for congressional passage of the open housing bill and other social legislation.

The money was sent to the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, who succeeded King as director of the SCLC.

The local action committee also collected several thousand signatures on a petition that was sent to Rep. Fred Schwengel, First District Republican.

Co-chairmen of the action committee in Iowa City are George C. Hoyt, associate professor of business; Simon Walker, 2408 E. Court St.; and the Rev. James V. Davison, minister of the First Baptist Church.

may not know it. If it is gonorrhea, he can tell, she can't. If it is syphilis, it probably will continue to worsen until discovered by a complete physical examination.

Sometimes with syphilis cases, the person can't be treated until he shows up too late at the University Hospital — blind, deaf, possibly insane. Koontz said that about 40 per cent of the syphilis cases are among homosexuals.

Gonorrhea Most Prevalent

Gonorrhea is the most prevalent of the two venereal diseases. It can be diagnosed and treated if caught soon enough. In the male, it is first recognized as a burning sensation when urinating and can be easily spotted by a lab test.

It is a much more difficult problem with a female. Lab tests often will not reveal the disease and can many times only be discovered when a gonorrhea-infected male names the persons with whom he has come into sexual contact.

Koontz said that the chances of developing a venereal disease after sexual experience with a person who has it are about nine out of ten. Males can take precautions such as a hot shower and thorough cleansing, but for women precautions are more difficult.

The number of University students who have been diagnosed with the disease has been 29 since September. Koontz explained that there are certainly more, for often very definite cases won't have to be laboratory tested. In these instances private physicians will treat their patients without the State Hygienic Laboratory being involved. All cases by law, however, must be reported to the State Health Department.

Decision To Be Made

Once contracting the disease, the student must decide what to do. Many go to Student Health, a few find penicillin and treat themselves, some go to a family doctor or an Iowa City physician. Some do nothing.

According to the figures the State Hygienic Laboratory has, close to four-tenths of one percent of the students on the Iowa campus have venereal disease. This figure includes only those who have reported it. There are many more cases remaining unreported because carriers are either afraid to seek help or are unaware of their sickness.

PROTECT PLANNED—GRINNELL

The Grinnell College regular cap and gown commencement today will be supplemented by a "Vietnam commencement" staged by a group of students who oppose the war.

Pill Sales Show Students Are Pepping Up For Finals

By MARILYN McCOLLUM

Sales records of pep pills indicate that drug stores are the source of many sleepless nights during final week.

"There is always an increase in sales with the approach of midterm and final exams," said the pharmacist of a local drug store Thursday, "and the run on pills has already begun."

Normal demand is five to six requests per week, said Paul Kent, pharmacist for Osco Drug Store. However, during final week sales rise to 50 to 100 requests, he said.

These pills ward off fatigue by stimulating the nervous and respiratory systems. The degree of their effect depends on the metabolism and activity of the person taking the pills, Kent explained. They can also increase

1968 Yearbooks To Be Distributed Starting Tuesday

The 1968 Hawkeye yearbooks will be distributed at the Communications Center starting Tuesday.

The new yearbooks will be distributed through Friday (including Memorial Day, Thursday) at the main door of the Communications Center from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Students must have their identification cards in order to receive their books. Seniors will receive their yearbooks free if they signed up for them last fall.

Students who did not order yearbooks last fall may still buy one for $7, but the supply is limited.

"We had an affair with Iowa" is the theme of the new yearbook.

The biggest change in the new Hawkeye is in the section on the Greek system. "We tried to feature the best thing about each sorority and fraternity. We have one specific feature for each house so that if you read the whole section you get a good picture of the entire Greek system," Fran Hermanson, editor of the Hawkeye, said Friday.

In the past the Hawkeye gave a general synopsis of the achievements and activities of the members of each house, she explained.

The new Hawkeye also features two double-page spreads of the November and December anti-war demonstrations, a double-page spread of some of this year's fashions, and picture stories about off-campus housing.

Doctor Elected To Hand Society

Dr. Adrian E. Flatt, professor of orthopedics at the University, has been elected a member of the French Hand Society, a group of orthopedic surgeons who specialize in surgery of the hand. A founding member of the British Hand Society, Flatt was also named to the American Society for Surgery of the Hand soon after he joined the University medical faculty in 1956.

Draft Resister Says Enemy Is 'Ruling Economic Elite'

"The real enemy is not the Selective Service System, but the ruling economic elite which uses the military for coercion," John Jost, a Chicago draft resister, declared Friday in a talk at the Union.

Jost was recently released from a federal prison where he served 26 months of a three-year sentence for delinquency and failure to comply with Selective Service requirements. He was sentenced in 1965 and served in prisons at Chillicothe, Ohio, and Sandstone, Minn.

He said he thought the public was manipulated into accepting a role servile to a small ruling elite in this country. He asserted that 90 per cent of the wealth in the United States was controlled by only 5 per cent of the population.

Jost said he thought the usual response by resisters to the draft problem was rather shallow. He said what was needed was greater exploration of the social and moral issues involved in the question.

Jost said after he served his term, he was not to sure that draft resisters should resist the point of going to prison. One possible solution, he said, would be to resist and call attention to the issues, then "go underground" before the prison term had to begin.

He said he felt this way because he thought if internal pressures in this country increased the penalties could be arbitrarily increased.

Jost said the possibility of being draft exempt by conscientious objection was getting slimmer because of the number of applications currently being made for that classification.

Jost's talk was sponsored by Middle Earth.
