Concern Over Kennedy Growing

Senator Showing No Improvement; Suspected Assailant Identified

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy showed no improvement and remained in extremely critical condition Wednesday night after surgeons removed from his brain most of a bullet police said was fired by a mysterious young Jordanian.

"Senator Kennedy's condition is still described as extremely critical as to life," his press secretary, Frank Mankiewicz, told newsmen.

In Washington, President Johnson went on national television to denounce the assassination attempt.

As newsmen kept vigil in Good Samaritan Hospital, Mankiewicz reported — 12 hours after the delicate brain surgery on Kennedy — that "the team of physicians attending Sen. Robert Kennedy is concerned over his continuing failure to show improvement during the post-operative period."

But the press aide, answering questions some 17 hours after Kennedy was cut down in a Los Angeles hotel, would not say Kennedy's condition is deteriorating.

"We felt it would be appropriate at this point," he said, "to stress the critical condition related to survival during this period as well as to the period beyond."

Mankiewicz said although "there might have been some change," he thought Kennedy's life signs — pulse, breathing, blood pressure — were still good.

Earlier, Kennedy underwent a series of medical tests at Good Samaritan Hospital. Then, too, they showed measurable improvement.

The man accused of the shooting was captured on the spot, and identified hours later as Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, a Jordanian native of Jerusalem, who has lived in nearby Pasadena, Calif., since boyhood.

A team of brain surgeons operated for 3 hours and 40 minutes, striving to save the life of the New York senator, brother of the assassinated President John F. Kennedy. Robert was gunned down at the moment of his greatest victory in the California primary as he campaigned for the White House.

His wife, Ethel, kept vigil in a hospital room near that in which her wounded 42-year-old husband was under intensive care.

The accused assailant was hospitalized, too. Police said he was under maximum security in a hospital ward at Los Angeles County Central Jail.

Sirhan was treated for a broken index finger and a sprained left ankle, suffered in the shooting melee at the Ambassador Hotel early Wednesday.

Police officials displaying the murder weapon at a news conference identified it as an eight-shot .22 Iver Johnson Cadet, Model 55SA.

Papers on Sirhan's person indicated "this was a planned assassination," Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty said.

Yorty said a notebook apparently belonging to the accused man mentions "the necessity to assassinate Sen. Kennedy before June 5, 1968."

The date corresponds to the anniversary of the outbreak of the Arab-Israeli war a year ago.

Yorty, in a copyrighted interview with Radio News International, said the notebook was recovered from Sirhan's rooms with his family's permission.

"The notebook appeared to have been by Sirhan Sirhan," the mayor said.

"There's much scribbling, repeated phrases, many references to Sen. Robert Kennedy, even some references to retiring UN Ambassador Arthur Goldberg," Yorty said. "They're not very clear, but there's a direct reference to the necessity to assassinate Sen. Kennedy before June 5, 1968."

"I don't know why. He does a lot of writing, pro-Communist and anticapitalist, anti-United States. Evidently he was quite pro-Arab in the Arab-Israel matter. He has 'Long live Nasser' written in there."

Immigration records in Washington showed Sirhan was born March 19, 1944, in Jordan, and was admitted to the United States as a permanent resident Jan. 12, 1957.

In New York, the secretary general of the Action Committee on American-Arab Relations said the accused assailant "may have been inflamed" by a statement Kennedy made in a televised campaign debate Saturday night, advocating support of Israel in the Middle East crisis.

Kennedy said during that appearance, in which he faced rival candidate Eugene J. McCarthy, that the United States should supply jets to Israel.

"It is this disrespect for the human Arab person which brings about this kind of violence," Dr. Mohammad T. Mehdi said in New York.

Mehdi said Sirhan had been a student at Pasadena College and was active in the Organization of Arab Students.

McCarthy, too, had said in the televised joint appearance that the United States has a commitment to support Israel.

Marcus McBroom, who witnessed the shooting, reported that the gunman cried: "I did it for my country. I love my country."

The shots fired into Kennedy's head

Others told of hearing him shout: "I did it for my country."

Kennedy was reportedly hit three times, near the right ear, in the shoulder and the forehead.

It was the slug that hit near his ear which plunged into Kennedy's brain.

Kennedy was first taken to Los Angeles Central Receiving Hospital. The doctor who treated him there, Victor Baz, said the senator "was practically dead" when he arrived.

He was transferred to Good Samaritan Hospital and there, the team of six surgeons began operating at 3:12 a.m. (PDT).

When their work was done, he was pronounced in "extremely critical condition."

The scene of turmoil, tears and hysteria which followed the shooting was televised live by cameras which had just carried Kennedy's victory talk on the California Race.

Kennedy and his assailant were out of sight of the television cameras.

The shock of the shooting quickly turned the roomful of some 2,000 election night celebrators into a scene of chaos.

Kennedy fell to the floor. Blood gushed from his head.

The shots brought pandemonium. There were shrieks of "God, God, not again." There were curses, too.

"Get a doctor," someone shouted. "Please get a doctor."

Kennedy was wheeled on a stretcher to the hotel service elevator, taken by ambulance to Central Receiving Hospital.

There, The Rev. Thomas Peacha administered last rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

The senator's wife, Ethel, was with her husband.

"She didn't believe that he was alive, sort of because she could see that he wasn't responding," the doctor said.

"So when we began to get a heart beat, I put the stethoscope in her ears so she could listen."

At the ornate Ambassador Hotel, the gunman was in police hands.

Roosevelt Grier, giant lineman of the Los Angeles Rams, had held the suspected assailant, smashed the man's hand against a serving table, forcing loose the gun.

Grier, Olympic Athlete Rafer Johnson and Kennedy bodyguard William Barry hauled the suspect away from the fallen senator.

"Kill him," a man shouted.

Police took over, hustled the suspect at gunpoint through the lobby of the rambling old hotel. "Lynch him, lynch him," shouted people in the crowd.

The suspect was sullen and silent through the early hours of police questioning. "He would not speak except once he said 'yes,'" said Police Chief Thomas Reddin.

Later he began to talk, but not about himself or the shooting.

Reddin said he was "very cool, very calm, very stable and quite lucid."

Whenever the questioning came to the shooting, Reddin said, the man would reply only:

"I prefer to remain incommunicado."

CHARGED WITH SHOOTING — Twenty-four-year-old Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, a Jerusalem born Jordanian, is taken to a secret arraignment in Los Angeles Wednesday on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder. Bond was set at $250,000. He was disarmed and arrested at the scene of the shooting of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. In his possession were four $100 bills, a news story from a Pasadena newspaper critical of Kennedy and a schedule of where Kennedy was to speak in June. — AP Wirephoto

It's Official Now: Navy Declares Scorpion 'Lost'

Washington (AP) — The Navy on Wednesday officially pronounced the nuclear submarine Scorpion with its crew of 99 "lost in the depths of the Atlantic."

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of naval operations, said it was his "sad duty" to announce that the extensive air and ocean search the past 10 days has failed to turn up any trace of the Scorpion.

"Now, because of the lack of any evidence of Scorpion's presence on the surface or in waters which would permit rescue, we must conclude that she was lost in the depths of the Atlantic," Moorer said.

"This conclusion is further based on the fact that we have had no signals in the form of sensor or radio transmissions, flares or messenger buoys, nor have we observed any debris specifically identifiable with Scorpion."

Moorer continued: "These facts compel us to conclude that she is not in a location where recovery of the crew could be effected or salvage conducted."

Moorer said that although the ship is presumed lost the search efforts will continue.

The Scorpion's crew was officially listed as missing last week but the Pentagon said this was an administrative action designed to make sure that relatives of the crewman kept getting paychecks or other benefits to which they were entitled.

The submarine had been listed as overdue since failing to arrive as scheduled May 27 at her home port of Norfolk, Va., after a submerged Atlantic crossing. She had been in the Mediterranean on a training operation and sent a last, routine position message May 21.

Enemy Withdrawal From Saigon Seen

SAIGON (AP) — The allied command detected Wednesday a general withdrawal of the enemy units that attacked Saigon and its suburbs a month ago and a prisoner said the Viet Cong would pull out to rest and refit for a new attack.

Vietnamese rangers, in blocking positions to cut off possible escape routes, killed 21 Viet Cong in heavy fighting through the abandoned shops and homes of the war-torn Cholon district three miles from the center of the capital.

Government marines ambushed an estimated 300-man force of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese apparently trying to leave the Gia Dinh suburb northeast of the city. The marines killed 10 enemy and captured 10 more in the trap on the banks of the Saigon River.

Vietnamese navy boats machine-gunned a group of enemy soldiers that tried to swim the 300-foot-wide river and claimed 15 of the enemy were killed.

AP photographer Horst Faas said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong apparently were trying to move out of the area. He said they were digging bunkers along their withdrawal route to the river and were running into government ambushes along the way.

RFK Faces Possibility Of Life Of Uselessness

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A grim possibility that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy might face an indefinite life of limited usefulness if he survives an attempted assassination bullet emerged Wednesday after first reports on the extent of brain damage.

Dr. John D. French, director of the Brain Research Institute at the University of California at Los Angeles, said in an interview that reports of injury to the central part of the brain raised grave doubts about Kennedy's recovery.

In New York, Dr. Lawrence Pool, Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center neurosurgeon, said Dr. Henry Cuneo, one of the men who operated on Kennedy, had authorized him to give this version of the injury.

"There was evidently serious damage to the cerebellum, the part of the brain on the extreme back of the head, on the right side; also to part of the right cerebral hemisphere, and also to the mid-brain, which is the main cable connecting the brain itself with all the rest of the body.

"This mid-brain deals with not only the function of motion in the arms and legs and sensation to the body but also with eye movements and even the life function itself, such as blood pressure, breathing, heart rate.

"So it's a very critical area, and this was injured, and this is why I fear — as Dr. Cuneo indicated — the outcome may be extremely tragic."

Pool said he was greatly fearful of the outcome, both in terms of Kennedy surviving and being in normal condition if he does survive.

French, also a neurosurgeon, said "if the central core, or brain stem, is damaged severely the outlook may be worse than if almost any other part of the brain were injured.

"Investigations at the institute have shown that this area is related to behavioral responses such as arousal from sleep and the skill with which we use our hands and feet," French said.

"Persons so injured have been known to live indefinitely without ever recovering usefulness — they become nobodies."

French said it would be a long time — days or even weeks — "before physicians can even guess whether Senator Kennedy will be able to continue his campaign."

French emphasized he had no direct word on the extent of damage but was talking only on the basis of news reports.

The brain stem, also called the mid-brain, is a tubular structure about three inches long and an inch in diameter which connects the spinal cord with the two main parts of the brain, the cerebrum and the cerebellum.

Dr. Jose Aguilar, neurosurgeon at Stanford University Medical Center, saw some hope in the fact that a small caliber bullet was used.

He said 200 million Americans did not strike Kennedy any more than they struck down President John F. Kennedy in 1963 or the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in April, "but those awful events gave us ample warning."

"In a climate of extremism, or disrespect for law, or contempt for the rights of others, violence may bring down the very best among us," Johnson said.

"And a nation that tolerates violence in any form cannot expect to be able to confine it to minor outbursts."

Johnson said, "We cannot, we must not tolerate the sway of violent men among us. We must not permit one filled with hatred, and careless of innocent lives, to dominate our streets and fill our homes with fear."

Johnson said he is naming the special commission to "look into the causes, the occurrence and the control of physical violence across the nation — from assassination motivated by prejudice, ideology, politics and insanity — to violence in our homes."

The commission, he said, will consist of Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower; Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.); Sen. Roman L. Hruska (R-Neb.); Rep. Hale Boggs (D-La.); Rep. William M. McCulloch (R-Ohio); Roman Catholic Archbishop Terence J. Cooke of New York; Longshoreman-philosopher Eric Hoffer of Los Angeles; former Ambassador Patricia Roberts-Harris; Judge Leon Higginbotham and Albert E. Jenner Jr., a Chicago lawyer.

What is wrong with a country that shoots down its leaders?

Typical reactions after the tragic shooting of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy early Wednesday morning were the "Oh my God" statements of horror and shock. But mixed with the shocked comments were comments that questioned the worth of a country that has enough pent-up dissent, internal problems, hate — call it what you will — to have three of its great leaders shot down like animals.

What is wrong with a democracy that lets its leaders be sacrificed? What is wrong with the democratic election procedures that supposedly allow the people to choose their leaders on the basis of merit, experience and charisma? How can a country be filled with sick minds that tolerate violence as a form of dissent?

After the assassination of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, black leaders said it was not a single man who killed King. The killer was a product of a white society filled with hate, filled with intolerance, filled with false feelings of superiority. Although one man fired the gun, every person who has racial prejudice in any form helped him pull the trigger that killed King.

What sort of minds could have fostered the worthless, tragic assassination attempt on Kennedy's life?

Racism is a definable term. It has a meaning to every member of this society.

But how does a society define and cope with a disease that has no definition, that has no explanation, that has no boundaries? The disease can't be quarantined or dealt with until the cause is known.

The symptoms of this unknown

The new national pastime

A new national pastime is developing in this country which looks as if it might replace baseball, golf and even drunk driving. So that the readers of The Daily Iowan can participate in this new sport, we are publishing the ground rules as a public service.

First, go to a sporting goods store or pick up an import catalogue and choose the weapon of your choice. Most players seem to favor pistols and rifles, but you can also get shotguns, machine guns, and even bazookas and hand grenades. There are few restrictions on what you may get, since the price is generally low and no one asks any questions.

Then you have a couple of alternatives, depending upon how dedicated a player you are. The most advanced participants assassinate well-known national leaders or controversial public figures, but beginners can start in city streets by shooting "niggers" (if you're white) or "honkies" (if you're black). If you don't know how to use a gun, join the army; they'll give you expert instruction and on-the-job training — you can "earn while you learn" by killing expendable people in South Vietnam.

Believe it or not, there are some people who think that not only the sport, but the weapons themselves, ought to be outlawed or at the very least severely restricted.

These fanatics claim that thousands of dead people in our streets is too high a price to pay for the Constitutional right to own an instrument designed solely for murder.

But don't pay any attention to them; they'll all be dead before long.

POOR PEOPLE ON THE MARCH —

Over fifth of population falls under 'poverty line'

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following article, submitted by the Iowa City Support Committee for the Poor People's Campaign, is based on material prepared by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and A Quaker Action Group. This is the fifth in a series of such articles concerning the Poor People's Campaign.

Over 35 million Americans living in this "affluent society" live below the government's own "poverty line" which is itself unrealistically low. What this means is that over a fifth of the population of this country are poor — and most of them are literally poverty-stricken.

What this also means is that every night thousands of children go to bed hungry; that every day teenagers who should be in school in order to train themselves for the arduous task of breaking out of the grip of poverty are dropping out in order to help support their families; that every day millions of men who should be working, who want to work, are idle because there aren't enough jobs or they lack the skills necessary for the jobs available.

What it also means is rats, disease, cold, slums, ghettos, hunger, boredom, ignorance, frustration, humiliation, despair and waste.

It also means, for the American Indian tied to his reservation, no future at all; for the Mexican-American tied to the fruit orchards, no future at all; for the Puerto Ricans crowded into the ghettos of New York and other cities to which they have fled seeking a better life, no future at all; for the black American, whose poverty is amplified by the oppression of a racist society, no future at all.

There is no future in poverty.

The only way to give the poor of this country a future worth looking forward to is to break the shackles of poverty. Most European countries — none of them nearly as wealthy as the United States — have managed to eliminate poverty. Government leaders here say we can't afford to end poverty. The governments of Europe felt they couldn't afford not to end poverty. We can do it too.

The presidential candidates are talking about their plans for attacking poverty, but their words sound terribly familiar to words spoken in promises made many times before by men running for office. President Johnson promised to destroy poverty too. Instead, he created the farce called the "antipoverty program" run by the Office of Economic Opportunity which, in typical government fashion, gives the opportunity to those who have the economics.

While the candidates are stumping, Congress could be, and should be, acting. But it isn't. Congress is sitting back feeling proud of itself because it declared a "war on poverty." Now it's time that poverty declared a war on Congress.

The Poor People's Campaign is heading up that war: a non-violent war with humanitarian goals.

The Poor People's Campaign is asking for meaningful welfare programs, intelligent administration of already existing assistance programs, the right for the poor to govern their own lives and administer their own antipoverty programs, the right for the children of the poor to get a decent education, and job — for all people who want to work. If the jobs aren't available, then the poor are asking for a guaranteed minimum wage — a plan recommended by many economic authorities including, just last week, 1,000 economists who issued a report in favor of the guaranteed wage.

These demands aren't unreasonable. They are, in fact, eminently reasonable, sound and in the interest of all Americans — not just the poor, but all Americans, because the interests of all people, with the exception of the very rich, are entwined with the interests of the poor.

And these demands are not demands for charity; they are demands for what is rightfully owed to the poor. Their labor helped to build this country — now they want, and are demanding, their share of this country's riches.

Student attacks parking policies for graduation

To the Editor:

I'm sure I've read an official University policy statement that the parking priorities were 1) visitors, 2) faculty and staff, 3) students. But I must have been mistaken, for now I understand that faculty have the first priority, at least for commencement — all the major parking areas around the field house are to be for faculty only use. Visitors are encouraged to park at some distance (but I'm sure not in the unfilled faculty lots on the east side of the river) and walk or take the bus.

After giving the students the short end all year the administration is going to give it to the parents, relatives, and friends of the graduating students at commencement. That's consistency.

Gentlemen and scholars would use their regular parking places, if these weren't needed for the visitors, and walk, use the bus, or organize car pools to get to the Fieldhouse, rather than participate in a plan which would force many older people and strangers to the city to attempt to get to the Fieldhouse up a steep hill (steep for person on crutches, or just an elderly grandmother, or even a healthy woman in heels) or on strange buses (Iowa City's bus system is so adequate!).

Visitors need the paved parking areas around the Fieldhouse, and sufficient nearby parking space to accompany all their cars. A community of gentlemen and scholars would provide this space for these guests.

California reader favors Wallace

To the Editor:

The two upcoming Presidential conventions should be consolidated into one as both parties are dipping into the same barrel of chaff.

Kennedy, Nixon, Humphrey, Rockefeller, Reagan, the Texas "Man-Child" — it doesn't matter which party chooses whom for what, as they all think alike anyway.

Take the last presidential election, for instance: the Republicans furnished the platform and the Democrats furnished the President. You just can't hardly get much more "togetherness" than that.

In the November election there will still be only two parties, the "AGAINST WALLACE PARTY" which includes the political opportunists mentioned above — and the GEORGE WALLACE PARTY that advocates giving the country back to the people and keeping the flag at full staff except on legitimate occasions.

It's getting late, my friends, real late!

WASHINGTON — As a former resident of the fourth and fifth republics of France, I have been keeping tabs on the French crisis. It's very easy to sit back in the United States and be critical of how De Gaulle's government handled the situation, so I'll do it.

It seems to me the biggest mistake De Gaulle and his prime minister, Georges Pompidou, made was to give in immediately to all the unions' demands. Anyone who knows the French character was horrified that the government, in order to end the general strike, agreed to wage increases in less than 24 hours.

This capitulation took all the fun out of bargaining for the workers, and it was no wonder they refused to go back to work.

When negotiating for anything in France, both sides have to be tough. The pleasure comes, not from the results of labor negotiations, but from the negotiations themselves.

For example, had Pompidou and his ministers announced at the start of the strike that he would not raise salaries one sou, the workers would have been overjoyed. It would mean they would have to fight for their raises and it would also assure them that De Gaulle was everything they were yelling he was.

The union officials would warn Pompidou that they intended to stay out until the workers got what they deserved. It would then have been Pompidou's turn to say that he would break the strike: if he had to do it with force.

Happy day. The workers would demonstrate in the streets, the police would let in some tear gas, and the negotiations would be ready to start.

Act II: The government would reluctantly meet with the unions, but only to refuse their demands. Union officials would come out of the meeting enraged. They would tell the press that the cabinet ministers were bed-wetters and other such things. The government would say the union leaders were Communists and ate with their knives.

More demonstrations. A few cracked heads. Everyone is starting to enjoy himself. Another meeting is now held. The government gives in and offers a 1 per cent increase in wages. Fury from the union leaders. They call for a march to the Place de la Bastille. De Gaulle calls up the army to stop them. The unions march to the Place de la Republique instead. Exhilaration is the order of the day.

Pompidou calls for all-night negotiations as the workers march through the streets. He offers a 10 per cent increase in wages. The union leaders spit on it. They walk out. They come back. Fifteen per cent is the highest Pompidou says he can go. The union leaders laugh at him. Pompidou walks back. "Twenty per cent," he cries. "And even with that, De Gaulle will have my head."

De Gaulle fumbled strikes—wage disputes used to be fun

They would tell the press that the cabinet ministers were bed-wetters and other such things. The government would say the union leaders were Communists and ate with their knives.

More demonstrations. A few cracked heads. Everyone is starting to enjoy himself. Another meeting is now held. The government gives in and offers a 1 per cent increase in wages. Fury from the union leaders. They call for a march to the Place de la Bastille. De Gaulle calls up the army to stop them. The unions march to the Place de la Republique instead. Exhilaration is the order of the day.

Pompidou calls for all-night negotiations as the workers march through the streets. He offers a 10 per cent increase in wages. The union leaders spit on it. They walk out. They come back. Fifteen per cent is the highest Pompidou says he can go. The union leaders laugh at him. Pompidou walks back. "Twenty per cent," he cries. "And even with that, De Gaulle will have my head."

— Roy Petty

The union leaders report to the workers who throw raw vegetables at them. They go back the next day and demand a 50 per cent increase or the strike goes on. Pompidou, redfaced, ups his ante to 25 per cent. The leaders walk out. Pompidou sends word that he meant 30 per cent.

Talk that a settlement is near. The workers have one more demonstration, as it might be the last they have for years.

Finally, while the entire country holds its breath, and its nose from the garbage, Pompidou goes on television, and with the union leaders standing grimly by, announces that he will give the workers a 35 per cent raise.

It is an out-and-out victory for labor: cheering in the streets! Everyone wants to go back to work. They've gotten all their protesting out of their system. Vive la France! Vive la liberte.

Instead of following this script last week, the government, in its anxiety, gave in to the workers immediately, thus frustrating and alienating them forever. No wonder the French people are still mad. De Gaulle, besides other things, has now taken all the fun out of labor negotiations.

In my last column a misprinted sentence should have read: "Eugene McCarthy is running to 'restore our faith in the political process.'"

He knew he had little chance of succeeding because he did not have enough power and money backing him.

How can he restore our faith in the "democratic process," the electoral system, by running in a race that he cannot win without influence and power, and the usual source of both in this system: money.

If Eugene McCarthy wanted to save this country much time, bloodshed, and disaster, he would admit to the American people that the electoral system is a sham.

Any boy can be president — even a Dick Gregory or a George Wallace?

At a recent white house security briefing for presidential hopefuls, to which Wallace was invited along with the regulars, Dick Gregory, who is on the ballot in at least Pennsylvania as the Peace and Freedom Party candidate, was excluded.

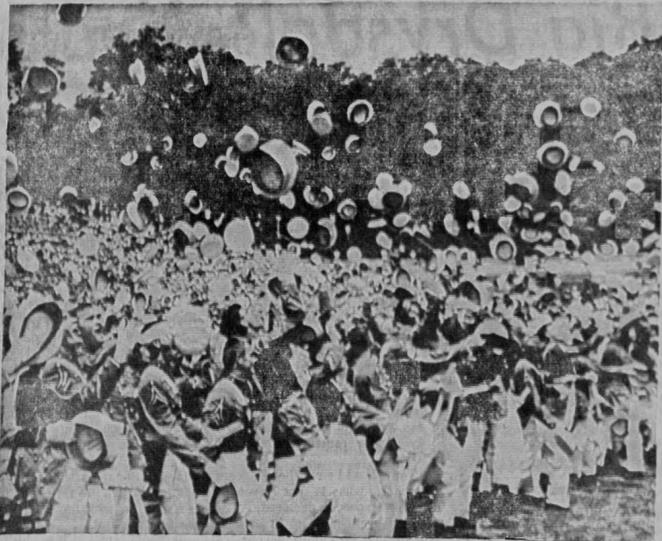

After the shooting of Robert Kennedy, President Johnson immediately ordered the Secret Service to protect other presidential candidates. CBS reported that Secret Service agents were assigned to guard Nixon, Rockefeller, and McCarthy (Humphrey already had them).

If anyone wants to snoot Wallace, or Gregory, or the Socialist Party candidate, or so on, they won't find any Secret Service men in the way. But then, who even takes them seriously enough to have them shot?

Repp, 3 More Plead Innocent To LSD Raps

DES MOINES — Dale R. Repp III, 19, Cedar Rapids, a freshman at the University of Iowa, pleaded innocent Wednesday to charges of possession of LSD.

Repp was arrested in his Quadrangle dormitory room in Iowa City on April 25 after he had allegedly sold the drug to a government agent in March.

Repp was one of four persons who pleaded innocent to drug charges before U.S. District Court Judge Roy L. Stephenson.

The four persons and a fifth youth, who asked that his arraignment be continued, were among seven persons arrested on LSD charges in a series of late April raids here and in Iowa City.

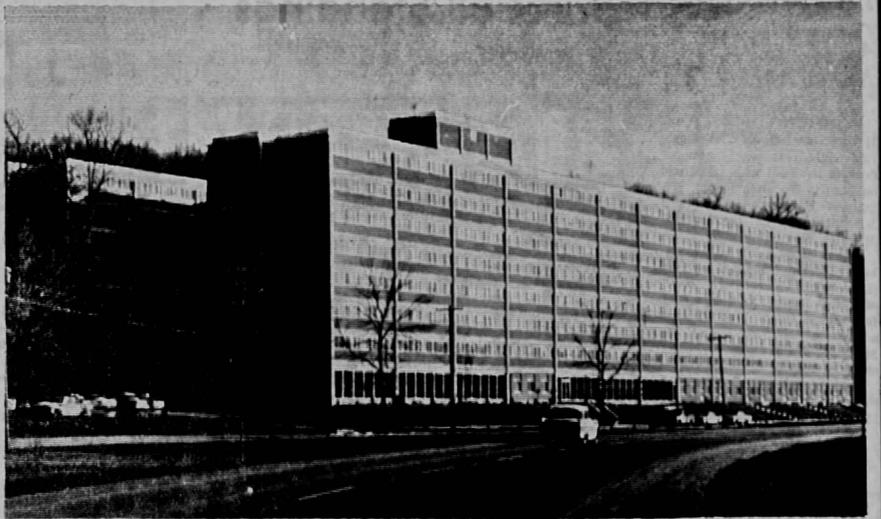

Pleading innocent were Repp; Mark H. Sachs, 19, of Wilmette, Ill., a Drake University student when he was arrested; Carol Parks, 21, of Des Moines; and Thomas H. Blake, 21, also from Des Moines.

Sachs, Miss Parks, and Henry H. Brandon, 19, of University City, Mo., a former Drake student, who is scheduled to be arraigned today, were charged with selling five LSD capsules to a federal agent on Feb. 27.

Repp, Miss Parks, and Blake were charged with possession of LSD and conspiring to sell and deliver the drug. Brandon faces the same two charges today.

Sachs was charged with conspiring to sell and deliver LSD.

AUTO WORKERS STRIKE—FORT DODGE (AP) — Local 1205 of the United Auto Workers struck the New Idea Plant of the Avco Co. here Wednesday in a contract dispute. The 268 employees of the firm had been working on a day-to-day basis since June 1, when the old contract expired. The company manufactures farm implements.

Power Shortage At University Expected To Be Corrected Today

The electrical problems which have plagued the campus since a city-wide power failure Monday night are expected to be cleared up by noon today, according to Paul Dvorak, foreman of the University Physical Plant.

Three more buildings have been added to the list of the 16 that lost all or some of their electricity Tuesday and Wednesday. East Hall Annex, Engineering Building addition and the Mechanical Engineering Building will be without power today. Schaeffer Hall will have no electricity this afternoon.

The campus power shortage, which was to be corrected by Wednesday, resulted from damage done to a University generator during the city power failure Monday. The damage left the plant's capacity at 38 per cent of its normal load.

Buildings which were without power Wednesday and will be without it today are: Music Building, Eastlawn, Women's Gym, Parking Ramp, Mathematical Science Building, Calvin Hall, Geological Survey Building, Art Building, University Theatre, University High School and Phillips Hall.

Partial electrical power will also continue today in the four women's dormitories and the Union. These buildings were allowed enough electricity to operate their dining services and at least one elevator.

The rest of the campus buildings are operating at full capacity.

Henry Barbatti, assistant director of Physical Plant, said the extended power failure on the campus was an example of what University officials feared could happen because of the lack of reserve generating capacity.

Due to rapid growth of the campus, all available generating equipment on the campus is used most of the time and the University purchases as much electricity as its system will carry from Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co., the local utility company.

Work has been under way to increase the carrying capacity of the campus system, however. Other improvements to generation and distribution facilities will be made as additional state funds become available, Barbatti said.

Paris Starting To Stir Again After 19 Days

PARIS (AP) — The municipal transport system announced Wednesday night Paris' subway trains and buses will start rolling today. This appeared to be the first major break-through in a strike wave that has crippled France for 19 days.

The Socialist Trade Union Federation, one of several involved in talks for a settlement, said the decision to restore the capital's public transport came "after long and difficult negotiations which have brought substantial improvement" for the employees.

A joint announcement from all unions involved said the workers had agreed by a large majority to accept the proposed settlement and return to work. Details of the settlement were not reported.

The Paris subway has 105 miles of track and carries more than 1.5 billion travelers a year. The bus services carry about 300 million passengers a year.

The government had asserted its intention of insuring the right to work of strikers wanting to return to their jobs. Elsewhere in France the back-to-work movement appeared slow but steady.

There seemed to be a possibility of a general return of railroad workers. The unions said that, on the basis of votes already counted, the workers appeared to be choosing 3 to 1 to end their strike.

Post office employees were getting down to work in many cities, sorting the mountain of accumulated mail.

Air France personnel voted to end their strike.

Paris, Orly and Le Bourget airports began reopening.

Some ports were operating but the Channel ports, Calais, Boulogne and Dunkerque, were still shut tight.

Prill Fund Gets $10,000 From Radio

Over $10,000 has been contributed to the Leanna Prill fund by listeners of WHO radio in Des Moines.

David D. Palmer, president of the WHO Broadcasting Company, recently announced that a check for $10,606 had been given to Leanna's father, Richard, of Lanesboro.

The 15-year-old Miss Prill, who is suffering from a severe kidney disease, is a patient at University Hospitals.

Seydel Plea Challenged

Johnson County District Court received a motion Wednesday to dismiss Donald (Mike) Seydel's request for a new trial.

The motion was filed by John Hayek, assistant county attorney. Seydel, 20, formerly of West Branch, was convicted of possession of marijuana on Jan. 17 in a jury trial in District Court here and has been sentenced to three years in prison.

Seydel has also appealed his conviction and sentence to the state Supreme Court.

The county attorney's motion contends that Seydel's motion was filed too late.

Seydel's attorney contends another trial would uncover evidence that would clear his client.

JUDGE NOMINATED—WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee approved Wednesday the nomination of Myron H. Bright of North Dakota to be a judge on the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals. The court serves Arkansas, Iowa, Missouri, Minnesota, Nebraska and the Dakotas.

Howard Hits 21st Homer, Nats Win 3-1

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frank Howard boomed his 21st home run eight rows into the upper deck in left field with Ed Stroud on base in the sixth inning, giving the Washington Senators a 3-1 victory over the Oakland Athletics Wednesday night.

Stroud was safe on Ted Kubiak's error leading off the sixth before Howard connected off Diego Segui, a replacement for Lew Krausse. The Senators scored in the first inning on Stroud's double and Howard's single.

Krausse held the Senators to three hits in five innings but left for a pinch hitter in the sixth. Camilo Pascual went the first six innings and won the fifth game.

ORIOLES WIN 7-1

BALTIMORE — The Baltimore Orioles defeated the California Angels 7-1 Wednesday night behind the 5-hit pitching of Jim Hardin.

McLain Paces Tigers For 9th Victory, 5-4

BOSTON (AP) — The Detroit Tigers scored four runs on only two hits in the seventh inning and defeated the Boston Red Sox 5-4 Wednesday night for Denny McLain's ninth victory of the season.

The Tigers trailed 4-1 when third baseman Joe Foy booted Don Wert's grounder (2) open the seventh. Tom Matchick's single and a force play scored Wert, then pinch hitter Eddie Mathews singled to put runners on first and third and finished Boston starter Ray Culp.

Reliever Bill Landis walked Dick McAuliffe, uncorking a wild pitch on the fourth ball making it 4-3.

Yanks Top Twins

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Pepitone drove in six runs with a grand slam homer and a two-run triple, leading the New York Yankees to a 7-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins Wednesday night.

Jim Lonborg came on and Rico Petrocelli threw Mickey Stanley's grounder into right field trying for a force at second base. Pinch-runner Mickey Lolich and McAuliffe both scored to make it 5-4.

Mets Get 1st Pick In Free Agent Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets will have first pick in today's free agent draft of school-boy and college baseball talent, and the four new expansion clubs also will participate.

Before the two-day draft is completed Friday afternoon well over 1,000 players are expected to be selected by the 20 clubs currently operating plus Montreal, San Diego, Seattle and Kansas City.

The free agent crop consists of high school seniors who were graduated this spring, college seniors and those who have become 21. Players who were selected previously but did not sign have been thrown back into a pool and will be picked in the secondary phase, as contrasted to the regular phase.

Each of the 20 big league teams now playing will take one man in the first round. Each of the 20 Class Triple A farm clubs will take one and each of the 20 Class Double A farms will take one. The four expansion teams will not participate in those three rounds.

When they get down to Class A, where there are unlimited selections, the four expansion clubs finally will get a chance.

However, they will follow the original 20. Thus, Montreal will be 21st in the Class A rounds actually 21st in the over-all draft, Seattle No. 22, San Diego No. 23 and Kansas City No. 24.

As big league teams draft in inverse order of their 1967 finishes, the Mets will be followed by the Oakland A's, who were last in the American League a year ago at Kansas City.

Patterson Drops Rank

NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Patterson, the former world heavyweight champion, has been dropped from the top ten ratings by Ring Magazine because of inactivity.

In the reshuffled ratings behind Cassius Clay, who is recognized as world champion, Leonis Martin of Philadelphia replaced Patterson and moved into the No. 6 spot on his knock out over Thad Spencer.

Big Drysdale Nears Johnson's Record

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Thirty minutes after Don Drysdale had broken the major league record by pitching his sixth straight scoreless game, the Los Angeles Dodger was asked if he might want an extra day before returning to the mound.

"Naw," drawled Drysdale in matter of fact fashion, "I'll take my regular turn Saturday night."

Pitching is strictly a business with Big D., who has missed only three starting turns since he became a Dodger regular in 1957.

The 31-year-old right-hander blanked Pittsburgh Tuesday night on three hits, 5-0, to break a record that had stood since 1904.

The mark of five straight scoreless games was set that year by a Chicago White Sox pitcher, Doc White, now 89 and living in Silver Springs, Md.

Drysdale, who tied White's mark by white-washing the Giants 3-0 last Friday night, struck out eight Pirates and allowed only four base-runners in breezing to his seventh victory—all of them shut-outs—in 10 decisions.

He beat New York 1-0 in his first start, then lost three well-pitched games before beginning his record shutout run with a 1-0 victory over the Cubs on May 14. He then blanked Houston 1-0 on May 18, St. Louis 2-0 on May 22 and Houston again 5-0 on May 26 before tying the record against the Giants.

Tom Haller, the Dodgers' catcher, who is not given to flowery speech, declared, "This was a great moment in baseball history. I don't think anyone will do it again."

Drysdale in the process broke the National League record for consecutive scoreless innings—46 1-3 by Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants in 1933.

The major league record in this department—which involves innings pitched in relief—is 56, set by Walter Johnson of the Washington Senators in 1913.

Drysdale, with 54 scoreless innings immediately behind, can aim at this—if not a seventh full game blank job—against Philadelphia in Dodger Stadium Saturday night.

A co-hero of the Drysdale heroics before 30,422 in Dodger Stadium was rookie second baseman Paul Popovich. Popovich contributed two outstanding defensive plays, the most valuable one in throwing out ex-Dodger Maury Wills in the sixth inning to deprive Pittsburgh of a run.

It was Popovich who threw out Willie Stargell to retire the side in the ninth, with the same Wills roosting on first.

Drysdale took his historic shutout in stride. "There was a lessening of tension after the second inning," he said. "I think I was stronger than in some of the previous games. My control was pretty good and I know I didn't throw as many pitches as I have before."

Snead Eyes Victory In Speedway Tourney

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Sam Snead, who shot a 4-under-par 68 on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway golf course May 29 in a rainstorm, will attack it for the first time for big money in the ninth $100,000 Speedway Open starting today.

It took Snead three extra holes Tuesday to qualify in the Indianapolis sectional for the U.S. Open Golf Championship, the one major tournament he's failed to win.

Snead, 56, winner of more than 100 major tournaments, was one of seven players who tied at 142 and had to go to extra holes to fill the last three remaining spots here.

The Indy tourney, one of the 500 festival attractions stemming from Memorial Day auto race, is being played on a three-year-old course which is in top condition.

The event started out on an old public course, nine holes of which were inside the track, and the pros made fantastic scores over the short, flat layout.

Golf architect Bill Diddel designed the new one and score cards have been less impressive every year since.

Billy Casper set the tourney record, a 20-under-par 204 on the old course, in 1962. He also holds the record for the new layout, a 277 in 1966.

Frank Beard's back to defend the Speedway title he won last year with a 9-under-par 279. He didn't catch a bogey in his last 50 holes.

Final loop statistics Tuesday also certified Lance Primus of Wisconsin as the winningest pitcher with a 5-1 mark. Primis also pitched the most innings, 37, and had five complete games for the third-spot Badgers.

Last year's conference hitting champion, outfielder Andy Fischer of Michigan, plummeted from his winning .459 to only .132 this season.

Other hitting leaders included Dave Heiss, Ohio State first baseman .422; Geoff Baillie, Wisconsin outfielder .400; Steve Garvey, Michigan State third baseman .378, and Mike Wymore, Iowa first baseman .375.

Three pitchers had perfect 4-0 marks. They included sophomores Dave Carey and Al Hoffman of title-winning Minnesota and Dan Bielski of runnerup Michigan State.

Michigan State's Mickey Knight, 3-1, had the top earned run average 0.79. Another Spartan hurler Mel Behney, 3-2, led in strikeouts with 44.

The Big 10's RBI Leader was Mike Walseth, Minnesota first sacker, with 18.

In team play, Michigan State led in hitting with .289; Michigan was tops in fielding with .968 and Indiana, with a 5-5 record, was the pitching leader with a 1.89 earned run average.

Sophomore Maddox Paces Big 10 Hitters; Wymore 5th

CHICAGO (AP) — Outfielder Elliott Maddox, sophomore on the University of Michigan's fifth-place team, won the Big 10 batting title with a .467 mark for the recently completed conference baseball season.

It was the second straight season, and third time in four campaigns, that a Wolverine player took the league hitting crown.

3 Americans In 4th Round Of Golf Open

TROON, Scotland (AP) — Three unheralded Americans, Warren Vanderbush, Robert Millen and 49-year-old Ed Meister gained the fourth round of the British Amateur Golf Championship Wednesday.

Nine other Yankees were eliminated in second and third round matches as the field was trimmed to 32 in the match play tournament over the 7,130-yard, par 36-37-73 Troon course.

Also among the survivors were former champions Joe Carr of Ireland and Mike Bonalack of England and just two others of the eight seeds, Scotland's Ronnie Shade and Gordon Cosh.

Millen, 28, of Westbury, N.Y., will meet Cosh today. Vanderbush, a 23-year-old airman first class from Closter, N.J., will face Belgium's Pierre Toussaint. Meister, head of his own publishing company in Willoughby, Ohio, will play W. A. Wilson of Scotland.

Vanderbush, firing a one-over-par 37 for the out nine, beat Scotland's Scott MacDonald, 4 and 3. Meister, also out in 37, won by the same score over England's Dru Montagu.

Millen eliminated Bob Sweeney, the 1937 champion from Palm Beach, Fla., 3 and 1. Down by one hole at the 10th, Millen won four straight holes to overcome the 56-year-old veteran.

Meister clinched his match on the 16th with a birdie four when his nine iron approach landed only three feet from the hole.

Four other Americans were beaten in the third round while four others bowed out in morning second round matches.

The other third round losers included Mark McCormack of Cleveland, the manager of such golf stars as Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player; Bob Falkenburg, the one-time Wimbledon tennis champion from Los Angeles and Brazil; John Matheny of Fort Worth, Tex.; and Bob Seyler of Westbrook, Ohio.

Michigan State's Mickey Knight, 3-1, had the top earned run average 0.79. Another Spartan hurler Mel Behney, 3-2, led in strikeouts with 44.

The Big 10's RBI Leader was Mike Walseth, Minnesota first sacker, with 18.

In team play, Michigan State led in hitting with .289; Michigan was tops in fielding with .968 and Indiana, with a 5-5 record, was the pitching leader with a 1.89 earned run average.

Fryman's 6-Hitter Edges Giants 2-1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Left-hander Woody Fryman pitched a six-hitter and won his fifth straight game Wednesday as the Philadelphia Phillies nipped the San Francisco Giants 2-1.

Willie Mays' 10th home run of the season opened the second inning and was the first earned run off Fryman in 38 1-3 innings.

Fryman, 3-4 received all the support he needed when the Phillies scored two runs — one unearned — in the first inning off loser Gaylord Perry, 6-3.

Cookie Rojas singled, stole second, went to third on a ground ball and scored the first run on Tony Gonzalez' sacrifice fly. Singles by John Callison and Bill White, and second baseman Nate Oliver's error gave the Phils another run.

ISU Rejects Black Boycott

AMES (AP) — The Iowa State University Athletic Council Wednesday took a strong stand against a threatened boycott by black athletes. The council, in a statement, warned that any boycott threats by athletes will not be tolerated and any individual who boycotts a sport will be dropped from the squad and lose his scholarship.

"We must say it is our firm belief that no coach or intercollegiate program can operate effectively and in harmony under continuing threat of boycott. It must be clearly understood that any athlete boycotting any organized intercollegiate athletic activity will automatically forfeit further renewal of his grant-in-aid, will be dropped immediately from the squad and barred from further participation in intercollegiate athletics at Iowa State University," the statement said.

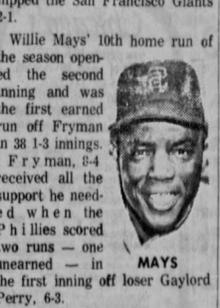

The black athletes had presented a list of grievances to an athletic council committee May 20. The group asked for the firing of trainer Bob Billings and baseball Coach L.C. Cap Timm "unless they have a change of attitude," and asked that basketball Coach Glenn Anderson "change his despotic attitude."

Other demands included permission to live off campus, to hold jobs during the school year and for special considerations from the faculty during sports seasons.

The council statement added: "The council wishes to be on record as supporting the coaches and administrative staff of the intercollegiate athletic program. We believe their actions have been exemplary in their conduct of the Cyclone athletic program and in their fair treatment of players, with no regard to the primary pursuit of these young men as students, as well as their secondary aspirations as intercollegiate athletes."

Iowa State has about 25 black athletes receiving scholarships, exclusive of incoming freshmen.

Union Chief Plugs For Great Outdoors

Have you ever wished you could get away from the books, the crowds on the river bank, the air pollution and civilization in general and go to the land of sky blue waters and springtime freshness where beer and cigar commercials are made?

Loren Kottner, director of the Union, thinks he has just the haven of tranquility you seek—the Macbride Field Campus, a 640-acre University-owned recreational area just 12 miles from main campus.

Kottner's job is to provide and coordinate facilities for University students, staff and guests through the Union, but he is also actively interested in the field campus and is a member of the Macbride Field Campus Advisory Committee.

"There's really no official connection between the field campus and the Union," Kottner said. "We're just in the same line of business—recreation."

There is, however, a stronger connection between the field campus and Kottner. Spreading out a map of the project, he pointed out the field campus, a finger of land bounded on three sides by Lake Macbride and the Coralville Reservoir. "And over here," he said, grinning proudly and pointing to a strip of shoreline across the lake from the campus, "is our cottage. We entertain there a lot in the summer, in fact, I'm taking my Union Management class out there today."

His love of the outdoors was not only verbally expressed but also physically apparent. Deeply tanned, he briskly paced back and forth in front of his office window overlooking the girls' athletic field. His eyes reflected his energy and enthusiasm as he spoke of the recreation project. Trophies, plaques, and pictures in the office testified to his interest in a wide variety of sports.

"I guess you would call me a 'non-official pusher' for more student use of the area," he said with a smile and a wink. "I believe outdoor activities, especially those connected with water, are very therapeutic. My family and I are members of the University Sailing Club that's located at the field campus and we have the only private dock on our side of the lake."

"The recreational possibilities at the field campus are unlimited," Kottner said, his enthusiasm growing. "Hiking, sailing with the Sailing Club, picnicking and fishing are now available to students every weekend. The master plan for the area includes: an archery range, badminton and softball facilities, and opportunity to water ski on the Reservoir, and possibly horseback riding facilities and a swimming pool in the more distant future." He also told of the Ski Club's tentative plans to build their ski runs nearby.

"The only stipulation is that the land itself be left as primitive as possible," he said. He picked up a golf ball trophy and turned it over in his hand as he added, "This rules out golf courses and tennis courts, but almost any other form of recreation that requires no special lay-out is possible."

His tone became abruptly serious when asked how soon the project would be completed. "It's like anything else," Kottner said, "it depends on money. It's one of those projects where a thousand dollars could do a lot, but a million wouldn't be enough." Since appropriations for recreation have low priority on the University budget, he explained, things are moving slowly, but the committee is hoping to receive grants from foundations to help finance the area.

He cracked a smile again though as he praised the project's director, Norman Halzapfel. "He's a genius at making do on a limited budget. He buys broken down government surplus equipment, repairs it and turns it into a roadgrader or has it pulling sailboats out of the lake."

The Union is promoting the project in two ways, Kottner said. "The food service will provide a picnic for two or more people so students can take just what they need. This eliminates buying a full bottle of catsup for four hot dogs," he joked. Second, transportation to and from the field campus was set up by the Travel Committee of the Union Board. Buses make the round trip for $1 Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

"I wish I could convince more students to go out there for an afternoon," Kottner said, staring off into space. "If they could just stand at the top of a hill and watch a sailboat sweep around curve in the lake, or hike through the woods, or just sit and watch the new life all around you—well," he said sinking back into his swivel chair, "it's got more soul than Gentle Thursday."

North Vietnam Parries Probe Seeking Talks Deadlock End

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam parried an American probe seeking a break in the deadlock in the peace talks Wednesday and left the impression it will hold out until the United States surrenders on the issue of halting its air attacks.

At the request of the North Vietnamese delegation the sessions were recessed until next Wednesday, the longest gap thus far. The U.S. delegation spokesman said, "I can't say that any progress was made."

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, the chief U.S. negotiator, seized upon a Hanoi statement of last week which demanded that the United States "acknowledge its responsibility" to halt the bombardment. That statement, it was understood, later was revised by Hanoi from the original wording in the official newspaper Nhan Dan.

"You have asked," Harriman said, "that we acknowledge determine our responsibility for a cessation of all bombardment. As we have stated, this has never represented an insurmountable obstacle for us, and we are prepared to cease the bombardment at an appropriate time and in appropriate circumstances. I hope that we will proceed forthwith to the discussion of other matters."

William J. Jordan, the U.S. spokesman, said Harriman used "acknowledge and determine" to cover either version of the Hanoi statement which had been corrected from "acknowledged" to "determine." There is yet to be any firm indication that Hanoi intended this to mean any change in its basic position.

Suspect In Death Of Sioux City Girl Appears In Court

CHICAGO (AP) — Frederick L. Andreise, indicted for murder in the fatal shooting of a 21-year-old Sioux City, Iowa, girl, was arraigned Wednesday before Judge Joseph A. Power of Circuit Court.

Judge Power assigned the case to Judge Francis T. Delaney of Circuit Court, who convened it until June 20.

The body of Carol Sue Edler was found April 4 by an employee of the Embassy Motel in the room she had rented. She was shot in the chest,

Pair Holds Up D.M. Bank, Gets $10,000

DES MOINES (AP) — Two men, described as nervous "hippies," escaped Wednesday with about $10,000 after holding up the Plaza State Bank in the Merle Hay Plaza in northwest Des Moines.

The loss was estimated by Forest Lewis, the bank's executive vice president. The men entered the bank shortly before noon—one armed with a submachine gun and the other with a revolver.

Lewis and other witnesses said they had long hair, wore dark glasses and battered hats. One bandit was described as white, six foot three inches tall weighing about 195 pounds. The other was described as black, five feet 11 inches tall and weighing about 155 pounds.

The Iowa Highway Patrol said the bandits escaped in a 1964 white Ford which had been reported stolen Wednesday morning from downtown Des Moines.

Lewis said when the holdup men entered, the smaller one produced a machine gun from beneath his raincoat and stood by a revolving door waving it and saying: "This is a holdup."

The bank executive said while the one stood guard, the other approached the teller's cage occupied by Rachel Jones and demanded the money.

The man at the cage at one point cocked his pistol, said Lewis.

The pair also threatened to take a hostage in their getaway, but Lewis said they dashed from the building as soon as the money was handed over. He said no one was hurt.

Tragedy No Stranger To Family

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the Kennedys, the enviable triumphs always seem tempered by an awareness of unpredictable tragedy.

For as surely and successfully as they have pursued power and achievement, so too have the Kennedys been dogged by violence.

Now Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, at a moment of triumph in the California presidential primary, lies critically wounded in a Los Angeles hospital after surgery to remove a bullet from his brain.

To remain in contention for the Democratic presidential nomination Kennedy had to win in California. Win he did.

But a gunman joined the celebration in the Ambassador Hotel and as the 42-year-old senator was leaving, shot him three times.

All four sons of Joseph P. and Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy have been victims of violence.

John F. Kennedy reached the highest peak of any member of the family with his election to the presidency in 1960. Then on Nov. 22, 1963, in Dallas, President Kennedy was shot and killed by an assassin firing at his motorcade.

The oldest Kennedy son, Joe Jr., had seemed to the family to be the one most likely to succeed at politics. But he died at the age of 29 when his bomber exploded on a mission in World War II.

The youngest son, Edward M. Kennedy, was elected to his brother John's old seat in the U.S. Senate in 1962. At that time, John was president and Robert was U.S. Attorney General. Then in June 1964, less than one year after his brother's murder, Edward suffered a broken back in a plane crash.

For six months, Edward was immobilized and for months longer he wore a rigid brace and walked with a cane. But he returned to the Senate and full activity.

The Kennedy sons haven't been the only members of the family struck by tragedy.

Rosemary, the oldest daughter, has been in an institution for the mentally retarded since 1941. Another daughter, Kathleen, served as an American Red Cross worker in London during World War II. She married William John Robert Cavendish, marquis of Hartington, and four months later he was killed on an infantry patrol.

In May 1948, Kathleen died in the crash of a chartered plane in southern France.

The three other Kennedy daughters, Patricia, Eunice and Jean, first came to public attention as attractive and active participants in their brothers' political campaigns.

During his lifetime, John F. Kennedy, felt the grief of losing two infant children. A daughter was stillborn and a son, Patrick Bouvier Kennedy, died of lung disease when two days old. Both are buried next to their father in Arlington National Cemetery.

The family patriarch, Joseph P. Kennedy, son of Irish immigrants, amassed one of the nation's largest fortunes and went on to serve as head of the Securities and Exchange Commission and as U.S. ambassador to England.

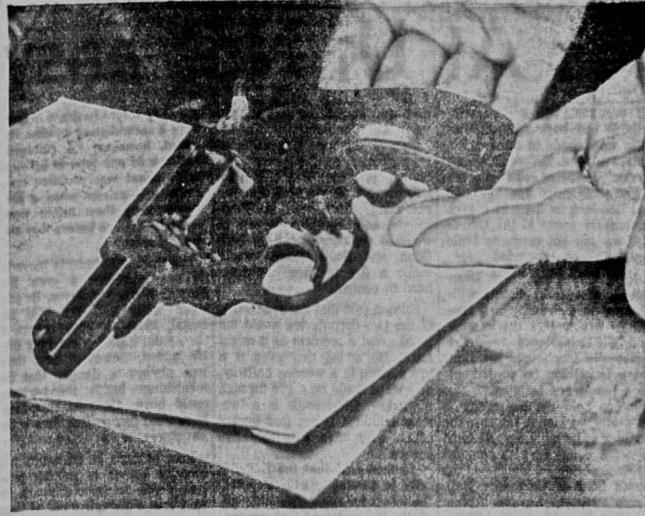

On Dec. 19, 1961, less than one year after he saw his son take office as president, Joseph Kennedy suffered a severe stroke that left him an invalid.

Mrs. Robert Kennedy's family also has been struck time and again by tragedy.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Skakel, died in a plane crash in Oklahoma in 1955. Her brother, George Jr., was killed in a plane crash in 1966, and his widow, Joan Patricia Skakel, died in May 1967 when a particle of meat lodged in her throat.

SEN. ROBERT F. KENNEDY

ALWAYS WITH A GUN — Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley, Medgar Evers, Malcolm X, Kennedy, King, and now another Kennedy — victims of assassinations, in this last case, so far, only an attempted assassination — always with a gun. This is the gun which, according to the Los Angeles police, was used to shoot Sen. Robert F. Kennedy Tuesday night. An eight-shot, .22 pistol, it was reportedly taken away from Sirhan Sirhan, the man who is the chief suspect in the shooting.

— Violence — With A Gun —

....Pattern Is Established, It Tends To Be Repeated....

By SID MOODY and JOHN BARBOUR Newsfeatures Writers

NEW YORK (AP) — Violence stalks through American public life like a poison shadow: waiting, waiting and then—striking. Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley, Medgar Evers, Malcolm X, Kennedy, King, and now, another Kennedy.

With the shooting of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy Wednesday, psychiatrists saw violence shown once again as coming closer to the surface of American life.

"Once the pattern of behavior is established, it tends to be repeated," said Dr. John Spiegel, director of the Center for the Study of Violence at Brandeis University.

"It is in the public mind that this kind of thing can be done. The pattern was set with Lincoln. And it always seems to be with a gun."

The gun. It is not an American invention but has long been an American institution.

"The populace as a whole is conditioned to expect violence," Spiegel said. "Behind this is America's gun fetish and the notion that a gun can be used to solve conflict. It begins with children, acting out with guns. And it began long ago.

Violence by gun is an American trait," said Dr. David Abrahamson, a New York psychiatrist experienced in criminal cases. "We are still living under the legend of the Wild West where action was the easiest solution. On the frontier, settlers solved their problems with the gun."

Violence was not only commonplace in the Old West but came with the immigrants from the Old World. "We arrived here by way of revolution," said Dr. Thaddeus Kostrobal of Chicago, a member of the American Psychiatric Association's Task Force on Aggression and Violence.

"They say we are a melting pot," Abrahamson said. "We're not a melting pot. A society is not built on the restraints of family or class. It's built on success. If you don't have it, you're frustrated."

Frustration. The wet nurse of violence.

"Students at Columbia are frustrated, so they seize the university," said Abrahamson. "Negroes are frustrated, so they riot."

Violence gains currency. But what brings from the frustrated many the few, the assassins?

"They think of themselves as avenging angels," said Dr. Jacob Chwast, a New York psychologist. "They are destroying someone they think threatens them and the people they feel they represent. Such people are very vulnerable to the stimulation of a public appearance by a national figure."

Kennedy shot at a victory celebration... his brother in a parade... Lincoln at a theater... Malcolm X at a rally... "Public figures are symbols of what America stands for," Abrahamson said. "They become authority figures and as such have to be killed by those who feel frustrated by authority."

5 Others Hurt In Shooting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The blaze of shots that critically wounded Sen. Robert F. Kennedy Wednesday at an election victory celebration, also felled five others in the crowded banquet hall.

The wounded included two newsmen, a union official and two teenagers.

Police identified the five as William Weisel, 30; Ira Goldstein, 19; Elizabeth Evans, 43; Irwin Stroll, 17, and Paul Schrade, 43. All but Weisel, a Washington, D.C., resident, are from the Los Angeles area.

None of the bystanders was reported in critical condition. Weisel, a unit manager for the American Broadcasting Co., was wounded in the left side and underwent surgery at Kaiser Hospital where he was reported in good condition.

Also taken to Kaiser was Paul Schrade, a regional officer of the United Auto Workers Union. Hospital spokesmen said Schrade sustained a skull fracture and a laceration on the top of the scalp, apparently caused by a bullet. He also underwent surgery and his condition was reported as good.

Goldstein was treated at Encino Hospital, Encino, for a bullet wound in the left hip. He is an employee of Continental News Service at nearby Sherman Oaks.

Mrs. Evans, a resident of Saugus, was to undergo surgery at Huntington Memorial Hospital for the removal of a bullet which was embedded in her skull at the hairline. A hospital spokesman described her condition as good.

Police said Stroll was wounded in the left shin. He was placed under sedation at Midway Hospital.

Also injured, but not by a bullet, was Patrick Thornton, of Los Angeles, who sustained a three-inch scalp laceration when hit by a camera.

Shooting Brings Loss To Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Growing concern over Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's condition triggered a precautionary selling late Wednesday and brought a fairly stiff loss to the stock market.

Earlier, the market had weathered the shock of the Kennedy news, digested an initial loss, and actually had moved a bit higher on balance.

A news item about a member of the medical team that performed brain surgery on Kennedy quoted him as saying "The outcome may be extremely tragic" and gave rise to an increased amount of selling.

'There Are No Words Equal To The Horror'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A stunned nation and a shocked President Johnson prayed Wednesday for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and for the country where violence and political assassination have become so commonplace.

"There are no words equal to the horror of this tragedy," Johnson said shortly after Kennedy was critically wounded by a hail of bullets fired in a Los Angeles hotel. Five other persons were less seriously hurt.

"Our thoughts and our prayers are with Sen. Kennedy, his family and the other victims," the President said. "All America prays for his recovery. We also pray that divisiveness and violence be driven from the hearts of men everywhere."

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, one of Kennedy's two rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination, said, "Our hopes and prayers are with Sen. Kennedy and those others who have been the victims of this dreadful act of violence. It is a shocking and terrible thing that has happened. Our hearts go out to Mrs. Kennedy and the children and the families of the other wounded."

Kennedy's other opponent, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, said no words could express his feelings. "It is not enough in my judgment to say that this was the act of one deranged man," he said. "The nation, I think, bears too great a burden of guilt."

McCarthy said he was indefinitely suspending all political activity.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the leading candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said he was shocked and appalled. "My deepest sympathies go to the senator's family which already has known more than its share of tragedy," Nixon said.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, also a GOP presidential aspirant, said, "All Americans of good will are stunned and appalled. What strikes any one of us strikes all of us. We are gravely wounded. I am filled with sorrow for the senator and his family. And this sorrow extends to all our nation. For such an assault on one man is an assault on our whole national life."

Former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama said the shooting "is symptomatic of the lawlessness and violence which has invaded our nation."

Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., whose husband was killed by an assassin on April 4, sent Mrs. Kennedy a telegram saying in part: "I am praying for your husband whom I so much respect and I am praying for our country in this period of great national tragedy and peril."

Reaction came quickly from other civil rights leaders.

"I'm shocked and horrified to think that this type of attempted assassination has become an American habit as it would appear," said Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

James Farmer, a civil rights activist and former director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said of the shooting: "A terrible contagion of political violence has struck again. Americans somehow must learn that debate should be conducted with words, and not bullets."

U.N. Delays Talks On Mideast Crisis

UNITED NATION (AP) — The U.N. Security Council extended sympathy Wednesday night to Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy over the assassination attempt on the senator.

Then, at the suggestion of Algerian Ambassador Tewfik Bouattour, the council adjourned without taking up the matter at hand — an airing of the latest border violence between Israel and Jordan.

Both countries had asked for an urgent meeting to deal with the situation. No date was announced for another meeting.

At the outset of the session U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, president of the council for June, proposed that a message be sent to Mrs. Kennedy.

The other council members, from India, Britain, Pakistan, Denmark, Ethiopia, Paraguay, Brazil, Hungary, Canada, France, Senegal, the Soviet Union, Nationalist China and Algeria all made statements.

It Always Has Been: 'Plunge On'

WASHINGTON (AP) — For Robert F. Kennedy, it always has been plunge on, plunge on.

In his public life, from a young government lawyer, to campaign manager, to attorney general, to senator, to his quest for the White House, he has seemed driven by a voice that said, "Plunge on."

It was there even when he relaxed by climbing the toughest mountain, shooting the roughest rapids, skimming the steepest slope.

It was there, too, when, with a fixed smile, the reserved, essentially shy man plunged into the crowds that mauled his body, ripped off his tie, stole his shoes.

It was from such a crowd that a man with a gun shot Robert Kennedy in the head early Wednesday, minutes after the candidate had addressed supporters celebrating his victory in the California presidential primary.

More than most men, Robert Kennedy knew the physical dangers present in large crowds, having endured the assassination of his older brother, President John F. Kennedy, in Dallas 4½ years ago.

The seventh of nine Kennedy children, Robert Kennedy returned from Navy service to graduate from Harvard University in 1948, then went on to the University of Virginia law school, graduating in 1951. He soon went to work as a Justice Department lawyer specializing in graft and tax cases.

After managing his brother's 1952 Senate campaign, he joined the staff of the investigating subcommittee headed by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) who charged Communist infiltration of the State Department. He quit six months later during the height of the furor over the Army-McCarthy hearings. He rejoined the staff when Democratic members ended their boycott of the hearings.

A few years later, he gained national prominence as chief counsel for a Senate committee investigating corruption in the Teamsters union. It was during this period that union boss James R. Hoffa called Kennedy "ruthless," a word his critics used again and again in later years.

In 1960, Kennedy directed the campaign that made his brother president. He became known as his brother's "no" man, handling unpleasant tasks and drawing criticism away from the candidate.

As attorney general, he was considered the second most powerful man in Washington. He was at his brother's side through the Bay of Pigs fiasco and the Cuban missile crisis.

After the Dallas assassination,

Kennedy moved from Massachusetts to New York and, amid cries of "carpetbagger," was elected to the Senate where he pushed for social legislation and became a leading critic of President Johnson's Vietnam policy.

He stayed out of the current presidential race until after Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's strong showing in the March 12 New Hampshire primary.

"I run to seek new policies," he said as he announced his candidacy. "I run because it is now unmistakably clear that we can change these disastrous, divisive policies only by changing the men who make them. I cannot stand aside from the contest that will decide our nation's future."

With his wife, Ethel, and some of his 10 children at his side, the 42-year-old Kennedy entered and won presidential primaries in Indiana and Nebraska.

Then came defeat in the Oregon primary — the first time a Kennedy had lost an election. But Kennedy plunged on, and won Tuesday in South Dakota and California.

"On to Chicago," he told his cheering supporters in the Los Angeles hotel early Wednesday. Then, with his hand raised in the "V" for victory sign, he stepped into the crowded kitchen corridor where he was shot.

California Surgeon To Address UI Medical Convocation Tonight

Dr. J. Englebert Dunphy of the University of California will give the major address at the University Medical Convocation tonight in the Union.

Dunphy, who is professor and chairman of the department of surgery at the University of California School of Medicine, San Francisco, will speak on "The True Joy in Medicine."

During World War II, he served as Chief of the Surgical Service, Fifth General Hospital, and consultant in surgery to the Oise Base Section in the European Theater of Operations.

He is particularly well known for his studies of wound healing and he has written extensively on surgery of the gastrointestinal tract and cancer.

Dunphy is president of the International Federation of Surgical Colleges and is past-president of the American College of Surgeons, the American Surgical Association, and the Society of University Surgeons. He is a past-chairman of the American Board of Surgery and a member of the Board of Regents of the American College of Surgeons.

He is the brother of Dr. Donald Dunphy, professor and head of the Department of Pediatrics at the University.

HUGHES HITS VIOLENCE

DES MOINES (AP) — Gov. Harold Hughes told delegates to the Iowa Boys State Wednesday night that the trend toward temperance in day-by-day dialogue among fellow citizens is "the first cousin to violence in the streets." The governor said it now seems almost impossible to have a rational difference of opinion among fellow Americans.

Preventing Fires At UI Not Easy

By DAVE STEDWELL

Fires — with their potential threat to life and property — are the subject of many a university official's nightmares, and, like so many other administrative problems, both large and small, fires on campus are viewed in light of the adage which goes: an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

The man in charge of prevention at the University is Vernal Shimon, a veteran of 28 years on the Iowa City Fire Department who is now the University's fire inspector. To Shimon falls the awesome responsibility of making sure that fires don't happen.

But it isn't an easy job, considering that many of the University's buildings are so old and run down that they should be condemned.

There are several buildings on campus which are very susceptible to fire. Shimon admits. In a recent interview, Shimon described some of the precautions being taken to prevent a fire from starting in these structures.

Citing Old Army Temporary, Quadrangle dormitory, and portions of the Engineering Building as areas of potential trouble, Shimon noted that many people have asked him why buildings which are fire hazards are not condemned.

"The University is aware that the problem exists, but if the buildings are condemned there would be no place for the former occupants to go," Shimon said he tells them. The University is constantly building new offices and classrooms to try and phase out the offending buildings, Shimon said, but "unfortunately, it takes several years to complete each project, and by that time it is too small to meet an increased demand for space."

He related an incident where the occupants of a temporary building had been relocated and plans were made to convert it to a storage area. Before this could be done, however, someone else moved their office into the building. "As long as there is a great demand for space at the University, we can not condemn buildings," Shimon concluded.

Iowa City Fire Chief Dean Bebee, who works closely with Shimon on University fire prevention problems, remarks wryly, "My experience with the University has taught me that there is nothing as permanent as a temporary building."

Shimon said the University is constantly working to improve the condition of its buildings. He cited the work being done to remodel the Engineering Buildings and the second floor of University Hall. A new auditorium is being planned to replace Macbride Auditorium, which is presently plagued by a wooden balcony and wooden subflooring, he said.

Two of the men's dormitories pose special problems for both Shimon and the Iowa City Fire Department. Bebee said that the undivided attic space in Quadrangle, and the extensive use of wood in the construction of both Quad and South Quad, would make a fire in these buildings hard to control.

Shimon said that the evacuation of the two dormitories would not be as great a problem as it might seem. He added that even if a fire started in a wooden hallway, an escape could be made through a window. Quadrangle is a two-story building. It has four towers which each have a private fire escape.

Shimon said that the University is careful to use fireproof buildings for women's residence halls. He explained that women are more apt to panic in a fire, and they might hesitate to drop from a second-story window. He added, however, "A residence hall fire in any type of building is a great worry. Often residents are asleep when a fire starts, and they might wander into the fire before they are fully awake."

The married students barracks do not represent a great fire hazard, Shimon believes. He said since walls and the roof are metal, there is little chance of the actual building catching fire. He added, however, that there was always a danger that the furnishings inside the barracks could burn. He said that there have been few serious fires in the structures.

Fire hazards in fraternity and sorority houses is another problem which concerns Shimon. He said that although most of them are equipped with fire extinguishers, this equipment is often hidden from view. He said that most of the houses are older structures, and that piled clothing and filled ashtrays in sleeping rooms was inviting a serious fire. The Iowa City Fire Department conducts an inspection of the fraternity and sorority houses once a year. Shimon recalls that as a city fireman he often felt that the rooms were cleaned for the inspection and returned to their cluttered condition after the firemen left.

Shimon feels that since hazardous buildings must be used until they can be replaced, the University and the city fire department must work together in a special effort to protect these structures.

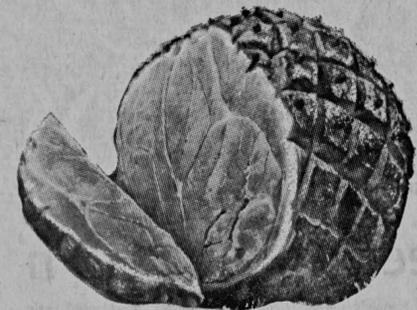

The University fire inspector and the Iowa City Fire Department inspect each University-owned building twice a year. Bebee said that this has become a tremendous job because of the rapid growth of the University. He added that he was not sure how long his department would be able to continue its inspection program.

"In addition to our regular inspection," Shimon said, "we are constantly investigating complaints of hazardous conditions. We also make spot checks of buildings which have been problems in the past. Every physical plant worker is also on the alert for building conditions which might constitute a fire hazard."

The Iowa City Fire Department holds training sessions for dormitory advisers at least once a year. During these sessions, the men and women are taught the correct use of fire extinguishers on different types of fires. The importance of closing fire doors and seeing that all residents have evacuated is also stressed. Bebee added that similar training sessions are held for the University Hospitals staff.

Both Shimon and Bebee stressed that fire inspection alone can not prevent fires. They stressed that a great deal of the responsibility rests with the students and staff who use the buildings.

Bebee noted that newer buildings are, in some respects, more of a worry than older structures. "When people occupy an old building they are careful with cigarettes and open flames. When people enter a new building they get the idea that it won't burn and they become careless."

3,000 Collection Of Kids' Books Given To Library

Bernice Leary of Grinnell, professor emerita of children's literature at Northwestern University, has given her collection of 3,000 children's books to the University School of Library Science.

The collection, which will be housed in the special collection department in the main library, includes many books published in Belgium, Holland and Thailand. It also has English language books published before 1900, including "chap books" sold by peddlers, and "penny dreadfuls," an early form of the paperback.

Louane L. Newsome, associate professor of library science, said graduate students of the history of children's literature, studying for master's degrees and librarian certification, would examine the Leary books and compare them with modern children's books.

Sweden Will Keep 9 U.S. Defectors

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Nine more American defectors from military duty, one of them from Iowa, Wednesday were given indefinite asylum in Sweden for "humanitarian reasons" by the Swedish Aliens Commission.

A few commission members made reservations about some cases, a spokesman said.

So far, 81 defecting American servicemen have applied to Swedish authorities, and of these 59 have been allowed to stay.

Those given asylum by the commission Wednesday included Dennis Dunn, 21, of Leon, Iowa, the commission said.

Proposed Platform Takes A Beating

DES MOINES (AP)—A largely middle-aged Iowa Republican Convention refused Wednesday to recommend lowering of the minimum voting age from 21 to 19 in Iowa.

Convention delegates narrowly rejected the recommendation of their platform committee, whose chairman, William Ball of Waterloo, said 19-year-olds "have more responsibility on the battle field than they do in the ballot box."

A voice vote on a motion to remove the voting age proposal from the party platform was inconclusive, but opponents of the plank won on a stand-up vote.

Delegates also rejected the platform committee's proposed plank for eliminating "racial imbalance" in public schools and providing state aid for private school bus transportation.

"I just don't think 19-year-olds are ready to vote," said Mrs. Jean Babcock of Des Moines.

Terry Bransen of Council Bluffs said the Young Republicans recently decided not to seek a lower voting age. "The young people themselves feel that they are not ready," he said.

The platform committee had stood firm on its recommendations for lowering the voting age and ending racial imbalance in public schools by prohibiting any enrollment from having more than 50 per cent nonwhite pupils.

Rejection of the racial imbalance proposal came after delegates beat down attempts to make two other revisions in civil rights planks.

One of the planks urged that the Iowa Civil Rights Commission have authority to seek court injunctions in housing discrimination cases, and the other called for repeal of the requirement that persons complaining of housing discrimination file a $500 bond.

"The concept of putting a price on justice is repugnant," said Ronald James of Waterloo, the only black on the 22-member platform committee.

Earlier, the platform committee had withdrawn one of its most controversial recommendations, that the party go on record as favoring annual sessions of the legislature.

In its original platform recommendations, the committee endorsed the five constitutional amendments appearing on the November ballot, including the one calling for annual legislative sessions.

Critics of that proposal said yearly sessions would increase lawmaking expenses without guaranteeing better laws.

The committee's revised recommendations said three of the five amendments—those calling for annual sessions, elimination of the constitutional limitation on lawmakers' salaries and expenses and item veto power for the governor—are highly controversial.

Republican candidates and Republican voters may have legitimate differences of opinion on the three amendments, the revised plank said, so voters should "carefully examine their implications and cast their ballots accordingly."

Added to the platform was an anticrime plank which said in part: "We deplore crime in the streets and rioting, regardless of cause, and urge that the Iowa law be immediately and strictly enforced in every instance."

The plank had been recommended by Atty. Gen. Richard Turner.

The platform recommended repeal of the services tax on new construction, advertising, all processing of farm products and municipal services. It also called for four-year terms for top state elective officials and state aid for students attending private colleges.

The platform committee withdrew controversial recommendations for reorganization of county school systems into multi-county units and sale of wine in private stores.

Also withdrawn were platform proposals for elimination of the referendum requirement for public housing financed by revenue bonds, election of the governor and lieutenant governor as a team, financing of state university classroom and laboratory facilities with revenue bonds and lowering of the voter approval requirement for public bonds from 60 to 55 per cent.

Gerhard Hartman, professor and director of the Graduate Program in Hospital and Health Administration at the University, is among the first appointees to the National Advisory Allied Health Professions Council.

The 16-member council advises the Division of Allied Health Manpower on matters relating to the Allied Health Professions Personnel Training Act of 1966.

Hartman received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago in 1942. He served as director of the Newton Wellesley Hospital, Newton Lower Falls, Mass., until 1946 when he came to the University.

PRICE PROTECTION POLICY

We will maintain our Everyday Low Prices and adjust prices when product costs change.

Here's why you can count on continued savings with Eagle Everyday Low Discount Prices — because Eagle has instituted a "Price Protection Policy!" You've seen the "Price Protection" seal in our ads since we began Discount Pricing. It reads: "We will maintain our Everyday Low Prices and adjust prices when product costs change." What this means to the shopper is that we will not only maintain our Discount Price savings program, but also that we will further reduce product prices when a lower wholesale cost permits. An upward adjustment of price occurs when a higher wholesale cost forces us to do so. Otherwise our prices will be maintained at their present low Discount levels, and lowered at every opportunity. "Key Buys" are an example of this latter aspect of our "Price Protection Policy" in action. Whenever we can get a lower wholesale cost through an exceptional purchase or through a manufacturer's temporary promotional allowance, we lower the shelf price below even our low Discount level and mark the product clearly with our green "Key Buy" markers.
